The Cottage Gardener

Radishes of Quality Can Be Grown in Almost Any Soil, but the Conditions Should Be Favorable, to Get the Best Results. Must Be Grown Steadily and Quickly.

GROW ASPARAGUS IN HOME GARDEN

Splendid Early Spring Vegetable Is Good Antidote for That Lazy Feeling.

Asparagus is one of the very best antidotes for that sluggish, lazy feeling which overtakes everybody during the first warm days of spring. Nature has supplied the remedy for this condition by providing the proper green food and asparagus is ready for use just when the need is greatest.

Asparagus plants can be set either in the fall or spring and no shoots should be cut for use until the third spring after setting. Manure the be planted as soon as the soil can be worked, as it is quite hardy and won't be hurt by a little frost. It is a cool weather plant and must be grown steadily and quickly. Hot weather or a dry spell, either giving a check in growth, result in hollow, pithy roots, which are quite worthless. Cool and fairly moist conditions make the crisp, solid, toothsome radishes that everyone relishes in the early days of spring.

Of the white radishes, Icicle has attained great popularity and is a fine radish. It is excellent in the summer when other types are not at their best. In case of doubt, French Breakfast in the olive shade, Scarlet Globe in the round, and some of the 20-day specialties can be recommended.

COLOR MASSES OF SPECIAL FLOWERS

Care Should Be Used in Making Selection for Background and Borders.

Special flowers may be chosen to provide a mass of a particular color in the flower bed. The United States Department of Agriculture has prepared a convenient list, which also indicates the height to which the various flowers may be expected to grow, so that from it one may select plants for the background of the bed, or others for a low border, and at the same time make sure of mixing only those which harmonize.

Among white flowers, or those with pure white varieties, one may choose from the four-foot list, cosmos, dahlias and sweetwilliam, growing three feet; dark red cornflower, larkspur and scabiosa, reaching two and one-half feet; baby's breath, china aster, summer chrysanthemum, lupine, Japanese bell-flower, snapdragon, garden balsam and poppy, two feet; zinnia, four-o'clock, rose everlasting and stock, one and one-half feet; candytuft, Iceland poppy, petunia, ageratum, lobelia, portulaca, sweet alyssum and verbenas, growing only a foot high. A few flowers have varieties mixed with white ranging in height from the three-foot dahlia, down through salpiglossis, nemophila, pansy, petunia and pink.

Yellow flowers grow in great abundance. At four feet there are sunflowers, feather cockscomb and dahlias; strawflowers, zinnias and sunflowers, two and one-half feet high; calliopsis, summer chrysanthemum, African marigold, snapdragon, four-o'clock, two feet; calendula, Cape marigold, French marigold, Iceland poppy, California poppy, dwarf marigold and portulaca, one foot.

The radish is practically a universal vegetable. It is now in the market the year around and rarely is there a garden planted without at least a short row or small patch broadcast to these pungent appetizers of the garden. There isn't a great difference in the various kinds of radish offered for sale by the seedsmen and almost any of them will be successful. The main difference is in the type of root.

Stick a pencil blindly on almost any of them and order the one spiked and you will have good radishes if the garden conditions are suitable for growing good radishes at all.

In the South the radish can be grown outdoors almost all winter except in the colder sections, plantings being made every ten days or two weeks for succession. In the North it is the first vegetable to go into the ground in the spring, in fact, it should

TRAIN TO TRELLIS

While the majority of climbing vines will fling their way up a frame or wire trellis, it is a good plan to aid the young shoots by directing them where they can fill the space to the liking of the grower. However, great care is essential, as the tender sprouts are broken easily and perhaps an entire plant is thus prevented from affording production that otherwise might have been certain.

MESSAGE OF THE BREEZES

"The merry little breezes" that blow from the green forest through the orchard and the garden bring with them the fragrance of spring and the apple blossoms, but they do more. If it were not for the breezes in spring-time the ground would not dry out quickly so that it could be worked;

QUALITY YOU CANNOT BUY

The chief aim in the home garden should be to grow those vegetables in which freshness is the most important factor. Vegetables which do not deteriorate rapidly should be left for the larger gardens if space is limited.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

BY MARY GRAHAM BONNER

FOND FAYR'S INVITATION

The Pond Fairy, wearing a lovely costume of green and silver, with a crown to match which had in it many dazzling jewels, and carrying a silver wand, was calling upon little Georgie Green Frog.

Little Georgie Green Frog thought he was a very superior young frog.

He was very proud of himself and now he was delighted to think that the Pond Fairy had come to call upon him and had invited him away on a visit.

"Oh, he would be glad to go away and mix with creatures more his own equals."

"Yes," the Pond Fairy said, "I've come most especially to call upon you today."

"I thought as much," said Georgie. "You see," Georgie went on, "these frogs aren't really in my class at all."

"Perhaps I should say that I'm not in their class. I'm sure that I must have had some great-grandfather, or perhaps even two or three, who were frog equals at least."

"Eels, did you say?" inquired Pond Fairy.

"Eels," answered Georgie, who felt a little annoyed at the Pond Fairy's misunderstanding him.

"Of course," the Pond Fairy answered.

