TEST INCREASES PRICE OF MILK

Janesville—For the first time a differential is being paid in southern Wisconsin by the Bowman Dairy Co., Chicago, which buys a vast amount of Wisconsin milk for dairy products from tested cattle and from untested stock. The December price is $2.50 per 100 pounds for standard milk from herds which have not passed the tuberculosis test and $2.55 for milk from tested cattle. The difference in price is expected to be a material factor in promoting area testing work in southern Wisconsin to eradicate bovine tuberculosis. Rock county is due to have the test this month. More than 60,000 head will be tested in the countywide campaign.—Milwaukee Journal.

A CORING NOVEL BY AUTHOR OF "GRAUSTARK"

Everyone who is familiar with "Brewster's Millions" or the Graustark novels will be doubly interested in George Barr McCutcheon's latest novel, "Oliver October," to be published serially in the Statesman, beginning Saturday, October nineteenth.

"Oliver October" is the fascinating story of a boy's prophecy and its effect on the life of the person it concerned. There is plenty of action and mystery and suspense—all of the well-known McCutcheon variety.

George Barr McCutcheon has been writing continuously since early in 1901, when the first Graustark novel was published. This was a phenomenal success and caused him to abandon his newspaper career and devote his entire time to fiction.

Among his better-known stories are "Beverly of Graustark," "A Fool and His Money," "The Daughter of Anderson Crow," "West Wind Drift," and "Viola Gwyn."

"Oliver October" begins in the next issue of the Statesman on Saturday, December 19th. Start reading it and you won't want to miss a single installment.

NEW PASTOR IS ENGAGED

Rev. Ernst Irion of Millersburg, Ohio, who gave two trial sermons at the Ev. Peace church last Sunday, was unanimously elected to the pastorate of this church by the congregation. Rev. Irion notified the secretary that he had accepted the call to this village. The Reverend gentleman and his family will move to this village in about three months. He is an eloquent speaker, and delivered two very interesting and impressive sermons, last Sunday, one in English and the other in the German language. Rev. Irion is about thirty-nine years old, and comes here with the best of recommendations. He is the father of two children.

TRAIN NO. 209 TO STOP AT CAMPBELLSPORT

Beginning on Monday, December 7, northbound passenger train No. 209 stops at Campbellsport to discharge passengers from Milwaukee or points further south. Two trains meet at Campbellsport at 6:12 o'clock in the evening. One is No. 209 which stopped momentarily about 300 feet beyond the depot and the other is the southbound passenger train which is scheduled stop at the village. Complaint was made by citizens of Campbellsport that passengers leaving the southbound passenger train at the village were forced to alight in the road and cross the tracks to reach the railway platform.

gun in earnest, teachers and pupils alike working very hard to make the first week in the new building memorable.

We, the students of the Kewaskum High School, are now spending our tenth week in the new building, and are expressing sincere thanks to the entire community for offering us this new educational building. We hope to return this good deed to them some future day.

The new school is a long dreamed dream, seemingly too good to be true. Your cousin, Allen.

LARGE AMOUNT FOR HIGHWAYS

The County Board of Supervisors, at its last session appropriated a large amount of money and adopted a schedule to be used in improving highways in various sections of the county next year. On the county trunk highway system the sum of $14,792 will be spent, said amount representing 20 per cent of the county's share of gas tax and motor license fees received from the state.

Eighty per cent of the county's share from gas tax and motor license receipts, amounting to $39,166, will be received from the state in completing state trunk highway system 155 in the town of Germantown. To this amount the county will advance $65,000 until 1927, making a grand total of $124,166 to be spent on that highway next year. The highway will be completed from the village of Germantown northwest, a distance of 4 1/2 miles.

Other appropriations were made as follows:

- $5,000 to complete east Cedar Lake road; $4,000 for Richfield-Holy Hill road; $2,500 for County Trunk M. Trenton; $8,000 for County Trunk A. Kewaskum, easterly to county line; $10,000 for County Trunk F. and N. town of Wayne. All of the above highways will be graded. The following amounts will be available for other purposes: $5,000 for general county trunk maintenance; $20,000 for emergency road and bridge fund; $16,000 for highway machinery and repairs; $4,000 for administration.—West Bend Pilot.

AT THE MOVIES SUNDAY EVENING

Dogs wearing whiskers may not be a common every day sight, but that is one of the very amusing sights to be seen in Hal Rosch's latest Pathe-comedy, "The Mysterious Mystery," which will be shown at the Opera House on Sunday. The "Gang" set up a detective bureau and when they are on the trail of some crook they must needs be thoroughly disguised after the manner of Sherlock Holmes and other famous criminal investigators. Eves Pal, the dog, is not forgotten and he is supplied with a set of long whiskers. The only one who cannot see the humor of the situation is the dog and he is very much put out at this insult to his dignity. The cast of "The Mysterious Mystery" includes: Mickey Daniels, Joe Cobb, Jackie Gordon and Farina. Robert McGowan was the director.

DEATH OF LOUIS LUEDTKE

Theresa, Dec. 9.—Funeral services for Louis Luedtke whose death occurred at the family residence in the village Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, were held Friday afternoon. Services at the house were conducted at 1:30 o'clock and at St. Peter's Lutheran church at 2. The Rev. E. L. Behrens officiated. The bearers were William Knapp, Warner Schoepke, John Jansen, William Sindahl, Albert Unglaub and Ed. Olson. Mr. Luedtke had been in failing health the past two years. He was born at Wischester, June 4, 1859 and on Oct. 23, 1912 was married to Miss Helen Hoepner of Theresa. Besides a widow and one daughter, Evelyn, he is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Luedtke of Dale, two brothers and three sisters.

BACKHAUS-CAPEK WEDDING

At the Ev. Luth. Emanuel church in the town of Scott, occurred the marriage of Miss Maria Backhaus, daughter of Henry A. Backhaus of Beechwood to Frank J. Capek, last Saturday. The couple were attended by Miss Anna Capek, as maid of honor, and Lesau and Lydia Backhaus, as bridesmaids. Anton Backhaus was best man and Arnold Seiders and Ed. Capek, ushers. The bride wore a white satin dress and carried a shower bouquet of roses. The maid of honor wore a salmon colored georgette dress and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bridesmaids wore green and salmon colored crepe de chine dresses and carried bouquets of carnations. A reception was held at the home of the bride after the ceremony, with about 78 guests in attendance. The home was decorated in red, yellow and blue. The newly weds left on a short wedding trip to Friendship, Wis. They have the best wishes for a happy married life.

