SEVEN INDICTED BY GRAND JURY

The Washington County Grand Jury, which was in session yesterday, last week at West Bend, indicted seven more persons at its last session, making a total of fifteen indictments by that jury. The work of the jury was practically finished last Friday morning and the grand jury adjourned at 10 a. m., March 17. He also ordered the grand jury to remain in session for the October term of court. All of the indicted persons with the exception of Geo. Groeschel appeared Monday morning and were bound over to the October term of the circuit court, under a bail of $500.00 on each count.

The indictments were as follows: Aug. F. Schauer, malfeasance in office. He being an officer and stockholder of the Roemer Hardware and Implement Co., that company in Nov. 1921 sold to the county 85 feet of 30-inch culvert piping for $325.25.

Aug. F. Schauer, malfeasance in office. In Nov. 1921 the Roemer Hardware and Implement Co., in which Mr. Schauer is interested, sold to the county 44 feet of 18-inch culvert piping.

Aug. F. Schauer, bribery. In October 1923, Schauer and Mike Wiser, a contractor of Neosho, agreed that if the former would manage to get the contract for Washington county's machine shed for Wiser, the latter would have to buy his hardware for the building from the Roemer Hardware Co. of Hartford.

Aug. F. Schauer, bribery. In April 1922, an agreement was reached between Schauer and Cornelius Koch, a concrete contractor of Hartford, that if Schauer would manage to get certain culvert and bridge building jobs said Koch would pay his account at the Roemer Hardware and Implement Co. and at the same time purchase 57 gallons of auto oil for $48.15 from the Roemer Hardware and Implement Co. of Hartford.

Aug. F. Schauer, Carl Pick, Aug. Schnurr, L. W. Frey and Alfred B. Froehlich, conspiracy. When bids were opened by the county in April 1921, for cement to be used for paving highway No. 26, the bid of the Froehlich Mercantile Co. was 5 cents per barrel higher than that of other bidders. A rider was attached to the Froehlich bid as follows: "Agree to handle trucks, and return freight prepaid, back to factory per A. B. F." A further charge is reported that these five men refused to take steps to collect the county money due for returned sacks on which the county lost $246.62.

Carl Pick, L. W. Frey, A. F. Schauer, Aug. Schnurr and Alfred B. Froehlich, malfeasance in office. The aforesaid members of the road and bridge committee, did audit, allow and apply for a bill for $200.00 for the cost of a barn house for $200.00.

Carl Pick, L. W. Frey, A. F. Schauer and Alfred B. Froehlich, malfeasance in office. The above named audited, allowed and approved the bill of the Carl Pick Co., of West Bend for $330.00.

L. W. Frey, embezzlement. In October, 1921, Frey appropriated 66 yards of washed gravel and sand, valued at $66.66 for his personal use.

Carl Pick, forgery. In 1921, Carl Pick, who was a member of the road and bridge committee, changed the minutes of a meeting so that instead of bills 1922 to 1923 being audited as in the original minutes the audited bills read 1922 to 1925.

Carl Pick, malfeasance in office. Pick was a silent partner of F. C. Schultz of West Bend in the getting of a contract for paving the road from Eder's corner to Oak street. The county paid for part of this, the grand jury now fit to charge Pick with malfeasance in office for receiving part of the money when Schultz sold the contract to the Schaefer Thompson Company.

Geo. M. Gross, H. D. Beebe, A. F. Schauer, Carl Pick, Alfred B. Froehlich and L. W. Frey, conspiracy. The charges in this case are that on or about March 16, 1922, there were two bids over that of Gross, but the representatives of the Gross Construction Co., Gross and Beebe, argued in case and the members voted to give the contract to Gross, after Geo. M. Gross, Atty. Gen. Sawyer, of Hartford, Atty. John M. Barney of Milwaukee, Atty. W. H. Bennett of Milwaukee, Dist. Atty. Hy. P. Schmidt and Circuit Judge C. M. Davison, Judge A. C. Backus of Milwaukee in a letter spoke in warm terms of the defendant.

RUSSIAN FARMER UNDER ARREST

Sheriff Fred W. Schlaak of Fond du Lac and Deputy Oscar Weiss arrested a moon-crazed Russian peasant farmer in the town of Osceola Tuesday afternoon, namely Charles Joknis, who has been a resident of the town of Osceola for the past seven years. He was taken to Fond du Lac and placed in the county jail. Complaints had been received by the sheriff that Joknis had been terrorizing and threatening his wife and neighbors, which resulted in the arrest of the man.

The journey from Campbellport by the officers to the Joknis farm located in one of the most remote parts of Fond du Lac county was made by sleigh. The officers drove to Vauclousa and Dundee and then in a northeasterly direction to the Sheboygan county line. The distance traveled was about 25 miles over roads entirely impassable for a car.

