"IT ISN'T ENDED"

SYNOPSIS—Nurses in the Southern hospital at Avonmouth are angered by the insolent treatment accorded them by Dr. John Lancaster, head of the institution, and there is a general feeling of unrest, into which Miss Wentworth, probationary nurse, is drawn. Doctor Lancaster is performing a difficult operation, for which he has won fame. Joan, with other nurses, is in attendance. She is upset, through no fault of her own, and makes a trivial blunder at a critical moment. The patient dies and Doctor Lancaster accuses her of clumsiness. She is suspended, the action meaning the end of her hope of a career as a nurse.

CHAPTER II—Continued

In the town of forty thousand inhabitants Joan was as isolated as she had been in the latter years at home. Her life was as unsophisticated and as simple, and she was so unacquainted with the conditions and circumstances of existence that her dismissal seemed to her an irreparable disaster. She had won good opinions, she had been praised, and it seemed monstrous that her faintness at a critical moment should have ruined her whole life.

Joan was not hungry, but it was impossible to oppose the resolute insistence of Mrs. Webb, backed by the patient cook, whose black face, as she tilted from the kitchen to the dining room, radiated remorse and good intentions.

Inside the kitchen, seen through the open door, was Amanda, the cook, and Mrs. Webb, the landlady. "Here's Amanda again!" Mrs. Webb called to Joan. "My dear, the idea of your running away without your breakfast this morning! Now you sit right down and have your lunch, Miss Wentworth!"

Joan was not hungry, but it was impossible to oppose the resolute insistence of Mrs. Webb, backed by the patient cook, whose black face, as she tilted from the kitchen to the dining room, radiated remorse and good intentions.

"One can't get along without the proper food at the proper time," said Mrs. Webb as she set down the dishes before Joan. "But I call it real sensible of you to have come home early. Some girls wouldn't have thought of that."

Joan choked suddenly, and Mrs. Webb perceived her distress. She bent over her and placed a kitchen-roughened hand upon her shoulder.

"My dear, what is it? What is the matter? Something gone wrong at that old hospital?" she asked. "Tell me now, honey!"

"It isn't anything, Mrs. Webb," said Joan, striving valiantly to keep back her tears. "Well, then, I'm—I'm discharged."

"You see, my dear," she went on, "if you were given that sort of face by the Almighty, why shouldn't you use it to get plain, common justice done on you? It's your job that's at stake, and you all alone in the world. All you've got to do is to make him forget that he's dealing with a nurse. There isn't anybody would think twice about it. Didn't Amanda do it this morning, coming to me with her big, black, honest face and looking at me so that I had to take her back, as I was glad enough to do? You go straight and see that old Lancaster and try it, that's all!"

A nurse passed the window and came up the steps. "Mrs. Webb, you won't say a word about what I've told you to the others, please?" asked Joan.

She flew upstairs and, flinging herself down on her bed, stared out dismally toward the monument. The catastrophe had swept her little, unsheltered world away. The sense of her loneliness swept over her like a black cloud, appalling her. She was cut off from life, and utterly helpless outside the medium in which she had lived.

Because she felt this sense of helplessness, her outraged pride began to vanish before the terrors that her imagination conjured up. Starvation, the ultimate terror of her childish days on the estate, which like a living thing had gnawed into her mother's nine hundred dollars, seemed incredibly real and near. She must ask for her position back!

She must face Lancaster in his humble, her pride, and how to him, she watched the sun decline and the shadows lengthen, and for a time she could not bring herself to her task.

What strengthened her at last was the realization that her status must be settled before she faced the day nurses coming home off duty. She slipped on her dress and went out of the house softly, and to escape the landlady's attentions Joan went hastily toward Lancaster's house. She had passed it almost daily on her journeys to and from the hospital. It was an ordinary brick house in a new block at the north end of the park, and commonplace enough, but now, to her excited eyes, it seemed to reflect the grim personality of its owner in the staring windows, with the shining door knobs of brass, and the brass name plate. Her heart was beating with panic, and it was with difficulty that she contrived to press the bell and to remain until the door was opened.

A white attendant confronted her—a sullen, undersized man with square shoulders, who scowled at her as he stood blocking the passage. "Doctor Lancaster?" asked Joan. "He doesn't see patients after five," answered the attendant after five. "I must see him. It is important," faltered the girl. "Well, I'll find out if he can see you," the fellow grumbled. "Walk in if you want to."

He had not recognized Joan's uniform beneath the cloak. She gave him her card and went into the waiting room. There the sense of the terror which made that place its domain, the accumulated fears of all who had ever waited there for the approaching verdict, seemed to leap out at her.

Then Joan heard Lancaster's voice in the next room, which was divided from his waiting room by folded doors. It was audible as a bass rumble, emerging occasionally into a distinguishable sound. Lancaster was talking with somebody, and he was growing angry. That was an ill omen of what was to come!

Joan braced her nerves. She was anything but a coward, and, having made up her mind, she intended to carry her scheme through. Suddenly Lancaster's voice was raised in violent altercation.

"A nice mess you've made of everything!" he cried. "I've tolerated you too long. I've been a fool, but I've finished with you now. Go back—here you came from!"

