

With the Wisconsin Legislature

Madison—Success of Sen. Walter S. Goodland's proposal to reorganize the state highway commission from its present form into a full-time salaried body was assured in the Wisconsin assembly.

Wisconsin's highways will be built and maintained by a three man full time salaried highway commission hereafter, instead of a five man part time per diem board. The assembly unanimously concurred in the Kohler Goodland bill for such a commission.

Gov. Kohler has signed the Fellenz bill, authorizing the legislature investigation of election campaign expenses back to 1924. A $10,000 appropriation is provided for in the bill.

This investigation, the bill states, shall inquire into "violations of the law and abuses which have occurred in connection with the several elections and shall have authority to go into expenses, methods and practices of any candidate, party or fraction" in any and all elections from 1924 to the present time.

The purpose of the investigation is to provide information upon which classification, modification and strengthening of the corrupt practices act governing campaigns may be based.

By the narrow margin of three votes the assembly expressed the Reis bill for taxation of public utilities at the local rate. Utilities are now taxed at the average state rate. The change would add about $1,250,000 to the taxes utilities now pay.

The bill is a companion to the Reis bill passed a few days ago, imposing income taxes on utilities. The income tax bill would add about $1,750,000 to utilities taxes, so that the two measures together mean an increase of a little more than $3,000,000 for the utilities.

The assembly refused, 43 to 41, to engross the Keller bar examination bill to repeal the law under which graduates of the University of Wisconsin law school are admitted to the bar without examination.

Senator Severson's proposal to require Chicago milk inspectors who examine Wisconsin herds to obtain a Wisconsin license was defeated, 15 to 13.

By a vote of 2 to 1, the senate committee on highways recommended for passage the Caldwell 4-cent gas tax bill. The measure would repeal the personal property tax on cars and provide a license fee of $3 on Class A and B cars and $10 on the others.

There has been no test of sentiment in the legislature on raising the gas tax, but the impression prevails that any such bill has only slim chance of passage. Furthermore, the impression is general that Gov. Kohler would veto any bill increasing the gas tax.

A proposal to require insurance companies to be made parties defendant in automobile damage suits was permanently killed by the senate, 18 to 14. Under the present law persons injured in automobile accidents sue not the insurance company but the policy holder. Opponents of the bill argued that if insurance companies were made parties defendant juries would be prejudiced and render verdicts against the company because of opposition to large business concerns.

Gov. Kohler has signed the bill of Senator M. F. White, Winneconne, which makes it optional with county highway commissioners if they shall attend the annual road school conducted in Madison by the state highway commission.

Other bills signed recently by the governor are:

A bill by Senator John C. Schuman, Watertown, changing from 60 per cent to 50 per cent the number of petitions from cattle owners in a county required to start a tubercular cattle test.

A bill by Assemblyman M. B. Goff, Sturgeon Bay, regulating the use of poison bait.

A bill by Senator John E. Cashman, Denmark, requiring that runners on sleighs must be 4 feet 6 inches apart.

A bill by Senator George W. Blanchard, Edgerton, providing that city clerks file either alphabetically or by streets the names of voters in each precinct.

A bill by Assemblyman Alvin C. Reis, Madison, giving war veterans preference in admission to the Wisconsin general hospital.

A bill by Assemblyman Ed Hilker, Racine, requiring that a list of the officers of agricultural societies be filed with the state commissioner of agriculture.

News of Wisconsin

Platteville—Twenty western horses sold at auction at the Cobb barns brought $1,513. One team of 7-year-old mares sold for $270.

Unity—W. J. Rogan, Marathon county agent, says that the demand for milk cows is extremely heavy this spring and that his office is swamped with inquiries regarding where good cows can be obtained.

Madison—Teachers of agriculture in 61 Wisconsin high schools will attend the twelfth annual vocational teacher conference, to be held at the Wisconsin college of agriculture, July 15-20. Conferences will be devoted to methods and practices for teaching agriculture.

Green Bay—Plans have been completed for the erection of a new cathedral school here by the St. Francis Xavier congregation at a cost of $125,000.

Antigo—A shipment of 30 Holstein, Guernsey and Jersey dairy cows purchased in this county has been sent to Connecticut.

Slinger—While working in a field near here, John Schweder, farm hand, escaped injury when the team he was driving was killed by lightning.

Waupun—Warden Oscar Lee reported the state prison population for May 2 at 1,040. The previous record was 1,045, established about two weeks ago.

New London—A large oak tree, estimated to be 140 years old, was felled on the George Bodoh farm at Liberty. The tree was two feet in diameter above ground and showed 133 annual rings.

Antigo—Forest patrols have extinguished 10 fires in forest district No. 9 this season. Four new fire towers will be built in the district this year. A hundred miles of telephone wire will be laid also.

Crandon—The Forest County Agricultural society has decided to hold a county fair in September despite action by the county board last fall in disallowing $2,000 county aid as has been customary.

Brandon—The golden anniversary of its first commencement will be celebrated by the Brandon high school here June 9 to 12. Alumni from all parts of the county are expected to return for the occasion.

Racine—Dancing, denounced recently by the Racine Ministerial association and other religious organizations here, will once more be permitted in the Racine senior high schools, the school board has decided.

Madison—Garden clubs from numerous cities in Wisconsin will compete in the first state-wide garden and flower show to be held here June 7 and 9 under auspices of the Wisconsin Garden Club federation.

Mellen—Karakul sheep, imported from Asia, will be raised on a 2,000-acre fur and sheep ranch which Peter Torcas, Chicago fur dealer and breeder, will establish soon near Mineral lake, 15 miles from here.

