VELVET TRIM FOR STRAW HATS; LACE CAPE BECOMING POPULAR

OBSOLETE is the idea that velvet is solely a fall and winter item. According to advance thinking velvet is an all-the-year-round material.

To really sense the importance of velvet in the world of fashion, go to Paris! There at teatime hour at the Ritz observe the smart Parisienne wearing a black velvet cape over a white georgette dress, or a brown velvet wrap with a frock of beige. And the velvet shawls with long fringe—take note of them for they are the next number on the American woman's style program. Then there are

A black bangkok hat with a twist of turquoise blue velvet is shown below to the left. The concluding hat in the group foretells future modes of scratch navy plush with cuff of marine-blue velvet.

Lace is contributing a fascinating chapter to the story of modern fashion. So alluring a subject as lace challenges the French stylists to flights of genius, which means for the modish world a revelation of beautiful apparel.

At the moment it is the lace wrap, especially capes of lace, which is the the new velvet hand bags which are considered the proper thing for summer, with gay chiffon print frocks. But what has this preamble regarding velvet to do with the subject of millinery? Just this, velvet is so important a factor in the realm of hats as it is in its connection with dress. There's Rose Descat, for instance, sending over a somewhat wide-of-brim navy blue plot straw cloche with band, over-crown strap and brim facing of matching velvet. A toque from Agnes is composed of white velvet covered with white violets. With this charming bit of headgear comes a bouquet of the same flowers to be worn at the waist.

As to the French hats in this picture, they are velvet-trimmed. The first hat in the group comes from the atelier of Lucie Hanar. It is a genuine bakou straw showing a treatment of velvet which confirms the opinion that detail of workmanship is more important in the season's styling than any applied trimming which disturbs the contour of the hat.

Louise Marcy designed the brown straw model shown at the top to the right. It has a tiny velvet brim. Velvet leaves in Nile green trim the straw hat centered in this group.

outstanding enthusiasm in Paris. Of lace dyed to match the frock, or of black chantilly or dire all-over lace, these capes are an arresting summer theme. Not always is the wrap entirely of lace. Often taffeta or georgette enters into partnership with lace after the manner described by the lace-floated cape shown to the left in the picture.

The advent of the lace cape in the realm of fashion opens up a new array of styles to accompany the simple georgette dress, which is monotonous in color. The transparent frock being void of trimming, depending only on drapes and panels and other "tricky" fabric manipulations, contrasts the all-over patterned lace most artfully. It goes without saying that the cape should be an exact color-match to the dress, if the ensemble ideal be attained. The lace wrap in the picture is cinnamon color. Wide satin ribbon is rose-plaited for the collar and there is a bow and streamers at its fastening.

Not alone capes, but wraps of many types are being made of lace, or of lace with fabric used for the dress. These often take the form of long loose-fitting coats.

Petit Point on Pumps

Pumps for dress wear nowadays are likely to be a creation of black satin, heavily embroidered in gold or silver, with oriental designs and fastened by a single strap of gold or silver. Crepe de chine shoes with petit point embroidery on the vamp also are being shown.

Evening Coiffures

Bandeaux of gold and silver with a touch of color woven into them dress up the coiffure for evening.

Blue Shoes

It is predicted that blue shoes will become apparent when the spring mode of blue costumes is launched. Red shoes are also shown but thus far, these have only been worn for evening purposes.

Hats of Green Straw and Felt

The close little skull-caps that are so smart are particularly smart when they are in shades of green, varying from a faint pistache to a deep forest green.

Cave Without Bottom in Colorado Hills

In the Sangre de Cristo range in Colorado is Marble cave, an unexplored and bottomless pit.

Scientists are of the belief that it is the opening to a volcano that was active many millions of years ago.

In the same range is the Medano river, known as the "disappearing river," for it is a stream in one part of the forest and then it disappears to reappear many miles away.

The Sangre de Cristos are remarkable for many other freaks. Twenty miles south of Westcliff is a vast red sandstone bed where fossils are found of early sea life, indicative of that far period when this great inland range of mountains was the bottom of the sea. This bed has been of especial interest to geologists and scientists, and students interested in the formation of the world.