Another voice spoke in indistinct tones. It was that of a man, and it was almost absent in contrast with Lancaster's violence. "I've finished with you, I tell you!" cried Lancaster. "I've borne this burden long enough. You can get out of my house. You can get out of my life."

"I've borne it long enough, too," replied the other, doggedly. "Who started it? Who made the first proposal?"

"I did, out of kindness to you. And how have you repaid me?" "By placing myself, soul and body, at your service," retorted the second man, aroused into some show of spirit.

"Who picked you out of the gutter and set you on your feet?" rejoined the doctor. "Answer that! You can't! You know you can't! Where would you be today if it were not for me?" The second man said something in a low voice.

"Myers? A lot I care about that!" retorted Lancaster. "I tell you—what's that?" The white attendant was speaking at the door. Joan recognized his rasping voice.

"No! No!" cried Lancaster, violently. "I see nobody. Why can't these women come during my hours? Aren't they posted plainly enough upon the card in my window? Tell her—what? Important? Well, let her wait, then, until I get ready to see her."

The man's steps died away along the rear end of the passage. Joan heard the two men talking again. Then the sounds ceased. She heard the door in the adjoining room creak beneath a quick tread. Lancaster was coming in! Her fears gave her resolution. She would anticipate that movement, see him, insist. She left the waiting room and went into the hall.

It was hung with little pictures of a uniform size, each exactly like its neighbor. It came into the girl's mind, even during those few hasty steps, that this was essentially a man's house; a woman would have arranged things differently, have given the place personality, have made her presence felt somehow, even in the decoration of this dark passage. The atmosphere was that of an institution, not of a home.

Diagram of Regenerative Circuit Using Two Variocouplers—Has Good Distance Qualities and Gives Strong Signal.

By J. S. CAULFIELD
The variocoupler is used more for a single-circuit regenerative set than for any other use and most experimenters are inclined to feel that it is all it can be used for. There are other uses for it besides acting as a primary and plate coil. Two variocouplers may be used in one set and will make a selective as well as a sensitive regenerative set.

- 1. A regenerative circuit using two variocouplers is shown here with. It will be fairly new to the young fan, but it is a circuit that is very familiar to a great number of radio bugs. It has very good distance qualities and gives a very strong signal. The parts for this circuit are as follows:
1. 0.0025 mfd. variable condenser.
1. grid leak.
1. socket.
1. 100 mfd. fixed condenser.
1. rheostat.
1. A battery.
1. 2 1/2-volt B battery.
The primary of the variocoupler (P) is connected to the antenna and ground. One side of the secondary (S) is connected to one side of the primary (L1) of the second variocoupler. The taps are brought to a switch and the switch is connected to the grid through the 0.0025 mfd. grid condenser (C2). The secondary (L2) is connected to the plate and one side of the telephones. A 0.005 mfd. variable condenser (C1) is connected across the switch on L1 and the filament return of the secondary (S). The filament is connected in the conventional manner.

Ten Good Rules for Broadcast Listeners

- 1. Don't try to hear Australia in midsummer. Be satisfied to enjoy the nearer stations most of the time.
- 2. Don't be disappointed if an occasional storm should interfere with your radio evening. There are many fine concert programs. You can't expect to find a pearl in every oyster nor to receive a record-breaking concert every night.
- 3. If you want louder signals, use a longer aerial, more tubes, higher plate voltage, more sensitive loud speakers, and more careful tickler and receiver adjustment.
- 4. A pleasant signal filling a moderate-sized room should be enough to give satisfaction. It is not worth while producing signals which deafen the neighbors. It is wasteful to insist on tremendous signals which are generally less pleasant than moderate signals.
- 5. If your local station comes in too loudly and drowns others out, a smaller aerial will help in tuning him out, with a smaller condenser connected between aerial and ground. And if all measures to get rid of the local station fail, why not enjoy his concerts? He is working hard for you and it is nobody's fault that you are so close to him that you are bound to hear him. Broadcast stations have to be closer to some people than to others.
- 6. For the new long waves above 450 meters, use a condenser connected between the aerial and ground terminals of your set.
- 7. A little persistence in learning to handle your receiver yields rich returns in satisfaction from the signals. Remember that "Rome wasn't built in a day" and keep on getting more and more familiar with your set and how it works.
- 8. It is a good idea to read the radio column of a newspaper or a good radio magazine or two. It helps you to know how your set works and keeps you up-to-date in radio. Information of this sort is an aid in getting the concerts loud and clear.
- 9. Ask your radio dealer for advice; he can probably tell you what you want to know and will be glad to do so. The manufacturer of your set is also willing to help you get the desired results from his use.
- 10. Do not throw away the direction sheets or booklet that came with your set and with the tubes. Read all such material carefully now and then. If you have lost the direction sheet, write to the dealer or manufacturer for another. The direction sheets answer most of the questions which have been puzzling you and prevent you from getting the best out of your set.

Should Know Tricks of Favored Crystal Set

Those who have the future of the radio amateur at heart are worried. They are not worried over the permanency of radio as an art or as a public utility. That is assured. But the future of the amateur phase of radio is not assured; there is a dark cloud hanging over it at the present time which threatens its very existence.

