To Lessen Huge Waste in Hides

Dealers, Tanners and Farmers Lose $20,000,000 by Carelessness.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Needless losses in the total annual value of hides and skins are estimated at approximately $20,000,000 as the result of careless or wasteful methods in curing hides and skinning animals.

To stop the avoidable leaks in their business which have reached such alarming figures, representatives of the hide dealers, tanners, butchers, cattle raisers, dairymen and farmers met, several months ago, with officials of the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Commerce and formulated a program of work for the production of better hides and skius. Committees Set Up.

As a result of this conference a number of working committees were set up, with a personnel selected from members of the government departments and of the interested industries. to cover the important phases in the production of hides and skins, such as: Classification and grading of hides and skins; skinning and curing practices; grub eradication; manges and other diseases; brands and other physical injuries and statistics on pro-

The work on skinning and curing, which is being conducted by the bureau of chemistry and soils of the Department of Agriculture has for its principal object the correction of careless and wasteful practices that cause such defects as cuts, sores, rot, loosegrain, and poor fiber.

Information is collected from butchers, hide dealers, and tanners, usually by personal interview and observations, on the ways in which they handle hides and skins through the skinning and curing operations and, wherever there is need of it, changes to improve production are pointed out and demonstrated.

At present two experienced hide men are at work in the field, one in Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio, working chiefly on the handling of calfskins, and the other in the region of Virginia and North Carolina, working

The bureau of chemistry and soils invites tanners and hide producers to bring promptly to its attention cases of serious damage resulting from poor skinning and poor curing and, if feasible, it will undertake to send in response one of its representatives to collect first-hand Information and trace the origin of the trouble. and shorter of our leather requirements. Every year millions of pounds of hide substance are needlessly lost through ignorance and indifference. This work that the bureau of chemistry and soils is doing is purely constructive. Because of the large quantity of raw material involved and its high value, the work has great economic possibilities. It should receive the heartiest co-operation from all the related industries.

Animals Infested With Worms Always Unthrifty

Pigs harboring the common intestinal roundworm frequently become unthrifty. Spring pigs that have survived that stage in the development of the worm whereby the eggs are swallowed and migrate through the lungs act fine. This famous salts is made in the larve stage, will now show symptoms of the worm stage in which large numbers of the worms are found in the small intestines. Pigs become uneven in size, unthrifty, rough coated, and are frequently found in fits of The long roundworm is the only specles of internal parasite of swine that may be successfully expelled. The Illinois experiment station suggests the water drink which millions of men following agencies for expelling this parasite: Reliable vermifuges include keep the kidneys and urinary organs oil of chenopodium or santonin. The dose of santonin is 5 grains for a 50pound pig. It is generally given in a capsule with 2 grains of calomet, Oil of chenpodium should be used in doses of 2 cubic centimeters to each 50 pounds live weight, and should be given in capsule or mixed with one ounce of castor oil and given with a dose syringe. If chenopodium is given in capsule form, it should be followed two or three hours later with a quickacting purgative in the feed. Epsom salts may be used for this latter purpose in amounts of one ounce per 100 pounds live weight.

Scatter Corn in Crib

if Soft and Immature

Soft and immature corn is like to shoil if filed up too fast and should be scattered over as wide a space as possible when filling the crip. The common practice of allowing the corp to pile up as high as possible before changing the spout or conveyor from the portable or inside elevator will prove disastrous this fall unless in exceptional cases where the corn is tipe and dry. Changing the spout to deliver the corn to a different place each time a lead is elevated to the crib will give the corn a much better chance to dry cut. Ventilators of wood or bollow tile said at frequent insersential of every walk of life. Our do- vals through the crib will also greatly

DOBBIN'S PALATE IS USUALLY A SECONDARY FACTOR TO FARMER

Supply and Price of Feeds Determine Diet.

Tickling the palate of the farm horse is a secondary consideration in planning his menu. John F. Dowler of the rural economics department of the Ohio agricultural experiment station has discovered that the quantities of home grown feed on hand, and its market price, principally influence of diet of the farm horse,

In 1927, when corn was higher in price than during the previous year, 20 bushels more of oats were fed per horse than in 1926, on 20 farms in Putnam county where records were collected by the rural economics department. The amount of corn fed per horse remained about the same both years, but the horses worked 6 per cent more hours in 1927, when the larger quantity of oats were fed than in the previous year. On these farms, 355 pounds more of hay and 638 pounds less of corn stover were fed per horse during 1927 than in 1926. Hay was relatively low in price and most farms had a good supply in 1927, hence they fed more of it, rather than the corn stover, The farmer feeds his horses those feeds of which he has had a good erop and which are usually low in price, Dowler finds. The pleasure or desires of his horses are not consuited but rather an economical cost of horse work is kept in mind.