De Pere—Unable to extricate her head from between the cross pieces of the back of a dining room chair, Helen, the 1-year-old daughter of Joseph Fitzgerald, was strangled to death at West De Pere. She had climbed upon the chair and put her head between the cross pieces when the chair overturned.

Madison—Because of ill health, Justice Christian Doerfler of Milwaukee has resigned from the Wisconsin supreme court after serving there eight years. This is the second vacancy to occur in the supreme court bench within six weeks. Chief Justice A. J. Vinje died recently and the governor appointed in his place Judge Chester A. Fowler, of Fond du Lac.

Sherwood—Organization of what promises to be one of the largest stock shipping associations in the county, is gaining headway with nearly 100 dairymen signed up. Organizers have conferred with the railroad officials to obtain adequate shipping facilities, with ample room for a stock and shipping yard at the Sherwood station. The object of the association will be to ship direct, thereby dispensing with buyers and middlemen.

Wausau—With a staff of 25 testers, Dr. H. J. O'Connell, Madison, of the state agricultural department is directing the testing of the 120,000 dairy cattle in Marathon county for bovine tuberculosis. The test is taken every three years. The work is expected to be completed in July. Three years ago it was found that Marathon county cattle were almost free of tuberculosis. As a result sales of Marathon county cattle to breeders in other states increased materially, says County Agent W. J. Rogan.

Milwaukee—Market quotations: Butter—Creamery, fresh extras, tubs, 43½¢; extra firsts, 42¼¢@43¢; Cheese—Twins, 21¢@21½¢; dairies, 21½¢@22¢; young Americans, 22¢@22½¢; brick, 21¢@21½¢; Limburger, 22¼¢@23¢; Eggs—fresh gathered firsts, 27¼¢@28¢; Poultry—Fowls, 32¢@33¢; springers, 27¢@34¢; old roosters, 22¢; ducks, 23¢; geese, 23¢; turkeys, 25¢@28¢. Sheep—Lambs, good to choice, $15.25@16.00; fair to good, $14.00@15.00; ewes, $8.00@9.00.

Ashland—Mayor M. E. Dillon does not believe city council members should smoke, read or visit during meeting, and he does not favor oratorical exhibitions and debating society tactics, he announced at the organization meeting of the newly elected members.

Rice Lake—Dates for Barron county fair have been set for Aug. 27 to 30. Boys' and girls' club exhibits and bigger showing of dairy stock will be featured.

Madison—A summer school for agricultural extension workers will be held at the University of Wisconsin July 1 to Aug. 9. The school is planned to meet the needs of county agents, home demonstration agents, extension specialists and others desiring to enter extension work.

Livingston—The annual consignment sale of Guernsey dairy cattle, usually held here each spring, has been postponed to fall. Private sales have left dairy farmers with little surplus stock.

GERMANY, FRANCE DISLIKE DEBT PLAN

Young's Proposition Seems to Be Slated to Win.

Berlin.—The breeze of hope which is blowing in German official and banking quarters owing to the news from Paris that the reparations experts are nearing a possible basis of agreement on the proposals of Owen L. Young displeases the nationalist leaders, who staged big demonstrations in Herford and Koenigsberg and sounded the tocsin of alarm. Dispatches from Paris, say the French press is largely hostile to the plan, but France is expected to accept it rather than take the blame for wrecking the conference.

Speaking at Herford, Dr. Alfred Hugenberg made a violent attack on Agent General for Reparations Seymour Parker Gilbert, whom he charged with having administered the Dawes plan illegally, thus causing German currency to sag.

"Thanks to the Dawes plan of abuse, we are saddled with $3,750,000,000 debts to America and other foreign countries," he said. "This we are unable to pay in view of our bad foreign trade balance. Complete collapse of Germany is only avoidable by relief from all reparations payments as well as an entire change of present economic and diplomatic policy."

Addressing a huge assembly of steel helmets at Koenigsberg, Colonel Dusterberg said the situation was most grave as shown by the instability of the stock exchange, drop of exports, and the disorders in Berlin.

"One of these days the steel helmets will have to interfere to save Germany," he declared. "We will choose our own proper time."

An additional factor in the political and economic uneasiness was furnished by a decision of the National Congress of Railroad Employees at Leipzig, who instructed their executive to declare an immediate general strike if a meeting with the railroad directors did not lead to an agreement.

Paris.—The reparations settlement shoe is now on the other foot, and it is chafing the French press. Germany, England, and Japan have accepted the compromise evolved by Owen L. Young just as failure appeared to stare the committee of experts in the face.

Two weeks ago the fate of the conference rested on the Germans, now upon the verdict of the French and Belgian delegations depends whether the knotty question is definitely settled at this time.

The French press, where it was not definitely opposed to any diminution of the French claims, was in the rather bitter mood of feeling that "one bird in the hand is worth two in Berlin."

The memorandum of Mr. Young was concluded in all its details, together with the German note indicating acceptance of it with certain reservations, it was distributed to all members of the experts' committee. Each delegation at once started separate study so as to be in position to discuss both documents.

The solution proposed by Mr. Young and the American delegation means another appreciable concession and loss to both France and Belgium as compared with their lowest figures presented to the conference chairmen in reparations circles indicated that both France and Belgium were none too favorable to this solution.

Mellon's Case Goes to Senate, but in Deadlock.

Washington.—The controversy over the right of Andrew W. Mellon to serve as secretary of the treasury goes to the senate for a decision with a majority of the Judiciary committee so far unable to agree on any of three reports.

King Decorates General Booth.

London.—King George has made Gen. Bramwell Booth, deposed head of the Salvation Army, a member of the order of "Companions of Honor."

