WASHINGTON COUNTY LEADS IN DAIRY PRODUCTS

For the last five years, this dairy county has maintained the honor of having the highest average producing cow testing association among the associations of the state. Although Wood county leads in the number of associations in the state, Washington county ranks second in spite of the fact that it is only half as large as the former county. At least 2,500 cows have been entered in the county's seven cow testing associations which have been patronized by 204 farmers. Associations have their centers at Farmington, Richfield, Rockfield, West Bend, Wayne-Theresa, Allenton-Kohlville, and Slinger.

SUFFERED UNUSUAL ACCIDENT NEAR SLINGER

H. A. Fenske, 615 Sycamore St., Milwaukee was in the Hartford hospital the forepart of the week, as the result of an exceedingly unpleasant experience. Fenske was returning from Fond du Lac, on his way to Milwaukee last Saturday afternoon, and when two miles from Slinger at 5:30 p. m. stopped to let some cars pass. The next link in the chain of events composing the story was not made by Fenske, but the drivers of six cars, who were held up by his car stalled on the highway. The drivers of the six cars honked their horns, then again in impatience, and again in anger. Finally when their efforts and their horns proved unavailing to stir the car which seemed to be cemented to the road ahead of them, they got out to investigate. The reason for the stalled car was partially accounted for when they found Fenske sitting behind the wheel apparently in a trance, and at least unconscious. His rescuers took him from the car to a nearby farmhouse to which Dr. Kauth of Slinger was summoned. The latter conveyed the young man to the Hartford hospital, where he remained unconscious for an hour. His condition was caused by having sprained his neck. He was taken to his home in Milwaukee on Wednesday. Fenske was about 35 years of age and is said to be a carpenter by trade. His car was hardly damaged in the collision which had resulted in his unusual injury.—Hartford Press.

ANOTHER BLIZZARD HITS THIS SECTION

This section of the state was again swept by another blinding snow storm on Monday. Though not as much snow fell as did last Thursday, the high wind which accompanied the storm made traveling on highways impossible, as the drivers were unable to see only a few feet ahead of them. In some places it was found where cars were driven head-on into deep snow banks, others ran off into the ditch, and again others were stranded along the road, and were either towed to a near-by garage or were taken to a near-by farm home. Through the Wisconsin Bus Line had men at work with the company's large snow plow since last Thursday opening Highways 55 and 15, no buses have been able to make their regular run up to this writing. From Monday until Wednesday, the Republican House in this village and other hotels along the highway were crowded as many of the travelers had to abandon their trips until such time when roads were again passable.

TWO-FISTED JONES

Love is the greatest moving force in the Universe. In life and on the screen it causes men to perform feats of daring that their normal selves would shun. In "Two Fisted Jones," the Jack Hoxie starring vehicle at the Kewaskum Opera House, Hoxie's impelling motive is a love for a rancher's daughter. Without a bit of exaggeration and without being untrue to life it causes Hoxie to move through the fastest series of surprising action that this whirlwind Western star has ever essayed. He tries to find a man who never existed and instead bumps into a villainous plot against his new found sweetheart's father. This starts him into action that does not belie his name of Two-Fisted Jones. Several hand to hand fights, a gun battle and feats of horsemanship seldom equalled on the screen are some of the actions that Hoxie goes through to bring the story to a happy ending. Edward Sedgwick, one of the best known directors, has charge of this picture and put all the delicate touches in it that has made him famous. Supporting Hoxie is Kathryn McGuire, a dainty incentive to all Hoxie's daring acts. Other members of the cast are Wm. Steele, Harry Todd, William Welsh, Frank Rice, Byron Douglas, Frederick Cole, Edward Burns, Art. Ortega and Tom Grimes.

