SEEING WISCONSIN WITH THE STATE EDITORIAL PARTY

Harbeck and wife of the Statesman accompanied by Editor Sullivan and wife of Campbellsport, returned Monday evening from the annual automobile tour of Wisconsin. The tour was conducted through the north-central part of the state. Arriving at Appleton on Thursday afternoon, a sort of renewing of friendship was indulged in until evening, when a banquet was given the editorial party by the Appleton Chamber of Commerce at the Conway Hotel. Friday morning, the tour proper started, Waupaca, the objective point. Arriving at this beautiful city, the visitors were taken through the State Home grounds and then for a short ride through the beautiful and scenic Chain O' Lakes, after which a luncheon was served at the lakes by the Waupaca business men. At 2 o'clock the afternoon trip was resumed and the next place visited was the Paper Company's mill at Waupaca, where souvenir boxes of paper envelopes were given to the visitors. The trip through this large industrial plant was very interesting to all. The next stop was at Stevens Point where a trip was taken about the city and the second night spent at the Stevens Hotel. The Rotary and Kiwanis clubs tendered a banquet to the editorial party and their wives in the evening. Saturday morning the motor party left for Antigo, with a brief stop at Ribblesburg. Merrill was the driver and after a brief concert by the Wisconsin Press association band, the party was resumed to Waunakee. A banquet was held in the home square, a dinner given by the Waunakee Record Herald at the Waunakee Hotel, and a get-together and dinner party at the Waunakee Elks club. Sunday morning we left for Shawano. After a brief stop at Birmingwood the motor car arrived at Shawano and proceeded to the Keshena Indian reservation. A dinner was served by the Shawano Rotary club. After a short visit to the Shawano Lake motor party left for Green Bay. Monday morning the party was taken on an auto trip to the city and shown the wonderful historical spots which abound in this section. Among them being the home of Jean Nicolet in 1634, the site of the first settlement in 1795, Old Fort Winnebago Hospital built in 1816 and other old land marks, which were of very interesting. At noon a small dinner was tendered the motor party at the Northland Hotel in Green Bay. The Green Bay Kiwanis club, Excelsior made being furnished by the Green Bay composed of boys from the Green Bay reformatory. A feature of the Green Bay banquet was the singing of Charles Kerr, a man of 70 years of age who sang "Wisconsin, Land of the Future," his own composition, being composed on the piano by his nephew. After this the guests departed to their respective homes declaring this tour one of the most successful ever held. The editors were accompanied this year by their editorial staff of thirty-five pieces which gave them in every city visited. The party was also accompanied by some of the noted soloists, namely: Sunny Miller, one of the world's most famous soloists, who accompanied the editorial band through the city of the Frank Holton Community of Keshena, Wis. Miss Florence of New Holstein and Editor of Waunakee sang several expressions throughout the trip, and several of very interesting speeches were made which helped much to make the 1925 trip one of the best ever held.

MANY NEW LAWS GOVERNING AUTOS

(By F. A. Cannon, Executive Secretary Good Roads Association of Wis.) A number of important laws were adopted by the legislature regarding highway traffic and motor vehicles. One of these refers to trucks and busses operating on regular routes and carrying passengers and freight for hire. Under this law these are constituted common carriers and are required to apply annually to the Railroad Commission for registration, giving full information as to routes, rates, schedules, etc. Busses are required to file an indemnity bond based on the passenger carrying capacity of the vehicle. Trucks are required to provide an indemnity bond of $5,000 to any one person and $10,000 for any one accident. The license fee is increased. Busses are permitted to run the same speed as automobiles—30 miles an hour. However, they cannot average more than 25 miles an hour between their terminal points. That is, a bus running between two points 100 miles apart cannot cover the distance in less than four hours. This bill empowers the highway commission to appoint not more than 10 of their regular employees as officers to cooperate with local officers in enforcing traffic laws. These officers are to be furnished with a device called a load-meter, whereby they can weigh a load. If a vehicle is carrying a load in excess of that permitted by the law, they can compel the driver to dump the excess. Chapter 234 requires that motor trucks, taxi cabs or motor busses licensed in another state and running into Wisconsin shall pay a Wisconsin license fee and carry a Wisconsin license. Chapter 209 provides that if any person operates a motor vehicle after May 1 without carrying a license for that year, he shall not only be arrested, subject to fine, or fine and imprisonment, and for the payment of the proper license fee, but he shall pay $2.00 in addition which shall go to the officer making the arrest, with a view of stimulating local officers to become active. Chapter 430 subjects an intoxicated person driving an automobile not only to a fine or fine and imprisonment, but empowers the court to issue an order prohibiting him from driving a car for one year from date. Chapter 452 provides that after 1925 no motor vehicle license shall be issued unless the applicant applies for and receives a certificate of title from the secretary of state, giving detailed information to show his ownership. A license issued for the same car in 1925 will be considered prima facie evidence of ownership. The secretary of state and sheriffs and police departments are required to exchange information as to motor vehicles stolen or recovered.

HOLD LARGE FAMILY REUNION

In what is reported to be one of the largest, if not the largest family reunion ever held in this section of the state, was held by the Kocher families of this vicinity last Sunday in Paul Kocher's woods in the town of Barton, at which fifty-four families took part in the event. The occasion was held on the farm on which the father of the late John Kocher first settled. Besides the Kocher families, the reunion was also attended by their kin. The families commenced to gather early in the day, bringing with them a basket of lunch. The day was spent in visiting, renewing acquaintances and telling stories of olden times, and listening to the music by a fifteen piece brass band from West Bend which gave additional enjoyment to the day's festivities which will long linger in the memories of those who attended. It was decided by the families to make this reunion an annual affair. The date for the 1926 get-together meeting was set for the first Sunday in August. NEW DOG STAR PROVIDES THRILLS

The absurdity of claims that animals in motion pictures are beaten and abused in order to get them to perform is pointed out by Edward Faust, the owner and trainer of Peter the Great, the famous German police dog appearing in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "The Silent Accuser," which comes to the Opera House tomorrow. Faust illustrated his point by striking at the dog with a club. The dog did not cringe, or move. "If I had beaten that dog in training him he would have barked when I struck at him," he said. "Peter has never been struck with a club, and has not even learned to fear it. Faust also points out that the dog would have killed him long ago if he had abused it, for one of Peter's tricks is to leap at his trainer's throat. Faust also lays flat on the ground, and permits the dog to fasten his teeth in his throat. The dog has been trained to do this without leaving even a mark. Peter has proved the value of the right kind of training by his work in "The Silent Accuser," which Chester M. Franklin directed, and adapted to the screen with the assistance of Frank O'Connor from Jack Boyle's story. Eleanor Boardman, Raymond McKee and Sarie Metcalfe head the cast.

SWARM OF BEES CAUSES RUNAWAY

Harry K. Biener, age 55, who was employed at the Charles W. Hughes farm, two miles north of Campbellsport, had a very exciting experience on Wednesday afternoon, when the team of horses he was driving were attacked by a swarm of bees, causing the animals to become unmanageable and run away. It all happened while Mr. Hughes was threshing barley, and while Biener was hauling a load of barley from the field to the farm lot, a swarm of bees came down upon the horses and teamster, and two Chicago motorists who came to his rescue. The horses made a frantic dash to escape the bees and crashed into a barbed wire fence, where they became hopelessly entangled. Two relatives of Biener who had been watching the threshing outfit at work hastened to the scene in their car when they saw the runaway team and were also attacked by the bees. N. J. Klotz and other farmers who were working with the outfit in the farm lot, came to the rescue with lace curtains secured from the Hughes home. By covering themselves with the curtains, they extricated the horses from the fence and led them to safety. Biener was badly stung about the face, neck and arms and was given mud applications to relieve his pain. Both horses were so badly stung that it is expected that one of the animals will die.

