TO HOLD "MOTHER AND BABY" CLINICS

The first Tuesday of each month has been set aside by the Washington County Nurse, Miss Giesing, for "Mother and Baby" clinics. These clinics are being held alternately at West Bend and at Harrison. Dr. Irvin, D.D., of the child welfare department of the state board of health has recently been appointed to conduct the clinics in this territory. She has been well prepared for this work and has a pleasing personality. In order to accommodate mothers from all sections of the county a series of clinics has been arranged for as follows: Kewaskum, Tuesday, July 22; Alton, Wednesday, July 23; Stinger, Thursday, July 24; and Jackson, Friday, July 25.

Mothers are beginning to realize that their children have a right to demand as strong and healthy minds as well as intelligent and scientific care and feeding can make them so. These clinics offer an opportunity for mothers to bring their infants and children under six years of age for a careful physical examination looking to the correction of defects or maintenance and to receive advice as to the right procedure for each case. All examination service and advice are free but mothers are urged to carry out the physician's instructions. In many cases the mothers are referred to their family physician for the correction of faults disclosed by the examination. In others, particularly nutrition cases, the mother can follow the procedure outlined without other help.

Further announcements will appear in next week's issue of this paper.

OCCUPATIONAL TAXES DUE IN JULY

As provided by the revenue act of 1921, return and payment of special taxes on certain businesses and occupations must be made by those engaged therein on or after July 1, 1924, to the collector of internal revenue for the district in which such business or occupation is located, on or before July 31, 1924.

Brokers, except brokers exclusively negotiating purchases or sales of produce or merchandise, are required to pay a tax of $50. In addition, a secondary tax is imposed upon brokers who are members of a stock exchange, produce exchange, board of trade or similar organization where produce or merchandise is sold as follows: If the average value during the preceding year ended June 30 of a seat or membership on such exchange was $2,000 or more but not more than $5,000 a tax of $100; if more than $5,000 but not more than $10,000 a tax of $150; if more than $10,000 a tax of $250.

Other occupational taxes are as follows: Pawnbrokers, $100; ship brokers, $50; customhouse brokers, $50; proprietors of bowling alleys and billiard rooms, $10; proprietors of riding academies, $100; brewers and distillers, $1,000. ## KEWASKUM POSTOFFICE RAISED TO SECOND-CLASS

Postmaster Erwin Koch, received notice from the Postoffice Department, that beginning July 1st, 1924, the Kewaskum Post Office has been raised from a third class to second class office. This change was brought about by the exceptionally large amount of mail and parcel post now being handled at the local office. The additional increase of business which made it possible for the office to be raised to second class is due to the large amount of parcel post that is shipped daily by the Kewaskum Aluminum Company, and the Remmel Manufacturing Company. The Kewaskum can now boast of a second class post office, is indeed a great credit to the village, one which few villages of its size in the state are credited with.

The base ball game played here the Fourth between the locals and Kohler was won by Batavia by a score of 7 to 8. The game played here Sunday with the strong Waukegan team was won by Batavia by a score of 7 to 8. It was a very interesting game. The score was a tie in the ninth inning, and two more innings had to be played before the winning score was made. Next Sunday the locals will motor to Waukegan to play a return game. This promises to be a good game.

WIN THIRTEEN INNING GAME
In the best game of the season—in fact, the best game of base ball ever played on the New Fane baseball diamond, New Fane won a thirteen inning game by a score of 5 to 6, from the Sheboygan Indians, on July Fourth. Up to the seventh inning things looked rather easy for New Fane, as the score up to that time was 5 to 0 in favor of the latter team. Regan, pitcher, had so far been pitching guilt sized ball, in the eighth, however, he allowed several hits which netted the visitors three runs. In the ninth Sheboygan scored two more runs, thereby tying the score. From the ninth inning both pitchers settled down, and allowed no hits, until the thirteenth when Ralph Rosenheimer was advanced to first by a hit, stole second, and brought home by a two base hit by Regan. Both teams played excellent ball and great credit must be given them for the good work done.

On Sunday the New Fane team did not fare so well, when they journeyed to Brownsville where they met defeat by a score of 4 to 6. Up to the seventh both teams were held scoreless. In the eighth the strain of pitching a 13 inning game, only two days before, began to tell on Regan, pitcher for New Fane, and he allowed a few hits which netted them four runs, and won the game.

Tomorrow, Sunday New Fane plays and dance at the South Side Park on Sunday, July 27th. The proceeds of this picnic will go toward purchasing more equipment for the fire department.

"OUT OF LUCK" STARS GIBSON IN ROLE OF SAILOR

Hoot Gibson, in "Out of Luck", Edw. Sedgwick's diverting story of a cowboy's life in the navy, comes to the Opera House tomorrow, Sunday evening, July 13. It is a play combining thrills with laughs, and romance with the spectacular. Exciting fights and hilarious comedy alternate; the great Pacific Fleet in full review, and target practice with the huge guns of a superdreadnought add thrills to the picture, and romance runs through the action of the engrossing play.

The whimsical Hoot plays the part of a cowboy who runs away from his beloved prairie to join the navy. From the time he starts his career with a comically unsuccessful attempt to walk the boat-loom or sleep in a ship's hammock, on through his various stages of seasickness, and other incident, of a nautical education the fun is fast and furious.

But underlying the fun there is a love story of deep heart-appeal, and typical Hoot Gibson thrills alternate with the laughs.

The naval scenes, taken on the U. S. S. California, flagship of the Pacific Fleet, during maneuvers, are exciting and said to be true to life, being personally supervised by Lieut. Tom Berrien, U. S. N., and a corps of navy officers.

Laura La Plante plays the principal feminine role, and others in the cast of the Universal attraction are Howard Truesdell, Elinor Hancock, Free man Wood, Kansas Hoehring, Jay Morley and John Judd.

Admiral W. H. Eberle, commander of the Pacific Fleet, himself aided Director Ed. Sedgwick.

CALVIN COOLIDGE, JUNIOR, IS DEAD

President's Son Dies From Poison of Small Wound on Foot.

Washington.—After battling with the utmost fortitude for five days, Calvin Coolidge, Jr., son of the President, succumbed to an attack of blood poisoning which had racked his debilitated body with almost unbearable pain and which slowly sapped the youthful reserve strength of his failing constitution.

When the end came at 10:30 o'clock Monday night, the President and Mrs. Coolidge, who had remained at the side of their dying boy almost constantly since he was first afflicted with the ailment, were full of hope for his recovery. The President reassuring his sorrowful wife with cheerful and comforting words.

Death came with a sinking spell, the fourth into which the boy had lapsed in the last twenty-four hours. Despite the use of oxygen and all other restoratives known to medical science, he fell fast toward the final coma; not even the sterling courage that had characterized his mental state throughout the fatal illness and had stood off crisis after crisis was able to meet the final onsets of death.

The collapse began at 6:30 o'clock and his condition gradually grew worse until the smiling and brave victim of a boy's bruise sank into eternity. Medical science spared none of her knowledge in the efforts of her exponents to save young Calvin's life. An operation was performed on the affected leg, the left. An effort was made Saturday night to drain off the poison that was creeping toward the heart. A blood transfusion was resorted to and oxygen was used. None proved of any help in the epic battle the doctors fought to keep away the grim harvester of death.

