FREEZES TO DEATH ON ALASKAN TRAIL

None, Alaska, March 23.—W. N. Marx, United States commissioner at Teller, was frozen to death on an untraveled trail between Teller and Salsburgh February 27, according to advices from Teller today. A companion named Reed, who became separated from Marx in a blinding snowstorm, finally reached Teller safely and organized a searching party. The body was found 25 miles from Teller.

Searchers said that Marx, finding his companion missing, had evidently back-tracked several miles and had fallen over a high precipice. Apparently unharmed, he had continued in the direction of Teller until overcome by the cold.

William N. Marx was the eldest son of the late John M. Marx of New Paltz, N. Y. In the year 1900 he left New Paltz, N. Y., for Nome, Alaska, where he lived 23 years, the last three years he resided at Teller, Alaska. He leaves to mourn his untimely death his wife, one son Walter and one daughter Ethel Frances. Survivors also include John F. Anton, J. Edwin M. and Alex. J. two sisters, Callie (Mrs. Jerry Hestey), Frances (Mrs. Art. Jensen), all of Seattle, Wash.

BIG TOURNAMENT IN FULL SWING

The long talked of and the first Tri-Country interscholastic basketball tournament ever held by this organization, is now on. Teams from Slinger, Lomira, Elkhart Lake, Brandon, Rosendale, Campbellsport and Oakfield, together with their coaches and followers, arrived in this village on Friday forenoon, making themselves acquainted with the conditions of the hall, and making preliminary arrangements for the tournament. Indications early Friday afternoon gave promise that a good sized crowd will be in attendance at all contests. This tournament will go a long way in putting the village of Kewaskum and its high school on record as a favorable place to hold basketball tournaments. Being favorably located in making train connections.

Every effort has been made by the faculty of the school and student body as well as the citizens of this village to take care of the visiting teams in a very creditable way.

In next week's issue of the Statesman full particulars will be published on the outcome of the tournament.

Hartford School Destroyed By Fire
One of the worst fires to occur in this city in many years, occurred Wednesday afternoon, when the North Side school, located on North Main street was completely destroyed by fire. The fire was discovered shortly after two o'clock by the janitor, Charles Plank, and within a very few moments the school had been cleared of its pupils, and the alarm had been turned in to the fire department. The fire department responded immediately to the alarm, but due to the condition of the roads, they experienced considerable difficulty in getting to the burning building. The hose truck and the ladder truck both became stuck in the huge snow banks, several times and it was necessary for them to be shoveled out. The origin of the fire is not definitely known, but it is thought to have been started from either some sparks or an overheated chimney, as when the flames were at first discovered they were confined entirely to the roof, and the attic of the school building. As the fire had smoldered for some time, it was rather difficult for the firemen to locate the seat of the blaze. However, after the water had been turned on it was at first thought that the fire had been gotten under control, but soon the big began breaking through various parts of the roof, and the whole upper part of the building was found to be in a mass of flames. An insurance of $5000 was carried on the building, although the loss will amount to a great deal more.—Hartford Press

Farmer Is Hurt During Storm
While returning from the cheese factory during the blizzard last Monday Stephen King of Armstrong was rendered unconscious when a dump plank on which he was standing in his sleigh suddenly tilted and struck him just above the right ear. The man was hurled into a snow bank by the force of the blow. John Graff, another farmer, who had witnessed the accident went to Mr. King's assistance at once and removed the latter to the home of James Twobig, where he was given temporary treatment until the arrival of a physician. Mr. King had a deep gash in his head, necessitating several stitches to close.—Fond du Lac Reporter.

POSTPONED BASKET BALL GAME SUNDAY

The Tobin Sutton Ford and Regner Drugs basket ball game, which was to have been played at the Kewaskum Opera House was postponed to Sunday, March 26th, on account of the severe snow storm. These teams are well matched and keen rivalry exists between them, which is one of the reasons why the game is played on a neutral floor. The fans of this village and vicinity can rest assured that they will be treated to a fast, snappy and thrilling game of basket ball, as both teams are coming here with firm determinations of winning. The result of the game will have a bearing on the amateur championship of the southern part of the state. Do not fail to see it.

MAKING ARRANGEMENTS FOR BAZAAR

The Ladies' Aid of the Ev. Peace congregation are busily engaged in making elaborate preparations for the big bazaar to be held by that organization in the school hall of the church on Thursday afternoon and evening, April 12th. A large number of valuable and useful articles will be disposed of at the sale at a reasonable price. All those who are in need of clothing and other articles, useful for the household will do well to bear the date in mind, and attend this bazaar for the surprisingly low prices for which the articles will be sold will, indeed be a money saver to all. At five o'clock a delicious supper will be served in cafeteria style, which will be treated by itself to all those who will attend.

MR. AND MRS. ANDREW MARTIN OF THE VILLAGE CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING

Mrs. Catherine Kohn, wife of Andrew Martin, Sr., was wedded to Catherine Kohn, in the year 1873. Up to September 14, 1918, the couple resided at Wayne, where Mr. Martin was engaged at the barber and shoe maker trade. From February 1888 to October 1909, he was post master at Wayne. While due to a stroke of paralysis in which Mrs. Martin's left arm became paralyzed, she and her husband considered it best to sell their home and move to Kewaskum. At the present time her condition has improved considerably, and the couple are enjoying good health. Mr. Martin will attain the age of 73 years on June 1st, 1923, and his wife that of 74 years on October 2nd, 1923. The inclement weather made it impossible for many relatives and a son, Arthur and his family, living in the northern part of the state, to attend the celebration, yet they remembered the couple in sending gifts and letters of congratulations.

CEMENT SHIPMENTS COMING

The Highway Commission has received word that the cement companies storage cars of cement a day will be received by the commission for the completion of highway 55, for which 5200 barrels of cement are needed. The early shipments must come through to give the cement companies storage space and the only way Washington county can complete their program is to take the cement at this time. With Washington county preparing to complete their Highway 55 program and Fond du Lac county having let their contract only a few weeks ago it means that next fall the concrete road will be completed to Fond du Lac.—West Bend News.

NOTICE OF MEETING OF TOWN BOARD OF AUDIT

Notice is hereby given that the Town Board of Audit for the Town of Kewaskum, County of Washington, Wisconsin, will meet at the Opera House in the Village of Kewaskum on the 27th day of March, A. D., 1923 for the purpose of auditing claims and demands of all persons against said Town and make the final settlement with the Town Treasurer of said Town.

Dated March 14, 1923.

Adolph J. Habelck, Town Clerk.

"KINDRED OF THE DUST"

"The course of true love never runs smooth" is an adage which is exemplified in "Kindred of the Dust", an Associated First National attraction produced by Raoul A. Walsh from the novel by Peter B. Kyne, and which is coming to the Opera House on Sunday, April 1st, with Miriam Cooper in the leading female role.

Playing the role of "Nan of the Sawdust Pile," Miss Cooper gives a remarkable characterization of a poverty stricken maiden who is loved by the son of "The Laird," the millionaire lumberman.

Her grandfather, Caleb Brest, a retired petty officer of the American navy, through lack of money, had been forced to settle on some land made by the depositing of refuse from one of the lumberman's saw mills. It was while living in such quondam circumstances that Nan met young Donald McKaye, and it was a case of love at first sight with each.

But considerable opposition quickly developed. "The Laird" objected to his son marrying the girl, Andrew Daney, the general manager of the saw mill, had reasons of his own for trying his best to force the girl and her grandfather to move.

The only joy left to Nan was her father, who married the singing instructor, but disillusionment came, and with it more trouble than she had ever anticipated.

She was on the verge of reaching the apex of her operatic career in New York when she learned that Donald was sick, and that his recovery depended on her presence.

The climax of this story is exceptionally strong, and is a fitting finish to a highly dramatic story.

TOWN OF WAYNE COUPLE ROUNDS OUT FIFTY YEARS OF WEDDED LIFE

A large gathering of relatives and friends assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kirchner, in the town of Wayne, last week Wednesday evening, March 14th, 1923, where the rare occasion of celebrating Mr. and Mrs. Kirchner's golden wedding anniversary. The venerable couple, who are well known here, and who are held in high esteem by a large acquaintance, were married on March 14th, 1873, at Jackson by Rev. Leicht, and since then they have made their home on a farm at the town of Wayne, where they have lived happily together, sharing alike in life's joys and sorrows and tribulations.

At five o'clock a four-course wedding dinner was served, with about fifty guests in attendance. At the center of the table was a large wedding cake in token of the occasion. After partaking of this sumptuous meal, the guests were delightfully entertained by playing different games and social conversation. The home was beautifully and fittingly decorated with flowers and pink and gold paper.