"Yes," Georgie went on, "I think that I very likely also had a great-grandmother (or as many grandmothers as one is allowed) who were without a doubt frog countesses."

"And I take after the Sbons. You know how it is? Sometimes just, one will take after some long-ago relatives."

"To be sure," said Pond Fairy. "Then you think you would do well by leaving here? Possibly you would like to visit the people known as the Sbons. Pronounce the letter S and then say 'bons' quickly right after it. There, you have it right," she ended, as Georgie said the name.

"I'll love to," Georgie agreed, "and the sooner we start the better I would be pleased. I'm tired of this pond. I'm tired of all these common green frogs. They're so happy and so contented just being frogs. They never want to get any farther up in the world. And yet they have such good times. That shows their ignorance, I am sure."

"Fancy being satisfied in singing and croaking and shopping for bugs and having parties and never reaching out for other things!"

"What do you want to reach out for besides bugs?" asked Pond Fairy.

"I'd like to get into society," said Georgie Frog. "Creatures who are contented don't succeed in that. They're too happy being ordinary little pond creatures."

"True, true," said Pond Fairy. "Well, you come with me and we'll take you to visit the Sbons. They live in a place known as Gums Landing."

That very day they started. Georgie took his best green suit of clothes and his handsome orange yellow necktie, of which he was very proud, and after putting them in his moss satchel, he hopped along after the Pond Fairy.

No one noticed that he was leaving the pond, which disappointed him, but still he knew that the silly frog had left behind wouldn't think anything of traveling and adventuring away from their own kind, while he, Georgie Green Frog, was going to visit the Sbons at Gums Landing!

They traveled only a short way and stopped. "We're at the entrance to Gums Landing," said Pond Fairy.

Georgie had expected to see a big wharf or dock or some such kind of a landing, but there didn't seem to be any landing at all.

"It's just the name of the place," said Pond Fairy, "meaning that when you have reached this point you've landed in the Gums country belonging to the Sbons."

"Such fascinating names," said Georgie.

Soon he began to see many little creatures. They all looked most awfully small to him at first, but after he had looked at them for awhile and had begun to admire them very greatly, as he watched them, he realized they were not so small at all.

In fact, they seemed to grow bigger and bigger and as he looked at himself he, too, seemed to have grown into a very big frog, and Georgie was a happy, delighted frog!

Fearful Nervous Prospects. One day little Edith had a peculiar sensation in her hands and arms. "Oh, mamma," she exclaimed, "may-be I am going to die of nervous prospects."

Almost, but Not Quite. A fond father discovered his young hopeful reading a dime novel. "Unhand me, villain!" the detected boy cried, "or there will be bloodshed."

"No," said the father grimly, tightening the hold on the boy's collar, "not bloodshed, woodshed."

Sweet in Three Forms. Teacher-Georgie, give the word sweet in its three forms (meaning, of course, sweet, sweeter, sweetest). Georgie-Sweet, sour, bitter.

"My Digestion Is Sound as a Dollar Since Taking Tanlac," Declares Buffalo Citizen.

"There is no doubt about it, Tanlac does all they claim it will do—and more," was the positive statement made recently by Richard H. Lawson, well-known engineer, of 1007 Elmwood Ave., Buffalo, N. Y.

"I used Tanlac for a combination of troubles and it put me in splendid condition all the way round. First, I had a bad case of stomach trouble, was simply chock full of sourness and gas, had a general distressed feeling and a burning pain in my stomach that I couldn't get rid of. With my appetite wrecked and digestion gone, I became awfully weak, nervous and run down and could get scarcely any rest or sleep at all.

"Tanlac answered every demand made upon it in my case and today my digestion is sound as a dollar, I have an immense appetite, and with every ache and pain gone, I am sleeping fine and feeling strong and energetic as of old. Tanlac is 100% good."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Over 35 million bottles sold.—Advertisement.

Find What CANADA has to offer YOU!

If your dream of success seems like a hopeless ambition, if you are discouraged trying to get ahead on high priced land, if your present location fails to give you opportunity, there is a new deal for you, a new chance in the fertile virgin farms of Western Canada, where wheat produces 20 to 40 bushels to the acre, where the 1922 crop was biggest in history, where oats, barley and hay and fodder crops are the basis of a great dairy industry, and a man's work brings him success and prosperity.

Low Priced Land—the Last Great West. In Western Canada you still can buy virgin prairie land at $15 to $25 per acre, on long terms if desired, near to town, railroad, etc.—land most alfalfa. Canada has no "war time" land boom; prices are not inflated—your profit is on the ground floor.

Taxes Favor the Farmer as Values Increase. The tax laws of Western Canada encourage the producing farmer. The tax on land is reduced when it is brought under cultivation—while on your landings, machinery, improvements, personal property, automobile, there is no tax at all. A single crop is often worth more, acre for acre, than the cost of the land.

Buy on Exceptional Terms—32 Years to Pay. For the benefit of those wishing to buy land a national non-profit sharing organization, the Canada Colonization Association, has been established with head office at Winnipeg and United States office at St. Paul. This Association offers selected land convenient to railroads—much of it at $15 to $20 per acre—on very small cash payment, no further payment until third year, balance extended over thirty years. But purchaser may pay up and obtain title at any time if desired. Interest six percent per annum on deferred payments.