MEMORIAL

In sad but loving memory of our loved husband and father George Meilinger, Sr., who passed away one year ago March 7th, 1925: If we had seen you at the last, And held your dying hand, And heard the last sighs of your heart We would not feel so bad; We did not know the pain you had, We did not see you die; We only knew you passed away, And never said good-bye, We loved him, but angels loved him more, The golden gates were opened, A gentle voice said come, And with farewell words unspoken, He calmly entered home, No one knows the silent heartaches Only those who lost can tell, Of the grief that's borne in silence For the one we loved so well. Sadly missed by wife, Mrs. Anna Meilinger and children.

ABOUT DOGS

How much do you know about dogs? One dog, a dozen dogs, or just dogs in general? If your knowledge is limited then you'll surely want to read about Barea, that extraordinary wolf-dog. And if you've known dogs all your life, then you won't want to miss what James Oliver Curwood has to relate in his book about this unusual half-breed canine. "Barea, Son of Kazan" chronicles the adventures of a wolf-dog, borne of Gray Wolf, the blind. Kazan, if you have not read the earlier story, was the bad dog, the half-wolf, the killer, the best four-legged friend a man ever knew. "Barea, Son of Kazan" starts in this issue of the Statesman. Begin it and you'll read it all the way through.

GOOD HEALTH NECESSARY

Many Busy Women Owe Their Health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fifty years ago there were few occupations for women. Some taught school, some did housework, some found work to do at home and a few took up nursing.

Today there are very few occupations not open to women. Today they work in factories with hundreds of other women and girls. There are also women architects, lawyers, dentists, executives, and legislators.

Mrs. Elizabeth Chamberlain who works in the Unionall factory making overalls writes that she got "wonderful results" from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped other women, why shouldn't it help you?

BAREE, Son of Kazan

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD

PART DOG, PART WOLF This striking story of the Canadian wilderness is not so much a sequel to it as a successor to James Oliver Curwood's dog classic, "Kazan." And it stands on its own merits. It is a dog story, but it has all human elements that make it good reading—love, adventure and fighting.

Chapter I To Baree, for many days after he was born, the world was a vast gloomy cavern. During these first days of his life his home was in the heart of a great windfall where Gray Wolf, his blind mother, had found a safe nest for his babyhood.

Baree, of course, would never know their story. He would never know that Gray Wolf, his mother, was a full-blooded wolf, and that Kazan, his father, was a dog. In his nature was already beginning its wonderful work, but it would never go beyond certain limitations.

Still slowly, as if not quite sure of what he would find, Kazan came to them, and Baree snuggled closer to his mother. He heard Kazan as he dropped down heavily on his belly close to Gray Wolf. He was unafraid—and mightily curious.

This all happened in the third week of Baree's life. He was just eighteen days old when Gray Wolf allowed Kazan to make the acquaintance of his son. If it had not been for Gray Wolf's blindness and the memory of that day on the Sun rock when the lynx had destroyed her eyes, she would have given birth to Baree in the open, and his legs would have been quite strong.

work. His instinct was not quite born until then. And when Kazan went away, leaving them alone in darkness, Baree whimpered for him to come back, just as he had cried for his mother when she and then she had left him in response to her mate's call. The sun was straight above the forest when, an hour or two after Kazan's visit, Gray Wolf slipped away. Between Baree's nest and the top of the windfall were forty feet of jammed and broken timber through which not a ray of light could break.

Everywhere He Looked He Could See Strange Things.

Now this blackness seemed breaking itself up into strange shapes and shadows. Once he caught the flash of a streak above him—a gleam of sunshine—and it startled him so that he flattened himself down upon the log and did not move for half a minute. Then he went on. An ermine squeaked under him. He heard the swift rustling of a squirrel's feet, and a curious whut-whut-whut that was not at all like any sound his mother had ever made. He was off the trail.

Dr. Samuel Johnson used a bludgeon rather than a rapier in his repartee, as some anecdotes about him by Charles Hopkins Clark in the North American Review show. On one occasion, on a Sunday, a pompous acquaintance, whom he did not like, came up to him with, "Doctor Johnson, we have had an excellent dinner today."

