

WASHINGTON COUNTY AT THE STATE FAIR

A recent survey of the exhibits in the department of the Wisconsin State Fair, it was found that Washington County raises crops of good quality that they could compare favorably with the Fair, but in the matter of showing, they are not so good.

It is a great deal of satisfaction to have the Washington County exhibit at the State Fair and the exhibitors should certainly exhibit the wonderful grain and other products grown here.

FAKE DOCTORS GET $100.00

Juneau—The sheriff's office has been making an investigation and are seeking the whereabouts of two men posing as physicians who swindled C. A. Lapp of near Watertown out of $100.00. Two men claiming to be Drs. Meyers and Davis called at the Lapp farm, situated on R. 10, Watertown, on Tuesday, July 7th., and advised the Lapps that they were sent there by the state board of health. C. A. Lapp and his son had been ill with a slight illness and supposed that the men were acting under superior office of the board of health. The two quack doctors made an examination of both Mr. Lapp and his son and then demanded a $100 fee for their services. Mr. Lapp gave them a check of $100 drawn on the Bank of Watertown, and also endorsed the check after Davis had endorsed it so as to prove identification. The men departed and shortly after a member of the family who had suspicions drove to Watertown to stop payment on the check, but the "doctors" had already received their cash at the Watertown Bank. Suspicions were aroused by the fact that the physicians did not carry their instruments in the usual doctor's kit but had some with their wearing apparel in a traveling bag. The Lapps have the number of the car and upon inquiring as to the owner have found that the car is from the northern part of the state, probably a stolen car. The sheriff's office is working on the case and hope to soon have the culprits in custody.

REMARKABLE HORSE LOMIRA YOUTH PLEADS GUILTY

Fred Thomson, the F. B. O. western star, appearing in "The Silent Stranger," at the Opera House Sunday evening, is justly proud of his horse "Silver King". This remarkable animal can count to 100, he answers questions by shaking his head "Yes" or "No", he knows seven colors, having a great dislike for brown; he can pick the American, British, French and Italian flags from twenty-five or thirty feet flags when told to do so; he can "take" the high and low hurdles without a rider, he will kill a snake by tramping on it instead of running away as other horses do, he covers himself with a blanket when he lays down and knows all the other stunts that are required of a circus or vaudeville horse; namely, cake walking, standing on the hind legs, keeping time with music and "playing dead."

SERIOUS ACCIDENT NEAR EDEN

A serious accident occurred on Highway 55, two miles east of Eden on Wednesday, when an automobile, traveling at a high rate of speed, crashed into the rear of a cattle rack, Elmer Krause, age 13, 1209-21st street Milwaukee, who was riding in the rack, was hurled over the front end of the rack, landing onto the concrete, both front and rear wheels of the wagon passed over him, breaking his collar bone and snapping off his ribs near the spine. He was picked up and taken to Eden, where medical attention was given him, later he was removed to the St. Agnes hospital where he now lies in a very critical condition. Otto Roessler, a farmer residing near Campbellsport, who was the driver of the team of horses hitched to the rack, was also thrown over the front end of the rack. He received a wrenched back and injuries to one of his legs. Mr. Roessler stated that the Krause boy was a nephew and had been visiting at his home. On Wednesday Mr. Roessler had to take three calves and a heifer to Eden. The stock was loaded in the cattle rack and Mr. Roessler and the boy drove to Eden. In going down a steep grade a car came from behind, and evidently wanting to drive by, was prevented from so doing by another car coming from the opposite direction, the driver of the north bound car put on his brakes, but could not stop in time to prevent the crash. It is reported that marks on the concrete showed the car had skidded at least one hundred feet before striking the rack, indicating the machine must have been traveling at a high rate of speed.

CAMPBELLSPORT FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED

Fire on Wednesday afternoon, supposed to have started from spontaneous combustion, destroyed two large barns on the Emil Brath farm in the town of Ashford. The total loss is estimated from $6,000 to $8,000, and is partly covered by insurance. Besides the barns, about forty loads of hay and practically all machinery, stored in the buildings was burned. The fire was discovered by Mrs. Brath at four o'clock. She immediately sent in the alarm, and the Campbellsport fire department responded. The flames, however, had gained too much headway before the department arrived upon the scene, and efforts to save the buildings were futile. Mr. Brath and his two sons were working in the field at the time the fire was discovered by Mrs. Brath.

GETS LARGE SUM OF MONEY

County Treasurer Henry Kubaupt, received a check of $21,940.22 last Saturday from State Treasurer Solomon Levitan of Madison, which sum is Washington County's share of the automobile license fees, for the year ending June 30th. This money will be used by the county for highway maintenance.

Good Disinfectant

A cheap disinfectant to use in scrubbing or washing utensils in a sickroom is made by adding a teaspoonful of turpentine to every bucket of hot water. Turpentine is a powerful disinfectant and will destroy all bacteria.

DEATH OF MARY FLITTER

At 5:30 o'clock, Monday evening, at the St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, occurred the death of Mary, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Flitter, of the town of Auburn, following an operation a few days ago. Besides her parents, she leaves to mourn, four brothers, John, Joseph, Matthew and Norbert. The funeral was held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock from the residence and at 9:30 o'clock from the St. Matthew's church at Campbellsport. Rev. July officiated. Interment was made in the Union cemetery.

ST. JOHN'S LUTH. CHURCH

There will be no services Sunday morning at the St. John's Luth. church at New Fane, as the pastor will officiate at a mission festival in Town Wilson near Sheboygan. Regular English services will be held at 7:30 p. m. C. Gutekunst, Pastor.

THIEVES AT WORK IN DODGE COUNTY

Thieves early Wednesday morning entered the power house at the Dodge county asylum at Juneau and stole $800 worth of tools. After having committed the deed they went to the private garage of Nick N. Klink, superintendent of the institution and took a sedan owned by Mr. Klink in which to make their get-away, after driving a short distance, the driver plunged several feet down an embankment, and landed on the North Western railroad tracks, where the gangster abandoned the car, later to be struck by a freight train and completely demolished. The thieves gained entrance to the powerhouse through a window seven or eight feet from the ground. The window was reached by a garden rake which was hung on the window sill with which the burglars then climbed to the opening. The tools stolen by the thieves included saws, wrenches and hammers. No trace of the burglars has so far been found.

WILL HOLD FOOD SALE

The ladies of the Holy Trinity congregation will hold a food sale in the Holy Trinity School hall on Wednesday, August 5th. Further particulars will be published in a later issue of the Statesman.

VILLAGES GIVEN POWER TO NAME ARTERIALS

A law passed at a recent session of the legislature, empowers villages to declare roads and streets with same identity as arterial highways, and to compel vehicles to come to a full stop before crossing them. Heretofore only cities had the right to name arterials. The new law is a good one, and no doubt will meet with the approval of everyone for the safety of driving of tourists. With the passage of the new law there will be a more uniform traffic regulation over the entire state, and upon observing the arterial signs many dangerous cross-roads, at which probably a number of accidents have occurred will become less dangerous. Though there were stop signs placed at the approach of every trunk highway, same, however, were not observed by many tourists, for reason, no doubt that there was no law to enforce the rule, and the driver who failed to stop could only be held liable in case of accident. Since the law has been passed any driver who fails to come to a full stop before crossing the main highway can be arrested. Chapter 211 of the Wisconsin Highway Law reads as follows: "Any city, village or town may by ordinance or by law designate roads or streets and declare the same to be arterials for through traffic, and may compel all vehicles to come to a full stop before crossing or turning into such a road or street, and may regulate and control traffic at road or street intersections by the installation of traffic devices." Another important feature of the new law which will be probably put into effect will be the section which empowers the highway commission to declare any state trunk highway or any city street which is a connecting portion of state trunk highways to be arterial highways and compel all vehicles to come to a full stop within forty feet of the intersection.