Here's New Way to Make Living

Men Who Sell Their Blood for Transfusion Have Close Knit Union.

MUST KEEP AT TOP OF FORM

Most of Them Are Working Men, and Clean Living is a First Essential—Careful Tests Are Made—Pay is Small.

Here's the 1,001st way to make a living. How would you like to follow this profession?

New York.—A man recently brought into night court for intoxication was the sympathy of the court by stating that he had recently given a quart of his blood by transfusion and in his weakened state had drunk more than he could stand. Later he amplified his story, saying that he had submitted to 208 blood transfusions in three years. These statements drew a protest from the small number of men who make a business of giving their blood to others and who hold themselves at the call of physicians and hospitals.

The Order of Blood Donors is jealous of its reputation and branded as false the culprit whose case found its way into court. In the first place, its members said, no blood donor would be haled to court for intoxication because one of the first requirements for the "profession" is clean living. According to them, nothing would throw a donor into the discard quicker than even a suspicion of alcoholic taint in his blood. And Thomas Kane of 502 East Fifty-first street, who lays claim to the record for transfusions, said that it would be a physical impossibility for one to undergo transfusion 208 times in three years. The best Kane has been able to do is 49 transfusions since 1914.

Profession is New. The profession of blood donor is comparatively new. A few years ago when transfusion was necessary some friend or relative had to volunteer or an advertisement was put in the newspapers asking for a donor. There was never any trouble in finding persons ready to lose some of their blood for pay, but it was sometimes difficult to select an applicant whose blood would stand the test. When a physician or hospital found a man whose blood did stand the test they kept in touch with him, and it was in this way that the first waiting list was made up. According to Kane there are about 400 men who make a practice of answering calls and who "go out" on cases whenever needed.

Each time the donor is called he gives from a pint to a quart of blood, so there must be long intervals between calls. The pay is surprisingly small. Being accepted as a donor was not such an easy matter, he said. Before the blood is taken from a donor it has to pass the Wasserman test to see if it is free from the taint of disease. The donor then has to submit to a blood count; that is, a test to see whether his blood is up to a standard of richness. Then the applicant must be in the same group with the patient. This means that the physician must select blood which will unite readily and uniformly with that of the recipient. "Stories of men who have received fabulous sums for a pint or more of their blood are false and are usually inspired by boasting," said Kane. "I have heard such stories and I know from actual experience that they are untrue. In the first place, under modern methods, the donor in most cases does not come into personal contact with the recipient of his blood and the physician is the one who looks after the financial end of such transactions. That eliminates acquaintance and a sense of gratitude on the part of the patient."

Poor Way to Make a Living. The establishment of a permanent market for human blood does not mean that the donor can make a living of it. He could not stand the strain of continual loss, even if the demand for his services was constant and there is not enough money in it. So the professional donors follow other lines of permanent employment and answer calls in order to increase their incomes. The present list of available donors includes men of many occupations, usually those who do manual labor, for the donor must keep his blood in the pink of condition. Prior to 1919 the standard price for transfusion was $25. The cost of this operation has gone up with other costs. The donor now gets $35 to $50 a case. Sometimes, because of the condition of the patient, it is necessary to keep a donor on hand for several days before an operation is expedient. When this is the case, Kane said, the donor receives his keep and $5 for each day of waiting.

War Heroes Are Dropping Out

Official Charts Show Their Places as America's Defenders Are Being Refilled.

YOUNGER MEN FILL RANKS

A Decade After Their Discharge Only 423,000 Men of the 3,000,000 Men of Pershing's Army Will Be Available for Service.

Washington.—Men who shared with Pershing the great adventure in France are passing off the stage as America's defenders. Official charts show that their place already is being taken by the younger brothers of the A. E. F. Tomorrow it will be their sons who stand ready to fight for the flag.

The charts show that of more than 3,000,000 men discharged from the wartime army up to January 1, 1920, there will be available in 1925 for Class I service—and that means battle service, face to face with the foe—little more than 400,000 veterans. Millions trooped to the colors in the World War, but even the eighteen-year-old youngsters among them will be men weighted with cares and responsibilities by 1945.

Youths Must Stay Home at Night for Two Years

Judge Vanderwerp of Muskegon, Mich., in paroling Frank Kettle and Roy McClure, each less than twenty years old, who were convicted of the charge of breaking and entering a building, made it a provision that they must stay at home nights for two years.

They will have married or will have acquired other dependents; they will be broken with years; many will have died; some will be working at tasks as essential as soldiering, and none will be left to man the trenches. The bright day of their youth and fighting powers will be but a honored heritage for their sons.

"Of the 3,128,070 officers and men examined for discharge to December 1, 1919," says the colorless record of the War Department, "2,031,560 were discharged without disability. It is assumed that by 1925, or approximately five years after discharge, they will have attained the status (having acquired dependents, engaged in essential occupations, incurred disabilities, etc.) of average citizens, and would be available (held for service). In the same proportion as obtained with those registered under the last draft."

Application of the census bureau death rate, coupled with the knowledge gained of average conditions surrounding the age groups involved by the calling up for examination under the draft of millions of citizens, gives a clear vision of what time is doing to the great body of trained soldiers poured back into the country after the armistice.