When the officers arrived at the Joknis farm, they found a jug containing half a gallon of moonshine and a half pint of kimmel. The moonshine, according to the sheriff's hydrometer tested 90 proof and contained 45 per cent alcohol. The kimmel was 86 proof and contained 43 per cent alcohol. No still or ingredients for the manufacture of liquor were found on the premises.

When Joknis was told he had to go with the Sheriff to jail, he declared he would not go and put up a fight. As a result of the struggle the skin on the sheriff's hand was cut open in a number of places. When finally subdued he was placed on the sleigh and taken to Campbellport, from where he was brought to Fond du Lac via train. On Wednesday morning Joknis was in no shape to appear in court for arraignment. Joknis is a man 45 years old, weighs about 210 pounds and is possessed of enormous strength.

BREATH TAKING COLORFUL FILM AT THE OPEPA HOUSE Those who go to the Opera House Sunday evening, March 23, will look at the view from the top of Telegraph Hill, one of the famous scenic spots of San Francisco. They will stand where Jack London stood when planning his stories that opened the Golden Gate to the fascination of the world. They will overlook the best and the worst of San Francisco as it was in April, 1906, and listen to the dirge in the Song of the Cities.

Lon Chaney is the star of "The Shock", a Universal-Jewel story at the movies Sunday evening, of a man with a twisted soul and a crippled body, who loved and lived in the reckless rendezvous of romance, that was named for a saint and harbored sinners from the eads of the world. Behind the vivid drama of "The Shock", San Francisco stretches as a background of romance and adventure. As murky as the fog that hangs over Alcatraz; as colorful as the sunlight that dances on the bay.

William Dudley Pelley wrote "The Shock" and Chaney has wanted to play the role of "Wise Kid" ever since "The Miracle Man" established him as the screen's greatest character star. He did "The Penalty" and "The Trap," however, before he was given his desire at Universal City and assigned to the masterful starring role of "The Shock".

The production moves swiftly to the breath-snatching climax which comes as a living, vital reproduction of the San Francisco earthquake. Lambert Hillier directed the story from the adaptation of Charles Kenyon. Virginia Valli shares starring honors with the star. She still is recalled for her excellent work in "The Storm" in which she co-starred with House Peters and Marj Storr. As a result of her work in "The Storm" and in the present production, she has won a firm place in the hearts and world of filmfans.

Big Liners Use 5,000 Tons of Water on Trip

Few people would care to pay for a liner's drink for one voyage across the Atlantic, even in water at a penny per gallon. Very little change would be given out of a 5,000 note.

One of the big Atlantic liners has to carry about 5,000 tons of fresh water for all purposes for a single voyage from Southampton to New York. This tonnage alone is about two and a half times the weight of Nelson's old flagship H. M. S. Victory, says London Times.

A passenger on one of these liner-thous uses for drinking and domestic purposes about five gallons a day on the voyage. And as the ships average 8,000 passengers and crew, it means they have to carry, roughly, a week's water supply for a small country town in tanks, neatly stowed away along the sides of the ship.

But it is the giant boilers that have the greatest thirst. On one voyage the liner's engines used over 3,000 tons of water, or, at ten pounds to the gallon, roughly, 672,000 gallons.—London Times.

Why Pay the Penalty of Lying Awake?

MANY people spend hours at night, restlessly tossing from side to side, waiting for sleep. All because they drink coffee with their evening meal.

If the caffeine in coffee irritates your nervous system and keeps you awake when you should be asleep, recuperating your energies, why not stop coffee and drink Postum?

Postum is a pure cereal beverage, absolutely free from caffeine or anything that can disturb health and comfort. Many prefer Postum for its delightful aroma and flavor.

If you want to know the truth, change to Postum for a month or so, and see how much better you will sleep and feel.

Postum for Health

"There's a Reason"

Your grocer sells Postum in two forms: Instant Postum (in tins) prepared instantly in the cup by the addition of boiling water. Postum Cereal (in packages) for those who prefer the flavor brought out by boiling fully 20 minutes. The cost of either form is about one-half cent a cup.

Tentative Grades for Can Tomatoes

Hoped That Specific Standards Will Result in Improvement of Stock.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Tentative grades for canning tomatoes have been formulated by the United States Department of Agriculture for the purpose of providing a basis for agreements and purchases of raw material used in the manufacture of canned tomatoes and tomato products. It is hoped that the use of specific standards will result in better business relations between manufacturers and growers, and ultimately result in a measurable improvement in the quality of the stock delivered to the cannery.

The principal of standardization is now firmly established and becomes more popular each year. The department says. Grades are widely used in the buying and selling of farm crops and are now considered a necessary feature of any well-ordered system of marketing. It is felt that grades probably can be made applicable to most of the fruits and vegetables grown for canning purposes.