The range is the longest, straightest and highest in the United States and the most spectacularly colored, with 100 peaks from whose summit the snow never leaves.

Unappreciative Relative

"My nephew, Oliver Tolliver, wrote me the other day that he intended to commit suicide, because the world lacked appreciation and didn't care for his poetry," stated Farmer Fumblegate. "At noon yesterday he would be dead and gone. I was busy when the letter came and stuffed it into my pocket and forgot it for a time. Just now, since I have read it, I have just telegraphed him, 'Much obliged!' and let it go at that. He already owes me all I ever want him to, and if he wasn't dead by the time my answer got to him he probably died right away after from what they call in stories schay-grin. Anyhow, I hope so."—Kansas City Star.

Ancient Samaria

Samaria at the time of our Lord's earthly ministry was the central province of Palestine, lying between Judea on the south and Galilee on the north. In more ancient times the country that came to be known as Samaria was the kingdom of Israel, composed of the Ten Tribes. The city of Samaria was the capital until the Ten Tribes were carried into captivity in the year 720 B. C.

Roman Mosaic

The British museum is soon to receive a fine example of Roman mosaic pavement. In 1703 some laborers discovered it at Orkistow hall, on the River Humber, where it remained until the owner recently agreed to its removal. Composed of small colored cubes, it depicts various Roman scenes.

NOW MRS. WEAVER WAS HELPED

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

As Mrs. Weaver herself says, "I was never very strong." This is a mild statement describing her condition, for, according to her letters, she was subjected to no small amount of ill health. Fortunately, her sister was familiar with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and begged Mrs. Weaver to try it. "After three or four weeks," writes Mrs. Weaver, "I felt a great difference in myself. I would go to bed and sleep sound, and although I could not do very much, I seemed stronger. I kept up my work and I am well and strong, do my work and tell my friends about your wonderful medicine, and I will answer any letters from women asking about the Vegetable Compound." LAWRENCE Weaver, East Southfield St., Mt. Pleasant, Pa.

If you know that thousands of women suffer from troubles similar to those that afflicted Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, wouldn't you think it was worth a trial? In some families, the fourth generation is fortunate to have the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Germany Placed on Olympic Committee

Germany has again secured representation on the executive committee of the Olympic committee by the election of Dr. Otto Lewald, president of the German Olympic committee, at a session of the International body. Doctor Lewald, Gen. Charles H. Sherrill of the United States, Count Henry Ballet Latour of Belgium, Count Polignac of France, Colonel Kentish of Great Britain and Baron Godofroy De Blonay of Switzerland were named for four years.

Goldie Johnson Earned High Place in Saddle

Another candidate for the honor of being America's foremost jockey is Goldie Johnson, who rides for E. R. Bradley's stable. He is a product of the West, having started his career on the Tin Juana track. Johnson was riding for a small salary when one of Bradley's trainers looked him over and was so impressed with the way he handled horses he recommended the youngster to Bradley. Johnson is now one of the highest salaried jockeys in this country and likewise one of the most successful. He rode 60 winners at New Orleans last winter.

Some Winning Clubs

Sport Notes

Yachting is the most expensive of all sports.

A bill has been defeated in the legislature of Pennsylvania to legalize horse racing in the state.

Joseph Jacoby of Westville, Mass., has been elected captain of the Notre Dame basketball team for 1927-28.

It is estimated England's India polo challengers for the American International cup this year at Meadow Brook will entail an expense of over $100,000.

The United States now has fourteen stadiums with a seating capacity varying from 40,000 to 170,000 people each. There are many other stadiums seating from 10,000 to 20,000 spectators.

Teams from a score of colleges and universities, playing everything from baseball to tennis, will represent the "floating university" when the second college cruise around the world is begun next September.

The first race horse imported into the United States was Bullie Rock, brought to Virginia in 1730, according to Liberty.

Alfred De Oro Jr., New York, three-cushion billiard expert, established a new amateur record recently by scoring 50 points in 56 innings.