Mr. Cholmondeley stopped the carriage in which Johnson was riding and attempted to speak to him, but got no attention. Someone said, "Here is Mr. Cholmondeley." "What if it is?" said Johnson, and went on reading a book.

Modest Philanthropist A philanthropist, feeling that his end was approaching and not desiring any publicity for his kind acts, advertised in the newspapers and offered a prize for the best hint of how to dispose of his property.

when at last he stopped, there was scarcely a breath left in him. But he stood up quickly on his four trembling legs—and blinked. A new terror held Baree rooted there. In an instant the whole world had changed. It was a flood of sunlight. Everywhere he looked he could see strange things. But it was the sun that frightened him most.

And it was a wonderful world—a world of vast silence, empty of everything but the creatures of the wild. The nearest Hudson's Bay post was a hundred miles away, and the first town of civilization was a straight three hundred to the south. Two years before, Tusso, the Cree trapper, had called this his domain. It had come down to him, as was the law of the forest through generations of forefathers; but Tusso had been the last of his without family; he had died of smallpox, and his wife and his children had died with him.

Following the sun of this first wonderful day came the moon and the stars of Baree's first night. It was a splendid night, and with it a full red moon sailed up over the forests, flooding the earth with a new kind of light, softer and more beautiful to Baree. The wolf was strong, he and he was restless. He had slept that day in the warmth of the sun, but he could not sleep in this glow of the moon. He moved uneasily about Gray Wolf, who lay flat on her belly, her beautiful head alert, listening yearningly to the night sounds, and for the tongue of Kazan, who had gone like a shadow to the hunt.

What an appealing little wild creature is this Baree—part dog, part wolf!

RADIO

The Wiring Diagram for Five-Tube Radio-Frequency Receiver.

By EDWARD SPIEGLER, In New York Herald-Tribune.

For a dependable, trustworthy radio broadcast receiver, one that will work consistently night and night out without fuss or bother, the writer here believes it is difficult to find one more desirable than a straight five-tube, three-dial tuned radio-frequency set constructed with efficient condensers and tuning coils and equipped with standard accessories.

Parts Required. The average constructor will have no difficulty in assembling the set with the aid of ordinary hand tools. The parts required are a panel 7 by 24 inches, of any good insulating material; a half-inch thick wood baseboard of the same dimensions, three 300-volt 60-cycle frequency condensers, three dial sets to fit same, one 575, and one thirty-ohm resistor, one double and one single circuit telephone jack, five standard tube sockets, grid condenser and leak, two auto-frequency transformers, one battery switch, one binding post strip and the usual busbar and other incidentals.

The sockets for the R. F. tubes occupy the space between the variable condensers and a little to the rear of them. The detector socket is in the extreme upper right corner of the baseboard, and is followed by the A. F. transformers and tubes winding along the back edge of the board.

Showing Parts Needed for Pie-Pan Antenna Arrangement. The other end is connected to the antenna binding post of the radio set. If wave length is too high or tuning is broad, insert a folded piece of newspaper or piece of cardboard between phone and pie pan.—Radio Digest.

Learn How to Solder Before Building Set This business of soldering radio sets is easy once you get the knack of it. If possible to use an electric iron it will be found that soldering becomes still more child's play.

The Wiring. The wiring of the R. F. and A. F. stages is more or less orthodox in nature. The three variable condensers are connected directly across the respective secondaries of the Lemnis coils, with stationary plates going to the grids of the tubes and rotary plates to the filament circuit.

Burnt Tubes Useful Use your burnt-out tubes as a battery connector. Break the glass, solder leads from the battery to the wires inside the brass shell and all the shell with sealing wax. Now connect the battery leads from the wiring of the set to a socket arranged conveniently on the back of the cabinet. It is a simple matter then to "plug in."