YOUNG MOTHER CALLED HOME

In the prime of life, amidst joy and family happiness, stalks death, taking away from the home circle, a young mother, a life of usefulness, and cast profound sorrow over the entire community, namely Mrs. Albert Hron (nee Louisa Augusta Schaefer) daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Christ Schaefer Sr., of this village, who suddenly passed away into eternal sleep, at her home here last Saturday evening, December 5th, 1925, at 9:45 o'clock. Mrs. Hron had apparently been in the best of health, and was enjoying the comforts of home life, when she suddenly became ill and died shortly afterwards. Cause of death being a heart stroke. Deceased was born April 2, 1892, in the town of Kewaskum, where she resided until her marriage to Albert Hron, on May 18, 1912, when they made their home in West Bend, until October 20, 1919, when the family moved to this village, where they have since resided. Besides her sorrowing husband, she leaves to mourn her untimely death five children, as follows: Elsie, Lloyd, Albert Jr., Eleanor and Pearl, all at home. Besides these deceased leaves to mourn her aged parents, Mr. and Mrs. Christ Schaefer Sr., two sisters, Amelia (Mrs. William Butzlaff), and Nettie (Mrs. Herman Gustave and Herman Schaefer, all of the town of Kewaskum. Mrs. Hron was a woman of all who knew her. Her kind and cheerful disposition won for her a host of friends who were shocked to learn of her sudden demise. She was a kind and loving wife and mother, whose helpful hands and winning ways will be keenly felt by the family circle. The many relatives and friends extend deep heartfelt sympathy to the grief stricken family in this their hour of deep affliction. The funeral which was largely attended, was held on Wednesday afternoon, at 2:30 p. m., from the family home with services in the Ev. Peace church. Rev. Erber of Fillmore officiated. Burial was made in the congregation's cemetery. The pall bearers were: Louis Schaefer, Herman Schaefer, William Hron, Frank Hron, Richard Hron and Wenzel Hron. The flower bearers were Elva Schaefer, Lydia Butzlaff, Alice Hron and Woodrow Hron.

MRS. FRED GREVE

Word was received here this week announcing the death of Mrs. F. Greve, formerly of this village, who died at her home in Jordan, Minn., on Tuesday evening, December 8, 1925, at 8:45 p. m. The funeral was held on Friday. Further particulars will be published next week.

LIBERTY BELL TO RING OVER RADIO DEC. 31

America's old Liberty Bell will be heard for a short time over the radio on the night of December 31st, if plans at Philadelphia materialize. A rubber mallet will be used to ring the bell which will usher in the new year the same as it ushered in America's freedom over a century ago.

ALL U. S. ROUTES MADE ARTERIALS

All United States routes in the state, totalling 2,292.3 miles will be arterial highways, according to an announcement made by the State Highway Commission last week. In addition to the entire federal system, the following trunk highways, a total of 348.3 miles are also designated as arteries of through traffic. State Trunk Highway 55, Milwaukee City Hall to Fond du Lac, 65.5 miles; State Trunk Highway 61, Milwaukee to Beloit, 73.8 miles; State Trunk 17, Milwaukee to Illinois state line, 43.1 miles; State Trunk 19, Watertown to Sun Prairie, 26.7 miles; State Trunk 11, Fennimore to Virgo Junction, 46.8 miles, and State Trunk 41, Middleton to Readstown, 92.4 miles. Work of marking the newly named arterials will be started as soon as possible next spring and the work to be handled by the nine divisions of the highway commission. The most important highways will be marked first.

MARKET REPORT

Plymouth, Wis., Dec. 4.—On the farmers' call board today 290 boxes of cheese were offered and all sold as follows: 190 cases longhorns at 22 1/2¢ and 100 boxes square prints at 24¢.

The girls' game was the snappiest and most exciting game ever presented to the inhabitants of this village. The girls not only managed to run up a high score but were also able to play a game which resulted in a win which was far superior to the ability of a girls' team. Gath present of the most spectacular feature when she rolled in basket after basket with so much accuracy of a star player. The guards were equally alert and were successful in keeping the opponents from scoring. The final score was 11 to 9.

Much rivalry existed between the boys' teams. During the first half we were able to run up a score of 16 to 3. Kahn proved to be the leading player of the team and was successful in superior to roll in five extremely good and long shots. Lomira, in the second half, came back with sufficient vigor and strength which enabled them to run up a score of 13. However, our team's pass work surpassed their opponents and we managed to add another victory in our already well earned list: 22 to 13.

The impartiality of the referee and the unusual method of the opponents to gain a victory were some of the wise handicaps with which our boys had to compete in the games at Lohrville. For the first time in the boys' record both victories were given to our opponents. The girls' score was 12 to 7 to 16.

The girls and the high school at present are busy preparing a Christmas program which is to be presented during the holiday vacation.

Kewaskum, Wis., Dec. 12, 1925

One looking at our new school building, is reminded of Kewaskum's wonderful dream that really came true.

From about 1875 to 1924, the rising generation grabbed what education it could and cultivated it in a few brick school houses with few means for advancement. This school afforded many well educated youth who are now operating successfully in the business world. The students were all thankful for the education they had an opportunity to grasp and they showed themselves grateful for it.

At last met by the people began to build the project of building a new school which would offer opportunities to those of larger schools. The whole community began to dream of how wonderful it would be if Kewaskum could offer its rising generation the opportunities similar to those of larger schools. The project of erecting a new building, or of promoting the situation, in some way, was considered several times, each time meeting with difficulties and temporary failure.

As the years slid on with the realization of the best their opportunities presented them. This was, indeed, a time in the school's promotion, when the community kept the picture of a new school in mind. The teachers, school board and many alert citizens tried to show the value of a better and more modern school. During this time, many were also made to keep the idea of a new building in their minds.

There was a plan for a new building proposed and after several vain attempts it was adopted with the approval of the community in its favor.

The new building, while the old one was obviously awaiting the return of the new building so that the students would have more educational opportunities.

There was one more year to spend in the old building during the erection of the new one, while the entire community watched the progress with true interest. Their work became their own as they were going to receive more education of which they were anxious to take advantage.

The old building, came a vacation on the day of school in the new building. Each child was inspired by the opportunities offered it by an educational community. Work was en-

TARIFF AIDS FARMER, DECLARES PRESIDENT

Tells Farm Bureau Body He Opposes Government Price Fixing

Chicago—In front of a Chicago microphone that took his voice throughout the land, President Coolidge explained to the farmers of the nation his position with regard to the ailments of the agricultural industry...

The President defended the existing tariff as favoring the farmers more than any other class...

"There have been discussions which seem to indicate some fear that our agriculture is becoming decadent, that it has already reached its highest point and that, becoming unprofitable, it is likely to diminish...

"Although it is gratifying to know that farm conditions as a whole are encouraging, yet we ought not to cease our efforts for their constant improvement...

"One of the methods by which this has been sought, though put forward as an emergency measure as I understand from its proponents, was to have corporations organized through which the government would directly or indirectly fix prices or engage in buying and selling farm produce...

"Government control cannot be divorced from political control. "Others have thought that the tariff rates were unfair to the farmer. If this should be a fact, it ought to be corrected...

"On the other side, protection is a great benefit to agriculture as a whole. The $780,000,000 of agricultural produce imported last year had to pay $200,000,000 for the privilege of coming in to compete with our own farm production...

"Prosperity in our industries is of more value to the farmer than the whole export market for foodstuffs. Prosperity has contributed in our country to making employment plentiful, with the highest wages and highest standards of living in the world...

"For a more orderly marketing calculated to secure a better range of prices the co-operative movement promises the greatest success. Already they are handling $2,500,000,000 of farm produce, or nearly one-fifth of the annual production...

"I believe the government ought to give it every assistance, but it ought to leave it to the support, the benefit, and the business of the people. The interest which the national government takes in agriculture is manifest by an appropriation of about $100,000,000 a year, which is nearly one-third of our total expenditure...

"While the government ought not to undertake to control or direct, it should supplement and assist all efforts in this direction. The leaders in the co-operative movement, with the advice of the Department of Agriculture, have prepared what is believed to be an adequate bill embodying these principles...

