"LINDY" TO BE SHOWERED BY MAIL

As requested by President Coolidge, the Kewaskum post office co-operated with other post offices of the nation in carrying out a unique plan designated to give Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, New York to Paris aviator and national hero, one of the biggest receptions ever awarded a citizen of the United States. Post Master Erwin Koch, the local post office, has been the recipient of the most week gift to each patron of the local office circular letters in which the United States postoffice department urged each person interested to forward a message of greeting to Lindbergh by airmail. The postoffice department acted upon a suggestion of the President who believes that in view of the fact that Lindbergh was connected with the department as an air mail pilot, no more fitting tribute to his heroic accomplishment could be paid by that department than the presentation to him, upon his arrival at Washington, of thousands of air mail greetings from his fellow countrymen. The cost of sending a letter by air is 10 cents.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF MOON WILL OCCUR ON JUNE 15

June promises to be a Roman holiday for those astronomically inclined. A third event of astronomical interest will be the close approach of Pons-Winneck's comet on June 12. The lunar eclipse will begin at 12:40 a. m. central standard time, June 15, when the moon enters the shadow of the earth's shadow. A dark patch will appear on the east limb of the moon gradually overspreading it until the eclipse becomes total at 2:14 a. m. Totality ends at 2:35, and at 3:06 a. m. the moon will be entirely out of the shadow.

STATE LOSES TAX APPEAL

Washington—Wisconsin and Minnesota failed in the supreme court Monday in an effort to re-open the controversy over the validity of taxes imposed by them upon banks. In separate proceedings brought by the First National bank of St. Paul, the court held recently that the taxes imposed by the two states upon national banks were prohibited by federal law because greater than those imposed upon competing moneyed capital. A rehearing was denied Monday.

The Wisconsin suit involved the bank stock tax plan, the tax commission of the state contending that bank should be taxed on a basis of capital stock and the banks contending they should be taxed on income so as to put them on an equitable tax basis with competing capital.

FORGES CHECK --ARRESTED

Arthur Haufschild of Milwaukee, formerly residing on a farm located about two miles east of Kewaskum, and who in 1925 inherited $15,000 when his son Roy, aged 3, died of poisoning, was arrested at Milwaukee on Tuesday on a charge of forging a check to the amount of $15.00. The Milwaukee Sentinel under date of Wednesday, June 8th issue gives the following account:

"Penniless and out of work, Arthur O. Haufschild, 30, of 2313 Fond du Lac avenue, who in 1925 inherited $15,000 when his son, Roy, 3, died of phosphorous poisoning, was arrested yesterday on a charge of forging a check for $15.

"Haufschild, whose wife, Hilda left the money in trust for her boy when she died in 1923, with a stipulation that in the event of Roy's death the legacy was to go to the father, was questioned following the death of the child.

Charge Was Dismissed

"He was arrested on a warrant charging murder Jan. 19, 1925, one day after the boy died, but the charge was dismissed by Judge George E. Page in District court when Haufschild was arraigned on Jan. 20.

"Haufschild was arrested yesterday by Detective Al. Karnitz and Hogarth Phillips. A check, signed Louis Schmitt and indorsed with Haufschild's name, was given to John Busch, 922 Teutonia avenue, who was unable to cash it and turned it over to Dist. Atty. Eugene Wengert.

Squandered Money

"The man told Deputy Dist. Atty. George A. Bowman he had 'squandered' the $15,000 I inherited on my son's death and I am now out of work, and my family is badly in need of money."

WILL PUBLISH NEW COUNTY ATLAS

J. H. McClain, representative of the W. W. Hixon and Co., map and atlas publishers of Rockfield, Ill., was in the village Tuesday, in the interest of getting things lined up for publishing a new county atlas of Washington county. At the last session of the county board $300.00 was appropriated for the publishing of the atlas. Mr. McClain met with the village council on Monday evening when matters pertaining to the atlas were discussed. Just what changes if any will be made in Kewaskum, has as yet not been definitely decided upon. The last atlas published in this county was in 1915. Quite a number of changes have taken place since then, and the old atlas is therefore very inaccurate.

MILK TRUCK ROLLS DOWN 50 FOOT EMBANKMENT

Edward Dreher, truck driver for John F. Schaefer, who hauls milk for the A. & P. condensary at West Bend, had a very narrow escape from serious injury and possible death early Sunday morning, when the two and one half ton Kissel truck which he was driving, rolled down a fifty foot embankment. The accident happened a few rods north of the John Krell farm home about 5 miles northeast of Kewaskum. Mr. Dreher had just left the Krell place, an when he got to the foot of a hill, the steering knuckle of the car broke, causing the machine to go into the ditch, when it rolled over three times, finally landing upside down, with Mr. Dreher beneath the same with hands still on the steering wheel. He was able to extricate himself, and with the exception of a few minor scratches escaped injury. The truck was loaded with 60 milk cans, 9 of which contained milk, all of the cans were strewn along side of the embankment, and none of them were damaged. The cab and the side racks with the exception of the one next to the cab were completely demolished. The rack next to the cab which remained in position on the truck, is the one which prevented the machine from lying flat on the ground, thereby saving the driver from being crushed to death. With Mr. Dreher at the time of the accident was Miss Irene Uelmen of St. Michaels, who drove along with him for a ride. She was thrown out of the cab when the machine turned over the first time. She received a fractured rib. Both occupants can congratulate themselves upon their miraculous escape. The truck was not badly damaged and was able to be driven home on its own power.