Best of Insulation Is Necessary for Results The field of radio is so new and there is so much as yet that we do not understand, that mistakes are being made every day by radio fans in building their own receivers.

Sugar From Linen There is now in Germany a manufactory which turns out daily 1,000 pounds of pure white sugar made from old linen. An understanding of the process helps somewhat to dispel the unpleasant feeling we experience on hearing of the fact. Clean old linen is vegetable fibrin, and when treated with sulphuric acid, it is converted into dextrin. This is washed with lime water, then treated with more acid, and it changes almost immediately, and crystallizes into glucose or grape-sugar, which is so highly valued in the making of rich preserves and jellies.

"Good Morning" Club The cheery smile and warm greeting of Police Constable Smith on point duty in Johannesburg have led to the formation in that city of a flourishing Good Morning club. Members pledge themselves as follows: "As a member of the Good Morning Club I undertake to say a happy 'Good Morning' to everybody."

PAYS PENALTY FOR NEGLIGENCE

A trade journal brings a picture of a fireman whose accusing eyes pierce the harassed face and glaring eyes of a factory mnger after the factory has burned down.

"The picture tells the story of a manager who took a chance, just one chance too many, a hane which is causing lifeless forms of faithful employees to be dragged from the ruins, a hance which quickly turned his factory into a roaring furnace, a chance which blots his career.

This manager took that chance. He is beginning to pay the price, just beginning, for through the days yet to come he will be tormented by the nightmare which was of his own begetting.

What will be the penalty? He sees more than the ruins back of him and the red helmeted fireman in front of him.

He is watching the newspapers with their message of death and destruction for which he is to blame.

He is looking into desolate homes which mourn the loss of dear ones for whose lives he was responsible.

He knows what relatives, dependent upon their bread ining, are thinking of him.

This wrecked and harassed manager is considering his company officials. He wonders if they can longer afford to keep one whose negligence has brought them such heavy losses in precious lives and property.

He stands by ruins caused by his careless thinking and habitual chance taking.

How he suffers no man knows except those who have gone through similar experiences."

Nearly always there is a day of final, frightful accounting for chance takers. Too late they learn not to gamble with other people's lives, their company's property, and their own reputation.

Above all, those in charge of places of employment, public assemblage and accommodation, and places of detention cannot afford to take chances on any fire hazards. Remedy or remove them before it is too late.

Further, take no chance to go without hand fire extinguishing equipment such as proper chemical fire extinguishers, water barrels and pails, etc.

Take chance with other's lives and other's property.
Industrial Commission.

They advertised for experienced help and got only a few responses, and they have orders on their books awaiting delivery and business to keep them running full time for the whole year, and are now anxious to secure help to turn out the gloves.—Cedarburg News.

GETTING UP NIGHTS

Is One of Nature's Danger Signals. A Healthy Bladder Does Not Act at Night

Irritation, excessive acidity or abnormal deposits may be the cause. It needs cleansing. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) acts on the kidneys and bladder as Epsom Salts on the bowels. R. D. Neblett, 10 Oak St., Battle Creek, Mich., says: "For three years had to get up three times at night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) helped me in two days. I now heavy work." It isn't a patent medicine. The formula is on the label. Sold by leading drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally by Edw. C. Miller.

GALLERY MARSHALS DISCONCERT STARS

Shouts From Officials Disturb More Than Spectators.