The tendency of the present-day novice is to run along the wrong track, and unless he reverts to the position of the amateur of radio's early days, instead of continuing as the greatest factor in radio development, he will become a mere incident, without the glory and credit that has belonged to him in the past.

The buyer of an automobile who buys with the idea of driving it himself and to a large degree caring for it himself, if he is wise buys a car of relatively small cost and simple construction. He studies it until he becomes intimately acquainted with its merits and its weaknesses—finds out how to get the most and the best out of it. By the time he has mastered his first car, he is naturally ambitious to possess one of greater attainments; one that will do bigger and better things. And he is fit to be trusted with such a valuable piece of machinery. He is almost sure to remark that he is glad that he had sense enough to learn on the Junior.

But the tendency of the radio novice is not to climb the ladder of experience but reach the top by one big bound. To plunge into elaborate and costly apparatus, the rendering of "horrible examples" to the neighbors—many of whom might become enthusiasts and of benefit to the art.

The amateur may well start with the crystal set. It presents a fascinating field for experiment. He should make his own set if at all mechanically inclined. Should learn its how and why from A to Z. To know when he is getting all that is in it, and if not, why not.

There is a lot of fun and a lot of efficiency in a well-built crystal set, and a lot of joy in receiving over what you have made yourself; of showing off your own child. It is doubtful if receiving over any costly outfit will ever give the genuine satisfaction to the owner that comes from reception over the outfit that cost a few dollars and that he has himself put together.

British Radio Signals Heard in New Zealand

Six months ago F. D. Bell of Wairoa, New Zealand, wrote the American Radio Relay League that the favorite sport of local radio men was "logging Yankee amateur stations." For several weeks afterward there came lists of "calls heard," each accompanied by an enthusiastic letter describing receiving conditions. The climax as regards the reception of American stations came when Bell reported that in one night he had heard all districts.

OCEAN'S GENEROSITY

"I wonder if they thought I was selfish before," said Mother Ocean. Mr. Sun was looking down upon her and was saying a polite good-night before he went to sleep.

He was wearing a very handsome suit of gold and red and he had cast a beautiful band of color right straight around the rim of the world. It seemed. "I am sure no one ever has thought you were selfish," said Mr. Sun.

"Well," said Mother Ocean, "I heard a very curious thing today. Some people were traveling on one of the great big boats I allow to pass over me. 'It was the first trip they had ever made upon the ocean, so they said. They needn't have said that, for I could realize from the speeches they made that they had not traveled on the ocean before."

"But they said: 'Goodness, but there is a lot of ocean. We've been out now for three days, and we have been going steadily all the time and still we are not near land. And not another boat to be seen. We never knew the ocean was so enormous.' 'Oh, Mr. Sun, they had no idea of my generosity. I'm not one of your mean little bodies of water.

"I'm generous. I'm very generous with myself. 'I spread myself over so much distance and I say to all who cross me: 'Here I am. Lots and lots of me. When you come for an ocean voyage you get an ocean voyage—you don't get a little bit of a boat ride and then home in time for supper.

"Oh, no, I'm your generous ocean.' 'Of course,' Mother Ocean continued. 'I don't know that they always care for so much generosity on my part. Perhaps they would like me to be smaller so they could travel all about the world and get everywhere in quick time.

"But they'd soon weary of that. 'What would be the fun in thinking of strange places all over the world and planning to see them some day if they were right around the corner? 'Or when thinking of their great and enormous country would people like it if they could see it all in a day's ride?

"I don't believe they would. It's an event to go from one part of the country to another. 'Maybe they dream for years of the time when they'll see what the West looks like if they happen to live East or what the East looks like if they happen to live West—or they may want to see it further North or down South or along the Middle states!

"The country is generous. There is lots of it. Lots and lots to see. 'So is the ocean generous. I may not have all the different sights that the land has—I may not have different views every time you look out at me from a ship as you would have if you looked out from a train window going across the country—but I have size. 'Everything that is a body of water cannot be the ocean. I have really accomplished something.

"I have done what only a few others have done—and they are all of my own Ocean family. 'Oh, Mr. Sun, when you go to sleep tonight, I think perhaps you may dream of the miles and miles and miles and miles and miles of ocean you've seen and you'll think how beautiful it is to see me in the morning when you get up and in the evening when you go to bed.

"Of course many travelers have said they would never know which was east and which was west when traveling on the ocean unless they saw you. For they know you rise in the east and go to bed in the west bedroom. 'Yes, you have an east morning dressing room, and a west bedroom for sleeping. 'It's of particular help to ocean travelers. 'But oh, Mr. Sun, no one has any idea of the ocean's generosity until they come and take a trip upon me and then they see how enormous I am—how perfectly enormously enormous! 'That's the only way in which I can describe my size. And I call it generous to spread one's self out as I do."

Off the southwest coast of Florida is the largest clam bed in the United States. It covers 150 square miles. For stealing dolls a sixty-four-year-old man was sentenced in November to six months' hard labor in London.

There are said to be more than 10,000,000 negroes in South Africa, counting Bushmen, Kafirs and Hottentots. The beavers of Yellowstone National park, protected against trappers, have become so numerous that their destruction of trees at some points is a serious problem.

