GONE TO THEIR LAST LONG SLEEP

ROBERT A. BACKHAUS

In spite of the cold and inclement weather conditions, the funeral of Robert A. Backhaus, a well known and prominent citizen of this village, which was held last Sunday afternoon, was largely attended. Mr. Backhaus passed away in death at his home in Kewaskum last week Friday, Nov. 20, 1925, at the age of 64 years, 2 months and 29 days, after a lingering illness of eight years with heart trouble. He was born August 21st, 1861, in the town of Kewaskum, and was consigned May 21, 1876 in the Ev. Luth. church of Kewaskum. On March 2, 1886, he was married to Mary Backhaus. Three children were born of this union, namely: Rilla (Mrs. E. M. Seymour) of Chicago; Harry, who preceded his father in death October 30, 1916, and Esther of Milwaukee. On May 25, 1896, his wife answered the final roll call. On March 17, 1897, he entered the holy bonds of matrimony for the second time, when he was united in marriage to Anna Koepke. This union was blessed with four children, who together with their surviving mother survive and who are: Ernest, Reuben, Robert Jr., of the town of Auburn and Isabella of Chicago. Besides these he leaves to mourn his demise, 3 grand children, one sister-in-law and one son-in-law. Mr. Backhaus was a man of noble character, who not only took a keen interest in the welfare of his home and family, but was ever ready to help build up the community in which he resided. Through his kind disposition and good fellowship, he won a host of friends, who were grieved to learn of his untimely death. The greater part of his life was spent in the village of Kewaskum and vicinity. While a resident of the village he conducted the Republican House, and later the soft drink parlor now owned and operated by John Brunner. After disposing of his business interests in the village, he moved to Milwaukee, where he resided for six years, when he moved onto a farm in the town of Auburn, now managed by his son Reuben. On January 16, 1925, he retired from farm life, and came to this village where he lived up to the time of his death. Though Mr. Backhaus had been ailing for eight years he bore his illness with patience, and was able to be up and around most of the time. Those from afar who attended the funeral were: Mr. and Mrs. George Packer of Highland Park, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Seymour and Isabelle Backhaus of Chicago, Dr. Alvin Backhaus of Cedarburg, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fischer of Woodland, Wis., Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ransch, Hulda and Antoinette Koepke, Marion Geminske, Bert Carvel and Esther Backhaus of Milwaukee and many other relatives and friends.

The pall bearers were six cousins of the deceased, namely: John Backhaus, Emil Backhaus, William Backhaus, Jr., Roman Backhaus, Bernard Backhaus and Christian Backhaus. Robert Bartelt and Arthur Stark acted as flower bearers.

BERTHA F. HAACK

After a lingering illness of twelve years with kidney trouble, the angel of death called to her final reward, Mrs. Bertha F. Haack, a highly respected and well known pioneer resident of the town of Auburn, on November 19, 1925, at her home. Mrs. Haack was born on April 15, 1848 at Siskiyaw in the town of Jackson where she spent her childhood days. On May 1st, 1867, she was married to John F. Haack. Shortly after their marriage the couple moved onto a farm in the town of Auburn, where they have since resided. Four children were born of this union, all of whom survive, and who are: Anna Eggert of North Dakota, Fred Haack of the town of Scott, and Bernard Haack of the town of Auburn and Louisa Garbisch of Horicon. Mrs. Haack was a devoted mother and kind neighbor. She took great pride in looking after the welfare of her family. As a Christian lady she attended church regularly and was ever ready to assist those in need. Her demise will not only be mourned by the family circle, but by a large acquaintance as well. The funeral was held on Monday at 1:30 p. m. from the home with services in the Emanuel church in the town of Scott. Rev. Kasper officiated. Burial was made in the congregation's cemetery.

MEMORIAL
Why do we mourn, departed Mother?
When Christ has called you home?
We hear the celestial choirs,
While we with sorrow mourn.
Oh, rest in Jesus!
Oh, rest supremely blest
Where you await us in the Promised Land.
That manifests the Savior's power;
And we shall come to join you
With the summons of our hour.

KEWASKUM HIGH SCHOOL COLUMN

On Friday night the Oakfield team played their return game on our floor. The girl's game was very exciting, for during the first quarter Oakfield scored twice when our forward, Guth made a basket. The second quarter was followed by an Oakfield score and Klein, our center made a successful short shot. This was followed by a successful free throw made by our guard Mislain. Oakfield managed to get the ball and scored another time. The first half ended 8 to 5 in Oakfield's favor. In the second half our girls came back with renewed energy and determination of which we were proud. Although the opponents had wonderful pass work our girls managed to keep them from scoring any further and so the game ended 8 to 5. Oakfield has a particularly good girl's team this year as they have worked together for four successive terms. Although our girls were defeated by them we feel as though they are more capable of winning the other games on their schedule as Oakfield undoubtedly has the strongest girl's team in our association.

The boys game will be remembered throughout the school year. The lineup consisted of Wietor, center; A. Miller and Kohn, forwards; and C. Miller and Martin guards, with Perschbacher as substitute. The boys this year have purchased new suits and the students feel that they fully deserved them. The game started out with a neat, successful shot made by Wietor which was followed by three other successful shots made by Kohn. Oakfield then made a basket and managed to hold the ball in their hands for a few seconds. The Kewaskum boys after regaining the ball kept on scoring during the first half, only allowing their opponents to make one more basket. The second quarter ended 4 to 28 in our favor. The Oakfield boys came back determined to win and although they were over powered by our team they played a fast game. Martin was replaced by Perschbacher who managed to net six points for us. A. Miller also netted six points. Oakfield during the last two quarters managed to make only one successful free throw. Wietor and Kohn kept the crowd continually in an uproar as they netted basket after basket. When the final whistle blew the score was 5 to 43 in our favor. Our boys, we feel, are worthy of all the praise and support that we can bestow upon them, and the only thing that cast a dark shadow upon the students was the sudden illness of one of their most important players, M. D. Rosenheimer.

Throughout the games the students gave yell after yell fully determined to show the teams that they were backed up by a splendid school spirit.