Young Birds Are More

Profitable Than Old Many poultrymen have not as yet

come to the realization that young birds are the money makers on poultry farms. The heaviest production is | manageable.

secured during the first year after a pullet starts laying. This fact is sub-stantiated by the results of trap-nest records from many experiment sta-

At the Michigan station the records on fowls showed an average production of 221 eggs per fowl during the first year of production, as compared to an average production of 170 eggs during the second year. This shows an increase of 28.6 per cent in favor of the younger birds from the standpoint of returns.

At the Nebraska station the first year production records averaged 224 eggs per fowl as compared to an average of 164 eggs for the second year. This is 37 per cent higher production the first year.

At the Kansas station the average for the first year totaled 232 eggs, as compared to an average of 156 for the second year, or a total increase of 48 per cent in favor of the first year's production.

Results at other stations show a similar difference in favor of the production during the pullet year.

Laurel Foliage Is Used

by Florists All Season

Laurel foliage is used my florists at all seasons of the year as well as at Christmas time. It is not prepared in any way for use as greens, but merely gathered in convenient-sized branches. There is also some sale for the shrubs themselves for use in landscape gardening, but it is not always practical to dig the plants as sometimes it is not possible to dig enough root to insure the plant living. The nursey plants are transplanted several times so that the root system is more

Around the Farm

Farmers who encourage their poultry to get out and pick up a living, usually don't pick up much profit from the poultry business.

If chickens suffered for lack of shade this year plan for it next season. Corn or sunflowers will supply shade for the hot days, and food later.

Since minerals are more readily assimilated when the unimals have free access to sunshine and are eating succulent food, the use of mineral supplements to the diet is urged when the herd is on pasture.

Corn sifage is the best and most economical form of succulence for winter feeding in this state. It also provides an economical feed when pastures dry up in late summer. Silage can be handled more easily and eco- in these columns should be fed. Also nomically at this time than solling

Soft-Shelled Eggs

The immediate cause of soft-shelled eggs is failure of the uterus to function properly. Soft-shelled eggs may be caused by a lack of shell material, which may be the case if the heus of our reader do not have access to oyster shell. However, the majority of people at the present time are of the opinion that usually a hen which is deprived of material of which to make shells will lay fewer eggs rather than to lay soft-shelled eggs. Soft-shelled eggs may also be caused by the use of condiments. Spices often lead to trou-

It would seem that the thing for the poultry man to do is to balance the ration of these fowls with minerals if they do not already have access to them. Diet Problem of Athletes

LLT SOLVED the diet problem of athletes by changing the order of courses at meals," says Dr. Clarence Spears, professor of football and doctor of medicine at the University of Minnesota. Instead of having the salad served late in the meal, I have it served first. "When my players sit down at the table they find a salad of green stuffs awaiting them. There is also plenty of celery.

"They are hungry. The meal, in compliance with previous arrangements, is slow in starting. The players, waiting for the service to begin, get busy with the salad. By the time the soup is served, the salads and celery have been consumed. We see to it that the meal does not start before they have been eaten. "After the salad, celery and soup are finished, the player has had much of his appetite satisfied. He will not overeat; and, due to the late start, which prompted him to devour his salad and celery, he will have partaken of the kind of food we want him to eat. "I decided on this plan after consume what is before him and what we want him to eat." Which may, or may not, be one reason for the power of Minnesota's football eleven, comments H. G. Salsinger in the Detroit News.

Captaincy at Wisconsin

Held by Rube E. Wagner The football captaincy at Wisconsin this fall rests upon the shoulders of a young man who has overcome countless obstacles in an effort to acquire a college education. Success has rewarded him in all of his undertakings as a Badger student, until now, as a senior, Rube E. Wagner of St. Paul finds himself a leader in the student life of Wisconsin.

