A Non-Skid Tandem---It's a McCormick-Deering, Too

The only objection ever made to the double disk principle has been completely overcome by the McCormick-Deering telescoping tandem hitch. It is almost impossible for the tandem on a McCormick-Deering to trail the disks of the front harrow.

This telescoping hitch holds the tandem rigidly in place on the straight-away, but is completely flexible on the turns. The McCormick-Deering tandem exactly splits the ridges left by the front harrow, and follows around the turns as naturally as the rear gears on your wagon.

If you haven't already seen this splendid McCormick-Deering harrow at work we urge you to do so. We have one set up here at the store and will gladly show you just how it works. Come in. Let us tell you all about its rigid angle steel frame, bumper gauge construction, dust proof bearings, easy-to-fill grease cups, adjustable snubbing block, and other features.

And while you are here we would like to show you the rest of our McCormick-Deering line.

The name McCormick-Deering stands for the best in Farm Machinery

WASH UP, PURIFY IN THE SPRING

Every woman knows that her house has to be cleaned thoroughly every Spring. During winter, dust, dirt and germs accumulate in the corners, under the rugs, in the curtains "an" every place. Just so with your system it should be given a thorough cleaning, purifying this Spring. HOLLISTER'S ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA will do the job slick and quick. It will clean your system, freshen and purify you all over—you'll enjoy living, eat better, sleep better—feel better!—Otto B. Graf.

RADIO

(Edited by O. Douglas Wardrop, Editor of Radio Merchandising.)

FIG. 1.

By RALPH BATTER
Details follow for the construction of the radio frequency unit known as the "clarifier" which will completely prevent receiver radiation, no matter how strong the regenerative action in the detector may be.

Figure 1 shows the circuit used. It is to be noted that the tube has a balanced output circuit which completely prevents oscillations in this circuit as follows: whenever the detector tube is oscillating the grid coil acts as a primary of a transformer, inducing currents in the winding of the output coil of this stage. Here the current will divide and reach the grid circuit over two paths, but due to the relative directions of the windings of the output coil they are exactly out of phase with each other and so have no effect on the antenna circuit.

Since the panel layout and drilling plans will differ depending upon the type of condenser and rheostat purchased, no definite instructions will be given. The panel and cabinet should be sufficiently large to hold the condenser, tuning coil and one vacuum tube. Figure 2 shows how the completed instrument looks.

The list of apparatus necessary to be purchased by those who prefer to construct their own unit, is as follows:

1. One panel and cabinet.
2. One tube socket, suitable for tube decided upon.
3. One rheostat, suitable for tube decided upon.
4. One glass enclosed cartridge type of grid leak with clips for mounting; one such as sold by the R. C. A. is satisfactory.
5. One honey-comb coil 150 turns, unmounted.
6. One 3-inch length of tubing, 2-inch outside diameter, of paper, fiber, bakelite, etc.
7. One variable condenser, max. cap. 0004 microfarads. Should have a high maximum to minimum ratio and very low losses.

8. About 60 feet No. 26 wire with any type of insulation.

9. Miscellaneous material, binding posts, connection wire, spaghetti, etc.,

the amount of each depending on the type of apparatus purchased.

10. One vacuum tube, UV-201 A, UV-100 are recommended.

11. One ounce of Woods metal.

Figure 3 shows the details of the tuning coil, which consists of 100 turns of wire, tapped at the 15th turn from one end. This coil may be conveniently mounted on the condenser by using small brackets of brass. The shape of these brackets will of course depend on what make condenser is selected. The coil should preferably be mounted in a position where there will be least magnetic field encountered from the coils in the receiving set. With a well-designed condenser a wavelength of from about 275 to 350 meters will be obtained. The stabilizing condenser must next be constructed. This device may easily be made from the grid leak. If the metal ends of the leak are heated slightly they will come off as they are generally fastened with Woods metal. The grid leak element is then removed and one cap is replaced on an end. A small piece of cardboard is then cut to fit the tube as shown in Figure 4.

A small quantity of Woods metal or other low melting alloy is then melted and poured in the glass tube on one side of the cardboard strip. This will form a semi-circular rod, firmly soldered to the cap on the lower end and extending nearly the full length of the tube. A small brass rough, semi-circular in cross section, is soldered to the other cap. Figure 4 gives the details of this device, how it is assembled and how it looks when completed.

When completed, a small variable condenser with a glass dielectric is obtained which can be readily mounted by means of the grid leak mounting clips. One of the caps should be soldered to a clip as shown in Figure 4. The other cap on the glass tube is then free to rotate, furnishing a means for varying the capacity of this midge condenser. This condenser should be readily accessible from the top of the cabinet, but need not be on the front of the panel because when it is once set, the capacity need not be varied unless the type of tube used is changed.