U. S. Lines Plan Ocean Air Service.

New York.—A transatlantic air service is planned by the United States Lines, to be operated in conjunction with the company's shipping business. As a preliminary to the ocean line, the United States Lines plan to operate an air service over land.

Nitroglycerin Blast Kills 5.

Prague, Czechoslovakia.—Five workers were killed and 20 injured when nitroglycerin exploded in a munitions factory near Pardubitz.

Convict Rioters Must Die.

San Francisco.—Five of the six Folsom prison convicts involved in the Thanksgiving day riot of 1927, in which 13 persons were killed, must hang, the State Supreme court decided.

Abolishes Capital Punishment.

San Juan, Porto Rico.—The death penalty was abolished in Porto Rico with the signing by Gov. Horace M. Towner of the bill passed recently by the legislature.

SPEAKER NEARS RECORD

2,000 ARE KILLED IN PERSIAN QUAKE

Washington.—Nick Longworth is nearing something like a record in being continuously chosen speaker of the house of representatives.

When the term for which he was elected at the opening of the special session shall have been concluded, only three of the thirty-eight elected speakers who have preceded him will have surpassed his record in point of continuous service. He is entering on his third consecutive term.

Three only have served four terms as speaker in direct succession. They were Andrew Stevenson of Virginia, Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois and Champ Clark of Missouri.

Henry Clay was six times speaker, but not more than three terms in succession.

Thousands Are Homeless and Without Food Supply.

Teheran.—Two thousand were killed and many thousands are homeless and without food as the result of a terrific earthquake in the Khorasan province in northeast Persia. Twelve distinct shocks were felt within 24 hours. In the town of Bujnurd 400 stores and more than 400 residences were destroyed and it was impossible to estimate the number of bodies buried beneath the debris. Twenty villages in the same district were entirely destroyed, and all human beings and cattle killed.

Hundreds of deaths are reported from the town of Shirvan and all the live stock there was killed. Other nearby villages suffered severely, but as yet no detailed reports have been received. It is reported that at one place the ground was broken open to a width of three yards and that the cleft extends for 18 miles.

Meanwhile millions of locusts are covering all of eastern Persia. The sky is darkened by the swarms of insects. In the province of Kerman trees, as well as smaller plants, have been attacked. There are grave fears of a famine.

Mexicans, Two Americans Held in Smuggling Plot.

New York.—Salvador Ataca, said to have been mastermind of the Mexican rebel army, was being held in jail while his black bag containing about $750,000 in gold, securities and deposit certificates was in possession of federal authorities. His secretary, Antonio Maqueo, and two Americans, Russell Matthews, assistant immigration director at El Paso, and W. H. Fryer, former assistant United States district attorney at El Paso, were arrested together, the latter two being released on bond. The two Mexicans had been arrested at Kansas City in connection with smuggling an airplane from the United States to the rebels and fled here after posting bail of $5,000 each. Ataca claims the money is his. He was supposed to be seeking to escape to Spain.

National 4-H Club Camp, Washington, June 19-25.

Washington.—One hundred and sixty of the most representative future farmers and home makers in the United States will gather in Washington with the advent of summer and talk to their more than 700,000 associates on the farms back home through a nationwide network of stations associated with the National Broadcasting company.

Immigration Quotas Filled.

New York.—Immigration quotas from some European countries are full so far in advance that many hoping to come to the United States may never be able to do so, Senator David A. Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, declared on his return from Sicily.

Fortune Awaits Nephew Heirs.

Benton Harbor, Mich.—A fortune of $50,000 awaits two nephews of the late Frank De Lisle, eccentric local merchant whose death last winter revealed hidden wealth, a fortune amassed in tobacco and odd wares.

$1,000,000 Fire in Vera Cruz.

Vera Cruz.—Twenty-five buildings, including more than a dozen of the most important commercial houses in Vera Cruz were destroyed in a $1,000,000 fire which swept the port here.

G. A. R. Post Against Joint Reunion.

Chicago.—Members of the George H. Thomas post of the G. A. R. announced adoption of a resolution opposing a suggestion that Union and Confederate veterans meet in a joint reunion in Washington in 1930.

Funeral for Man of 107.

Waterloo, Iowa.—Isaac Wolgast, one hundred and seven, who was buried here recently, was born at Hagerstown, Md., February 18, 1822, and died at Lemon, S. D.

DISARM CONFERENCE MAY BE HELD IN U. S.

Preparatory Committee Ends Meeting in Geneva.

Geneva.—A disarmament meeting of naval experts of the five big sea powers, probably in Washington, promises to be a feature of coming disarmament negotiations.

A delegation of one of the maritime nations expressed the opinion that it will be impracticable to conduct the stated conversation between Britain, the United States, Japan, France and Italy by long-distance exchange of written communications.

He therefore foresaw likelihood when the government have completed their studies of the recent American suggestions that the experts will be obliged to group themselves around a table and talk.

The preparatory commission for a disarmament conference adjourned after reaching agreement to postpone further detailed consideration of the naval question. The delegates of all naval powers plan to advocate such action.

Japan, Great Britain, France and Italy are expected to emphasize the necessity for time to subject the American ideas to technical scrutiny, especially the suggestion concerning estimation of strength of fleets by a formula of equivalent tonnage.

If the hoped for agreement is reached, the big five plan to notify the president of the preparatory commission who could then summon the commission to complete its work of preparing a draft treaty for reduction of armaments.

Should such a conference eventuate it was planned to link it up with the League of Nations and also with a general conference on land and air armaments, which also would be obliged to discuss extension of any five power agreement to the minor naval powers.

It still was confidently anticipated that France would announce another concession before adjournment by agreeing to abandon its project for international control of armaments. It was thought that this would improve the chances of success of the proposed international conference, which many believe can hope to achieve nothing more than stabilization of land armaments under present conditions.