More disturbance of golfers during important matches comes from gallery marshals and golf officials than from spectators, said a leading tournament player in commenting on the recent charges that Bill Melhorn at the San Antonio open rattled Bobby Cruickshank on the final green so that he took four putts and missed one of ten inches to tie Macdonald Smith for the title.
This player cited several instances in which official persons had disconcerted players at critical moments, but did not recall any case in which an unruly gallery had offended seriously. Players always are expecting some slight motion and mumbling by spectators and steel themselves to ignore it, but the outburst of an official at a critical moment is so unexpected that it has the effect of spoiling a stroke.
A shining example of this was the play at the thirty-sixth hole in the final of the national amateur championship at Flossmoor club, Chicago, two years ago. Jess Sweetser of New York, defending his title against Max Marston of Philadelphia, was at the lower corner of the sloping eighteenth green of the long hole in two splendid shots and had to go down in two more to stave off defeat.
It was a tense moment and the large gallery was a trifle restless but made no unseemly movement or noise. Sweetser set himself for the task of chipping the ball up the grade dead to the hole 30 yards away. Just as he was ready, after careful preparation, to hit the ball an official yelled "Fore."

The champion threw down his club and whirled around with a despairing look, as though he had been struck in the face by a friend.
He had been upset by a digestive disturbance during the round, but despite this and the act of the official, he composed himself enough to make the shot and then sink a half stymied sidehill putt to carry the match to extra holes. It might have been the reflex of this mental jolt that caused him to misplay the thirty-eighth hole and yield the title to Marston.

Ball Player Refused to Accept Home Run Clout

Baseball players ordinarily are about as willing to give up base hits as Henry Ford is to quit making flivvers. Consequently Springfield (Ill.) fans were handed a real shock when Buster Chatham, one of the big favorites of the team, refused to accept a home run last season.
Buster, on his first trip to the plate, had been robbed of a homer by a circus catch by a Peoria fielder, who crashed into the left field fence to spear the drive. On his next attempt Buster sent the ball a mile. As he rounded first he saw the fielder against the fence and immediately started to walk to his place in the outfield.
The visiting first and second basemen told him to keep on traveling around the bags, but Buster had been kidded before and refused to listen even when his own coacher frantically called to him.
Manager Bill Jackson had to rush wildly from the dugout and order him to complete the round before he could be convinced that he had got a home run.

Pilot Dave Bancroft

Dave Bancroft, the great shortstop, has proved himself a capable manager and yet has still maintained his fielding excellence and even improved his batting percentage. Fans are looking forward to the battle of Bancroft's Braves and Hornsby's Cardinals with the habitual league leaders for first-division berths this year as one of the thrills of the baseball season.

Fly-Weight Champion

Frank Churchill, who brought Pancho Villa out of the Philippine Islands to the United States and to a victory over Jimmy Wilde, and to a fly-weight championship of the world, has annexed another entry from that island in the person of Clever Sencico, who, he claims, will succeed to the late Villa's crown very shortly.

Infielder's Unique Record.

"Chris" Christy, infielder, had a rather unique record in the Eastern league last season.
Christy played with three different clubs during the campaign. He was with Pittsfield, Bridgeport, Albany and Springfield. Moreover, he played three different infield positions—second, third and short.
At each station he hung up almost identical averages. He had a mark of .304 at second, .352 at third and .355 at short.

Waddell Strike-Out King

In striking out batsmen "Rube" Waddell was the greatest pitcher the game has had since the pitching distance and other restrictions were placed upon the hurler. "Dazzy" Vance is a wonder in this line, but Waddell was better. With terrific speed he could flash the ball by a batsman before he could get set. In a game played August 15, 1905, against the St. Louis Browns Waddell fanned nine batsmen in a five-inning game.

Sporting Squibs

Frank Judson, well known professional wrestler, is a graduate of Harvard.
Stakes and purses amounting to $12,000,000 will be distributed on the American turf this year. These prizes are the richest of any country in the world.
Harry Clark, manager of the Milwaukee club of the American association, handed his resignation to Otto Borchert, president, and it was accepted.
Danny Boone, veteran infielder of the St. Paul club of the American association, was traded to Kansas City for Ferdinand Schupp, left-hand pitcher.
University of California oarsmen, including varsity, second varsity and freshman eight-oared crews, will row against University of Washington at Seattle April 9.
Grant Gillis, University of Alabama football star, will play with Birmingham this year. Gillis is considered a better shortstop than Joey Sewell was when at the university.
Syracuse, like Cleveland, will endeavor to make its stake for two-year-old trotters worth $20,000. This large purse is expected to attract exceptional light harness horses.
Gleason McNally, captain and hard-hitting second baseman of the Oklahoma City team of the Western league, has been sold to Oakland of the Pacific Coast league.
Glenn Wright of the Pirates played every inning of every game during his 1924 debut season, a rather unusual feat for a rookie.
The Lawn Tennis club of Nice, France, famous for its international tournaments during the winter season, possesses 21 excellent courts.
Final arrangements for an exhibition game between Scotch and English teams have been made at a meeting of the Washington Soccer league.