For two years Wagner has played in the line on Cardinal elevens. Last fall he was rated as one of the best tackles in the Middle West. Rube has confined his activities entirely to athletics. In the spring of the year he competes on the track team, specializing in the shotput and discus throw.

Wagner is preparing to become an athletic coach after graduation. Next year he will complete his work in the four-year course in physical education. He is an excellent student, too. his achievements at Wisconsin being particularly outstanding because he has been entirely self-supporting since his enrollment as a freshman.

He is employed at a Madison hotel as a waiter. This work, together with other miscellaneous jobs, provides for his living. Summer vacations are not for pleasure as far as Wagner is conneglected. Scores of cerned, for he is busy then earning looking after it."- money to care for his school expenses.

No Change of Navy Grid

Trip to Pacific Coast Because of the stiff program already mapped out for Naval academy football team it would not be possible to stage a Christmas-day gridiron game with the University of Southern California at Los Angeles, says Commander Jonas H. Ingram, director of athletics at the Naval academy.

Representatives of the California institution have conferred with navy authorities looking to a regular contract which would bring the two schools together annually for an intersectional clash, but Naval academy athletic officials feel that such a contest would work a hardship on the Midshipmen, who already face several strong teams in the fall. In addition, the trip West would take the sailors away from their work and cause an extended training period which naval authorities have said could not be warranted this year, at least.

Army Ignores Navy

Chances for a resumption of the Army-Navy football relations in 1929 were eliminated when the military ac: demy announced its 1921 sch Aule without mention of the Navy.

The most important addition to the schedule is the University of idinois. A two-year agreement has been entered whereby the Illini go to West Point next year and the cadets go to Illinois the year afterward.

Also Plays Football

Kid Purdy, diminutive little outfielder purchased by the Cincinnati Reds from Seattle, demonstrated before pulling a muscle in his leg during the closing days of last season, that he is made of real big league timber. Sawed off though he may be, he surely can go and cut down hits in the outfield, to say nothing of his ability at the plate. Purdy, after toiling on the diamond in the summer, continues his athletic activities in the fall playing football.

ONLY ONE FROSH GAME AT PENNSY

New Policy in Freshman Athletics This Fall.

The University of Pennsylvania inaugurated a new policy in freshman athletics this fall when the gridiron schedule of the first-year men was limited to one contest, with the Cornell Frosh, on November 10.

In the past, first-year teams have played a complete schedule of from four to six games with other freshman college teams and with leading preparatory schools. One or more of the games were played away from home with the result that the yearlings were forced to be absent from Louis A. Young, head coach of the varsity team, has always been a strong advocate of freshmen devoting all their time to study. It has been his belief that the excitement of approaching games has cast a shadow over studies in the life of freshman football players, resulting in concitions and other scholastic worrles that frequently caused the loss of stur athletes.

This season the yearlings are working out with the varsity on Franklin field, imbibing the system they must play in their sophomore and subsequent years. The experience gained from contact with the varsity should prove invaluable to the first-year men. Freshman teams have held several scrimmages a year with the regulars in the past, but this year they will have workouts against the upper classmen almost every day.

Captain Butler, who two years ago was placed on a second All-American team,' is the head coach of the yearlings this season. He will coach the linemen and will be assisted by Alfred Langdon and Al Kreuz. Butler and Langdon were members of the coaching staff last season, while Kreus, a star several seasons ago, will be making his debut as a tutor.

Barney Berlinger, member of the United States Olympic team, who played tackle for the yearlings last season, is among the end candidates. His speed and size should make him an ideal wing man. Last fall he displayed more than average ability on

ZEPPELIN ENDS SEA TRIP AT LAKEHURST

Giant German Craft, With 20 Passengers and Large Crew, Makes United States.

Lakehurst, N. J.-The Graf Zeppelin, the largest and greatest of the world's commercial airships, ended its battle with the elements with its 20 passengers here when it landed at the United States naval air base. She had soared over land and water for 6,300 miles and the 59 men and one woman aboard had looked down on a score of cities and two seas.

Owing to a twelve-mile wind which made handling of the ship difficult owing to the narrow clearance at the entrance of the Los Angeles hangar, it was moored at the field's stubby airship mast. The operation was carried out without difficulty by the American sailors of the ground crew and the Graf Zeppelin was berthed Inside the navy hangar here alongside the Los Angeles. Not more than 10,000 persons were at the field to see the arrival, compared with the vast throng of more than 100,000 the previous day.