Not Good Judgment to Overload Your Tubes

One of the most common traits of a person with his first radio set is to persist in turning up the tubes in an effort to increase the signal strength. "It can't be done." Up to a certain point increasing the filament temperature by turning up the rheostat brings an increase in signal strength. Beyond that the signal gets mushy, and further increase in current won't take out the mush or produce any louder or clearer signal. It may burn out the tube if the minimum resistance of the rheostat is low enough.

Vernier Condenser Is Easily Constructed

By KENNETH SLOAN

After unsuccessfully experimenting with various types of "vernier" adjusters, I devised the condenser shown in coll. The movable plate is of the conventional design, while the stationary plate is provided with lugs at each side for mounting. The shaft of the variometer is replaced by a short length of one-quarter-inch copper or brass tubing, held in place by an anchor plate, to which it is securely soldered. The rotor plate is mounted on a brass or copper rod extending through the tube, and terminated by a small knob on the face of the dial knob, through which it passes.

The sketch is practically self-explanatory. The idea can be easily adapted to any style of instrument and has the special advantage of not requiring additional panel space.

Watch the Charge

If the storage battery is charged at home under heating should be watched for. If the battery gets hot disconnect it from the charging unit, as it is being charged too rapidly. Reduce the charging rate. If the charger has a fixed rate of charge write to the manufacturer and find out how to reduce this rate.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

RUINOUS WEALTH

PARADOXICAL as it may seem at first blush, the declaration made so frequently by psychologists and economists that but few people can bear prosperity, is nevertheless true.

"When I come into the fortune which is to be mine on the day of my majority," says the youth who is looking forward to what he considers to be the crowning event of his life, "I shall show my set how a gentleman of wealth and fine tastes should live and enjoy himself."

So when the riches come in showers and floods, the prodigal youngster starts off at a rapid pace on a care-free career which in an incredibly short time ends in broken manhood and humiliating disaster.

It is the story which is so often told of the sowing of wild oats and the reaping of a soul for a rag and a bone. The handling of large properties and great sums of money by the inexperienced, is usually fraught with just such peril.

And in quite the same manner the newly rich, forgetful of their limited means of the past, start off in their new adventure with a brazen blare of trumpets.

It is their first taste of the golden feast, and they have resolved to gorge themselves to repletion.

In a dozen years or so, with nothing to show for their folly except a lot of worthless gee-gaws and a burdensome load of experience, they are glad to get back in the homely little corner of the staid old world which they so grandiloquently abandoned.

The scene of their defeat they would gladly close to their mind's eye, but they cannot do so. The happiness which was theirs in the simple life is gone.

Their substantial friends in the bare days are no more.

Instead of triumph, the wealth they quickly got and wantonly spent, brought them nothing but derision and sorrow.

The same poor sort of humans are everywhere about us, gazing with envy, greedily eyes upon the rich, often cowed by fear and burdened with cancerous care. And all the while these hapless creatures seem unaware that hard work and high thinking give peace and pleasure that wealth cannot buy!

SCHOOL DAYS

THE MOOD

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

SOMETIME when we're in the mood.

In some day to come,

We shall brook our solitude,

We who are not dumb;

When the mood the moment brings

On some quiet day

You and I shall say the things

That we have to say.

Now we part and now we meet,

Yet we seem to wait,

Leaving something incomplete,

Inarticulate

There are dreams we long to share,

Dreamers I and you,

There are wounds we long to bare,

But we never do.

But some hour will set us free,

When, we never know;

But some moment suddenly

Hearts will overflow.

For the thirsty 'twill be drink,

For the hungry food

Maybe sooner than we think

We shall feel The Mood.

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl

By HELEN ROWLAND

MARRIAGE is the point at which a man stops begging a woman to kiss him and begins permitting her to kiss him.

After marriage, a woman always wants to talk about her heart, when a man wants to talk about his indifference to his girl—and thus, the wires get "crossed."

Some men could go to see Rudolph Valentino every evening of their lives and never learn the first rudiments of the true art of kissing.

The fapper, who looks forward to marriage as a long series of Saturday afternoons, with jazz, flowers and

Has Anyone Laughed At You Because—

By ETHEL R. PEYSER

You have no sense of direction?

Oh! this is truly a laughable deficiency—yet it is sometimes only due to never thinking much about where you are going, but thinking more intense thoughts. It is sometimes due to the fact that you rely on other people's guidance too much. This fact can be overcome if you work at it and devise means, landmarks, etc., to point the way. This lack in you only involves others when you insist upon the crowd taking your advice as to which is "east" or "west" or "up" or "down." At those times rely on the other fellow!