The sloth, a purely arboreal animal of Central and South America, practically spends its life upside down. These animals hang head down in the trees and rarely leave them. Fishes sleep as regularly as human beings, but since they have no eyelids they do not appear to sleep. Most species sleep at night and rest upon the bottom; some kinds even lie upon their sides.

The salmon is built for speed. He has been known to run out 100 rods of line in less than three seconds. Speaking of literature, many a man's love letters have made a decided hit with a jury. The geological survey says that there are no springs known to a storm. Any such condition would be caused by the air pressure on the outside of the spring lessening, due to the change of the barometer. However, such a change would hardly be noticed and few, if any, streams of this sort have been discovered. The flesh of the muskrat for human food is variously esteemed, but these animals are sold extensively in some markets of the East and Middle West. In the retail markets they are sold as "marsh rabbits" and have a flavor somewhat like the wild duck. The man who said that he could remember an incident which occurred when he was six months old must have had a peculiarly vivid imagination. Some people can remember back to their third or even second year, but, as a rule, all that occurred prior to one's fifth year is blotted out. Originally the demerster was a judicial officer in Scotland, who formally pronounced the doom or sentence of death on condemned criminals. The name is now given in the Isle of Man to two judges, who act as chief justices of the island. The British empire does not embrace "far and away more people than any other empire," as some have claimed. Although it includes about one-fifth of the total population of the world, China can make an equal claim, the approximate figures for each empire being 435,000,000.

Every day in the year farmers in this community learn new ways in which they can profit by depending upon us for farm machines and farm machine service. We offer a complete line of McCormick-Deering farm operating equipment, and we maintain a stock of repairs that meets all ordinary requirements. Unusual parts can be secured quickly from the Harvester Company branch house.

McCormick-Deering FEED GRINDERS

are our specials for this week. Now is the time to begin to think about your stock feed. Do you know that you can economize by feeding ground grain? Do you know that animals get much greater nutrition from grain that is ground? These facts have been proven dozens of times. If you will come in this week we will show you these long-lived, efficient grinders. You will soon see why they are so popular among stock raisers and dairymen.

Bees Work by Whistle. In Texas, says the Detroit News, a colony of bees has taken up their abode in a baggage car between the roof and the ceiling and they do not seem to be the least disturbed by the fact that the car is making daily trips from one end of a little branch line. The baggage man is authorized for the statement that the bees go and come by the whistle. When the whistle sounds, however, starting the bees come in from all directions, and when the car reaches the end of the line they fly out and seek for the honey.

Notable Faculty for Holy Land University

The new University of Jerusalem will have a notable faculty, says the Portland Oregonian. The group of scientists whose support is assured includes Albert Einstein, known wherever science is mentioned for his theory of relativity, who will become dean of the department of pure science; Chaim Weizmann, discoverer of TNT, who will head the department of chemistry, and Dr. Jordan Manges, a noted American scholar, who will direct the college of Semitic literature. One of the lecturers in English literature will be Mahatma Gandhi, who has won one of the Nobel prizes in literature and is an admitted world leader of thought. The Zionist movement recognizes at the outset that broad culture is indispensable to durable results. It takes postage of the future by insisting that the indisputables shall not be ignored. The political and economic problems of Zionism are necessarily complex, but the probability of their solution is enhanced by that foresight of the founders in this regard. Conceived almost as a vocational venture the enterprise would be far less likely to succeed.

Made House Sacred

In Arabia, as in many other countries, salt is the symbol of hospitality, and among the Arabs hospitality is almost a sacred thing. They tell of a thief who broke into a house one night and in looting the place came upon a small gold box. He opened it and inside it found another box, also of gold. That in turn held a third box, which was partly filled with a fine white powder. The thief tasted the powder and found that it was salt. Immediately he restored to their places all the valuables that he had gathered to carry off. He could not rob a house in which he had "eaten salt."—Youth's Companion.

HELP YOURSELF

EVERYTHING beneath the sun is available to the deserving, so reach out your hands and help yourself. To be worthy you should be patient, industrious, persevering, charitable toward the weak, respectful to the strong. You must overcome foolish pride and envy; be not afraid to soil your hands, but a veritable coward when it comes to the point where you are called upon to smudge your soul. Go forth with a heart full of faith and a joyous countenance. Do not grumble if you happen to be in the lower ranks. Think of the great men of today who came up from humble places and won distinction, whose names are written across the hands and seas in glowing letters. Hold faith high above your head. Let its unflinching torch illumine your path all through life, and march on assured that the goal you have set your heart upon is just ahead. Do not falter if your road should be difficult and your burden wearisome. Difficulties are common obstacles. So one can get anything worth while without overcoming them. Affluence and power have their beginning in small things, but a capable being, "son by well-directed thought and effort. SCHOOL DAYS