Farmers everywhere are turning to "U.S." Blue Ribbon Boots and Overshoes!

The "U.S." Blue Ribbon Walrus slips right on over your shoes. Its smooth rubber surface washes clean like a boot. Made in red or black, 4 or 5 buckles

THIS is why. "U.S." Blue Ribbon overshoes and boots are built with thick, oversize soles, tough as an automobile tire. Into the uppers goes rubber so elastic that constant bending won't crack it. Anchored in this rubber are the strongest of reinforcements. Look for the "U.S." Blue Ribbon when you buy. It will pay you!

SIMPLE FROCKS FOR SPRING; SUMPTUOUS COSTUME BLOUSE

AS IF to accent their gay patternings by way of contrast, many of the now-stylish silk print frocks are detailed with solid colored borders and trimmings. This idea should make definite appeal to the home dressmaker, for it is a simple way of gaining much effectiveness. This popular fabric combination particularly lends itself to the designing of the modish long sleeve.

The model pictured owes its attractiveness to the unique cascade trimming of the silk print bordered with a silk of solid coloring. This silk, which is of American origin, has an interesting bit of history in that the artist who designed it took for his institchery, is the costume blouse as styled for the spring season. It would seem as if genius had drawn upon all the resources of the world of art and handicraft for "ideas" to appropriate as its own in the designing of the modern tunic or blouse. According to the stylists' way of thinking no color is too gorgeous, no stitchery too complex or ornate, no fabric too magnificent for the making of the blouse which is destined to shed its glory upon many a spring ensemble costume.

If you have a treasured panel of Chinese embroidery, if your friend across seas has remembered you with gift of gay peasant cross-stitchery. If you have in your possession a length of colorful metal brocade, board them no longer in the secret recesses of your faithful chest; try, far better let them serve in the cause of a handsome and costly looking blouse.

For the woman of fashion who is planning a new and elaborate blouse the models in the picture should prove inspirational. The one to the left has a panel of bois de rose suede cloth introduced simulating a vestee form. The embroidery on the cloth and the heavy crepe de chine which forms the rest of the garment is in multicoloring with a preponderance of metal thread work.

Silver metal cloth elaborately patterned in stitchery and with a discreet showing of beadwork in connection with colorful metal flees, produces a blouse model of fascinating design, as shown to the right in the illustration.

Quite a little hand-painting appears on the dressy satin blouse. The blouse of all-over lace dyed to match the suit with which it is worn is also registered among whimsical types. As to the blouse of gay silk print or brilliant plaid, its vogue is already assured. Very charming with the spring tailleur is the vestee or blouse of fine tucked or plaited flesh-colored satin.

INEXPENSIVE DISHES

"Inexpensive" has come in these days to be used as a matter of comparison, rather than the adjective it once was, for nothing these days is really inexpensive.

Dried Apple Cake.—Cook two cupfuls of dried apple until tender, drain and cook with two cupfuls of molasses with spices to taste for twenty minutes. Cream one-half cupful of shortening with one cupful of sugar, add two well beaten eggs, three cupfuls of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful each of soda and salt and two tablespoonfuls of milk; add the molasses and apples when cool, beat well and bake in a moderate oven.

