THE BROWN MOUSE

By HERBERT QUICK

(Copyright by The Robb-Merrill Company)

MARY HUMPH!

That was the last time that I saw the brown mouse...

It was a great teacher. He was a great teacher...

CHAPTER I

A Maiden's "Humph!"

It was the first day of school. The schoolhouse was...

Jim Irwin pulled them up at the end of the turnpike...

Jim smiled his habitual slow, gentle smile at Newton...

"What sort of job?" asked Jim. "They're nominating you for teacher," replied Newton.

Very few people know that cheap literature is very likely to be good...

Bob's Selection of Best Men Naturally Created Misgivings in Mind of Bride-to-Be.

"No," Jim answered, "it can't be done. There ought to be such conditions that a teacher could make a living."

"That's a fine teaching in the country ought to be able to marry."

"Good night," said Jim, simply because he could not trust himself to say more.

Jim Irwin was bony and rugged and homely, with a big mouth, and wide ears, and a form stooped with labor.

"He thinks we're bullheaded mules and that all the schools are bad."

Small wonder she had balked.

Over to Gladys with the expected letter from Mary.

was a failure. His family history was a legend of failure. People despised a man who was so meagrely smarter than they, and yet could do no better with himself than to work in the fields alongside the tramps and transients and hoboes.

All this degraded—or exalted—him to the position of an intellectual farm-hand, with a sense of superiority and a feeling of degradation.

Irwin pulled them up at the end of the turnpike across Bronson's Slew—a great marsh which annually offered the men of the Woodruff district the opportunity to hold the male equivalent of a sewing circle while working out their road taxes.

Jim smiled his habitual slow, gentle smile at Newton Bronson, seventeen, under-sized, tobacco-stained, profane and proud of the fact that he had once beaten his way from Des Moines to Faribault on freight trains.

"What sort of job?" asked Jim. "They're nominating you for teacher," replied Newton.

Small wonder she had balked.

Over to Gladys with the expected letter from Mary.

Window, Minn.—"I was so run-down that I was just good for nothing. I was to become the mother of my ninth child, and I thought I did not have the strength to go through with it. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it has surely done all I could ask it to do and I am telling my friends about it. I have a nice big baby girl and am feeling fine. You may use this letter to help other sick mothers."—Mrs. C. A. MOEBE, Box 684, Window, Minn.

My First Child. Glen Allen, Alabama.—"I have been greatly benefited by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for bearing-down feelings and pains. I was troubled in this way for nearly four years following the birth of my first child, and at times could hardly stand on my feet. A neighbor recommended the Vegetable Compound to me after I had taken doctor's medicines without much benefit. It has relieved my pains and gives me strength. I recommend it and give you permission to use my testimonial letter."—Mrs. L. R. RYE, Glen Allen, Alabama.

Relieved of Catarrh Due to La Grippe

Thanks To PE-RU-NA

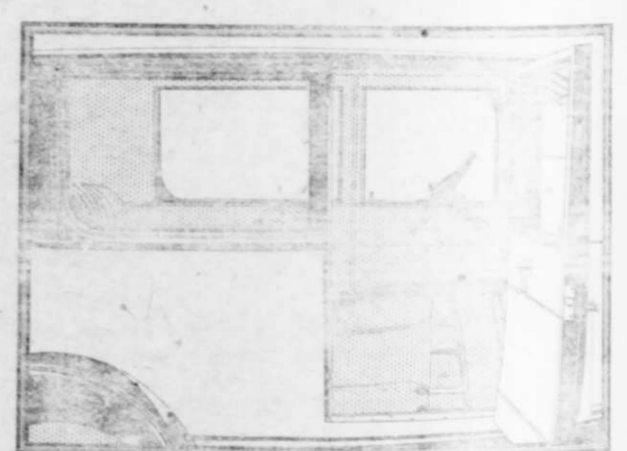

Mrs. Laura Berberick, over 70 years of age, 1205 Willow Ave., Hoboken, N. J., writes: "A severe attack of La Grippe left me with a hoarseness and slime in the head and throat. I had chronic catarrh. It grew worse. I could not lie down or sleep at night. I was always bothered by the slime, pain in the back and a terrible headache every morning.

Finally I bought a bottle of Pe-ru-na which was of great benefit. It gave me blood and strength. I have no pains in head or back, no noise in the head. The slime has gone and I can sleep. My weight has increased. I am cheerful and happy, thanks to Pe-ru-na, which I shall always keep in the house and recommend to my friends."