No Standard Grades.
Up to the present time there has been no standard grades for canning tomatoes. Some manufacturers have endeavored to buy on more or less definite specifications, but there has been little uniformity in the terminology and application of such locally drawn standards. Establishment of federal grades will enable all canners to buy on a quality basis and enable growers to sell tomatoes at prices commensurate with the quality delivered, the department says.

Success of the department's system of grading canning crops seems to depend largely upon the establishment of definite gradations in price to conform with the variations in quality and condition. It is pointed out. Such price gradations will furnish a stimulus to the grower to strive to deliver only a high quality product in order to secure the attendant premium. A fair basis for discounting deliveries of low-grade tomatoes will also discourage the grower from delivering low-grade stock, and bring about a marked improvement in the quality of the tomatoes grown and harvested. The grower who finds that he is unable to produce tomatoes that will grade U. S. No. 1 will be inclined to discriminate more carefully in the purchase of his seed or plants, and will focus his interest on the elimination of the unproductive and poorly adapted strains of tomatoes and the constant improvement of a few well-selected varieties, the department feels.

Growers of canning tomatoes will not be expected to use the proposed grades as a basis for separating the crop into two or three classes before hauling to the cannery, as this probably would unduly increase handling costs. Cannery operators are not equipped to handle lots of different qualities separately, and since individual lots lose their identity immediately after being unloaded there would be little advantage in doing extensive sorting of the crop in the field, the department says. It is felt that the more logical plan would be for manufacturers to employ the standards as a basis for sampling the loads as they come to the receiving platform, thereby ascertaining the grade and fixing the value of each load.

To Try Out Standards.
The principle of buying canning tomatoes on grade is meeting with considerable interest among canners of tomatoes and tomato products and several manufacturers have indicated their intention to try out the proposed federal standards as a basis for their buying next season. One manufacturer in southern New Jersey has incorporated in U. S. No. 1 grade in his agreement with the growers by the Tri-State Packers' association, an organization representing the canners interests of Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey. It also is reported that the proposed grades probably will be established as legal grades in New Jersey by the bureau of markets of the state department of agriculture.

Right Materials to Reduce Potato Scab Disease Has Been Cause of Serious Losses.

In view of the great tendency of scab to appear when the soil is alkaline, Dr. W. H. Martin, specialist in potato diseases at the New Jersey State College of Agriculture, suggests that the potato grower exercise caution in the use of alkaline materials such as lime and nitrate of soda.

Potato scab has long been the cause of serious losses to the potato grower of the state. Although this disease was less severe than usual during the past season, few fields were observed to be entirely free from it. Many fields were observed where as much as 90 per cent of the crop was so badly as to be unsalable. It is recognized that scab is usually most severe on an alkaline soil and that as the soil acidity is increased the severity of the scab attack decreases.

One instance was noted recently by the potato specialist, where all of the nitrate of soda was replaced by a mixture of nitrate of soda and nitrate of ammonia was used. The result was that a large portion of the crop was so healthy as to be unsalable. On this same farm, on land where sulphate of ammonia was used as a source of nitrogen, a considerable reduction in scab was observed.

The influence of ammonium sulphate and nitrate of soda in the development of scab is shown by its results of a test conducted in 1927. Where all nitrate of soda was used only 29 per cent of the crop was clean as compared with 42 per cent where sulphate of ammonia was used. In view of these results the potato grower can well afford to give serious consideration to the question of source of nitrogen in his potato fertilizer and avoid the use of large amounts of nitrate of soda where scabby potatoes have been grown in the past. Further information on this subject may be obtained by writing to the New Jersey Agricultural experiment station at New Brunswick.

Check Row Corn Planter Improved by Illinoisian
Check row corn planters came out first in the time of our grandfathers but improvements are being made year by year, as inventors find something that needs improving. A Rock Island (Ill.) inventor has patented the parts of a planter described here. The front runner and rear frames are hinged together, each check rower having a hinged part and a catch. A single flexible cord or cable extends from one to the other, and is supported on the front runner frame. A rock shaft is mounted on the rear main frame to swing vertically therewith. When rocked by the treadle, two cord engaging elements on the rock shaft frame exert longitudinal tension on the end parts of the cords.

Fertilizer Safe to Use on Land Not Fertilized

The safe use of fertilizer is not in continued applications of it to succeeding crops, but in occasional use and always on land not fertilized the year before. While one application increases the yield and quality of grain, the continued use of fertilizer is to exhaust the land and lose in the end more than we gain. Fertilizer is not a royal road to success, nor is it a substitute for crop rotation or barnyard manure.

The chief benefit in its use on corn-belt soils is in the start it gives crops and consequent root system developed, enabling winter wheat to withstand a severe winter with nominal loss. The necessity of late sowing to avoid the danger of late frost is short, the start. Where fertility is short, before the plant has little root growth before frost checks growth entirely for the season. Fertilizer fits in in such a case, but not in continued use on the same land and crop.