BASEBALL AT CAMPBELLSPORT

Tomorrow, Sunday, the Campbellsport baseball nine will cross bats with the Plymouth team at Campbellsport. Plymouth is leading the Eastern Wisconsin League, and a hotly contested game can be looked forward to. Bert Elliott, the noted basket ball star will undoubtedly do the twirling for Plymouth, while Schramm and Schramm will constitute the battery for Campbellsport.

TRAFFIC COUNT IN CO. LOWER THAN LAST YEAR

The results of the traffic on Highways 55 and 15 taken in Washington County, shows that less traffic occurred so far this season than that of last year. The results of last Wednesday's count is as follows:

Highway 55	Count
Wisconsin cars	1692
Foreign cars	252
Light trucks	189
Heavy trucks	112
Motorcycles	4
Horse-drawn vehicles	23
Total	2273

FREE CHEST CLINIC AT HARTFORD ON JULY 30

Preparations have been completed for the free chest clinic to be held at Hartford on July 30, from 8:30 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. While it would not be possible who should come to the clinic, it is hoped that those who most need a chest examination will come of their own accord. Such people include those who have ever had tuberculosis, persons who have ever had prolonged contact with tuberculosis, or underweight children, persons who have ever had diseases of the chest other than tuberculosis, and those who have any of the following symptoms: fatigue, lack of pep, loss of appetite and weight, indigestion, vague pains in the chest, a persistent cough or cold, and afternoon fever. The symptoms seldom appear all together, but any one of them is sufficient to warrant an examination. If the patient has not tuberculosis, a clinic examination can only confirm the fact. Examination at the clinic costs nothing and it is a well known proverb that "an ounce of prevention is worth more than a pound of cure."

COMBINED COW TESTING ASSOCIATION BOO TO BE PUBLISHED

The seven cow testing associations of Washington County are co-operating with the County Agent in publishing a combined report for all associations. Heretofore every association got out a yearly report which was used in advertising and boosting the individual association. This broke the county up into several units. Each one did its bit to boost cattle sales and the county in general. The combined report supplies about the same data that the individual report did but in having the one report covering all associations, we have a much better summary of the county as a whole and a much better source of information for prospective cattle buyers. The unified action on the part of all the associations means a stronger form of advertising and is bound to bring better results.

MOTHER PAINFULLY INJURED WITH SCYTHE

Mrs. August C. Bartelt of Forest Lake received painful injuries on her arm on Wednesday afternoon, when she was struck by a scythe which was being used by her son, Lyle, in cutting bullrushes at the lake. Mrs. Bartelt and her son were at the shore, they were standing close together when the knife of the scythe struck Mrs. Bartelt. It required ten stitches to close the wound. She is getting along nicely at the present writing.

BANDMEN AT MAYVILLE TOMORROW, SUNDAY

On next Sunday, July 26th., 20 bands will journey to Mayville to participate in the annual convention of the Northwestern Band association. The Mayville band will be the host this year and it is certain that this year's convention will be the finest and biggest in the history of the association.

The bands will arrive in Mayville at 10 o'clock Sunday morning and at 10:45 president Dickerman will deliver a short address. At 10:50 the 20 bands will play the convention marches in unison and at 11:05 will parade to the park. Mayville's exceptionally wide Main street will make it possible for these 500 musicians to march in a body and to play the convention marches while marching to the park. At 1:30 Mayor Schmidt will give his address of welcome and immediately thereafter the band contests will start. At 7 o'clock at night the Grafton band, winners of the 1924 tournament at Hartford, will give a free concert. At 8:15 the monster dance at the park will start, the Cardinal orchestra of Mayville will furnish the music. Admission to the park will be 35 cents. No admission will be charged at night.

The following bands will participate: Allenton, Ashippun, Beaver Dam Juvenile band, Campbellsport, Eagle Drum Corps, Beaver Dam, Grafton, Hartford Legion band, Hustisford, Horicon City band, Juneau City band, Lebanon, Mt. Horeb, Oconomowoc City band, Reeseville Concert band, Theresa band, Waterloo Legion band, Watertown City band, West Bend.

FRENCH LOSS IN RIFF CAMPAIGN

Figures Show Fighting Has Been Comparatively Costly.

Paris.—French losses in the Moroccan campaign since the beginning of July are 1,473 killed or missing, 2,775 wounded and 30 taken prisoners, according to figures published by the M.H.

The French losses are being given anxious moments. A flying column from Teroual relieved two of them at Bab Hupine and Oued Hamrine.

Still another French column descended on the Rifians harassing Ah Aicha. The Rifians are said to have lost heavily in the operation.

The situation is dangerous but reinforcements are beginning to move to the front.

Madrid.—Advices received from the Spanish zone in Morocco are to the effect that on July 16 all available men of several of the rebel tribes assembled in the vicinity of Sidi Dauszt with two cannon and attempted to break through the Spanish lines and cut off communication with Fez.

The attack was put down and the rebels are said to have suffered heavy losses. Several of the villages from which the tribesmen were routed were burned by the Spaniards.

Report Korean Floods to Be Under Control

Tokyo.—An official dispatch received from the Korean government describing the flood in Seoul, the capital, and vicinity, said: "Waters receding; rescue work progressing; casualties undetermined but not believed to be excessive." It also said communications were being restored rapidly.

Dispatches to newspapers from Korea say that the floods are subsiding and that the Fusan-Seoul railway is resuming traffic. Relief work is progressing and the government is enforcing the anti-profiteering law. Accurate figures as to casualties are unavailable. Reports to Hoch, vernacular newspaper, state there are numerous dead; that many villages in the neighborhood of Seoul, the capital, are wiped out, and crops destroyed. A typhoid epidemic is feared.

BRYAN REAFFIRMS BELIEF IN BIBLE

Examination at Dayton Furnishes High Lights in Scopes Trial.

Dayton, Tenn.—The closing scenes of the Scopes trial developed a bitter word duel between William Jennings Bryan and Clarence Darrow on the literal acceptance of such Bible stories as the creation, Jonah and the whale, Adam and Eve, and their temptation and fall.

Mr. Bryan willingly submitted to questions along this line for the first time in the two years he has been leading the fundamentalist movement. At times he was white with anger. His attitude toward the entire series of questions may be summed up in his statement that "I believe the Bible absolutely as it stands."

In reply to direct questions from Mr. Darrow, he said he believed implicitly that Eve was the first woman, that she was made from Adam's rib and that the snake was compelled to crawl on its belly because it tempted Eve.

Darrow asked him where Cain got his wife; Bryan replied he did not know.

If the sun stood still, as Joshua commanded it, he said, he was not afraid that the world would come to an end, but said "God would take care of us."

God sent the pains of childbirth to women through all ages because of the transgression of Eve.