This week Wednesday our boys journeyed to Brandon where they met a strong lineup. Brandon has the strongest team in our association and we feel that our boys will do their very best and that they will make a good showing.

citizen of West Bend, passed away in death at his home at West Bend last Saturday, November 21, at 8 o'clock after an illness of three weeks caused by senility. Mr. Ogenorth was born November 24, 1855, at Pfalzdorf, Rhine Province, Germany, and in 1867 immigrated to America with his parents, settling in the town of Kewaskum. After teaching school in Washington county for a number of years, he in partnership with C. F. Leins opened a book store in West Bend. In 1892 he was married to Miss Mary Glander, who died in 1906, and in 1909 he married Miss Martha Glander, a sister of his first wife. Six children were born of the first union, of whom one, Thomas died in infancy, and another Victor in 1918, those surviving are Arthur of Milwaukee, Hedwig (Mrs. Edgar Rossmore) of New Prospect, Oscar and Alex of Milwaukee. One daughter, Elizabeth was born to the second union, who is at home. Besides these he leaves two sisters, Mrs. Henry Winkler of Bartolo, Ill., and Mrs. Christ Flucken of Golden, Colo., two brothers, John and Herman of Kewaskum and seven grand children. Mr. Ogenorth was secretary of the Milwaukee Mutual Fire Insurance company. He numbered among those who helped to organize the West Bend and Kewaskum Limited Mutual Fire Insurance companies. The funeral was held on Tuesday morning with services in the Holy Angel's church at West Bend. Rev. Jos. E. Heyde officiated. Burial was made in the congregation's cemetery.

PRIN. NODOLF TO DIRECT CAMPAIGN

C. E. Nodolf will direct the 1925 Christmas seal campaign in Kewaskum, according to an announcement received here from the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association which conducts the sale each year from Thanksgiving to Christmas.

Interviewed for the press, Mr. Nodolf declared that seal sale workers in Kewaskum are organized for the campaign, and are determined to make the sale the biggest ever put across in this community. "We mean to do our share raising funds to carry on the fight against tuberculosis," declared Mr. Nodolf. "The seal sale does not ask much of anyone, but it does ask something of everyone. Even the school child can feel that he is helping when he buys seals for a couple of pennies. The money raised by the sale of these little stickers is used for health work, for the prevention of tuberculosis and other diseases. The money is invested in health."

"In 1908, when the organized fight against tuberculosis in Wisconsin was begun, 109.3 out of every 100,000 people died of tuberculosis. Thanks to the unceasing warfare waged against the disease, however, the death rate last year was only 64.2 per 100,000, a reduction of more than 40 per cent. But that does not mean that the battle has been won. Last year, 1,764 Wisconsin people died of tuberculosis, a preventable and curable disease, and the majority of these people were young. They could ill be spared by the world. Good progress has been made in the fight against tuberculosis, but the disease is not yet conquered. The battle must still be carried on."

"One of the very hopeful results of the fight against tuberculosis is the change in the attitude of the people toward the disease. Twenty years ago it was considered a disgrace, to be hidden from neighbors and friends; today people know that tuberculosis is a curable disease. And the disappearance of this old dread is making it possible to discover cases much earlier than it used to be with the result that the percentage of cures is much larger. Early discovery is half the battle in tuberculosis."

"The Crusade against tuberculosis is conducted in this state by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, which conducts a traveling free chest clinic; a school for training nurses to become public health workers; a health work course for social workers; puts the Modern Health Crusade into hundreds of Wisconsin schools; teaches teachers to teach health; publishes a monthly magazine devoted to health, and other health literature; and broadcasts from one corner of the state to the other that tuberculosis is curable, and better still that it can be prevented."

ST. MICHAELS CHOIR CELEBRATES

A very unique celebration took place at St. Michael's church, St. Michaels last Sunday, November 22nd. It being the Feast of St. Cecilia, the St. Michaels church choir celebrated their patronal feast. What enhanced this celebration was the fact that one of the choir members, Mr. Math Thull, celebrated his golden jubilee, 50 years as a member of the St. Michaels church choir, from 1875 to 1925. At 10 o'clock a solemn high mass was sung by the Pastor Father Beyer, who also preached an eloquent sermon, dwelling upon the real value and dignity of a good church choir to promote love, zeal and devotion for divine services and the house of God. The choir sang Gueber's Jubilee Mass with the "Jubilee Deo" as offertory. The morning services concluded with benediction and Te Deum.

In the evening the choir members with their families and guests assembled in the hall where a fine banquet was served in honor of the jubilarian and the choir. Addresses were made by Father Beyer who also acted as toast master, his humorous remarks bringing much hearty applause. Brief talks were also given by the organizer, Mrs. Margaret Thull, by Michael Thull of West Bend, Mich. Rodenkirch of Milwaukee and John Thull of St. Michaels. The jubilarian, Math Thull thanked all in a few but well chosen words for the honor bestowed upon him during the day. The evening was then spent with music and singing and many applauded "Gebe Hochs"! The feast will long be remembered by the choir members and people of the St. Michaels parish.

CELEBRATE TWENTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

A large number of relatives and friends from far and near gathered at the Opera House last Saturday evening, where they joined in the celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Backhaus' 20th wedding anniversary. During the entire day Mr. and Mrs. Backhaus received many congratulations from their many friends and relatives, wishing them many more years of wedded life, that they may live to celebrate their silver and golden anniversaries in time to come. Everyone present at the celebration enjoyed themselves immensely. Dancing formed the main pastime of the evening's entertainment. Music was furnished by Ramoth's All-Nite Rounders. At midnight a delicious luncheon was served, after which dancing was again resumed. The Statesman joins their many friends in extending their congratulations and best wishes for continued health and happiness in their wedded life.

FORMER LOMIRA TREASURER GETS THREE YEARS

Herbert Hankwitz, former village treasurer of Lomira, who disappeared from his home Dec. 10, 1924, after he embezzled $3,000 of village funds, was given an indeterminate sentence of one to three years when he appeared before Judge C. M. Davison in Juneau court on Wednesday morning.