Soil Washing Problem

Soil washing is rapidly becoming the biggest problem that faces the American farmer. Every one knows that the top six inches of soil furnishes 75 to 85 per cent of the available plant foods. Can one afford to let it go on washing away? Can the farmer afford to lose, year after year, the fertile top soil, full of rich vegetable matter? Can he afford to lose the commercial fertilizer for which he has spent from $4 to $8 or even $10 an acre?

If the per cent of ammonia, phosphoric acid, and potash in a fertilizer does not total 14 per cent, buy something else. High-analysis fertilizers pay.

Paul was arrested by Sheriff Benke last Saturday and brought before Justice Hayden. Paul was fixed at $5,000, which the accused was unable to furnish, and he is now lodged in jail. BERGDOLL WILL GIVE UP IN U. S.

Draft Evader Willing to Serve Prison Term; Arranges for Return.

New York.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, convicted during the war as a draft evader, has agreed to return to America to serve his sentence in a federal prison, it was announced here by Norman Haggood, editor of Hearst's International Magazine.

Bergdoll will return at the invitation of the American Legion, which, through John Quinn, national commander, issued a statement declaring the legion had been accused of attempting to kidnap Bergdoll, and it was time to "show the world" that the organization stood for law and order.

The legion's offer was made by Lieutenant H. Blood, a member of the organization, who said he wanted to Germany to carry out a plan mapped out by Garland W. Powell, national director of the legion's Americanist committee, and Leonard Botes, national adjutant.

"My mission was to invite Bergdoll to come back to America with me of his own free will," Blood said.

"As long as Bergdoll was in Germany the anti-German feeling in the legion would be strengthened and would count in American politics. Therefore if a plan could be worked out by which Bergdoll could be brought back to America it would help everybody."

Blood said he was violating no confidence in giving a summary of the terms made to Bergdoll.

"Here it is," said Blood. "Bergdoll must come back. He must serve his sentence. The American Legion is not so much interested in Bergdoll as in the men who helped him escape from America. Let's bring Bergdoll back and have him make a clean breast and tell who the enemies in our own camp are. Then let him do his bit in prison. After that give him his money and let him go his way."

Mr. Haggood said Bergdoll had sold his automobiles and other properties in Germany, and even secured the ship on which he wished to return to America.

Woman Put $150,000 Price on Silence, Daugherty Says

Washington.—That Miss Roxie Sisson, through A. L. Fink of Buffalo, setting as her agent, offered to sell to James W. Holcomb, Samuel Ungerleider, Henry T. Ellis and M. S. Daugherty her silence on the affairs of Attorney General Daugherty and her late divorced husband, Jess W. Smith, for $150,000, was asserted by Attorney General Daugherty in a letter to Senator Brockhart of Iowa, chairman of the senate investigating committee now inquiring into Mr. Daugherty's conduct.

Income Tax Payments to Reach About Half Billion

Reports were compiled at the treasury from all the 65 revenue districts showing that the revenue collectors had actually received and deposited $256,507,510 and had received, but were unable to deposit because of the last minute rush, an additional $121,341,030.

MEANS TELLS OF WHOLESALE GRAFT

Amazing Tale by Former Secret Service Agent

Washington.—Gaston B. Means, former agent of the Department of Justice, told the senate committee investigating Attorney General Daugherty that he had collected money for the late Jesse W. Smith, Mr. Daugherty's "bunker and friend." In connection with the plot to check prosecutions in flight-film cases.

Mr. Means dwelt at length upon the "aircraft cases." He said that he had received $100,000 from a Japanese representative of Mitsui & Co., a Japanese firm, which he turned over to Mr. Smith. The money, he declared, was for the purpose of stopping government prosecution of the Standard Aircraft company, against which the government had a claim for overpayment amounting to $8,000,000.

Other large sums of money were received by Mr. Means and turned over to Mr. Smith in connection with "bunker" matters. In all of these cases Mr. Means referred to himself as "the money carrier."

Collection for the suppression of prosecution in the Dempsey-Carpenter fight pictures amounted to $50,000. Mr. Means explained in answer to pressing questions of Senator Moses. He declared that this sum was the amount which passed through his hands and that there might have been more. The money was turned over to Mr. Means by messengers in sums ranging around $5,000 to $6,000, he declared.

SLAYER OF WIFE AND SON KILLED

Wyoming Realtor Shoots It Out With Sheriff at Douglas, Wyo.

Casper, Wyo.—Fred Van Gordon, forty-two, Casper real estate and insurance agent, was shot to death in a duel with Sheriff Albert Peyton of Converse county at Douglas, Wyo., when the officer entered a hotel where Van Gordon had taken a room to arrest him on a charge of slaying his wife and twelve-year-old son, Arthur.

The body of Mrs. Pearl Van Gordon, the wife, prominent society woman, was found floating in Dump Bridge creek, two miles east of Casper, at noon Sunday. The son's body was recovered at the same spot a short time later.