Mr. Kirchner was born on October 16th, 1845, at Weitzingerode, Prussia, Germany. In 1854 he immigrated with his parents to America, settling in the town of Wayne. His wife, Miss Ernestine Krueger was born December 2, 1853, at Princes Brandenburg, Germany, immigrating to this country with her parents in 1851, settling in the town of Jackson.

This union was blessed with five children, namely: August F. Kirchner of the town of Kewaskum; Peter Kirchner on the homestead; Susan (Mrs. John Gorin) of Kewaskum; Amelia (Mrs. Charles Frost) of the town of Kewaskum; and Louise (Mrs. William Gaby) of Kewaskum, all of whom, together with fifteen grand children and seven great grand children attended the celebration.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kirchner, although having passed the 70th and 75th milestones respectively, are still hale and hearty. Both are still very active and attending to their every day work. Keeping themselves well posted in what is going on in the outside world. They were showered with congratulations and received many beautiful and valuable gifts. The Statesman joins the relatives and friends of the venerable couple in wishing them continued health and happiness in the hope that they may live to celebrate their diamond wedding twenty-five years hence.

Those from afar who attended the celebration were: Ferdinand Krueger and Mrs. Fred Ziegler, Mr. and Mrs. August Kirchner Sr., of the town of Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Klumb and family of the town of Barton.

CROWS FED IN BACK YARDS IN CITY TUESDAY MORNING

It is an uncommon sight to see flocks of sparrows or pigeons feeding in back yards in this city, but not until Tuesday morning did a flock of crows—six in number—find their way into the city. Evidently these poor fellows found no more food out in the woods and then flew into the city to pick up whatever they could find. They seemed quite tame and behaved well even though sparrows were mixing with them.—West Bend Pilot.

ALLENTON-KOHLVILLE COW TESTING ASS'N. MEETING MARCH 31, 1923.

The annual meeting of the Allenton-Kohlville Cow Testing association will be held at Marohl's hall, Kohlville on Saturday, March 31, at 1:30 P. M. A good speaker will be present for the occasion.

The Kewaskum Live Stock Shipping association will ship stock on Wednesday, March 28. Note all stock will be weighed on the Farmers Market and suppl' Co's scale.

August Ebeherer, Manager.

WASPS DEFEAT BATTLE FLEET

Destroyers Theoretically Put Big Dreadnaughts Out of Action.

SIX TORPEDOES FIND MARK

Strategists Hold That Maneuvers Prove Need of Building More Light Cruisers and Aircraft—Denby Sees "Battle" Off Panama.

Balboa, Panama Canal Zone, March 20.—The necessity for a preponderance of light cruisers, destroyers and aircraft to protect the battle fleet was strikingly illustrated, in the opinion of naval strategists, by the results of two destroyer attacks on the Pacific fleet, witnessed by Secretary Denby and senators and representatives.

While neither assault carried any element of surprise, two superdreadnaughts were theoretically put out of action during each phase of the maneuvers.

In the first attack nineteen destroyers attached to the "blue" fleet came over the horizon behind a smoke screen and launched fifty-seven torpedoes, two finding a mark on the Idaho, third ship of the "red" fleet, and one striking the California, flagship of Admiral Eberle's Pacific fleet.

Fifteen seaplanes sent out to bomb the destroyers failed to arrive before the torpedoes were launched. The battleships opened simulated fire on the destroyers, but officers said the attacking force was so well protected by the smoke screen that it did not afford much of a target.

During the second attack, which was staged without a smoke screen, nineteen destroyers again participated. They laid down a checker-board of fifty-seven torpedoes, forcing the "red" fleet to deploy from its battle line. Two torpedoes struck the Tennessee, second ship in line, while another hit the Idaho, third ship.

Officers judged both out of action, the battleships, in getting the range of the destroyer.

During each phase the "red" fleet had the aid of three light cruisers, which, however, were not protected by destroyers. Seaplanes did not figure in the second phase.

E. H. ARMSTRONG

The Hon. E. H. Armstrong, who has been chosen premier of Nova Scotia, succeeding the Hon. G. H. Murray, who resigned from office because of ill health, after having served continuously for almost 27 years. Premier Armstrong was minister of public works in the Murray cabinet.

WOULD BAR DIVORCES

Episcopal Bishop Says Marriage Institution in Peril.

Declares Family Life and the Nation Is at Stake—Would Emulate Roman Church.

New York, March 17.—Bishop William T. Manning, in a Lenten address declared that to allow men and women to live together for a time and then with legal sanction to separate and form new alliances as often as they please is in principle to abolish marriage and to adopt a system of legalized free love.

The bishop's topic was "The Peril of Easy Divorce to Our Life as a Nation."

"It is worthy of notice that those who seek to break down and destroy the life of the church seek also to destroy the institutions of marriage and the family," remarked the bishop.

Dr. Manning declared the Episcopal church should change her laws so that no one could be married at her altars who has a husband or wife living, which is the law of the Roman Catholic church.

"We must not think in hard and unsympathetic spirit of the human sufferings connected with this question, but on the other hand we must not allow our feelings to make us unkind to the supreme moral principles involved," said the bishop.

"The institution of the family based in monogamic marriages is the supreme possession that man has won through all the long ages of his moral and spiritual progress.

"It is a simple fact that as a nation we are rapidly abandoning the principle of monogamic marriage. The proportion of divorce to marriages has reached figures that are appalling."

FOUR ARE BURNED TO DEATH

Two Beaten With Ax by Fiend Who Set Fire to Their Home.

Everett, Wash., March 19.—The murder of four persons—a widow, her two little children and her brother-in-law, was revealed when fire, apparently of incendiary origin, destroyed a bakery here. The dead:

Mrs. Cleopatra Karas, proprietress; Alexander Karas, four; Polly Karas, two, and Gus Karas, brother of Mrs. Karas' dead husband.

Mrs. Karas and her brother-in-law were evidently beaten to death with an ax.

BERLIN'S REPARATION OFFER

Would Pay $10,000,000,000 in Gold to Free Ruhr, Says Report.

Berlin, March 18.—Germany's new reparation offer to France was taken to Switzerland directly and was handed to a French emissary there.

Whether Leopold Dubois, the Swiss economist, acted as intermediary, as was previously suggested, cannot be definitely ascertained. The offer carried totals of more than 40,000,000,000 gold marks ($10,000,000,000), considerably higher than Chancellor Cuno's Paris offer.

Reds Execute 200 Prisoners.

Paris, March 20.—Two hundred political prisoners were executed by Reds in Georgia and their bodies thrown into the streets, according to a Constantinople dispatch to the Journal des Debats.

Steel Earnings Show Decrease.

New York, March 20.—The annual report of the Bethlehem Steel corporation shows the lowest net earnings since 1914, and indicates net income for the year of $4,005,330, equal to $1.14 a share.

President's Hat in Ring.

Miami, Fla., March 19.—President Harding will be a candidate for reelection and only unforeseen ill health will prevent him from running again, Attorney General Daugherty announced here.

Steamer Sinks; 31 Drowned.

London, March 19.—In a collision off Singapore the straits steamer Rance sank in ten minutes, according to a Singapore dispatch. Thirty-one lives were lost. The Rance was a vessel of 3,630 tons.

WISCONSIN NEWS

Important Events of the Week Around the Badger State.

Wisconsin Rapids—Mrs. Luella Daugherty, 19 years old, and her mother, Mrs. Dora Eichhorn, were acquitted by a jury at Wisconsin Rapids of second degree murder charges, in connection with the fatal shooting of Adolph Virum, in the Eichhorn orchard last August. The women testified that Mrs. Daugherty had fired a 22 caliber rifle at Virum when she believed that he was about to attack her.

Marshfield—Petitions for a county-wide tuberculosis test of cattle in Wood county have been signed by 1,700 cat-tle owners, according to County Agent R. A. Peterson, and the test is now assured. The actual testing, which will take a month, will not be started until early fall, as there are several other counties which have already filed their petitions. Clark and Taylor counties, which recently filed petitions, will be tested at the same time as Wood county. The entire cost of the work will be paid by the state, with an indemnity in the case of cattle killed of half the difference between its value and the salvage value, but not to exceed $40 for grade cattle and $90 for pure bred.

Marshfield—Wood county highways in winter to come will be blocked every time snow falls. The highway commission has purchased a combination snow remover and highway patrol machine after a demonstration on highway 10 that convinced them it was the solution of the road problem in this county. In a demonstration through 20 inches of snow that had been untouched since the beginning of the winter, the new machine will do the work that is now being done by two Packard trucks and four men. The county board may purchase additional machines this summer.