"I propose actively and energetically to assist the farmers to promote their welfare through co-operative marketing."

JAPAN REJOICING OVER BIRTH OF A PRINCESS

Royal Infant Presented With Imperial Sword

Tokyo—Princess Nagako, who became the bride of Crown Prince Hirohito January 26 last, presented the imperial family with a granddaughter. Newspapers issued extras and there was a general air of rejoicing throughout Japan...

PRESIDENT SENDS HIS MESSAGE TO CONGRESS

General Condition of Nation Is One of Progress and Prosperity

Washington—President Coolidge, in his message to the Sixty-ninth congress, said that the general condition of the nation is one of progress and prosperity. The President said that he approved of the new revenue bill as framed by the house ways and means committee...

The President's message in part is as follows: Members of the Congress: In meeting the constitutional requirements of informing the congress upon the state of the Union, it is exceedingly gratifying to report that the general condition is one of progress and prosperity...

In our country the people are sovereign and independent, and must accept the resulting responsibilities. The greatest solicitude should be exercised to prevent any encroachment upon the rights of the states or their various political subdivisions...

For Government Economy. It is a fundamental principle of our country that the people are sovereign. They hold inviolate in their own hands the jurisdiction over their own property. The wealth of our country is not public wealth, but private wealth. It does not belong to the government, it belongs to the people...

It has always been our policy to retire our debts. The taxpayer will be required to produce nearly twice the amount of commodities to pay his debt if the dollar returns to the 1913 value. The more we pay while prices are high, the easier it will be...

There is room for further economy in the cost of the federal government, but a comparison of current expenditures with pre-war expenditures is not unfavorable to the efficiency with which government business is now being done...

I believe that present federal expenditures are not far out of line with pre-war expenses. We have nearly accomplished the deflation. Budget. The congress has wisely set up the bureau of budget...

This gives a centralized authority where a general and comprehensive understanding can be reached of the sources of income and the most equitable distribution of expenditures. How well it has worked is indicated by the fact that the departmental estimates for 1922, before the budget law, were $1,095,000,000 while the budget estimates for 1924 are $1,156,000,000...

Taxation. The purpose of reducing expenditures is to secure a reduction in taxes. That purpose is about to be realized. With commendable promptness the ways and means committee of the house has undertaken in advance of the meeting of the congress to frame a revenue act. In its present form it should provide sufficient revenue for the government. I approve of the bill in principle...

Foreign Relations. The policy of our foreign relations, casting aside any suggestion of force, rests solely on the foundation of peace, good will, and good works. It seems clear that it is the reduction of armies rather than of navies that is of the first importance to the world at the present time...

Court of International Justice. Pending before the senate for nearly three years is the proposal to adhere to the protocol establishing the Permanent Court of International Justice. A well-established line of precedents mark America's effort to effect the establishment of a court of this nature...

Foreign Debts. Gradually, settlements have been made which provide for the liquidation of debts due to our government from foreign governments. Alien Property. Negotiations are progressing among the interested parties in relation to the final distribution of the assets in the hands of the alien property custodian...

Immigration. While not enough time has elapsed to afford a conclusive demonstration, such results as have been secured indicate that our immigration law is on the whole beneficial. It is undoubted, a protection to the wage earners of this country...

National Defense. Never before in time of peace has our country maintained so large and effective a military force as it now has. The army, navy, marine corps, National Guard, and organized reserves represent a strength of about 550,000 men. These forces are well trained, well equipped, and high in morale...

CAUSES OF FIRE LOSS. Divided into two classes, the chief causes of fire are: Strictly preventable—Defective chimneys and flues, fireworks, etc., gas, hot ashes, coal in open fires, matches, smoking, open light, petroleum and its products, rubbish and litter, sparks on roofs, steam and hot-water pipes, stoves, furnaces, boilers, and their pipes. Partly preventable—Electricity, explosions, lightning from machinery, incendiarism, lightning...

Is Ancient Story. "The Lay of Havelock the Dane," an Anglo-Danish story, written some time before 1300, tells of the son of the Danish king set adrift at sea by treachery and rescued by an English sailor man. Flattered. "De longer a word in," said Cude Ehen, "the more I feels kind of flattered for bein' given credit 'for somethin' knowin' what it means."—Washington Star.

She was late and made haste to slip on a fresh dress, brushing her hair, powdering her creamy skin with her old gentle care. She was very quiet and calm, and Prudence's eyes were upon her often with troubled, sympathetic glances. And after dinner, and Prudence's eyes were upon her often with troubled, sympathetic glances. And after dinner, and Prudence's eyes were upon her often with troubled, sympathetic glances.

the car, Jerrold and ask Katie to bring out coats." "He—he kissed me, and he was—drunk, mother. I thought he felt—just as I did—and he was only—drunk. I don't even know if he remembers—that he kissed me." Katie came in with their coats, and at a sign from Prudence went out at once, leaving her alone with her mother and the great fur cloak about her shoulders very gently. Jerry did not know that she was trembling. "You wouldn't feel—nice about it, mother—to know it was—something else." "No, sweetness, I shouldn't like it." Jerrold looked shirily to them from the car outside the door, and with her hand in Prudence's, Jerry herself led the way. As they drove swiftly along toward the hospital, no word was spoken.

that whimsical, tender smile whose eggy-fronted had charmed and stirred her from the first. "Jerry," he said, and the tender voice was weak, "you've got to admit it was treating me pretty badly." He looked up at her, not smiling now. And Jerry stood over him, her eyes melting into his, agonizingly intense. Suddenly she willed. Tears rushed into her eyes, the proud little chin dropped and quivered. She turned, a crushed and broken figure, toward her mother, even in that hour of its renunciation the tender dream of her youth dying hard within her, and cried despondently: "I can't help it! Maybe it is a different kind—the feeling is just the same." She dropped on her knees beside the bed, the pain in her face, the shadow in her eyes, yielding to a joyous radiance as she pressed her lips against his shoulder.

the hospital and quite himself again. Under his interest, his admiration, his unbounded pride in her accomplishment, she glowed with a glad delight. "It isn't really the work," she explained, leaning back against the balustrade of a circular staircase which had cost her two hundred dollars more than her figures had allowed. "It is just like play, with something to show for it—a sweet little place for someone to live and set an example to the neighborhood, in the first place." She paused impressively. "And in the second place," Duane encouraged her, reaching almost as by

CHAPTER XII

Of Dreams Come True

Jerry's surrender was as complete as his resistance had been. Regardless of the admonitions of the nurse and the restrictions of the hospital; regardless of the presence of her father and mother, who tried studiously to keep their eyes away from her, she hung over Duane, on her knees beside the white bed, kissed him, caressed his face, weeping bitterly. It was Duane himself, with his usual facetious, kindly courtesy, who intervened once in a while to stem the tide of her tumultuous emotions. "Now, Jerry," he said, taking advantage of a slight subdual of her tears, "you'll have to marry me. You've kissed me and encouraged me and made love to me before witnesses." Jerry laughed tearfully. "All right, I will," she said tremulously, yet gladly. "And just as soon as you like! Tomorrow, if you say so."