"THE MAGICIAN" AT THE MOVIES

Ivan Petrovich, the young Serbian actor who has the leading male role in Rex Ingram's production of "The Magician," coming to the Kewaskum Movies tomorrow, Sunday, was born at Novi Sad in Serbia. He was educated at Bucarest, Belgrade and Prague. Petrovich studied to become an architectural engineer. Having a good voice and a natural talent for music he also studied violin and voice at the Conservatoire of Prague in his spare time.

At the start of the war he enlisted and served as an officer in the Royal Serbian Cavalry. He was with the King of Serbia when he was obliged to evacuate the country.

Following his discharge, Petrovich returned to Belgrade to continue his studies, but found the city in such a terrible condition he went on to Paris, where he studied music and made his operatic debut. He met with great success and sang in Paris, Berlin, Vienna and many other European cities.

His first appearance before the camera was in a French film in 1924. Since that time he has established himself as one of the most popular of European leading men and is recognized as one of the most handsome and talented. He is six feet tall and weighs 160 pounds.

Among the recent European successes in which he had leading roles were "Koenigsraek" and "La Chateleine du Liban" (The Lady of the Castle of Liban). In the latter film he appeared opposite Arlett's Marchal, who was recently signed by an American company to appear in feature roles.

Pays Way With Milk

The most ingenious way of working one's way through college, we believe, is demonstrated by a senior in a West coast university. He entered as a freshman accompanied by a cow. He started a milk route at once, and now owns three cows and does a flourishing business.—The Outlook.

Spendthrift in Youth Pathetic in Old Age

He sat waiting in the outer room of a busy office. He had been sent to pick up a package and deliver it to his employer.

He was an old man whose dull eyes and gnarled, shaking hands proclaimed him entirely out of the picture of modern business. But he had to stay in the game, for even an old man, not so very strong, a little heavy of hearing and slow in his feet, must earn his living when he has no other means of support.

Some place back in the years, this old man was young and virile. His eyes were alert, his feet moved swiftly. He had a way with him. Those were the good old days of prosperity and good times. There was a fine pay check every Saturday and a bunch of good fellows to go out with on Saturday nights. Ah, yes, those were the days!

But it's different now. The good old days have gone. An old man, with nothing back of him and pathetic as Lear, is shuffling through an errand boy's small responsibilities.—Thrill Magazine.

Destroyed Currency

A fat sum of $1,000,000 is carried on the books of the United States treasury as "unknown-destroyed," according to Paul Kinkead in an article in Liberty. This, he explains, attempts to account for all currency that is lost or destroyed, but, as he says, "A much greater percentage of paper money is lost than is shown on the books—how much, the treasury has no way of knowing."

Beam Wireless Is Scientists' Goal

Directing Waves in Sharply Defined Beam, Like Searchlight, Not Likely.

By DR. J. H. DELLINGER
Chief of Radio Laboratory, Bureau of Standards.

The conspicuous success of broadcasting frequently gives rise to speculation as to the possibilities in other applications of radio. The waves from a radio station have a natural tendency to spread out in all directions. Broadcasting, as we have it today, is the culmination of development of the nondirectional property of ordinary radio waves.

From the early days of radio it has been a goal of scientific imagination and effort to concentrate a beam of radio waves in one direction like a searchlight. The possibilities of individual communication and of navigational aids and control, if such a thing could be done, are fairly obvious. We are so accustomed to think of a parabolic reflecting arrangement of radio waves could be partially directed in a desired direction. With such an arrangement the intensity of the waves along the desired direction was several times that at angles greater than 30 degrees from that direction. With waves of the order of 3 to 10 meters in length a reflecting arrangement of practical size can readily be constructed and the waves can be transmitted distances of several thousand miles.

From this beginning, reflecting arrangements of improved types have been developed by American and other experimenters, giving the evolution of the so-called beam system. The beam system has been adapted for practical use, particularly by Great Britain. Beam stations are carrying regular radio traffic between England and Canada, and other beam stations are being erected for communication with other parts of the British empire. In these stations wave lengths up to as great as 100 meters are used and the reflecting devices are very large, straight rows of antennas. Instead of relying upon a parabolic arrangement of reflectors the currents in the various wires of the straight row have their phases so adjusted as to reinforce radiation in a particular desired direction and diminish it in other directions.

New Short Wave Discoveries.
Certain things have been discovered in the realm of high frequencies or short waves in the last year or two which give renewed interest to the possibility of using beam methods for communication between one point and another. Very short waves exhibit the phenomenon of skip-distance, that is, beyond a short distance around the transmitting station there may be a zone of several hundred miles where the signal cannot be received and beyond this there will be another zone of a certain width where the signals come in very well.

If now it were possible to confine such waves sharply along a given line from the transmitting station, the area where they could be received would be limited in two different directions and thus the signals from the transmitting station would be receivable at just one limited area on the earth's surface.

By suitable control of the wave lengths and times of transmission this system would permit the putting of a message down at any desired spot on the earth. The trouble is that beams cannot be sent out anywhere nearly sharply enough to accomplish this. The dream of radio as a means of individual and secret communication between persons at any two desired places on the earth thus fades away.