Oconto—During the last year Oconto county has done $75,000 worth of co-operative business, according to County Agent R. A. Amundson. The two leading items in this list are live-stock and cheese production. During the year 7,615 cattle were shipped from the county. This stock was worth $117,802.50. During the year, Oconto county farmers sold 1,155,332 pounds of cheese, valued at $231,437.35, the average price a pound being 20.2 cents.

Darlington—The executive committee of the Lafayette County Agricultural association—Big White Four—which holds annual exhibitions at the fair grounds in Darlington during the last full week in August, has voted to issue three hundred additional shares of stock—the money derived, $3,000—to be used in the erection of a new floral hall. The old building has become inadequate and is out of date.

Stevens Point—It took Albert Ceglinski, 19, nephew of A. L. Shafton, of Stevens Point, two years to effect his escape from his native home in Russia. Reaching an ocean port, he was given a job on a vessel bound for South America, and landed at Buenos Aires. He worked there until he had enough money to buy transportation to New York, and then came to Stevens Point.

La Crosse—Mrs. R. O. Combellick was shot and killed and her husband seriously wounded by Miss Clara Lipke, the slain woman's sister, in their home at La Crosse. Miss Lipke had been confined recently in a sanatorium and was said to be deranged when she did the shooting. It is not known where she obtained the revolver.

Rice Lake—What is claimed to be the largest bobcat ever seen in Barron county was killed by dogs belonging to Louis Soule of Rice Lake. The dead animal weighed more than an ordinary wolf and its hide was larger. Mr. Soule also shot two other large bobcats during the past week.

Madison—The heroism of dog parents was brought to light when two Airedale dogs chose to burn to death rather than leave their four pups. The six dogs and 20,000 eggs, partially hatched, were consumed by flames which destroyed three buildings on the chicken farm of M. V. Neilson, five miles south of Madison.

Birchwood—Indian farmer service men belonging to the Chippewa tribe at Reserve, near Birchwood, and other places on the Court d'Oreilles reservation, are arranging to organize an American Legion post. Many Indians fought in the war from this reservation.

Appleton—A wage increase ranging from 8 to 12 per cent, general in most paper mills of Neenah, Menasha, Appleton and other Fox river valley cities, becomes effective Mar. 16. This is the first increase since the cuts of more than a year ago.

Baraboo—A poison gas bomb has been attached to the vault door at the Farmers and Merchants' bank, Baraboo, in such a manner that the gas will be released if the combination is broken or any attempt made to burn through the doors.

West Bend—The new Evangelical Reformed church of West Bend was dedicated Sunday, Mar. 11. The building was recently completed at a cost of $25,000. The present pastor, the Rev. C. Ruppert, has had charge of the congregation since 1898. The congregation was organized in 1890.

Tomah—Tomah's high school class of 1923 numbers 88 and is the largest in the history of the school by 30 students. Nellie May Sullivan is to be valedictorian of the class.

Sheboygan—Because Frank Ringel laughed while the district attorney was reprimanding him in municipal court at Superior, he was compelled to pay a fine of $50 and costs on one charge, and on another, given a sentence of 30 days at the county work farm without alternative of a fine.

Birchwood—Robert Maizie, a Civil war veteran and pioneer resident of Wisconsin, died at his home in Winter. He participated in some of the most important battles of the Civil war.

With the Wisconsin Legislature

Madison, Wis.—The two general highway tax bills prepared by the joint highway committee of the legislature are finally prepared for introduction after nine weeks of the session and will be brought into the senate within a few days.

These two measures, one the graduated license fee based upon weight and the other a 2-cent gasoline tax, are estimated to raise $11,000,000 annually from automobile owners. Both are to be strenuously opposed on the floor, in their present form, and it is the opinion in the best informed circles that both bills will be amended in essential respects before they get through the legislature.

The weight tax measure is estimated to raise $5,000,000 for use on the 10,000-mile state trunk highway system, upon a scale of rates ranging from $10 to $50 for passenger autos, and $10 to $185 for trucks, with triple rates for motor busses.

Aim to Close Session May 18

Two moves to force an early adjournment of the 1923 session of the legislature are planned for this week. A joint resolution will probably be introduced in the assembly setting May 18 as the date when the two houses will have to complete their business and leave for home. In the senate a bill is expected setting the same time for adjournment.

Speaker John L. Dahl in the assembly and Senator Herman J. Severson in the senate are understood to be favorable to these attempts to set a definite time for completion of legislative work. They wish to carry out their promises of a short session.

Vote Fund for Disabled Vets

Creation of a soldiers' rehabilitation fund amounting to nearly $1,000,000, transferred from the service recognition fund and the soldiers' educational bonus fund, was voted by the assembly in enrolling the Sachjen bill providing for the relief of disabled World war veterans.

This measure, introduced at the request of Gov. Blaine, establishes a soldiers' rehabilitation board in Wisconsin, to consist of the secretary of the board of health, the director of the Wisconsin psychiatric institute and a member of the medical department of the University of Wisconsin.

Returns from investment of the $1,000,000 fund created by the proposed statute would be used by the rehabilitation board for the treatment of former service men. "For any physical or mental disease or injury, or the consequent result of such disease or injury which is directly or indirectly traceable to their military or naval service."

Handle 18 Bills in 20 Minutes

The assembly established a record for speed Saturday, March 17, holding a 20-minute session and disposing of 18 bills, several motions and numerous committee reports. Upon motion of Assemblyman Spoor, six bills were sent to their death with one sweep of the legislative ax.

Among the bills killed was the senate measure by Garey, making armistice day a legal holiday in Wisconsin. The motion to nonconcur was made by Mr. Spoor, who remarked that "we have too many holidays now." Another bill killed was that by Assemblyman Blomberg, requiring that municipal bond elections shall be property tax payers.

The assembly engrossed the bill by Assemblyman Peltier making it an offense for any state employe to alter any bill or act of the legislature. The senate was not in session.

Unfavorable recommendation was given by the house committee on state affairs to the Mark bill increasing the speed limit of automobiles in rural districts to 35 miles an hour and to a bill by Mark fixing the standard of lights on all vehicles, motor and horse in the state.

Assemblyman Clinton G. Price's bill that would grant a trial by jury to any person arrested for violating a restraining order of injunction was recommended for passage by the committee on judiciary. This bill was sponsored by and had the backing of every labor organization in the state.

The state board of control has agreed to follow the wishes of Governor John J. Blaine to keep state employes from lobbying in the capitol. The board has ordered that no employes under the jurisdiction of its members can appear before any committee of the legislature without written permission from the board.

Edward Nordman, commissioner of markets, expressed himself Wednesday as strongly favoring the Grinstead bill pending in the assembly, in the belief that application of the principles involved in the bill will pave the way for better conditions in agriculture than have ever existed in this country. This measure would place a 1 per cent surtax on all land values in excess of $10,000, and according to its sponsors, would force owners of uncultivated land to place their holdings under cultivation.

SESSION SIDELIGHTS

The state dog tax law was saved by the senate when it killed the Goodman bill, repealing this statute, which for four years has been a center of attack from farmer members. Passage had been given the measure by a large vote in the assembly. The present dog law imposes a tax of $1 on male animals and $2 on females, the reimbursing farmers who lose livestock turns into a fund for use in re-throwing depreedations of dogs.

Tax Bills to Be Held Up

All tax legislation will be held up pending announcement by Gov. Blaine of his plans for revenue raising. Senator Henry Huber, chairman of the joint committee on finance, announced following receipt of the governor's letter asking that bills now before the committee be kept off the floor until he can have an opportunity to present his views.

By stepping forward with a definite tax plan of his own, Gov. Blaine has injected another element into the already complicated situation existing in the legislature over the problem of revenue raising. Leaders in both houses are watching eagerly for the proposal of the executive. Before its features are known, members of the legislature are not ready to say whether they are willing to line up with the governor.

Gov. Blaine determined upon a comprehensive tax program of his own when it became evident that both the Dahl and the Severson income tax proposals before the legislature were slated for defeat. He announced to newspaper men that it was his determination to have a bill, which would definitely be termed an administration measure, and which would carry out his pledges to the people to bring about a readjustment of the tax burden.

Vote to Repeal Drainage Law

Repeal of the Wisconsin drainage law, under which millions of dollars have been invested in districts throughout the state, was voted by the assembly when it engrossed the Price bill without a roll call. A move to postpone the measure indefinitely was defeated, 66 to 16.

Extreme bitterness was shown by speakers attacking the present Wisconsin drainage system, with charges of oppression and graft frequent during the discussion. An effort of opponents of the bill to get it referred to a committee in order that the opposition might be heard, was killed by a large majority.

Assemblyman Clinton G. Price, Juneau county, author of the bill, declared settlers in his county had been burdened with an almost unbearable expense to meet costs of the drainage system instituted on recommendation of University of Wisconsin professors.