KEWASKUM TO HAVE NEW FUNERAL HOME

Arrangements were completed the past week, whereby Herman W. Meilahn of Milwaukee has rented the A. G. Koch building, formerly occupied by the late Robert L. Davies, on East Main street, in which Mr. Meilahn will conduct an undertaking establishment. The store has undergone a complete renovation. In connection with this business Mr. Meilahn will deal in radios, sewing machines and supplies. He will also do furniture repairing, picture framing and upholstery. Mr. Meilahn needs no introduction, as he was born and raised in this community and for a number of years successfully conducted the furniture store and undertaking parlors, now owned and operated by Clemens Reinders. Mr. Meilahn will be ready for business on Tuesday, December 2, and will in the future, as in the past, serve the public to the best of his ability. He intends to move his family and household furniture to this village either today, (Saturday) or next Monday, and will reside in the Mrs. A. G. Koch residence located across the street from the store. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Meilahn welcome them to our village and wish them an abundance of success.

FARMERS URGED TO JOIN ASS'NS

Washington County has for the past five years had the highest average cow testing association of all of the 175 cow testing associations in Wisconsin. At the present time there are 7 associations made up of 204 farmers who are having their herds tested. Some have been in their respective associations for seven years, ever since their particular association started. They appreciate the work and realize what it means to them, to be able to sell that cow that is not paying for her feed and to feed a ration that will produce more milk as the tester helps him to do. He also appreciates the fact that he can get more money for his cows if they have a cow testing association record, and we have several cases where after a man joined an association, he milked less cows and produced more milk than he did before. Is this not worth more than the cost of association membership dues?

The pail is deceiving. That half bucket from this cow, and 3/4 bucket from that one is a poor means of judging that animal as a producer. For the most part, milk is purchased on a butter-fat basis, therefore what does this 1/2 pail mean? The only means that we have of judging is to join a cow testing association and find out in dollars and cents just what each individual in the herd is doing. Can anyone afford to feed cows that are not paying for their feed? And how can he find this out without the testing service? Surely a sample taken to the cheese factory or a similar place once in a while will give you an idea of the per cent of fat in the milk of the individual animals, but do you then weigh your milk, calculate the amount of fat; weigh the feed, determine its cost and balance it against the value of the milk in terms of butterfat? There is usually plenty and practically always too much work on the farm to do these things. But at only a small cost we can have this done.

A short time ago I heard a county agent apologize to a banker for having exerted much effort and finally succeeded in getting a farmer, against whose farm the bank held a mortgage to join a cow testing association. The banker replied, "That expenditure will help him to pay off the mortgage sooner than anything else he could have done. I am glad you did this."

Surely it must be sound from a business stand point or else our bankers and business men would not encourage the practice. It is a part of the business side of farming rather than the operative side, and its more general adoption must come with the necessary tendency to put increased stress on the business end of farming. In this day of competition, about the only way to increase the margin of profit is to make each acre produce as much as it can, a little more than the average care, and make each cow produce just a little more than the average cows. Constructive breeding, proper feeding, together with cow testing association work, is a good combination to increase the production of the herd and increase that margin of profit.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS

Washington county's Board of Supervisors reconvened in annual session at the court house Tuesday morning, taking up highway matters, the tax budget and other important matters. The Board was exceedingly active last week, adopting a large number of resolutions calling for appropriations for seven years, ever since their particular association started. They appreciate the work and realize what it means to them, to be able to sell that cow that is not paying for her feed and to feed a ration that will produce more milk as the tester helps him to do. SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT

By F. A. WALKER

SEEK THE BEST

IN THIS brief life of ours, of which we know but little compared with what there is yet to be learned, let us in earnestness and sincerity strive to seek the best.

While in our restricted world of time and space, of color and sound, of ignorance and hate, let us show ourselves capable of finding the good and choosing the best.

Let us seek the best in companions, respectivity of their good looks or their ability to dance or sing; let quality of heart and mind be given precedence over everything else.

Let us be liberal in sympathy, in kindness, in friendship, in loyalty and in charity, with malice toward none, and give to the deserving the best we can bestow, regardless of their race, creed or condition.

Let us read the best books, hear the best music, see the best in art.

WHO SAID

"The truest self respect is not to think of self."

IT WAS natural that Henry Ward Beecher, author of the words quoted, should take an uncompromising stand for what he felt to be right in the great moral issues of the day. For Beecher was a direct descendant of Puritan stock which sacrificed all personal matters to the preaching of its professed creed.

Beecher was the son of Lyman Beecher, a famous American clergyman, and a sister of Harriet Beecher Stowe, famous in American literary annals as the author of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Henry Ward was born in Litchfield, Conn., June 24, 1813, and graduated from Amherst college in 1834, following up his college work with a course in Lane Theological seminary, near Cincinnati, Ohio. After graduation he began his clerical duties as pastor of a church in Lawrenceburg, Ind. In 1839 he was called to a prominent church in Indianapolis.

A preacher, Beecher achieved his greatest renown as pastor of the Plymouth Congregational church in Brooklyn, N. Y. Here he occupied the pulpit from 1847 until his death, March 8, 1867.

Supplementing his work as a clergyman, Beecher was prominent as a journalist. He was one of the founders of the Independent and of the Christian Union (now known as the Outlook). Beecher was also known throughout the nation as an anti-slavery campaigner.—Wayne D. McMurray.

choose the best plays and seek to find in the unruly boy or girl his or her best quality and do our utmost to develop it into a shining gem of beauty. The latter, perhaps, may be the best thing we can do for humanity and ourselves, for any exertion we may put forth in this direction, we will find in our solitary hours of reflection a serene happiness which the combined wealth of nations cannot buy.

To the complaining, the critical, the envious, the proud and the obtuse, those hapless persons with ailing minds, give a warm smile and kindly greeting—the best of which you are capable, and observe from day to day how you are bringing into their pinched lives a gladness which even you may have thought impossible.

Making a habit of choosing the best, in a little while will be found of incalculable benefit to the man or woman who in real sincerity adopts it.

But this cannot be done without sacrifice. Such work requires a spiritual firmness, an unselfish love and extreme patience, which as the years roll by develops a fine nobility of soul, recognized at a glance in a cheerful face and beaming eyes.

THE LOVELY RIVER

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

THERE'S a lovely river Flowing to the sea, Though I know not where it flows, What the end may be. There are many rapids there, But the flows are very fair. All along, and green the trees, Bright the sun, and sweet the breeze.