The Swedish government has made a grant of 350,000 krona (about $91,000) toward Sweden's participation in the Olympic games at Amsterdam next year.

Glasscock Visits Old-Time Playgrounds

Out at Dunn field, Detroit, the other day, Jack Glasscock shook hands with Joe Sewell, shortstop for the Cleveland Indians. You don't remember Jack. Few fans of today do. But he played shortstop on the Cleveland teams from 1873 until 1884. When Jack played, shortstops did not wear gloves.
"I wonder what they would do without gloves today?" asked Jack.
Jack was a fine fielder and a great batter. He believes Jack Keefe would have fooled Babe Ruth. Pitchers were only 45 feet from the batter's box in those days.
Glasscock, who now lives in Wheeling and is sixty-five years of age, played with Cleveland, St. Louis and New York in the big leagues and in several minor leagues. One of Jack's proudest possessions is a medal given him in 1883 for leading the Cleveland club in scoring runs.

GEHRIG'S STAR IS RISING RAPIDLY

Soon May Show Luster That Will Dim Babe Ruth's.

If the New York Yankees are looking for a $70,000-a-year slugger to keep on their pay roll when Babe Ruth passes from the picture they need look no further than first base.
As a matter of fact Henry Louis Gehrig—the boys call him "Buster"—seems in a fair way to replace Ruth as the club's leading slugger this year, unless the Babe strikes a swifter stride than he has shown so far.
It takes only a glance at the figures to reveal how potent Gehrig's bat has become. The other day he was leading the league in batting, runs scored, hits, and was tied with one or more rivals in all three extra-base specialties.
Gehrig, a left-hander, not only hits for distance but pulls the wallops to left as well as right field. He is one of New York's own diamond products and Columbia's most famous baseball alumnus since Eddie Collins. Like Ruth, Gehrig was a good pitcher but he did not follow this specialty in the majors. He is twenty-four years old and weighs 200. His legs are better proportioned to his weight than Ruth's.

"Buster" Gehrig.

Bill Sherdel Continues Unluckiest of Pitchers

Billy Sherdel, the slow-ball artist of the St. Louis Cardinals, continues to be one of the unluckiest pitchers in big league baseball.
Billy's average as far as games won and lost are concerned is better than that of the world champions with whom he has served during the past decade. But this is due entirely to his own crafty flinging—for Sherdel is one pitcher for whom the Cardinals all too frequently fail to make runs.
In the world's series in which the Cards have participated, the slow-ball hurler worked two magnificent games, one of which went ten innings, but lost them both. The score were 2 to 1 and 3 to 2.
On his first appearance this season, Sherdel held the Cubs to two hits and lost, 1 to 0. Hack Wilson's homer turned the trick.
Somewhat later in the season, Billy let Brooklyn down with three hits. He lost the game, 3 to 0, two of the Robins' raps being for the circuit.
These are the kind of "breaks" accorded the best slow-ball pitcher in baseball.

Inventor of the Modern Golf Ball Still Living

Golf is "an ancient and honorable game," but the ball with which it is played today is the invention of a man still living. Fully 95 per cent of the golf balls in modern links are made by molds and machinery invented by Francis H. Richards of Stamford, Conn., whose factories are in New York. Mr. Richards holds about 100 patents on golf balls. Besides these, he has about 100 patents on typographic machines, 200 on machine shop tools and 250 on weighing machinery. The inventor is seventy-six years old.

Hugh Jennings Recovering

Regaining his old-time spirit and vigor, Hugh Jennings, former manager of the Detroit Tigers and later assistant coach of the New York Giants, is fully confident that he will be back in baseball next year and sufficiently improved, physically, to be able to assume heavy duties on the diamond. He still carries a cane and shows the effect of his long illness, but he expects to recover fully by the beginning of next season. Just what club he will join is not known.