For every form of catarrh Pe-ru-na meets the need. Coughs, Colds, Nasal Catarrh, Indigestion, Bowel disorders are all forms of catarrh.

Buy it any where in tablet or liquid form.

A New General Motors Achievement

The public has long looked forward to the day when a six-cylinder automobile could be had in the low price field. Manufacturers, knowing that the six-cylinder principle is the most popular, have long aspired to produce a car to meet this insistent public demand.

The immense facilities and vast resources necessary for such a big task have made individual makers hesitate to attempt such a gigantic job as would be necessary to properly develop and finally produce, in volume, such an ideal car.

But the great General Motors Corporation, with its almost limitless resources in men and money, its big experimental and development engineering laboratories, its great purchasing power, and its many big manufacturing plants, has at last achieved what has long been recognized as the ideal car—a six at a low price.

The Olds Motor Works, the oldest manufacturer of motor vehicles on a commercial basis in the United States and one of the oldest Divisions of the General Motors group, was selected to produce this wonderful car. With its immense modern plant, and with a factory force long trained in the making of quality automobiles, the Olds Motor Works is the natural and logical choice.

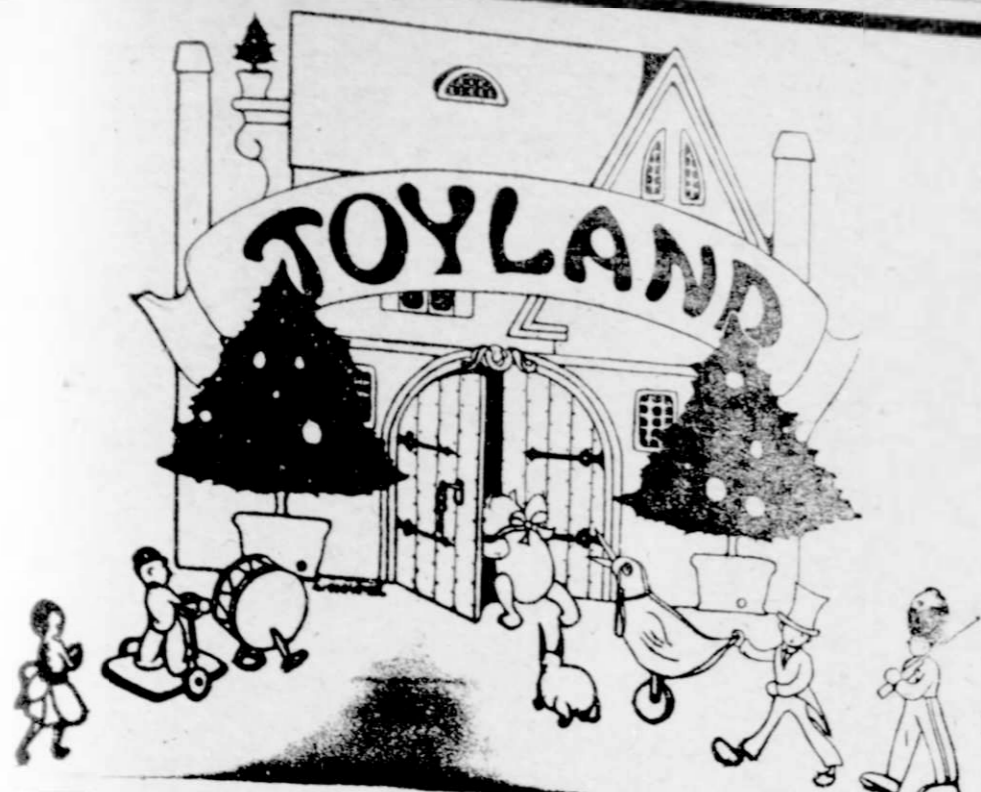

Never before in automobile history in this country has such an important and far reaching announcement been made. Never before has the American public been able to buy, in the low price field, a six-cylinder car, with its smoothness of operation, its flexibility its economy, its ease of handling and its low up-keep cost. Until now, six cylinders have meant relatively high initial cost. Now, in the Oldsmobile Six, all these things, plus Oldsmobile beauty and Oldsmobile quality, can be had at a price never before possible.

Presents Were at the Wrong Door

By CHRISTOPHER G HAZARD

Postman's Mistake Resulted in a Happy Christmas for the Peters Families

It was another household that was not so sunny as it should have been. A letter had come—but a bundle had failed to come. The letter a program of delight, the bundle a disappointment. Uncle Joshua had known their wants by a marvelous instinct, but where was the bundle? Alas! the other things were as nothing for the lack of it and Christmas morning dawned upon discontent.