It is in the realm of navigational aids that directional radio has attained greatest success. The directional finder is a device now well known to mariners. In its simplest form it is merely a coil of wire which indicates the direction from which a radio wave is coming merely by turning the coil and listening to the variation of the intensity of the received signal.

Simplifying Terms to Make Radio Understood

Understanding radio largely is a matter of simplifying terms. Once things are digested in their simple terms, the more complex terminology and expressions are not nearly so confusing.

The expression "wave-length ratio" often puzzles the average radioist, and needlessly so, because it is a fundamental matter. And circuit combination has a minimum and a maximum wave length, above or below which it cannot reach. Usually the better the circuit, and this includes the units of that circuit as well, the higher the maximum is and the lower the minimum. The wave band which this set is capable of receiving is that much broader.

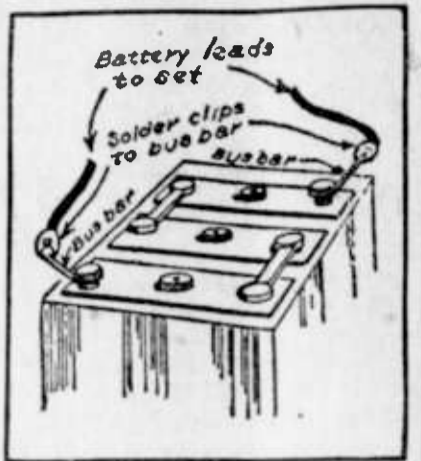

Instead of speaking of a circuit's efficiency in terms of the difference between maximum and minimum, or stating those limits, it is customary to express a radio. If the tuning range runs from 175 to 540 meters, for instance, the ratio is 3.1. This would be

Here is a Simple Way to Avoid Corroded Contact

At some time or another most set owners have been bothered by noises which were first attributed to static, then to loose connections and finally traced to corroded terminals of the "A" battery, or perhaps the "B" battery, if a storage "B" battery is employed. All of you probably have noticed upon examining your storage battery that a whitish substance forms on the positive terminal and that this eats into the wire or clip to which the wire is attached.

The most common way of overcoming such corrosion is to scrape the battery terminal and the connecting wires and to cover both with grease so that the air cannot get at the surface.

Here is a method which not only eliminates corrosion entirely, but also keeps the connecting wires so placed that the acid fumes of the battery cannot destroy their insulation. The process is a simple one and the materials needed are only some six-inch pieces of bus bar, a soldering iron and some solder. A piece of bus bar is soldered to each of the battery terminals and the clip on the lead wire is then fastened to the other end of the bus. This keeps the contact connection a good distance from the battery and keeps the wires where the fumes cannot reach them.

Values of Grid Leaks for the Best Reception

The first and probably the most common use of high resistances is to be found in detector circuits as grid leaks. In order that the vacuum tube may function at its highest efficiency it is necessary that the grid leak shall be of proper value, and, moreover, that it shall remain constant under all conditions both operating and climatic. There is much loss of energy and considerable distortion of the reproduced sound if the grid leak is not of the proper value at all times. Furthermore, if the grid leak varies in resistance value, which has heretofore been the case with the inked-paper type, there is danger of considerable noise in the reception. Fortunately, when once the correct leak has been found, it may be left permanently in circuit since there is no need with present-day detector tubes of altering this value.

The following table, prepared by the engineering staff of the International Resistance company, gives the correct values for metallized resistors employed as grid leaks with the usual detector tubes:

Type Tube	Aver. for Weak DX Signals	Grid Leak Values
200	0.5-2	3-5 megohms
199	2-5	5-9 megohms
WD 11 or 12	2-4	4-7 megohms
201A	2-5	5-9 megohms
200A	1-3	3-5 megohms

Since the plate voltage has somewhat to do with the value of the grid leak, it goes without saying that the higher the plate voltage on the detector tube the higher the grid leak value. However, it is well to have several resistors of different values on hand to experiment for the best efficiency.

Rejuvenating Plan Is Not Wholly Practicable

While it is true that some radio fans have had success in the process of rejuvenating tubes, nevertheless it is the opinion of many experts that this plan is not wholly practicable. Doubtless the success of such a plan depends upon the rejuvenating equipment used as well as the ability of the operator to use it properly. Many make a mistake in overloading the tube without following it up with a gradual period of overloading. In some cases just the reverse is the situation, as, for instance, where the radioist decides to give the old tube a 20-minute period of just moderate overloading, falling to give it a good shot of power at the outset.

Water Not Good Conductor

Chemically pure water is a rather poor conductor of electricity. Water that contains minerals or acids is a far better conductor than water which is free of all impurities.

preferred to a lower ratio of, perhaps, 2.5.

The expression "capacity ratio," so puzzling to many, follows the same general scheme, except that it is the ratio between the two extremes in the values of whatever capacity units is being considered. The capacity unit has both a minimum and maximum capacity value. In radio one does not compare capacities by expressing their extremes, but uses the ratios for comparison.

Radios Help Ships

Columbia Sets New Long-Distance Flying Record

Berlin.—For the second time in little more than a fortnight an American airplane has spanned the vast Atlantic and landed safely on the European continent.

The nonstop flight of the Bellanca monoplane Columbia, piloted by Clarence D. Chamberlin with Charles A. Levine as his companion, ended at Eisleben, Saxony, 110 miles southwest of Berlin, at five o'clock Monday morning (midnight New York daylight-saving time) when the fuel supply was exhausted.