Professor Forgot All About Dinner Party

The absent-minded professor who, starting to dress for a formal dinner, thought he was getting ready for bed and was found there by his wife has a rival for wool-gathering honors in a certain English dean. This dean had invited some friends to dine at his house, and on their arrival a little ahead of time he suggested that in the interval of waiting they might like to walk through the grounds.
After spending a quarter of an hour admiring the flowers, shrubs and greenhouses, they came suddenly upon a door in the wall. "Ah," said the dean to his astonished guests, "this will be a much nearer way home than going back to the front," and all unconscious of his invitation he opened the door and bowed them out.—Boston Transcript.

A BATH TUB that tests automobiles

S-P-L-A-S-H through the bath tub goes the General Motors car. Out onto the slippery road it dashes. On go the brakes!
What is the reason for such torture of an innocent automobile?
The answer is that the engineers at the General Motors Proving Ground take nothing for granted. They want to know what happens when a car ploughs through water. They insist too on measuring, with special machines which they have built, just how quickly the car can be stopped and just how much pressure of the foot is required to stop it.
Altogether General Motors has 136 different tests by which cars are proved as they never have been proved before; nothing is left in doubt. All of which means that you are buying doubly assured safety, reliability and comfort when you choose a General Motors car.

Putting Real Speed Into The Haying

Haying progress continues, with the combination of the FARM-ALL and McCormick-Deering Hay Tools responsible for the latest big improvement in speed and efficiency. With this all-purpose tractor on your farm you can hook up to new combinations of tools and turn your alfalfa, clover, or grass into crisp, air-dried hay in quick time.

You can mow with the 7-foot Farmall mower, and hook another mower on, too, when you're in a rush; you can mow and rake your alfalfa in one operation by putting a side-delivery rake back of the Farmall and Farmall mower; you can pull two or even three self-dump rakes back of the Farmall; you can load up in a jiffy with the Farmall pulling the rack wagon and hay loader; and you can convert your loose hay into easily handled, marketable bales by belting up the Farmall to a hay press.

All of these fast, modern haying operations can be done with the Farmall and the McCormick-Deering Hay Tools we sell. They save valuable man labor at a season when every minute is worth real money. They give you the profit edge on the man who clings to older methods. Let us tell you more about the new machines and methods we have to offer you.

car owners
say Buick will be their next car

A general and impartial survey of automobile owners recently conducted by a great organization, shows that 344,679 owners of other cars intend to change to Buick next time they buy a car.

These owners have compared their cars with Buick—in performance, in economy, in comfort, luxury and dependability. And they have decided that Buick offers greater value.

Examine a Buick at your earliest opportunity. Find out why so many owners of other cars are changing to Buick every day.

—Mrs. Clara Schaefer had the misfortune of losing part of the middle finger on her right hand last Saturday. The accident happened while she was attending to her household duties in her home, when her finger got caught between a door frame and door, the latter having been blown open by the wind, thereby cutting the finger completely off at the first joint. Mrs. Schaefer is getting along very well at this writing.

—Miss Gottsleben of Oconomowoc spent Sunday with relatives here. He accompanied home by his son Alvin, and Mrs. Emma Altenhofen, who will visit several days with the Gottsleben family.

—If you have any Fourth of July visitors, kindly send their names into this office for publication. Due to the fact that most of the visitors come to this village in automobiles, it will be quite a difficult task for the publishers to detect all of them, consequently a helping hand from the general public in sending in these items will be greatly appreciated by the publishers.

—Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Seip of Milwaukee spent Sunday with the Art Koch family. They were accompanied here by Mrs. Arthur Koch and sons August and Harry, who spent the week in the Cream City.

MARKHAM'S EFFORTS TO HELP CHEESE INDUSTRY SUCCESSFUL

News comes from Washington that the tariff on foreign made cheese has been given a substantial boost. The new rates will act to protect the American market from the flood of cheaper makes produced in Canada and European markets. Southern Wisconsin should be favorably affected by a rising market on cheese. This relief comes as a direct result of the work of Senator Markham, Horicon, who introduced and secured the passage in the legislature of a resolution about six weeks ago demanding this boost in the tariff on cheese. Milk prices are already re-acting favorably and show a substantial advance over this time last year.