In the terms of the physicians, the specific form of poisoning was staphylococcus. It had started in the blister on the top of the right big toe, spread upward through the leg and down the left leg, some of it settling in the left shin bone. The poison began its work about Wednesday—Calvin had been to a ball game Tuesday with no effects. Thursday it became serious. Friday Dr. John Deaver of Philadelphia was called in. Saturday Dr. John Kolmer of Philadelphia was called and the boy taken to Walter Reed hospital, where five doctors were in constant attendance day and night. Saturday there was an operation to drain the poison from the bone. From then on there was little hope. It was just a matter of time.

The localization of the poison in the bone is known as osteomyelitis and had the poison stayed in that one spot all night would have been well. But it went back up the leg and soon was ravaging the vitals of the boy, causing intense pain.

Illinois Man Slays Father After a Violent Quarrel

Elgin, Ill.—Dr. James H. Durin, fifty-six, of Steward, one of Lee county's most prominent physicians, was shot and killed by his son, Gilbert, twenty-three, in a fit of anger at their home. Refusal of the boy to answer a question asked by his father at the supper table led to the shooting. Doctor Durin, angered by his son's refusal to talk, is said to have slapped him. The boy arose from the table, went to the coal house at the rear of the residence, and returned with a shotgun, shooting through the screen door, without a word, it is charged.

PRESIDENT WANTS DEPT. OF SCHOOLS

Coolidge Would Create Secretaryship of Education.

Washington.—Creation of a cabinet position of secretary of education and relief at the head of a Department of Education was endorsed by President Coolidge in his July Fourth address before the closing session of the National Education association convention here.

The President took opportunity in his address to voice the patriotic sentiments of the nation on the one hundred and forty-eighth anniversary of the Declaration of Independence and to express himself upon the question of education. Unknown to the assembly, he left the bedside of his seriously ill son, Calvin, Jr., long enough to make the address and then hurried back.

Declaring that ignorance is the "most fruitful source of poverty, vice and crime," Mr. Coolidge came out for compulsory education.

The ten thousand school teachers and educators who crowded the Central high school stadium gave the President the warmest of receptions. His remarks were loudly applauded and his hearers interrupted him several times by standing and cheering.

67 U. S. INCOMES OVER A MILLION

Federal Taxes Paid on Over 21 Billions Derived in 1922.

Washington.—A total net income of $21,336,212,530—equivalent to the gross debt of the nation—was reported subject to federal taxes by citizens of the United States for the calendar year 1922. It was disclosed in statistics of incomes for that year made public by the treasury.

On this income the federal government received $861,067,308 from the 6,787,481 persons who admitted tax liability. This shows an increase over 1921 of $141,670,202, or 16.69 per cent in tax paid; or 125,305 in the number of returns filed, and of $1,750,000,000 in total income subject to taxation.

The average net income per return for 1922 was $3,143.40 per taxpayer, while each, theoretically, paid $126.80 toward the upkeep of the government.

Based on the 1920 census, 6.2 per cent of the total population paid taxes, and by this basis of calculation, each American citizen, whether man, woman or child, had a net income for 1922 of $144.72, just 10 higher than in 1921. The per capita tax by the federal government amounted to $7.80, almost $1 more than in the previous year.

Four persons in the country had incomes of $5,000,000 or more, and 63 others had incomes of from $1,000,000 to $4,000,000. The 67 incomes above $1,000,000 constituted the highest number for this class since 1918.

There were 12,000 persons reporting net incomes between $50,000 and $100,000, a gain of 4,000 over 1921; 2,171 with incomes between $100,000 and $500,000, and 703 with incomes between $150,000 and $200,000.

BADGER STATE HAPPENINGS

Green Bay—Farmers in the vicinity of Green Bay are beginning to take a different view of crop conditions, which up to about two weeks ago looked more than discouraging. The last half month of warm weather and copious rains have helped greatly to make up for the late spring. Alfalfa is being cut and the crop is up to the standards of other years. The hay crop of clover and timothy has been somewhat stunted by the cold May weather, but better market prices are looked for by growers, who are also confident of a large harvest.

Washburn—The homestead exemption law is hitting Washburn perhaps harder than any other city in the state. The assessed valuation is $1,800,000. Claims taking advantage of the $500 exemption total $100,000. Last year nearly one-third of the tax roll was sent to the county treasurer as delinquent. Mayor Unrodt suggested that exemption claims be withdrawn this year, but property owners felt it would hardly be justice for a few to withdraw claims and a majority take the exemption.

Sheboygan—If George Likus, barber, had been nervous, he might have inflicted untold injury to a customer whom he was shaving recently when an automobile, driven by J. A. Simpson, Milwaukee, crashed into the front of his shop, caving in the front and showering the inside of the place with plate glass. Mr. Simpson lost control of the machine. Although he was only a few feet from where the heavy pieces of glass fell, Mr. Likus was not injured.

Art Volez having the highest cow, which produced 1,907 pounds of milk and 70.5 pounds of butter fat.

Fond du Lac—Her husband's plea for clemency and his willingness to pay the fine of $100, resulted in clemency for Mrs. Vera Fairbrother, a bride of a year, who entered a plea of guilty to a larceny charge in circuit court at Fond du Lac. Cobb—A $100,000 pea canning factory, just completed, at Cobb, will begin operations this week. It is the first pea cannery in Iowa county. Farmers in the locality have more than 500 acres planted to peas this season. The crop, which is two weeks late, is being harvested now.

PROGRESSIVES O. K. LAFOLLETTE

Wisconsin Senator Is Chosen on His Own Platform.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Senator Robert M. LaFollette was endorsed for President as an independent Progressive, upon his own platform, by the national convention of the conference for Progressive Political Action which adjourned sine die Saturday. The selection of a vice presidential candidate for his running mate was referred to the national committee of the conference, in co-operation with the LaFollette for President committee, headed by R. T. Rawleigh of Freeport, Ill. LaFollette's wishes will be followed in the selection.

Not being able to adopt a platform, the resolutions committee contented itself with reporting a "program of public service," which is practically a rewrite of the LaFollette platform with a few changes, such as resolutions sympathetic with Ireland's fight for independence, authorizing the sending of food by our government to starving Germany and protesting against the "plan of President Coolidge for holding a mobilization day on September 12."

The latter resolution was added on motion of Delegate Wax Swiren, member of the Liberal club at the University of Chicago, a follower of the "youth movement," and a friend of Nathan Leopold, who is awaiting trial for the Frank's murders.

The "youth" delegates throughout the two days' session displayed a large red flag from the balcony, on which was inscribed "No more war." No G. O. P. convention or Democrat gathering of other days could hope for as smoothly running a steam roller as was operated at this conference by the railroad shop crafts from the gavel of Chairman William H. Johnston, international president of the machinists' union and former bass drummer for the Salvation Army.

It has been seen by the credentials committee that none of the Communists at the St. Paul convention asked seats in this gathering, lest the red tinge might hurt the LaFollette candidacy, and Johnston's gavel took care of any other incipient outbreaks from Socialists, New York garment workers, or other radicals from the floor.

New Party After Election. The report of the organization and campaign committee, containing the endorsement which the convention approved, also provides for the formation of a permanent new political party after the November election.