Fried Mush.—Corn meal mush should have a long slow cooking. Put on iron frying pan with a quart or more of water, when boiling add a teaspoonful or more of salt, add the cornmeal a handful at a time sifting it carefully, stirring the water all the time; when a cupful of corn meal has been added to about three pints of water let it cook; if it seems too thick add more water—boiling of course, and let it cook for at least a half hour. This makes the mush good flavored and well-cooked. Any mush not eaten may be poured into a buttered mold and set away to harden. Slice and fry and serve with breakfast bacon.

Southern Hoe Cakes.—Add a teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder to one and one-third cupfuls of corn meal. Beat the yolks of two eggs, add a cupful of milk, and beat the whole mixture hard for a few minutes, then fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Drop by spoonfuls into a hot, well-greased frying pan, cook like griddle cakes, allowing plenty of time for cooking, turn and brown on the other side. Serve with crisp fried bacon or ham.

Graham Puffs.—Take two cupfuls of graham flour and four cupfuls of boiling milk, one teaspoonful of salt. Mix and roll out and cut into inch thick biscuits. Bake in a hot oven. If the oven is hot they will be very light.

Tomato Pilau.—Cut one-fourth pound of bacon with a small chopped onion; when the bacon is well cooked add a pint of tomatoes, salt and pepper and half a pound of well washed rice. Stir the rice into the tomatoes when boiling hot, then steam until done.

Oxtail Soup.—Cut the oxtail into pieces and fry in hot fat. Add two pounds of lean beef, four carrots, three onions, sliced, a bunch of sweet herbs, cover with cold water and simmer until the meat is very tender; strain, reheat, thicken with two tablespoonfuls each of flour and butter cooked together and thinned with a little soup. Cook until well done and serve hot.

Household Hints.
When using a large Southern onion and but a bit is needed, cut it without peeling and turn the cut side down on a plate. In this way it will keep fresh for days.

A bunch of parsley or mint well washed and still dripping with the cold water, placed in a mason jar and covered tightly will keep for two weeks in a cool place. It may need rinsing with water once during that time, but will stay fresh and green.

Take the spiced sirup left from pickled peaches and add to the mince meat when making a pie.

Save all canned fruit juices—even a tablespoonful will add to pudding sauces or fruit cocktails, baked apples, or adds to lemonade for a cooling drink.

Apple juice and pulp, rhubarb as well, added to more expensive fruits will extend the more delicate flavor such as raspberry, pineapple or strawberry, reducing the cost of the fruit.

Sprinkle dried and buttered bread crumbs over spinach or string beans, just before serving, adding paprika and celery salt for seasoning.

A slice of pineapple, a quince or an orange will add zest to fruit of mild flavor.

Cranberries are another good fruit extender; added to strawberries the color is always brilliant.

Add a few spoonfuls of horse radish to the pickle jar. It not only adds flavor but keeps the vinegar in good flavor.

A handful of fluffy kernels of corn added to any soup will make it look and taste better.

Corn Flake Griddle Cakes.—Sift together one cupful of pastry flour, one-half teaspoonful of soda, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, and half a teaspoonful of salt; add one cupful of corn flakes. Beat one egg very light, add a cupful of thick sour milk, half a cupful of sweet milk and two tablespoonfuls of shortening. Mix and bake on a hot griddle.

To Brighten Dark Room
For the gloomy or small dark room: It is best to use fabrics which have a highly lustrous finish. Richly-colored damask fits nicely into such a room. Artificial silk is suitable for draperies when a Chinese rug is used. Taffeta is another suggestion.

CLASSROOM WHISPERINGS

Editor-in-chief: Bernice Perschbacher.

Assistant Editor: Ocelia Gath.

On Friday night, February 19, the West Bend second and third basketball teams met the local first and second teams at the Opera House. The West Bend third team proved victorious over our second team, the final score being 17 to 20. The West Bend second team, however, had to do some snappy work in order to keep up with the local five. Throughout the game our team proved to be superior. Their passwork and team work was of the very best. The final score was 10 to 22 in our favor.