SUDDEN DEATH OF WELLKNOWN CITIZEN

Apparently feeling as though he was in the best of health, Carl Urban, Sr., died suddenly at his home here on Wednesday afternoon, August 12, 1925 between the hours of 2 and 6 p. m. Cause of death being heart trouble. Mr. Urban had been around town all day conversing with his friends, and when last seen alive was in Jacob Becker's blacksmith shop at about two o'clock in the afternoon. At 6 o'clock in the evening when his son Julius returned home from work, he found his father lying dead upon the kitchen floor. Mr. Urban had been alone at home, his wife having left for Milwaukee where she was visiting with her children. The body when found was still warm, indicating that he had been dead but a short time before being discovered. Mr. Urban was born May 1, 1852 in Germany. On April 14, 1893, he immigrated to America and settled in Kewaskum, where he has since resided. In May 1878, he was married to Sophie Jung, 14 children were born of this union, six of whom preceded their father in death. Those who together with their grief-stricken mother survive are: Joseph and Mrs. Bertha Larson of Milwaukee, Carl of Fond du Lac, Julius at home, Paul Frank, John and Casilda (Mrs. Elmer Miller) of Milwaukee. Besides these he leaves to mourn his sudden demise, 10 grand children. Mr. Urban was a well known pioneer citizen of this village and community. All who made his acquaintance were surprised and grieved to learn of his sudden death. He was an honest and upright man, kindly disposed toward his many friends, whom he was at all times ready to assist in time of need. His death has brought deep sorrow to his family, who have the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community. The remains were immediately removed to the Edw. F. Miller undertaking parlors, where they laid in state until Thursday, when they were taken to the family home from where the funeral was held on Friday morning at 10 a. m., with services in the Holy Trinity church. Rev. Voigt officiated. Burial was made in the congregation's cemetery.

SMITH'S ANIMALS AT COUNTY FAIR

There is always something particularly apropos in an animal act for County Fair audiences, and this year the management have contracted what they believe to be one of the very best in this particular branch of the amusement business. Smith's animals have a country-wide reputation of being one "creme de la creme" of sagacity, intelligence and cleverness. For a diversified program they are hard to beat. A big brown bear rides a bicycle entirely of its own volition, seemingly enjoying the exercise as much as the average boy or girl. "Murphy," of course the clown of the circus, loses a whole bag full of tricks doing a slack rope act entirely his own and a novelty in canine education hard to surpass. For "Murphy" is a dog. To show an animal act without the monkeys, would be to disappoint every kid on the Fair grounds. There is something about the Simians that especially appeals to the younger generation, and a few monkeys will give a child more pleasure than the greatest actor in the world can supply. Realizing this, Mr. Smith has paid particular attention to the training of his "monks". They have a distinct part in the program and as a finish to the act, engage in a spirited harness race, creating a novel climax to a wonderful exhibition of expert training, animal intelligence and patient endeavor on the part of the producer. Smith's animals will be shown among the free acts at the Washington County Fair held at West Bend, Sept. 14, 15, 16, and 17. The other free acts are: Chief Silver-tongue, an Indian tenor singer; the Six Tip Tops, contortionists of vaudeville fame, and Joseph Cramer, a balancing and juggling artist. In the evenings of the three main days a Night Fair will be held, the first ever arranged in Washington county at which a magnificent pageant, depicting scenes from Washington county history, will be produced by some 300 people.

HEALTH CLINIC AT HARTFORD

The benefits of the Washington county health center will again be at the command of parents on Tuesday, August 18, at Hartford. The examinations, which are for children up to 6 years of age and also expectant mothers, will be conducted at the city hall from 9 to 4 o'clock. Dr. Cora S. Allen, the physician, will be assisted by Miss Grace Hilyer, health center nurse, Miss Cecelia Giesing, county nurse, and local workers. Miss Giesing requests that mothers bring a small blanket with which to shield their babies while waiting examination. The health centers are showing up many abnormal cases as well as those where only slight variations in health habits or diet are all that is needed to chart a correct course for normally healthy childhood. At one center a report cited two children who, according to the mother, had been given "the usual amount of candy" (although the basis for such a standard remains an enigma.) She stated further that her 16 months old baby had daily convulsions. "He was getting tea and coffee three times a day," the report added, "a daily ice cream cone, and an occasional night." In many feeding cases of this type the health center staff are able to outline a course which the parents easily can follow, and many are the reports of health gains and better general physical development which greet the doctor at the next center meeting.

BEE-KEEPERS PAY KEWASKUM A WELCOME VISIT

Kewaskum was the center of attraction Thursday, when over 100 beekeepers from several states and Canada visited here on the third day of a four-day tour of inspection through the bee disease clean-up area of Wisconsin. The party arrived here shortly after 12 o'clock noon, after a tour of inspection to the bee aparies of Washington county. The party stopped at the farm home of Albert Seefeldt, where a noonday luncheon was served. After a luncheon a short program was held at which prominent bee men gave interesting talks on the bee keeping industry of Wisconsin, and the good that has been derived by weeding out foul brood from the different aparies. "Killing of how, within the last few years Wisconsin has been attracted the notice of the bee world through its inclination toward progressive methods in bee culture and its forward steps in the eradication of the diseases which provide the big problems of the industry. The state's activity in the last few years in establishing grades and enforcing high quality standards in honey prepared for commercial distribution, has attracted nation-wide attention. Prominent bee men on the program here were Prof. F. E. Millen, Guelph, Ontario; Prof. H. F. Wilson of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin; Alfred Seefeldt of here; George A. Demuth, Medina, Ohio. D. M. Rosenheimer, president of the village, one of the guests at the program gave a short address of welcome to the bee keepers. His remarks of welcome made a good impression among the members of the bee tour. Before concluding the program here, Prof. F. E. Millen of Ontario, who was one of the principal speakers of the day, expressed a vote of thanks in behalf of the party, to the citizens and businessmen of the village, for the interest taken by local people, in the cordial treatment extended to the visitors, and in displaying the national colors along the streets as a token of welcome. From here the party made a tour of inspection through Fond du Lac county.

"SPECIALIST" IS FLEECING FARMERS

Sheboygan, Wis.—Posing as an asthma specialist, a man who gave his name as Dr. Davis, is being sought by the authorities of this and adjoining counties for swindling $50 from Wm. Nuss, who resides on a farm near Waldo. Davis is also charged with misrepresenting himself to John Dillman, farmer in the same vicinity, and others, recently. Obtaining the names of Dr. C. B. Richards' patients at Waldo in some mysterious manner, "Dr." Davis went out to call on a few of them, and to offer them "specialist" services. It has not been learned how the names of the patients were obtained, for the man was a stranger. After Davis gained the confidence of his new "patient," Mr. Nuss handed him over $50 in hard earned cash. "Dr." Davis in return gave him a packet of powder and told him to "sniff" them at intervals named by the Doc. While Mr. Nuss was sniffing, "Dr." Davis was finding his way to another "patient" "Dr." Davis is believed to be about 25 years old and he was of slender build and about six feet tall. He traveled in a Ford touring car.

Seven-Room Dutch Colonial House Utilizes All the Available Space

By WILLIAM A. RADFORD
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all problems pertaining to the subject of building for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is without doubt, the highest authority on the subject. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1237 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only include two-cent stamp for reply.

When it comes to getting the greatest possible space in the new home there is nothing better than the Dutch colonial house with its gambrel roof and square, or nearly square, floor plan. Not only does such a house afford much space but it also lends itself admirably to building of an attractive small or medium-sized house with simple dignified lines.

The house shown is finished entirely in shingles. Monotony of appearance is avoided by laying the shingles of the side walls wide to the weather while the symmetrical placing of windows also aids.

The foundation is low, basement windows set in archedays at the front and the shingled walls carried almost to the ground level.

Two small porches, one at the front entrance and the other leading from the driveway to a side entrance into the dining room, are built of concrete and brick and are approached by two low steps. Down stairs at each end of the front elevation are used to break the wall expense and serve an ornamental as well as a practical purpose. Shrubby plants all along the front breaks the line of foundation.

The interior arrangement is simple. The front entrance opens into a central reception hall which contains the stairs leading to the second floor and, at the rear, the basement stairs. At one side of this hall is a large living room, 23 ft. by 15 ft., which occupies the whole side of the house and is well lighted by windows on three sides. A big fireplace is placed at one side of this room and is served by an inside chimney. This type of chimney means economy in building, as compared with a decorative outside chimney, and is also made for fuel economy by retaining much heat that is dissipated by the outside chimney.

On the opposite side of the hall is the dining room with a small but ample kitchen behind it. The kitchen is built-in with a pantry containing built-in cupboards for food supplies. This kitchen also opens onto an entry which gives access to the basement stairs and the back porch. A coat closet off the central hall is also reached by means of a door from the kitchen.