How Jerry Loved

Even hospital rules and regulations give way to reason and romance in times of bitter stress, and it took Jerrold no more than three minutes to have all the red tape of St. Joseph's crooked about his little finger. And then they were taken, very quickly, very quietly, to a little white room where Duane lay and waited for Jerry. There was a nurse in the room, but at a sign from the one who brought them, she went out, quickly, smiling.

back over her shoulder. Duane lay very still on the white bed. His eyes were closed. The olive tan of his skin was ivory white. Prudence and Jerrold stood back, softly, and Jerry walked before them into the room, moving as one in a dream, her great, shadowy eyes fastened almost hypnotically upon the white face on the pillow. He opened his eyes and a warm brightness flashed into them when he saw Jerry beside him. He smiled—

Eggs Carry Well in Good Packing
Series of Tests Made to Show Efficiency Under Commercial Conditions.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The economy of careful packing of eggs has been demonstrated in a series of shipments to test the comparative efficiency under commercial conditions of eight different methods of packing eggs in cases and two methods of buffering the cases in the cars. The eggs carried through to market with comparatively little damage.

- Different Methods.
The eight different methods of packing used were as follows:
1. Standard case, standard fillers and flats, four excelsior pads.
 2. Standard case, standard fillers and flats, six excelsior pads.
 3. Cut down three eighths inch less in depth than standard, standard fillers and flats, four excelsior pads.
 4. Standard case, standard flats, fillers one eighth inch thicker than standard, four excelsior pads.
 5. Standard case, standard fillers and flats, cup flats top and bottom.
 6. Standard case, standard fillers, cup flats throughout.
 7. Cut down case, standard fillers, embossed flats, four excelsior pads.
 8. Standard case, standard fillers, embossed flats, cup flats top and bottom.

Six different shipments of two cars each were made. The different shipments moved from Elmhurst, Ill., to Boston; from Wichita, Kans., to East St. Louis; from Hutchinson, Kans., to East St. Louis; from Clarinda, Iowa, to Chicago; from Columbus, Neb., to Washington, and from Marion, Ind., to Jersey City. Each car was loaded with an equal number of the eight different packs, one car in each shipment being headed with wood and the other built with padded straw or hay. The eggs were packed in the cases by employees of Swift & Co. at their plants located at the various shipping points.

Two cases of each pack, in each car, were thoroughly examined and inspected to determine the number of damaged eggs at shipping point and again at destination in order to ascertain the damage occurring in transit. Insect recording instruments were placed in each car to secure a record of the shocks to which the eggs were subjected during shipment.

Damage in Transit.
The damage occurring during transit was reduced to terms of the average money loss per case. On this basis the results show that for all shipments there was a slight, but hardly significant, advantage in favor of the straw and hay-buffed cars over the wood-buffed cars. The average loss in the former was 1.43 cents and in the latter 1.82 cents.

The various packs, all shipments considered, ranked as follows in terms of average money loss per case: Pack 6, 0.94 cent; pack 7, 1.22 cents; pack 2, 1.39 cents; pack 4, 1.55 cents; pack 8, 1.62 cents; pack 5, 1.88 cents; pack 1, 2.29 cents and pack 3, 2.46 cents.

Fine Time to Overhaul Farm Machines in Winter
During late winter and early March is a fine time to overhaul farm machinery, or at least send for the needed repairs and put them in place on warm days. At this time, plans for spring and summer work are gone over in detail and everything made as handy as possible for the rush of spring. Extra nuts, washers and bolts for the machines, and extra straps, straps, etc., for the harness are bought and laid in a handy place.

Cover to Protect Grape Vines in Cold Weather
Young grape vines should be pruned as soon as the leaves are off and then covered to protect them from extreme cold weather and drying winds which quite often cause winter killing.

Coniferous Trees Good as Farm Crop
Have Assured Market for Lumber or Pulpwood.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
Profitable crops may be obtained from the poorer areas on many farms by planting coniferous trees. Even in small sizes the conifers may be sold at a profit as Christmas trees, and in the large sizes they have an assured market for lumber or pulpwood.

Information on how to obtain trees for planting, as well as complete instructions for procuring home-grown seedlings for planting them, and for caring for the plantation, are given in Farmers' Bulletin 1433, just issued by the Department of Agriculture under the title, "Growing and Planting Trees on the Farm."

Good Staying Qualities Needed by Swine Grower
Andrew Hess, vice director of the Minnesota experiment station, told an audience of farmers on Swine Feeders' day, University farm, St. Paul, Minn., that the important thing after getting into the hog business is to stay in and develop a plan that suits the individual farm. He gave five rules for successful hog raising:

Provide suitable quarters for feeding and stabling.
Lay out a system of lots and fencing fields to give clean fresh forage for brood sows and litters through the summer.

Better Live Stock
The most enthusiastic corn-grower is the one who has been at it the longest. Corn, alfalfa and sweet clover mean more and better live stock, and this means that your operations will be on a much more profitable permanent basis. Remember these things: Get seed of a variety suited to your climate; test the seed for germination; plant it with an accurate planter; work the soil shallow in the later cultivations, and use your own good judgment as to the best time and manner of harvesting.

Care of Brood Sows
The success of the spring pig crop depends largely on the care given the brood sows during the winter. Do not allow a large number of sows to run together and pile up in the nests. See to it that they are supplied with a good nourishing ration that will keep them gaining a half pound a day. Force them to take exercise.

Farm Hints
Fat pocket gophers cause leaver pocketbooks.
The well-fed, well-housed hen certainly knows her eggs.
Now is a good time to begin planning for next year's garden.

Tells Why He Can Now Eat Hearty

"A letter which I read in the paper about Carter's Little Liver Pills fitted my own case so closely that I could not help trying them and am very happy I did." So writes Mr. Frank J. Trumbull of Jersey City, N. J., whose letter goes on to say: "I had heard about Carter's Little Liver Pills for years but never knew they helped overcome poor appetite and sour stomach, until I read about another man in the same plight who took Carter's with good results. I tried them and can honestly say that they freed me of nasty gas on stomach, so that I can now eat without getting bilious, and they improved my appetite fully 100%." You can rest assured that from now on I will boost Carter's Little Liver Pills whenever I can."

Belief in Horseshoes Traced to the Druids

The idea that it is lucky to find a horseshoe is regarded by authorities as folklore as a Druidical survival. The superstition is peculiar to regions where Druidism once flourished, and the Druidical places of worship, as exemplified by Stonehenge, where their inner circle of stones a broken or open one.

Making Real Pearls

Japanese pearls formed by an oyster round a nucleus of mother-of-pearl can now be definitely told from real pearls by spectrography with monochromatic X-ray waves. The mother-of-pearl center in the Japanese pearls produces a definite figure arrangement not unlike the Lane figures, while the real pearl shows a definite unstratified series of rings. The difference between the simple structure of the true pearl and the double structure of the Japanese grown pearl can be immediately recognized.

That Pleased Him

Terrible discords were issuing from the adjoining room. The caller sat up apprehensively. "Never mind," smiled Mrs. Brown. "It's only my small son practicing on the piano." The caller relaxed and sat back. "Does he enjoy it?" she asked. The fond mother smiled a bit more broadly. "Not at first," she admitted, "but then the neighbors complained."