He could easily believe that the God who made the earth and the universe could make a fish big enough to swallow Jonah, and overcome all natural laws.

He believes fully that all mankind and animals who were outside the ark were drowned in the flood.

He accepted without the shadow of a doubt the story of the confusion of tongues at Babel.

In only one point did Mr. Bryan indicate even the slightest doubt. The seven days of creation might not have been literally seven days of twenty-four hours each, but seven periods of time, the length not specified.

What he could not understand he accepted with a simple faith, not pretending to understand all that was in the minds of those who wrote the Bible, but taking it from cover to cover as the word of God and the "revealed religion."

Special Session of Congress Looked For

Washington.—President Coolidge will be forced to call a special session of congress to afford public relief should the anthracite miners go on strike September 1, as now seems inevitable. Of this week's defaults 236 had liabilities of $5,000 or more in each instance, against 217 the corresponding week last year. The increase in number is in the South, the West and on the Pacific coast.

Large Sums Required to Enforce Dry Laws

Washington.—A substantial increase in the current appropriation of $30,000,000 for the enforcement of the national dry laws is expected to be embodied in the December budget, although sharp cuts will be made in practically other branches of the federal service in accordance with the program of economy.

France Is Pleased With German Reply to Note

Paris.—The German note in reply to one sent from Paris on the proposed security pact is pronounced in official circles to be "completely satisfactory." The predicted outcome is that a series of negotiations will begin in the near future that will have as their objective the enduring peace of Europe. Although the note makes some objections to suggestions from France, it does not reject definitely any point that was raised in the Paris note.

Delegates Not Chosen

Paris.—The personnel of the French debt commission to Washington has not been determined, despite reports to the contrary, Premier Painleve announced.

Death in Explosion

New York.—The explosion of a still in an East One Hundred and Ninth street tenement building made 300 persons homeless and injured one man, Giuseppe Aguilario, who, police said, operated the still.

Coal Production Increases

Washington.—The production of coal in the United States was 1,854,000 tons last week, an increase of 340,000 tons over the preceding week, according to the bureau of mines.

To Spend Months at the Pole

Berlin.—Germany has announced the plan to have a Zeppelin land a party at the North pole early in the autumn and to pick them up the following spring.

MAJ. U. S. GRANT III

Maj. Ulysses S. Grant III, who has been named assistant director of public buildings and parks in the national capital to assist Colonel Sherrill, the director, Major Grant has recently been stationed in San Francisco and was also with the Arlington memorial bridge commission.

HEAVY INVESTMENTS IN FOREIGN LANDS

Washington.—Our total foreign investment, exclusive of amounts owed the United States by foreign governments, is estimated by the Department of Commerce at a little more than $3,500,000,000.

The par value of foreign securities publicly offered in this country during the first half of 1925 amounted to $521,501,000, as compared to $379,700,000 for the corresponding period last year, according to Theodore R. Goldsmith of the finance and investment division of the Department of Commerce.

The volume was below that of the latter half of 1924, however, when the investment totaled $800,087,000, of which $652,067,000 represented new capital.

Episcopal Laymen Are to Vote on Bishop

New York.—For the first time in its 140 years of existence, the Episcopal church of the United States is facing the election of a presiding bishop who will be the democratic choice of its entire membership. The election will occur at the forty-eighth triennial general convention to be held in New Orleans, October 7 to 23.

In rank and dignity, if not in titular standing, his choice will stand on a par with the archbishop of Canterbury, ranking head of the Church of England; and he will be charged with the exacting and onerous duties of ecclesiastical as well as administrative headship of the independent American church.

Commercial Failures Show Increase, Dun Reports

New York.—Failures in the United States were somewhat more numerous for week ending July 18, reports to R. G. Dun & Co. for the week placing the total at 496. This is in excess of preceding weeks, 371 for the corresponding week of last year. Of this week's defaults 236 had liabilities of $5,000 or more in each instance, against 217 the corresponding week last year. The increase in number is in the South, the West and on the Pacific coast.

Large Sums Required to Enforce Dry Laws

Washington.—A substantial increase in the current appropriation of $30,000,000 for the enforcement of the national dry laws is expected to be embodied in the December budget, although sharp cuts will be made in practically other branches of the federal service in accordance with the program of economy.

WISCONSIN HAPPENINGS

Important News of the Badger State Arranged in Condensed Form

Madison.—Almost enough fines were collected by the state prohibition department during the last six months to operate the department for a year's time. State Prohibition Commissioner Herman Sachtlein has announced that the fines amounted to $51,000. The annual appropriation of the department is $60,000. Out of a total of $19 arrests for violation of prohibition laws, Milwaukee lead the list with 231 arrests, fines amounting to $18,500 and forty-three cases still pending in the court. Barron county had no arrests.

Madison.—George Shields, convicted of assault with intent to do bodily harm and sentenced to the Grant county jail for three months at hard labor, has been granted a reprieve by Gov. Blaine pending a hearing and final determination for his application for a pardon. The Shields case is an aftermath of a Klan controversy in Bossobel over a year ago. Shields, as night watchman, attempted to halt the progress of a Klan parade being held late at night in the street of Bossobel and was knocked down. It is claimed he attempted to fire at one of the masked marchers.

Madison.—Grasshoppers which cause some damage to vegetation are fewer in number this year than in past seasons, a report by Dr. S. B. Fracker, state entomologist, states. The most popular camping ground for the pest this season is on Washington Island, off the head of Door county peninsula, and on sandy lands of Waushara, Jackson and Burnett counties, he reports. The central sandy soil area is the only section of the state in which grasshoppers have been increasing in recent years.

Wausau.—The labor situation in Marathon county has greatly improved during the last few weeks, according to a statement just issued by James H. De Wayne, superintendent of the Wausau employment office. The demand for laborers of late has been much greater than the supply and because of this wages have increased. Several factories have increased their forces and there is a better tone in all circles of employment.

Madison.—It is the duty of town treasurers to collect delinquent real estate taxes from personal property wherever found, first from personal property in the immediate vicinity of the real estate, or if none there, then elsewhere, an opinion by Atty. Gen. Herman L. Eker, to Elmer S. Hall, conservation commissioner, states. County treasurers, however, have no authority, the opinion holds.

Fond du Lac.—"Keep Wisconsin beautiful" is the slogan adopted by Fond du Lac County Highway Commissioner George Trevelan and his corps of road patrolmen. They have started a drive against all placards, billboards and posters along main highways outside of fences. Road patrolmen have been ordered to remove all advertisements not within the fence boundary.

Black River Falls.—A district county agriculture and forest conservation conference was held at Black River Falls recently with the following counties represented: Jackson, Clark, Monroe, Marathon, Portage, Vernon, Eau Claire, Adams, Wood and Juneau. A tour of eastern Jackson county was made, with inspections of five and 10-year-old white pine plantings.

Waupaca.—A large registration is expected for the 1925 Camp Cleghorn assembly to be held at Columbia lake, near Waupaca, Aug. 7 to 17. As in the past, the meeting this year will be religious in character, with opportunity for recreation and entertainment. Methodists from all sections of the state will attend.

Eau Claire.—Believing prowlers were causing his dogs to bark loudly during the night, Bert Cummings, a farmer living near Eau Claire fired a charge of buckshot in the direction of the disturbance, mortally wounding his nephew, Roy Peterson, 22, who had gone to the pump for a drink.