When the Graf Zeppelin touched ground, hauled out of the skies by a navy ground crew, the passengers in the main cabin leaned from the lighted windows and waved to the crowd. A few minutes later they stepped out briskly on the lowered gangplanks and were whisked away to their hotels in automobiles.

The time of the journey might have been shortened, but when Doctor Eckener, the commander, realized

The story of the Zeppelin's journey contains incident after incident of an adverse nature. Virtually without, a break since the ship rose from the Frederichshafen field it had battled with storms, adverse winds and poor visibility. In addition, the officers and crew of the Zeppelin were under an additional strain by an accident, which damaged the port stabilizing fin of the ship, resulting in great anxiety among the passengers. Repairs were effected enroute, members of the crew risking their lives to strengthen the weak-

CORN CROP REDUCED; OTHERS ARE LARGER

Government Report Indicates Surplus of Wheat.

Chicago.-The October crop report ssued by the Department of Agriculture at Washington a few days ago, made little change in the general outlook for grain production this year, compared with the report released a month ago. The corn crop was reduced 28,000,000 bushels from the last indication, but wheat was increased 3,000,000 bushels and barley 5,000,000 oushels, while the indicated production of bay was increased 4,800,000

What the report established was that it is practically certain there will be an extraordinary surplus of wheat in this country this year.

The indicated crop, of all wheat, Is 904,000,000 bushels, compared with 872,595,000 bushels harvested last year, an increase of nearly 31,000,000 bushels.

The corn crop in this report was reduced to 2,903,000,000 bushels compared with 2,931,000,000 bushels a month ago, but still compared with harvest last year of 2,773,708,000 bushels, so that an increase of more than 129,000,000 bushels is indicated.

Reduction in the corn crop outlook, as compared with that of a month ago, it was indicated, was due to the fact that investigation disclosed that dry weather during the filling period had prevented full development of the ears, a fact which was not so clearly apparent a few weeks ago.

International Stock

Show Set for Dec. 1 to 8 Chicago.-Dates of December 1 to 8 are announced for the International Live Stock exposition, which will be held at the International amphitheater and adjoining buildings in the Union stock yards. Entries for the individual classes close on November 1, and for the carload classes on November 24. Nominations for the international grain and hay show must be listed on or before November 10.

A new department this year will be the international wool show, for which entries will close November 1. According to the general manager, the purpose of this show is to encourage the development of better wool and its proper preparation for the market, as well as to ascertain the best fleeces of the various breeds and to show how they grade commercially, The junior feeding contest is expected to attract entries from more than 100 boys and girls. Juniors will play a more active part in the exposition this year than ever before, with contests aranged for college teams as well as individuals.

SHOW BUSINESS GOOD

Department of Commerce Survey Reveals U. S. Industry at High Level.

Washington.-Steadily maintaining level above 1927, business conditions throughout the country were exceptionally good during the past week, according to reports reaching the Department of Commerce, and from reflections in other departments. An added significance to the good trade reports came from William F. Whiting, secretary of commerce, who stated that a comprehensive survey undertaken from his office indicated a number of bad spots far less than in the late months of last year. The treasury's new offering of certificates was the outstanding government financial manueuver, and a quick response to the unusually high interest of 4% per cent was indicated by the statements at the department, A continued demand for this paper from the heavy oversubscription of the nine months' certificates at 41/2 per cent was to be expected, however. The Department of Commerce's figures showing that American tourists will spend approximately $900,-000,000 in other countries for the rear, called for interesting speculation among experts. While this record-breaking total will be partially overcome through the increase in foreign demands for American made goods, the gain in exports will not be nearly so great.

Plaster Cracks May Be Repaired by Home Owner

Cracks in plaster are a bane to every home owner whose house is unequipped with metal lath. Fortunately, most of such cracks can be repaired by the home owner himself with no more trouble than is expended on any of the average jobs that he does around the house. Care should be exercised to use a patching plaster which has been manufactured specifically for such work. This will help toward a good job.

Such patching plaster can be purchased in packages and requires only the addition of water to make it ready

And then, of course, there was Mr. Braxton down stairs: I knew he was minus an arm au t an indefinite number of ribs, but somehow I felt that if the worst came to the worst be would save us. So I wasn't scared-much.