TO EVERY LITTLE BOY AND GIRL IN KEWASKUM

Dear Kiddies:--

At last, after a whole year of restless waiting Christmas time is here again. I've had a busy year collecting lovely things to make the hearts of little people glad. And goodness, it was a job. I was afraid that I'd never be able to get enough things for all of you this year—but I did, and now they are all ready, and anxious to crowd into your Christmas stockings and under your Christmas tree. Come and see the toys in A. G. Koch's store and all the nice things I've made for you and you can tell Mamma and Papa what you want me to bring you for Christmas.

A FREAK OF NATURE

A most perplexing freak of nature as brought to the News office by Wm. Loeckie Jr., of here last Thursday. While hunting in the woods southwest of Nubob in the town of West Bend last week Monday he shot a rabbit, and upon examining its head he noticed two tusks protruding from the middle of the lower jaw and one tusk grown from the upper jaw, curling inward like the segment of a ring. Another upper tusk apparently was broken off. The tusks were about three-quarters of an inch long and looked like the finest ivory.—West Bend News.

Many Like Maples

Maples are popular, says the American Tree association of Washington, which invites you to join the tree-planting army. The maples have opposite leaves, with deeply recessed edges, and always bear seeds or seeds with a long winglike appendage in pairs. These are as characteristic as acorns are of the oaks. The leaves are borne in pairs, one opposite the other, along the stems. The association, for a 2-cent stamp, will send you tree-planting suggestions.

Big Gypsum Bed

A gypsum bed 50.8 per cent pure, extending ten miles inland for a mile along a branch of the Moose river, midway between Cochrane and James Bay, Ontario, is said to be one of the world's most important. It was but recently discovered. The outcropping can be seen at the river's edge, where the deposit is forty feet thick.

GRANDMA'S CHRISTMAS

The Kitchen Cabinet

Mere living becomes real life when it becomes sacrificial. We begin to operate with vital forces when we cross the border into the land of sacrifice.

HELPFUL HINTS

A tea wagon or wheeled tray is a wonderful step-saver for the housewife who has all of her own work to do. It may hold the dessert and on the lower shelf may be placed the dinner plates so that one trip will carry away the table dishes.

Add a little borax to the rinsing water for thin garments and fine handkerchiefs. It adds just enough new when ironed. Mix the chopped fruit with the sugar and butter when making a fruit or plum cake, then when baked it will not sink to the bottom.

A little lemon juice and grated rind added to apple pie, if the apple is not fresh and good flavored makes a tastier pie.

When using canned pumpkin for pies—and you wouldn't to save time, fuel and strength—open the can and put the pumpkin into a saucepan to stew down. This removes much of the moisture and gives it a color like the old-fashioned home-stewed pumpkin.

When serving afternoon tea, stick a clove or two in the slices of lemon—some of them—as clove flavor is especially good in combination with lemon. A cube of preserved pineapple is another well liked tea adjunct.

Cubes of sugar rubbed over the fresh washed skin of an orange will absorb the oil and add flavor when used in tea.

When boiling potatoes, parboil them a few minutes until well heated, then boil. They will bake more quickly and save the oven heat.

A glass of orange juice for the invalid is one of the best of drinks and a most agreeable tonic. It is good for the three-month-old babe as well as the grandmothers in the family. An orange at night is the best of bowel regulators.

In the home where tobacco smoking is common, place a dish of water in the room on leaving it for the night and the odors will be absorbed by morning.

Soak a new broom in salt water and wash it weekly in the laundry tubs of hot soapwater. Then hang or rest on the handle to dry.

Scorched linen may be restored by wetting and placing in the bright sunlight.

To mend a crack in a stove, mix equal parts of salt and wood ashes with enough water to mix well. Fill the crack and when dry it will be like cement.

Seasonable Good Things. While eggs are high in price the following cake, once tried, will become a favorite:

One-Egg Plum Cake.—Cream one-half cupful of butter with one cupful of sugar, add one egg well beaten, one cupful of milk, a little salt and ginger and a grating of nutmeg, with a light flavoring of vanilla or lemon; two cupfuls of flour, sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-half cupful of stoned, chopped raisins. Bake in a moderate oven. Add the milk alternately with the flour, a little at a time, beating well.

Bean Porridge.—This is really a cream soup. Soak two cupfuls of beans overnight; in the morning bring to the boiling point and stir in a bit of soda—an eighth of a teaspoonful is ample—drain and cover with fresh water. Boil slowly until nearly done, add salt and allow them to simmer until very soft. Mash with a potato masher and add a quart of rich milk. Stir well, bring to the boiling point and serve with crackers, adding a tablespoonful of butter just before serving.

Apricot Sponge.—Soften a table-spoonful of gelatin in one-fourth of a cupful of water and dissolve in one cupful of apricot pulp and juice, heated hot. Add one-fourth of a cupful of sugar and stir until dissolved, then when the mixture begins to become firm, beat in the whites of two eggs, well beaten. Serve in sherbet cups topped with sweetened whipped cream. Prunes may be used in place of the apricots.

Chocolate Bread Pudding.—Soak a pint of bread crumbs in a quart of scalding milk for half an hour. Melt two squares of chocolate, add one-third of a cupful of sugar and the milk from the bread crumbs to make a batter. Add to the bread another third of a cupful of sugar, pinch of salt, half a cupful of shredded almonds, two eggs, cinnamon to taste. Turn into a buttered baking dish and bake one hour. Serve with any favorite sauce.

Lemon Milk Sherbet.—Take a quart of good rich milk, add one and one-half cupfuls of strained honey or two cupfuls of sugar with one cupful of lemon juice. Mix well and freeze. The mixture will curdle when combined but will freeze smooth as velvet.

Household Hint
When water refuses to flow freely from your sink, attach a small piece of rubber hose to the cold water faucet, run the other end of the hose down the sink spout, turn the water on full force, flush the pipes.

Strength at Its Best
The main token of a strong character is not to make known every change and phase in thought and feeling, but to give the world the finished result.—Auerbach.

TAILORED SUITS THE MAINSTAY; INTEREST IN BLOUSES REVIVED

THAT long-time mainstay of every woman's wardrobe—the severely tailored, plain, two-piece suit—has been conspicuous by its absence from the streets during the passing fall season. It has not lost any of its trim appeal, but styles have tended toward greater elaboration in day frocks and new lines in coats, and the novelty of these modes has compelled attention to them at the expense of the tailored suit. But anything so dependable and so chic cannot remain long in eclipse, and now new tailored suits are making their appearance and challenging other street clothes to comparison.

These new suits, while strictly tailored, have great variety and very interesting new style points. Plaid

Once again one may achieve almost any character of costume by acquiring a velveteen and a satin skirt, and with them a variety of blouses. The growing popularity of two-piece modes has revived interest in blouses and blouse makers have taken advantage of it by adding blouse-ensembles to their displays—that is, they present blouses with skirts to match in color, either of which can be worn separately. The displays include over-blouses, in simple and in formal types, costume blouses, tunic models, tailored and sports styles.

Materials featured in the less expensive models, for ordinary wear, begin with rayon fabrics, habibrighton and flannel and end with velveteen, satin and crepe; velveteen leading in inter-materials or combinations of plaid and plain goods are featured in many of them and pleasing new colors are employed, as cloud gray, blue spruce, flemish blue and bottle green. In plaid, grays predominate barred with white, green, yellow or blue, and occasionally, a fine line of red. But the staple dark colors are well represented as navy, brown and black.