The naval powers, however, are expected to contribute reduction of the fleets to the cost of disarmament. The present plan is to hold a series of international conferences, with each one improving on the modest start which the first conference is expected to register.

Forty Killed, Many Hurt in Southern Tornadoes.

Chicago.—Approximately forty persons were killed by storms which swept through the South and Middle West the latter part of the past week. Accompanied by tornado blasts, which caused widespread damage to buildings and crops, storms swept scattered points in twelve states—Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Florida, Maryland and Arkansas.

Upwards of 200 persons were reported injured.

A school house at Rye Cove, Va., was demolished, killing nineteen children, injuring seven others seriously, and nearly one hundred less seriously.

A cell block in the city jail at Columbus, Ohio, was demolished. Two prisoners were killed and twenty injured.

The high school building at Woodville, Va., was blown down and one boy was killed and several were injured.

Two persons were killed and a number injured in a wind storm which struck the outskirts of Jacksonville, Fla.

Between thirty and forty houses were destroyed at Morgantown, W. Va., and fifty persons injured.

Crops were damaged and wires blown down in Missouri and Illinois where the storm was accompanied by sleet and snow.

The storm caused the death of five persons in Arkansas, two in Tennessee and one in Alabama, with more than a score injured.

While relief work is progressing in all the affected regions under direction of the Red Cross, Virginia, which suffered greatest, saw its list of casualties increase as some of the injured succumbed and communication was restored to isolated communities.

Home building sites which are high and are terraced up from the street require a certain type of home in order to make a harmonious combination. The home shown in the accompanying illustration is of the type that looks well on a terraced lot. The broken roof lines and the overhang at the first floor sill of the roof proper take away from this house the appearance of height which is a good feature when the building is set high above the street level.

which extends the depth of the house. This room is 16 feet 6 inches by 21 feet, considerably larger than is usually found in the house of this size. The dining room is a corner room at the right of the entrance while the kitchen is 11 feet by 10 feet.

An open stairway leads from the side of the living room to the second floor. Opening off the hall to the bathroom, adjacent to the head of the stairs, are two bedrooms, all corner rooms and full of possibilities.

The outside walls of this house are covered with handsome siding with the colonial entrance door and brick platform give a touch of New England to the house.

Mirrors Regain Their Popularity for Walls.

Mirrors and pictures are vying for places on the walls of our homes today. Everywhere possible mirrors are being placed. One of the most interesting situations is between the second and third and the third and fourth of the series of three windows that most apartment living rooms possess. The very narrow space between these windows accommodates a venetian panel mirror very well. Because it is frameless this mirror will seem to have more life and gleam to it than the mirror incased in a frame. Perhaps directly above or below this decoration something will seem to be needed—perhaps a candle in a single brass sconce will do nicely.

Black for Sun Parlor Gives Pleasing Contrast.

Black is often used in decorating sun parlors, either as a background for the bright splashes of other colors or as a contrast here and there. Because the sun porch is so sunny and so colorful, it can stand some black which would, perhaps, not be possible in an indoor room. Think of such a big wicker on a summer afternoon—big wicker with cushions and a nearby table holding magazines and lemonade glasses! On a winter afternoon it is just as enticing.

In Heating, Secure Cold Air From Several Pipes.

The principle of warm-air heating is that of convection and a combination of methods involved in all heating processes. Air is drawn in and is heated by coming in contact with hot-metal surfaces. In the best apparatus the cold air is taken in, not through one pipe and heated en masse, but passes through a number of pipes surrounding the heat chamber of the furnace, in which it is thoroughly heated, resulting in small streams of air which are passed up through separate heat ducts to the various rooms, where the heat emerges warm and moistened from the register in the wall or floor.

Damp Cloth Best to Clean Varished Floor.

To clean a properly varished floor wipe it with a cloth dampened in lukewarm water. It is unnecessary to scrub, scald, oil or soap a varished floor to keep it clean. Its hard surface will not permit dirt to reach and impregnate the wood.

When a varished floor begins to show the effects of hard wear—once a year or oftener, if necessary—sandpaper it lightly and put on a new coat.

Blue Prints Keep Tab on Where Money Goes.

Building a house without blue prints and specifications is the easiest way to waste money. Properly drawn blue prints, with accurate specifications, are simply a detailed plan for the spending of your money. It means that you have things planned out in advance of building and that all expenses have been anticipated. You know what you are going to get from the beginning to the end.

Accurately prepared blue prints and specifications are worth many times more than they actually cost, for without them time is lost in trying to study out how the different parts go together, and there are endless opportunities for the making of changes and substitutions, with an accompanying greater expense and probably cheapening of the quality of materials.

Half of Homes Have Antiquated Fixtures.

A committee of engineers has made a recent survey of electrical wiring in this country to determine how well equipped homes are to make use of electricity. It has reported that more than half the houses that are now wired are using antiquated wiring, many of them need rewiring and practically everyone of them has too few electric outlets to permit the use of electricity they buy.

Modern Farm Houses Have All Conveniences.

Development of home equipment has made it possible to place every modern convenience of the city in the farm house.

Heating is naturally considered. Stoves and fireplaces are disappearing. Basement heating plants are common use, one of the most popular types being the pipeless furnace. This is because of the fact that the heat is thrown out except through the top, which allows the basements to be used for the storing of goods. All types of warm air, steam and hot water heating plants are installed on farms nowadays, however.

Running water is just as essential on the modern farm as in the city, as plumbing systems, sewerage disposal and efficient laundries depend upon a constant water supply. Aside from the house supply, water should be available for the dairy barn, feed yard, garage, lawn and garden and for fire protection.