On Friday the 26th our first team journeyed to West Bend where they played the second team in the new high school gym. 25 of the students followed the teams in a bob and helped root for the team. The game was very exciting. Both teams worked hard evidently each was determined to get the victory. The first half ended 8 to 15 with West Bend in the lead. Our boys came back thoroughly convinced that when the final whistle should blow Kewaskum should be in the lead. There were but two minutes left to play and the score was 20 to 21 in West Bend's favor when Warnkey, the referee, called a personal foul on West Bend. This entitled Wietor to two free throws. The audience could be seen holding its breath for these shots meant either victory or loss for Kewaskum. Wietor took the first shot and made it; took the second shot and made it. All the crowd was in an uproar and still half a minute left to play. No further baskets were made by either team and the game ended. The final score was 21 to 22 Kewaskum in the lead.

The boys have been working hard the past week for they expect to make a good showing at the tournament which is to be held in the Y. M. C. A. building at Fond du Lac on March 18, 19 and 20.

Tonight, Saturday, March 6, our girls and boys teams will meet the Campbellsport teams at the Opera House. The games promise to be some of the most exciting ones that have yet taken place this year. Let's all help the teams by showing our good sportsmanship. Games called at 7:45 o'clock.

The students that have entered the local declamatory and oratory contests are busy memorizing their selections. Next week the work of presentation will be started.

The Physics class has been busy studying the electric bell and the telegraph. The latter proves to be very interesting and the members of the class already know how to send secret messages.

A general atmosphere conducive to work and good fellowship has been presiding in school for the past few weeks. The students have been accomplishing very much work, and then there is always present the pep and school spirit which plays such an important part in the school curriculum. Kewaskum High School, we feel, is offering very much competition in all sports for other schools and we know that we are gradually reaching our goal.

When You Get to Florida

HAINES CITY UNITY

HAINES City is emphatically a "pull-together" town. It has the two unities which spell civic progress. They are Unity of Conception, and Unity of Action.

The people here have got the Right Idea. They see a bright present and a wonderful future. There can be no mistake about the present. Things are going ahead, steadily, confidently, resistlessly. The city has momentum. Nothing can stop its advance. In fact the future is as certain as if it were here now, for the leaders of the city are men with imagination. That is how the invisible becomes visible, and how Haines City is taking shape according to the pattern.

The second unity is the Unity of Action. All sections of the people work together. There is no dis-unity—no clique at war with another clique—no interest seeking a selfish domination. Everybody is for the city, well knowing that as the city prospers they cannot but prosper with it. So they pull together—the City Officials, the Banks, the Mortgage Companies, the Lawyers, the Storekeepers, the Realtors—all bent on making Haines City what it ought to be, and what it will become.

"What Happened to Jones"

A joke's a joke but "What Happened to Jones" after he backed down the fire escape into the steam room of a ladies Turkish Bath will make you sit up and howl with unalloyed joy from the minute the film is unreeled. It's a typical Denny joy-maker with that inimitable Denny touch of farce that keeps you screaming with laughter and delight.

"The Far Cry"

Adapted from Arthur Richman's Play by Katherine Kavanaugh, with Blanche Sweet, Jack Mulhall, Myrtle Stedman and Hobart Bosworth

It's a far cry from a roaming husband in New York to a roaming wife in Paris—a cry of longing that rings over all distance and tugs at all hearts until it finds the one. Only those who have heard the love whisper can tell. You'll see why New York cheered this stage success and find yourself cheering too. New York paid $5.50 to see it as a play. Not often do they make 'em to hit as hard as this, but they've done it this time, masterfully! See the Venetian pagasat turn to flames and the mad escape of lover and beloved in the gondola that had been their trysting place. The Roman Banquet and many other scenes are shown in natural colors lasting about fifteen minutes.