Milwaukee.—Archbishop Sebastian J. Messner of Milwaukee was granted a private interview with the pope at Rome, according to cablegrams. The Milwaukee diocesan head was escorted to the private library of the pontiff where he talked with the pope more than half an hour.

Stevens Point.—Lengthening of the day's work in the public school system of Stevens Point has been recommended to the board of education by Supt. P. M. Vincent. This is aimed to offset many legitimate but increasing interruptions. A forty five minute longer day is proposed for the high school.

Superior.—As a result of his double arrest by federal dry agents within four days, Martin Johnson, 27, Superior, a native of Italy, faces deportation.

Coloma.—Twice within a week the store of the Coloma Mercantile Co., Coloma, was raided by burglars and goods valued at $1,500 removed.

Beaver Dam.—A record crop of late peas is reported from the farm of H. W. Hills in the town of Calamus, Dodge county. Hills harvested 22,515 pounds of peas from a 5-acre field. Early peas in this section yielded very poorly, but the late crop is of fine quality.

Hartford.—John Matzar, 72, a farmer living four miles south of Hartford, died of a broken neck when he was jolted from a binder which he was driving.

Oconto.—Thirty-nine of the 82 teachers employed in rural schools of Oconto county have received bonus checks, ranging from $6 to $72, under the 2-4-8 school law, for last year's services. The total received by these 39 teachers was $1,020.90.

Stevens Point.—Summer school attendance at the Stevens Point normal school is highest of all Wisconsin normals with the exception of Milwaukee, which always leads the state, according to enrollment totals just compiled.

The Vanishing Men

"I thought it would be possible to find out every dealer in the county," he said.

"Yes—some one has been here before us. Perhaps it was you, eh?"

"No," replied Peter. "What do you see?"

"I see that some one who had a reason has put copy paper and carbons under these pages and copied these handwriting entries by running a stylus over the original entries. Sometimes the carbon and paper went askew; that's why you see these little blue marks. Did you think it extraordinary that I observed that?"

"Oh, no," said Peter. "Not at all. How could I? It was the first thing that made me wonder about the story these figures can tell. When can you go?"

"Go? Me? In person?"

"Yes. New Orleans—wherever the trail leads!"

Eldegard shook his head like a great Buddha with a pivoted neck. "Never," he said. "I'm too busy."

"Isn't it your office force that is busy?" asked DeWolfe, throwing his cigarette into the bronze ash tray. "Besides, as for the money—that is for you to say. Whatever is necessary to get your services."

"It isn't money," Eldegard answered. "If I paid any attention to money I wouldn't be worth fifty thousand dollars. No, it's Laura—Mrs. Eldegard. We've got a screened-in porch; we play checkers every evening."

"And so on," said Peter describing with a phrase the whole texture of a great fabric of companionship each thread of which was a homely commonplace, the whole a magic cloth of gold.

"Yes," said the other. "And so on. How did you know? You never lived it?"

"I intend to," said Peter solemnly.

Eldegard burst into uproarious laughter. "Say," he exclaimed with a manner of speech that like all other natural expressions of this fat man had been a rock of Gibraltar against which the assaults of culture had bounded off. "Say! I'd like to tackle this."

He slapped the back of one of the Russian leather books as one would slap a friend on the back.

"It's a story!" he said. "A fascinating trail."

"I think it is a story—a true story," DeWolfe agreed. "A thriller."

Eldegard considered.

"Blessed if I don't ask ma—ask her if I can go."

He spoke as if it were a permission to go to the swimming hole or the circus.

"Thank you," said Peter. "I recognize the presence of good sportsmanship. I never expected to see it in the field of auditing."

Eldegard picked up the two books. He said: "Leave 'em with me, and telephone me tomorrow, and I'll let you know what ma says."

"I'll telephone tomorrow," said Peter.

And with this haunting sense of hovering crisis, he turned back to his apartment.

There Peter tried to read, experiencing that irritating lack of concentration which comes to all readers whose minds steal away from the page allowing the eyes to travel on alone like independent animals photographing mere type without ideas, until whisked back by their master to the place where they had ceased to read and begun only to move across the lines of print. He put the book down. The romance did not hold him; he had come to the threshold of romantic realities. He had knocked upon a noncommittal door. He was waiting for it to open.

It did in fact open—and quickly. Before nine, the old elevator on his came rocking along the corridor on his long and his short leg and rang Peter's bell.

"There's a gentleman and bang," he said. "I knew you were here, sir, but I told him I would see."

"What was his name?" asked DeWolfe.

"Smallwood, sir. Smallwood. A very sleepish man—a restful man, like."

"You never can tell by the first look," said Peter. "Sunday night! And Smallwood—bring him up."

The second meeting with the pale personality of the authority on books made him appear to Peter a few shades lighter in pallor. His eyes were almost more colorless openings in a face of little more the color of a moonstone by contrast with the shell rings of his glasses. His free hand hung listless as if it were just out of refrigeration. He wore a suit of pale gray, the pattern of which was so delicate that it might have been only the fancy of weak eyes. Smallwood looked as if he were something that had stood out through a rainy season.

"Here I am," he drawled.

"You don't mean?" exclaimed Peter.

The other man in answer placed the package under his arm on Peter's long Jacobean table. The motion was almost surreptitious.

"Yes, I did find one," he drawled. "Not so far away either."

He looked up inquiringly into DeWolfe's expressive face, now swept by call. Was the call to that region or was the call something that followed his search for this quaint old volume and its possession?

To Peter it appeared now that one more piece of material was needed to fill the pattern. He had been reluctant to seek this piece but now there was too much confirmation to allow anything to stand in the way.

He could not wait; he took his hat. The evening was now filled with moonlight, so clear, upon white cloud banks on a purple velvet sky, that it invited all to walk leisurely under a spell of every calm that even transformed the rectangular prisons of the city and the deep streets between. Peter knew nothing of the moon; he pursued one end, blind to all else.

After hurrying on foot for two blocks he succeeded in stopping an empty taxicab that was clattering southward on the avenue.

"Take me there," he said to the driver, putting a card in his hand.

The car turned about as if it had forgotten something uptown and after ten blocks on the asphalt, swung across a cross street to the car tracks upon which it turned like a brush on velvet until it turned around a hospital on a corner and found a block of old-fashioned brownstone houses.

Up the long steps of one of them, Peter climbed, looking for a doctor's sign, and finding it there he rang the bell.

The man he had come to see met him in a typical doctor's office with its mingled and vague impressions of trays and glass slabs, nickel instrument trays and the gleam of a polished, harmless nose and throat apparatus, books bound in dark red, scattered medical journals folded twice lengthwise, the sound of water dripping into a washbowl behind a white door and the faint smells of ether and aristol powder.

Peter gave no inspection to the man who received him; he began abruptly by stating his name.

The professional man, acting from habit, nodded, put on his glasses, took out a card case and said in a carefully nurtured tone of sympathy:

"What's the matter?"

"Nothing is the matter," replied DeWolfe. "I'm not ill. I took a chance on finding you on Sunday evening. I know nothing of your office hours. Apparently I'm lucky."

"Possibly."

"I came to consult you in your other capacity."

The other man got up: Peter could now see that he was a tall man who had neglected to shave that morning. He guessed that the practice of this physician did not flourish, but he sensed at once the vanity of the man the moment his second field of skill had been mentioned.