It is to be noted that the water tank in the attic and the large water tower outside the house are being supplanted by steel tank pressure systems located in the basement and buried under ground.

HATS STRIKINGLY ORIGINAL; FROCKS OF NOVELTY WOOLEN

FROM color to contour this season's millinery, especially the new straws, are nothing less than stunning. At least the bondage of summer has been broken. Not this summer will every hat look like every other hat. In fact, what with huge brims, medium brims, little brims and no brims at all, it becomes quite a bewildering yet most pleasing experience to choose one's headgear.
 For every costume type the milliner creates a suitable hat. The trio of models pictured define three distinctly of Twentieth century genius with the result that many of the modern weaves have been rendered as delightfully wearable in the summer months as during any other time of the year. So it is that a considerable part of fashion's program for the immediate months revolves about diaphanous wooleens such as are sure to prove a lure to every fashion-loving woman.

 So far has progress been made in point of airiness and daintiness, some of the very newest wooleens are truly lacelike in their weave. Frocks of different silhouettes, varying from the snug cap-torque to brims of intriguing novelty and appreciable width.

Plaid straw woven in multi-colors is having a decided vogue in Paris and American women also are showing a keen interest in these novelty effects. Cerise dominates in the shapely little fancy straw toque or cap, as you choose to call it, shown at the top in the illustration.

In the fetching bakou straw centered to the right one foresees a promise of an era of picturesque brims. This model accents the long-at-oneside brim which rolls up gracefully at the opposite side. Its trimming of velvet ribbon is at once effective and in keeping with the latest dictates of the mode.

The very attractive model pictured last suggests the Dutch bonnet brim. These pointed-at-the-side flares occur repeatedly in the new shapes. A modernized drape gives the brim as here shown an added touch of chic. The intricate treatment as here indicated is characteristic of the general trend in millinery designing. Then, too, the fact that the black-and-white theme is adopted in the fashioning of this modish hat is also noteworthy in that black and white combinations are again keenly challenging the supremacy of bright colors.

With so great a variety of new types as is included in recent millinery collections, it follows that the scope of the summer hat wardrobe will necessarily have to be extended. Especially is this so since the mode calls in each instance for the hat to show relation to the costume with which it is worn.

For a fashionable clientele, milliners make it a point to design hats strictly of a sports character, also these wooleen laces are tremendously chic and as yet distinctly exclusive.

In matter of patterning there is a merry war going on in the realm of modern wooleens, as also among other fabrics, between stripes, plaids, checks and dots. Sometimes the plaids win, again the checks or dots while in the case of the swagger daytime frock in the picture stripes come out victorious. The stripes, in this sheer material, which is part rayon and part wool, as so many of the choicest weaves are this season, exploit the very genteel color combination of black and gray. A costume such as this will be found ideal for general wear.

Among the many delightful thin wooleens exploited this season one of the most indorsed is wool georgette. Ensembles of this sheer wooleen are especially desirable, for, while they present a trim tailored effect, they are cool enough for summer wear. These very attractive dainty wooleens come not only in smart solid colors but they are also obtainable in stripes, also small almost invisible check patterns. A very new wooleen material—just the thing for the making of the blouse to semi-sports effects, likewise tailored models for smart town wear. To which add varied formal types of millinery which this season especially show an inclination to take on more trimming and display captivating feminine touches beyond those of recent years.

Ultra-smart are the new zephyr-weight wooleens. Everywhere in the realm of fashion style leaders are expressing enthusiasm for wooleens of the newer sort, many of which are that sheer and dainty no one would think of even remotely associating them with the wooleen "has-beens" of the long ago.

In this day of miracles, wooleens have been touched by the magic wand accompany the wool-georgette ensembles so fine and thin it quite resembles shantung. It is especially smart in the new eggshell tint.

 One kind of wooleen weave for the frock with a wooleen of entirely different character, yet related in color, adds zest to this season's fabric vogue, such as a gray tweed coat flecked with violet with a violet georgette frock.
 Increasing interest is also shown for printed wool challis, with emphasis on bordered patterns. The border, in fact, is making a definite place for itself in wool fabric design, the narrower trimming bands being best liked.

Perfumed Luxury
 Bath salts are generally too cumbersome to carry with one when traveling, but a new kind, which come in concentrated liquid form, are a boon to the fair traveler who wishes to enjoy the comforts of home.
Strawberry Tricorn
 A very smart soft felt turban in strawberry shade is a perfect frock shape, by courtesy of the banding of itself that the little hat brings from the back and points upward over the center top. Its side flare and the front point make the three points of the tricorn.

Cravat Scarfs
 The cravat scarfs in gaudy color is new and very smart. One gets it in monotone to set off a suit or frock. It is especially smart with a collarless frock.

Matching Bag and Belt
 Heavy modernistic silk is used to fashion a smart bag and narrow belt.

The KITCHEN CABINET

(© 1923, Western Newspaper Union.)
 "All have not gold to give,
 But all may yet be kind;
 Where'er you are, where'er you live
 Give love to all mankind."
HOT BREADS

A tasty hot biscuit or roll is always popular and adds much to a meal.

Southern Tea Biscuit.—Take two cupsful of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one tablespoonful of sugar, sift and mix well. Cut into the dry mixture with two knives three tablespoonfuls of shortening; when well blended add three-fourths of a cupful of milk or water. Roll thin and handle as quickly as possible; cut with a small cutter and bake in a hot oven.