There's a lovely river (Men may call it life), Lovely, though it has its pain, Though it has its strife, There is joy in every pain, Seldom lost without a gain. Yes, whatever men may say, Blossoms all along the way.

There's a lovely river— I have found it so, Though I know not where it ends, Where its waters flow, Though I know not where it ends, All along it has its friends, Has its friendships through its tears, Growing deeper with the years.

Dear me, lovely river, Downward to the sea, Though I know not where you flow, What the end may be. I am sure a stream so good, Flowing through so fair a wood, Bears me to a wider strand, To an even better land.

SCHOOL DAYS

THE VINEGAR CUPET SPOPPER

THE old saying, "East is expensive," is a truth that every farmer should take to heart. Right now thousands of dollars' worth of machinery is standing idle in the field where it was last used. Many of the implements will remain the entire winter at the mercy of the elements. If you happen to have any implements standing out in the weather for lack of shed room, now is the time to prepare a cover before the snows and rains of winter come with their devastating effect.

Writes H. O. Holt, in the Indiana Farmers' Guide: Even a cheap covering, consisting of poles and roofing paper, is a thousand times better as a means of protection than nothing.

If a day is spent in painting, oiling and greasing, then everything put under cover, the life of every piece of machinery would last from four to twelve times longer. Every year this advice comes to the farmer, and every year hundreds of dollars are wasted because the farmers will not heed. "A penny saved is a penny made," so said Poor Richard some years ago. The truth is still with the saying. The easiest, quickest and surest way of making pennies is to protect the farm implements against the weather.

Simple Dessert. Butter slices of bread and place in a baking pan, cover with canned blueberries and let stand an hour, then bake until well heated through. Serve with cream and sugar. Other jelly fruit may be used for this pudding.

When a little left-over ham is at hand, put it through the meat grinder and add to scrambled eggs for a breakfast or luncheon dish.

Your Last Name

IS IT BURNS?

IN THE case of Robert Burns, the great poet of Scotland, this name was not anciently spelled as it is now. Possibly in other cases the same is true. Robert Burns was the eldest son of a small farmer named William Burness belonging to an old though humble family of Kincardineshire, Scotland. Burness is said with Burnis to be derived from Burnhouse, and to have had the significance originally of "the Burn house."

Other Burnesses of distinction are John Burns, the well-known English labor leader, and William Wallace Burns, famous Civil War officer with the Union army.

REDWOOD—This name is a little misleading at first. It does not have the significance of the syllables red and wood in the present sense, but makes use of red in the sense of "red," meaning to clear. Thus "redwood" means a clearing in the wood and the name was probably first given to some one who lived in such a clearing.

The first Redwood in this country was Abraham Redwood, who was born on the Island of Antigua, in 1720, and was educated in Philadelphia, with due regard to his immense fortune and expectations. He married in Newport,

Hog Cholera and a New Corn Crop

Idea That Immature Product Is One of Causes of Disease Is Mistake.

In the fall of the year one invariably hears more or less about new corn producing cholera. There has grown up an idea among farmers that immature corn is one of the causes of this disease. This, of course, is a mistake. Cholera is produced by a germ, and unless that germ is present in a hog cholera cannot develop, no matter how much or how little immature corn it may eat, says a writer in the Iowa Homestead. There is, however, a relation between hog cholera and new corn that should not be overlooked. New corn is less digestible than ripe corn, and as a result is apt to produce digestive disturbances in pigs that are not accustomed to it, especially so if they are suddenly fed large quantities after having been accustomed to old, hard corn. A pig whose digestive system is out of order is less able to resist disease than when it is in vigorous condition. It is for this reason that pigs sometimes succumb to cholera when turned into soft or unripe corn.

Vaccinate the Hogs. It appears that in some sections there is considerable cholera this fall, but it does not seem to be connected with immature corn. We have had but little cholera in Iowa for several years, and as a result many farmers have become careless about vaccinating their pigs or they have considered it unnecessary to vaccinate. Wherever cholera is prevalent, the hogs should be vaccinated at once. It is poor business to run the risk of having half and more of the herd killed by disease. In a year like this, when corn is relatively cheap and pork high in price, it behooves us to take the best of care of our hogs. They are what will help make the acre that produced corn pay a fair profit.

Serum Is Cheaper. Fortunately serum is one of the products that have not advanced in price in recent years. In fact, it has become cheaper. The process of manufacturing has been cheapened, and the consumption of the product has increased so that production costs have been reduced and the farmers are getting the benefit thereof. The fact that serum is being sold at a reasonable price should encourage the farmer to use it freely.

Care for Machinery Is of Great Importance. The old saying, "East is expensive," is a truth that every farmer should take to heart. Right now thousands of dollars' worth of machinery is standing idle in the field where it was last used. Many of the implements will remain the entire winter at the mercy of the elements. If you happen to have any implements standing out in the weather for lack of shed room, now is the time to prepare a cover before the snows and rains of winter come with their devastating effect.

Writes H. O. Holt, in the Indiana Farmers' Guide: Even a cheap covering, consisting of poles and roofing paper, is a thousand times better as a means of protection than nothing.

If a day is spent in painting, oiling and greasing, then everything put under cover, the life of every piece of machinery would last from four to twelve times longer. Every year this advice comes to the farmer, and every year hundreds of dollars are wasted because the farmers will not heed. "A penny saved is a penny made," so said Poor Richard some years ago. The truth is still with the saying. The easiest, quickest and surest way of making pennies is to protect the farm implements against the weather.

Cow and Hen Gradually Coming Into Their Own. The cow and hen are gradually but surely coming into their own in appreciation. As farm-buysers, as mortgage-lifters, they have long been undervalued. Now we are coming to realize their real worth in the economy of the farm.

A first-class cow is worth almost any price in the right hands. Even in poor hands a fine cow will most likely establish her value, but the capabilities of any animal depend very greatly on the owner. A stupid, brutal, careless owner makes it very difficult for a cow to show her qualities in milk and breeding.

If the farm cow was balloted, the poor biddy was almost sure to win, despite many people's fondness for eggs and chicken. Often housed in a poultry house not much larger than a bird dry goods box, half frozen in winter and nearly smothered by the heat and crowding in summer, neglectfully fed and sometimes hardly ever watered, she still played her part as only a faithful hen is able. It is different now, or slowly becoming different. The value of the hen is being preached from agricultural college classrooms to the humblest farm kitchens. It is a commendable sign.