Police believe Van Gordon shot and killed his wife and his son in the Van Gordon home, in the city's best residential district. Then, police believe, he wrapped both bodies in sheets and smuggled them directly into the garage built onto the house. There he placed them in the rear seat of a large touring car.

Fearing the barking of his dog might attract the attention of his neighbors, Van Gordon shot and killed the animal near the front door of his house. Then, leaving the home and garage locked up to make things appear all right to neighbors, police believe Van Gordon started for Douglas, 50 miles east of here, after dark.

Arriving in Douglas about midnight, he went to the La Bonte hotel, the leading hotel in Douglas. Sheriff Peyton, on a tip from Casper officers, took a room across the hall from the room occupied by Van Gordon. Early this morning Van Gordon left his room and started down the hall. Sheriff Peyton called to him to halt. Van Gordon sought shelter in a curve in the hallway and opened fire on the sheriff. The sheriff returned Van Gordon's fire. Three shots taking effect.

SOLDIERS' BONUS PASSED IN HOUSE

Bill Having 20-Year Insurance Plan Wins by Vote of 355 to 54.

Washington, D. C.—The house for the third time in four years, has passed a soldier bonus bill. The vote was 365 to 54, and was taken after forty minutes' debate. Twenty speakers took the floor during the brief period, however, advocates of a full cash payment option assailing the rule under which the bill was taken up, which limited debate and prevented the offering of amendments.

"Die hards" of both parties declared against the measure on principle, while proponents argued it was a measure which could become law. The measure provides for paid up twenty year endowment life insurance policies and cash payments to veterans entitled to not more than $50 in adjusted service credit. Provisions of the old bill for vocational training and farm or home aid are eliminated.

The insurance provision is somewhat different from the deferred payment certificates proposed in the old bill, and because of these changes the measure faces an involved situation in the senate. Members of that body have asked time to study the new bill, while others already have prepared different proposals. The finance committee, to which the measure will be referred, is now occupied with the tax reduction bill.

Chairman Green, of the ways and means committee, who introduced the bill, reminded the house during the short debate preceding the vote that the two previous measures had not been enacted into law "for reason known to all," and insisted this measure "will and must become law."

When asked by Representative Bankhead, democrat of Alabama, whether he had conferred with President Coolidge as to the prospects for the bill becoming a law, Mr. Green replied that he had not, and added he did not know the president's attitude toward the measure.

The maximum cost of the bill is estimated at $2,119,000,000, spread over twenty years. The highest annual maximum cost would come in the first year and is estimated at $155,000,000. Mr. Green declared the cost of the measure could be met by appropriations and would require no additional taxes. The bill provides for an appropriation not to exceed $100,000,000 for next year to meet the cost of the measure. If the estimated maximum expenditure should be necessary the first year, the additional amount could be drawn from the treasury surplus Mr. Green said.

The entire Wisconsin delegation in congress voted for the bonus bill.

The BROWN MOUSE

As the latest-coming visitors moved forward, they heard the schoolmaster finishing his passage of arms with the school.

"You should not feel exasperated at us, Mr. Carmichael," said he in tones of the most complete respect, "for what our friends show. You are unfortunate in the business proposition you offer this community. That is all. Even these children have the facts to prove that the creamery outfit you offer is not worth within two thousand dollars of what you ask for it, and that it is very doubtful if it is the sort of outfit we should need."

"I'll bet you a thousand dollars—" began Carmichael hotly, when Jim waved him down.

"Not with me," said Jim. "Your friends, Mr. Bronson, there, knows what chance there is for you to bet even a thousand cents with me. Besides, we know our facts, in this school. We've been working on them for a long time."

"Let your life be what?" interjected Newton Bronson.

"Before we finish," said Jim, "I want to thank you gentlemen for bringing in Mr. Carmichael. We have been reading up on the literature of the creamery promoter, and it is a very fine thing to have one in the flesh with whom to—demonstrate, if Mr. Carmichael will allow me to say so."

Carmichael looked at Bonner, made an expressive motion with his hand toward the door, and turned as if to leave.

"Well," said he, "I can do plenty of business with real men. If you want to make me dead I offer you, and I can show you from the statistics I've got at the head that it's a special deal just to get carried in this part of the state, and carries a thousand dollars of out in price to you—let's leave these children and this schoolmaster and get something done."

"I can't allow you to depart," said Jim more gently than before, "without thanking you for the very excellent talk you gave us on the advantage of the co-operative creamery over the centralizer. We in this school believe in the co-operative creamery, and if we can get rid of you, Mr. Carmichael, without buying your equipment, I think your work here may be productive of good."

"He's off three or four points on the average overrun in the Wisconsin co-ops," said Newton.

"And we thought," said Mary Smith, "that we'd need more cows than he said to keep up a creamery of our own."