Those favoring the existing drainage statute urged that its proponents be given another opportunity to express their stand and tried to get the bill back to committee. This failed, however, and when the vote on indefinite postponement was taken, the bill came through with indorsement of the house.

Ask $1,650,500 for Building

With no new courses added at the university in the last ten years and an increase in campus work of 51 per cent the university's public service has increased 135 per cent during the same time. President E. A. Birge of the university said in explaining the budget of the university.

The university is asking for $1,650,500 for a building program but is asking for no increase for operation. Declaring that the most noteworthy change in university work during the last twenty years has been the recognition of the need for closer connections between the university and people and the provision for such connection through extension work, President Birge told of the development of experimentation and other forms of public service which has grown with greater rapidity than the academic work.

Following attempts to regulate about everything else, the legislature is now about to attempt to take care of an annoying and irksome other vibrations.

Under the bill introduced in the lower house by Assemblyman George Gauer, Milwaukee, noises and vibrations that prove bothersome to residents near an industrial plant would be declared a nuisance.

The bill provides that the district attorney of the county in which the offense is committed could, upon proper complaint hale the proprietor of the concern into the district court and proceed to abate the nuisance.

An attempt at motion picture censorship was killed in the senate with the indefinite postponement of the Teasdale bill prohibiting children from attending motion pictures unless accompanied by a guardian or unless the picture had been censored by the national board of review or a local committee on censorship.

A bill by Assemblyman Richard Kamke, Merrill, providing that in assessment of agricultural land, the enhanced value of the land by reason of clearing it of stumps and standing timber would not be considered for five years after such clearing, was ordered engrossed.

By a unanimous vote the state affairs committee recommended the A. E. Smith bill reorganizing the conservation commission, providing for a single commissioner with a salary of $5,000 a year.

A move to remove the mandatory section of the Wisconsin county nurse law was killed, 34 to 29, on motion of Assemblyman Matheson. The assembly had previously engrossed the measure, which would leave employment of nurses optional with counties.

The Killian bill requiring that prison made goods manufactured in Wisconsin be plainly marked, was engrossed by the assembly. This same bill has been killed by several preceding legislatures.

Repeal of the Esch-Cummins railroad law was urged by the senate with the adoption of the Titus resolution memorializing congress to wipe the act from the federal statute books. A similar resolution has already been adopted by the lower house.

Assemblyman Charles B. Perry is the author of a bill which would extend the "city manager" plan, now provided for by state law, to villages. Under the Perry bill, however, the village board of trustees would act as the board of managers.

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND SWAMP-ROOT

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Klinger's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine.

It is a physician's prescription. Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merits and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once.

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation send ten cents to Dr. Klinger & Co., Birmingham, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper—Advertisement.

WHY TAKE LAXATIVES?

Discovery by Science Has Replaced Them. Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature's self. In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists the natural lubricant is not sufficient.

Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movement by Nature's own method—lubrication. As Nujol is not a medicine of any kind, it cannot gripe and, like pure water, it is harmless and pleasant.

Nujol is used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

THE BALCONY

John Bartley, the criminal investigator, returned from the scene of the murder during the night. He had been told by the governor of the state that the murderer of the late Governor of Wisconsin was in the hands of the law. Bartley was a man of many talents, and he was not only a detective but also a writer. He had been assigned to the case of the late Governor's murder, and he had been working on it for several weeks. He had been told that the murderer was in the hands of the law, but he had not been able to find any leads. answering, "No," when Roche interrupted. "Yes, there is one." He pointed to the doorway that led to the top of the tower. There, lying under the bottom step, was a second playing card with the same design on the back as the one I had found. What were they doing in that room? Bartley smiled to himself as he examined the second card.

Roche asked, "What do they mean?" With a gesture that might have meant anything, it was so expressive, Bartley replied, "They had a card party downstairs last night." Roche was excited in a moment. "I'll tell you what it means. Someone at that party killed Slyke, followed him up here and killed him."

It was not a half-bad theory, and even Bartley did not protest as much as I had thought he would. Instead he said, "There is something in what you say, Roche. We must look first for the person who had the chance to kill him. You assume that after the party the person who dropped those cards did what any absent-minded person might do. That is, he placed the cards of his last hand in his pocket. He may have followed Slyke up here, hidden behind the curtain, and as he killed him dropped some of his cards on the floor."

He paused, half frowning, as if the theory did not quite appeal to him, and added slowly, "Still, Roche, there are other things to be considered. Those two cards are in different parts of the room; not together as we might have expected if they had been dropped by accident. It looks to me as if they might have been placed where we found them by design. As if someone wished us to think just what you thought. Then there is that bottle of whisky and the three glasses. All three glasses have been drunk from. The glasses show that they were all used at about the same time. Evidently two of the men smoked; the third did not. What I wonder is, were these three persons in the room at one and the same time?"

Roche, who had long since lost his air of self-satisfaction, now offered to help us make a thorough examination of the room. When we had ended our unsuccessful search, Bartley stood silent, a puzzled expression on his face. "It's more mysterious than ever," he said at last. "I am sure he was not killed in the room below. I am also sure he was not killed here. There must be blood spots somewhere, yet where? There are none in this room."

He went to the window and glanced out, then came back and glanced up at the steps that led to the roof. All at once his face brightened, and motioning us to follow him he bounded up the seven steps to the little door that opened onto the balcony. We followed more slowly.

We found ourselves on a balcony some four feet wide that ran around the tower. About eight or ten feet below its bronze-tipped top, an iron railing protruded the edge of the balcony and was covered with ivy, as were also the sides of the tower itself. Bartley paused for a moment, standing with his hand on the rail, his face serious, his eyes thoughtful. But it was for a moment only; the next he was out of sight around the tower. Almost instantly we heard him call us, and when we reached his side he was on his knees examining the floor and the lower part of the wall. Looking where he pointed, I saw at his feet a dark smudge on the floor of the balcony, and a little higher up several smaller spots on the wall of the tower. I realized that, at last, I had found what he had been looking for. There was no doubt that the smudges we saw were blood, and that it had been shed within a few hours. Had he expected to find them just where he did? I wondered.

"You say I know who killed him—I know?"

IDLERS' ISLAND

IF YOU are resolved to continue your search for Idlers' Island, contrary to the advice of the experienced, and those disconcerted souls out at the elbow who have spent the best years of their lives in its quest, you may set it down as an unassailable fact that you are doomed to sorrowful disappointment.

The youth who dreams of this mystic place, forgetful of his duties to his parents and his employers, while he is fitting up his phantom ship to sail away in pursuit of perpetual pleasure, is heading straight to a land of sorrow and desolation, which he will find in the meridian of life, when his sky is turning gray and the icy winds of winter nip his shivering body and freeze up his last remaining energy.

There is only one event at this time of his existence which really astonishes and startles him out of his self-imposed impoverishment, and that is, he cannot build himself up again to hopeful manhood.

He is pushed and jostled on the streets and takes it as a matter of no consequence; he is shunned by old friends who pass him with a sneer, but there is not enough fire in his blood to kindle resentment; he is miserable and lonely, but so dull in sensibility that he is unconcerned.

He may sometimes try to brace himself up as a sudden ray of hope momentarily flashes across his darkened mind, but the effort proves too much for him.

The background of his subconscious self is still covered with dream pictures of Idlers' Island, blurred by cobwebs and out of harmony with the colorful scenes around him, and his present physical and mental lassitude.

When he was twenty-five he was lazy, careless, wasteful and improvident, with friends everywhere delighted to help him spend his inheritance; now that he is five and forty, he is

Has Anyone Laughed At You Because

You drink very weak tea? Of course they have. Your hostess: "How do you take your tea?" You: "Very weak, please, one teaspoonful of tea, the rest hot water, if you please." Hostess (showing you the cup): "Is this weak enough?" You (eyeing the dark black tea): "Oh dear, no—that is far too strong." Hostess: "Very well, I will put some hot water into it." You: "Thank you." Hostess: "Is this right?" You: "No, I am sorry—but if you put the hot water on one teaspoonful of tea it would be right, thank you." This goes on always and then there is a laugh, and someone says, "Why drink it at all? No one really understands what weak tea is."

Your Get-away here is: That you are at last trying to be a good mixer.

THE GREAT EVENT

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

INTO each life shall come some great Event, Obliterating all that was before And making all that comes insequent.

The measure of our life forevermore. Some episode our whole career inclines. Some hour of sweetness so surpassing all. It is the truth in all life's faulty lines. In all the songs of birds the perfect call.

And so that song has summoned even me; I, who had been busy with so many things, The small concerns that seemed so great to be, I have been lifted up on sudden wings.

The night is fair that once was dark and drear, The day is joyous that was full of care; The clouds are gone, the sun, the stars, appear, And now the world is beauty everywhere.