But before the morning had quite disappeared Fred came rustling in with the news that he had seen that Peters boy in the next block with a sled bearing the same name as the one mentioned by Uncle Joshua. "I didn't know there was a Peters boy in the next block," said his mother. "I'll go down and see if they can tell us anything about our bundle."

They could, and the mystery was very easily solved by the explanation of the postman at the wrong door, making a very pardonable mistake. An explanation that led indeed to a redistribution of gifts and also to a discovery of relationships, for the Peters families found each other, as less than a block apart in family ties and friendships. A discovery that was the very best Christmas gift that they could have had and which led them to think that the wrong door was all right after all.

Detect Diarrhea in Young Chickens

Serum Agglutination Tests to Be Made at Illinois University.

The laboratory of animal pathology and hygiene of the University of Illinois is prepared to make a limited number of serum agglutination tests for the detection of white diarrhea in chicks, for owners of breeding stock. Upon request vials will be furnished for collecting blood samples, as well as test bands bearing numbers for the identification of the hens. A charge of five cents per sample will be made to cover in part the cost of making the test. Valuable assistance can be obtained from a competent veterinarian in collecting blood samples. University Agricultural Circular No. 273 describes the disease fully.

Bacillary white diarrhea is a specific, highly contagious disease of young chicks. It is one of the few diseases that may be transmitted directly through the egg to the offspring. The disease may also exist in mature stock, but it often remains unrecognized, since there are no visible characteristic symptoms, as in the case of chicks.

Symptoms of Infection.

Chicks infected through the egg manifest symptoms in a few hours after hatching. In the acute type of the disease affected chicks (three to twelve days old) are drooping and dejected in appearance. The feathers are ruffled, the wings droop and the chick sways back and forth when in a standing position.

Mildly infected chicks grow to maturity, and while they appear to be healthy, harbor an ovarian infection and eventually become active spreaders of the disease.

Control of Disease.

The control of bacillary white diarrhea depends on two factors: First, the detection of infected breeding hens by means of the serum agglutination test, and their removal from the flock; and second, the protection of newly hatched uninfected chicks against infection in incubators, brooders and pens.

Flocks free from the disease are needed to supply healthy breeding stock. Avoid purchasing eggs or brooding stock from infected flocks. Isolate all exposed or infected chicks. Destroy all dead chicks by burning. Intestinal antiseptics, including sour milk, may be regarded as palliative remedies, but should not be depended upon to prevent the development of the disease in infected flocks.

Incubators, brooders and houses should be cleaned and disinfected.

Hot lye water (one pound of lye to forty gallons of water) applied with a broom or brush will aid in cleaning. A 3 per cent compound cresol solution (U. S. P.) applied with a spray pump is a reliable disinfectant.

Big Mistake in Feeding Laying Hens Stimulants

It is a mistake to feed nostrums and stimulants to hens or pullets in an effort to increase the present egg production, for the simple reason that the feeding of such stimulants has a very detrimental effect upon the performance of the hens during the subsequent breeding season. Stimulation of laying fowls, as in the case of human beings, through the use of drugs or stimulants, can cause nothing else but the eventual breakdown of the physical being of the individual.

Cow Tester Weighs Milk of Animals Separately

When the tester for the investing association visits the farm of a member he weighs all feed and makes note of it in his book. At milking time he weighs the milk of each cow separately and takes a sample of it for testing. He does this both evening and morning. The following morning he takes these samples, calculates the production for the month, enters it in a book which is left with the farmer and then he is ready to move on to the next place at noon.

Necessary for Ducks to Have Water for Drinking

It was formerly considered necessary to have a swimming pool or pond for ducks, but they can be raised profitably without it. The eggs are more likely to be fertile, however, if given plenty of water and water to swim in. Ducks really do drink more water than hens, and require a deep pan or fountain placed near their feed so that they can run to it every little while and drink or wash their bill.

Legumes on Acid Fields Are Helped by Limestone

Finding that the fields in which they desired to plant legumes had acid soil, some 48,000 farmers in 1922 followed the recommendation of their county agents to apply lime on these fields. They used for this purpose, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture, about 627,000 tons of lime or limestone.

Comparison of Feeds for Milk Production

Result of Trials Made by Iowa Agricultural College.