The upper floor, like that below stairs, is divided by a hall, at the front end of which is located the bathroom. In each corner is a bedroom. Those on the left are 14 by 10 feet while those at the right are 15 by 10 feet. Each bedroom is provided with a large closet and there is also another closet in the hall for the linen.

A balcony, over the back porch, is reached by a door opening off the hall. All these bedrooms are well lighted, having windows on two sides, and still retain ample wall space for the placing of all the usual pieces of bedroom furniture.

One feature of the yard is a garage, almost an essential part of the modern home. This garage is designed to harmonize with the house and is finished with the same style of shingled walls. This latter is a detail which is too often overlooked. Any garage or other small auxiliary building should be carefully designed in order that it shall harmonize with the house or otherwise it may completely spoil the appearance of the house group.

Comfort First

Comfort and convenience are usually worth much more than they cost. The eyes are avoided by properly placed lights; the satisfaction resulting from well-located switches, and the comfort and usefulness cannot be calculated in dollars and cents. In daily housework, the practical utility of complete wiring is a constant help to the housewife.

Summer Porch Adds to Home Comfort

The fortunate possessors of a summer porch spend at least four months of the year in its delightful environment.

It is the connecting link between the house and the great outdoor world. Therefore it should be made an exceedingly attractive place in which to while away many a summer hour with books or friends or neighbors.

White is the best color to paint the posts and railings of the porch, but the use of more or less of its further decoration. The floor should be painted some neutral shade that will not readily show dust and foot-marks, but this may be partially covered with a bright-colored rug, harmonizing with the general color scheme. The ceiling of the porch is usually painted light blue to give the effect of sky or height.

The porch furniture—chairs, table, davenport or swing—may be painted in any of several delightful color schemes. Among the most attractive for the summer porch are orange and gray, rose and black, yellow with touches of black or green, green with tan or black, Chinese red and black, black and orange, gray and red.

Bright-toned chintz or cretonne is used for cushions and covers, in shades harmonizing or contrasting with the paint colors of the furniture.

Porch awnings, too, should harmonize to a certain extent, though the restful green and brown combinations seem most appropriate. If there is a shade or Venetian blind, at one end of the porch, green is the usual color for this protection from the sun.

Porch boxes, hanging baskets, waste paper baskets and magazine holders—even the tall, standing variety of bird cage—should be painted in colors blending into the general scheme of decoration.

Coal Chute

A coal chute the frame and bottom of which are pressed out of one piece of heavy "cooper steel" is a modern improvement which protects the building from damage and defacement.

Twelve Links in Clean Milk Chain

Healthy Herd and Careful Attention to Details Quite Important.

Contrary to a somewhat common belief, it does not require expensive equipment, high priced cows, or much extra work to produce clean milk.

With a healthy herd kept in a clean stable and yard which can be kept clean easily, and with careful attention being given to details a milk can be produced, according to E. H. Farrington and L. C. Thompson, dairy specialists at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, which is both highly nutritious and wholesome.

Since the reputation of many a farm and factory is based on the purity of its products it is quite important that all of the aids to clean milk production be known. The first consideration, the experts point out, is that of a clean herd. Good milk cannot be produced from diseased cows. A clean stable also aids immensely in the production of clean milk.

Must Exercise Care.

Good ventilation is also an important factor. It is quite important that animals secure plenty of pure fresh air since tuberculosis spreads faster and gains an easier foothold where fresh air is not provided in abundance. A dry barnyard and the removal of the manure some distance from the barn will aid greatly in reducing the number of flies which, in the summer, annoy the cows and the milkers.

The value of pure water, abundant sunlight, and careful feeding cannot be overemphasized according to the specialists. The matter of clean milking and clean utensils are intimately associated, for great numbers of bacteria may be introduced into milk from the bodies of the cows and from unsterilized utensils. Quick cooling of milk to lower temperatures prevents bacterial growth and aids in the production of better milk which will keep longer and make finer dairy products.

Prompt Delivery Necessary.

After the milk has been produced under conditions which are as near ideal as possible it is important that it be delivered promptly to careful customers, Farrington and Thompson declare. They report that milk should be kept in cold water until it is loaded onto the wagon to go to the station or receiving plant.

Clean milk means fewer complaints, a better class of patrons, and a steady market for the product, the specialists conclude.

Various Crops Injured by Tiny White Maggots

Carrots, parsnips and celery are injured by tiny white maggots that bore in the roots and sometimes in the case of carrots completely honeycomb them with their burrows. Unfortunately we know very little about this pest, because it is a European insect that has lately come to this country, writes Glenn W. Herrick in the Rural New Yorker. In England a quart of kerosene thoroughly mixed with a bushel of wood ashes and distributed along both sides of each row of carrots has given fairly good protection, it is said. After the ashes have lain two days the oil is washed into the soil with water from a hose. It is doubtful if this remedy is always practicable in gardens in this country and it is somewhat doubtful if it will prove successful. It is, however, worth trying in a garden. It is also reported that Dutch gardeners in Holland are able to secure protection from this maggot by planting onions among the carrots.

The writers would suggest the use of tobacco dust containing at least 1 per cent of nicotine. Such tobacco dust can be obtained now from reputable manufacturers. It should be distributed along each side of the plants in a row, using about one pound to 25 or 30 feet of plants. It should be applied as soon as the plants are two or three inches high.

Feed Liberally to Get Profitable Flow of Milk

"Liberal feeding must be practiced if profit is expected from dairy cows," says R. W. Clark of the Colorado Agricultural college. "A large portion (50 to 75 per cent) of the food given a cow is required for maintenance, the remainder being required for the manufacture of milk. With a scant feeding, the whole amount given may be used for maintenance, leaving nothing for milk production."

"In feeding for large returns, a variety of foods gives better results than a single diet. Such a ration is better digested, relished longer, and is more likely to meet all the requirements of the body. Large consumption of food is important and this will be accomplished with a mixed diet. If certain needs of the body are not supplied, the animals will develop a depraved appetite, leading them to eat bones, leather, paper and similar materials to satisfy the craving which arises because the ration is lacking in some particular nutrient."

Alsike Clover Pastures Unfit for Some Animals

Most farmers know that white-skinned animals pastured on alsike clover are apt to develop sores on the nose, ears and legs. Why this is, science has not been able to definitely determine, the nearest they can come to it is to say that it is a type of poisoning, says the Indiana Farmers' Guide. This poisoning seems worse when hot sunny weather follows a heavy dew. Professor Hansen, the weed expert of Purdue advises that when it is noted that the sores are appearing, the affected animals should be immediately taken off the clover and put on grass.

While the danger of alsike poisoning is not sufficiently great to warrant farmers to avoid the growing of this valuable crop in areas where it is adapted, it behooves those who keep white-skinned stock to use care and judgment in pasturing it.

Have Vegetables in Winter by Storing

Possible to Keep All Roots in Fresh Condition.

Few people realize the number of vegetables that may be kept in the fresh state for winter use.

The essential conditions for the storage of all root crops including such vegetables as potatoes, beets, carrots, horse radish, parsnip, winter radish rutabaga, salsify, turnip, kohlrabi and also cabbage, are that they be kept cool and moist, away from air currents. Storing should be done as late as possible, avoiding freezing.

These conditions may be met in several ways. The simplest for home use where only a few of each are to be stored, is to place them in a box of moist sand or soil in layers and leave in a cool part of the cellar.

Where larger quantities are to be kept, they may be put in what is known as an out-of-door pit. Only whole specimens free from disease should be used. The method is as follows: The vegetables are placed in a conical pile on the surface of the ground in a well drained location. A covering of six to eight inches of straw or litter is then placed over them, and a covering of as much soil, commencing at the bottom and working toward the top. In severe climates a layer covering of manure may be necessary as soon as the soil freezes. In this way vegetables may be kept in perfect condition until well along in the spring—J. J. Gardner, Colorado Agricultural College, Fort Collins, Colorado.

Fall Plowing Best Plan for Eradicating Garlic

The fall plowing or cultivation method of destroying wild garlic is successful in practically all cases in which the work is carefully done, was further indicated by a recent check-up among farmers who have practiced this method in Knox county, Indiana, according to a statement recently issued by A. A. Hanson of the Purdue university agricultural extension staff.