But of course I didn't want to disturb bim. The doctor bad told me not to. So-

Still no answer! I turned the covers down and stared at Josephine. The light was not very strong (it was only moonlight), but it was strong enough for me to see,

Josephine was asleep! What do you think of that?

She was asleep. Just as if there wasn't a single ghost in all the wide. wide world. I was simply disgusted.

But of course I wasn't mean enough to wake ber. I dropped back on the pillow and let her sleep on-the sleep of the just woman made perfect. I want to make myself quite plain about what followed. I have been laughed at so much about it that I don't propose to stand for any more misunderstandings.

In the first place I did not go to sleep again. I lay still, and perhaps closed my eyes, but I positively did not go to sleep. When I first heard the music I thought It came from the river or from an automobile on the road. I was just as wide awake as I ever was in my life. And I heard it. Then after a while I realized that it was a great deal nearer than either road or river. In fact it was not far own accord. Animate beings may not away at all. It was near; in fact, it was in the house. I shivered all over when I was certain of that. But it was a delightful shiver. Now that I when they are alone with you in an had already seen two ghosts I was prepared for nearly anything. I had never heard of a ghostly band that played dance music and certainly not Only I knew it hadn't. I knew it of one that played "Too Much Mushad creaked because somebody had tard" (I had recognized the tune),

> At first I thought I would waken Josephine, but I decided not to do so. Very carefully I got out of the bed and into my slippers and wrapper and crept to the door. The lock was well oiled and turned easily and I opened the door a crack and peeped out into the corridor, Instantly the music seemed a little plainer. Most certainly it was downstairs, prebably in the hallroom.

> Come to think of it, why shouldn't there be dancing ghosts in the old house? Of course, ghosts might find it hard to stand such an architectural conglomeration of styles as Dinsmore's Folly. But, after all, if old tales were true, lots of people bad stood it in Great-grandfather Dinsmore's time, and perhaps their ghosts had become inured to it. Or perhaps they had been doomed, for some awful sin they had committed, to come back and view anew the borrors of the style.

Anyway, it was either ghosts or real people who were playing and dancing downstairs. If they were ghosts I wanted to see them. And if they were real people I wanted to see them still more. The two spooks that Josephine and I had seen on the lawn were entirely conventional. They acted just as you would expect a ghost to act. But dancing ghosts were different. If they really were ghosts, of course I should be terrified. But then it would end of it was that I slipped out in the corridor and down the stairs. It was undoubtedly in the ballroom. Then, abruptly, it stopped and I heard supposed that they were ghostly, ent from ordinary tones. I crept to crush girdle is also of the velvet. the ballroom door and peeped in.

Then I almost dropped. The great room was filled with an awful white glare that sizzled and burned and cast dreadful greenish glow. And ghosts! There were enough ghosts there to supply the Society for Psychical Research with material for a year. They were not of the sheet variety. They were costumed ghosts in full Eighteenth-century regalia-ladies with powdered hair and bare necks and arms and expanded skirts and men with ruffled shirts and perukes and knee breeches. They were talking together, too-talking very much as people talk nowadays. In fact, if I had not known that they must be ghosts-for they really couldn't be real-I would have thought that they were ordinary guests at a fancy ball. And over all hung that awful white light.

Making of an Artist

Theodore Thomas had a boundless contempt for the musicians who went about seeking to advertise their calling in their dress and neckties. Once a nice young man with luxurlant locks, a long flowing tie and other insignia of the tribe artistic joined the orchestra. He was entirely ignorant of Mr. Thomas' pet aversion.

During his first rehearsal Thomas eyed the hirsute youth with manifest disfavor, and at the end motioned him aside. The famous conductor, with his arms akimboo, rtood and gazed sardonically at the waving field of hair. Then he laid a finger on the young man's arm and said with no unkind accent:

Tact

Strange how many mistake the ap- style touch. pearance of power for power itself. Many seem rather to want the trappings of power, the titles and the gold braid, than power itself. Thomas Bailey Aldrich, novelist, once said: "The ability to secure your own way and impress others with the idea that they are having their own way is rare among men; among women it is as common as eyebrows." Tact is more powerful than a battery of machine guns-or a tractor. It takes a high order of brains to get your own way and make others think they are having theirs.-Grove that the effect is delightful. Patterson, in the Mobile Register.