Basis of Calculations. That is the basis of the War Department calculations as to probable exemptions, and the basis, too, to the pressure for filling up the organized reserves with new blood each year into an unfilling reservoir of fighting strength, at least partially ready to answer the call to arms.

By age groups the veterans above thirty-six years in 1918, will have ceased to exist from a military viewpoint in 1925, and of more than 135,000 in the thirty-six-year class some 20,000 might still be ready for a call. By 1930, all those above thirty-three years in 1918 will be gone, and by 1935, all who were above twenty-eight years in 1918, will have vanished from the charts.

By 1940, the youngsters who were twenty-three years old when 1918 brought them to the colors, will show a mere 22,000 still ready for active service, and by 1945, the eighteen-year-old youths of those days of war could muster probably only 5,310 veterans of St. Mihiel and the Argonne to follow the flag again.

Important to All Women Readers of This Paper

Thousands upon thousands of women have kidney or bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease. If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition, they may cause the other organs to become diseased. You may suffer pain in the back, headache and loss of ambition. Poor health makes you nervous, irritable and maybe dependent; it makes any one so. But hundreds of women claim that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, by restoring health to the kidneys, proved to be just the remedy needed to overcome such conditions. Many send for a sample bottle to see what Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine, will do for them. By enclosing ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., you may receive sample size bottle by parcel post. You can purchase medium and large size bottles at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

BUSINESS MEN LIKE OTHERS Somewhat Prudent Error Is in Considering Them to Be Something of a Race Apart.

Orators and literary folk of a certain widespread school seem to imagine that business men are all alike; that is, dishonest and prosperous from robbing the poor. The truth is many business men are themselves poor. Many of them fall because of unreliability, idleness, extravagance, lack of intelligence. Business men are like any other class of men; some of them capable, reliable, industrious and successful, and some of them the reverse. Thousands of proletarians are in business, as thousands of our best men are working for wages and in training to occupy the big positions and enjoy the big incomes. In any group of business men, most of them do not amount to much, as is the case in any other group. The rich were robbed in Russia because they were aristocrats by birth. It cannot be done in the United States because here the well-to-do come up from the ranks, and are the best fighters as well as the best money makers.—From E. W. Howe's Monthly.

SEEMS TO BE TOO EXACTING

Character in Novel Would Appear to Demand a Whole Lot From His Fellow Men.

Thus, in Forrest Reid's "Pender Among the Residents," the hero slides from adventure into criticism: "My idea of poetry, you see, is of a mysterious thing—a kind of mixture of enchantment and music—something immensely primitive—a survival—old old as Egyptian magic. "That kind of poetry obviously can't be taught, and everything Trefusis does has been taught to him. I don't mean to say technique isn't of great importance, and, of course, it is quite proper that Trefusis should learn something about rhyme and meter; but rhyme and meter, however dizzily handled, in themselves are no more than the walls of the house. "I mean, unless it is a haunted house, there is for me no poetry." When the ghost walks for Pender, we suppose it has to be not with measured, but with metered, tread.—Chicago Journal.

Insane Artists. There is an insane asylum at Heidelberg, Germany, where, at the present time a very interesting art exhibition is being held. Some excellent canvases, pieces of sculpture, and a few charming mosaics are being shown.

All the works of art at the exhibition are the creations of the inmates of the asylum. Most of them are first attempts. In fact, several of the exhibitors have learned the art of painting and sculpture in the asylum itself.

It is said that the exhibition reveals some work of unusual promise and is particularly "sane" in subject and execution. It is apparent that the insane at the Heidelberg institution have not espoused "dadaism"—the "dada" and kindred schools evidently appealing only to those gentlemen and ladies who are in full possession of their senses.

How Iowans Treat Hen Thieves

These three men were seized by a committee of vigilantes and treated to cents of tar and feathers. The flashlight photograph was secured by City Marshal John L. Spurr, who arrived on the scene too late to save the three men whom the vigilantes had charged with chicken stealing. The incident occurred at Sanborn, Iowa. Buckets in which the tar had been prepared were used to hide the faces of two of the victims. The third didn't need any covering other than the tar and feathers.

NEW TAXES FOR THE BRAZILIANS

Government to Take Part of Income and Higher Customs Rates in New Arrangement. Rio Janeiro, Brazil.—Imposition of additional taxes, and—for the first time in Brazil—an income tax, has added to the cost of living, and brings Brazilians to a full realization of the spending orgy of the last administration. Having danced merrily for four may start toward rehabilitation. Consumption taxes have been placed on butter, cheese, coffee, canned food stuffs, while taxes on cigars, tobacco, perfumes, liquors and dry goods in general have been increased 2 per cent. Electric light and power now come under a tax. Imported goods will be subject to an addition of 5 per cent in duty. Customs duties must be paid at least 60 per cent in gold, according to the new ruling. This is expected to reduce the amount of paper money in circulation.