J. B. McCarty started the method three years ago on a 22-acre field heavily infested with garlic. In spite of the fact that the work was seriously interrupted one season on account of weather conditions, most of the garlic has been eradicated. McCarty plowed the infested field during the fall of 1921, plowing again the following spring. This was followed by corn and the fall plowing was continued during 1922. At present the field is in soy beans.

Nolan McCarty succeeded in eradicating a bad stand of garlic by two years of fall and spring plowing, using cowpeas during the summer and rye in the fall. His results were exceptional since at least three years are usually required to destroy wild garlic by this method. The cultivation method consists essentially of fall plowing during November in such a manner as to turn the garlic plants completely upside down, followed by spring plowing and a cultivated crop such as corn, cowpeas, or soy beans, either in rows or broadcasted.

Fall Freshening Favored

Fall freshening cows reach the height of their production in the winter, and when spring comes the new pasture serves to stimulate their production in the advanced months of lactation. While the fall freshening cows require a larger amount of grain and hay, the higher butterfat and milk yields of the fall and winter season enable this feed to be used at a profit. From the standpoint of labor, of course, the advantage lies strictly with winter milking, since the bulk of farm work comes in the summer season.

Value of Table Salt

Table salt is a valuable addition to the growing chick's ration because it not only provides mineral elements needed in the building of tissue, but it has a very definite property in increasing palatability and digestibility of the foods fed. Table salt can well be mixed in the growing ration to the extent of 1 per cent of the dry mash.

Care should be used to see that the salt is finely pulverized and mixed thoroughly with the ration because an excess of salt has a poisonous effect upon the birds.

Sudden Application of Brakes Is Bad Practice

The sudden application of automobile brakes and the consequent sliding of the wheels cause those worn spots on the tread of the tires which result in their being discarded long before they are really worn out. If the brakes are applied firmly but gently the car will be stopped as quickly, but without the disastrous results on the rear wheels which comes from jamming on the brakes. It would prevent the locking of the rear wheels, which causes the wheels to slide.

When the car is at a dead stop there is, of course, no wear on the tires, as there is no motion to produce external friction, the tire being in perfect contact with the road. If the car is started gently and slowly and nursed up to the proper speed the tire retains as nearly as possible the perfect contact with the road. Friction is held at a minimum and wear unnoticed.

How Owners Can Easily Test the Fuel Mixture

Car owners, particularly new ones, are often puzzled to know whether the mixture they are using is correct. To ascertain the correct proportions to be used, shut off the fuel at the tank and open the throttle. If the mixture that is going to the cylinders is too rich, the engine speed will increase as the level of the gasoline in the float chamber is lowered since the operation weakens the mixture considerably, if the mixture is suspected of being too weak, the float chamber may be flooded while the engine is running and if the engine speeds up it may be accepted as a sign that the mixture has not been rich enough.

Fashionable Colors

All shades of red are featured at the moment, particularly the shades which are of Spanish origin and are known as castilian and toreador. Especially attractive are frocks of georgette crepe and crepe de chine in these tones.

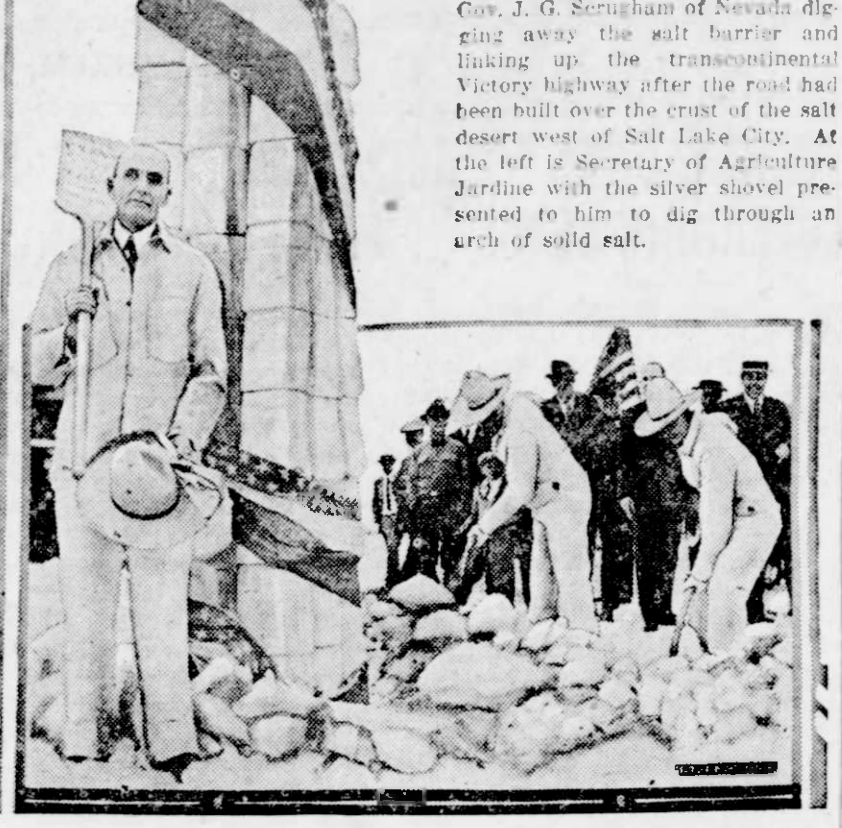

Amidst the Dye Pests

Modern women pay strict attention to the dye pests—where hosiery is concerned. Some of the newer shades are charming and delicate examples of the dye's art. Rachelle, for example, is a new shade of flesh. Mau resette starts where rachelle leaves off as a basis and deepens toward bronze. Tinsol silver has a spowlike sheen that is positively Christmas in effect.

Revives Faded Colors

A spoonful of vinegar to each quart of finishing water will often revive faded colors that have faded through the use of strong soaps.

When a car that is rolling along at a speed of 25 miles an hour strikes a stone or bad bump the tire receives a blow at the point of impact of nine or ten tons in force. Many drivers who would regard it as an insane proposition to strike one of their inflated tires a blow with a ten-ton hammer ride merrily along day after day in their cars, taking no pains whatever to avoid bumps. Even the best tires give way in time under such treatment. A slight turn of the steering wheel when these obstructions are met means the saving of tire expense.

SUMS SPENT FOR HIGHWAY TRAVEL

Much Money Spent for New Motor Vehicles and for Their Upkeep.

In most people's minds the amount of money spent for highway travel in a state is usually thought of only as the money invested in highway improvement. Yet that item in a state's transportation bill is always the smallest in comparison to the sums spent for new motor vehicles and for their operation and upkeep.

Of Value to Car Owner.

An interesting tabulation published in the South Carolina Highway Bulletin for January, 1925, sheds some light on this matter which is of value to the motor car owner.

During the year 1924 there was expended in South Carolina approximately:

For new motor vehicles	$25,000,000
For gasoline	16,000,000
For oil, tires, repairs and up-keep of motor vehicles	21,000,000

This makes a total outlay in 1924 for motor vehicle operation of $62,000,000. Also there has been expended some $7,000,000 for road construction and maintenance, which is as much a part of motor vehicle operation as is the buying of oil or gasoline. The sums spent for road purposes were furnished in part from gasoline taxes and motor vehicle license fees. In addition to these there have been expended about $2,000,000 in the improvement of city streets. Altogether, including miscellaneous and depreciation not covered by replacements, the total bill for highway transport in South Carolina for 1924 was approximately $75,000,000.

Equals Value of Crops.

This one item alone is equal to about one-half the value of all the crops produced in the state during the same year and it constitutes a very large proportion of the total budget for living expenses. The ration actually spent for highway improvement is only 12 per cent of the total transportation bill, yet it is in the building of better highways that lasting and definite economies are made in the largest form in the bill—the cost of operating and maintaining the motor vehicles.

Don't Bump Tires

When a car that is rolling along at a speed of 25 miles an hour strikes a stone or bad bump the tire receives a blow at the point of impact of nine or ten tons in force. Many drivers who would regard it as an insane proposition to strike one of their inflated tires a blow with a ten-ton hammer ride merrily along day after day in their cars, taking no pains whatever to avoid bumps. Even the best tires give way in time under such treatment. A slight turn of the steering wheel when these obstructions are met means the saving of tire expense.

Muffler Cut-Out on Car Necessary for Testing

Nowadays the low-priced car is not provided with a cut-out; in fact it is against the law in many states. It is necessary, however, to have one for testing the engine.