"Yes, I do a little of that, too," the doctor said with fraudulent modesty.

"I should say so," replied Peter. "Who do you suppose sent me here?"

"One of my lawyers, perhaps."

"The district attorney?"

The doctor was plainly pleased. He said, "Well, handwriting has been my hobby, Mr. DeWolfe, for nearly twenty-two years. It began curiously enough by a (trivial)—an attempt to read character through penmanship; it has ended in a scientific inquiry, the development of method, a system of rhythm measurements. Scarcely a day goes by that I am not consulted by the prosecuting authorities in many cities. I testified in London in the famous Speere murder case."

"I was told," said Peter. "I was told that you were in advance of any other man in America with perhaps one exception. I came to you for that reason. I came for an opinion. For that opinion I will gladly pay the fee you ask, but I want to say to you that the result of your opinion will have the gravest bearing upon the lives of at least two persons."

"I do not give opinions," the other said severely. "I give facts. I guess at nothing. My reports are not speculations; they are statements."

Peter ejaculated one word: "Exactly!" He was nervous and he could not conceal it.

"Well?" asked the doctor.

From his memoranda book DeWolfe took out two pieces of paper. One of them was that with the symbol of the feathered serpent and the two words "The Sign," which once had been in the possession of Jim Hennepe; the other was the check drawn by Compton Parmelee to the order of his wife, Brena Selcoss Parmelee, which she had indorsed. He placed this indorsement up and not down as he put the two pieces of paper side by side upon the table.

"Huh!" said the doctor, bending over them.

Peter looked up at him sharply.

"That," said the doctor, putting a square-ended forefinger upon the words—"The Sign."

"What?" asked Peter.

"That's an excellent example of an attempt to disguise penmanship," DeWolfe felt it necessary to contrast his muscles to hold in an exclamation.

"The way presents no obstacles to progress save the sand which is loose for the feet of horses," Father Carlos, the Jesuit explorer, had written. "This region of the sand blown by winds from the Mesa begins at the valley that we have called the Dry Cup and by me is so marked upon the drawing. Thence it runneth straight north for a distance of one hundred and five miles. Here was found a vast mound, some of our party saying below a great rock was to be found. The course from this mound is northwest; one we have followed by great good fortune like a miracle, there being only impassable clefts in the plain to the right and to the left and only one entrance into the Great Cleft, where is the ruins of the city—part upon the level ground and part upon the southern wall of the Mesa."

Peter turned to the map drawn so quaintly by the painstaking priest nearly two centuries ago, "lest others unguided by the hand of God become lost."

At the end of twenty minutes of study DeWolfe stood erect and drew down in a deep breath. These pages then were those which Parmelee had sought and found, the same as those which he had torn out of the book; they had been associated with some strange nation that had tried to leap from him.

"That is not the problem," said he.

"What is it?"

"The problem is whether the same hand wrote the words on these two pieces of paper. Did they?"

"Did they?" repeated the doctor scornfully. "Did you expect an answer to that—at once—in a minute? Upon the specimens you have brought? My stars! Man! There are only two words on this piece."

"I thought it would not require much time—"

"Much time?" exclaimed the doctor. "Well, it wouldn't require much time. It requires measurements, it requires the microscope to pick out the area. That is all. I could get it at tomorrow morning and in a few hours—"

"Tonight," said Peter firmly. "I know that this sounds unreasonable. Look here. It is worth a thousand dollars for me to know tonight."

The doctor swallowed.

"And you want a yes or no answer?"

"No matter what hour, I shall be waiting. Here is my number. No matter what hour, you understand. A thousand dollars."

The other swallowed again.

"It isn't worth a thousand dollars."

"It is to me," said Peter earnestly.

At half-past four in the morning, when Peter was starting out at the first color in the eastern sky, filled with strange chill of a sleepless night, his telephone rang at last.

He had his answer.

At half-past four in the afternoon five days later Brena Selcoss walked into the office of Colby Pennington. She had come directly from the pier on the North river. Her face was white, her sensitive lips moved uneasily as if seeking to suppress emotions of their own. Pennington was moved by her presence.

"I am a friend of Mr. DeWolfe's," she said. "I have sent a wireless addressed to him here. I have been on the sea for eleven days."

Pennington held up the undelivered envelope.

"Are you Miss Selcoss?" he asked.

"Well, Peter DeWolfe sent you a cablegram—something about advising you to delay your coming. You had started. Too bad. Just now Mr. DeWolfe is out of town."

"Out of town?"

"Why, yes. He went a few days ago. He had something to investigate. We rather expected to hear from him. He went off in a hurry—some hurry and flurry, I believe he had received some kind of message."

Pennington stopped.

"For God's sake what's the matter?" Brena Selcoss, leaning forward in her chair, had thrown her arm upon his desk and in the curve of one elbow had buried her face.

"For a moment she appeared as lifeless as if she had been struck a crushing blow upon the head."

Grave Purpose Behind Writing of Fiction

Universal nature, too strong for the petty fiber of the hand, sits on his neck when he seems to vent a mere caprice and wild romance the issue is an exact allegory. Hence Plato said that poets utter great and wise things which they do not themselves understand. All the actions of the Middle Ages expressed themselves as a masked or frolic expression of that which in grave earnest the mind of that period toiled to achieve. Magic, and all that is ascribed to it, is a deep presentation of the powers of science. The shoes of swiftness, the sword of sharpness, the power of subduing the elements, of using the secret virtues of minerals, of understanding the voices of birds, are the obscure propyls of the mind in a right direction. The preternatural prowess of the hero, the life of perpetual youth and the like are but the endeavor of the human spirit "to bend the shows of things to the desires of the mind."—Italo-Waldo Emerson in "Essay on History."

Peculiar Whistle

An English scientist has invented a whistle with adjustable plug by which the whistle can be rendered more and more shrill until the vibrations are so rapid that they no longer affect the human ear. But a dog can still hear them, and will leap readily to their call.

Swift's Sarcastic Proposal

Dean Swift, in 1729, wrote an ironical treatise, "A Modest Proposal for Preventing the Children of Poor People in Ireland from Being a Burden to Their Parents," in which he suggests they be fattened and eaten.

Or an Onion

A wealthy New York doctor is being sued by two women to whom he paid ardent attention. "Oh, of them ought to have eaten an apple a day," is the comment of the Arkansas Thomas Cat.

Dress Really Matter of High Importance

We may say, offhand-like, that we "don't care a thing about style." But is that true? Test the next man who says so by suggesting that he get out the old wedding suit of 30 years ago, burnish it up a bit, and wear it for a month. He won't. Or test the next woman by suggesting that she go into the attic and get the old hat of 20 years ago—that hat which was set atop the hair and was the antithesis of the smart turban of today. Will she do it? No; she cares, according to the Milwaukee Journal.

And we all should care. For dress expresses our taste, our moral philosophy of life, our inner selves, more than we realize. It is about all that others see of us as we go among them. To be neatly dressed, within a measure of correctness, shows our desire to be held in proper esteem by those around us. It shows, also, a desire not to offend their sensibilities by doing the outlandish thing.

Styles have rendered a good deal. There has, perhaps, been too much of the peacock about them. But on the whole there has been progress—better art, a more pleasing blend of colors, a keener sense of the appropriate—and we have saved the best thoughts from year to year.