WHAT TO FEED CHILDREN

THE problem for all mothers who try to feed the children with proper food is how to give them variety and keep within the allowance set aside for food. Meat for the child old enough to eat small portions should be well cooked and not served oftener than once a day. Vegetables of all kinds are important foods for the growing child. Green foods, such as spinach, watercress, dandelion greens, lettuce, carrots, green onions, cabbage—In fact, all good fresh vegetables—should be found often in the diet, and daily one or two for the main meal.

Children will often eat and enjoy carrots raw when they refuse them cooked. Try putting one or two through the meat grinder, mix with a little chopped celery, a green onion, and serve with a good mayonnaise on lettuce.

Our dietitians tell us that sugar should not be given on cereals. If the child refuses the cereal unless sweetened, add a spoonful of dates to the hot mush, or two or three prunes, or figs. These dried fruits are much better for the child than sugar.

Candy, when given at all, should follow a good meal, then the child will not overeat and it will satisfy the craving for sweets, which is a normal one with the average child. Cocoa made entirely of milk, when milk is not liked, will give the child the needed calories.

SOMETHING FOR DINNER

A soup which is somewhat out of the ordinary and provides a nourishing dish for the bill of fare is: Cauliflower and Tomato Soup.

Apple Delmonico.—Butter a baking dish and lay in a layer of tart apples...

Virginia Sweet Potatoes.—In Virginia, the home of this delicious vegetable, this is the popular way of cooking it.

Green Peppers Stuffed With Rice.—Cut the stem ends from green peppers, remove the white fiber and seeds.

Take a dash of water cold, add a little leaf of parsley, a little bit of saffron gold.

MORE THINGS TO EAT

Barabits are dishes quick to prepare and make a hot dish which people like.

Mexican Rarebit.—Melt one tablespoonful of butter, in it cook one green pepper cut into squares.

Berry Cake.—Butter the inside of a baking dish and fill for one-half inch with buttered crumbs.

Finnan Haddie.—Cut the fish into strips and put into a baking pan; cover with boiling water and allow it to heat slowly on the back part of the stove.

Kimmel Torte.—Beat two eggs until light, add one cupful of sugar, six tablespoonfuls of bread crumbs.

Cabbage Salad.—Shred a head of cabbage very fine, put into cold water to become crisp.

Orange Cream.—Whip one-half cupful of cream, add orange extract and a little of the carefully prepared fruit.

Children's Knitted Wear; Silk Crepe Frocks for Girls

NOTHING new under the sun? But there is! Look at the picture and be convinced.

Indeed in replica for children. Indeed a "scarf with every dress" is a slogan as applicable to junior fashions as to those of their elders.

The splendid durability of silk and wool crepes, together with their beauty, marks them as irreplaceable mediums for girls' dresses.

WOMEN NEED SWAMP-ROOT

Thousands of women have kidney and bladder trouble and never suspect it. Women's complaints often prove to be nothing else but kidney trouble, or the result of kidney or bladder disease.

If the kidneys are not in a healthy condition they may cause the other organs to become diseased. Pain in the back, headache, loss of ambition, nervousness are oftentimes symptoms of kidney trouble.

STAYING HOME FROM WORK MEANS MONEY LOST

Many Women Know This by Experience

Let Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Help You As It Helped These Women

Mrs. McDole's Experience. Ludington, Michigan.—"I suffered every month and was very irregular, had headaches all the time, was thin and pale, with no appetite, I had taken all kinds of medicines, and every doctor told me I would have to face an operation before I would be well again."

Los Angeles, California.—"I was in such a condition that I was scarcely able to walk, even to do my household work. I had no energy, was depressed and often wished to die. I am a chef, but was totally unable to do any cooking."

Too Tame. "Pa, what is a frog?" "Why, my son, that is what a person who has never been in a fight calls it."

CORNS

"IF ANYONE WANTS TO KNOW ABOUT TANLAC LET THEM SEE ME"

Says Joseph Baker of Memphis in Praising World's Greatest Tonic—Tells of Recovery.

"If anybody wants to find out about Tanlac, just let them see me," is the hearty suggestion of Joseph H. Baker, 550 North Third St., Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. Baker went overseas with the famous Thirtieth Division during the World War and participated in the St. Mihiel, Valley of Woivre and Argonne drives, having been cited for bravery in action in the Argonne. He is now a popular member of the Memphis Fire Department.

"When I came back from overseas," said he, "I was in a mighty bad fix. I had been gassed and after getting home I got down with pneumonia. This left me 'all in' without appetite, down in weight, liver out of fix, and suffering from constipation, biliousness and headaches without end."

"Tanlac put me to eating as never before, shot my weight up fifteen pounds and made a strong, well man of me—and I feel fine even to this day. I can't say enough for Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.