Your Last Name

IS IT CUSHING? THE name of Cushing, well known in England and the United States, may be derived from Couzen, a place in France, though it may, in some instances, be derived from the French word for cushion. One authority on name origin has it, however, that the name is derived from an older surname Cusyn, from the French, meaning cook, and that it is therefore an occupational name like Cook. Other forms of the same name are Cushon and Cushion. The Americans of the name can trace their descent back to a period before America was discovered by Columbus. The first whose name and record are known was Thomas Cushing of Hingham, England, whose will is dated 1493. His son, William, of Hingham, England, had a son of Hingham, and his son Peter was the father of Peter Cushing who was born in 1580, who came to this country with his wife Nazareth, settling in Boston in 1658. Later they removed to Hingham, Mass., named for the old home of the Cushings in England. There have been many prominent Cushings in many different professions. William B. Cushing was a distinguished naval officer in the Civil war and Nathaniel Cushing was a brave soldier in the Revolution. There was a Thomas Cushing noted as a statesman in the Revolution, and a Caleb Cushing, born in 1800, an able statesman in pre-Civil war days. He it was who confirmed the first treaty between the United States and China. Frank Hamilton Cushing was a noted ethnologist and Jonathan Cushing was a prominent educator. Tiffany.—This is an old English name derived from the word once popularly used for Epiphany. Perhaps it was first adopted by one who was born in the season of Epiphany—just after Christmas. Budd.—It is hard to trace this surname to its origin. One good authority places it with a group of short names that are probably contractions of longer first names usual in Anglo-Saxon times.

PUDDINGS AND CAKE

IT IS during the cold weather we enjoy the puddings and suet. The following is a famous pudding which the Savoy chef prepared and shipped two tons of to America for holiday consumption. English Plum Pudding. Take twelve ounces of maldon raisins, the same of sultana raisins, currants, suet and candied orange peel. Ten ounces of bread crumbs, nine ounces of flour, one ounce of preserved ginger chopped, four ounces of chopped apple, one ounce of chopped citron, one teaspoonful of salt, eight ounces of brown sugar, six eggs and a cupful of milk. Mix and steam five hours. This recipe makes seven pounds of pudding. Plum Pudding. Put into a bowl one-half peck of finely chopped suet, the same of flour, and brown sugar, one-fourth of a pound of bread crumbs, one-fourth of a teaspoonful each of cinnamon, nutmeg, allspice, cloves and ginger. One-half pound of currants, one-fourth pound each of maldon raisins, lemon peel, citron and orange peel, all cut fine. One-half pint of black molasses, one-fourth pint of grapejuice or elder, two beaten eggs, the juice and grated rind of two lemons. Mix well, put into buttered molds and steam four hours. This keeps indefinitely. Reheat before serving. Bishop Bread. Take two cupfuls of brown sugar, one-half cupful of butter, four eggs added one at a time; one cake of sweet chocolate grated and mixed

Milk Excellent Feed for Stock

Rich in Proteins and Vitamins and Also Carries Minerals Necessary.

It is a well known fact that milk is a most excellent feed for all kinds of growing stock because of its protein and vitamin content. Milk is nature's food and for that reason is a perfect food, because it is prepared for the young. It is rich not only in protein and vitamins, as mentioned before, but it also carries a comparatively large amount of mineral constituents—the constituents needed for building bone, which the young animal builds very rapidly during its early life.

THE FIRST NAME

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

TO KNOW the fellow that I meet, And meet him with a smile, And not unknown to walk the street, Unnoticed all the while— Oh, that's the road I want to go, I want to have a friend or so. To call the fellows "Pete" or "Bill," Not "Mister" all the time, Will keep me younger on the hill of life I have to climb— Will make me feel a boy again, And do the same for other men. To have men called me what they did Back then in boyhood days. The things they called me when a kid Is sweeter than the praise That any flatterer may give, Will help me more my life to live. The last name is the name of age, The first the name of youth; I pray you, backward turn the page To innocence and truth. When I was young, and so were you, And call me what they used to do.

Young Peach Trees Must Have Careful Attention

Intelligent pruning is essential to a fruitful, long-lived peach tree. A thrifty tree of one year's growth from the bud should be selected for the planting. A stunted tree, or one of greater age, is not desirable and should not be tolerated. At transplanting the trunk should be cut to a stump of from 18 to 24 inches in height and all side branches removed. As growth begins, buds for future branches will start along the whole length of the stem. All of these, except five or six near the top, should be promptly removed. The next spring the twigs that have been allowed to grow from the top should be cut back to within five or six inches of the trunk, care being taken to cut just above an outwardly directed bud so that the future growth will tend to spread the top. Future pruning, until the tree comes into bearing, should be for the purpose of so shaping the head that the center of the tree will be open to the sunlight, and that it will never be necessary to remove a branch of more than three-quarters of an inch in diameter, for a larger wound on a peach tree will never heal completely.

Use More Ground Oats

There are times when wheat bran and flour middlings may be relatively too high in price to make them economical feeds. When that obtains more ground oats may be fed than is recommended in the ration mentioned. For example, 150 pounds ground corn and 250 pounds finely ground oats, together with the dried buttermilk, tankage, bone meal and salt mentioned, would perhaps give equally good results.