Taking the air again, the flyers made a brave attempt to reach Berlin, but apparently lost their way in the cloudbanks and adverse winds encountered during the morning and came down at last in a marshy field at the village of Kilg, near Kottbus, Brandenburg, 70 miles southeast of the capital. In alighting the propeller hit the ground and the wheels of the Columbia settled into the marshy ground and further progress was impossible. The plane had traveled 120 miles from Eisleben and, if headed in the right direction, would have landed at Berlin. The flyers failed to achieve their goal, Berlin, but they established a new long-distance sustained flight record, having covered about 3,800 miles from Roosevelt field, New York, to Eisleben.

ARRANGEMENT OF FOOD

One might write many chapters on food garnishing and color blending of foods. Most housekeepers are too busy to spend much time or thought on the elaborate garnishing of food; but all food may be carefully served in a dainty manner and with some sort of symmetry which enhances its appeal to the appetite and adds to its appearance.
When serving pork or mutton chops, place on the platter one overlapping the other. Around the edge, if it is lamb being served, put a border of watercress and serve some with each chop. If it is pork being served, a border of overlapping sliced fried apples, which have been cored before slicing.
If boiled rice is to be served with any meat, butter a small cup, press the hot rice into it and unroll on the platter around the meat. Mashed potatoes seasoned and put through a ricer make a most attractive garnish to any meat platter.
For a supper dish, creamed salmon in the center of a hot platter, sliced potatoes around as a border and a spray of greens on the edge, will make a most appetizing dish.
We all know that the more pleasing food is to the eye the more quickly it is digested, as the fluids in the mouth are started more freely.
Small croquettes of rice served with a cube of jelly on each are delicious with fowl or a roast.
When serving creamed meat, or fish a vegetable border or combination of vegetables whose color and flavor blend may be used. Peas and carrots, beans and beets and other vegetables will be found to add to the appearance of a dish.
Fried bananas served with a hamburger steak is not only an attractive but a tasty dish.
Fruit and vegetable fritters are a good food and a fine garnish. One often finds it necessary to extend the amount of meat, when unprepared; with a few fritters, the meal is made suddenly satisfying.
Slices of hard cooked eggs as a garnish around a platter of seasoned spinach is well known and always enjoyed.
For more elaborate garnishing a pastry bag and tubes will be required. Mayonnaise, whipped cream, mashed potato, cheese, and various combinations of any of these in a pastry bag, will afford many ways of decorating foods. The red and green pepper, cut into various forms or minced, added to lettuce will make brilliant color to add to various dishes.
Relishes of different kinds such as pickles, horseradish, chutney, all make tasty garnishment. Sliced radishes, fried celery, nuts, all are effectively used.

Do You Know That?

A teaspoonful or more of vinegar added to a boiled or pot roast or any meat cooked in the oven will make it much more tender; The adding of a bit of sugar to most roasts also improves them?
Minced dill pickles added to a potato salad makes a welcome change, also added chopped to salad dressing for many different salads?
Loaf sugar rubbed over the rind of an orange will absorb the oil and the sugar if kept covered is always ready to drop into a cup of tea?
Boiled and mashed carrot makes a fine pie, prepared the same as pumpkin pie?
A quarter of a teaspoonful of cinnamon added to a freezer of chocolate ice cream gives it a most delightful flavor, also a pinch added to a cupful of chocolate?
Wooden skewers with a cloth wrapped round the end will dislodge any dust in window panes or corners of woodwork?
Stains on linen if rubbed with soap and moistened with peroxide when placed in the sun will quickly disappear? If the stain is of long standing, repeat several times keeping the spot moist with soap and peroxide.
Burns from acid should have ammonia applied or soda and water at once.
Fresh blood stains if quickly covered with starch will, when dry, brush off leaving no spot?
Glossy clothing rubbed with a fine piece of sand or emery paper will look like new?
It will improve a mutton or lamb roast to pour a glass of current jelly over the roast just before serving?
Scorched places on linen will, if not too badly burned, be removed by wetting and placing the linen in the sun?
Hot milk with a teaspoonful of sulphur stirred into it, makes a fine gargle for sore throat?

Bigger Babies

In a letter to the Journal of the American Medical Association, a New York clothing manufacturer asserts that his company has been forced to increase the size of the dresses for one, two and three-year-old children. Persistent complaints that the necks of the dresses were too small have come to him during the past year for the first time in thirty years' experience. Most of the complaints came from California. This seems to show that the size of American babies is increasing. Californians may now point to another benefit of their glorious climate.

South Carolina Tract Made Bird Preserve

President Coolidge, by a recent order, has set aside a tract of about 2,350 acres in Jasper county, South Carolina, as a preserve and breeding ground for native birds. The area embraces certain abandoned rice lands belonging to the United States and abutting on the Savannah river, near Savannah, Ga., and is to be known as the Savannah river bird refuge.
The new reservation has been placed under the administration of the biological survey of the United States Department of Agriculture. It will be unlawful for any person to hunt, trap, capture, disturb or kill any bird or wild animal of any kind whatever, to take or destroy the eggs of any such bird, or to injure, molest or destroy any property of the United States within the limits of the reserve, except under such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Department of Agriculture.