President Bernardes and his cabinet, faced by an empty treasury, and with the principal and interest on foreign loans coming due, have increased custom duties and old tax rates, and are imposing taxes on articles that in the past have been exempt in order that the government

Get your vitamins naturally

Vitamin and mineral elements are part of the splendid nutriment which Nature stores in the field grains for nourishing and vitalizing the human body. Grape-Nuts, made from wheat and malted barley, has for over twenty five years supplied vitamin and other elements necessary for perfect nutrition. There's a crispness and flavor that delight the taste—and there's natural health-building goodness that makes Grape-Nuts with cream or milk a complete food—and wonderfully delicious! Grape-Nuts is truly economical because a small quantity provides unusual nourishment.

ST. MICHAELS

After one week's illness with pneumonia, John Joseph Rodenkirch passed away to the great beyond Thursday evening, March 1st, at 9:15 at the advanced age of 84 years, 4 months and 21 days. Mr. Rodenkirch was an old pioneer and highly esteemed citizen. Deceased was born Oct. 10th., 1838 in Strohn, Trier, Germany. At the age of eight years, in 1846 he immigrated with his parents to America, settling at St. Michaels, where he grew to manhood, and spent his life there, until the year 1899 when he moved with his brother Math. Rodenkirch to the village of Kewaskum, and a year later moved to the village of Barton, where he spent his life with his relatives, till about last May 1922, when he came to live with his niece, Mrs. John Staehler, in the town of Kewaskum, where he passed away in death. Mr. Rodenkirch, always was called uncle John Joseph, was never married. He has many relatives. The funeral was held last Monday, March 5th., from the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Staehler of the town of Kewaskum to St. Michaels church, where at 10 o'clock Rev. E. J. Rodenkirch of Paris, Kenosha county, Wisconsin, read a solemn requiem high mass, assisted by Rev. J. F. Beyer as deacon and Rev. J. M. Herges as sub-deacon, and Rev. J. F. Beyer officiated at the grave. Interment was made in St. Michaels cemetery. Mr. Rodenkirch was a member of the St. Michaels Benevolent Society, all the members attended in a body. Those who attended the funeral from afar were: Rev. E. J. Rodenkirch of Paris, Wis., Mich. Rodenkirch Sr., Mich. Rodenkirch Jr., and wife, John Rodenkirch Jr., John Staehler Jr. and wife, all of Milwaukee, Mich. Thull and Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Wiskitchen of West Bend, Jos. Thull of Boyd, Chippewa county, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Adam Hohenstein and children, Henry Rodenkirch and wife, Hubert Van Beek and wife, Steph. and Lawrence Matinaer, John, Art., and Mrs. J. Bertram and Henry Knoeck, all of Barton and Chas. Bath, Math and Mich. Bath of Kewaskum. To John Staehler and wife, and other relatives we extend our most heartfelt sympathy.

ST. KILIAN

Edwin Wahlen of Lomira spent Sunday here with his parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Anton Richart spent Saturday with friends at Kewaskum.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hurth Jr., visited with friends at Theresa Wednesday.

Uncle John's Josh

A MAN SHOWS HORSE SENSE BY NOT INDULGING IN A LOT OF HORSE TALK!

Attention, Mr. Volstead
The other night I went to a show with a Low Brow Friend of mine and the Orchestra struck up "The Little Brown Jug." And he thought it was the National anthem and stood up. The dumb fool—And so did I.

Hard words come easy—sometimes.

Better and Better

We heard a new one on Cooie the other day. Two newsboys arguing the point—one was trying to persuade the other to "bet" and the other was putting over the point that he "was too good to gamble." The first lad, listening for a while, then, as a light suddenly dawned upon him, wrecked the argument with this outburst: "Why, Duke, every day, in every way, 'I see a 'bettor' an' you're NO better."

Back to the Garden

Speaking of income tax schedule—who made out the first one?
Boy in the back row yells—"Eve had to Adam."

DUMB DAN

He's so stupid he thinks—that the Woolworth Building is a book of many stories.
that Marshall Field was a general.
that Avenue "S" has many danger curves, that air-brakes are part of a flying machine.
that the Farm Bloc is an overgrown city square.
that Easter is an annual poultry show.
and that Lent is a European loan.
Do you know a Dumb Dan? Tell us what he thinks—we'll print it.

How Old is Aunty?

Auntie was explaining to little Harold the story about Columbus discovering America and ended it with: "And all this happened over four hundred years ago."

"Harold, his eyes wide open with wonder, said after a moment's thought: "Gosh, auntie, what a memory you have."

Ain't it the Truth?

"It does pay to advertise," said the salesman. "Did you ever hear the story about the rooster who crowed? Well, that's the same one that's got his statue on top of the barn now."

Down at Palm Beach

Where are you going my pretty maid? I'm going forth to bathe, said she.
Where are you going, fresh young sir? Me? I think I'll go fifth, said he.

LESSONS IN ETIQUETTE

By Miss Vera Dence
A real gentlemen is always helpful and considerate to the weaker sex. When in the home of his best beloved, and his future mother-in-law, perchance does have a coughing fit at the dinner table; he should quietly arise, and with a manner full of respect and consideration, pound her on the back with his fist until her cough is relieved.