"Oh," replied Jim, "but we mustn't expect Mr. Carmichael to know the subject as well as we do, children. He makes a practice of talking mostly to people who know nothing about it—and he takes very well. All in favor of thanking Mr. Carmichael please say 'aye.'"

CHAPTER XXI

A New Era Dawns.

There was a rousing chorus of "Aye" in which Mr. Carmichael, followed closely by Mr. Bonner, made his exit. B. B. Hamm went forward and shook Jim's hand slowly and contentedly, as if trying to remember just what he should say.

"James E. Irwin," said he, "you've saved us from being skinned by the smoothest grafter that I ever seen."

"Not I," said Jim, "the kind of school I stand for, Mr. Hamm, will save you more than that—and give you the broadest culture any school ever gave. A culture based on life. We've been studying life, in this school—the life we all live here in this district."

"He had a smooth partner, too," said Columbus Brown. Jim looked at Bonner's little boy in one of the front seats and shook his head at Columbus warningly.

"I hadn't heard 'em in here to ask you a few questions about co-operative creameries," said Mr. Talbot, "we'd have been stuck—they pretty near had our names. And then the whole neighborhood would have been sucked in for about fifty dollars a name."

"I'd have gone in for two hundred," said B. B. Hamm.

"May I call a little meeting here for a minute, Jim?" asked Ezra Bronson.

and were at attention, Doctor Brathway nodded approvingly as if at the answer to some question in his mind.

"Children," said Mr. Irwin, "you may or may not be interested in what these gentlemen are about to do—but I hope you are. Those who wish may be members of Mr. Bronson's meeting. Those who do not prefer to do so may take up their regular work."

"Gentlemen," said Mr. Bronson to the remains of Mr. Carmichael's creamery party, "we've been cutting built in this neighborhood about long enough. I'm in favor of fishing, now. How many here favor building a co-operative creamery if we can get the farmers in with cows enough to make it profitable, and the equipment at the right price?"

Each man held up a hand.

"Here's one of our best farmers not voting," said Mr. Bronson, indicating Raymond Simms. "How about you, Raymond?"

"Ah reckon paw'll come in," said Raymond blushing.

"He will if you say so," said Mr. Bronson.

Raymond's hand went up amid a ripple of applause from the pupils, who seemed glad to have a voter in their ranks.

"Unanimous!" said Mr. Bronson. "It is a vote! Now I'd like to hear a motion to perfect a permanent organization to build a creamery. Mr. Irwin will you please act as secretary."

Jim sat down at the desk and began making notes. The meeting appointed committees, fixed upon a time for a future meeting, threw a collection of half-dollars on the desk to start a petty cash fund, made the usual joke about putting the secretary under bond, adjourned and dispersed.

"It's a go this time!" said Newton to Jim.

"I think so," said Jim, "with those men interested. Well, our study of creameries has given a great deal of language work, a good deal of arithmetic, some geography, and finally saved the people from a swindle. Rather good work, Raymond?"

"My mother has a delayed luncheon ready for the party," said Jennie to Jim. "Please come with us—please!"

But Jim demurred. Getting off at this time of day was really out of the question if he was to be ready to show the real work of the school in the afternoon session.

"This has been rather extraordinary," said Jim, "but I am very glad you were here. It shows the utility of the right sort of work in letter-writing, language, geography and arithmetic—in learning things about farming."

"It certainly does," said Doctor Brathway. "I wouldn't have missed it under any consideration; but Jim certainly sorry for that creamery shark and his accomplice—to be routed by the Fifth Reader grade in farming!"

not fair to judge. Colonel, on what must have been rather an extraordinary moment in the school's history. I take it that you don't put on a representation of 'The Knave Unmasked' every morning."

"It was more like a caucus than I've ever seen it, daddy," said Jennie. "and less like a school."

"Don't you think," said Doctor Brathway, "that it was less like a school because it was more like life? It was life, if I am not mistaken, history of this community was making in that schoolroom as we entered."

"You're perfectly right, Doctor," said the colonel. "Jim's got too big for the district, and so we're going to enlarge the district, and the schoolhouse, and the teaching force, and the means of educational grace generally. That's as sure as can be—after what took place this morning."

"He's rather a wonderful person, to be found in such a position," said Professor Gray, "or would be in any region I have visited."

"He's a native product," said the colonel, "but a wonder all the same. He's a Brown Mouse, you know."

"A—?" Doctor Brathway was plainly astonished. And so the colonel was allowed to tell again the story of the Darbishire brown mice, and why he called Jim Irwin one. Doctor Brathway said it was an interesting Mendelian explanation of the appearance of such a character as Jim. "And if you are right, Colonel, you'll lose him one of these days. You can't expect to retain a Caesar, a Napoleon, or a Lincoln in a rural school, can you?"