Saving Steps in Garden Should Be Planned Now

Plan for convenience in the garden. Convenience in the garden is just as essential as it is in the kitchen, the laundry, the garage or the stable. Economy of steps and work should be the main consideration. Place the vegetables most commonly used nearest to the kitchen door. The early spring vegetables should be conveniently at hand where the family chiefly may step out to gather the crisp young radishes, onions, lettuce and early spinach.

Small Paper Pots

Small paper pots which can be obtained at the seed stores, or which can be made at home, are splendid to use for tomatoes, cabbage, peppers, flowering and other plants. The entire container, by being slightly torn, can be set into the open ground without disturbing the roots. Vegetable plants, which are frequently attacked by the cutworm when set out in the paper containers, can be saved by leaving about one-half inch of the container extending above ground. Cutworms cannot cut through the paper and your plant is saved. Tear the bottom out when setting out the plants grown in paper boxes. The folding box can be entirely removed without injury to the plant.

Quite Important Point in Raising Head Lettuce

The important point in growing head lettuce is to use the proper varieties for the different seasons. Early maturing varieties are May King, Golden Queen, California Cream Butter and Wayahead, all of which will form heads within a week of each other if sown outdoors by the middle of April. The midseason varieties are All Seasons, Denver Market, New York and Leoberg. Sow the midseason varieties about May 1. During July, the seed of the early sorts can be sown for fall use. Lettuce thrives best in cool, moist weather, but by proper cultivation it can be made to do well when it is comparatively hot and dry. Use the hoe generously and keep a dust mulch around the plants. It is important not to have the plants stand too close together. Thin the seedlings when they are three or four inches high to four inches apart in the row. Then when the leaves spread and begin to crowd cut out every other plant. The late varieties should have another thing so the plants stand about 12 to 16 inches apart.

More Protection Is of Big Importance for Bees

Bees require more protection in winter than the modern hive provides. Honey bees do not hibernate but form a winter ball or cluster to keep warm and comfortable. In an exposed modern hive with the air temperature from 10 to 20 degrees below zero the bees are unable to keep warm. Under such conditions 6 to 8 inches of dry chaff, leaves, corn husks or sawdust used for insulation all around and over the hive helps to keep the bees warm. It is important, also, to make sure that the bees have sufficient winter stores. If a colony has less than the equivalent of six standard combs or 40 pounds of honey it is safer to give the colony some additional combs of sealed honey or feed it a gallon or two of sugar syrup.

Farm Hint

A winter cover crop not only improves the soil but it keeps it from straying down the creeks and getting lost. There are three cheap items in the hen's ration that should never be neglected. They are water, grit and oyster shells. For best results, cooked potatoes fed to pigs should replace no more than one-half of the corn that would be consumed if corn were fed alone. When corn is cut with a binder many ears are often thrown on the ground. If they are left long and the hens range over the field they may pick up moldy or decayed corn and it is followed by serious digestive troubles. If you wish to have healthy, egg-laying hens, it is not only necessary to feed them regularly and give them water to drink, but the yard and house in which they roost should be kept clean. Once a week is not too often to clean up. The word best is applied to this useful class of vegetables from the Greek "beta," second letter of the Greek alphabet and the botanical name of the beet. The term was applied because the nucleus saw in the seed pod of the beet a resemblance to the Greek letter beta. Automobiles are the great American luxury of the present day. Americans are having one grand and glorious joy ride, but they all have to stop somewhere to eat, and more attention should be given the home garden, the United States Department of Agriculture points out.

BETWEEN-SEASONS MILLINERY; FASHION FAVORS TUNIC BLOUSE

Will she, or will she not, take up with the new extremely high crowns that dear Paris has thrust upon a wailing world? The chances are that she will. The high crown is a reaction from the small, close-fitting hat that had an unusually long reign, but is likely to soon be relegated to the realm of forgotten things. The pendulum of fashion began swinging the other way a year ago and has gone a long way. The high crown came, it was, but it did not immediately conquer; therefore, milliners are showing it along with less extreme models. Whether the high crown meets with universal favor or not, it has centered attention on crowns.

In the meantime whoever must have a new hat may wisely invest in one made of silk, satin, straw cloth, or any of these combined with nylon, cellophane, tulle, yvelin and other braids. In the group of hats shown here five becoming shapes are pictured, showing silk or silk and straw combinations and styles in tailored and dressy types. The hat at the left, covered with silk in a pleasant shade and faced with a lighter tone, is trimmed with ostrich plumes and a narrow velvet collar in shades of the same color. The pretty black hat at the shade from light to dark. This shaded or ombre border is very pretty in sheer fabrics like georgette crepe and in thin silks. It can be managed in heavier materials also by posing the tunic blouse of figured crepe over an undershirt bordered with two deep folds of satin in deeper shades of the color in the blouse, following the model pictured here.

Overblouses that combine plain and printed materials are among the pretty things scheduled to arrive for spring and in their company will be blouses of plain fabrics trimmed with embroidered bandings. Anyone who wants to forestall the season may be sure that white crepe de chine over blouses and tunic blouses in tailored styles will be very good style and that the practical pongee blouse is certain to be worn. For sports blouses, printed silks with white ground and gay floral patterns are to be used—having round necks and either long or short sleeves.