SAVORY FOODS

One often hears the remark, "I know carrots are good for us, but I don't like them." Just try finding new ways of serving the good bloodbullding vegetable, as they are invariably served with a white sauce, and one tires of that. For variety prepare the carrots cut into strips of uniform thickness, wash and put to cook with only the water that clings to them, or not more than two tablespoonfuls; add butter, using a tablespoonful to a pint and stir often, keeping closely covered to cook in their own steam. They will be tender, well flavored and very delicious. A heavy aluminum dish should be used, so that there will be no danger of burning.

Pot Roast of Tongue,-Place in the bottom of a covered roaster one onion, two stalks of celery, one bay leaf, twelve whole peppercorns, one teanatural that sentiment for the flatter- spoonful of thyme and one teaspooning and the lovely in woman's ap- ful of whole allspice. So it is that the exquisite- ing water, one cupful of tomatoes, ly feminine teagown together with one-fourth cupful of vinegar, one cupother equally as charming negligee ful of salt and one-half teaspoonful of pepper. Lay a good-sized beef For these garments of grace and tongue in this mixture, cover the beauty designers are employing most roaster very tightly and put into the luxurious satins, transparent velvets, oven for about two hours, turning the metal weaves and other fabrics of tongue occasionally. Remove the like elegance. Seeing that there is tongue when tender, drop into cold nothing so prettily feminine as lace, water and skin it. Strain the liquor one feels no surprise that it is called and thicken very little. Keep the upon to generously lend its enchant- tongue hot. Add to the sauce six mushrooms, three medium-sized pickles, one canned pimento cut fine and In interworking lace into the one-half cupful of minced cold ham.

Chicken Loaf.-Stew a chicken in plenty of broth, seasoned with salt, pepper and a slice or two of onion and green pepper. Shred a loaf of bread and put a layer of the bread broken into large pieces into a baking dish; dot with bits of butter and add a layer of the chicken in large pieces, or sliced; add crumbs and chicken until all are used. Pour over the whole two cupfuls of broth, add a little minced parsley if desired and bake until the crumbs are brown.

Corn Souffle.-Melt two tablespoon design on the velvet. Then outline fuls of butter, add two tablespoonfuls and I had no difficulty in moving design as you see on the gown to the this with bronze, gold or silver paint, of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, oneabout. The music came clearer now right in the illustration. butter, and when melted add a pint of drained oysters. Cook until plump, season well with salt, celery salt and a dash of white pepper. Place on buttered toast and pour over the oyster liquor heated very het. This makes a tasty dish for luncheon or supper and is very quickly prepared.

Ripe Pear Salad .- Take ripe pears. peel and cut into halves, remove the core with a potato scoop and fill with a ball of seasoned cream cheese. Dot with paprika or the yolk of hardcooked egg put through a sieve. Serve on lettuce with French dressing.

Braised Liver .- Wash two pounds of liver, season well with salt, pepper and a little lemon juice; lay in a casserole with six carrots, two sliced onions, a bit of bay leaf and a pint of boiling water. Place thin slices of bacon over the liver, cover tightly and bake one hour and a half. Remove the cover, baste and brown. Serve with tomatoes or chili sauce,

Creole Chicken .- Cover one fowl with a pint of boiling water and simmer gently for a half hour, then add a pint of canned tomatoes and onehalf of a bay leaf which have been cooked together for Afteen minutes and strained. Add one small onion which has been cooked in two tablespoonfuls of bacon fut until a tight yellow, add three sweet red peppers cut into strips, three green peppers cut into strips, two teaspoonfuls of salt and continue cooking until the chicken is tender. To the sauce add three tablespoonfuls each of flour and water well mixed and cook until well

Any of this left-over chicken with a few mushrooms added, mincing the chicken, adding a little butter and flour for thickening, makes a most tasty dish to serve in ramekins or in

WHAT DR. CALDWELL LEARNED IN 47 YEARS PRACTICE

A physician watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound It can not harm the system and is not habit forming, Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for anybody's system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly.

Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to the nearest druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello. Illinois, for free trial bottle.

For Piles, Corns Bunions, Chilblains, etc. Hanford's Balsam of Myrrh All dealers are authorized to refund your mancy for the first bottle if not suited.