Electricity and Gas

Sammie, watching his mother comb her hair, "Ain't we funny folks?"

Mother—Why?

Sammie—"Cause you've got electricity in your hair and grandma has gas in her stomach."

Looking 'Spectable

Marjorie had been washed and curled and combed, and now mother was getting ready to go out.

Marjorie looked serious as she watched the process, then remarked: "It takes a lot of fuss to make you and me look 'spectable, doesn't it, mamma?"

Where He Got Dirty

Grandma—Why, Edwin, how upon earth did you get so dirty?

Edwin—I was in swimmin'.

PLAYING FOUNTAINS

In the center of a square in a town was a large, round flower bed. The flower bed was filled with bright red geraniums and around its edges were pansies, myrtle and mignonettes. Every one in the town loved this flower bed. It belonged to the town. No one ever picked any of the flowers from it, for if one started to pick flowers, and then another did the same thing, and then a third should follow suit and so on, there would be no flowers at all.

So every one came and looked at the flowers and admired their bright color and their beauty and loved them because they made the town so pretty here about the square.

Around this square were paths and benches and at one side was a band stand.

Here, on summer evenings, the band played and the people came and listened to the music and clapped their hands or tooted their automobile horns to show how much they liked it. People passing through the town would see the square, and in the center the beautiful flower bed and would say:

"Oh, do look! Aren't those flowers lovely! So bright and so gay."

It made everyone very proud of the flower bed. It was cared for by a gardener who loved flowers, and for whom flowers always did their best.

Flowers are like people that way. They do their best for those who love them, and appear at their best for those who think they are capable of a great deal.

When people from the town came to the square they spoke of the flowers as "our flowers," and "our flower bed."

On either side of the flower bed was a fountain, a small but very pretty fountain.

The water dashed up and then broke in such a pretty spray, and fell down once more into the tiny, tiny pond waiting to receive it.

It did this again and again and again.

And this was the way it was with each of the two fountains.

They were both alike. When the sun shone down upon them there were many colors to be seen gleaming and sparkling in their clear water spray. The fountains were owned by everyone, too. They added to the beauty of the square.

They, too, were admired by passers-by. "What a lovely little park," they would say, "with the flower bed and the dear little fountains."

Sometimes they were called "dear little fountains," sometimes "pretty fountains," and sometimes they were even called "darling little fountains."

They never seemed to be weary. They loved their spraying, tumbling little game.

They played all the time. They enjoyed their gentle, water life in the square.

"We play," they said, as they tumbled, "our own favorite game. It is always the same game."

"We never weary of it."

"We can keep on playing it day after day, day after day, with just as much interest."

"An old game doesn't tire us. Each time we do the same trick we are just as interested as the last time."

"Sometimes when fountains are still they are taking a rest. But when they are playing they always play with just the same spirit. Some have more power than others but that doesn't matter."

"They never play in a half-hearted fashion, or a half-spraying fashion as one might say if one were a fountain."

"That is why you may depend upon it that when a fountain is playing it is playing in a happy way and not in a sulky manner."

"A fountain never sulks. Maybe if a fountain should sulk people wouldn't say 'playing fountains,' and the expression is so lovely that no fountain will ever do anything to stop people from using it."

"Either a fountain rests entirely or it plays happily."

People in the square used to say: "What pretty little sounds the fountains make when they play."

They were the sounds not only of the fountains at play but of the fountains talking playfully to out play!

What a Lovely Little Park!

WOMAN'S BACK STOPPED ACHING

I Suffered Three Years. Relieved by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

St. Paul, Minn.—"I have a little girl three years old and ever since her birth I have suffered with my back as if it were breaking in two and I have felt as if something were falling out all the time. I also had dizzy spells and was sick at my stomach every month. I had read several letters of women in the newspapers and the druggist recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to my husband for me. As a result of taking it my back has stopped aching and the awful bearing-down feeling is gone. I feel stronger and do all of my housework and tend to my little girl. I have also taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Liver Pills for constipation. I have recommended these medicines to some of my friends and you may use this letter as a testimonial if you wish. It will be pleased to answer letters of other women if I can help them by telling them what this medicine has done for me."—Mrs. PRICE, 147 W. Summit Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota.

ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE

For Tired Feet It Can't Be Beat

At night when your feet are tired, sore and swollen from much walking or dancing, sprinkle two ALLEN'S FOOT-EASE powders in the foot-bath, gently rub the sore and inflamed parts and rub the shoe with the powder. Shake Allen's Foot-Ease into your shoes in the morning and walk in comfort. It takes the friction from the shoe. Sold every where. Lucky Prisoners Prison life in southern Australia isn't so bad now. Prisoners there work only seven and a quarter hours. They receive 6 shillings a week and after the seventh week, if their behavior is good, can spend half their wages on fruit, jam and tobacco.

Saracens

Saracens is a name of doubtful origin. In the Middle Ages it was popularly applied to the Arabs, Moors and other Mohammedans who conquered the East, Sicily, parts of Spain, and northern Africa, who resisted the Crusaders from western Europe.

Good Equipment Makes a Good Farmer Better

Save Time and Labor

Don't take the chance of a breakdown or steady loss of high-priced grain this season. Harvest this year's crop with a brand new McCormick Deering grain binder. We'll gladly show you over one of these grain, labor and time savers, and point out the features that make such a binder the logical purchase for every farmer in this community. The purchaser buying either a McCormick or Deering grain binder may rest assured of always getting parts for these machines.

11,000 VOLTS FAILED TO KILL—Arthur Krueger of Oakfield and lineman for the Oakfield Telephone company, had a narrow escape from death by electrocution on Tuesday when he was knocked unconscious by contact with an electric wire charged with 11,000 volts.

The accident occurred north of the railroad crossing in the village of Oakfield, near the creamery, where the telephone lines cross to the east side of the street directly below those of the Wisconsin Power and Light company. He was on a telephone pole stringing a new copper circuit between Oakfield and Fond du Lac. He was standing on the lower cross arms of the pole and signaled to other men in the crew to pull up the slack wire, and while so doing his left arm and his hand, which was not protected by a glove, touched the high voltage wire. Krueger was thrown across the telephone wires strung under the electric circuit, he hung suspended on these wires for five minutes when he regained consciousness and climbed down the pole before his fellow workmen came to his assistance. He sustained a burn as large as a saucer below his right hip and the toes of his left foot were blackened.

The "Tidy" Heroine—"Molly was to the eye about as worthy of adoration as a woman can be. She had an air of comfortable stolidity; she had locks of dark, chestnut hair, very old fashioned, the constant appearance of being preserved from dust, untidy wind, or the minor troubles of life, and the rare gift of being able to keep her stockings straight and unwrinkled."—From "Every Wife," by Grant Richards.

Cause and Effect

Many a man's career has been ruined because as a babe, the top of his head closed the wrong way, making a depression where there ought to be a well-rounded surface. Feel the top of your head. If it sinks in, watch yourself closely.—Ottumwa Bee.

Color Blindness

It is said that males are more likely to be color-blind than females (16 to 11). Only one woman in 400 is color-blind. The reason for this is partly, at least, that the development of the gray-perceiving substance is favored by practice and education.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

MERE PRETENDERS

IN ALL communities there is a class of men and women who cannot stand up straight and put a name upon their actions.

privileged to embarrass and humiliate their fellow-beings. Their behavior forms a sort of background which is recognized at first glance by the unassuming, well-educated and cultured as supremely artificial and brazen.