A summary on "A Comparison of Roughages for Milk Production," published by the Iowa State College of Agriculture, has the following summary:

1. The trials reported appear to indicate that:
2. The use of corn fodder instead of corn silage reduces milk production six per cent and fat production three per cent.
3. When the value of dry matter in silage was worth 65 cents per 100 pounds that in corn fodder was worth 32 1/2 cents.
4. With silage valued at $4.50 per ton, an acre of corn yielding eight tons of green feed and converted into silage will yield $36 worth of feed, whereas, if converted into fodder the value of the crop will be reduced to $16.21 per acre.
5. When timothy hay is used to replace alfalfa hay in a good dairy ration the production of milk and butter-fat is reduced seven per cent.
6. With alfalfa hay at $15 per ton timothy hay is worth 86 cents per ton for feeding producing cows.
7. When corn fodder and timothy hay are introduced in a ration in place of corn silage and alfalfa hay there is a decrease of 15 per cent in milk and 14 per cent in fat production.
8. When the two poor roughages, corn fodder and timothy hay, are fed together, this combination gives to them a slightly higher value individually than where one is fed with a good roughage, but good production or economical returns from the feeds cannot be obtained.
9. Corn silage and a legume hay (alfalfa) are the best roughages for dairy cattle, while corn fodder and timothy hay are poor.
10. If the corn crop is all to be fed to the cows it should be put in the silo. On the dairy farm hays such as timothy should be sold and legume hays purchased in their stead.

Pig-Club Boy Develops Herd of Excellent Hogs

About eight years ago a farm boy in a remote section of Iowa county, N. C., joined a pig club which the county agricultural extension agent was organizing, and, as pig club members do under the guidance of the county agent, he fed and cared for a pig in this case a Poland China pig. During the next year the county lost its extension agent. Recently when a new agent came to the county and visited this section he found, according to reports to the United States Department of Agriculture, that the club member, J. E. Morgan, now grown and on his own farm, had kept up his club practices, had developed a herd of Poland China hogs of excellent type, and is regarded as the best hog grower in his community.

Heavy Grain Feeds for Pullets Gaining Favor

Heavy grain feeding for pullets is gaining favor among poultrymen each year. Some of the most successful demonstration farms kept grain in front of the pullets during most of the past winter. At least four points of gain to every pound of mash should be fed during the fall and winter months. This matter of heavy grain feeding is of real importance and should not be overlooked.

Clean Up Droppings of Flock in Winter Months

The droppings of the flock should be cleaned up regularly, especially throughout the winter months while the birds are housed together without free range. Many diseases are spread from bird to bird by means of infective droppings of a sick fowl. Against all such risks, the successful poultryman defends his flock when he cleans up and uses powdered, air-shaken lime.

Weeds and Insects Are Big Drawbacks to Crops

Weeds and insects are the greatest drawback to large acreage yields. Weeds deprive the soil of the material content necessary for the development of the cultivated plants. Clean cultivation is necessary to give the crop the benefit of the soluble nutrient material of the soil fall and winter; deep plowing will also assist in preventing damage by insects.

New Iowa Legume Being Shoved Into Limelight

Eaton, the new legume food growing near Logan, Iowa, a few years ago, is being shoved right on into the limelight by H. D. Hughes, of Iowa experiment station. Hughes is the man who trotted out Hubam, the annual sweet clover, a few years ago. This crop has pleased the bee folk more than any other class, for Hubam is a great pasture crop for bees.

Flashlight Egg Tester Is Quite Handy Device

Telling when an egg is bad by a pocket flashlight is easily done by putting the egg in a cardboard holder rolled like a funnel, the small end containing the bulb of the flashlight. A pressure of the button and the light is thrown up through the funnel and through the egg, which will thoroughly show the condition of its contents.

Water Fowls Seldom Sick

Ducks and geese are seldom sick, or have contagious diseases, but when one does appear seriously ill, it is best to kill it and burn the carcass.

Scratch Up Profit.

A flock of hens will scratch up more profit on less land than a team and plow on many acres.

Ducks Need Fresh Air.

Ducks, young and old, must have lots of air and will not thrive in close, poorly ventilated quarters.

Things to Give for Christmas

Fancy Needlework.