For formal types tinsel brocade and other tulle fabrics, moire, chiffon velvet and satin are conspicuous. Finger-tip or wrist lengths are popular, along with high necks and long sleeves, but neck lines are much varied. Many tailored blouses have convertible collars that may be worn fastened up about the throat or turned down to form a small "V" shaped opening at the front.

One of the most popular models in dressy blouses is shown at the left of the two illustrated, where a tinsel fabric is used. The blouse is finger-tip length, with long sleeves and round neck. It is bordered with bands of georgette and velvet, in contrasting colors and trimmed with an applique are sometimes substituted for blouses. The ensemble idea is carried out in suits with plaid skirts, plain coats, lined with plaid, and vests in contrasting color. A snappy model of this kind is shown in the picture. Other suits made entirely of plaid material have shorter coats and are worn with blouses, but usually the coat is buttoned up at the front. There is a pretty fad for wearing a flower on the coat, repeating the dominant color in the bars that cross the material, thus a chrysanthemum in yellow is pinned to the right lapel on a gray coat with an inconspicuous bar in yellow.

Flannel and habibrighton, for sports and utility wear, are successful rivals of velveteen and washable crepes. They are made in varied, simple ways, with long sleeves and more or less high necks, which may or may not have contrasting materials in the collars. A pretty flannel blouse is pictured with belt and the of self-material and a crepe collar.

Biased Shoes
The straps on the newest pumps carry out the diagonal idea with the tongues and straps slanting from one side of the foot to the other over the instep. There is a tendency noticeable toward the high heel type of pump for formal wear.

Knitted Hats
The tam and beret seemingly are giving way to the diminutive, hook-stitched cloche for head coverings at sport gatherings. Many college girls are knitting their own shell stitch or other designs. The motifs are of geometric or flower designs.

Velvet Evening Coat
For winter wear nothing could be nicer than an evening wrap of geranium velvet with a collar of white fox.

A Softening Influence
The newest felt hats have crowns with folds or twists that take away the absolutely smooth and fitted look.

Pimples

What can I do?

"Oh, why can't I have a skin like other girls? Why do I have to have these ugly pimples, blotches and blackheads?"

"If I could only find something that would clear up my skin and give me back my soft, rosy complexion, I know I would be the happiest girl in the world! What can I do?"

Is that you talking? If it is, you don't have to worry a minute! Just build up the rich, red blood in your body. Then your skin will be as clear and soft as anybody's.

That's what S. S. S. has been doing for generations—helping Nature build rich, red blood! You can build red blood cells so fast that the impurities that cause breaking out on the skin hardly get into the system before the pure blood annihilates them—kills them right out—stays them from breaking out through the skin.

And then this rich, red, pure blood feeds and nourishes the tissues of the skin and keeps it looking healthy.

That's all there is to it. Healthy, vigorous, red blood such as S. S. S. helps Nature build. It makes you healthy all over. It beautifies your skin—drives away pimples, blackheads, blotches, rash, itchy and eczema—gives you back your appetite—builds firm, plump flesh and fills you full of new life and energy.

All drug stores sell S. S. S. Get the larger bottle. It's more economical.

Merry Christmas Time Here Again

Every One Is Filled With "Peace to Men of Good Will" Spirit.

By KATHERINE EDELMAN

CHRISTMAS has come again—the happiest, gladdest, merriest time of the whole year. (Did beta peal upon the air; holly wreaths and mistletoe are everywhere and hearth fires glow with a warmer welcome. Every home is filled with cheer, every face alight with happiness and every heart is tuned to catch the message of love and peace that is abroad. Men and women greet each other with added friendliness; little children stand eager-eyed and radiantly expectant. All humanity is filled deep with the desire to give, to receive, to love. A new bond of fellowship is encircling the world and uniting hearts together.

Today we are all one great, big family, watchful and solicitous about one another's welfare. The ties of home and kinship grow even more close—friendships are dearer—memories more precious. Our thoughts fly on eager wings to those who are absent—the vacant chair grows sacred in our eyes.

The very air is full of some strange, wonderful force that fills us with exhilaration and delight. Youth grows more tolerant of age and age looks with new understanding into the eyes of youth.

Jolly Old Santa

Streets are crowded with happy throngs—shops are filled to overflowing with gift seekers. Thousands of Christmas stockings are to be filled—thousands of older hearts are to be made happy because they are remembered. The gospel that it is more blessed to give than to receive is in evidence everywhere, and its practice is bringing radiance and beauty to every face. It is all wonderful, thrilling, inspiring!

Christmas has come again—its star is gleaming in the sky—its magic is all over the land! The young and the old, the gay and the wise have fallen under its spell. And every heart is singing the song of the angels—the song that echoed over the hills of Judea in the long ago—"Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men."

It Was Christmas From Home Folks

Post Office Employee Takes "Time Off" to Enjoy His Own Package.

By ELEANOR E. KING

IT WAS certainly not an easy job, for there is no such thing in a post office at Christmas time. But, it kept one's mind and hands occupied. To attend college is one privilege, but to be able to go home for Christmas is another. Charles felt it keenly this very moment. He had the first privilege—and was fifteen hundred miles from home. However, mid the rush and tumble of sorting Christmas packages, stacks of letters, and cards, he hardly had time to grope.

The postmaster could not understand how Charles could turn out so much more work than the others. It was all very simple. He eagerly searched every card, letter, or package to see whether or not it bore his name, hurrying on to the next one.

"I surely do get great fun out of this," burst forth Charles. "This one is heavy as lead, slides around in the box like a cake on a plate. Silence followed, broken only by the constant thud of the 'good will messages.'"

"I say," shouted some one across the room. "Your name is Lieder, isn't it? I was just cussing this heavy, bunglesome thing when I discovered the name."

"It's heavy," said Charles making a wild dash. "It rattles?"

An hour later, the postmaster making his tour of inspection, stopped open-mouthed, gazing at one corner of the room. There, sitting on the floor, was a sea of tissue paper, ribbons, stickers, and gifts. Kidding the robust of each wave were smiles. His radiant face was a joy to behold. The postmaster grinned. Charles felt some one looking at him and glanced up into the eyes of his employer.

"It is Christmas, Cap, from down home."

CHRISTMAS BONNET FOR MOTHER

How Sally Primpkins, Milliner, Proved She Could Be of Service.

By CHRISTOPHER G. HAZARD

WE LIVED six miles out of town, which was the main reason why Sally Primpkins could more walk out to us, but which did not necessitate the so-called in which the journey was made with that reckless contempt of other people's expenses which often characterizes some milliners. But we were glad to see her. For our holiday crisis in the matter of a new hat had become acute, and Sally had been called out to head the affair as an essential to our Christmas joy. Father and children agreed with mother that a new bonnet in the case would be the only possible cap for the climax of the season's happiness.

Sally was peculiar. She could take a piece of wire, some ancient flowers, a ribbon or two, a sprinkle of imagination, and produce a creation that beat Godey's Ladies' Book. She could easily do it and talk most all the time besides.