A LA VALENTINE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

The rose is red, The violet blue; This little bill Is overdue.

Please pay it now— Don't wait till when The rose and violet Bloom again.

For if you do Delay it thus, No violet Will bloom for us!

Unless you pay, The rose will rest Upon our fair And manly chest.

The birds will sing, But what of that? We shall not hear them Where we're at.

So come across; We need the dough— Not in the spring, But now, you know.

The violet is red, The rose blue; Do we need cash? I'll say we do!

Find Advantages in Saving Seed

Selection Often Is Better Than Can Be Given to Market Product.

With broilers at 30 to 40 cents a pound it is more profitable to feed pullets than capons. So an experiment at the Ohio State university indicates.

Sore Shoulders Tend to Increase Feed Bills

The best thing to do with sore shoulders on the horse is to prevent them, according to J. G. Fuller, animal husbandman of the University of Wisconsin.

Some Prejudice Against Alfalfa as Horse Feed

There is more or less prejudice against alfalfa as a horse feed. This prejudice, however, is not found to any extent in the big alfalfa-growing regions.

Feed Cows on Pasture

One of the mistakes made by farmers is the fact that the dairy cows are not fed grain when the pasture is luxuriant.

Grape Spray Program

The following spray program will take care of all the common diseases and pests of grapes: When the new shoots are 8 to 16 inches long apply bordeaux mixture (4-5-50) with one pound of lead arsenate to each 50 gallons.

Lumber, especially rough lumber, should be painted as soon as the construction job is finished.

RADIO

The Type Tuned Radio Frequency (Two-Stage Tuned Radio, Detector, and the Stage of Audio Frequency) Receiver Using Low-Loss Doughnut Coils in First Stage.

The latest improvement in radio apparatus is the low-loss doughnut coil. This coil is used in any of the radio frequency stages to stabilize the tuning. Its use in place of the ordinary periodic coupler used for tuning the first stage will improve any receiver and is a good piece of apparatus to incorporate in any receiver.

The interference, noise and general qualities of the first stage are improved and eventually become the quality of the receiver. If the first stage is broad in tuning, the receiver will have a lack of selectivity. The gain of the first stage has a great influence on the ultimate performance of the receiver.

Quality Type of Transformer. The usual type of transformer used has a single-layer wound on a core with a tap taken off for the antenna connection. The field of the magnetic lines of force around the core of the coil, created by the flow of current through the wire, spreads out and sprays nearby pieces of apparatus, causing distortion and making the receiver unstable in operation.

The low-loss doughnut type of coil, on the other hand, has an entirely self-contained field that prevents magnetic spraying effects. The low loss feature of the coil is due to the fact that the magnetic field is entirely within the doughnut coil, thereby lowering the inductance capacity and resistance, and making the coil of ordinary coils to a considerable degree.

To incorporate the coil in a regular portable or tuned radio-frequency receiver, all that is necessary is to re-

Use of More Coils to Add Selectivity to Set

In the construction of the additional coils, use one spider-web form and wind on two wires, one ten turns more than the other. For instance, if your original tuner coil C has 45 turns, make the coil A 40 turns and coil B 50 turns. Disconnect the input of the set from the usual coil C and make connection as shown. Place an L-plate or 2-plate variable condenser in the antenna circuit.

The coils A and B are tuned simultaneously by the 2-plate condenser. The capacitance of the station wanted is a slightly different wave length than the station wanted and tunes down the station band. If this is not done, the input of the set from the usual coil C and make con-

Light Waves' Speed Is 186,000 Miles Second

Australian Schoolboy Hears KDKA's Program

The clever way that schoolboys in distant lands will, in the near future, have a much better idea of the United States, for now American radio broadcasting stations are being heard all over the world. Recently a schoolboy in Perth, Western Australia, listened in on a program being sent out by the radio station KDKA at East Pittsburgh, Pa. This program was broadcast from Pittsburgh at from five to six in the morning, which corresponded to ten o'clock to nine of the same evening in Australia.

Purpose of Phone String

Good radios have a string attached to the end where the tips are. This string has a definite use. Since the string is to be used only as connections through the phone plug, these must be made in a way to hold the cord to the plug. The string is put there for that purpose. Some plugs have a little hook

Pretty Things That are made at Home

IN THE matter of dress accessories, there is no doubt that costume flowers and neckwear hold the center of the stage in current styles and that the management of color is the most important factor in their success. In scarfs, midsummer has brought with it some new features—the ensemble idea is discernible everywhere, and is reflected in scarfs of chiffon with hand-painted borders that repeat the decorative design in the dress they accompany. Crepe de chine scarfs take their cue from felt or fabric sports hats to match, painted sometimes with little landscapes or water views. Hand painting in cabinet or flowered patterns, in vivid or pastel colors, flourishes on gowns, hats and scarfs and invites the amateur artist to try her skill. The scarfs have pleat edges.

Next to the scarf the jabot and collar and sleeve sets are important. These are made of lace or net and lace combinations and the jabot is attached to either round or high collar along the edge of a length of insertion or tucked net. A collar and sleeve set of tucked net and lace is shown in the picture. Narrow lace and a heavy lacing are used—the beading carrying baby ribbon in black. With the vogue for long sleeves these new under sleeves prove very useful, worn under three-quarter length sleeves in the frock, because they can be easily kept clean.

Costume flowers employ both ribbons and millinery flowers—mostly the latter—and are used on the majority of afternoon dresses and practically all evening dresses. Nothing flourishes with equal exuberance except the boutonniere. Everybody wears a flower of some sort, pinned somewhere, about the neck or on the coat lapel. Gardenias, chrysanthemums, roses, pansies, and many other blossoms finish the summer costume.

Even palm leaf and other plain fans come in for a colorful finishing touch in the hands of busy loving women. A palm-leaf fan is shown in the picture with a floral pattern sketched on it with bright silk floss and a small heart-shaped lambroo fan is painted with flowers and a bright-winged bird. But the small palm-leaf fan is at its prettiest when it is trimmed with narrow satin ribbon and finished with ribbon or millinery flowers. Ribbons about an inch and a half, or two inches wide, in any desired color is considered appropriate to the wear. The shades of pink vary from shell to old rose.

Pink and Black

A color innovation in millinery is the use of black and pink instead of black and white where it is desired to relieve the all-black. Age determines the shade of pink that is considered appropriate to the wear. The shades of pink vary from shell to old rose.

Ribbon Hem

The straight-line hem of printed crepe de chine has girdled set in to make the frilly, flare now so popular. The hem on these frocks frequently is an inch band of ribbon in harmonizing or contrasting shades.

Tub Silks for Sports

Tub silks are very much in vogue for sports wear, and when the fabric is striped, horizontal and vertical effects are combined in a most attractive manner.

The Kitchen Cabinet

It sometimes takes courage to insist that you are right, but a lot more to admit that you were wrong.

ABOUT BREAKFASTS

The first meal of the day should be a happy, satisfying one, starting the family off to their various duties in a cheerful frame of mind.

Most people enjoy a bit of seasonal fruit to start the morning meal, then a dish of cereal, cooked or ready prepared; hot breads, waffles, toast, griddle cakes, eggs, bacon and ham are all good breakfast dishes.