Some alchemy transfigures all the earth, Toil now is pleasure, once a weary round; New friends draw near, the old have greater worth, The wealth of human hearts my heart has found.

Now merrily I climb the hard ascent, But now the grass is green, the sky is blue; Into each life shall come some great Event, And, in my own, that great Event was You.

And, in my own, that great Event was You.

Mrs. Gross Praises Tanlac for Overcoming Stomach Trouble of Long Standing—Says Results Are Priceless.

"Before I took Tanlac I only weighed ninety-four pounds and scarcely had strength to sweep the floor or make the beds; but now I weigh one hundred and thirty-two and am as healthy and happy as can be." This remarkable statement was made recently by Mrs. Mabel Gross, 1137 Aldrich St., N. Minneapolis, Minn.

"For nearly two years I had been in a seriously weakened condition and suffered nearly all the time from headache and backache. My nerves were beyond my control and I was terribly dizzy. I couldn't half sleep and my stomach was so out of order that even the sight of food nauseated me.

"The benefits I have received from Tanlac are priceless. I am now a perfectly well woman and my friends often speak of how healthy I look. I certainly have a great deal to praise Tanlac for. Health is worth everything, and that is what Tanlac has meant to me."

FAST BUT SURE

A SUCCESSFUL business man said recently that the old rule of "slow but sure" no longer applied in industry.

"A man," he said, "to succeed today must not only do good work, but do it rapidly."

This is true in almost every business. And because it is true, preparation for a business career is far more difficult than it ever has been.

You can learn to work rapidly and accurately as well, but to do so you must train very intensively.

It is easy enough to make quick decisions. It is possible to make correct decisions. But no man who does not know his business down to the last detail can make correct decisions rapidly.

Industry is running at top speed. There is no time to be wasted.

The executive who requires a week to make up his mind about a change in his plant will not hold his job very long.

Important decisions are made almost on the instant. But they are never made on the instant and made right unless a man can carry in his mind all the data on which to base them.

Bigger jobs, with bigger salaries and greater responsibility are awaiting the young men now training for them.

But none of them will ever be attained without the utmost skill and the most profound knowledge of the business that is to be followed.

SHORT CHANGE SCHEME WORKS

Fond du Lac merchants were warned today of the activities of the short change artist who victimized Oshkosh stores last week and who is believed to be working his way south and may try his trick here. The warning was made public through the Association of Commerce, which received word of the man's activities from Oshkosh association officials. The trick, which old was worked successfully in every Oshkosh store on which it was tried, according to the reports. The man, fairly well dressed, tendered a $20 bill in each store for a small purchase. After receiving his change he pretended to discover that he had the right change in his purse.

After paying for the article with the small change and getting his $20 bill, he would return the change given him previously. In each case, however, he held out a $10 bill during the performance.

The man is described as young, thick set, with light complexion and sandy hair. He wore a brown overcoat and a black hat with flat brim.—Fond du Lac Reporter.

New Snow Fighting Unit Is Tried Out On Highway 15.

It looked like a parade on East First street this morning, but it turned out to be T. W. Meikeljohn demonstrating the latest thing in snow plows. The machine is of road grader type and is built on the Fordson tractor which is equipped with caterpillar tread. This kind of machine is said to have successfully opened up the roads between several cities which lie further to the north. The position of the driver on this machine is different than that of the regular tractor. He sits ahead of the engine, instead of behind it, and handles the plow from there.—Fond du Lac Commonweal.

PURCHASE ROAD MACHINERY

The Dodge County Road and Bridge committee met here last Tuesday with Highway Commissioner, purchasing machinery to be used on the newly created patrol division of Dodge county. The following machinery was bought from the Russell Grader company of Minneapolis: 25 Russell Junior graders at a cost of $178.48 each. These graders weigh 1,500 lbs. each and have eight foot maintenance blade 22 road drags at $20.00 each; 22 ground log road drags at a cost of $8.15 each; and 23 Oliver plows, plows were purchased from Meyer & Lenz of Watertown at a cost of $18.90 each. The committee also bought a Ford roadster from Kunkz & Ellis of this city, equipping same with a light box on the rear.—Juneau Independent.

It's Logical

"Man held at Ellis Island speaks no language that the immigration interpreters can understand. We'll bet five bucks he's a train conductor returning from a European vacation."

Can You Beat It?

A young man in the East, held for murder of his parents, pleaded for mercy on the ground that he was an orphan.

Son Knew His History

Dad: "Jimmy, if you don't get a move on you'll never amount to anything. Why, George Washington and Teddy Roosevelt were graduates of college at your age."
Son: "That's right—and when they were your age they were President of the U. S."

Sure He Did

"Waiter! I smell fresh paint."
"Quite right, sir; but just for a moment, sir. The young ladies at the next table will be going in a minute, sir."

Simple Rule to Remember

When should "fewer" be used, and when should "less"? Is it correct, for example, to say "I have no 'less' than 100 bushels"? The rule to avoid this common mistake is to remember that fewer is used when referring to numbers—as in the above example—and less when referring to quantity.

BASE BALL MEETING TUESDAY EVENING

On Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock, March 27th, another base ball meeting will be held in the village hall, for the purpose of making further arrangements for the organization of a base ball team in Kewaskum. At this meeting the committee of three appointed at the last meeting will make their report. If said committee was successful in raising enough money to start a ball team, same will be organized. If not, the matter will undoubtedly be dropped entirely. According to information received, things look favorable, and it is hoped that the committee will be able to make a very satisfactory report.

It apparently seems that this year there is a good opportunity to organize a ball team, in an effort to revive the National game in this village. It has been announced by John Kaiser, a base ball fan of Port Washington, that he will soon call a conference of representatives from Hartford, West Bend, Cedarburg, Juneau, Mayville and Beaver Dam, at which time matters will be discussed to organize a base ball league. Plans now being worked upon are that each one of these cities be represented by a team composed of all home players, with possible exception of the batteries. Kewaskum cannot be included in this league. The material is here, all it needs is the support of the citizens of the village and vicinity. All interested in the organization of a ball team, are requested to attend the meeting Tuesday evening.

The Cottage Gardener

—National Garden Bureau.
Cabbage, Cauliflower, Kale, Brussels Sprouts and Kohlrabi Are Among the Cottage Garden Favorites. These Popular Vegetables Are Usually Given Good Position.

BUGS AND WORMS GARDEN ENEMIES

Sprayers and Dusters in Demand From Time the Seed Goes Into Ground.

Insect immigrants from foreign countries added to the list of those that are natives of America have very materially increased the worries, both of the home gardeners and the commercial truck growers. When it comes to conducting the fight against the intruders of these pests, the home gardener is often at a decided disadvantage, because he does not have the sprayers, the dusters and the other equipment. There are the so-called biting and chewing insects which eat the plants, sucking insects that suck the sap of the plants, worms that work under the ground and bugs that work on the tops of the plants, moths that fly by night, and almost every conceivable form of trouble maker. Fortunately for the gardener, the entomologist has worked out the habits of these garden enemies and has been able to prescribe a poison or a repellent or some means of perfecting the crops from the pests. Every home gardener should prepare to fight insects at the very beginning of the season.

CABBAGE FAMILY IN HOME GARDEN

Big, Juicy Leaves Supply Splendid Vegetable for Boiled Dinners, Salads.

Corned buffalo hump and cabbage probably served as many a cave man's Sunday dinner. The cabbage has been esteemed as a vegetable for 1,843 years that we know of, a ripe old age. Buried somewhere in the centuries of its history is the head of the cabbage and the reason thereof.

"We are indebted to Pliny the elder, the famous Roman scientist, who wrote the first "natural history," for the earliest accurate mention of the cabbage as a vegetable. He stopped writing in 70 A. D., when he lost his life in the destruction of Pompeii. The cabbage, cauliflower, brussels sprout, the kales and kohlrabi, probably are all descended from a wild plant native to the sea cliffs of western and southern Europe. Its Latin name is Brassica oleracea.

In its native state it has a loose rosette of large, thick leaves for the storage of surplus moisture it may collect when it rains, and these leaves unlike the cabbage of the garden, are long and deeply lobed. They vary in color from green to red. Pliny described several types of cabbage and it is altogether likely, according to the best authorities, that cabbages were in general use before the Aryans migrated westward. It was probably a cave man's favorite.

Moved from the meager sustenance of the dry cliffs whereon it dwelt and planted in rich, deeper soil, the cabbage grew enormously, developed a stem and by the more speed of its growth developed a head. The cauliflower probably tried to make leaves and flowers at the same time and compromised with the white "curd" which is a thickened, flattened overgrown flower cluster.

The history of the development of the cabbage gives the key to its culture. The richer the soil and the faster it is kept growing, the larger and stouter the heads.