She could give the personal history of each inhabitant of a sphere of influence that extended for miles and not miss a point. She was very methodical in her management of her affairs, as was indicated by her distribution of "thank you" cards among her friends in advance of her anticipations of Christmas blessings. She was very economical in the matter of time, and began her supper before the blessing was over, because she thought it was too long. But everybody loved Sally, for though her description of herself as "a spun spinster" was appropriate to her years, we all knew that she still had in her kind heart an abundance of the yarn of life, as well as of the yarns of it.

Well, the Christmas bonnet was duly done, and it crowned its owner with the only city production in the congregation on the following Sunday. Probably it would not suit or excite the present generation, unless in the matter of laughter, but while the fashions of yesterday may now seem ridiculous, there is nothing to laugh at in the kindly and generous histories which they adorned.

Valet Evidently Feared the Worst

Prof. James H. Brewster, the noted Egyptologist of the University of Chicago, who is to excavate the ancient town of Armageddon, told on the Majestic a story about an absent-minded scholar.

"Doctor Salmon of Trinity college," he said, "was the most absent-minded man in the world. His family was always on pins and needles about him.

"Well, one day the doctor absent-mindedly took a pair of trousers out of his wardrobe and got them on, overlooking the brushed and folded pair that had been laid out on the bed for him by his valet.

"The valet entered the doctor's dressing room an hour or so later, and then rushed to the library, where Mrs. Salmon and the children sat.

"Mercy," he moaned, "the doctor has gone off to college without his trousers!"

Conquer Constipation with Yeast Foam!

For constipation try this: drop a cake of Yeast Foam in a glass of water; let stand for five minutes; stir with spoon; let settle and drink the milky water, including the white precipitate.

Do this regularly and your constipation—no matter how long standing—will be a thing of the past! Yeast Foam is equally effective for indigestion, boils, pimples, lack of weight and strength. Or, if you prefer, eat the yeast with a cracker or a piece of butter.

Diagram Showing the Ticker System Which is Really Better, Since It Provides a Certain Regeneration Control Over the Entire Wave-Length Band.

By BRAINARD FOOTE
in the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Five-tube tuned R. F. sets, home-made, are noted for their excellence of performance on short wave lengths and their failure on long waves. On wave lengths higher than 400 meters, reception of DX stations is seldom satisfactory, although locals, of course, are well received. Below this dividing mark reception improves, and in the vicinity of 300 meters is ordinarily very fine indeed.

Many well-made receivers, neotronics and other five-tube T. R. F. outfits are provided with an automatically varied device which increases the coupling for longer waves or otherwise varies the amplification so that long wave reception is as good as on short waves.

One of the most common methods adopted to provide equalized amplification in the two R. F. stages is to employ three 45-volt "B" batteries and a series variable resistance to permit varying the voltage and thus force the tubes into greater sensitivity by mere "brute" application of voltage from the "B" batteries.

Other methods call for variation of coupling by changing the position or number of turns on the primary windings of the R. F. transformers, but these methods are difficult, troublesome, and make it necessary to take the transformers out. One of the very best schemes consists in making the detector regenerative and is the method preferred by the writer.

Persons not interested in DX work need not touch this control and it may be left at zero.

Ticker on Variometer.

The regeneration may be added in two ways—with a ticker coil or with a variometer. The latter is certainly simpler, and to do it the circuit of Fig. 1 is followed. The detector (middle in the five-tube set) is quite simple. In that it does not mean installing a shaft and dial on the tuned R. F. coil. A ticker circuit with a fixed tickler coil and variable condenser for controlling the regeneration is given instead.

In making this addition it is necessary to remove the fixed condenser (C) mentioned in connection with Fig. 1, since this would "by-pass" R. F. energy needed for regeneration. The result is an improvement in both volume and tonal qualities, apart from the gain by using regeneration. The tickler coil itself consists of from 16 to 20 turns of wire of most any convenient size, preferably small, wound on a short piece of tubing smaller than the tuned R. F. coil.

Care must be taken that in inserting the tickler its wire cannot come into contact with any of the binding posts, soldering lugs or wire already on the coil, and, moreover, it is to be situated at the filament end of the coil (N).

This can readily be determined by noting which end of the coil is connected to the unmovable plates of the variable condenser and also to the grid condenser, shown between the coil (N) and the (G) post on the socket.

If the tickler (T) is wound in the same direction as (N) the ends of (T) will be connected as indicated. In case of doubt (T) can be inserted one way and, if no regeneration results, it can be taken out, turned around and inserted the other way. The variable condenser (C) is preferably an instrument already mounted and located outside the set.

Later on, if you like the results, you may install this extra condenser on the panel, with an external knob or dial. The size of the condenser (C) is not of especial importance, since, if it is too small, more turns can be used on coil (T) and, if too large, some taken off.

The regular 23-plate condenser is suitable. One of its terminals is connected to the tickler (T), while the other goes to one of the "A" battery binding posts or to any convenient point on the filament circuit. The wire used should be insulated to avoid accidental contacts and the connections ought not to be too lengthy.

Operation.

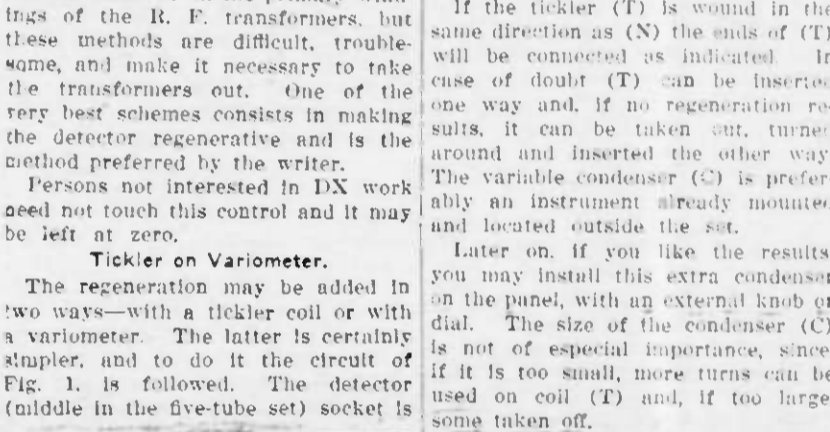

Making the detector regenerative in this way permits you to employ the whistle to tune for DX stations. The set must be carefully neutralized to prevent radiation, but even then it is better not to allow the detector to oscillate when you are on the wave length of any local station simply because there is a chance that you might interfere with some one.

When the "whistle" has been heard and the R. F. diode neutralized, the capacity of condenser (C) is reduced until the whistle ceases. A slight touch of the tuning condenser for coil (N), the detector coil will bring in voices or music. On long wave lengths it will be found necessary to increase the capacity of (C).

And on short wave lengths it may be necessary to set (C) at zero. Where the natural period of the antenna interferes with reception around 220 meters, as it so often does, the regeneration control will offset this trouble.

Where it is never necessary to use more than a quarter or a third of the capacity of (C) to produce regeneration the tickler should either have fewer turns or should be moved partially out of the set (N). In case regeneration cannot be obtained on the high wave lengths it follows that the tickler should have more turns.

On account of the two stages of tuned radio-frequency in such a set the added "feedback" for making the detector oscillate will be very slight and much less than the amount of regenerative action required where there is only one stage of tuned radio-frequency. The difference in sensitivity on waves formerly sort of "dead" is truly astonishing.

Regeneration May Be Added by Following This Diagram.

shown and to the right of it the audio transformer for the first stage. The connections originally were according to the dotted line from the plate or "p" terminal of the transformer.