Graham Date Muffins.—Take one cupful each of graham and white flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt, add after sifting well one and one-fourth cupsful of milk and the bran that did not sift through. Drop in one unchopped egg and a half cupful of chopped dates which were well mixed in the dry ingredients, two tablespoonfuls of sugar and, lastly, three tablespoonfuls of melted shortening. Bake thirty minutes in a hot oven.

Cinnamon, Pecan Rolls.—Sift together three cupsful of flour, six teaspoonfuls of baking powder (level), one-half teaspoonful of salt and cut in one-third of a cupful of shortening. Add one cupful of milk gradually, making a soft dough; roll into an oblong, sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon with a few raisins, roll up, cut into slices and place in a pan which has four tablespoonfuls of brown sugar, two of melted butter, mixed and well dissolved. Bake in a moderate oven. Turn and serve upside down.

Gingerbread.—There is no cake more wholesome and better liked than this. Take three cupsful of flour, one cupful each of sugar and molasses, one tablespoonful of ginger, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half cupful of melted lard, one beaten egg, one cupful of boiling water in which one teaspoonful of soda is stirred. Mix all well except the water, add that at the last. The batter will be very thin, but if baked in a moderate oven for forty minutes will be light and delicate.

This makes a most attractive dessert with whipped cream or serve it with cottage cheese and apple sauce.

Various Good Things.

Delicious fruit dumplings may be made, baked and steamed, with any fruit at hand, making most dainty, attractive and appetizing desserts.

Prepare a baking powder biscuit dough, roll out one-fourth inch in thickness, cut into four-inch squares, place a peeled cored apple with sugar, butter and any desired spice in the center and pinch the corners. If one desires, chopped apple may be used, or any sweetened fruit, such as peaches, apricots or berries. Serve hot or cold with a hot sauce or with whipped cream.

Soft Gingerbread.—Cream one cupful of soft shortening with one cupful of sugar, add one teaspoonful of ginger, the same of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of molasses, one cupful of raisins, three beaten eggs, four cupsful of flour, one teaspoonful of soda and one cupful of buttermilk. Mix the dry ingredients alternately with the buttermilk and add the remaining ingredients. Bake in a slow oven.

Quick Candied Sweet Potatoes.—Cut boiled, peeled sweet potatoes into halves if small, in thick slices if large. Place in a frying pan with enough sweet fat to cover the bottom well, sprinkle with salt and thickly with brown sugar. Cover and cook slowly until the sugar is melted.

Veal Birds.—Most people like this meat dish. Cut two and one-half pounds of veal into four-inch squares. Take one cupful of cream, two tablespoonfuls of finely minced suet and the scraps of the meat left from the trimming, finely chopped; add one egg, celery salt, salt and pepper and cracker crumbs, moisten with some of the cream if not enough, place on the squares of meat, roll up, tie or fasten with toothpicks. Fry brown all over in butter. Place in the oven with a little boiled water and simmer until tender. Add the cream and cook slowly another half hour.

Sautéed Eggplant.—Cut the eggplant into slices one-half inch thick, peel each slice. Let stand covered in salt water an hour. Drain, wipe dry and dip into egg, then into cornflakes. Fry a golden brown in a small amount of fat.

Candied Kumquats.—Wash kumquats thoroughly and put into cold water; boil up once. Drain and repeat three times. To a pint of kumquats add one cupful of honey and one cupful of granulated sugar with hot water to cover. Simmer slowly for two hours, then drain from the sirup and dry for a few hours. When they are nearly dry roll in granulated sugar and cover tightly in a tin box.

Two-Ten Encyclopedia
 "Chin Ting Ku Chin Tu Shu Ch'i Ch'eng" is the name of a Chinese encyclopedia which comprises 5,000 volumes, and has been delivered to the Gest Chinese library at McGill University. The encyclopedia was compiled and printed between 1686 and 1723.

Scenting Teas
 Tea is scented artificially by exposing the dried leaves to the blossoms of such flowers as the sweet-scented olive, the gardenia, rose and jasmine.

It May Be Urgent

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctor's word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

DOCTORS quite approve the quick comfort of Bayer Aspirin. These perfectly harmless tablets ease an aching head without penalty. Their increasing use year after year is proof that they do help and can't harm. Take them for any ache; to avoid the pain peculiar to women; many have found them marvelous at such times. The proven directions with every package of Bayer Aspirin tell how to treat colds, sore throat, neuralgia, neuritis, etc. All druggists.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—

WHY CAMELS
ARE THE BETTER CIGARETTE

Camels are made of the choicest tobacco grown—cured and blended with expert care.

Camels are mild and mellow.

The taste of Camels is smooth and satisfying.

Camels are cool and refreshing.

The fragrance of Camels is always pleasant, indoors or out.

They do not tire the taste nor leave any cigarette after-taste.

Before Planting Time, Make Sure YOUR Planter Is Right

The McCormick-Deering "100 Series" planters combine old, proven principles with a simplified design which insures accuracy, a wider range of adaptability, and easier methods of adapting the planters to the different requirements. They have taken a number of years to perfect this combination. The result is a series of planters, which have no untried features. Their superiority lies in the manner in which these improved principles are combined and applied. The McCormick-Deering "100 Series" planters are furnished both as check-row planters and drills. The check-row planter can be quickly set for drilling, and only a moment is required to change it to power drill-drop for bunch-drop drilling. The pea-and-bean and fertilizer attachments are of an improved design, and can be quickly installed both on planters and drills. If you are looking for a planter that will plant your crops accurately and that will require minimum attention, it will pay to ask us to demonstrate a McCormick-Deering "100 Series" planter.

CHAPTER XII—Continued

For the first time in her life she was glad to be sheltered and pampered as were other girls. But there was a growing restlessness within her—a vague dissatisfaction for which she could not account. She groped for an answer but the analysis could not be expressed or definitely cleared in her mind.