FARMER WOMAN IN OKLAHOMA

Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Because It Gave Her Health and Strength

In a sunny pasture in Oklahoma, a herd of sleek cows was grazing. They made a pretty picture. But the thin woman in the blue checked apron sighed as she looked at them. She was tired of cows, tired of her tedious work in the dairy. She was tired of cooking for a household of boarders, besides caring for her own family. The burdens of life seemed too heavy for her failing health. She had lost confidence in herself.

One day she began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her general health began to improve. She took it faithfully. Now she can do her work without any trouble, sleeps well and is no longer blue and timid. This woman, Mrs. Cora Short, R. R. 9, Box 387, Oklahoma City, Okla., writes: "Everybody now says: 'Mrs. Short, what are you doing to yourself?' I weigh 135 and my weight before I took it was 115. I have taken several bottles of the Vegetable Compound."
Other women who have to work hard and keep things going may find the road to better health as Mrs. Short did, through the faithful use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Ask your neighbor.

The fight for business leadership is no monkey business in this day and age, as is evidenced by the latest report from commercial centers—and which has to do directly with the future of towns exactly the size of KEWASKUM

It has been learned that the big mail-order houses now maintain a department, the duty of whose staff is to read weekly newspapers from all over the country and continually make a survey of the different districts to learn of mail-order selling possibilities.

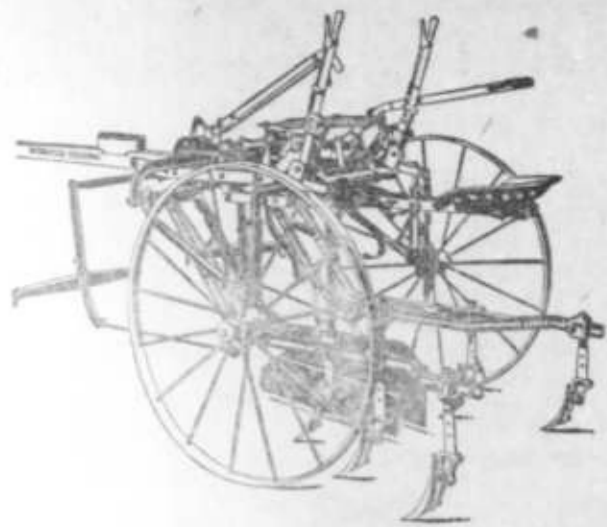

And, it is a fact—that immediately that department finds a town or country wherein the local merchants are not using the local paper to advertise their merchandise to the trade—that district is immediately flooded with catalogues—because it is virgin territory and the mail-order houses have learned that they can do GOOD businesses there.

We pass this information along to business leaders of KEWASKUM and assure them that all of our support is of course with them. We maintain a local advertising service which can be used to advantage—and for such service we make no extra charge. Come in or phone and we will call. Business goes to those who go after it.

You Can Use This McCormick-Deering Cultivator on All Your Row Crops—

Corn, Cotton, Beans, Etc.

ONE of the biggest reasons for the popularity of this cultivator is its adaptability to all row crops. Growers find it ideally suited for cotton cultivation. And when the beans, corn, and other row crops need cultivating they ring the New 4 in on that work as well.

Another reason for the New 4's popularity is the fact that a 12-year-old boy can operate this cultivator all day, dodging stalks or hills out of line, with perfect ease. Such easy operation makes long days seem shorter by taking most of the fatigue out of the work.

Whatever your row crops or soil, count on the McCormick-Deering New 4 when you need a new cultivator.

Doings at Our State Capital

Madison—The Polakowski bill providing for licensing automobile drivers has been passed by both the senate and assembly and now goes to the governor. The assembly's concurring vote was 66 to 11.

Salient points of the drivers' license bill are: All motor car drivers must be licensed and the license runs continuously. Application for the license is made with application for the motor car license.

Owners of cars are not required to pay a license fee for the drivers' license, but non-owners must pay 25 cents. Physical examination not required except in cases where deficiency is suspected.

The secretary of state must revoke the license on recommendation of a court of record. Causes for revocation include operating a car while intoxicated; conviction of operating a car with gross negligence or showing utter disregard for life; conviction of fleeing from the scene of an accident after injuring a person, or without giving name and address; mental and physical incompetency.

The bill by Senator Robert Caldwell of Lodi for a 4-cent gasoline tax has been killed by the senate, 16 to 8. The killing of the measure is believed to mean the end, for the present, of efforts for a big boost in the tax.

The senate had previously voted enactment of the Caldwell bill, but the fear of scaring away tourists led to the defeat when it came up for final passage.

The Michigan bill aimed to prevent admission of University of Wisconsin law school graduates to the practice of their profession in this state without having first passed the state bar examination failed in the assembly by the margin of a single vote.

The senate passed unanimously Senator Cassman's bill calling for advanced courses to be taught in rural schools in districts where there are no high schools.

The senate killed Assemblyman Hitts' bill which would tax the personal property of college fraternities and sororities.

A bill granting circuit court judges of Wisconsin an increase in salary from $3,500 to $5,000 a year has passed the senate by a vote of 14 to 10.

With but one dissenting vote, the senate passed Senator Southoff's permanent registration bill over the veto of Gov. Zimmerman. The bill is sponsored by the Wisconsin League of Women Voters.

A bill calling for decision boxing contests in Wisconsin passed the senate without sufficient opposition to command a roll call. The bill provides for decisions by two judges, with the referee deciding in case the judges disagree.