This provides a quickly constructed homemade device for releasing the excess pipe pressure and exhaust gases. It is light, efficient and absolutely practical.

Procedure a back-saw and cut a V-shaped piece out of the exhaust pipe beneath the floor boards of the driver's seat. Fit over the pipe hole a piece of galvanized sheet iron bent round about 2 3/16 inch. The sheet iron is connected in the manner shown in the illustration. The result is a practical cut-out ready for use at any time.—P. P. Avery, in the Popular Science Monthly.

Obstructed Vacuum Tank Is Easily Cleared Out

Sometimes the vacuum tank of a fuel system remains dry when there is plenty of gasoline in the main tank. Generally this is due to foreign matter making its way into the fuel pipe between the two tanks and obstructing the passage of the liquid. When this is the case the simplest remedy consists of filling the float chamber of the carburetor with gasoline—usually drawn from the main tank—and then starting the engine. This will clear out the pipe line by suction nine times out of ten and the vacuum tank will begin operating again. Sometimes it is necessary to speed up the engine somewhat in order to loosen the obstruction.

Occasionally the cause of the trouble is the stoppage of the small air hole in the filler cap of the main fuel tank. This should be kept open to give play to the pressure of the atmosphere on the fuel.

Noise Is Indication of Trouble for Car Owner

The modern car when properly adjusted is a remarkably quiet running piece of mechanism. Unusual noise is a certain indication of trouble, embryonic perhaps, but nevertheless trouble. The wise owner will not disregard this certain indication of something wrong, but will at once trace the noise and remedy the basic cause of which it is merely a symptom. There is no need of giving this advice to the veteran driver, because he has learned it by experience, but at this time, when there are many new hands at new steering wheels, we may be permitted to call attention to the fact that noise means trouble in the car's mechanism.

A feature of the thirty-seventh annual commencement of Salem college, West Virginia, was the graduation of John Franklin Browne, seventy-two years old, who received a bachelor of arts degree, and who is believed to be the oldest student in the United States to receive a college degree. After taking a post-graduate course this summer Mr. Browne plans to re-enter the faculty of his alma mater.

Roses of Rubber

Roses made of rubber are the latest novelty in the floral world, but they are so scented and tinted that it is difficult to distinguish them from real flowers. Rubber roses are the invention of Mrs. McGarvie Mann, who hopes soon to establish workshops in which she will teach disabled ex-soldiers the art of making these artificial blossoms. The flowers are washable and are described by the Rubber Growers' association as an "artistic and hygienic novelty."

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

COMFORT AND HAPPINESS

A few days round into years, and the years begin to fall about us like the ripened fruit, we give, without knowing why, more serious thought to comfort and happiness.

The dream of content when the passions are faded, when the hair is gray and the strength of the bone and the blood is slowly ebbing away, is the common dream of mankind the world over.

In early life, it spreads out before us like a glorious vision, then it wanes and narrows, causing us to wonder what we have done with all the precious time of the past, ticked away right under our eyes by the friendly tick of the clock, still ticking and faithfully performing its monotonous duty.

We have worshipped gold and found it but a mocker.

We have bowed down to Momus, and after wearing out our souls and bodies, have turned away with aching, vacant hearts, disappointed with experiences which have brought us little more than a vial of bitterness.

We have flirted with fickle Fame and been rebuffed. And so all through the heated chase we have been bruised, hurt and undergone at various stages of our careers a fatty degeneration of our moral being, never quite sure of our standing, or our prospect of comfort and happiness in the gray evening haze settling now on purple hills.

In all that concerns art, intellect, position and human existence itself, the thing to do in order to find the average measure of comfort and happiness is to keep in the right channel.

This is the secret of comfort and happiness, worth more to him or her who will accept and practice it than the wealth of the Indies.

IS THAT YOUR BEST?

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

IS THAT your best? Whatever task it is yours, your duty is to ask Yourself the question—this the test of every job—"Is that my best?"

For nothing less than that will do. No job is finished, work is through, No task is done beyond a doubt, Until you fully work it out—

Until your study fails to find One bolt to tighten, knot to bind, One word to change, one sun to prove, One weed to pull, one rock remove.

So many only fairly well! Make what they make, sell what they sell—

Do fairly well the thing they're at And stop and let it go at that.

They might have sung a better song, Or made a corner doubly strong, Or wiped a joint or set an ad, A little better than they had

Some other time—but were content With yesterday's accomplishment, Yet yesterday is but to show New things to do, new roads to go.

It isn't just the chief you cheat When leaving something incomplete; We must move upward—none the bill Will climb by always standing still.

The one you cheat the most is you: Because the better job you do The better job you always can— The better job the better man, For men are made of better stuff.

Then those content with "good enough"; And so, my boy, make this the test Of every job: "Is this my best?"

Mother's Cook Book

Remove the sections from four oranges, sprinkle with a tablespoonful of powdered sugar, let stand fifteen minutes, and strain from the juice. Arrange on lettuce and serve with seasoned French dressing.

HOT WEATHER DISHES

On a warm day when hot dishes do not appeal to the palate, it is refreshing to serve some of the cooling dishes.

Chicken is the favorite summer meat and may be prepared in many different ways to vary the sameness.

Chicken in Aspic

Wash and clean a four-pound chicken and put in a kettle with two quarts of water (boiling), one sliced onion, one-half cupful of sliced celery, or one-eighth teaspoonful of celery seed, a sprig or two of parsley, a bit of bay leaf, one small carrot sliced, two teaspoonfuls of salt, and one-quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper. Cook slowly until very tender. Set away to cool; remove the chicken and skim off all the fat from the top of the liquor. Heat the liquor, adding two egg whites and shells to clarify, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter teaspoonful of paprika, one-eighth teaspoonful of nutmeg and the juice of half a lemon. Add three tablespoonfuls of granulated gelatin which has been soaked in three-quarters of a cupful of cold water; stir until the gelatin is dissolved, then strain through a double cheesecloth. Mold for any meat loaf, adding asparagus tips, cooked egg, canned pimientos or stuffed olives for color.

A quick aspic may be made with beef extract or bouillon cubes, one teaspoonful to each cup, or one cube.

Attractive jellies may be made of tomato juice. This is nice for fish.

Chestnut Salad

Put a pint in the skin of half a pint of large chestnuts and cook in boiling water for several minutes. Drain dry and shell in a frying pan with a bit of lard for five minutes, then remove the shell and the skin together. Cut the chestnut meats into thin slices.

SCHOOL DAYS

WHO SAID

"The multitude is always in the wrong."

WILLIS Wentworth Dillon, fourth Earl of Roscommon, uttered these words, he well knew and appreciated the limited ability of a multitude or mob to make an accurate judgment. He lived at the time Charles II was in power in England, and he saw the multitude first acclaim royalty, in the person of Charles' father, then to witness the regime of Oliver Cromwell, and finally, he saw the multitude turn again to royalty and outdo itself in an attempt to show their affection for the new monarch, Charles II.

THE LYNXES

"I am known as the Canada Lynx," said Mr. Lynx, "and the reason for my name is quite simple."

"I imagine I know what it is," said Mrs. Lynx.

"I imagine you do," said Mr. Lynx. "Well, you'd better tell me to make sure I am thinking the same as you."

"I am known as the Canada Lynx," said Mr. Lynx, "for the same reason you are."

"That is because we both come from the country known as Canada."

"The very same reason I had in mind," said Mrs. Lynx.

"Yes, I was sure that was why we were named the Canada Lynx pair."

"It's a fine and honorable name."

"How do you like it in the zoo?" asked Mr. Lynx, after a moment.

"At first the climate here was different and it was quite a change from the life I had been used to living."

"But now I find myself getting along very well indeed, I do."

"I find myself getting along very well, too," said Mrs. Lynx.

"Then we both find ourselves getting along well," said Mrs. Lynx.

"That's the idea," said Mr. Lynx.

"You have the one black marking on each ear which are so handsome in a Mr. Lynx," said Mrs. Lynx, admiringly.

"You and I haven't any foolish spots," said Mr. Lynx. "We have beautiful markings."

"Our fur is gray and beautiful," said Mrs. Lynx. "I must admit I like to be well dressed."

"And you are, my love; you are beautifully garbed in rich fur."