Deane planned with her of evenings but the planning was all of play. No word of work crept into it. It only would accept her as wholly into that part of his life as he did into the rest.

And suddenly she longed to sit for just one evening before the fire and plan real work with Cal Harris. He had been the one man she had known who had asked that she work with him—or that he should work for her. She had drifted along, expecting that that same state of affairs would go on indefinitely, believing that he filled the void left by old Cal Warren. But now she knew he held that place he had created for himself. They had worked together and she had deserted the sinking ship to play the part of the tinsel queen.

She was conscious of a flare—half of resentment, half of apprehension—toward Harris for not having sent a word of affairs at the ranch.

Judge Colton entered the room and interrupted her reverie by handing her a paper. In the first black headed line she saw Slade's name and Harris'; an announcement of the last chapter of the Three Bar war.

The first line of the article stated that Slade, the cattle king, had been released. There was insufficient proof to convict on any count. She felt a curious little shiver of fear for Harris with Slade once more at large. The article retold the old tale of the fight and portrayed Slade, on his release, viewing the range which he had once controlled and finding a squatter family on every available ranch site.

She had a flash of sympathy for Slade as she thought his sensibilities must have been similar to her own when she had looked upon the ruins of the Three Bar. But this was boded out by the knowledge that he had only met the same treatment he had handed to so many others; that he had dropped into the trap he had built for her. She found no real sympathy for Slade only fear for Harris since Slade was freed. The old sense of responsibility for her brand had been worn too long to be shed at will. She knew that now.

"I suppose you'll be surprised to hear that I'm going back," she said. Her father's old friend smiled across at her and puffed his pipe. "Surprised!" he said. "Why, I've known all along you'd be going back before long. I could have told you that when you stepped off the train."

He left her alone with Deane when the younger man arrived. She plunged into her subject at once. "I'm sorry," she said. "But I'm going home. I can't cut out for this—not for long at one time. I want to smell the round-up fire and slip my twine on a Three Bar calf; to throw my leg across a horse and ride, and feel the wind tearing past. It will always be like that with me. So this is good-by."

Four days later, in the early evening, the stage pulled into Coldriver with a single passenger. The boys were in from a hundred miles around for one last spree before round-up time. As the stage rolled down the single street the festivities were in full swing. From one lighted doorway came the blare of a mechanical piano accompanied by the scrape of feet; the sound of drunken voices raised in song issued from the next; the shrill laughter of a dance-hall girl, the purr of the ivory ball and the soft clatter of clulps, the ponies drowsing at the hitch rails the full length of the street, the peeling yelp of some overenthusiastic citizen whose sight it was to bowl; all these were evidences of the wide difference between her present surroundings and those of the last eight months. She gazed eagerly out of the stage window. It was good to get back.

As the stage neared the rambling log hotel where she would put up for the night a compact group of riders swung down the street. Her heart seemed to stop as she recognized the big paint-horse at their head. She had not fully realized how much she longed to see Cal Harris.

Instead of dismounting in a group they suddenly split up, as if at a given signal, scattering the length of the block and dismounting singly. There was something purposeful in this act and a vague apprehension superseded the rush of gladness she had experienced with the first unexpected view of the Three Bar crew. Men who stood on the board sidewalks turned hastily inside the open doors as they glimpsed the riders, spreading the news that the Three Bar had come to town. The driver pulled up in front of the one hotel.

"It'll come off right now," he said. "Slade's in town."

"Sure," the guard replied. "Why else would Harris ride in at night like this unless to answer to Slade's threat to shoot him down on sight? Get the girl inside."

The reason for the scattering was now clear to her. Slade, on his release, had announced that he would kill Harris on sight wherever he appeared in town. Slade had many friends. The Three Bar men were scattered the length of the street to enforce fair play.

The guard opened the door and motioned her out but she shook her head.

"I'm going to stay here," she asserted.

Her answer informed him of the fact that she was no casual visitor but one who knew the signs and would insist on seeing it through. He nodded and shut the door.

Harris had dismounted at the far end of the block and was strolling slowly down the board sidewalk on the opposite side. Groups of men packed the doorways, each one striving to appear unconcerned, as if his presence there was an accident instead of being occasioned by knowledge that something of interest would soon transpire. A man she knew for a Slade rider moved out to the edge of the sidewalk across the street from Harris. She saw the lumbering form of Waddles edging up beside him.

He Met Her at the Mouth of the Lane.

Other Three Bar boys were watching every man who showed a disposition to detach himself from the groups in the doors. The blare of the piano and all sounds of revelry had hushed.

The girl felt the clutch of stark fear at her heart. She had come to meet Harris to meet Slade. It seemed that she must die with him if he should pass out before she could speak to him again and tell him she was back. She had a wild desire to run to him, at least to lean from the window and call out to him to mount Calico and ride away. But she knew he would not. She was frontier bred. Even the knowledge that she was in town might unsteady him now. She sat without a move and the driver and guard outside supposed her merely a curious on-looker interested in the scene.

"A hundred on Harris," the driver offered.

The guard granted a refusal.

"I'd bet that way myself," he said.

From this she knew that the two men were hoping Harris would be the one to survive; but the fact that their proffered bets backed their sentiments was no proof that they felt the conviction of their desire. She knew the men of their breed. No matter how small the chance, their money would inevitably be laid on the side of their wishes, never against them, as if the wagering of a long shot was proof of their confidence and might in some way exercise a favorable influence on the outcome. No man had ever stood against Slade. She noted Harris' gun. He carried it with the same awkward sling as of old, on the left side in front with the butt to the right.