The national committee is called upon to organize July 15 at 10 o'clock, and on November 29, to issue a call for a special national convention in January to form a permanent independent political party for national and local elections. With LaFollette endorsed preliminary plans were laid for a whirlwind campaign to begin at once and continue up to election day.

Representative John M. Nelson of Wisconsin, chairman of the progressive bloc in the house, who will be Senator LaFollette's campaign manager, had a long conference after the convention adjourned with leaders of the convention and two delegates from each state. Ideas were exchanged on the form of campaign organization to be set up and the character of the fight to be waged.

Headquarters in Chicago. Nelson will open headquarters in Chicago immediately, working in co-operation with the national committee of the conference.

The endorsement of LaFollette was presented to the conference by E. J. Munion, president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, as chairman of the organization and campaign committees.

Morris Hillquit of New York, representing the Socialist party, seconded the motion to adopt the committee's report, abandoning the fight of the Socialists for the formation of a new party at this time.

A. Lefkowitz of New York, representing the Farmer-Labor party of the United States, added the approval of his party to the endorsement.

Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch of New York seconded the endorsement on behalf of the progressive women. Mrs. Blatch is a member of the national committee of the Conference for Progressive Political Action and a member of the executive board of the Woman's Committee for Political Action. She represented the latter organization as a delegate in the convention.

Mrs. Blatch lauded LaFollette as the man who stood ready to help women in their fight for suffrage when the two old parties stood against them.

When Mrs. Blatch had concluded she was accorded an ovation. Several delegates cried, "Mrs. Blatch for vice president."

Offers Financing Plan. Harry Daugherty, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, reporting as chairman of the finance committee, recommended that funds to finance the campaign be raised through appeals to the general public through the press, to members of the organizations represented in the convention through their own groups, and by collections at all meetings, "as a matter of principle." The report was adopted unanimously.

Those Mad Wags. T. P. Writter: "The other evening as we passed by a store window in which women's hosiery was displayed, my friend re-luminated—er—limbs, my friend remarked: 'A shining example of woman's understanding.'"—Boston Trav'ler's.

Palate Ticklers. Probably 90 per cent of all digestive troubles are due to the fact that a great majority of people live to eat instead of eating to live.

The two friends discussed at great length the details of the Big Idea, and upon arrival in the West, Linder lost no time in preparing blueprints and charts descriptive of the improvements to be made on the land and the order in which the work was to be carried on. Grant bought a tract suitable to his purpose, and the wheels of the machine were set in motion. When this had been done Grant turned to the working out of his own individual experiment.

During the period in which these arrangements were being made it was inevitable that Grant should have heard more or less of Transley. He had not gone out of his way to seek information of the contractor, but it rather had been forced upon him. Transley's name was frequently heard in the offices of the business men with whom he had to do; it was mentioned in local papers with the regularity peculiar to celebrities in comparatively small centers. Transley, it appeared, had become something of a power in the land. Backed by old Linder's capital, he had carried some rather daring ventures through to success. He had seized the panicky moments following the outbreak of the war to buy heavily on the wheat and cattle markets, and increases in prices due to the world's demand for food had made him one of the wealthy men of the city. The desire of many young farmers to enlist had also afforded an opportunity to acquire their holdings for small considerations, and Transley had proved his patriotism by facilitating the ambitions of as many men in this position as came to his attention. The fact that even before the war ended the farms which he acquired in this way were worth several times the price he paid was only an incident in the transactions.

But no word of Transley's domestic affairs reached Grant, who told himself that he had ceased to be interested in them, but kept an alert ear nevertheless. It would seem that Transley rather eclipsed his wife in the public eye.

So Grant set about with the development of his own farm, and kept his mind occupied with it and with his larger experiment—except when it went flitting with thoughts of Phyllis Bruce. He had written to Murdoch to engage Phyllis at any price and bring her West with him. She would be needed in the new business. He had intuited that the change would be permanent, and that it might be well to bring the family.

He selected a farm where a ridge of foothills overlooked a broad valley opening into the mountains. The dealer had no idea of selling him this particular piece of land; they were bound for a half section further up the slope when Grant stopped on the brow of the hill to feast his eyes on the scene that lay before him. It burst upon him with the unexpectedness peculiar to a sharp ascent toward the snow-capped mountains looking down silently through their gauze of blue-purple afternoon mist. At distance which even his trained eye would not attempt to compute lay little round lakes like silver coins on the surface of the prairie; here and there were dark green mounds of spruce; to the right a ribbon of river, blue-green save where the rapids churned it white, and along its edge a fringe of leafy cottonwoods; at vast intervals square black plots of plowed land like sections on a chessboard of the golds, and farm buildings cut so clear in the mountain atmosphere that the sense of space was lost and they seemed like child-houses just across the way.

Grant turned to his companion with an animation on his face which almost startled the prosaic dealer in real estate.

"Wonderful! Wonderful!" he exclaimed. "We don't need to go any farther if you can sell me this."

"Sure I can sell you this," said the dealer, looking at him somewhat queerly. "That is, if you want it. I thought you were looking for a wheat farm."

The man's total lack of appreciation irritated Grant unreasonably. "What fills the belly," he retorted; "but sunsets keep alive the soul. What is the price?"

Again the dealer gave him a queer sidelong look, and made as though to argue with him, then suddenly seemed to change his purpose. Perhaps he reflected that strange things happened to the boys overseas.

"I'll get you the price in town," he said. "You are sure it will suit?"

"Suit? No king in Christendom has his palace on a site like this. I'd go round the world for it."

"You're the doctor," said the dealer, turning his car.

manifested a sympathy amounting to an indifference toward the whims of his employer. So long as the wages were sure Peter cared not whether the house was finished this year or next—or not at all. He enjoyed Grant's cooking in the temporary workshop they had built; he enjoyed Grant's stories of funny incidents of the war which would crop out at unexpected moments, and which were always good for a new pipe and a few minutes' rest; he even essayed certain nights of his own, which showed that Peter was a creature not entirely devoid of humor. He developed an appreciation of scenery; he would stand for long intervals gazing across the valley. Grant was not deceived by these little devices, but he never took Peter to task for his loitering. "If the old dodger isn't quite paying his way now, no doubt he has more than paid it many times in the past," he mused. "This is an occasion upon which to temper justice with mercy."

But it was in the planning and building of the house he found his real delight. He laid it out on very modest lines, as became the amount of money he was prepared to spend. It was to be a single-story bungalow, with veranda round the south and west. The living-room ran across the south side; into its east wall he built a fireplace, with narrow sills cupboards to right and left, and in windows to right and left, and in the western wall were deep French windows commanding the magic of the view across the valley. The dining-room, too, faced to the west, with more French windows to let in sun and soul. The kitchen was to the east, and off the kitchen lay Grant's bedroom, facing also to the east, as becomes a man who rises early for his day's labor. And then facing the west, and opening off the dining-room, was what he was pleased to call his whim-room.

The idea of the whim-room came upon him as he was working out plans on the smooth side of a board, and thinking about things in general, and a good deal about Phyllis Bruce, who had just arrived from the East, and wondering if he should ever run across her Transley. It struck him all of a sudden, as had the Big Idea that night when he was on his way home from Murdoch's house. He worked it out surreptitiously, not allowing even old Peter to see it until he had made it into his plan, and then he described it just as the whim-room. But it was to be by all means the best room in the house; special finishing and flooring lumber were to be bought for it; the fireplace had to be done in a peculiarly delicate tile; the French windows must be high and wide and of the most brilliant transparency.