Gas on Stomach Won't Let You Sleep

Gas often presses on heart and other organs, causing a restless, nervous feeling which prevents sleep. Simple buckthorn bark, glycerine, etc., as mixed in Adlerika, expels gas and relieves pressure almost INSTANTLY, inducing restful sleep. Adlerika often removes surprising old matter from BOTH upper and lower bowel which poisoned stomach and caused gas. EXCELLENT to guard against appendicitis.—Edw. C. Miller.—Advertisement

ROBERT SLYKE

John Bartley, noted criminal investigator, recently returned from the State Prison during the governor's term to investigate a mysterious case. Bartley finds in the prison a man named Slyke. A misanthropic justice is assigned, Rogers, chief of the prison, and Bartley finds in the prison a man named Slyke. A misanthropic justice is assigned, Rogers, chief of the prison, and Bartley finds in the prison a man named Slyke.

CHAPTER II—Continued.

At the foot of the hill, the road ran beside the lake for a little way, then ascended another hill. Just before the ascent began, Bartley left the main road and followed one that ran for nearly a mile between leafy trees. At length he turned his car down a long driveway that wound its crooked way in and out through a grove of great trees. When I had begun to wonder if we should ever escape from there, we came out upon a green lawn that stretched for several acres, having in its midst a large rambling house, painted the whitest white I have ever seen. It was a cheery-looking house, one made to live in, with a great piazza stretching across the front and a tropical atmosphere. Even as I was thinking how much I liked it, a man came running down the driveway at a time, whooping like a school boy and waving his arms.

"But You Were Never Sure That They Were Guilty."

"John Bartley, you old sleuth, don't you dare drive on my new lawn!"

"You're right, Bartley made a wide circle across the grass before he stopped. Currie was beside us and on the step of the car in a second, one arm thrown around Bartley's shoulder and the red face beaming; but all he said was, 'Well, well, John!'"

"Bartley's answer was just as short and had the same deep friendliness. The Currie turned and greeted me. A second later, a servant came to the charge of our things, and we followed Currie to the house."

"I entered by one of the largest living rooms that I have ever seen. It stretched almost the entire length of the building and had two fireplaces, both of which were large enough for a man to stand upright in. Currie led us up a flight of stairs to the second floor where, pushing open a door, he showed us into our suite of rooms."

"The minutes later, at Currie's suggestion, the three of us were sitting on the stone edge of his swimming pool. It was forty feet long and open to the air. For thirty minutes we swam and dived. Then we climbed and dried ourselves in the warm sun."

others that did recognize them, even though I could not see them. Bartley changed his tactics. When he sets out to win a person, there are few that can resist him; and in a moment or two even Slyke thawed under his smile.

"I can understand," Bartley remarked, "how bored you must be with the whole affair, but, as you probably know, Mr. Slyke, there is a growing feeling that those men in prison are innocent. What I am to do is to find out whether there is any ground for such a feeling. I know that you will be the very first person to wish them pardoned if they are innocent. Can I come over tomorrow morning and have a talk with you about the burglary? My wide experience may help me to see things that the others have overlooked. The governor asked me to look into the matter, you know."

Slyke did not seem over-pleased at this suggestion, and muttered that he was going fishing in the morning. He finally agreed that his step-daughter Ruth could give Bartley whatever information he wanted. Seeing that so far as he was concerned, the conversation was over we took our leave.

As we re-entered the woods, Bartley remarked with a laugh, "He was not what you might call keen to see us. That burglary for some reason seems to be a sore subject with him."

When we arrived at the house, Currie excused himself to see about some matters on the estate, and we went up to our rooms. Currie had said that if we came down to dinner in evening dress he would throw us out; so still in white flannels, we joined him in the dining room. He was talking with a young man of about thirty-five, who he introduced as Doctor King. He was a likable sort of chap, with clean-shaven face, tanned red by outdoor life, and dark blue eyes with a twinkle in them. Upon his coat was the little insignia that showed he had seen service.

Currie had promised us a good dinner, and we were not disappointed. The doctor showed himself to be as well read as Bartley, who is interested in anything that is a book. As the dinner progressed, we found that the doctor and Bartley found many a congenial topic. Their discussion finally settled down upon the two schools of psychoanalysis. From the first, this talk bored Currie, and every once in a while he would throw me an appealing glance. At last the conversation turned to crime, and Currie suddenly asked Bartley if it had ever been discovered who Jack the Ripper was. What made him ask the question I do not know. Bartley replied that though no name had ever been given out, Scotland Yard had come to the conclusion that the crimes had been committed either by a crazy Polish Jew, or more probably by a doctor. A well-known doctor had been on the border line of insanity at the time the Whitechapel murders had occurred; and when he dropped out of sight, the murders ceased. The English detectives were almost positive that he was the murderer, but they could not prove it.