A fixed condenser is usually connected across the primary of the transformer from "P" to "R". This instrument is labeled (C) in the figure.

The variometer is inserted between the plate (P) of the socket and the (P) post of the transformer. It may be placed outside the set or on top of it, and the wires to it should be well insulated to prevent any short circuits. Manipulation of the variometer will make the detector oscillate and will cause a whistle. When moved slightly to stop whistle the best condition of regeneration is found and will result in a remarkable increase in sensitivity.

The variometer, however, is not quite as satisfactory as it might be, but the method is proposed for the benefit of those in position to try the method. The tickler system is really better, since it provides a certain regeneration control over the entire wave-length band, whereas the variometer does not always do so with complete satisfaction.

Ticker System Is Simple.

This plan is shown in Fig. 2. (N) is the third neutroformer or tuned R. F. coil which is connected to the detector. In front of it is shown its associated variable condenser. To the right is the detector socket and to the extreme right the audio transformer, as in Fig. 1.

The tickler system suggestion is

RADIO NOTES OF INTEREST

A weak but clear signal is much better than a loud distorted one. Except for the intercepting clouds, the fading of signals is still a mystery.

When using radio frequency amplification, it is best to have a potentiometer across the "A" battery.

Do not run a lead-in from the front of the house to the rear; the building absorbs energy.

Do not use a hydrometer in a lead cell, and then try it with a nickel iron cell. It will ruin the latter.

The use of the "B" battery in radio equipment is to create and hold a steady flow of current in one direction.

The vacuum tube is made up of three elements—filament, grid and plate—which are the vital parts of a receiving tube.

France has the largest, most efficient and most powerful wireless equipment in Europe.

Missouri was the first farming state to erect radio broadcasting stations for market reports.

It is a violation of a city ordinance of Newark, N. J., to erect an antenna without a permit.

The United States army has a radio transmission apparatus, capable of sending 100 words a minute, and recording the messages in a saw-tooth ink line on a tape.

A sharp bend in a wire not only offers a good point for energy to be radiated from, but it also changes the resistance of the wire. All wires should be led directly to the proper terminal without bending, if possible. Where it is necessary to bend a wire at right angles, use round-nose pliers or some other tool to make the curve a large one.

By putting a penny in the slot of a radio receiving machine in London, passers-by may listen in for five minutes on a concert from a broadcasting station to which the instrument is permanently tuned.

"They're well all the time. The doctor says they are the healthiest children he knows."

"He told me constipation is what makes so many growing children sickly. Poisons from the waste matter spread through the little bodies, and lower their resistance to disease. So I'm very careful to guard against constipation. I simply give them a little Nujol every night."

"Nujol isn't a laxative at all, you know, but it keeps them just as regular as clockwork. They like it, and the doctor says it's just the thing for them."

Nujol helps Nature in Nature's own way

Mothers are the best friends of Nujol. When their children's health is at stake they seek the remedy that medical authorities approve because it is so safe, so gentle, so natural in its action. Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach and is not absorbed by the body. Nujol simply makes up for a deficiency—temporary or chronic—in the supply of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular elimination, without overtaxing the intestinal muscles.

Nujol can be taken for any length of time without ill effects. To insure internal cleanliness, it should be taken regularly in accordance with the directions on each bottle. Unlike laxatives, it does not form a habit and can be discontinued at any time.

Ask your druggist for Nujol today and let your children enjoy the perfect health that is possible only when their elimination is normal and regular.

RESULTS OF CO. HEALTH CLINICS

One hundred twenty-one people were examined at the series of free chest clinics conducted in Washington county last month by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, and sixteen cases of tuberculosis were found. The largest number of examinations were made at Slinger where 45 people were examined. Two of these had tuberculosis and four of them organic heart disease. The large number of simple goiter and the comparatively small number of badly decayed and neglected teeth were the outstanding findings at this clinic, 24 cases of simple goiter, 16 of them in children were found while only five cases of decayed and neglected teeth were discovered. An unusually large number of cases of psoriasis were discovered. It was also found that some attention should be paid to vaccination. Eleven of the people examined showed no vaccination scars.

At West Bend 38 people were examined and eight cases of tuberculosis were found. Other findings included: 7 cases of badly decayed and neglected teeth; one case of tonsils and nine of "suspicious" tonsils; 18 of simple goiter, 19 of which were in children; and 5 cases of nose and throat trouble. Five out of the 38 people examined needed vaccination and they were urged to have this attended to immediately, and 25 were referred back to their physicians for various disorders.

Two cases of heart disease and three cases of tuberculosis were found among the 29 patients examined at the Kewaskum clinic. Underweight among the children who attended the clinic was very noticeable, seven cases of serious underweight being noted. There were 14 cases of simple goiter, of these 15 were in children; 10 cases of "suspicious" tonsils, and seven cases of decayed and neglected teeth.

At South Germantown 9 people were examined and one case of tuberculosis was found.

RAISING OF BACON HOGS SUGGESTED

Hogs have for many years been the source of a part of the income of the farmers and by no means a small item. The farm value of the hogs in the county last year was about $300,000. Many more hogs would be raised here if we were certain of the corn crop and enough home grown feed to put a finish on them. This uncertainty therefore reduces the number of hogs that normally would be grown here with the other existing conditions.

We have had to quite an extent a change in the type of meat generally demanded by the public. Lean cuts are being demanded more than they were some years ago and it is quite certain that there shall be an increased continued demand for them. This does not mean that there is a demand for the poor unfinished types of lard hog, nor does it mean that these desirable lean cuts can be taken from a lard hog which has not the desired finish.

It means that we will soon find another type of hog playing an important part, namely the bacon hog. Bacon hogs have for years been raised in England, Denmark and some of the other European countries. They are grown to some extent in Canada and have just started to be grown to some extent in Wisconsin. Several counties are starting bacon hog production on quite a large scale and there is a place for this industry here.

For the most part we have the proper kind of feed to grow hogs in this state, but our corn crop is uncertain, sometimes as this year, we could finish hogs well, but other years we lack the corn to finish. Bacon hogs do not require the finish that lard type hogs do and neither do they require as much time and feed to finish them. Our state and our county are adapted to this type of hog for this reason. We cannot compete with the corn belt in lard hog production but we can grow fine bacon hogs as has been demonstrated in several counties this year.

We have a few bacon hogs in this county but we should have more. We should have enough to make it possible to ship them by the car. Certain packers are offering a premium of 75 cents a hundred on this type of hog. Therefore it is necessary to raise them extensively enough in a locality so that they can be shipped direct to these packers.

This project is worth consideration, think it over, and if you are interested let me know and I will come out and talk the bacon hog proposition over with you and if possible bring a man from Denmark along who is a bacon hog expert.

H. W. Geiffaus, Co. Agent.

OLIVER OCTOBER

By GEORGE BARR McCUTCHEON

A MYSTERIOUS Gypsy fortune teller foretold the future of Oliver October Baxter on the day he was born.

She predicted for him much of the good things of life—love, wealth and power.

But angered by some slighting remark, she turned fiercely to Baxter, senior, and shouted: "But that is not all!"

What else she predicted furnishes the framework for one of the most dramatic plots of all the popular novels by George Barr McCutcheon.