The ring of the saw, the trill of the plane, the thwack of the hammer, were very pleasant music in his ears. Day by day he watched his dwelling grow with the infinite joy of creating, and night after night he crept with Peter into the workshop and slept the sleep of a man tired and contented. In the long summer evenings the sunlight hung like a champagne curtain over the mountains even after bedtime, and Grant had to cut a hole in the wall of the shed that he might watch the dying colors of the day fade from crimson to purple to blue on the tassels of cloud-wraith floating in the sunset sky. At times Linder and Murdoch would visit him to report progress on the Big Idea, and the three would sit on a bench in the half-built house, sweet with the fragrance of new sawdust, and smoke placidly while they dithered matters of policy or administration.

Grant was almost sorry when the house was finished. "There's so much more enjoyment in doing things than in merely possessing them after they're done," he philosophized to Linder. "I think that must be the secret of the peculiar fascination of the West. The East, with all its culture and conveniences and beauty, can never win a heart which has once known the West. That is because in the East all the obvious things are done, but in the West they are still to do."

"You should worry," said Linder. "You still have the plowing."

"Yes, and as soon as the stable is finished I am going to buy four horses and get to work."

"I supposed you would use a tractor."

"Not this time. I can admire a piece of machinery, but I can't love it. I can love horses."

"You'll be housing them in the whim-room," Linder remarked dryly, and had to jump to escape the hammer which his chief shied at him.

But the plowing was really a great experience. Grant had an eye for horseflesh, and the four dapple grays which pressed their fine shoulders into the harness of his breaking plow might have delighted the heart of any teamster. As he sat on his steel seat and watched the colter cut the firm sod with brittle cracking sound as it snapped the tough roots of the wild roses, or looking back, saw the regular terraces of shiny black mold which marked his progress, he felt that he was engaged in a rite of almost sacramental significance.

"To take a substance straight from the hand of the Creator and be the first in all the world to impose a human will upon it is surely an occasion for solemnity and thanksgiving," he soliloquized. "How can anyone be so gross as to see only materialism in such work as this? Surely it has something of fundamental religion in it! Just as from the soil springs all physical life, may it not be that deep down in the soil are, some way, the roots of the spiritual? The soil feeds the city in two ways: it fills its belly with material food, and it is continually re-energizing its spirit with fresh streams of energy which can come only from the land. Up from the soil comes life, all progress, all development—"

At that moment Grant's plowshare struck a submerged boulder, and he was dumped precipitately into that element which he had been so generously apostrophizing. The well-trained horses came to a stop as he gathered himself up, none the worse, and regained his seat.

"That was a spill," he commented. "Ditched not only myself, but my whole train of thought. Never mind; I was dangerously close to the development of a new whim, and I am well supplied in that particular already. Hello, whom have we here?"

The horses had come to a stop a short distance before the end of the furrow, and Grant, glancing ahead, saw immediately in front of them a little chap of four or five obstructing the way. He stood astride of the furrow with widespread legs bridging the distance from the virgin prairie to the upturned soil. He was fatless, and his curls of silky yellow hair fell about his round, bright face. His hands were stuck unobtrusively in his trouser pockets.

"Well, son, what's the news?" said Grant, when the two had measured each other for a moment.

"I got braces," the boy replied proudly. "Don't you see?"

"Why, so you have?" Grant exclaimed. "Come around here until I see them better."

So encouraged, the little chap came skipping around the horses, and exhibited his braces for Grant's admiration. But he had already become interested in another subject.

"Are these your horses?" he demanded.

"Yes."

"Will they bite?"

"Why, no, I don't believe they would. They have been very well brought up."

"What do you call them?"

"This one is Prince, on the left, and the others are Queen, and King, and Knave. I call him Knave because he's always scheming, trying to get out of his share of the work, and I make him walk on the plowed land, too."

"That serves him right," the boy declared. "What's your name?"

"Why—what's yours?"

"Wilson?"

"Just Wilson."

"What does your mother call you?"

"Oh."

"What's your name?"

"Call me The Man on the Hill."

"Do you live on the hill?"

"Yes."

"Is that your house?"

"Yes."

"Did you make it?"

"Yes."

"All yourself?"

"No, Peter helped me."

"Who's Peter?"

"He is the man who helped me."

"Oh!"

"Common Labor"

The cripple thumped his crutch on the ground as he confronted his lawyer.

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

HEAPING MEASURES

OUR dealings with others, in our social contacts and communication, if we give heaping measure, whether it be good or evil, it will return some day before the ending of our career, to cheer or depress us.

A kindly word spoken to a boy or girl, as he or she steps upon the threshold of life to do battle, is never forgotten, nor is the frown or the expulsive that condemns and finds fault without reason.

The human heart keeps an accurate diary. It records events which in later life, as the yellowed pages are fingered, startle men and women out of their senses. The blots and tear-stains, the underscored sentences written so hastily, and sometimes boldly and defiantly, tell the tale of the years that are gone.

Mother and father, who chided us for our waywardness, never discontinued giving us heaping measures of love, which often in our irresponsible moments we rejected.

Thinking of them in the morning when we shave our stubble beard, or apply the lip-stick and powder puff, we resolve to do good; and make everybody we meet brighter and happier. And usually we make a pitiful job of it.

Has a man like this proposed to you? Symptoms: Looks rather like a bearded dumpling. Sunny Jim is gloomy by his side. Has a woman lashed to the mast with his love gags. He does you from Canada to Cape of Good Hope. He loves to think of himself as the ideal lover—but you can't weave romance about his tub-like personality. His letters are gushing fountains.

IN FACT He is not the sought-for fountain of youth but of babble. Prescription for Bride: R Early—Listen well. Rest-cure when he's away—Hold him to the text of his song. Absorb This: SERENADES ARE BETTER THAN LEMONADES.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

Don't be afraid of changing your mind. Every day change, why then should you opinions remain the same? Thinking means development. Doing means change. Without thinking you drift backward—Lied.

DISHES FOR THE CAMPER

A GOOD, hot sandwich which may be eaten and enjoyed out of doors is an egg and onion sandwich. Use a little butter, the amount depending upon the number of eggs to be cooked, add a sliced onion and fry until well-cooked in the butter, then add the eggs and enough milk to cook until smooth, stirring well all the time. Place on buttered bread and cover with another slice.

Handburger steak made in small cakes and cooked over a baking sheet set over coals is a most appetizing dish to eat out of doors. Season the meat well with chopped onion, salt and pepper and use a pancake turner to turn the meat. Tender green onions and potato salad are good accompaniments. A nice dessert which may be served with any kind of fresh berries in season is sponge cake or angel food, cut into squares and served with crushed and sweetened strawberries.

Baked beans are always a good dish for a camping party. Fried chicken, which has been fried and packed at home, or steak cooked in a frying pan over the campfire are all good. Fresh fish caught and dressed, cooked and ready to eat in a short time after they are taken from the water, are a dish which almost anybody will enjoy. Fry them in plenty of butter and serve them crisp, brown and well-done.