Everybody goes about the ordinary business of life, in plain dresses of dark woolen cloth, that depend upon collar and cuff sets to lend them variety and a dainty flavor. Therefore these sets are among the most accepted gifts of Christmas gifts. An endless variety of embroideries in white or in bright colors, comes by the yard in straight or curved sections. One has only to stretch these sections to bands of lawn, to make a set like that pictured. Other sets are made of net, lace and sheer fabrics—the last finished with needlework in embroidery or fancy stitches.

Lace Dance Hats.

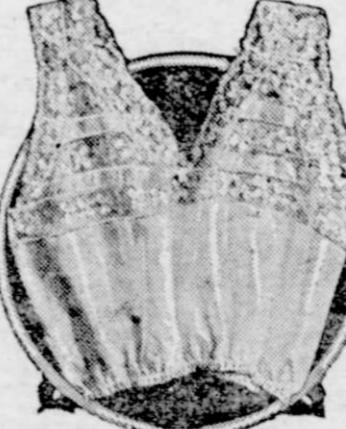

Gold or silver lace and a bit of gay chiffon or net will serve to make the pretty dance cap, with soft crown and up-rolling brim, as shown here. Tiny flowers at the front and a ribbon sash adorn it. The brim is supported by two tiny wires.

For Housewives.

Housewives will appreciate holders for handling hot dishes and kitchen utensils. They are simply squares made of bright cotton, padded with a woolen cloth. A container for them is provided with a hanger, so that they can be hung up near the kitchen stove.

Dainty Lingerie.

Among the prettiest gifts that women can make for one another are cuff bands of wash silk, lace and ribbons. Some of them have ribbon straps over the shoulders; others are shaped like the one pictured here, which shows alternating rows of insertion and ribbon finished with lace edging.

Screen for Telephone.

Either men or women friends will appreciate a pretty telephone screen for a gift. Here is one with a foundation of cardboard, covered with satin and ornamented with triangles of tapestry or figured ribbon, finished with gold braid. The reverse side is lined with plain silk.

PRISON SHAPED LIKE EAR

Tyrant of Syracuse Constructed Cave So That He Could Hear Conversations of Suspects.

The ear of Dionysius was the name given to a celebrated cavern near Syracuse in Sicily, said to have been constructed by Dionysius the Elder, tyrant of Syracuse, and used by him as a prison for suspected persons. This cave was 250 feet long and 80 feet high. It was fashioned in the shape of a human ear, and was so constructed that the faintest sounds were conveyed from all parts to a central chamber, corresponding to the tympanum or drum of the ear. There this tyrant secreted himself, sometimes it is said, for days, and listened to the conversations of the unfortunates imprisoned within.

The workmen who built the dungeon were put to death to prevent them from divulging the use to which it was put. A whisper at one end could be distinctly heard at the other, by putting one's ear close to the rock, while the tearing of paper sounded like a series of explosions.—Detroit News.

Most Attractive.

Two business men were having a confab when a third appeared on the scene of action. "I say, Bill, settle this argument, will you?" "What's the row?" "Should a man use perfumery of any sort?" "Well, a trace of gasoline is permissible."

What We See in Other.

That which we see in others we unconsciously bring to the light even if the artist brings to the light what he sees in the block of marble.

What's the Verdict?

THE test of a mealtime drink is not alone how it tastes, but also what it does. Many a coffee-user finds wakefulness and restlessness after drinking coffee with the evening meal—and other health disturbances follow on.

There's double pleasure and benefit in Postum; delightful taste, complete satisfaction, and agreeable friendship with nerves and health.

There's charm without harm in Postum. Let a ten-days' trial of Postum instead of coffee show you the marked improvement in health and comfort which so many others have found.

Restrictions of Pribelans. Roman commoners were called Pribelans and were originally forbidden political rights. They were for the most part poor, and not allowed to intermarry with the Patricians. They served in the army without pay, were sold into slavery for debt, and could even be cut in pieces for distribution among their creditors. Finding their conditions intolerable, the Pribelans in 495 B. C. repaired to Mons Sacer, near Rome, where they resolved to build a new city; but this step so alarmed the privileged classes that they granted to the Pribelans the right of choosing annually from their own number two magistrates, called tribunes, with power to protect them against aggression of the Patricians. After the lapse of about 200 years the disabilities of the Pribelans were almost entirely removed.

Not His Fault. Private Banks had been the most bashful and retiring little man in the army. When women visited the camp he had always fled for shelter and stayed there until after they had left. So it came as a surprise when one of his former companions ran across him in civilian garb and was introduced to a large husky girl as Mrs. Banks. When he was able to get Banks aside he asked him how he had met his wife.