House Cleaning in Fall. Along in the late summer, the flock of hens will be depleted in number. Culling will have been practiced for many weeks, and the flock will be reduced to such a point that it is possible to make one or more of the pens entirely vacant by doubling up the other hens. As soon as it is possible to make one or more pens vacant it is a good plan to give it a good full house cleaning at the first opportunity.

Wet Frosted Silage Corn. If silage corn is frosted before the grower has time to get it in the silo, water should be added to help it keep. Frosted corn soon dries in the field, and when cut and put into the silo it is difficult to pack tightly enough to keep out the air. The presence of air in silage causes it to mold. The amount of water to add depends on how dry the corn has become, but enough should be put in to make a wet, compact mass of silage.

Salt or Naphthalene Will Control Fleas

First Thing to Do Is to Clean Out All Rubbish in Pens.

Fleas are always more troublesome than usual about this time of the year, according to W. P. Flint, entomologist of the Illinois State Natural History Survey. For control of the pests, Flint recommends the common salt or fluke naphthalene methods, both of which are credited with having cleaned up many badly infested places in the state.

The best method to follow in going after fleas is first to clean out the manure or straw from pig or cattle sheds or from barns, especially in the case of dirt floors where farm animals are in the habit of lying down or standing. The ground or floor of the building should then be covered with a good layer of salt, enough being put on to form a thin white coating over the ground. This should be allowed to remain in place for at least a week and then washed down, or it may be allowed to stay until it gradually dissolves.

Fluke naphthalene may be substituted for the salt. If the salt or naphthalene cannot be applied, the floors or ground around the infested premises should be thoroughly sprayed with a strong stock dip. Regardless of which method is used, all animals that are heavily infested should be dipped in or thoroughly washed or sprayed with some good stock dip.

Danger in Feeding Meat Scrap to Poultry Flock. There is possible danger in meat scraps as well as profit. Not every thing which bears the label is fit for poultry food. Meat scrap that smells like a fertilizer is fit only for fertilizer. To test the aroma of this desirable food, pour boiling water over a little scrap in a deep cup and inhale. Don't give it to your chickens unless it smells good.

The only damage in doing without is a shortening up of the egg yield. Chickens can be kept through the winter on a maintenance ration only, just as stock can be wintered in a stalk field—"roughed" through the winter. The danger of feeding meat scrap that is unfit for poultry feed is that the flock may be lost through ptomaine poisoning. This trouble is evidenced by inability to walk, and, in thick, lack of control of the head, neck and limbs, which are practically paralyzed. The treatment consists in removing the cause and giving epsom salts in the dosage of 1 pound of salts to 125 hens.

Every bag of beef scraps should bear a guaranteed analysis; read before buying. Examine a sample for bits of hoofs, horn and hair; those will be glassy looking. Instead of pouring boiling water over the scraps may be heated. It is inviting trouble to buy meat scraps without assurance of wholesome quality.

Tree Growth Is Useless Along the Fence Lines. There is reclamation work that can be undertaken by the individual who has a patch of waste land on his farm. The loss from this source may not be fully recognized by the owner or he may have enough arable land to meet his requirements. In the older districts one of the most noticeable wastes is the thick growth of wild cherry, hawthorn and other low growing trees that line the fences. These growths take away plant food from the soil, this injuring the crops for a rod or two on either side. Injurious insects, notably the tent caterpillar, make these fence rows their breeding ground and a sheltering place in the winter. A place is provided for noxious and even poisonous weeds that spread their seeds over the adjoining fields. On rocky areas with an abundant supply of lime there is frequently a growth of cedar which is of very little value. If thick enough it may be incised for a permanent woodlot. Usually, however, it forms part of the pasture ground, yielding very little grass and not improving in condition. Like any other attempted combination of grazing land and woodlot it is bound to be a failure.

Farm Hints

Hogs clean up a corn field very thoroughly. Dig all garden bulb vegetables and store in dry, cool storage for winter.

After the pigs are weaned it takes only so long to keep them growing. Dig up celery and pack carefully in boxes before frost. Be sure that it is perfectly dry before putting away.

See that potatoes are thoroughly dry before storage. Slow drying is better than too much exposure to the sun.

Now is the time to apply protectors of some sort to young fruit trees to prevent injury by rats and rabbits.

The best way to stimulate hens into laying is to feed them plenty of easily digested mash and, if possible, some form of milk.

Lay in a good supply of pork for the winter. The old-timers say it will be a "hard winter." If will, if you fail to provide plenty of grub for the collar.

Judicious use of fire on the stubble fields and in fence corners now, will prevent hatching of "hoppers" next spring.

A heavy coat of grease on the plowshares and all exposed polish surfaces of other implements will protect them from rust this winter.

Candle eggs previous to shipment and remove all blood-spotted and thin-shelled eggs. Grade according to size and interior quality. Use a neat package.

The Kitchen Cabinet

It is true that often the things we hope for fall to put in their appearance, but think of the wonderful compensation we get in the good things that appear so unexpectedly.—Lloyd.

FROM LEFTOVERS

When one has a cupful or two of cooked chicken, several things may be done with it, and a dozen more will suggest themselves as we think about it. If a little fried chicken is left, remove the meat in neat, even-sized pieces, crack the bones and cover them with cold water and put to simmer on the back part of the stove. Now we are ready to prepare:

Chicken Chop Suey.—Take one cupful of celery (or more if the dish needs to be stretched) to two cupfuls of minced chicken, a good sized onion minced, and one green pepper also minced. If one has a few cooked string beans with their liquor add them and the broth from the chicken bones and a cupful or less of good chicken gravy. Simmer for an hour on the back of the stove, add seasoning of salt and pepper and serve in the center of a hot platter with seasonally cooked hot rice as a border. If any chicken fat has been saved, pour it over the rice and add two teaspoonfuls of Chinese sauce to the meat just as it is ready to serve.