The young lady across the way says she has been having a good deal of trouble with her eyes lately and she hopes she won't have to wear glasses, but doesn't feel optimistic about it.

THE AFTERWHILES

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

MY DAD was queer about some things; I never heard him worry much that other people lived like kings. While we had little such and such, I used to think our lot was hard. Because there wasn't much in sight; He said I wouldn't afterward—And he was right.

For, looking backward down the years, I seldom think of what we had. I just remember smiles and tears. And things like that—and mostly dad. I don't remember who were poor. I don't remember who were rich; I can't remember now for sure. Just which was which.

You just remember joys and pains. You had together, that is all; Some simple memory remains. That makes mere money might; small. I just remember tears and smiles. The rest is lost to sense and sight. Dad said these made the afterwhiles—And dad was right.

cover with boiling water and cook for a few minutes before adding the fish, then cook until the fish is well-done. Season well, add a quart of rich milk and half a dozen milk crackers dipped in boiling water. Serve with a cracker in each bowl.

Reflections of a Bachelor Girl

By HELEN ROWLAND

IF I could write the ten commandments of matrimony, the first nine would be—"Mind Your Own Business!"

Many a man stops loving his wife so gradually that he never finds it out, unless she happens to mention it to him.

Never believe a man when he says he is "through with women, forever"—nor a dentist when he says "it won't hurt."

Every woman prays to be ideally happy, but she can endure being passionately miserable; it's being durable, dully, eternally UNCOMFORTABLE, that makes Reno sound so alluring to the average wife.

An "understanding" is simply that point in a love affair, where the man understands that the girl will marry him, if he can make up his mind to ask her.

Perhaps the reason why the ideas of the rising generation are so inflated is because it is being brought up chiefly on a yeast cake.

Once a woman has let a man see that she admires him, it is useless for her to tell him that her admiration has cooled. A man's mind is a perfect thermos bottle for keeping flattering impressions of himself at just the right temperature.

It's a clever woman who can keep her husband from ever discovering what a string of "also rans" he won out against.

PLYMOUTH SELF-FEED ENSILAGE CUTTERS

"Plymouth" Feed Cutters are the result of twenty-five years' experience and practical study of conditions and needs in the farm and dairy field. They embrace every advantage known to other similar machines, and many vital features which are original with us and can be had only in the "Plymouth Self-Feed." Below are some mighty strong points for you to think about before you buy a feed cutter.

Automatic Self-Feed—This feature consists of a traveling feed chain, made of heavy iron slats securely riveted to a chain which passes over the lower feed roller. Throw the fodder into the feed box and the "Plymouth" does the rest.

Danger-Proof Self-Feed Rollers—Here's another strong feature original with the "Plymouth." It consists of four large rollers of cast iron. The traveling feed chain passes over the lower hind roller, just passing the lower front roller, which is six inches in diameter, and smooth. The two upper and lower hind rollers are ribbed. The 8-inch automatic roller at the top, to the rear, is a special feature of the "Plymouth." It acts as a lever or weight to keep the fodder passing through continuously, depending on its own gravity to keep the material going through without a hitch. Two coil springs serve to exert an even and steady pressure on the automatic roller as the volume of fodder increases in going through. The spring feature is entirely automatic, and is only to be had in the "Plymouth." It absolutely prevents clogging.

DRAW HEAVY FINES

Emmett and Harold Ryan, two young farmers from near Eden, found automobiling in this village, while intoxicated, a rather expensive proposition. The two young men drove to this village last Saturday afternoon and when Marshal Geo. F. Brandt, noticed the condition they were in, arrested them and ordered them to appear in Justice of the Peace Geo. H. Schmidt's court on Monday afternoon at two o'clock. When they appeared they pleaded guilty to the charge and were fined $50.00 and costs, amounting to a little over $54.00, which was paid. The act of driving a car in this village when intoxicated, will not and cannot be tolerated, due to the heavy traffic that is now passing through Kewaskum. The fines imposed upon the two young men ought to be a good warning.

Implement Shed, Garage and Farm Workshop Under One Roof

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD

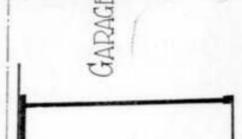

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to the subject of building work on the farm, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as Editor, Author and Manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only include two-cent stamp for reply.

Combining the implement shed, garage and farm workshop all under one roof is a means by which much labor is saved during the time when farm machinery and implements are required. This work usually is done in winter or on rainy days, and by combining the three buildings under one roof, much unpleasantness is avoided.

The combination building shown is a practical and inexpensive design. The shed portion for the housing of the implements, wagons and machinery has an open front, but would be much better were the openings closed by sliding doors. The garage section has a concrete floor and is closed by sliding doors at both ends, allowing the car to be driven in one side and out the other. The repair shop also has a concrete floor and is of weather-tight construction, so that repair work can be done comfortably in winter.

The building is 62 feet long and 22 feet wide. The machinery shed and garage are separated by a full partition. The repair shop is really a separate building, although under the same roof. The building is of frame construction, on a concrete foundation.

The shop equipment indicated on the floor plan consists of a large workbench and a forge. However there is plenty of floor space for any other equipment the owner desires to install. Protecting machinery against the weather is one of the most economical things a farmer can do, as housing it gives it a much longer life and keeps it in good condition for use. When a farm shop also is maintained it is comparatively simple to make necessary repairs and replace worn parts.

Floor Plan.

Tight walls and a tight roof are all that are necessary in a machinery shed building, but it should be made certain that they are tight, and consequently, good construction methods should be used.

The cost of such a building as this is earned several times over during its life by the savings it makes in machinery bills.

Proper Draperies Are Aid to Home Beauty

With a great many housecleaning jobs again a thing of the past. Usually spring housecleaning means new draperies of a more springlike color and weight.

Like all other interior arrangements of the home, window draping to be effective means using the right thing in the right place. There is probably no other phase of home decoration that offers such a wide scope for the exercise of good taste as do the draperies.

In the selection of the materials the style of the window and the interior decorations of the room must be considered.

If the rooms are dark you will want to make them lighter. If they are flooded with sunshine you will want curtains that will give you the desired privacy without shutting out the light.

There are so many attractive ways of hanging curtains that it would be impossible to attempt a description.

The best method is to choose draperies at a store where there is an expert who will be glad to make suggestions and who will suggest the best methods of draping to suit your own type of home.

Two Rules for Better Heating in Small Homes

There are two things to watch when you buy your furnace. The first is the correctness of the installation, the second is the quality and the fuel efficiency of the furnace. Upon this depends ultimate cost.

Do not heat your home altogether on the say of your neighbor, or based solely on his experience, for the chances are your house is not absolutely the same as his and probably your requirements will be different from his.

The greatest mistake made in heating is putting the wrong type of furnace in the house. There is a type of ward as they are driven out of communities of lesser desirability.

Through this condition home builders should exercise the greatest care as the spreading out of the business and manufacturing sections must naturally take toll of the close residential sections, which in turn must move ahead, and with this movement goes the class of residents which may be undesirable neighbors to you.

Red Gum Wood Popular
Red gum wood is popular as a finishing wood in hospitals, because it is entirely odorless, and the grain is very close, making the wood aseptic. A minimum of resinous substance in the wood likewise makes it particularly well adapted to take paint. There is never any danger of the resin or sap coming through to spoil the decorated surface when finished.