The budging bill prohibiting the state board of control from causing the manufacture and sale in open market of tombstones has been passed by the assembly. Assemblyman Budlong charged that the state quarry from which this material is obtained yields granite of an inferior quality for monumental products because of its iron content which discolors. The state made product injures the reputation of an important industry of the state, he explained, because the prison made product is being turned out of material of building stone grade.

Establishment of a state garage and repair shop is proposed in a bill by Assemblyman Coleman, Milwaukee socialist, which was passed by a 40 to 31 vote in the lower house. The bill would appropriate $250,000 for construction and equipment of the garage and $50,000 as a revolving fund to purchase fuel and repairs.

A judiciary committee bill, providing for submitting to a vote of the people in 1928 a proposal to make the state railroad commission an elective rather than an appointive body, was killed in the lower house.

A bill by Senator Titus abolishing the office of state oil inspector and transferring to the state treasurer the administration of its duties through a force of men throughout the state, was referred to the assembly finance committee for recommendation before consideration in the lower house. The senate passed the bill 25 to 2.

Madison—An order of the state railroad commission granting a utility the right to abandon street car lines in Madison against the desires of the city council, was held invalid by Circuit Judge A. G. The utility, the Madison Railway Co., contended that the state railroad commission laws permit the commission to order abandonment of the lines, but Judge Zimmerman ruled that such laws do not take precedence over the older law concerning franchises.

The bridge will be built at the location proposed by the two cities. The Michigan highway commission will prepare the plans, and the cost will be shared equally by both states. The probable cost of the bridge was estimated at $400,000 to $500,000. It will be of steel, with a 40-foot roadway and a 6-foot sidewalk on either side.

Madison—Wisconsin has one of the most successful co-operative tobacco marketing organizations in the world, in the opinion of Henry H. Bakken, agricultural economist at the University of Wisconsin, and its greatest opportunities for improving the industry are yet to come. Prof. Bakken reviewed the history of the co-operative since its organization more than five years ago, and declared that the average prices per pound of tobacco returned by the pool during the five-year period were higher than growers have received since 1890, with the exception of the war period, 1915 to 1920. Increases in prices resulting from the co-operative approximate $1,000,000 a year, he said.

MAY FLY COLUMBIA BACK FROM GERMANY

U. S. Aviators, After Nonstop Record, Missed Goal Only by a Few Miles.

Cottbus.—Clarence Chamberlin may fly the Columbia, New York to Berlin airplane, back to the United States, after a tour of Europe. Chamberlin made a formal announcement to this effect at Klingen, where his plane was forced down by lack of fuel and engine trouble.

A new propeller was rushed to Klingen from Berlin following receipt of specifications of the broken propeller. When this was mounted on the Columbia, Chamberlin was to complete the 65-mile journey to Berlin by air, escorted by German scouting planes.

The Columbia's time-table showed that it was forced down at Elsbethen after flying 3,905 miles, a new nonstop record, and continued its flight, got lost for the second time, finally landing when the gasoline again gave out in a swamp near here.

The wheels dug a deep rut in the oozing soil, tipping the monoplane over and the edge of the propeller snapped off.

The Americans were given a rousing reception by the citizens of Cottbus, a town of 50,000 inhabitants, which little dreamed of the honor that was to be thrust upon it.

Washington.—The distinguished flying cross, the highest honor which this government may confer upon an aviator, will be awarded Clarence Chamberlin for his New York-to-Germany flight.

He will also be recommended for the congressional medal of honor and will return home aboard a warship. It was decided in informal conferences among officials.

Hoboken, N. J.—Mrs. Clarence D. Chamberlin and Mrs. Charles D. Levine sailed on the liner Berlin for Bremen to join their husbands.

Washington.—Transoceanic airplane service carrying freight and passengers was brought materially nearer by the Chamberlin-Levine flight to Germany, Washington officials said in hailing the accomplishment with great rejoicing.

The possibilities for long distance commercial air travel which the 3,905-mile nonstop flight of the Bellanca plane demonstrated, were stressed in the expressions of officials who look upon the second conquering of the Atlantic in a little more than two weeks, as greatly advancing America's prestige as an aviation nation.

Led by President Coolidge, officials were quick to dispatch congratulatory messages to Chamberlin and Levine, and the government likewise joined in messages to the wives of the aviators wishing them speedy and safe voyages to join their husbands.

The President's message was transmitted by Secretary of State Kellogg to the American embassy at Berlin, which was instructed to deliver the following message in the President's name to Clarence Chamberlin: "Congratulations upon your wonderful feat in setting a new nonstop record in conquest of the air. Our country rejoices with me in your safely making first sustained flight from America to Germany with our greetings to its people."

Washington.—Washington's greatest celebration will be the homecoming reception it plans to give Capt. Charles A. Lindbergh, when he lands here Saturday.

Big guns will boom a salute to the young flyer as soon as the cruiser Memphis arrives in sight and for more than 50 miles as she steams up the Potomac, the cruiser will be escorted by a veritable canopy of 50 army and navy airplanes of all types led by the dirigible Los Angeles.

At the navy yard, where Lindbergh will land, practically every soldier, sailor and marine in the district will be mobilized as a guard of honor to escort him in the triumphal procession up Pennsylvania avenue to the Washington monument, where at least 100,000 persons will have gathered to witness the presentation of the distinguished flying cross by President Coolidge.