"Ah, and now that we are in the zoo, there is no danger of their taking our fur away from us, eh?"

"No, indeed, they won't take our fur away from us," said Mr. Lynx.

"Our enormous feet are always kept so warm with our beautiful fur slippers."

TOUGH LUCK

For years I wandered about the earth, hoping that I would some day meet the woman I wanted for my mate.

I wanted her hair to reach to her waist in a flowing mass of auburn brownness with glints of gleaming copper.

I wanted her eyes to be like twin stars shining from a heaven that was mine.

I wanted her to have a quick, keen brain and a true sense of humor.

I wanted her to be pretty, with a strong feminine appeal.

I wanted her to be a woman who stood out from all other women.

I found her!

She was 10,000 times more wonderful in every way than I had dreamed. But all she said was: "What the dickens would I want to marry you for?"—William Sanford in Judge.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

That is because we both come from the country known as Canada.

The very same reason I had in mind.

Yes, I was sure that was why we were named the Canada Lynx pair.

It's a fine and honorable name.

How do you like it in the zoo?

At first the climate here was different and it was quite a change from the life I had been used to living.

But now I find myself getting along very well indeed, I do.

I find myself getting along very well, too.

Then we both find ourselves getting along well.

That's the idea.

You have the one black marking on each ear which are so handsome in a Mr. Lynx.

You and I haven't any foolish spots.

Our fur is gray and beautiful.

I must admit I like to be well dressed.

And you are, my love; you are beautifully garbed in rich fur.

Ah, and now that we are in the zoo, there is no danger of their taking our fur away from us, eh?

No, indeed, they won't take our fur away from us.

Our enormous feet are always kept so warm with our beautiful fur slippers.

"I Am Known as the Canada Lynx."

pers, which we always wear," said Mrs. Lynx.

"If we had to go buy slippers for our large feet we might find it very difficult," she added.

"The shopkeeper might say that he didn't carry our sizes in stock."

"I hear the people who come to the zoo talking about buying shoes and slippers and about sizes and all. I notice what they wear, and they're all too small for us."

"If we couldn't supply our own slippers we would be very unfortunate."

"Most unfortunate."

"In fact," said Mr. Lynx, "it would be not only unfortunate and awkward, but it would be uncomfortable."

"But our way is the right way to do. Have things yourself, and then you don't have to worry about trying to get them from others and from other places."

"Yes, you certainly do like to be well dressed, but I do, too."

"And while sometimes I miss the wonderful adventures of the wild life, still it is nice to be safe from harm in the zoo—especially these days when people like to wear furs more than ever before."

"Just what I've been noticing and thinking," said Mrs. Lynx.

"And they sighed happily that they were both safe and that their beautiful fur would not be used by others, but that they could keep it, on themselves, in the zoo."

Dividing Honorably

"Now, Edwin," said his mother, as she handed him an apple, "you must divide honorably with your little sister, Margie."

"What's 'honorably,' mamma?" he asked.

"It means the one that divides takes the smallest piece," was the reply.

"Well," said the little diplomat, "then I'll give it to Margie and just let her divide."

Indispensable Man

Betty and Jean were going to play house and were ready with their dolls and dishes when Jack came upon the scene.

"Now, we don't want any boys to play with us and spoil everything," said Betty with finality, "we are going to play house."

"Well," said Jack knowingly, "you will have a heck of a time if you try running a house without a man to pay your bills."

A Small Request

"Now, children, I want you to be nice while the bishop is here and not say anything that will mortify me."

"But, mamma, can't we just ask him if he will baptize the new kittens?"

MCCORMICK-DEERING

There is a Reason!

There is a reason why McCormick-Deering Tractors are increasing in popularity by leaps and bounds. There is a reason why these sturdy, completely equipped tractors are rapidly replacing cheaper tractors in all sections of the country. There is a reason, also, why the farmers and orchardists of one county in California bought, during 1924, over a hundred McCormick-Deerings—more than all other makes combined in the same period.

The reason is that McCormick-Deering 10-20 and 15-30 Tractors are the long-lived kind, and are by far the most economical per year of service.

The crankshaft and crankshaft ball bearings in every McCormick-Deering are guaranteed against breakage for life. There are ball and roller bearings at 28 points, and all wearing parts, including cylinders, are replaceable. Entire frame is in one sturdy unit. All gears and important wearing parts are enclosed, running in oil. All parts are easily accessible, easily removed. Complete equipment includes throttle governor, wide platform, adjustable drawbar, Alemite lubricating system, impulse magnet, fenders, etc. Weight is distributed perfectly for good traction and safe operation. Short turning radius for convenient handling.

All in all, the McCormick-Deering is the tractor for every farmer in this community. Let us show you what it will do for you, then we'll tell you how easily you can own one.

A. G. KOCH
Kewaskum, Wis.

Now, while you have it in mind, come in and see us about a McCormick-Deering Tractor!

U. S. CROPS VALUED AT $4,000,000,000

Wheat Yield Placed at 679,000,000 Bushels and Corn at 2,958,000,000.

Washington.—Based on current prices on the farm for wheat and corn, these basic crops will yield the American farmer close to $4,000,000,000 in 1925, according to the government crop report, made public.

The Department of Agriculture placed the wheat crop at 679,000,000 bushels and that of corn at 2,958,000,000.

The 1,387,000,000 bushels of oats, at farm prices, is estimated at $416,000,000. The 214,000,000 bushels of barley at $128,000,000, and the 52,000,000 bushels of rye at $47,000,000. This would make the five grain crops at close to $4,500,000,000.

Total for the five grains—wheat, corn, rye, oats and barley—was 5,285,000,000 bushels, or 183,000,000 more than harvested last year and $7,000,000 less than suggested by the report August 1 last year.

The wheat crop of 679,000,000 bushels is 194,000,000 bushels short of last year's final returns. It places the United States on about a domestic basis with nothing but durum to export.

Winter wheat crop of 416,000,000 bushels increased 12,000,000 bushels during the month, but is 174,000,000 bushels short of last year's harvest.

The most striking feature in the winter wheat report is the smallness of the Kansas crop, 66,000,000 bushels, the poorest showing with three exceptions in the last 20 years.

DEBT COMMISSIONS MEET IN WASHINGTON

Funding Agreement Expected to Be Negotiated.

Washington.—On the opening of negotiations between the United States war debt commission and the Belgian commission over the possibility of a funding agreement on the $450,000,000 Belgian debt to the United States, Washington was optimistic over a successful outcome.

It was stated in semi-official quarters that the Belgian commissioners are not here to dicker overpriced, but to the point of jeopardizing the negotiations, but that their intent is firm to effect a final settlement of the Belgian obligation.

Preliminary work will be a study of Belgium's ability to pay, and the early negotiations will be taken up with the presentation of Belgium's side of the case. Secretary Mellon will attend the opening conference and will review, with the other members of the American commission, statistics on finance and industrial and agricultural production, as well as other national balance sheet items that the Belgian commissioners will present.

MINERS' HEAD WON'T ARBITRATE DEMANDS

President of Union Takes Defiant Stand in Answer to Coal Operators.

Atlantic City, N. J.—The reply of President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers to a conciliatory letter from Samuel D. Warriner, chairman of the anthracite operators' conference, dashed all hopes of an early resumption of the wage parleys between the miners and operators.

Mr. Warriner's letter said that he was hopeful "that means would be found to compose the differences between us."

In his reply, Mr. Lewis rejected a proposal of arbitration from Mr. Warriner and indicated that the only hope for a resumption of the conferences was for the operators to accede to the miners' demands for wage increases and the installation of the check-off system.

Regarding arbitration Mr. Lewis said that he was suspicious because of the operators' system of "keeping close to the arbirer," and he cited the decisions of the arbiters appointed by President Wilson in 1920. At that time the miners expected a wage increase of 27 per cent. They got 17.

RADIO

The Freedom Reflex, Which Has Only Two Controls. Panel Has Two for These, One Switch and One Jack.

By CAPT. P. V. O'Rourke, in Radio World. Many persons constantly inquire for a nonradiating three-tube set that still can give a good selectivity and volume. They do not want regeneration, because the set is for general family use, including children, and they are afraid that lack of care in tuning will cause neighbors considerable annoyance.