Cabbages and their relatives are known as Brassicas to the English gardening experts, that being their Latin name, as choux to the French and as kohls or kraut to the Germans.

SWEET PEAS FINE FOR THE BOUQUETS

No Annual Gives More Beautiful Flowers—Must Be Given an Early Start.

Everybody wants sweet peas. No annual gives more beautiful flowers for cutting, and this plant is particularly useful for cutting. It makes a beautiful display for a time, but its real value is to provide bouquets for the house.

No one can have sweet peas without giving them an extra start. They will not endure hot, dry weather and flourish. Consequently they must be planted early. If the ground is workable in March they should be put in, planting them deeply, say about two inches.

It is much surer and safer to plant them in pots or boxes or in a cold frame for an early start. The paper flower pots of small size which can be very cheaply purchased, or the paper drinking cups which can be had at a small outlay are ideal for startling the individual plants, pricking holes in the water cups for drainage. It is a good plan to have some light sticks seven or eight inches long if they must be kept indoors or under glass for some time upon which the plants may start to climb. Otherwise they become hopelessly entangled.

as Early Alaska, Thomas Laxton, Gradus and others, do not require so much space as do the taller and ranker growing sorts like the Telephone.

HOME GARDENS PAY

Fresh vegetables without transportation or handling costs are possible when the family has a garden. The vegetables are available for use without any loss of time in sending or even telephoning to the grocery. They are fresher, more palatable, and usually better in every respect than those to be had in the markets. The home garden provides the different members of the family with healthful outdoor exercise and recreation.

FOR EARLY POSIES

Two of the most beautiful and easily grown annuals should be sown outdoors as soon as the seeds can be procured, just as confidently as grass seed. These are poppies, particularly the Shirley varieties, and the annual larkspurs.

FRESH TOMATOES IN GOOD DEMAND

Rapid Growth of Industry in United States Is Shown in Bulletin by Parsons.

GAIN OF 50 PER CENT SHOWN

Becoming Increasingly Important That Producers and Shippers Use Only Most Approved Methods of Harvesting and Packing.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

"Preparation of Fresh Tomatoes for Market" is the title of Farmers' Bulletin 1291, just issued by the bureau of agricultural economics, United States Department of Agriculture. In this new bulletin the author, F. Earl Parsons, gives specific suggestions as to the best methods of getting this popular vegetable from the field to the market.

Big Gain Last Year.

A 50-cent gain in tomato shipments in 1922, compared with movement of the previous year, shows the increasing demand for this product. Average shipments have been less than 18,000 cars per year, but during the past season 23,000 cars were forwarded. In view of the growth of this industry, it is becoming increasingly important that producers and shippers use only the most approved methods of harvesting, packing, grading and loading, which are described in Farmers' Bulletin 1291.

This publication points out that there are three stages of maturity at which tomatoes may be picked, depending largely on the distance they must travel before being placed on sale. Mature green tomatoes, or "green-wraps," constitute the bulk of shipments from Florida and other states in the southern tier. Pink tomatoes, or those which are "turning," come chiefly from southern Illinois and sometimes from Texas and Tennessee, whereas ripe tomatoes go to nearby markets in the southern sections and comprise the bulk of shipments from Missouri, Ohio and New Jersey.

The necessity for care in picking, in field handling, in sorting and in packing is emphasized in this new bulletin. The author says that "the interior of the picking utensil should be inspected carefully and all sharp edges, nail points, and rough surfaces smoothed off. Small skin breaks resulting from rough edges are little noticed when the tomatoes are packed, but may afford an entrance for fungi that will develop rots in transit. . . . Much unnecessary bruising results from the careless emptying of the picking baskets into the field crates. It has been pointed out that green tomatoes are easily bruised. In dumping the fruit from the basket to the field crate the latter should be tilted so that the tomatoes are permitted to roll gently down the side of the crate."

Methods of Packing.

Standard packages used in various parts of the country are fully described and illustrated, as well as the accepted methods of packing tomatoes in the crates, bins and baskets. Pictures show specimens of defective or diseased stock which must be excluded if the tomatoes are to be properly graded so as to bring the highest cash returns to the grower.

Considerable space is devoted to a discussion of packing sheds, ranging from temporary field shelters to the most improved central packing houses. The economy and effectiveness of running tomatoes through a well-equipped, modern packing plant is pointed out by the author. A diagram shows the most desirable sorting and packing apparatus in general use.

The bulletin closes by emphasizing the importance of careful inspection of the tomatoes in the process of packing or while being loaded into cars, and also calls attention to the federal inspection service available in terminal markets on arrival of these highly perishable shipments. The publication should be of value to all growers and shippers of tomatoes. Produce dealers and students of marketing problems likewise will find in it much helpful material. Copies of the bulletin may be obtained free upon request to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Feed for Milk Flow.

For thirty or forty days before lambing the ewes should be fed a grain ration. This will insure a good flow of milk, which means the lambs will be ready for market earlier than if the ewes are poor milkers.

May Need Artificial Respiration.

At times the newborn lamb is almost lifeless and often can be revived by wiping the mucus from its mouth and nostrils, then blowing into its mouth.

SOIL SURVEYS SERVE VARIETY OF DEMANDS

Prominent Are Those From Various Developing Companies.

Interesting to Farmer or Homeseeker Looking for New Location and to Road Engineers and Large Loan Companies.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Soil surveys made by the bureau of soils, United States Department of Agriculture, are filling an increasing variety of demands. Prominent among these demands, in addition to those coming from the co-operating states, are those from development companies interested in opening up large tracts of cut-over land to settlement, from the homeseeker or farmer looking for a new location, from road engineers, land banks, and large loan companies.

Co-operating with the Department of Justice, representatives of the soil survey furnished expert testimony in a case involving the changing of state boundaries during the past year. A detailed map was made of the soils of the Red River bottoms. In the vicinity of the Burkhardt oil field, for the purpose of showing the process by which the bottoms were built up, this fact having an important bearing on the settlement of a boundary dispute between Texas and Oklahoma. The question as to whether the land in controversy was formed by accretion or by avulsion would practically decide the issue, and consequently extremely detailed soil maps, profile maps of deep borings, and careful mechanical analyses of material were necessary in order to determine the presence or absence of a gradation from coarse to finer alluvial sediments from the edge of the bottoms toward the uplands.

MEANS OF SPREADING "T. B."

Several Causes Responsible for Prevalence of Dread Disease Among Cattle Herds.

"How did tuberculosis get such a hold in my herd?" is a question that has puzzled many a stockman. The following causes have been found by experts to be largely responsible for the prevalence of tuberculosis among cattle:

- Bringing untested cattle into the herd.
- Common drinking tank.
- Common feeding troughs or pasture.
- Nosing at fence lines or breaking through fences.
- Poorly ventilated barns or sheds.
- Feeding of unpasteurized milk from infected cows to calves or hogs.
- Unburned dead animals eaten or scattered by hogs or dogs.
- Breeding to infected bull or serving cows outside tested herds.
- There are other ways in which the disease can be spread, but undoubtedly stockmen can do much to check the inroads of this disease by reducing to the minimum danger from the sources mentioned.

RAPE VALUABLE AS PASTURE

Plants Sometimes Grow More Than Three Feet High Yielding Twenty Tons of Forage.

Rape is a rank growing forage plant closely resembling the rutabaga or Swedish turnip, but with a root much like that of the cabbage. The leaves are large, smooth and spreading. The plant ordinarily reaches a height of 18 to 24 inches and yields from eight to ten tons of green forage to an acre. Under favorable conditions the plants sometimes grow more than three high, while yields of 20 tons of forage are not uncommon. The value of the crop lies in its use as a pasture.

ACID PHOSPHATE WILL HELP

Checks Loss of Nitrogen and Adds Valuable Plant Food—Not Good as Preservative.

The use of acid phosphate with manure is a help in checking the loss of nitrogen, as well as actually adding valuable plant food. Ground rock phosphate is frequently recommended for use with manure, but it does not do much good as a preservative, though it is undoubtedly of benefit as a source of phosphorus. If peat is readily available it will be good as a preservative, almost as good as acid phosphate, and possibly much cheaper.

Buy Seed Year Ahead.

Many growers find it worth while to buy seed a year ahead. Plant a small quantity and test the product alongside of known and tried sorts. This will give a good idea of what crop to expect.

Quality Counts Most.

As a rule we get what we pay for in seeds or nursery stock. Cheap seed and cheap stock may in the end be most expensive. Be sure of the quality; price is secondary.

MAGGIE'S CHOCOLATE RABBIT

Maggie was very much pleased. She had a beautiful chocolate bunny and he was very, very big, which added greatly to his handsome looks. Oh, he was good looking. Never had a chocolate rabbit before been so good looking.