Curried Chicken.—Season a cupful or two of boiled rice with melted butter or chicken fat and a teaspoonful of curry powder. Arrange a baking dish with alternate layers of minced chicken and the rice with any chicken gravy. Have the rice at the bottom and on the top with the chicken between. Dot with bits of butter and put into a moderate oven to become thoroughly hot. Serve at once.

Save a cupful of coffee from breakfast and use in the following:

Ginger Bread.—To one well-beaten egg, add one cupful of sugar, half a cupful of melted lard, one cupful of molasses, a tablespoonful of ginger, a teaspoonful of salt and three cupfuls of flour—sifted before measuring. Mix well and add one teaspoonful of soda to a measuring cup, and fill with boiling hot coffee. Pour over the mixture and stir until evenly mixed. Bake in a deep dripping pan forty minutes. The coffee gives a different flavor which makes the cake out of the ordinary.

Sweets and Cakes. This is the season of the year when we all begin to think of homemade candies and cookies.

Cherry and Marshmallow Fudge.—Put into a saucepan one cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of cream, stir until well melted. Boil the mixture until it makes a soft ball in cold water, add one tablespoonful of butter and remove from the fire. Beat for fifteen minutes; pour into a buttered tin in which are one-fourth pound of marshmallows cut into dice and one-fourth pound of minced preserved cherries. Cut into squares when cool.

Velvet Molasses Candy.—Put one cupful of molasses, three cupfuls of sugar, one cupful of boiling water and three tablespoonfuls of vinegar into a saucepan over the heat; as soon as the boiling point is reached add one-half teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Boil until when tried in cold water the mixture becomes brittle. Stir constantly during the last part of the cooking. When nearly done, add one-half cupful of butter and one-fourth teaspoonful of soda. Pour into a buttered pan and pull when cold enough to handle. Flavor with vanilla or wintergreen.

Molasses Taffy.—Boil together one quart of New Orleans molasses and two tablespoonfuls of sugar five minutes, add two tablespoonfuls of vinegar, and a tablespoonful of butter. Boil until it cracks when dropped into cold water. Take from the fire, add one-fourth of a teaspoonful of soda and pour out to cool. When cool enough to pull, flavor and pull, greasing the hands lightly with butter. When light and creamy cut with the shears into small pieces.

Butterscotch.—Take one cupful of sugar, one-fourth cupful of molasses, one tablespoonful of vinegar, two tablespoonfuls of boiling water and one-half cupful of butter. Cook until brittle when tried in cold water, flavor with vanilla, turn into well-buttered pan; when cool mark off into squares.

Bread Crumb Griddle Cakes.—Take two cupfuls of bread crumbs and cover with sour milk, let stand overnight. In the morning add an egg, salt and a teaspoonful of soda. Beat well adding flour enough to make a griddle cake batter. Bake on a hot griddle and serve with fried sausage.

Butter-Scotch.—Take two cupfuls of granulated sugar, two tablespoonfuls of water, a tablespoonful of butter, boil without stirring until it hardens on the spoon. Pour on flat, buttered plates and when cool mark off in squares.

"When I saw you a couple of months ago, I made up my mind you were getting old. At least you looked it."

"Yes, Billie, and I felt old. No appetite, couldn't sleep nights—one day just like another, and none of them any good. I knew constipation was at the bottom of it, but it seemed the more laxatives I took the worse I got. Then one day I saw Nell giving Nujol to my little grandson. The doctor had prescribed it for the baby, but I found out it's just the thing for old fellows like me, too."

"I tell you, Billie, it keeps me feeling fine all the time. My appetite's back and I sleep like a child."

If I look any younger, Nujol gets the credit."

PLAIN TYPES IN WINTER COATS; SMALL HATS FOR MIDWINTER

ONCE upon a time some wise authority maintained that beauty in its best phases has a touch of austerity about it. This seems to be true in the matter of winter coats for day-time wear, for, in a world of endlessly varied and much befurred styles, the quietly smart, plainer types find many sponsors among well-dressed women everywhere. Perhaps their cause is promoted by the partial eclipse of the two-piece tailored suit which has more or less caplike or bonnetlike. The majority of them have brims that turn upward at the front and the numberless ways in which these upturning brims are varied is really marvelous.

Hats of satin and silk, usually have bands or coronets in place of brims, but they are as greatly varied as the felt and velours shapes. Among the newest decorations are painted floral designs covered with ground glass that makes them look like enameled figures, and figures of animals outlined on the hat with tiny rhinestones, drooping open-ear ostrich plumes, scrolls and floral motifs of braid, chenille and silk cord couched with silk thread.

The shapes and materials shown in the group of five hats pictured reveal some of the high lights of the mode in small midwinter headwear. Velvet accounts for the small hat, with scarf to match, at the upper left, which may be made in any color, lined with crepe de chine in a contrasting shade. A small leather ornament on the hat repeats the color used for lining the scarf. A satin hat, at the right, is covered with accurate machine stitching and ha-of a luxurious quality in the coat fabric and the beautiful fur collar. Fur is variously managed on coats of this type, appearing in bandings on cuffs and collars, in long revers and in emplacements on collars and cuffs.

Also models with a wider flare in the skirt at the sides, diagonal front, openings and varied small details of finishing, such as embroidered arrow heads at the top of godets, that give them distinction.

After a long period of success the little hat for street wear finds itself at the very peak of popularity—with every indication that it will maintain its position as long as the weather calls for fur collars and fur coats. It goes on merrily selling and all the milliner has to do is to think up new ways of adding to its allurements.

The little hat—for street wear—is made of velours, felt, satin, silk or velvet and as for shapes they are all ished with a soft pompon and falling tassel of silk. A velours hat with chiffon drapery and trailing ostrich plume holds the center of the group. New versions of this hat are made of black satin with long plumes in orange, rose or other high colors. At the lower left of the group another velours hat reveals cut-out work backed with metallic fabric and over this a covered silk cord wriggles in snaky curves. A jeweled pin with double head is thrust through the crown. The group is completed by a felt hat that reverses the usual brim movement by having its upturn in the back. Chenille and metallic braid make the odd decoration.

Velvet Evening Coat
For fall and winter wear, nothing could be nicer than an evening wrap of geranium velvet with a collar of white fox. A very new note is struck by the entire coat being shirred so that a honeycombed effect is the result.