Two radio-frequency transformers, L1L2, L3L4. Two .0005 mfd. variable condensers, C1, C2. Three sockets. Two 4 inch dials. Two dial pointers. Three 1A Araperties (for 201A tubes). Fixed condensers, C3, .0025 mfd.; C4, .0001 mfd.; C5 and C6, .001 mfd. One 2-megohm grid leak, R2. Two audio-frequency transformers. One single-circuit jack. One battery switch, S. One 7 by 18 inch panel.

Accessories: One 7 by 17-inch base board, aerial wire, ground clamp, lightning arrester, lead-in wire, cabinet, speaker, A and B batteries, jack plug, four UV 201A, C 301A or 1V2 tubes, terminal strip, internal connecting wire, hardware.

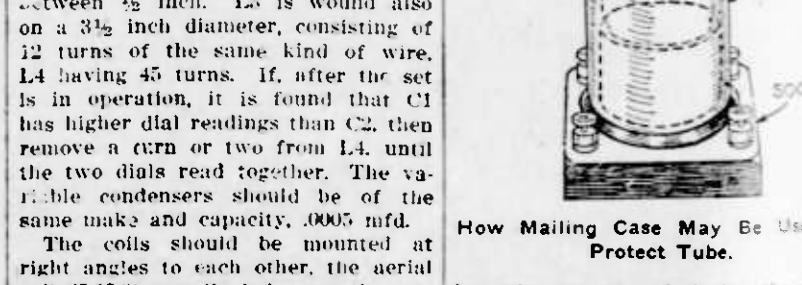

Set Needs No Neutralizing. Why a neutralization? you may ask. First, because none should be necessary with only one stage of radio-frequency amplification. It's the second RF stage that compels the inclusion of some stabilizing device, like a balancing condenser, potentiometer, plate resistance or the like. If by any chance oscillations do occur where not wanted—which would be only below 450 meters—the neutralizing condenser may be inserted. However, I have built several of these sets; neutralization never was necessary, hence I will not include directions for neutralization tap, etc.

There are only two coils to make, one for the aerial circuit (L1L2), the other for the interstage coupling (L3L4). No rheostats are employed, the resistance elements in the filament minus lead being amperages suited to the tubes employed. It is all right to use the amperite in the detector stage of this circuit. Thus one switch controls the entire filament lighting. As the set is designed for speaker operation, no phone jack is provided.

The Panel. The set may be constructed on a 7 by 18 inch panel. The panel may be divided horizontally, with a line 3 inches from the top, and the center holes for the condenser shafts drilled 4 1/2 inches from extreme left and extreme right, respectively. The only objects appearing on the panel are the switch S, the dials and the jack. The switch may be of the push-pull type, but if you can get the toggle kind with a small mounting hole required, that works more smoothly. The usual toggle switch (left and right or up and down motion) requires too big a panel hole, 1 inch or so, and few have the instrument necessary to drill this, or care for such a big "dent" in the panel.

The switch should be placed at a point near the A-plus line to the terminal strip (binding posts). The aerial coil is made of No. 22 double cotton covered wire on a 3 1/2 inch diameter, either tubing or basket-weave, L1 consisting of 17 turns and L2 of 43 turns, each winding separate and distinct, and the separation between 1/2 inch. L3 is wound also on a 3 1/2 inch diameter, consisting of 12 turns of the same kind of wire, L4 having 45 turns. If, after the set is in operation, it is found that C1 has higher dial readings than C2, then remove a turn or two from L4, until the two dials read together. The variable condensers should be of the same make and capacity, .0005 mfd. The coils should be mounted at right angles to each other, the aerial coil (L1L2) usually being most conveniently placed at left rear of baseboard, with coil axis parallel with the baseboard (the coil lengthwise, running tube over it and closing the top end view of the filament.—Radio Digest, August, 1924).

How Mailing Case May Be Used to Protect Tube. Many a tube has been broken something falling on it. This can be avoided by slipping a section of a mailing tube over it and closing the top end view of the filament.—Radio Digest, August, 1924.

How Mailing Case May Be Used to Protect Tube.

SHORT CIRCUITS Tie the phone cord to the headband if you don't want the V-shaped cord tickling you under the chin. An aerial stretched near power house lines, trolley wires or arc lights will pick up any disturbances originating in those sources, producing noises in the receiver. Wire that has been bent is apt to break if an attempt is made to straighten it out, and even if it does not break it will be weak where the bend occurred or, due to crystallization at this point, it may cause high resistance. If the vacuum tube does not light it may be caused by many other defects besides a burnt-out tube. The A battery switch or connections may be open, dirty contacts of the rheostat, socket or tube tips, or the tube may not be seated properly in the socket. Two factors which should be considered in buying a vacuum tube are whether it is to be used as a detector or amplifier and whether it is to be used with a storage battery or dry cells. Some tubes are "soft" and others "hard." A "soft" tube is one containing more gas or air. It will be best as a detector and the "hard" tube as an amplifier. The former requires less plate voltage. A poor ground connection may cause a high loss of selectivity in any receiving set. This is due to the increased resistance which such a connection introduces into the antenna-circuit. When the receiver is connected to such a system broad tuning results. Aerial and ground binding posts whether on the panel or elsewhere should be kept as far apart as possible. When they are placed as close apart in any kind of insulating material they make an excellent condenser across the aerial ground circuit. When shielding is resorted to eliminate interference from body capacity it's much better to use a shield for each instrument than a large one covering the whole panel, with a loss of efficiency, due to interference between the instruments, is likely to result in the latter case.

Tube Covers Protect Against Dropped Tubes. Many a tube has been broken something falling on it. This can be avoided by slipping a section of a mailing tube over it and closing the top end view of the filament.—Radio Digest, August, 1924.

The Vanishing Men

Richard Washburn Child

He wanted to hide his crime at any cost. He had filled his gasoline tank for the return journey. Look!

"Peter pointed to the hole in the back of the car into which the gasoline is poured. The screw cap had gone. A bent copper pipe still dangled out of that hole."

"He wanted a hat full of gasoline. That was the fuel, Brena—the fuel to burn the remains of Jim Hennepla."

"He used a siphon. This bent copper pipe taken from his tool chest—a spare length of oil feed pipe! And with that he filled his hat and ran back."

Peter looked up into the sky. He went on quietly. "And the siphon ran on. He had forgotten it. It ran on with its little stream saturating the sand until the tank was empty and the heat of the day was evaporating the last drops at the bottom. Parmales had condemned himself to death! He had lost the fuel he had put in for the return journey!"

Brena pressed her lips tightly together and for many moments looked into the great fanlike spread of the sunset. Then suddenly she turned toward the car and took several steps. "No," said Peter firmly. "You mustn't."

"I must know, Peter, beyond a shadow of a doubt."

"He is there—nothing for you to see, dear. He must have had the delusion at last that he could drive the car. He's there—at the wheel—fallen forward. And so—"

"And so—to be sure—I took the watch—a gold one—this one. Is it his?"

He held it out on the palm of his hand. "Yes, it is his, Peter."

"He looked down at it a moment; then tossed it into the sand as one tosses aside a poisonous fungus."

Now the second morning, like the first, came over the desert's edge with a host of golden lances; again the air of the desert became a haze of luminous violet hanging above the red and yellow sands and waiting for that clang when the yellow glare was flung forward again over the plain.

Brena awoke, sat up, unbraided her hair and tossed it loose with her fingers. Something within her, that had been growing with the slow growth of stalwart long life, that had suffered no blight, that subconsciously she had protected and nurtured for an unseen end, that had been made ready to withstand assaults by tragic winds, that had lived apart and immune from faint, was now free. As she threw out her arms toward the sun, so now this thing within her for the first time came forth from its depths to greet a dawn of its own.

It was not a thing asking for dramatic crises or for summits of joy; it only asked for the ultimate romance—that of the continuity of a full, strong, human life—the adventure of adventures into which the soul throws mind and body, thought and flesh, nerve and will. And because she had found her mate in this ultimate romance, Brena bent over and kissed Peter's lips.

He smiled in his sleep, and slowly his body moved and his eyes opened. "Where are we going, Peter?" she asked.

"Somewhere with you," he said, sitting up. "Somewhere with you. I suppose we'll have to be married, dear one. But I feel that we were something more than that a long, long time ago."

He turned toward the east and the first flood of golden light illumined his face.