Maggie knew that. And Maggie was a good judge, too. Maggie knew quite a little bit about chocolate rabbits, and chocolate eggs, and chocolate hens, and chocolate roosters, and chocolate chickens.

Yes, Maggie was a good judge. And not only of chocolate animals! She knew about hard candy which came around Christmas time.

And she knew about candy which came at other times of the year, too. Yes, Maggie was a good judge of candy and sweets, and their looks, and the way they tasted.

So when she said the chocolate rabbit was quite the most handsome rabbit she had ever seen, it was true. He was so beautifully made. He had such a fine expression to his face. In fact he looked so much like a real rabbit that Maggie would not have been much surprised had the rabbit's nose begun to wiggle.

"First of All."

Well, of course, she would have been surprised, but not so very, very much surprised!

Maggie had also been given a chocolate rabbit which had a little chocolate pack on his back.

That rabbit had not a ribbon tied around his neck, for he was supposed to be dressed for work, while the beautiful rabbit which was Maggie's favorite had a handsome lavender ribbon around his neck and a lavender rosette on one side.

Of course the other rabbit wasn't really going to do any work.

He was going to be eaten. But he was dressed that way so as to look like a worker in his chocolate way.

Then Maggie had been given another rabbit, a little one with a little straw basket on his back which was filled with eggs of different colors in which were marshmallow fillings.

Maggie had eaten those first of all, though she had shared them with the rest of her family, too.

Oh, yes, Maggie shared everything she had. Even though she was so devoted to sweets and chocolate and good things to eat she was never in the least scrap greedy.

She was just as generous as generous could be, and was always giving away things and going without herself to do for others.

But she was very human, you see, and loved the candy which she received.

After Maggie had finished eating the other chocolate gifts she had received—though most delicious nibbles had been had by other members of the family—she was all ready to begin on the handsome chocolate rabbit.

First of all she ate a little from his ears and shared his ears with a friend who came to see her.

"Delicious ears," said Maggie.

"Simply delicious ears."

Still the beautiful rabbit was about the chocolate rabbit's neck and still the rosette was in place.

But the rabbit looked quite strange without his ears.

After the very next meal Maggie said to the chocolate rabbit:

"You poor dear! You do look very mournful without your ears. I shall certainly have to bite off your head, and then you won't look so sad."

And Maggie bit off the rabbit's head.

"A scrumptious head," said Maggie.

"A simply scrumptious head!"

After the next meal (for it was after meals that Maggie ate of her sweets) Maggie decided she would have the shoulders of the rabbit.

Of course the ribbon had come off when Maggie had bitten the head off and the ribbon was on the side of Maggie's doll bureau.

After Maggie had eaten the shoulders of the rabbit she said:

"Such good shoulders. Mercy me, such good shoulders!"

Before long the rabbit was lying on his side, great holes now were bigger than the rabbit himself—or what was left of him. In fact, he was hard to recognize now. No one could have been sure that he had been a rabbit.

And before very much longer the rabbit was all gone.

"Not only," said Maggie, "the most handsome chocolate rabbit I ever have seen in all my life, but the most delicious chocolate rabbit, too; oh, yes, the most delicious chocolate rabbit possible."

SMART NEW COAT-DRESSES; SUMMER AFTERNOON FROCKS

A COAT and a coat-dress present themselves together in the picture herewith for the consideration of those who need something in an outer garment for spring wear. In northern climates a separate coat is almost indispensable, but for moderately cool weather the coat-dress has claims for consideration. There is economy in garments that serve a double purpose. A coat in the new mode, that is, simplified in style and having a rich and colorful embellishment of oriental

The KITCHEN CABINET

Don't think people judge your generosity by the amount of advice you give away.

ORANGE WAYS

One or more oranges a day will keep the average individual in good health. Strained orange juice is an invaluable tonic, and may be given a three-months-old baby, if given between feedings. Orange juice is rich in vitamins, the growth-producing food principle.

A delicious pie is prepared by filling a baked shell with oranges cut in small pieces and mixed with sugar; cover with a meringue and brown quickly in a hot oven. Serve cold. As a simple salad there is no more appealing one than sliced oranges with a French dressing. Cover the fruit with boiling water and let stand ten minutes, then drain and cover with cold water ten minutes. The peel will then come off easily, leaving the fruit free from the white inner peel. Slice in rounds; arrange in overlapping slices on lettuce with French dressing. Use three tablespoonsful of oil with one of lemon juice, salt and cayenne and a teaspoonful of powdered sugar. Beat well with an egg-beater to blend the ingredients; chill and serve. Nobody will refuse a dish of plain sliced oranges, sprinkled lightly with sugar; accompany with cake or cookies as a dessert.

Ambrosia, an old-fashioned dish, is sliced oranges, sprinkled in layers with sugar and grated coconut. Served in a glass dish, it is both attractive and tasty. In serving oranges in any baked mixture, like custard or fruit puddings, the fruit is apt to become bitter because of overripening. The fruit is best served very lightly heated or perfectly fresh. Orange shortcake is a great favorite. Prepare a rich biscuit dough, bake in layers or butter one layer and lay on another before baking, then split, butter well and heap up with cut-up oranges mixed to coarseness with sugar, allowing the juice to sink into the cake. Serve at once while the shortcake is hot. Grated orange rind makes delicious flavoring for cakes, frostings and sauces; the juice used with powdered sugar a most dainty icing for cakes, and the juice and rind a delightful pudding sauce for a dainty cottage pudding.

A small glass of unstrained orange juice is a good drink for the aged, refreshing and quite as valuable for the aged as for the small baby. The orange juice acts on the bowels and keeps them in healthy activity. Cease to lament for that thou canst not help. And shall I help for that, that thou lamentest—Shakespeare.

MORE GOOD THINGS

When a roast or leftover cold meat is to be served for another meal, serve with: Curry Sauce.—Melt two tablespoonsful of butter and drop into it a sliced onion; let fry until brown, then stir in a tablespoonful of flour and one of curry powder. Mix well, let cook until smooth and add three-quarters of a pint of any clear soup. Bring to the boiling point, add a sliced tomato, season well; simmer for twenty minutes, then strain and serve hot.

Cinnamon Apples.—These apples are very pretty to look at and good to eat. Core and pare greening apples and hold in the following sirup until soft: One cupful of sugar, one cupful of water boiled together five minutes, add a half cupful of cinnamon candies (called in some places "red hots"), let stand in the sirup until the apples are a good color. These are especially good for a dinner, serving one with a slice of baked ham on the dinner plate.

Raisin and Buttermilk Bread.—Take four cupfuls of flour, three tablespoonfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of soda, five tablespoonfuls of shortening, two eggs, two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar, one cupful of seedless raisins and buttermilk to make a soft batter. Mix, roll out and bake in four pieces in greased pans in a hot oven for twenty-five minutes.

Raisin Macaroons.—Take two cupfuls of toasted cornflakes, one cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of vanilla, two egg whites and one cupful of seedless raisins. Beat the egg whites until stiff, add the sugar gradually; then the flakes, vanilla and raisins. A dash of salt and a few chopped nuts improve them. Bake on greased sheets, dropping from a teaspoon. This recipe makes thirty macaroons.

Cheese With Olives.—Put one-quarter of a pound of Roquefort and one-quarter of a pound of cottage cheese into a bowl, moisten with cream or condensed milk and mix well. Chop one small bottle of stuffed olives, add salt, pepper and a few drops of onion juice. Mix well and use as a cheese dish or as filling for sandwiches.

Stale cake, cookies or lady fingers may be used to line the molds for gelatin pudding. Once Fertile Lands Now Deserts. Northern Africa, especially about Carthage, Tunis and Cyrene at one time supported a population of many millions more than now occupy these lands. The valleys of the Euphrates and Tigris were fertile lands and supported empires. Egypt had a dense population and the cultivation was intensive.

Canada Offers "Last Chance" for Virgin Farms

THINK of what you could produce on a farm of virgin fertility, without the burden of high-acreage cost. Think of what 20-40 bushel wheat would mean to you under these conditions, and of dairying and stock raising on cheap pasture land. Land pays for itself in a few crops—no artificial fertilizer—no heavy investment. You have envied the farmer who got his start when land was cheap. Here's your chance, perhaps your last chance, for the same brand of prosperity.

Western Canada—Your Opportunity!

Western Canada is the farmer's land of opportunity. Thousands of settlers who started not many years ago with little or nothing, are today the owners of fine farms, with comfortable homes and barns, their stock, dairy herds—all the marks of prosperity. Yet land is not dear—only $15 to $20 an acre for rich virgin, prairie convenient to railways. Land is not dear in Western Canada—yet because there is so much of it. But many settlers are expected in 1923, and now is your opportunity, before the best farms are taken. Get started. Taxes are reduced, not raised, on land brought under cultivation. On farm buildings, improvements, machinery, personal effects, automobile, etc., there is no tax at all. Canada wants workers—It wants its land farmed—and the farmer, through their municipal councils, have practical control of all local taxation.