Smart Hosiery Colors
On hosiery for this season the most popular shades are the nude and flesh tones, with faint shades of gray and mauve next in favor. The range of tan tones appears in afternoon costumes, while champagne, flesh, nude and mauve are selected for wear with evening frocks.

Topped by Turbans
Topped by a turban is going to form part of the description of many a costume this fall. The close cropped heads of American women have made the small, tightly wound hats especially appropriate and becoming. The newest turbans are of leather, velvet or silk and frequently combine all three materials in one model.

Gay little beauty doctors are these up-to-date powder puffs, and ideal Christmas gifts. By means of water-color paints, narrow ribbons, laces and tiny flowers, ordinary powder puffs are transformed into these whimsical affairs that portray saucy dappers or demure maids. One side of the puff is decorated.

Pretty Ribbon Fancies

It never occurs to Santa Claus to leave pretty ribbon fancies out of his head at Christmas time—he merely varies them a little each year. Here are garters made of ribbon shirred over flat elastic, and trimmed with lace ruffles set with ribbon flowers and corsage flowers of folded ribbon.

For the Christmas Tree

All the little people for whom the tree blossoms and bears will be delighted with toys and ornaments made from crepe paper printed with figures of children. Ornaments, like those pictured, are made by pasting the paper to cardboard and cutting the figures out. A button wrapped in paper is tied to each one of them.

Gifts for Girls

Pretty hair ornaments are always included in the list of gifts that girls will like. The most fashionable ones this year are bands and coronets made of silver ribbon, and flower wreaths made of colored tinsel ribbons. Shirred ribbons are easy to work up into flower forms mounted on ribbon-wound wire. A coronet and flower wreath are shown here.

Dainty Neckwear Sets

Every woman expects that Christmas will bring her some bits of new finery—things that will add a telling touch of refinement to her toilette. She cannot hope for anything daintier or prettier than the collar and sleeves shown here, of fine net and narrow lace. Black ribbon is threaded through a beading and makes an effective finish on all the pieces.

First Crop Paid for His Land

"IN 1920," says Mr. Adolph Bellard, of St. Paul de Metis, a district in Alberta, Canada, "I had twenty-five acres of wheat, which yielded forty bushels per acre. Forty bushels per acre!

With wheat at, say, $1.50 per bushel, forty bushels give a return of $60.00 per acre.

Yet, you can buy land in Canada capable of growing the best wheat in the world for $15.00 to $20.00 per acre!

Started With $1,500.00
Now Worth $20,000.00

Adolph Bellard came to Canada from Rice Lake, Wisconsin, in 1911, with $1,500.00 capital. He settled in the "park" country of Central Alberta—mixed prairie and woodland. To-day, he is worth $20,000.00, owns a half section of fine, rich land, with good buildings and all the necessary livestock and equipment. "This is a splendid country," says he, "with plenty of water, trees and shelter for cattle, which run out all winter."

Thrifty Arabs

Tourists who visit Arabia pay large sums of money and risk being roasted by the sun in order to see not only the "Garden of Eden," but the "tomb of Cain." For a few good dollars one may buy a spoonful of the actual corn that "Yusuf" stored up for Pharaoh against famine. The only trouble is that travelers really believe the stories.

Literary Heroines

One of the most engaging characters in Dickens' novels is Dolly Varden, and in the seventies of last century she gave her name to a style of dress.

There were Dolly Varden bonnets and Dolly Varden frocks, just as later there were Tilly and Tilly hats, although neither of these famous gals ever had any existence except in the pages of literature.

Killed King's favorite

Piers Gaveston, one of Cornwall's favorite of Edward II of England, acted so arrogantly toward the barons that they twice drove him out of England and finally captured him and put him to death.

"You Don't Hear Me Kicking" Says the McCormick-Deering Engine

Rain or shine, gale or calm, hot or cold—the McCormick-Deering Engine chugs through its work willingly and economically. When there's water to be pumped, you can depend on a McCormick-Deering to do the job. When the churn needs turning or the cream separator, washing machine, or electric plant need power, the McCormick-Deering Engine does its work without a whimper. The facts, it's remarkable how many jobs one of these sturdy engines can do on the average farm. The McCormick-Deering Engine crankcase is enclosed, and the cylinder is removable; two good features you won't find on other engines. And as you look the McCormick-Deering over carefully you find other important features that win you over to this make of engine. If you need power on your farm, better come in and see the McCormick-Deering; we'll warrant you'll want the engine when you get acquainted with it.

TEACHERS BEING FLEECEED ON INSURANCE

Madison, Nov. 23.—That school teachers of Wisconsin and other states are being fleeced by a fraudulent insurance agent writing a teachers' accidental policy became known to W. Stanley Smith, commissioner of insurance, this week when evidence was presented of an unauthorized agent operating in Northern Wisconsin.
Both the National Life Insurance company, whose blanks are fraudulently used by the agent, and Commissioner Smith are using all legal means to arrest the fraudulent operator. A few days ago Commissioner Smith received a letter from the Pioneer National bank at Ladysmith advising him that a person who signed himself William Scherer and claiming to be a representative of the National Insurance company of Chicago and collected a premium of $29.25 from a teacher in that community. The bank inquired as to whether this person was an authorized agent. Investigations disclosed that Scherer was not an agent of the company and was not authorized to sell insurance in Wisconsin. Commissioner Smith immediately took the matter up with the National Life Insurance company and with the district attorney of Rusk county. The insurance department received a letter from the National Life Insurance company today which discloses that the fraudulent agent is operating in rather wholesale fashion.

Dimples

What can I do? "Oh, why can't I have a skin like other girls? Why do I have these ugly pimples, blotches and blackheads?"

"If I could only find something that would clear up my skin and give me back my soft, rosy complexion, I would be the happiest girl in the world! What can I do?"

That's what S. S. S. has been doing for generations—helping Nature's rich, red blood! You can build blood cells so fast that the impurities that cause breaking out on the face hardly get into the system before pure blood annihilates them—breaking out through the skin, and then this rich, red, pure blood feeds and nourishes the tissues of the skin and keeps it looking healthy.

That's all there is to it. Healthy, vigorous, red blood such as S. S. S. makes you a healthy, happy, successful person.