SWEETS FOR YOUNGSTERS

There is nothing which pleases the youngsters like an old-fashioned candy pill. Here are two that make good candy to pull.

Velvet Molasses Candy.—Put one cupful of molasses, three cupfuls of sugar, and one cupful of boiling water with three tablespoonfuls of vinegar in a kettle on the range. Bring to the boiling point and add one-half teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Boil until when tried in cold water the mixture becomes brittle. Stir constantly during the last part of the cooking. When almost ready to take off the range add one-half cupful of melted butter and one-fourth teaspoonful of soda. Pour into a buttered pan and pull when cool enough to handle. Add one teaspoonful of lemon extract, peppermint or wintergreen for flavor, while pulling. When pulling handle the candy with the tips of the fingers and thumbs. Cut into pieces with large shears or a knife and arrange on buttered plates to cool.

Molasses Candy.—Take two cupfuls of Porto Rico molasses, two-thirds of a cupful of sugar, add three table-spoonfuls of butter to a Scotch kettle and when melted add the sugar and molasses with three table-spoonfuls of vinegar. Boil until brittle when tried in cold water. Pour out on buttered platter to cool, then pull. Here is still another good one:

Pincho.—Add one-half cupful of milk to one cupful of brown and white sugar, stir until dissolved, then boil to the soft-ball stage. Add one-half cupful of pecan meats, vanilla flavor, and beat until creamy. Pour into well-buttered patty pans and if they are to be made into lollipops put a small wooden skewer into each and wrap in waxed paper.

Butter Scotch.—Take one cupful of sugar, one-fourth cupful of molasses, one table-spoonful of vinegar, two table-spoonfuls of boiling water and one-half cupful of butter. Boil until brittle when tried in cold water. Turn into a buttered pan and when slightly cool mark with a sharp-pointed knife into squares.

SWEETS FOR THE SEASON

A goodly supply of sweets to pass around when entertaining is always a great satisfaction.

Candied Peel.—Cut orange or grapefruit into long strips, cover with water and bring to the boiling point; drain and repeat three times. Measure an equal amount of sugar and enough water to cover. Simmer until translucent—the liquid will be nearly evaporated—drain and roll in granulated sugar. Fruit coloring green or red, may be added to the grapefruit, adding to its appearance.

Creole Kisses.—Blanch one half pound of almonds, finely shred half of them and dry slowly in the oven. Put one-fourth of a cupful of water, one-half cupful of sugar in a saucepan, and as soon as the boiling point is reached add the remaining almonds and cook until the sirup is a golden brown color. Turn into a pan, cool and pound in a mortar. Beat the whites of four eggs until stiff; add gradually one and one-fourth cupfuls of powdered sugar, then one-half teaspoonful of vanilla and the pounded almonds and sugar and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt. Shape, sprinkle with shredded almonds, dust with sugar and bake in a slow oven 25 minutes.

Currant Rocks.—Sift four cupfuls of flour and one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful (mixed) of cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves, one cupful of sugar. Cream a cupful of butter and add three well-beaten eggs, then stir in the flour mixture with one-half pound of currants and one-quarter pound of walnuts chopped. The mixture should be stiff. Break off small bits and roll into balls; decorate with a nut or cherry. Bake in a hot oven.

Molasses Chips.—Put three cupfuls of sugar, one-fourth teaspoonful of cream of tartar and one cupful of water into a kettle. Stir until the boiling point is reached, brushing down the sides of the kettle to remove any grains, using a brush dipped into cold water. Add two-thirds of a cupful of molasses and cook until the candy becomes brittle. Remove from the fire, add one-third of a cupful of butter, a pinch of salt and a little vanilla. Pour into buttered plates to cool, then pull and cut into pieces.

Coconut Caramels.—Cook one cupful of brown sugar, one-fourth cupful of corn sirup, two table-spoonfuls of butter, and one-fourth cupful of boiling water. Cook to a soft ball when dropped into cold water. Remove from the heat, stir until cool, adding one-half cupful of coconut, then pour into a pan powdered with sugar.

Green's August Flower

The remedy with a record of fifty-eight years of surpassing excellence. All who suffer with nervous dyspepsia, sour stomach, constipation, indigestion, torpid liver, dizziness, headaches, coming-up of food, wind on stomach, palpitation and other indications of digestive disorder, will find GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER an effective and efficient remedy. For fifty-eight years this medicine has been successfully used in millions of households all over the civilized world. Because of its merit and popularity GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER is found today wherever medicines are sold. 30 and 50 cent bottles.—Adv.

Finally Balked at Passage in Bible

At a small chapel in a remote corner of one of the English Yorkshire villages, the appointed minister had failed to make his appearance at the time for beginning the usual service.

One of the waiting congregation, a local farmer rich in grace but meager of education—was eventually persuaded to officiate as substitute for the absent cleric. The lesson was the chapter from the Book of Daniel which contains the oft-recurring passage: "At what time shall ye hear the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery and dulcimer, and all kinds of music."

Three times the farmer, with evident trepidation, waded through the comprehensive catalogue of ancient Babylonian instruments.

When, however, he again came to "At what time ye shall hear," he paused for a moment, wiped the perspiration from his brow, and then continued: "It's 't same band again, friends. Ah needn't read 'em out."