"Do you know, Brena, that there is something not weighed by science and the philosophers, not reckoned by governments nor laws nor customs. It is something that is ours—some new-born thing without material existence some immortal spirit that we have created—you and I—long ago."

Brena moved her head up and down in silent assent. She sat with her hands clasped in her lap, her dark eyes moist, and a calm smile upon her sensitive, flexible lips.

For now she knew that he too understood the way to the greatest of all the mysteries.

Most People of Siam Pass Lives on Boats

The ordinary Siamese citizen may be said to possess no home at all.

He lives with his wife and naked babies on a boat in a canal, writes Lyman Bryson, in the Atlantic Monthly.

Costumes are adapted to water living, and a people addicted to bathing can slip off their front porches, that is, their front decks, into water at any hour of the day or night.

STYLES FOR LATE SUMMER; SHEER, COLORFUL LINGERIE

WHEN August comes leading in the burning sun of late summer, women demand clothes that are cool and comfortable—and that look all of that. In fact, they insist more upon a cool appearance than upon actual cool quality in their apparel, as witness those small, white felt or white kid hats that are popular. Felt hats are not cool, but they are soft and comfortable and light ones look cool—which combination of good points has spelled success for them.

Plain linen is a time-honored fabric that has maintained its place because it is evident that in their summery minds there is no connection whatever between cold weather and underthings. The responsibility of keeping the feminine world warm in cold weather is blithely switched over to outer garments—let sweaters, frocks coats and heating apparatus do it, appears to be their motto.

The several types of undergarments, except for athletic, concern themselves with beauty of color, daintiness of fabric, easy adjustment to the figure and a general prettiness—which last item seems to be most important of all.

For making this irresponsible but fascinating underwear, light or sheer silk and cotton fabrics are demanded and the can't be colored values has increased. The limit of delicacy is reached in georgette crepe or chiffon in design, bordered with scalloped pieces of plain linen down the front, each scallop serving to carry a pearl button and simulated buttonhole. The Kitchen Cabinet

What might be done if men were wiser? What glorious deeds, my suffering brother, would they unite in love and might, and cease their scorn of one another?

EASY DESSERTS

A dainty dessert which is easy to prepare is as follows: Take strips of sponge cake, soak them in canned apricot juice, lay with a spoonful of sweetened and flavored whipped cream and lay half of an apricot in the cream. It looks like a poached egg, but tastes better.

Lemon Jello With Peaches—Make a mold of lemon jello, unmold on a platter and heap around it halves of sweetened peaches. Around the peaches heap sweetened whipped cream and serve well chilled.

Cherry Dumplings—Take half cupful of finely chopped suet, mix with two cupfuls of flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and cold water to make a dough to roll. Roll out an inch thick and cover the surface well with cherries. Dust with sugar, roll and tie in a cloth, place in boiling water and cook two hours. Serve with a hard sauce.

Prune Flip—Take thirty large prunes, a half cupful of nuts, chopped, the whites of four eggs and four tablespoonfuls of sugar. Stew the prunes until soft; cut up and add the walnuts, add sugar and fold in the beaten egg whites. Bake in a well buttered baking dish until firm.

Apple Plum Pudding—Pure and chop three large apples, stone and cut in quarters a dozen ripe plums. Stir these into the batter made of two cupfuls of flour, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two well beaten eggs, one-half cupful of heavy cream and one cupful of sugar. One teaspoonful each of grated nutmeg and powdered cloves may be sifted with the flour if desired. Bake in a well greased pudding mold for an hour and a half. Serve while hot, with hard sauce.

Fruit Cup—Place three tablespoonfuls of grape juice in a tea glass, add two teaspoonfuls of lemon juice, and two teaspoonfuls of orange juice and one-half teaspoonful of sugar. Stir well, add one-half glass of shaved ice and fill the glass with ginger ale. Serve at once.

Cool Drinks

Cool drinks are always in season. When entertaining, which to choose is an advantage.

Tea Frappe—Boil a cupful of sugar and two cupfuls of water for five minutes. Add a pint of strong tea infusion, freshly made and cooled, then the rind and juice of three oranges, the juice of two lemons and a can of grated pine apple. Freeze, if desired, or pack in a mold in equal parts of ice and salt for three hours. Remove from the mold and garnish with slices of lemon and mint leaves dipped in powdered sugar.

Fruit Juice Frappe—Take two cupfuls of fruit juice, one cupful of sugar and two cupfuls of water and the juice of two lemons. Cook the sugar and water for five minutes, cool and add the fruit juices. Bury in equal parts of ice and salt for three hours. If a fine texture is desired use one part of salt to two of ice and let stand for five hours.

Orange and Grape Juice Frappe—Add one cupful of sugar to two cupfuls of grape juice, one cupful of orange juice and one-fourth cupful of lemon juice. One cupful of cream may be added, making a richer drink. Fill the mold and pack as usual in ice and salt. Garnish with whipped cream when serving.

Chiffonade Tea Punch—Make four cupfuls of strong tea, let it cool, then add to it the juice of six lemons and one pineapple cut in small pieces, one pound of cherries and one cupful of granulated sugar. Stir until the sugar is dissolved. Add a quart of carbonated water, pour into a pitcher and serve with a sprig of mint on top of each glass. Serve with clipped ice and cookies.

For lead tea, use twice as much tea and prepare it at noon to be used at night, putting the tea into cold water. The flavor is quite different.

Lead Turkish Coffee—Prepare a quart of clear black coffee and whisk hot, stir in three well beaten egg yolks into two cupfuls of boiling milk. Cook over hot water until thick, sweeten to taste and when cold add the stiffly beaten whites and one cupful of cream. Beat stiff. Serve with straws in chilled glasses, adding ice to each. Garnish with a small pyramid of whipped cream and a cherry on top.

Old-Fashioned Ginger Water—This is a drink used and cherished in the early days when the Pilgrim fathers worked in the harvest field. Take one heaping tablespoonful of dry ginger, mix with half-cupful of sugar; add a tablespoonful of lemon juice or vinegar and three pints of cold water. Serve at once, after stirring well.

WELL ONE DAY IN BED THREE

That Was the Life of Mrs. Hollister Until she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyandotte, Michigan. "After my baby was born I did not do my own work for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. I always had a pain in my right side and it was so bad I was getting round shouldered. I would feel well one day and then feel so bad for three or four days that I would lie in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to tell me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So the next day I got a bottle and before I was half taken I got relief. After I was well again I went to the doctor and he asked me how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and he said it did not hurt any one to take it. I am always recommending the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand.—Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Mich.

Target Skill in Vain. Miss Catherine Murdock, treasurer of a theater in Kansas City, practiced shooting for months so that she might cope with thugs and highwaymen who are always expected at the theater box office. One day as she was taking $1,200 to the bank she was waylaid, and gave up the day's receipts without making an effort to shoot, explaining later that she couldn't kill a man for $1,200, and that to have shot would have meant death, as her aim had become remarkably true.

The Way of Authors. George Doran, the publisher, cracked a joke about authors at a farewell dinner that was given him in New York on the occasion of his departure for Europe. Civil War Memento. In tearing down the steeple of an old church in Kingston, N. The small hat of silk with sectional crown and narrow turned-up brim, is of the collapsible kind that can be folded or flattened, to put in a suitcase. The last chapter in millinery's summer story deals with the career of this bit of practical and beautiful headwear, which is so accommodating and becoming. It is as light and cool as it is pretty. As to the footwear that supports this hot weather costume, it plays its important role perfectly—white silk stockings, light brown or gray kid pumps—nothing could be more cool and comfortable.

The initials N and H of the design signify that the lumber is Northern Hemlock—your native building lumber. The numeral 3 in the design indicates the grade of the piece on which it is stamped by the expert grader at the mill.

It means responsible manufacture and uniform grading at the mill—every piece plainly identified and in accordance with the rigid grading rules adopted by this association.

It saves you money and takes the guesswork out of your lumber utilization. Northern Hemlock grades being based upon the broad economic ground of their relative usefulness to you.

On your Hemlock load-bearing dimension—studding, rafters and joists, it guarantees they are extra standard size (more wood and strength to the piece) insuring greater strength and rigidity to your framing.

Add to this the fact that native Hemlock is immune to dry-rot, that it takes and holds paints perfectly and you will appreciate the many advantages and investment value in Northern Hemlock construction—framing, underflooring, sheathing, siding and exterior trim.