Taffeta Frocks for Spring; Mode Leans to Picturesque

IF "THE maiden spring upon the plain," or in the shops, were to come blithely tripping in, without any taffeta frocks in her wake—we might send her back to start over again. But no spring has taken any such risk for many a year. Miss 1923 is followed by a heavy of demure afternoon and dinner dresses and a gay procession of party frocks, made of taffeta. Everybody wants one, for there is a charm of refinement about taffeta that en-light and soft, and they are eloquent of spring. Sleeves are emphasized—by unusual size or shape or masses of decoration. Some of the suits have very much the appearance of a coat or wrap and it must be conceded that they are alluring. A smart example of the costume suit is pictured here. Fine wool twills make many of them. This one has a wrap-around skirt, with the overlapping portion cut in a point and decorated with rows of stitching, ending in small buttons. The sleeves are of heavy silk with an embroidered pattern in standing soutache braid, and these with the nuffer collar, account for the coat effect in this suit. It presents several new style features, but is only one of many varieties in costume suits that bottom and appears in long loops at each side. The low waistline is taken care of by a ribbon girde—which might be of the taffeta—tied in a flat bow with short ends at each side. The hall mark of this spring appears in two motifs, embroidered in silk with a little tinsel thread introduced, on the front panel. The frock would be as well off without them—but there is a penchant for much adornment—and you can take it or leave it as you will. In spite of the craze for elaboration there will never be a time when too much decoration is in good taste, especially on clothes designed for the young. To paint the lily and adorn the rose is bad business in styles as in everything else. But a little madness seizes the fashion world occasionally, and then every one runs after strange gods. It appears that the mode has a mind to be picturesque, no matter what the subject that engages it. It leans to things that are splendid and intricate and is in no mood to be simple, even in suits. Therefore the newly arriving costume suits—the harbingers of spring—are mostly regal-looking affairs. We are likely to stand and gaze at them, bewitched and a little bewil-

Long Sleeves. Long, tightly-fitted sleeves are being extensively shown for daytime wear. One designer finishes his with a flaring circular cuff, lined so that it stands out stiffly from the wrist. Others reach almost to the knuckles in a very fitted line. Sashes Featured. The sash is to be a feature of the summer frock. There is no doubt about it, a sash is one of the most youthful accessories that can be added to any gown—particularly the wide butterfly bows so popular now. Picturesque Frock. Ermine tails are the popular trimming for black velvet. They are used from the shoulder line to the hem on a smart street frock which has a side closing and a square neck line.

THINGS GOOD TO EAT

A nice garnish for game or a savoury at dinner is prepared by soaking large prunes in cold water until soft. Remove the stones. Sprinkle thin slices of bacon with salt and cayenne. Wrap one slice around each prune, fasten with a toothpick and fry in deep fat until the bacon is crisp and brown.

Club Ham Steak.—Take a slice of uncooked ham, one and one-half to two inches thick, remove the most of the outside fat. Put into a casserole and pile potatoes which have been pared and thinly sliced on top of the ham, covering it well. Pour over enough thin white sauce to be seen through the potatoes. Cover and cook slowly about two hours.

Spanish Rice.—To one cupful of chopped round steak add a tablespoonful of suet and brown in a hot frying pan, stirring well; add one cupful of uncooked meat, a cupful rice, a cupful of tomato, salt, pepper, cayenne, a tablespoonful each of chopped onion and green pepper which have been fried in the meat fat. Pour into a baking dish and bake until well-browned. Serve piping hot with a lettuce salad.

Baked Bacon and Cheese Sandwiches.—Put into a double boiler one pound of cheese cut in small pieces, four tablespoonfuls of milk, one egg, two tablespoonfuls of baking powder, salt, pepper and mustard to taste. Chop until the cheese melts. Spread on slices of bread or toast, put strips of bacon on top and cook in the oven until the bacon is crisp.

Chicken and Corn Escaloped.—A cupful of minced chicken taken from the leftover roast, a can of corn (or a cupful is sufficient), a spoonful of grated onion, salt and pepper to taste, mix with a rich white sauce and put into a buttered baking dish; cover with buttered crumbs or small buttered croutons and brown in the oven.

Egg Sauce No. 2.—Beat the whites of two eggs until stiff, add one cupful of sugar, then the yolks, a pinch of salt, one-half teaspoonful of vanilla and pour into the pitcher to serve, adding one-half cupful of boiling milk just as it goes to the table.

"A pebble in the streamlet scant, Has turned the course of many a river."

A dewdrop on a baby plant, Has bent the royal oak forever."

MORE GOOD THINGS

A nice sandwich for the children's lunch or for various other occasions is Raisin Sandwich.—Chop one cupful of seeded raisins very fine, add four hard-cooked eggs also chopped, one and a half dozen ripe olives pitted and chopped, all mixed to a smooth paste with mayonnaise dressing. Spread on slices of whole wheat bread.

Diamond Chicken Salad.—Rub a salad bowl with a cut clove of garlic, add one and one-half cupfuls of chopped cooked chicken, one-half cupful of chopped walnut meats toasted, one cupful of chopped celery, two tablespoonfuls of chopped pimento, three tablespoonfuls of French dressing and a seasoning of salt and cayenne. Place on lettuce leaves, cover with mayonnaise dressing and garnish with walnut meats, lemon points and chopped parsley.

Fruit Salad.—Peel and cut in dice two oranges, two tart apples, two slices of pineapple, cut into cubes and well-mixed with three tablespoonfuls of French dressing. Add two-thirds of a cupful of broken nut meats, twelve seeded dates cut into dice, two tablespoonfuls each of green pepper and pimento chopped, one-half cupful of blanched and chopped almonds.

Line salad plates with lettuce and arrange the salad mixture on them, cover with cream and dressing and garnish with halves of walnut meats, ripe olives and finely chopped blanched almonds and parsley.