"I don't know about that," said the colonel. "The great opportunity for such a Brown Mouse may be in this very school, right now. I'd have as big an army right here as Socrates ever had. The Brown Mouse is the only Judge of his own proper place."

"I think," said Mrs. Brathway, as they motored back to the school, "that your country schoolmaster is rather terrible. The way he crashed that Mr. Carmichael was positively merciless. Did he know how cruel he was?"

"I think not," said Jennie. "It was the truth that crushed Mr. Carmichael."

"But that vote of thanks," said Mrs. Brathway, "Surely that was the bitterest irony."

"I wonder if it was," said Jennie. "No, I am sure it wasn't. He wanted to leave the children thinking as well as possible of their victim, and especially of Mr. Bonner; and there was really something in Mr. Carmichael's talk which could be praised. I have known Jim Irwin since we were both children, and I feel sure that if he had had any idea that his treatment of this man had been unnecessarily cruel, it would have given him a lot of pain."

"My dear," said Mrs. Brathway, "I think you are to be congratulated for having known for a long time a genius."

"Thank you," said Jennie. And Mrs. Brathway gave her a glance which brought to her cheek another blush; but of a different sort from the one provoked by the uproar in the Woodruff school.

There could be no doubt now that Jim was thoroughly wonderful—or that she, the county superintendent, was quite as thoroughly a little fool. She to be put in authority over him! It was too absurd for laughter. Fortunately, she hadn't hindered him a touch—but who was to be thanked for that? Was it owing to any wisdom of hers? Well, she had decided in his favor. In those first proceedings to revoke his certificate. Perhaps that was as good a thing to remember as was to be found in the record.

CHAPTER XXII
And So They Lived—
And so it turned out quite as if it were in the old ballad, that "all in the merry month of May, and also 'all in the merry month of June," there were great doings about the hold little promontory where once stood the cabin on the old wood-tot where the Simms family had dwelt.

The cabin was gone, and in its place stood a pretty little building about which blossomed lilacs and peonies and roses and other old-fashioned flowers furnished by Mrs. Irwin. For this was the teacher's house or schoolhouse for the new consolidated Woodruff district, and the old Simms wood-tot was henceforth to be the abode-land of the schoolhouse.

Party Frock for Young Girl; Millinery Addicted to Flattery

ALL the freshness and ingeniousness of youth are written in this spring's styles for young girls from sixteen to twenty. Frocks designed for the street affect boyish contours and neck treatments; the shiny-bosom front flourishes on popular, new French flannel and wool crepe dresses in checks and stripes, and on blouses for wear with suits—turn-over collars and narrow ties fit in with this boyish mode which suits our young girls so well. All these bear out the vogue of bobbed and singled hair. Everyone agrees that the styles are charming and designers know how to give them dainty and even amusing finishing touches that express the eternal feminine. These same designers are at their happiest when they concern themselves with party frocks for buds in the rose-bud garden of girls. The bobbed and shingled haired wrap bands of flower-decked ribbons about their short locks and forget all about being boyish. But the rule of simplicity is not forgotten, for it is the vogue for young people and is more emphasized than in the recent past.

Taffeta stands in the front row of fabrics for party frocks along with crepe de chine, printed silks and voile. Radium taffeta is used for quaint frocks with snug bodices, round necks, and plain sleeves, reaching less than half way to the elbow.

The frivolous and charming party frock pictured is made of taffeta, with at the back—they are eccentric but flattering.

Satin cutton makes the pretty hat that has an upward-flaring brim, shown at the top. Figures, cut out from suede leather, are applied to it, buttonholed down with colored silk, and silver nail heads are scattered over the design. A pretty taffeta cloche at the right has an embroidery pattern done in narrow braid—this is a favored decoration. Milan straw holds the center of the millinery stage and is shown in the hat with wreath of colored silk foliage ending in a pompon of ostrich feathers. The net veil has a star role and is a part of the decoration of many a pretty hat. At the right a bangkok straw in the Alpine shape has a scarf of silk about its crown extended into a long end that is wrapped about the throat. The scarf is drawn through a large buckle at the right side. A pretty black poke shape made of a fine haircloth with narrow braid decoration finishes this representative group of hats. A fan of burnt goose feathers is mounted at the right side where two handsome jet and rhinestone pins are posed.

THE USEFUL MARSHMALLOW

A half-pound of marshmallows kept on hand for emergency dishes will be found a most valuable addition to the supplies.

A meringue with a few marshmallows cut in halves or quarters scattered over the top is much appreciated. Brown as usual and find a meringue with a flavor and appearance quite different from the ordinary.

Marshmallow Frosting.—Put the unbeaten white of an egg, seven-eighths of a cupful of sugar, three tablespoonfuls of water in the double boiler. Have the water underneath rapidly boiling and with a Dover egg beater begin to beat; after seven minutes add twelve marshmallows, remove from the heat and beat until the mixture is smooth and cool enough to hold its shape.