Avoid Poor Seed
What a man sows that shall he reap. Use good clean seed of the correct variety and a high germination test.—Exchange.

YOUTHFUL ONE-PIECE FROCK; KNITTED SUITS NOW IN FAVOR

AN OUTCOME of the plaited skirt and blouse vogue is the one-piece dress which combines the two. Frocks of this type have a convincing argument in their favor in that the plaited skirt sewed to the blouse presents an eminently youthful appearance. The picture herewith proves the assertion. Platinum gray, first quality, is the chosen medium for this practical and desirable model. It is one of those dainty types which is ready for every occasion. The flowery vines which so gracefully pattern the blouse are embroidered in lacquer red and green characters. Thus the vogue for the Chinese is presented in an entirely new conception as applied to knitted art.

The appearance of knitted suits on the horizon is indeed a welcome event in the field of fashion, bringing with it a trend of countless new and refreshing ideas. In some instances the strictly tailored note is maintained to a nicety. Such is a very handsome navy blue model recently developed in a knit and fiber mixture with plain fiber knit binding. All the regulations noted were observed in doubly-notched coat collar, mannish double-breast buttoning, proper cuffs and plain skirt. An overwhelming argument in favor of the knitted suit is that it does not wrinkle.

One of the smart outcomes of the knitted suit vogue is a model of color knit with ribs simulating plaits at each side. With this comes a Jacquette wrought in gayest plaid, the same produced entirely through knitted stitch.

It is noted that the shopper on the fashionable city thoroughfare prefers neutral and monotone effects, reserving the brighter and pastel shades for country club events and gay resort

20-penny Ad—One extra heavy, yellow horizontal colored girl wanted, steady housework.

The diet list of Finland's athletes consists of black bread, dried fish, fresh meat and fruit occasionally.

The height of a full-grown and well proportioned woman should be six and a quarter times the length of her foot.

It is an old saying that the minute a person comes into ownership of a piece of land he has other people working to help him toward independence.

William Farel, an itinerant French preacher, brought about the establishment of the Reformation in Geneva in August, 1535, and in the following year induced Calvin to settle in Geneva. He was banished from Geneva in 1578.

"Isn't a lawsuit involving a patent right about the dulcett thing imaginable?" asked one court fan of another. "Not always," was the reply. "I attended a case not long ago that was really funny. A tall lawyer named Short was reading a 6,000-word document he called a brief."

An inmate of the Pennsylvania Home for Working Blind has become known as a philosopher among his fellows for his ability to estimate the values of life. "A man is as rich as his power to dream," he said. He maintains such power is far greater in value than material riches.

The natives of Australia consume every year millions of butterflies. These insects live largely in the mountain rocks. The natives catch them by lighting wood fires, the smoke of which suffocates them. The natives collect them in baskets, put them in the oven and, after having sifted them to get rid of the wings, make them into a sort of tart, much appreciated among connoisseurs.

The oldest known book relating exclusively to Brazil is the "History of the Province of Santa Cruz," which was published at Lisbon in 1576. Its author is Pedro de Gandavo, of whose life little is known.

Mark Twain was not affiliated with any church or religious organization. He seems to have been what is usually called a "free-thinker," that is, he did not accept the Scriptures as inspired or authoritative spiritual writings. He was often accused of dealing with sacred things in a somewhat irreverent manner.

Just as it rises and sets on the moon just as it does on the earth, says Nature Magazine. Twenty-nine of our days on the moon, and then is below the horizon for an equal length of time.

In the Middle Ages in England many drinking pots were made with hoops so that when two or more persons drank from the same pot or tankard no one of them should take more than his share, each hoop marking a half, a third or a fourth of the contents of the pot, according to its maker.

WHAT TO HAVE FOR DINNER

"Since Eve ate apples, much depends on dinner." The planning of good dinners suitable to one's means and family is no small problem.

Filet of Beef With Vegetables.—Wipe a three-pound filet and remove the fat. Put a half-pound of butter in a hot frying pan and when melted add the filet and brown frequently until well seared and turned, then turn occasionally until well cooked—about thirty minutes. Remove the meat to a serving dish and garnish with a cupful each of peas and carrots cut into fancy shapes. Season well and add one-half pound of mushrooms sautéed in a little butter. Serve with:

Brown Mushroom Sauce.—Mushrooms are to be had for the gathering these days, as the fields are full of the delicious vegetable until frost comes. Take one-fourth cupful of the fat from the frying pan, add five table-spoonfuls of flour and stir until well browned; add a cupful of soup stock, a third of a cupful of mushroom liquor and one-half pound of mushrooms which have been cooked in butter five minutes. Season with salt and pepper; just before serving add the remaining butter in the frying pan. The liquor of mushrooms is obtained by cooking the stems in cold water to cover. Simmer until reduced to one-third of a cupful.

Onion Beef.—Try out two thin slices of salt pork and remove the scraps. Wipe three pounds of beef cut from the rump and sprinkle with salt and pepper and flour; brown the beef in hot fat, turning carefully and surround with the following vegetables: One-fourth of a cupful each of onion, turnip, celery and carrot cut fine; add a teaspoonful of salt and one-half teaspoonful of peppercorns. Cover with three cupfuls of boiling water and cover closely, cooking four hours. Baste the meat every half hour, keeping the liquid at the simmering point. Serve with a brown sauce made from the liquor in the pan.

Rained by Ridicule. One fine ruled the whole of a splendid play "Sophonisba" written in 1790 by James Thomson. The line read, "O, Sophonisba, Sophonisba O." It was immediately parodied everywhere, "O Jenny Thomson, Jenny Thomson O."

Protection. If, as one woman writer says, girls seldom marry the men who waste money on them, there evidently is method in some men's madness.

The Kitchen Cabinet

(©, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

"If every tree in all the wood could take some mortal form And leave the place where it has stood under sunshine and through storm, The lofty pine would be a knight In armor strong and rare. The slender birch, with dress so white, would be his lady fair."

SOMETHING GOOD

Here is a choice pound cake which is not too expensive for an occasional indulgence:

Pound Cake.—Cream two-thirds of a cupful of butter; add one cupful of sugar, the well-beaten yolks of four eggs; add a little of a cupful of flour, sifted with one teaspoonful of baking powder and then add one teaspoonful of milk. Mix well and add the rest of the flour and the stiffly-beaten whites. Bake in a paper-lined pan for forty minutes.

A clever way to serve apple dumplings or any fruit dumplings, except too juicy fruit, is to slice the fruit into muffin rings, set in an agate pan and cover with a rich biscuit dough on top; bake as usual. Remove carefully and a shapely dumpling will result.

Raisin and Celery Salad.—Cut into small pieces two cupfuls of tender celery, two oranges, broken into bits, and two-thirds of a cupful of raisins, seeded and plumped over steam. Add one cupful of grated apple to a cupful of mayonnaise and cover the fruit. This is an especially delicious combination.

Cassole.—This is a famous French dishing which is both historical and appetizing. Soak over night a quart of lima beans; in the morning bring to the boiling point and drain. Add fresh boiling water, a teaspoonful of salt, and cook until nearly done. Now place in a casserole two cupfuls of cooked chicken or duck, the drained beans, an onion, chopped, one-half cupful of strained tomato, a quart of hot broth and a teaspoonful of kitchen bouquet. Bake one hour, then uncover; sprinkle with a little chopped parsley, brown and serve.