KEWASKUM HIGH SCHOOL COLUMN

Meeting on Thursday afternoon, after all business was discussed and settled musical numbers and readings were furnished by the various members.

The Athletic association membership drive closed Friday. The victory was given to the Easts, they having thirty-four members, while the Wests had only twenty-six. The grade teams as well as the High School second teams have started to practice down at the Opera House.

If a visitor were to come into the main assembly during the noon hour he would notice groups of students standing in every possible corner and talking in excited tones. The topic of conversation, however, is found to be the same. Some of the students are proud of the fact that they have eaten very little the last few days and others are telling of the twenty-pound turkey they are going to have on Thanksgiving Day. Others have not forgotten to tell about the pumpkin pie that Grandma can bake. On the whole all the students are welcoming Thanksgiving vacation, and as the report cards are to be handed out on Wednesday we feel that after seeing them we will need considerable time in which to recuperate.

Mr. Nadoff informed the student body that this year the interscholastic association would again hold a track meet, an extemporaneous speaking contest, and a declamatory and oratory contest. Individual prizes are to be awarded instead of awarding prizes to the schools. The announcement was received with enthusiasm as we students are particularly anxious to compete with the other schools and make known our skill.

On Wednesday evening, December 2, Kewaskum will dedicate their new High School and grade building. The following program will be rendered in the High School Auditorium, beginning at 8 o'clock:

"Princess of India", Kewaskum Band (Overture by K. L. King)

LOOKS SUSPICIOUS

A number of Hartford homes this week received a form letter and a pair of cuff links from the Y. R. A. E. office in New York City, with a request that the recipient keep the cuff links and remit $2.00 or more in currency, said money to go for the purpose of maintaining the organization. The cuff links appear like those that can be picked up in a 5 and 10 cent store anywhere, while the letter itself sounds "fishy". We are not in the habit of throwing cold water upon any charitable association out seeking funds, yet here is a case that appears so flagrant, so far remote, and so little known about them, that it does appear that the best policy would be to return the cuff links. This would be the proper way. There are numerous organizations in the country getting fat off from the public's willingness to contribute freely to the poor and unfortunate.—Hartford Times.

Idleness Hard Work.
Without effort life would stagnate. To have nothing to do would indeed be hard work—enough to kill the greatest general of us all.

"SILK STOCKING SAL" AT THE OPERA HOUSE

A new type of crook play, with more punch than "Kick in" and more tense situations than "Within The Law" comes to the Opera House on Sunday, November 29, when Evelyn Brent's second starring vehicle, "Silk Stocking Sal", enjoys its local premiere.

Cramped with action and thrills of a melodramatic order and enlivened with fine touches of comedy, the new Gothic production provides a delightful form of entertainment. It is a picture that audiences will long remember and the story, which was written especially for Miss Brent by E. Richard Schayer, offers the new star what is undoubtedly the best acting role in which she has ever been seen. Robert Ellis and Earl Metcalf head a fine supporting cast which has evidently been selected with rare judgment down to the varied extra.

In the role, Miss Brent interprets the part of a young and beautiful red-head hair bandit. She is first seen in the act of robbing a beautiful New York home, and in an upper clothes-dress discovers a lot of magnificent feminine attire. "Sal" cannot resist the lure of a particularly lovely negligee and slips it on. Just then she hears a noise and goes downstairs to find a young man with turned up collar opening the library safe. Thinking that he is a burglar she holds him up, and announces herself as the daughter of the family. As a matter of fact the young man is the son of the owner, and he is hugely amused at the girl's efforts to palm herself off as his sister. Mutual revelation of identity follows, and with her promise to "go straight" the boy offers her a job. Much to his surprise she shows up to claim it, and, in turn, is eventually responsible for saving him from a worse fate than a mere jail term.

Director Tod Browning has done clever work in interpreting a story which jumps from thrill to thrill like a nervous chamois on a volcanic mountain. The production has been costumed and mounted beautifully.

DODGE CO. TRAFFIC OFFICER KILLED

Richard Theisen, aged 26 years, of Juneau, traffic officer of Dodge county since last spring, was fatally injured last week Thursday evening at six o'clock, when the motorcycle he was driving crashed into the rear of a farm wagon on Wrucke's hill between Horicon and Minnesota Junction. Arthur Wersoenke, also of Juneau who was riding with Theisen suffered severe injuries. Mr. Theisen sustained a fractured skull, a broken leg, and a compound fracture of both arms. He was taken to the Beaver Dam hospital where he died two hours after the accident. Walter Koepel, driver of the wagon, received minor injuries when he was thrown from his wagon when he tried to stop his team which became frightened when the accident occurred and ran away. Theisen was unmarried. He was born and raised in Juneau, and was a veteran of the World war. He is survived by his father, Conrad Theisen, of Juneau, two sisters and one brother. The funeral was held Monday.

DOINGS IN CIRCUIT COURT

Circuit court adjourned last Friday until next spring, when the remainder of the cases on the calendar will be taken up. On Wednesday the case of John Eicher vs. Mr. Quandt was up for trial. Mr. Eicher who was an employee of Mr. Quandt, on the latter's farm near Hartford, sued the latter for the loss of an eye and for loss of time, and expenses incurred for injuries received while repairing a manure spreader. The jury brought in a verdict fixing the plaintiff's damages at $1,562.90 for loss of time and expenses and $1,000 for the loss of an eye. The jury at the same time found Eicher guilty of negligence, which will prevent him from collecting the damage award.

The cases of Math. Dangelo vs. Clemens Reinders and Florence Reinders were tried on Thursday and Friday before a jury. The jury rendered a verdict finding both plaintiff and defendant guilty of negligence, which will prevent the plaintiffs from receiving compensation for injuries.

HIGHWAY OFFICERS SUED

Edward F. Russell of Hartford filed suit to the amount of $71,850.00, on Friday against members of the Washington County Highway committee, charging that that amount was misused in the building of Highway 115. Russell charges that the relocation of the road southeasterly through Meeker was not in accordance with the resolution of the County Board and the specifications as voted upon in 1919, and that the relocation north of Richfield to Ackerville was not as specified. Lockney and Lowry of Waushara are the lawyers for Russell.