Cuticura Soothes Itching Scalp.

On retiring gently rub spots of dandruff and itching with Cuticura Ointment. Next morning shampoo with Cuticura Soap and hot water. Make them your everyday toilet preparations and have a clear skin and soft, white hands.—Advertisement.

Lives Long Without Food

To have lived without food or drink for four years is the startling claim made by an invalid woman in Madrid, Spain. Two doctors have examined her and made a report to the Academy of Medicine. As yet there is no hint of the nature of her verdict. The woman had gastritis four years ago, and could eat nothing by the mouth. She has had injections of phosphorus and various narcotics, but declares that she had nothing more. She is weak, but able to speak.

Step on Her

Ted Browning has the largest cat in Hollywood and it purrs loud and long when petted by some one it knows. Hence, a little friend of the family could not understand why it would not purr for him, though he stroked the gorgeous creature till his arm grew tired.

Finally, in disgust he turned to Ted, exclaiming: "Go Mr. Browning, I wish you'd make kitty start her engine for me!"—Los Angeles Times.

Pleasant Job

Knicks—"Where did you get that roll of money?"
Knicks—"It's not mine. I'm just breaking it in for a friend!"—Lute.

Dubious

"It's said that every man finds his own level, yet we all know fellows who don't come up to the mark."—Boston Transcript.

Great Power Possibility

Colorado has a river on which 19 power dams, yielding 28,000 horsepower 90 per cent of each year, could be constructed.

Why Physicians Favour Lubrication
Medical science has found at last in lubrication a means of overcoming constipation. The gentle lubricant, Nujol, penetrates and softens the hard food waste and thus hastens its passage through and out of the body. Thus, Nujol brings internal cleanliness.

Nujol is used in leading hospitals and is prescribed by physicians throughout the world. Nujol is not a medicine or laxative and cannot gripe. Like pure water, it is harmless.

Take Nujol regularly and adopt this habit of internal cleanliness. For sale by all druggists.

Feel Stiff and Achy After Every Cold? Do You Have Constant Backache? Feel Old and Lame and Suffer Sharp, Rheumatic Pains? Then Look to Your Kidneys!

DOES every cold, chill or attack of grip leave you worn-out and utterly miserable? Do you feel old and lame, stiff and rheumatic? Does your back ache with a dull, unceasing throb, until it seems you just can't stand it any longer?

Then look to your kidneys! Grip, colds and chills are mighty hard on the kidneys. They fill the blood with poisons and impurities that the kidneys must filter off. The kidneys weaken under this rush of new work; become congested and inflamed.

It's little wonder, then, that every cold leaves you with torturing backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness and annoying bladder irregularities.

Don't delay! Get a box of Doan's Pills. Give your weakened kidneys the help they need. Assist them, also, by drinking pure water freely, eating lightly and getting plenty of fresh air and rest. Doan's Pills have helped thousands and should help you. Ask your neighbor!

"Use Doan's," Say These Good Folks:

MRS. GUST MORIARITY, P. O. Box 73, S. Elm St., Mauston, Wis., says: "My kidneys were disordered and one of the first symptoms was backache. When I bent over, stinging pains went across my kidneys. Dizzy spells annoyed me. I was nervous. My kidneys acted irregularly. A neighbor told me of the good Doan's Pills did her and they didn't fail me. One box of Doan's benefited me in every way."

JOE EICHENSEER, prop. of shoe repair shop, Mauston, Wis., says: "I sit in a bent position all day and I think it weakened my back and kidneys. I suffered with a dull, nagging backache and it was hard for me to straighten. My rest was disturbed at night, due to the frequent passages of the kidney secretions. I tried Doan's Pills and three boxes cured me of the attack."

Are You Helping Wisconsin Grow?

THE one way to do this is to stand by the Producer, both on Farm and in Factory, demanding security and a fair deal for those who are trying to build a greater state.

Who is the REAL Wisconsin Booster?

- 1. THE CITIZEN who knows that our prosperity is based on the economical production and distribution of useful things—farm and factory products.
- 2. THE FARMER who knows that prosperity demands good markets, as well as good production, and who wants to join hands with men in industry to aid in establishing more favorable conditions for Wisconsin producers upon whom all depend.
- 3. THE MAN IN INDUSTRY who knows the importance of agricultural prosperity, and works with the farmer to establish more economical methods of marketing farm products with high standards of quality.
- 4. THE EMPLOYER who is trying to build an institution that will stand the test of time and furnish more and steady employment through the sale of quality products to all parts of the world.
- 5. THE MANUFACTURER who favors larger Home Markets for our Farmers through more and bigger commercial and industrial centers in our home state.
- 6. THE MAN OR WOMAN OF VISION who resents the agitation for laws that place greater burdens on industry than are imposed in any other state, and which will always retard growth and lessen opportunities for all.
- 7. THE WISCONSIN CITIZEN who demands economy and business sense in local, County and State governments, so that High Taxes will not prevent our greatest possible development.

At the beginning of this New Year we invite all citizens of our great state to join with us in this "FORWARD" program, to make Wisconsin a more prosperous commonwealth.