"Well," returned the little man meekly, "it was this way: I never did exactly meet her. She just kinder overtook me."

Best He Could Do. At many large offices, there is a man in a blue establishment a man who is supposed to be the telephone. He will not take any message that comes from the members of the firm. One of the partners was puzzled by a message on the slate, and, calling the attendant, he said:

"What, what on earth is that? I can't read a word of it. What is the end of this stuff on the slate?"

"Well," said Stufkins apologetically, "the wire was so indistinct."

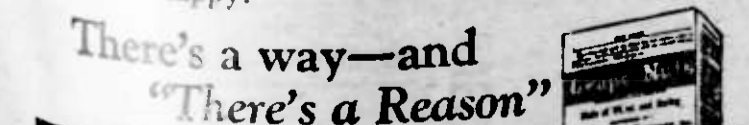

The Winter Breakfast

which includes Grape-Nuts with cream or good milk, will have one dish that has both engaging flavor and true nourishment.

Grape-Nuts is more than "something good to eat." It is a building food in most digestible form; rich in proteins, carbohydrates, mineral elements and vitamin B—all vitally essential to the daily rebuilding of every part of the body.

It pays to keep oneself in the highest physical condition, for with the strength and vigor that go with health you can "do things" and be happy.

PRETTY MODISH TRINKETS; KNITTED SPORT JACKETS

THE fad for costume or semi-prestigious jewelry is at its height, and change her mind. Earrings, instead of fading from our view, grow longer and more complex, neck chains increase in importance as they emphasize the long waistline and add outlined by the costume. Bracelets, worn with ornate jewelry, are as to numbers, and sparkles on the arm, even with the most sedate and unobtrusive of day dresses. These are all precious in the sense that they add telling touches to the or, as far as that is concerned, any heat at all; so clothing that combines light weight, warmth and practicality has been an invention of necessity. Americans have been quick to adapt these sport clothes to their own needs and, as every year adds thousands of new women devotees to outdoor sports, the demand for knitted garments has grown by leaps and bounds. American designers have been equally quick to realize the possibilities of knitted materials, from a style standpoint, and their genius has been responsible for the greater part of the smart knitted costumes which have become so familiar on the golf links, in the fields and on motor roads. Knitted jackets now have a place in nearly every woman's wardrobe. These choker lengths and the long strands. The cut crystals, in any color, make an exquisite gift and are fashionable. Clear white, dark amber and amethyst are greatly admired. The clear beads are strung with black rounds, usually, and the colored ones with white. Onyx and rhinestones make many dainty and brilliant pieces, especially attractive on gray or white-haired women. Dark amber is just now in universal demand, harmonizing with all the autumn shades of brown, Titian and henna.

In earrings there is the greatest diversity of design, and they must be selected to suit the face and add the right color note. Jet, pearl and silver in a quaint pattern, like that shown in the picture, make a combination that goes with everything. Where the dress goes with everything, as gray or beige, is a neutral color, as gray or beige.

Hip-Length Coats. Simple suits have hip-length coats, in one line with their short, narrow skirts. More elaborate ones are apt to have perfectly straight three-quarter coats, or three-quarter coats that flare over dresses with some fullness in the skirts. In the straight models, the effect of a ruffle below the coat edge. The combination of coat and frock is more popular than ever, and frock is more popular than ever, even for evening. Sleeves are not particularly noteworthy, and the bateau neckline is still a favorite.

Motifs Done in Beads. Pink in all its most delicate tones is making its appearance in evening gowns designed for matrons as well as debutantes and it is given sophisticated distinction by clever touches of black or intricate motifs done in beads or crystals.

For the Bridal Gown. Several of the bridal gowns at large weddings recently have had very long sleeves. These were of chiffon of lace, tightly molded to the arm.

Good and Bad. "Want a man to pick apples?" The farmer gave him a job. But the new helper heaped good fruit, bad fruit and indifferent fruit together indiscriminately. So, after he had emptied a basket or two the farmer asked in some disgust: "Did you ever try to pick anything before?" "Race horses."

Over His Head. "What are these?" asked the super-stitious peasant. "Mental tests for our third grade," answered the lady assistant brightly. He gazed at them so long and so solemnly that she ventured to ask: "Do you disapprove?" "No, I don't disapprove, but I couldn't pass."

Moral Character Governs. It is not money, nor is it mere intellect that governs the world—it is moral character—it is intellect associated with moral excellence.

"Silence is golden" is popular among those who can't talk.