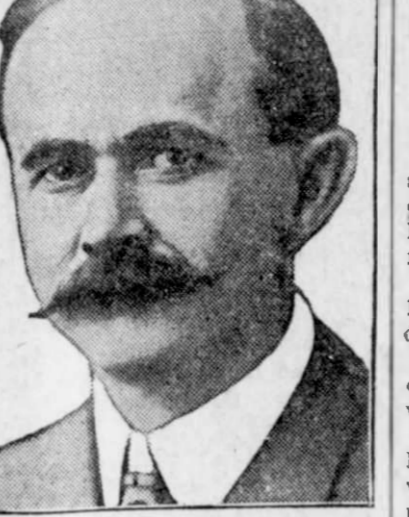

Police officials, anticipating the greatest crowds along Pennsylvania avenue in their history, are making all sorts of preparations to protect Lindbergh from overenthusiastic admirers, and their fears appear to be justified, judging from the demands pouring in upon the official committee in charge of arrangements that the route of the parade be lengthened in order that all who wish may have a chance to see Captain Lindbergh. As a result, the parade may continue after the formal reception at the monument grounds to the temporary White House, where the flyer and his mother are to be the guests of President and Mrs. Coolidge.

$600,000,000 SURPLUS MELLON'S PREDICTION

Reduction of $1,200,000,000 Probable in Public Debt.

Washington.—A government surplus of more than $600,000,000 is predicted by Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, who announced that unexpected payments into the treasury will bring the figures for the fiscal year ending June 30 to a much higher mark than had been anticipated.

Secretary Mellon's estimates of the treasury surplus have invariably been conservative. In view of this, it is confidently stated in well-informed quarters that the surplus may go as high as $700,000,000. In spite of his conservatism, however, Mr. Mellon's prediction is $200,000,000 more than that of President Coolidge and other government officials.

The President, through the White House spokesman, declared two months ago that the surplus would be approximately $400,000,000, but he had not been apprised at that time of the large items paid into the treasury since. Mr. Coolidge was extremely wary of the forecasts of a $500,000,000 surplus which were coming from members of congress.

By virtue of the surplus this year, reductions in the public debt will probably approximate $1,200,000,000, according to Secretary Mellon. This will mark the most successful year of the Coolidge administration in carrying out its policies of retiring the public debt as rapidly as possible.

While the enormous surplus is looked upon with wide satisfaction, eyes of congress are turned upon the outlook for the coming fiscal year. It will be on returns beginning July 1 that the tax reductions will be saved. However, the trend of business is such that a $300,000,000 tax cut will be possible.

The tax cut is occupying most of the attention of those having to do with income finances of the government. The surplus of this year is taken by some as an indication that there has been no lapse in business activity.

Lindbergh Gets Langley Medal for Ocean Flight

Washington.—Additional high honors were heaped upon Charles A. Lindbergh as he moved across the Atlantic ocean on the cruiser Memphis, homeward bound after his epochal flight from New York to Paris.

The Smithsonian institution awarded him the coveted Langley medal, which in the nineteen years since its establishment has been given to only four others, Orville and Wilbur Wright, Glenn H. Curtiss and Gustave Eiffel, a Frenchman. Lindbergh's citation reads: "For his magnificent nonstop flight from New York to Paris."

A finance committee headed by U. S. Senator F. M. Dockett has appealed for a relief fund of $100,000.

3,000 FLEE AS NEW FLOOD HITS CAIRO

Numerous Towns Menaced by Sudden Rise—Demands U. S. Action.

Cairo, Ill.—Three thousand refugees are being cared for at Red Cross camps following a sudden rise of the Mississippi river, which forced them from their homes in the lowlands.

Camps at McClure, Gale, Tliebes, Miller City and Mounds, maintained during April and May, reopened. Red Cross reports indicated that crops in many sections have been washed out.

The Red Cross reported here that McClure, 28 miles northwest of here, will be from six inches to two feet under water, and virtually the same situation exists at Gale, six miles south of McClure.

New Orleans.—With water falling on the Atchafalaya river, flood danger is believed passed. St. Martinsville, New Iberia and a dozen other towns are inundated. South of Pointe Coupee Parish, however, water was reported rising and fear is held for other villages in this region.

Chicago.—Protection of the Mississippi valley against flood disasters is, and of right ought to be, the duty of the government of the United States. Such was the declaration that came from the flood-control conference as it closed, and immediately the curtain was down the executive committee appointed Mayor William Hale Thompson to head the subcommittee to go this week to Washington to lay the conference resolution before President Coolidge.

Mayor Thompson and the subcommittee are expected to depart for the capital during the week. With the action of the executive committee, Roy O. West, secretary of the Republican national committee, wired to the President requesting that he set a date on which the committee may meet him.

The conference ended, addressed in its closing moments by Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house of representatives.

A dozen or more members of the United States senate had spoken in the conference. Secretary of War Dwight F. Davis brought the promise that the government would take up the problem.

Congressman Martin B. Madden, chairman of the appropriations committee of the house, had pledged the nation's resources to the needs of the Mississippi valley, and in this he was supported by over thirty congressmen who spoke at the conference preceding Speaker Longworth.