Popcorn Wafers.—When one wants to serve a tasty little cracker with a cup of tea or a glass of ginger ale try these: Take one cupful of popcorn, dry through a meat grinder and add to boiled frosting. Heap on salted wafers and bake in a quick oven.

Another Raspberry Crisp.—For every four quarts of berries add one quart of vinegar—good old vinegar. Cover the jar of fruit and let stand three days; if cool weather, four, straining the jelly bag and for each pint of the juice add one pound of sugar. Cook gently for twenty minutes, then bottle and seal. Store in a cool, dark place.

We should encourage others by our faith and cheer, but we have no right to dishearten them by doubt and gloom.

Guard at New York State Penitentiary Suffered Ten Years From Catarrh

Now He Used PE-RU-NA

Mr. Charles S. Many, 12 Water St., Ossining, N. Y., writes: "I had catarrh for ten years, tried a lot of medicines, spent a lot of money but it did me no good. Instead of getting better I grew worse. My eyes were bloodshot, my nose smelled bad, and I would get so dizzy I would be forced to catch hold of something to keep from falling. I used about ten bottles of Pe-ru-na and am cured of catarrh, the dizzy feeling has left me and I am not bothered any more. I keep Pe-ru-na in the house and when I feel a cold coming on I take a little. It does me good."

SUFFERED PAIN FOR YEARS

Mrs. Jahr Finally Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Howard Lake, Minnesota. "I write to let you know that I have taken several bottles of your medicine in the last three months, and found it to be very good. I had pains and other troubles women have and was unable to do my work. Seeing your 'Ad.' in the paper, I thought of giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. I got good results from it and feel able to do my housework now. I used to have lots of pains, but after taking the medicine I am relieved from pains that I had suffered from for years. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to my friends, and hope this letter will be satisfactory for you to publish." Mrs. JENNIE JAHR, R. R. No. 2, Box 4, Howard Lake, Minn.

WHY DRUGGISTS RECOMMEND SWAMP-ROOT

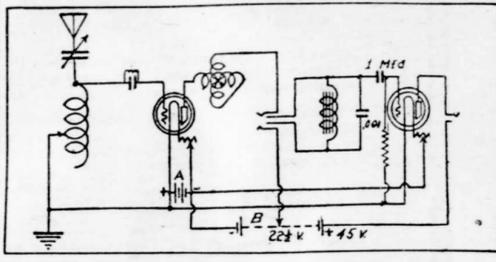

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder medicine. It is a physician's prescription. Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine that helps the kidneys, liver and bladder to do the work nature intended they should do. Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is used by all druggists on its merit and it should help you. No other kidney medicine has so many friends. Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing, be sure and mention this paper.—Advertisement.

Type of Amplification Known as Choke Coil Amplification—Employs Simple Iron Core Choke Coil in Place of Amplifying Transformer.

Audio amplification may be obtained in a number of different ways, one of which is shown in the accompanying diagram. It is a radical departure from the usual transformer type of audio amplification and is said to be extremely clear in its ability to reproduce music and voice. The builder does not have to go to the expense of buying an audio transformer, and transformer ratios are the least of his worries. This type of amplification is known as choke coil amplification, as it employs a simple iron core choke coil in place of the amplifying transformer. This choke coil may consist of the primary of a bell-ringing transformer. Most any transformer will do as they are designed with the same number of turns to work on the 110-volt A. C. circuit. The ingenious experimenter will find that good results may be obtained from the secondary of an automobile spark coil which is slipped over an iron core. The market also affords an assortment of choke coils if the experimenter wishes to purchase them. The circuit shown in the cut is similar to the Greene receiver, but it is not necessary to employ this circuit with choke coil amplification. It will work well with almost any type of receiving circuit. A jack is shown connected to the detector and amplifier circuit. Two steps of this system may be used if necessary and may be wired up just the same as the first step. A 1 mfd. telephone condenser is shown in series with the grid of the amplifier tube. This condenser is necessary as it will keep the high voltage from being applied to the grid. The choke coil is shunted with a .001 mica condenser. This capacity will vary depending upon the impedance of the coil. A grid leak connected between the grid of the amplifier tube and the negative of the "A" battery is also required. Experimenters who build this circuit may find that it does not produce quite the volume of the high-ratio amplifying transformer, but will agree that it gives a much better quality of tone on the musical numbers and the vocal selections.

Mounting Easily Made and Quite Efficient

Herein is described a combination bearing and mounting for a home-made variometer or variocoupler which can be built very easily and will prove quite efficient. The sketch is self-explanatory, but a description of the mounting may prove helpful. A variometer or variocoupler, light in weight, preferably made of thin bakelite tubing or cardboard, should be used in conjunction with this mounting. The mounting consists of a 1/4-inch brass tube about 2 inches long, with an inside diameter large enough for a 3/4-inch brass rod to rotate freely inside, this rod to be about 1 1/2 inches longer than the tube. The tube should be threaded at both ends for about 3/4 of an inch. A brass washer should be threaded to fit the 1/4-inch tube. A nut and a plain washer are now placed on one end of the tube, and the tube is inserted through the panel from the rear, through a 1/4-inch hole. The threaded washer should be screwed on the projecting tube so that the end is flush with the face of the washer. The nut on the inside is now tightened and the tube is rigidly held at right angles to the other end of the tube with the primary of the variometer or coupler between them, but these nuts are not tightened until the secondary is in place. To mount the tube from the outside and the secondary securely fastened on it between two nuts. The secondary can be centered in the primary by moving the nuts on the tube backward or forward. When the correct position is found, these nuts are tightened. A bushing is made of a piece of 1/4-inch brass tube, 1/2-inch long, to be slipped on the rod so a standard dial may be employed. This bushing should have a small hole drilled through one side so the dial set screw may be fastened on the rod beneath.—Radio News.

For Mounting Variometer or Variocoupler—Only One Hole in Panel.

Proper Use of Shellac in Constructing Coils During the last three years shellac has obtained a bad name as a coil binder. Constant hammering by writers is the cause of this. However, if shellac is thinned with alcohol to one-half its original volume it makes an excellent binder and will not materially affect the electrical qualities of the coil. If just a thin coating is applied to the coil. Colloidion seems to have taken the place of the shellac binding of the old days. But many fans make the mistake of using this colloidion straight from the bottle that it comes in. Before using colloidion it should be thinned to one-half its original volume, as with the shellac, with ether. This ether may be bought in any drug store in pound cans. A very thin coating of the colloidion should be used and it should be applied quickly, as it dries very fast. Why does a loafer always bother a man when he's busy?

"B" Batteries Affected by Heat From Radiator

Sometimes radio sets are placed near a radiator or right next to one, the object being to make a short ground lead. The idea is good from a practical point of view, but the reason for this being that this position of the set must necessarily bring the batteries close to the radiator. The heat from the radiator is harmful to both "A" and "B" batteries, especially those of the dry-cell type. The set should be at least five feet from any heating device that is in continuous operation.