CHAPTER VI

Although Paul Raxon had always professed a great belief in his own destiny, he had never thought to be a multimillionaire.

At the age of forty-two he took his place with the living powers in Wall Street, hated by many, liked by few.

At this period of his life the idea of power obsessed him. He did not want to run the risk of losing what he had gained.

"He'll be out in five," said Loddon, "and Jim's dangerous, because he knows a lot."

"Jim will be out in less than that," Raxon retorted. "Bright's disease. He's incurable."

He was a tired-looking man, slim, and a little stooped. He had fine hands and good features.

To go to the senate from New York would be an expensive matter, but he was prepared to pay.

My success," Raxon said, stopping him with a gesture, "is due to two things. One is a total absence of pity."

"No more dangerous man lives in all New York," Peter Milman said gravely. "That is why I have been so careful in selecting my companions."

CITIZENS OF NORTH CAROLINA FIRST TO DEFY KING GEORGE

Proclamation of Freedom Made at Mecklenburg More Than 152 Years Ago.

In spite of doubting Thomas Jefferson and the reluctance of certain less interested Virginians to admit that anything good ever came out of North Carolina, no sufficient reason now exists for questioning the proud boast that the citizens of Mecklenburg county, in the latter state, did fling defiance in the face of Great Britain in the form of a declaration of independence just thirteen months and fifteen days before the Continental congress in Philadelphia saw fit to make the same decisive move.

It was in 1819 that a newspaper reprint of what was said to be the declaration itself—a document containing several of the phrases of his own famous paper—was called to the attention of Thomas Jefferson by John Adams.

On the affirmative side it extended to the Insurrection that one of the Virginia champions of Jefferson's priority had used his position as minister from this country to the Court of St. James to abstract from the British colonial archives a copy of the Cape Fear Mercury, which was material evidence because it contained the text of the Mecklenburg declaration printed within the month after it was issued.

Assuming the evidence as sufficient, the story of what happened becomes a part of a well-connected series of events in the province whose position between two ostentatiously aristocratic neighbors has sometimes, it is said, deprived her of due consideration.

APPEAL TO HEAVEN IN THE DARK HOUR

Washington's Fervent Prayer at Valley Forge.

This is said to be word for word the prayer that Washington sent up to the Great White Throne of God in that dark hour of the republic when his barefoot army shivered in the snows of Valley Forge.

"Almighty God, we make our earnest prayer that Thou wilt keep the United States in Thy holy protection; that Thou wilt incline the hearts of the citizens to cultivate a spirit of subordination and obedience to government; and entertain a brotherly affection and love for each other and for their fellow citizens of the United States at large; and finally, that Thou wilt make us a just and true people."

will most graciously be pleased to dispose us all to do justice, to love mercy, and to demean ourselves with that charity, humility and pacific temper of mind which were the characteristics of the Divine Author of our blessed religion, and without a humble imitation of whose example in these things we can never hope to be a happy nation.

Sessions of Congress in Revolutionary War

There was no permanent seat of government during the Revolutionary War. The articles of confederation provided that "congress shall have power to adjourn at any time within the year and to any place within the United States, so that no period of adjournment be for a longer duration than the space of six months."

At Philadelphia, September 5, 1774, and May 10, 1775; at Baltimore, December 20, 1776; at Lancaster, September 27, 1777; at York, September 30, 1777; at Philadelphia, July 2, 1778; at Lancaster, November 23, 1778; at Lancaster, November 1, 1778; at Lancaster, January 11, 1779.

There was no executive head of the United States under the articles of confederation. These provided that congress should have authority to appoint a "committee of the states," to consist of one delegate from each state, to sit in the recess of congress.

Among those who served as presidents of congress were Payton Randolph of Virginia, John Hancock of Massachusetts, John Jay of New York, Richard Henry Lee of Virginia, and Arthur St. Clair of Pennsylvania.

The Kitchen Cabinet

(Ed. 1947, Western Newspaper Union.) Oh! man is never contented with his lot, the sages say; In summer's heat we long for March, In winter time for May.