The resolution adopted recited the story of the present floods, and concluded: "Therefore, be it resolved that the flood-control conference, assembled at Chicago, Ill., does hereby declare that the control of the flood waters of the Mississippi river and all its tributaries is a national problem and that the sole responsibility therefor should be assumed by the national government; and

"Resolved further, that we urge immediate and effective relief be extended to all present sufferers; that the measures which may be recommended by existing federal agencies for the relief of the lower valley, so as to protect it against a recurrence of the present disaster, be carried out promptly and that the necessary appropriations therefor be made without delay; and

"Resolved further, that without delaying the carrying into execution of such imperatively necessary measures as may be recommended by existing governmental agencies, the President of the United States is requested to call a conference for the purpose of formulating, in conjunction with such governmental agencies, a comprehensive plan for navigation and permanent control; said conference to be composed of army engineers, civil engineers, conservationists, geologists, financiers, agriculturists and other experts representing the various interests of our country; and

"Resolved further, that the conference petitions the President of the United States and congress energetically to undertake and carry to a speedy conclusion comprehensive and effective measures for permanent flood control of the Mississippi river and all its tributaries."

There were other resolutions, notably that read by former United States Senator Leroy Percy of Mississippi, who now has lands under water and who has been the greatest individual loser by the overflow. This was one of tribute to the Red Cross, which was warmly commended for the relief it has given. This resolution was adopted by a standing vote.

Speaker Longworth commended the delegates themselves on their zeal for their fellow residents of the valley.

FRONT FULLNESS EXPLOITED, PARIS FAVORS PRINT

MORE and more the theme of front fullness is being emphasized as a means of attaining an ultra-smart silhouette. Another tendency accentuated in the latest frocks is the tight-hip treatment. The two seem to be inter-related, for drawing the fullness to the front has brought about a snugness over the hips, which is a much desired effect at present.

lead to the new tight hipline plus the front-fullness movement. Belts, ties, sashes and hip bands are cunningly incorporated in the very construction of the frock, with a view to tying or fastening them in front in such a manner as to conspire with the skirt to achieve front fullness.

The modish crepe frock in the picture demonstrates the new front fullness movement with flattering success. It also places emphasis on artful fabric manipulation which is independent of applied trimming. Even the scraggly petalled flower on the shoulders is made of self-material. "Suitable for any-hour-of-the-day wear," says the designer of this handsome frock—an assertion stamped with authority, coming as it does from the lips of a leading member of the Fashion Art League of America.

There are, to be sure, many ways of attaining the coveted front fullness. A favorite method is to group fine plaits to the very front of the skirt. Then again the skirt is often gathered into a front drapey which produces an uneven hemline, for irregularity around the skirt edge is outstanding in this season's styling. Sometimes jabot effects and cascades are adjusted so as to give the appearance of front fullness, at the same time falling below the hemline in artistic lines.

Saocking and shirring done in a cleft at the very front also bespeak a desired front fullness.

LITTLE STATESMAN CORNER

Edited by "Betty Stowe"

Dear Children:— Here are some poems for the wee folks:

Did you ever play tag with a tiger?
Did you ever play tag with a tiger?
Or ever play boo with a bear;
Did you ever put rats in the rain barrel
To give poor Granny a scare?

It's fun to play tag with a tiger,
It's fun for the bear to say "boo,"
But if rats are found in the rain barrel
Old Granny will put you in too.

The Animal Show
Father and mother and Bobbie will go
To see all the sights at the animal show.
Where lions and bears sit on dining room chairs,
Where a camel is able to stand on a table,
Where monkeys and seals all travel on wheels,
And a Zulu Baboon rides a boly baloon
The sooner you're ready, the sooner we'll go
Aboard, all aboard, for the Animal Show!

Boots Boots Boots
Buster's got a popper gun,
A regular one that shoots,
And Teddy's got an engine
With a whistle that toots.

But I've got some thing finer yet—
A pair of rubber boots,
Oh, it's boots, boots, boots,
A pair of rubber boots!

I could walk from here to China
In a pair of rubber boots.

Duckle, Daisy
Duckle, duckle, daisy,
Martha must be crazy,
She went and made a Christmas cake

Of olive oil and gluten flake,
And set it in the sink to bake,
Duckle, duckle, daisy.

Those are all of the poems for today. They will appear often if you like them. Please write and tell me whether you like these poems better than all stories. If lots of letters tell me that you like the poems, I will have poems more often. Have mother or father write your letters for you if you are too small to write.

Address your letters to

BREAK INTO FOUR DEPOTS

The depot at Minnesota Junction, near Juneau, was entered Sunday night and about thirty cents taken from the cash drawer. The track speeder, used by the section foreman was also missing. Entrance was gained by a window. Juneau was the next place visited and from the station there, about eighty cents was taken. The marauders then went to Rolling Prairie, where they entered the depot and post office, which are combined, and escaped with a few dollars worth of stamps and some small change. The depot at Clyman was likewise broken into.—Hartford Times.

No Danger of Over-Production

Quality and service are two words that mean much in the affairs of the average American. If there is a place in the scheme of things where quality really counts, it is in the production of milk. Quality means flavor keeping qualities and consequently increased demand for this excellent article of food. If there is an article of food that is shunned and passed to one side it is, rank, off flavored milk. On the other hand everybody is glad to buy clean, good flavored milk. Ever stop to realize what that means to the producer? It means enough to him, that he could be assured of a good demand for his product, and an absolute guarantee against over-production for years to come, if milk were produced and kept in such good condition that every customer would be willing to buy a little more just because it is good.