Special Renter's Plan—Buy Out of Profits

To aid and encourage the honest worker with perhaps little capital, the Canadian Government has a "Renter's Plan" whereby one may work a new or improved farm—"Try it out" for several years if desired—and buy a farm of his own out of profits.

Thirty-Two Years to Pay

For the benefit of those wishing to buy land a national non-profit sharing organization—the Canada Colonization Association—has been established, with head office at Winnipeg, and United States office at St. Paul. This Association offers selected land convenient to railways—much of it at $15 to $20 per acre—on very small cash payment; no further payment until third year; balance extended over thirty years, but purchaser may pay up and obtain title at any time, if desired. Interest six per cent.

SECRETS OF HEALTH

Headaches are in the majority of cases, caused from Eye Strain. Normal eyes use 15 per cent of the vital energy generated by the human system—Strained eyes must use more. Daily they rob some other vital organ of its share—but not without protest—for headaches and "symptoms" are but nature's warning of abuse. LOOK WELL TO YOUR EYES.

WHAT BREED TO CHOOSE

What kind of chickens are you going to raise? You may say you "just want eggs". That is good so far, but the time soon comes to the man who starts out just to get eggs that he will wish he would sell some of his surplus good layers. Then he finds out that then get eggs on chicks from that variety. Then you may be able to build up a flock which will lay and at the same time produce some birds wanted by other people.

What makes a distinct breed? Just feathers? To be sure you must give some attention to shape and type, as all breeds have certain shaped bodies carried in just a definite angle and position according to the standard of perfection issued by the American Poultry Association. The classification of poultry is as follows:

Class 1—American Bantam, White Buff, Silver Partridge, Partridge and Columbian, Plymouth Rocks, Silver, Golden, White, Buff, Black, Partridge, Silver Pencilled, and Columbian Wyandottes, Single and Rose Comb Rhode Island Reds.

Class 2—Africans, Light and dark Drumhens, Buff, White, Partridge and Black Cochins, Black and White Langshans.

Class 3—Eagles, Buff, Black, White and Blue Orpingtons, Red and Spotted Sussex.

Class 4—Mediterranean, Brown, White, and Buff Leghorns, Black Minorcas and Anconas.

Class 5—Ornamental Bantams, Golden and Silver Seabrights, White and Black, Bantam Game, White Bantam, Light and Dark Brahma, Buff, Partridge, White and Black Cochins.

So it is that the start you get this spring is of most vital importance; select one of the popular varieties which suits your individual taste. First of all we must know for what purpose we wish to subject the breed we select; if you wish eggs, and aren't very particular about meat qualities the so-called Mediterranean breeds will just about suit your purpose. The most popular among them are: White, Brown and Buff, Leghorns, Anconas and Minorcas following in popularity in order just named, in each of these varieties we have both the single and rose combs, but in every case the single combs are the most popular; consequently if you wish to make the most money of the breed you choose, select the most popular varieties. This class of birds all lay large white eggs with a large comb and wattles and feathering that fits close to the body; they are non-setters.

American Class. Here we have the farmers' most popular variety of chickens they produce a large number of brown eggs in the very months of the year when eggs are bringing top notch prices. They are of medium weight with a good yellow skin to cover a carcass fit for a king. They are docile, stand confinement well which makes them very popular with the town lot poultry keeper. They have a small comb and wattles; they are a bit inclined to go broody, but most good strains have it pretty nearly bred out of them. The surplus cockerills make good capons which is well worth considering in these times when our turkeys are so rapidly decreasing, people want their Thanksgiving feast and capons make a very good substitute for turkey.

We all have a chance to improve past results and get a better start than has been possible before. One of the best ways to get a good start is to take a poultry journal and read the ads and get the literature of as many breeders as you wish.

MARCH HUMANE THOUGHT

There is a close relation between cruelty to animals and public health. Too often this phase of human work has been over-looked, and kindness to animals has been thought of only as a matter of sentiment. But a few illustrations will prove the truth of the assertion herein made.

Where food animals are housed in unclean quarters or are fed putrid and unwholesome food, their flesh will often become contaminated with disease germs and tuberculosis.

Household pets which are neglected and underfed will seek food in unclean places and will return disease-laden and contagious thereby the health of the entire household.

Where cows are worried, frightened, chased, their milk will be poisonous to the human body. No doubt, we occasionally drink this kind of milk, and then wonder why we are made sick.

Again, where live-stock is beaten, blood clots form on the flesh where animals are struck. Such affected parts then become unfit for food and must be destroyed. The carcasses so resulting therefrom runs into millions of dollars annually.

Even with fish this principle holds true. There are many members of the fish family whose flesh becomes poisonous for the human body where they have lived and suffered long after being caught. Among these are the blue-head, cat-fish, and eel. People eating them have been known to become violently ill where the fish had died a slow death.

There is never a violation without its penalty. If we cause suffering, we in return will suffer, also. For, "whatsoever a man sows, that shall he also reap."

HORSE FAMINE IS FEARED HORSE BREEDING ADVISED

Dr. A. S. Alexander, director of the Division of Horse Breeding of the Wisconsin Department of Agriculture, says this country is facing a serious shortage of good draft horses for farm work. He advises farmers to awaken to this fact and to resume the mating of first-class brood mares with the best available sires. Horse-breeding has fallen off alarmingly in Wisconsin and in the ten states which produce approximately two-thirds of the horses and mules of the country.

WHO PAYS THE FIRE BILL?

Fire means destruction and waste always and often death and injury; yet the general public heeds it not. "Was the property insured?" is the public's stereotype question. This clearly implies the fallacy, that fire in insured property is not a waste, and that insurance companies pay for the loss.

Insurance is the basis of credit, and credit the basis of business so insurance is a business necessity; but it has led to public indifference concerning the alarming annual fire waste and this because the public does not fully understand the insurance business.

Insurance companies are not alchemists making gold out of base metals, nor philanthropists paying losses out of private funds. Annually they collect from the people millions in insurance premiums. These moneys must pay for three things; the expenses of conducting the insurance business, dividends on the stock invested in the business, and all the fire losses.

BWARE OF BOGUS SEEDS WARNS COLLEGE EXPERT

At this time of the year farmers are studying seed catalogs with the hope of finding varieties such as "straggler lifters," "bonanza oats," granary fillers" and the like to replace the unsatisfactory varieties they have been growing.

Farmers should not spend their money foolishly by paying exorbitant prices for seed grains which are not as good as the standard pedigree varieties bred by the Wisconsin Experiment Station for different soils of the state. This is the advice of B. D. Leith who is in charge of plant breeding work at the Wisconsin experiment station farm.

Every new variety is tested out on the station farm and if any have better qualities than those recommended, farmers will get the benefit. So far the best varieties are being grown by members of the experiment association and any better varieties will be distributed among farmers as soon as they have been tried out at the Station Farm. Practically all seed companies handle the Wisconsin pure bred corn and pedigree seed grains.

HOLSTEIN BREEDERS GATHER

The winter meeting of the Washington County Holstein Breeders' association was held in the hall of the West Bend Commercial club last Saturday afternoon and it was a success even though farmers were handicapped in reaching the city because of badly drifted roads. The meeting proper was preceded by a dinner, served by the members of the Girls' club, and this was a pleasing number of the programme. Vocal solos by Mortimer Buckley were given and these pleased all who had the good fortune to hear them. The meeting proper was opened by Mr. Bartlett, president of the Wisconsin Bankers' association, who gave a short yet interesting talk. The address of the day one which enthused all who heard it, was given by Attorney John M. Kelley of Baraboo. His address was easily the best ever given in West Bend and will linger long in the memory of all who heard it. Mr. Kelley gave an instructive talk, speaking on various subjects of interest to the members of the association and to all others present. During the meeting the president was instructed to appoint a committee which shall take up the matter of changing the date of the winter meeting from March to January. It was also voted to cause a billboard, 10 x 33 feet in size, to be erected at the juncture of highways 16 and 55, this billboard to advertise Holstein milk. The president was also instructed to name a committee to make arrangements for a pure-bred cattle sale to be held in May or June. All of the old officers of the association were re-elected—West Bend Pilot.

BANKERS TO USE RADIO TO CATCH BANK BANDITS

Another hazard has been added to the bank-robbing business in Wisconsin. The state department of markets has made arrangements with the Wisconsin Bankers' association for immediate broadcasting of news of bank robberies attempted or effected anywhere in the state.