Grid Leak on Transformers

There is another use for a high resistance unit other than as a grid leak. This is as an absorber of low frequency noises usually prevalent in audio frequency amplifiers. The resistance should have a value of one-quarter of a megohm, and can be used on a noisy amplifier. The unit should be connected across the secondary of the transformers.

Egg Grades for Country Buyers

Try to Simplify Standards and Facilitate Trading on Uniform Basis.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Buyers' egg grades have been prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture in an effort to simplify egg standards and to facilitate trading on a uniform basis between producers and country buyers. Only two grades, No. 1 and No. 2, are provided for round shell eggs.

Grade No. 1 consists of eggs of an average weight of 24 ounces net per dozen with a minimum weight at the rate of 22 ounces per dozen for individual eggs. The shell shall be practically clean and sound; the air cell shall be of a depth of 3/8-inch or less, localized, and may be slightly translucent; the yolk may be visible and mobile; the white reasonably firm, and the development of the germ may be slightly visible.

Grade No. 2 consists of eggs of an average weight of 22 ounces net per dozen with a minimum weight at the rate of 18 ounces per dozen for individual eggs; the shell, clean or dirty, but sound; the air cell having a depth of over 3/8-inch, and bubbly or freely mobile; the yolk plainly visible and freely mobile; the white weak and watery, and the germ development clearly visible but with no blood showing.

Despite heavy prospective production of eggs this year, the supply of eggs of high quality will not be excessive and will bring much better prices proportionately than ordinary eggs. The department points out in urging farmers to produce high quality eggs to market them through agencies or to buyers who appreciate quality and will pay for it. Under the present system of paying a flat price for eggs the producers of good quality eggs are penalized by receiving a lower price than their eggs are worth, whereas the careless producer whose eggs are poor or bad receives more than he is justly entitled to receive, the department says. Use of the buyers' egg grades just promulgated is expected to correct this situation.

Pruning Tomatoes Will Greatly Increase Size

The size of tomatoes can be greatly increased, and the season of ripening can be hastened, by pruning tomato plants to one stem and by training them to stakes. By this method, the tomatoes are lifted up from the ground and do not rot as readily. The size is increased, possibly because most of the plant food which would go into the formation of extra leaves goes into the production of tomatoes instead. Pruning should commence as soon as the suckers or shoots start to form in the axils of the leaves of the plant. This should be cut before they attain any great size. If these are kept out continually, the plant automatically has but one stem. The final ripening of the crop can be further hastened by pinching off the terminal bud when six or seven clusters of tomatoes have been set on the plant.

Continual War on Weeds Necessary for Big Crop

If you are to grow a record crop on your corn patch, you will have to fight the weeds continually. They are one of the worst enemies of corn. They use up much of the food and water which should go to the corn plants. Just as soon as the corn plants are a few inches high, use the cultivator. The first cultivation may be fairly deep because the root system is not extensive. The following cultivations should be shallow to avoid cutting the roots. Four cultivations during the season are generally considered an economical number to make. Above all have your corn patch clean, and if this requires more than four cultivations, make them. Besides getting rid of the weeds, cultivation lets air into the soil making the corn roots large and stronger, and it makes a soil "munch" which helps to prevent loss of soil moisture through evaporation.

Curing Alfalfa Hay in Cocks to Save Leaves

There is general agreement that putting alfalfa hay into cocks in the field saves more of the leaves—the best part of the feed—than when curing is done in the windrow, but it takes more labor and, since more time is required, there is more danger from rain. Where the weather promises to be fair for two or three days, it may be advisable to hurry the curing by doing most of it in the windrow. The amount of shatterings will be greater than when the curing is done in the cock, provided the weather remains fair in both cases. However, when the hay is cocked it requires longer to cure, thus increasing the danger of exposure to unfavorable weather. If the hay is exposed to several days' rain, even though cocked, the loss is likely to be greater than would result from taking advantage of the favorable weather and curing more rapidly.

Best Orchards Demand

A soil adapted to the fruit grown. Planting of hardy varieties. Care in planting. Plenty of moisture. An adapted and thorough system of soil management. Pruning which conserves the energies of the tree and lightens the orchard work. Spraying of a character which will control the pests and make the fruit edible and salable.

Give Tomatoes Room

Do not allow tomato plants to grow close-together. Transplant them to grow boxes or frames and give each plant room enough to become stout stemmed and sturdy. If well hardened off, they may be set in the open ten days earlier.

Docked Lambs Bring High Market Price

In Warm Weather Pine Tar Should Be Put on Tail.

Failure to dock and trim lambs costs New York sheep growers a tidy sum every year, for lambs that reach the market without this having been done bring a lower price.

"When the lambs are from one to two weeks old they ought to be castrated," says R. B. Hinman of the state college at Ithaca. "Select a bright day. Have the lambs on clean dry bedding, or if on pasture, have them on clean, dry grass. Provide some warm water containing a disinfectant. Wash the hands clean. Have a sharp knife, dip both hands and knife in this solution."

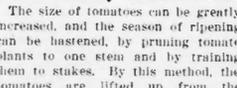

"It is well when there are a number of lambs to be castrated to sort them from the flock. 'Have someone catch a lamb and hold it up against his chest with its four legs together. The operator takes hold of the scrotum and cuts off one-third of the lower end. The testicles, now being exposed, are pulled out slowly, one at a time. After this, drop some of the disinfectant into the holes and put the lamb with its mother."

"A week after the buck lambs have been castrated and are almost healed, all lambs, ewes, and wethers should be docked. This work is commonly done with a chisel and block. A sharp knife is also used. The regular docking pliers, however, are better, as their use prevents loss of blood. They should be heated till they are red hot. In warm weather, when flies are troublesome, pine tar should be put on the stub of the tail to prevent attack by maggots. This operation can be performed by anybody exercising a little care."

BAPTIST MINISTER GIVES TANLAC FULL CREDIT

No greater praise can be accorded a medicine than the voluntary testimony of a minister of the gospel. The preacher's high calling puts a grave responsibility on his every word, and he will not jeopardize his reputation by commending a thing without first assuring himself it is all right.

Tanlac has been endorsed by numbers of prominent ministers. They have put Tanlac to the test of personal service and their words carry conviction because they say what they know to be the truth.

One of the latest to speak out in behalf of Tanlac is Rev. E. E. Bell, a retired Baptist minister, 207 Elm St., San Antonio, Texas, who says: "Before taking Tanlac I had suffered from stomach and nerve troubles for over 30 years and there were times when my condition was such that it required almost superhuman effort for me to prepare my sermons and go through with my Sunday services. Indeed, my work seemed like some great obstacle across my pathway—a burden too big to carry in my weak physical condition. "But in six weeks' time Tanlac transformed my entire outlook, giving me what seemed like a new set of nerves and a brand-new digestive system. My appetite became ravenous, my nerves steady, my liver action regular and I could sleep sound for the first time in years. Whenever I have the slightest symptoms of trouble now I always resort to Tanlac, am taking some at present, and it never fails to smooth things out for me. I certainly have the best of reasons for feeling grateful to Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold. Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation; made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

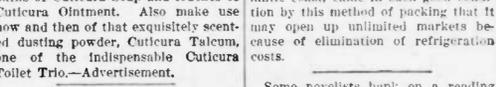

At Last! She—"I'm telling you for the last time that you can't kiss me." He—"Ah, I knew you'd weaken eventually."