The flavor and appearance of many otherwise ordinary dishes is enhanced by a few marshmallows. Drop one on top of the cupful of cream when short of whipped cream or into a hot cup of coffee a marshmallow is an addition.

An apple pie prepared with a baked shell, filled with strained apple sauce sweetened and flavored, then covered with marshmallows and browned in the oven makes a delicious dessert.

Gingerbread or sponge cake cut while hot and filled with marshmallow filling placed in the oven until melted, makes another delicious dessert.

Chocolate and coconut pudding are both improved by adding a handful of marshmallows. Chocolate pie covered with marshmallows instead of a meringue is especially nice.

Fudge, cream candy, boiled frosting, stay creamy and moist much longer if a few marshmallows are added to them. Drop them into the hot mixture and beat as usual; if the marshmallows are fresh they will melt at once.

Plain cookies, vanilla wafers, saltines or crackers are transformed into toothsome little cakes by topping with a marshmallow and browning in the oven.

Mix marshmallows in the salad dressing, finely cut up and added with the whipped cream. It adds greatly to a fruit salad. If mixed with fresh fruit and allowed to stand several hours to soften, the flavor is much improved.

A nice dessert is a plain cake frosted with marshmallow frosting then covered with melted chocolate.

To smile at trials which fret and nag—
And not to murmur nor to lag—
The test of greatness is the way.
One meets the Eternal every day.
—Edmond Vance Cook.

BREAKFAST DISHES
A good dish of oatmeal is a breakfast in itself when properly cooked. Soak it overnight and then early in the morning put it on to cook in a double boiler set deep in boiling water, keep this water boiling for two hours or more. Salt lightly, uncover and beat. When thus prepared and served with top milk, it is a vastly different dish from the cereal usually served as first course at the family table.

Popovers.—Beat two eggs well, add seven-eighths of a cupful of milk and one cupful of sifted flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Beat well and bake in deep granite popover pans until puffed and brown.

Another nice hot breakfast bread is: Oat and Cornmeal Muffins.—Melt two tablespoonfuls of shortening in one cupful of hot cooked oatmeal; add one teaspoonful of salt and one egg beaten light with three-fourths of a cupful of milk. Mix all thoroughly. Cook cornmeal using the broth for part of the liquid, adding salt and pepper to season. When well cooked and ready to mold stir in the chopped meat and fry in a mold which has been rinsed in cold water. Small bread pans make nice slices. Slice when cold and fry in butter until well browned on both sides.

Tomato Toast.—Toast bread by browning in a dripping pan in the oven until hot. Butter well and pour over well-seasoned hot tomato. Tomato soup may be used if fresh or canned tomatoes are not at hand. Set in the oven until the tomato is all absorbed and serve very hot.

We 23,000 Men

Present you the utmost in fine cars

There are 23,000 of us building Studebaker cars. Most of us are partners in the business. Thousands of us are stockholders. All of us, after a certain time, get dividends on wages.

All of us, after two years, get vacations with pay. All of us, after one year, get dividends on wages. After five years, that annual dividend adds 10% to our earnings.

The company spends vast sums on co-operative work with us. When we retire, we get pensions.

So Studebaker cars represent the best that we, in combination, know how to offer you.

Some of us belong to management. If we do better than expected, we get 10% of the excess.

So every man among us does his best to make Studebaker cars supreme.

Our fine backing

Behind us is an honored name. For 72 years Studebaker has been the leader in quality and class.

We have $90,000,000 of assets. We have $50,000,000 in model plants. We have 12,500 up-to-date machines. So Studebaker cars are built by modern and efficient methods.

We have an engineering department which costs $500,000 yearly. That to maintain and develop Studebaker standards.

We subject Studebaker cars to 30,000 inspections. That requires 1,200 men. All told over 70,000 machine and hand operations are performed in manufacture of a Studebaker car. In so many operations, though each one is small, there is a 145,167 people last year paid $201,000,000 for Studebaker cars.

The sales have almost trebled in the past three years. Studebaker growth in fine cars is the marvel of this industry.

Go see the reasons. See the scores of extra values Studebaker offers.

There are 13 models. Prices start at $1025. They go to the highest price a fine car needs to cost.

great opportunity for economies and savings.

We have a $10,000,000 body plant, to maintain the Studebaker standard of coach work. There sons, fathers and grandfathers are working together, to build such bodies as Studebaker always built.

Those bodies are finished by many operations, including 15 coats of paint and varnish.

The open bodies are upholstered in real leather. The closed bodies in Chase Mohair. That is made from the silky fleece of Angora goats.

We pay for those extras — and others — out of savings. Building our own bodies saves you on some types up to $300 per car.

We never stint

The rule here is to give the utmost in every part and detail.

We have 35 formulas for steel. Each has been demonstrated best for its purpose. On some of these steels we pay 15% premium to get the formulas exact.