LEFTOVERS AND ECONOMY

She that is careless with little will be wasteful with much. Good wholesome foods left over from a meal should be carefully handled. The thrifty housewife of today considers it a mark of good management to be able to say that "Nothing in my household is wasted."

All food coming from outside sources should be taken care of without delay. Meat should be removed at once from the wrapper and put on plates in the ice chest. Milk and cream should not be left standing on the porch, but should be put into the refrigerator at once.

Butter and lard should be kept in suitable receptacles. Butter in jars should be covered with a white cheesecloth wrung from cold salt water.

A systematic method of procedure should be used in the clearing away of a meal. All bits of bread, crusts and crumbs of crackers should be placed at once in a can which may be tightly covered and kept for this purpose.

The fresher portions of bread may be used for puddings, dressings, the base of stuffings and many other dishes. Bread is too valuable a food to be wasted.

Using stale cake in puddings may be carried out endlessly. Salads may be made, and most appetizing ones, from small amounts of fruit and vegetables. Onions may be given flavor and food value by the addition of chopped meats, nuts, vegetables or jelly before they are folded.

All bits of leftover meats, bones, gristle which cannot be otherwise used, should go into the soup kettle. Gravies and vegetables add to the soup flavor and should be added. It is well to remember, however, that vegetables will quickly spoil the broth if allowed to stand, so such soup should be served the same day, in warm weather.

Three square feet of garden will supply a small family with nice salad lettuce all summer. Head lettuce takes more room but it is well worth the time and trouble it takes. A row or two of peas will keep one supplied with fresh peas, if planted every two weeks until the frosts of fall.

When cooking new green peas, add a teaspoonful of sugar to them. Some like a small bunch of mint cooked with the peas. This is especially good when serving lamb chops.

Gun camphor in the silver chest will keep it from tarnishing. Don't forget when poisoned with poison ivy to crush fresh catnip leaves and bind over the spots infested.

A little paraffin rubbed over the kitchen range while it is still warm will keep it shiny and good looking. When leaving the house for a few weeks this is a good thing to do to keep it from rusting. Save all scraps of paraffin to use for such purposes.

Muriatic acid (very poisonous) will remove rust and other stains from porcelain tubs and toilets. Use care to raise well as soon as the stain is removed, otherwise it will eat into the enamel.

The spatula or wide lumber knife is indispensable in scraping out cooking dishes, doing away with the old-fashioned and not to be recommended, forefinger.

The finger nails, with the best of care, harbor countless bacteria. Care of the food is not being overfussy; we all like to feel that the food we eat has been neatly prepared.

Less butter will be used on griddle cakes if some is added to the hot sirup to be used on cakes. Some mothers think that both butter and sirup on cakes is wasteful, but if one likes it better, that is the best way to decide the question.

Economy is a great game and the oftener it is played the more enjoyment is gained by using one's mind on this important matter. When cooking on a rainy or damp day remember that water boils out much quicker as the air being full of moisture soaks it up rapidly.

Old stockings legs make fine dusters and are especially good for the kitchen stove. Nellie Maxwell

Literature Owes Much to Early Troubadours

The troubadour was a knight and a poet. A restless knight, eternally on the go, with a musical instrument slung over his shoulder and a sword at his side, Early each spring he sallied forth, whin and fancy directing his stretches from northern Spain to Provence in southern France, and Italy, Provence, carpeted with wild flowers, where thousands of tiny rivulets wind like silver lacings, where the birds sing sweetly and skies are ever smiling.

To the troubadour we are indebted for a vast deal of our knowledge of the thought and customs of the time. His songs, the first lyrical poetry written in medieval Europe, form a valuable supplement to history; 2,500 of them, comprising drama, romances and fables, have been preserved.

Coin Designers Honored The custom of placing the signature of the engraver upon a coin dates from remote antiquity. Many Greek coins, especially the splendid creations produced by the cities of Sicily and Magna Graecia, are signed with the initials of the artist, and in some cases with his full name.