Apple and Date Pie.—Peel, core, cut in slices, four or five tart apples. Place a layer of the apples in a pastry-lined plate, and over the apples place a layer of stoned dates; sprinkle with grated lemon rind, add another layer of each fruit, then add two tablespoonfuls of butter in bits, four tablespoonfuls of water and sugar to sweeten. If the apples are not sour add a tablespoonful of lemon juice. Cover with pastry and bake.

Luncheon Celery.—Cut the coarser stalks of celery into half-inch slices and cook in a very little water until tender. Save the celery water, add cream and thicken with flour and butter to make a white sauce. Put a layer of celery into a buttered baking dish, cover with the white sauce, sprinkling well with left-over dry cheese which has been grated. Repeat and finish the top with buttered crumbs. Bake until hot and serve very hot from the baking dish.

A Prescription. The following cure for matrimonial heartache is submitted: A lump of heart dissolved in a glass of common sense. Swallow immediately and settle with a kiss. Add a dose of whole-some compliments. Repeat as often as needed.—Boston Evening Transcript.

Hunting a Key to Health. Compulsing of a pain after arrest for theft, a man named Hoffman was operated on at Wiesbaden and was found to have swallowed 16 skeleton keys.

NERVOUS WOMAN COMPLETE WRECK

Tells How She Was Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Indianapolis, Indiana.—"Now I want to tell you just what induced me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It seemed that I had some kind of weakness so that I could not carry a child its full time. The last time I was troubled this way I had a nervous breakdown and was a complete wreck. The doctor thought I would not live, and if I did that I would never be well and strong again. But I told them I was going to get well, that I was not going to die just then. My husband got me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took six bottles of it. I soon got strong again and had three more children. I have recommended the Vegetable Compound ever since, and if you could see me you would think I had always been well."—Mrs. MARY F. HERRICK, 234 Detroit St., Indianapolis, Ind.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent medicine for expectant mothers and should be taken during the entire period. It has a general effect to strengthen and tone up the entire reproductive system, so that it may work in every respect effectually as nature intends.

Grippe

Physicians advise keeping the bowels open as a safeguard against Grippe or influenza. When you are constipated, not enough of Nature's lubricating liquid is produced in the bowel to keep the food waste soft and moving. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movements by Nature's own method—lubrication. Nujol is a lubricant—not a medicine or laxative—so cannot grippe. Try it today.

LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDER HOLDS SPECIAL MEETING

The Kewaskum Branch of the Catholic Family Protective Association of Wisconsin held a special meeting at Holy Trinity school hall, last Sunday. Otto P. Seifriz, of Milwaukee, supreme secretary of this association gave an interesting address, in which he explained the proceedings of the last general convention held at Milwaukee. The speaker showed in his lecture that this association is the oldest existing Catholic Fraternal Life Insurance society in the United States and is absolutely safe and pays dividends to its members. Of special interest was the statement made by the speaker that the last general convention adopted the resolution giving to suspended members an automatic paid-up insurance. This association issues besides ordinary life, also term and endowment certificates to men and women alike with the same privileges as the so-called "old line companies" grant them.
The Reverend Father Philip Vogt, pastor of the Holy Trinity church, in announcing the meeting stated that according to the insurance report the Catholic Family Protective association of Wisconsin has, although not strong in membership, not only enough money in its reserve fund to guarantee the payment of every certificate written when it matures, but has besides this a handsome surplus left.
The local branch will arrange for some socials for the members in the near future.
Chas. Bath is president of the local branch and Wm. P. Metz is secretary and promotor.

To My Northern Friends
Just a breath of the sunny South,
Where the cocoanut palm trees grow
Where their graceful frouds throw a waving shade,
On the sunlit paths below.
Where the mocking bird sings in the whispering pines
In the dewy-laden morn,
To bid us awake to life and love
And rejoice in a new day born.
Where the sweet faced flowers bow and smile
To welcome their northern guests,
And the broad blue waters bid them repose,
On her tranquil sunkissed breast.
So here's to my friends in the snow-clad north,
Where the softly fallen flakes,
With ghostly touch transforms the scene,
Into weird fantastic shapes.
Where life seems stilled in the cold
Neath a far flung sheet of white gray dawn,
And nature lies in an ice bound sleep,
Until spring the sun to my Dixie home.
Where the golden days go by,
With its genial clime, its gorgeous bloom,
Where the flowers never die.

Orchard Pruning and Spraying Demonstrations To Be Held At Rockfield And Kohlsville.
Arrangements have been made through the office of County Agent, Milton H. Button for two pruning and spraying demonstrations in Washington County. The first demonstration will be held on Tuesday, March 13, at 1:30 o'clock at the home of Jacob B. Bast and Geo. B. Bast, 1 1/2 miles east of Rockfield. Mr. Kuehner of the college of agriculture will demonstrate the correct manner of pruning trees young and old, and will tell of the proper material and equipment for spraying.
The second demonstration will be held at the farm of Jacob Martin, 2 miles north of Allenton, on Wednesday, March 14, at 1:30 o'clock. The same program will be given here as on the preceding day.
These meetings should prove of interest to everybody who has an orchard. Everybody is invited to attend.