A cereal which is most wholesome is the whole wheat taken right from the granary, carefully picked over and washed, then cooked for hours until the tough outer coat of the kernel is softened. Serve with top milk. The children with their sharp little teeth will learn to masticate it well and like it better and better.

Heavy, hearty foods should not be served the inactive. When after a meal, one feels stupid and dull, it is time to fast and eat very slightly at breakfast.

Baked Mackerel.—This is good prepared with salt fish, but is especially delicious with fresh. If salt, soak well over night, then put to bake with a very little water to steam; after ten minutes cover with cream and finish baking.

New England Salt Cod.—Our salt fish in squares and soak over night. In the morning, drain and rinse, cover with fresh, boiling water and simmer until tender. Spread on a platter and put into the oven. Prepare a drawn butter sauce of one tablespoonful of butter and two tablespoonfuls of flour, cooked together until the mixture leaves the sides of the pan. Add one cupful of cold water and stir until the sauce is smooth. Pour over the codfish and serve, sprinkled with parsley finely minced and garnished with chopped hard-cooked eggs and lemon quarters.

Scrambled Eggs.—Break three eggs into a pan with two tablespoonfuls of butter, stir and add one cupful of milk, a few bread crumbs, seasoning to taste. Cook until the egg has thickened the milk, then serve at once with or on buttered toast.

Cakes for Porch Teas. During the summer months cakes are served very freely and a good one is appreciated. The following are choice recipes which will add variety to those already cherished:

Almond Cake.—Cream one-third of a cupful of butter, add one cupful of sugar, one-fourth cupful of milk, the yolks of six eggs well beaten, and one cupful of flour sifted with one teaspoonful of baking powder. Flavor with the rind and rind of a lemon. Beat the whites of the eggs until stiff, add one cupful of sugar and one cupful of chopped almonds. Put on top of the cake when it is ready to go into the oven. Bake in a slow oven. This may be baked in layers and put together with whipped cream, making a very delicious cake.

Current Ice.—Take three cupfuls of current juice, two cupfuls of sugar and one cupful of water. Cook the sugar and water till it spins a thread, take from the fire and add the current juice. Chill in a freezer and freeze. When nearly frozen add the whites of two eggs beaten to a stiff froth with two tablespoonfuls of sugar. Freeze until firm, pack and let stand to ripen.

When baking apples, vary the flavor by adding grated orange or lemon peel, rubbing a loaf of sugar over the fruit to get the flavor. Insert the sugar in the cavity. Raisins and figs are delicious stuffing for baked apples.

Sponge Cake.—Beat the yolks of six eggs until thick, add one cupful of sugar gradually and continue beating; add one tablespoonful of lemon juice, the grated rind of a lemon and the whites of the eggs beaten stiff. When the whites are partially mixed add one cupful of flour and a little salt. Bake one hour in an angel food pan.

Rochester Chocolate Cake.—Cream one-fourth of a cupful of butter, add one cupful of sugar gradually, and then add two squares of melted chocolate, two well-beaten eggs, one-half cupful of milk and one-third cupful of flour mixed and sifted with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Beat well; add one teaspoonful of vanilla and bake in a moderate oven for forty-five minutes. Cover with:

Ice Cream Frosting.—Beat two cupfuls of sugar and six tablespoonfuls of water to a thread. Pour the syrup gradually over two well-beaten egg whites, beat until thick, flavor with vanilla and spread over the cake. One cupful of sugar, one cupful of sour cream and one cupful of nuts, adding the nuts after the sugar and cream are cooked until thick, makes a most delicious cake filling.

Asparagus which seems too tough to cook may often be peeled and then makes a tasty dish.

New Cathedral Facade Belfast War Memorial

Belfast is commemorating its service in the World War by erecting a new facade for its Protestant cathedral as a victory memorial. The first stone was laid at a ceremony that was given state and civic dignity. The duke of Abercorn attended, as did the lord mayor and corporation of Belfast. The Protestant prime minister was present and was accompanied by 14 bishops, some of whom came from England. The Presbyterian church was represented by the moderator of its general assembly and the Methodist by the chairman of the Belfast synod. Lord Glenavy, chairman of the Free State senate, attended as an invited guest.

Greek to Her

An amusing conversation was overheard in one of the busses a few days ago.

It was Mrs. A. who spoke: "After going out with the thirteen orphans and the twins yesterday, I felt that my duty was accomplished."

Mrs. B., remembering that the yesterday spoken of was Thanksgiving, said: "Well, I should say your duty was done. At what orphans' home were you?"

Mrs. A. (rather surprised) remarked: "I was at no orphans' home. I was at my own home playing mah-jongg, my dear."—Chicago News.

Tired, Lame, Achy?

Are you dragging around with a constant headache? Feel weak, worn and aching; so miserable you can't enjoy a man's comfort? How about your kidneys? Well, kidneys filter off body poisons. But when the kidneys slow up, poisons accumulate and upset the system. Backache is apt to follow, with sharp pains, dizziness and annoying kidney irregularities. Don't delay! If you suspect faulty kidney action, use Doan's Pills. Doan's have helped thousands—recommended the world over. Ask your neighbor!

A Wisconsin Case
Mrs. A. S. Dunn, 112 Dodge St., Lakeland, Wis., says: "My kidneys were disordered and my back ached and pained. I couldn't do anything around the house. My back seemed to give out completely. I felt dull and sick and out of sorts. Doan's Pills, which I used, cured me."

ISSUE ORDER FOR LICENSE PLATES
More than 650,000 automobile license plates for 1926 have been ordered from the state prison plant at Wau-pau by Secretary of State Fred Zimmerman. The colors of the plate will be black numerals on a cream background. The ordinary demand for automobile plates is about 600,000 annually. During the first half of the year 1925, there were registered 541,927 automobiles, 58,594 were for trucks, 2-886 for motor vehicles and 2,635 for dealers' cars. The estimate of Mr.
Zimmerman is that the total number of 1925 motor vehicle registration will reach 606,900, a record year.

Famous Royal Cords for Heavy and Extra Heavy Service

THE reports you hear every day about the remarkable service of U. S. Royal Cords indicate how well they are doing the job.

Their Latex-treated Web
Cord construction gives them wear-fighting quality that stands up under the hardest kind of service over all kinds of roads.

For heavy service in all sizes
choose the U. S. Royal Cord; for extra heavy service on larger cars, buses and light trucks—the U. S. Bus-Truck Tire; for specialty severe service on light cars the U. S. Royal Cord Extra

UNITED STATES TIRES ARE GOOD TIRES

Get Good Lumber for YOUR Building Dollars!

Native Hemlock will meet your every requirement for a superior building material.

Freedom from large, loose knots and of extra standard size—more wood and more strength to the piece, are reasons why Hemlock studding, rafters and joists insure greater rigidity to your framing.

Immunity to dry-rot is another characteristic which, likewise, favors Northern Hemlock for sheathing, lath and underflooring.
And its ability to take and hold paint and stains recommends Hemlock for drop siding, or shiplap, and all outside trim.

YES, IT PAYS TO BUY GOOD LUMBER!
Ask your favorite lumber dealer to show you his stock of finely manufactured, rigidly graded Northern Hemlock before buying a stick of lumber for any purpose.