"Fifty on Slade," a voice offered from the doorway of the hotel. The guard started for the spot but the bet was snatched up by another. Wild fighting rage swept through her at the thought that to all these men it was but a sporting event.

Her eyes never once left Harris as he came down the street. When at almost abreast of the stage Slade stepped from the doorway twenty feet in before him and stopped in his tracks. Harris turned on one heel and stood with his left side quartering toward Slade, the old pose she remembered so well. There was a tense quiet the length of the street.

"Those you like do poor work from behind," Harris said. "Maybe you sometimes take a chance yourself and work from in front." His thumb was hooked in the opening of his shirt just above the butt of his gun.

Slade held a cigarette in his right hand and raised it slowly to his lips. He removed it and flicked the ash from the end, then inspected the results and snuffed it again—and the downward move of his wrist was carried through in a smooth sweep for his gun. It flashed into his hand but his knees sagged under him as a forty-five slug struck him on a inch above the buckle of his belt. Even as he toppled forward he fired, and Harris' gun barked again. Then the Three Bar men were vaulting to their saddles. Evans careened down the street, tending the paint-horse, and within thirty seconds after Slade's first move for his gun a dozen riders were turning the corner on the run. Before the spectators had time to realize that it was over, the Three

Bar men were gone. Slade had many friends in town.

The girl had seen Harris' draw merely a single pull from left to right and by his quartering pose the gun had been trained on Slade at the instant it cleared the holster; not one superfluous move, even to the straightening of his wrist. The driver's voice reached her.

"Fastest draw in the world for the few that can use it," he said.

The guard opened the door. The girl was sitting with her head bowed in her hands.

"Don't take it that way, ma'am," he counseled. "He was a hard one—Slade."

But he had misread his signs. She felt no regret for Slade, only a wave of thankfulness, so powerful as almost to unnerve her, over Harris' escape, untouched. She accused herself of callousness but the spring of her sympathy, usually so ready, seemed dry as dust when she would have wasted a few drops on Slade.

The next day, in the late afternoon, Harris looked up and saw a chap-clad rider on the edge of the valley. She had ridden over unannounced on a horse she had borrowed from Brill. She answered the wave of his hat and urged the horse down the slope. He met her at the mouth of the lane and together they walked back to the new buildings of the ranch. The new breaking horses in the new corral were the same old hands. The same old Waddles presided over the new cook shack. Her old things, rescued from the fire, were arranged in the living room of the new house. A row of new storerooms and the shop stood on the site of the old. And in the midst of all the improvements the old cabin first erected on the Three Bar stood protected by a picket fence on which a few vines were already beginning to climb.

After the men had quit work to greet the returning Three Bar boss she went over every detail of the new house. The big living room and the place were modeled closely along the lines of her old quarters; heads and furs were on the walls, pelts and Indian rugs on the floors. Running water had been piped down from a sidehill spring. The new house was modernized. Then Harris saddled Calico and Papoose and they rode down to the fields.

As they turned into the lane they heard the twang of Waddles' guitar from the cook shack, the booming voice raised in song in mid-afternoon, a thing heretofore unheard of in the annals of Three Bar life.

"There'll be one real feast tonight," Harris prophesied. "Waddles will spread himself."

They rode past the meadow, covered with a knee-deep stand of alfalfa hay.

"It was only trampled down," he said. "She came up in fine shape this spring. We'll put up a thousand tons of hay."

He held straight on past the meadow, turned off below the lower fence and angled southwest across the range. The calves and yearlings along their route gave proof that the grading-up of the Three Bar herds was already having its effect. Ninety per cent were straight red stock with only a few throwbacks to off-color strains. The two spoke but little and near sunset they rode out and dismounted on the ridge from which, almost a year before, they had viewed the first move of organized law in the Coldriver strip.

A white-topped wagon came toward them up the valley along the same route followed by the file of dusty riders on that other day. A woman held the reins over the team and a curly-haired youngster jostled about on the seat by her side. A man wrangled a nondescript drove of horses and cows in the rear.

"That's the way we both came into this country first, you and I," Harris said. "Just like that little shaver on the seat."

"Will they find a place to settle?" she asked, with a sudden hope that the newcomers would find a suitable site for a home.

Maybe not close around here," he said. "Most of the good sites you can get water on are picked up. But they'll find a place either here or somewhere else a little further on."

He slipped an arm about her shoulders. "It's been right lonesome planning without a little partner to talk it all over with at night," he said. "Have you come back for keeps to help me make the Three Bar the best outfit in three states? I can't hold down that job alone."

She nodded and leaned against him. "That's what they wanted—old Bill and Cal," she said. "But it's nice that we want it too. I've come for keeps; and the road to the outside is closed."

They stood and watched the sun pelt over the far edge of the world; and down in the valley below them the hopeful squatters were looking for a place to camp.

[THE END.]

Schoolgirl of China Coached in Manners

In the native schools of China the Chinese girl gets very little book-learning. She enters the school late—at about the age of ten or eleven—receives instruction in morals and manners and marries as soon as her brief educational course is finished. The proverbial Chinese politeness is taught in the schools as well as in the home. In the classroom the little girls learn how to greet friends and acquaintances, how to receive visitors with all old-time Chinese formality; how to offer tea, how to present an umbrella to an aged lady, how to share an umbrella with a companion—a thousand and one acts of courtesy each distinguished by its own proper ceremony. In families which have become somewhat modernized the young Chinese daughters by way of a final polishing in their last year at school learn civics and receive a sort of patriotic instruction.

Serious praise is treasured.

A group of traveling men were swapping lies about their radios in a Smith Center drug store, as Tom Klene tells it. An old man had been listening silently.

"Got a radio, old man?" asked one of the drummers.

"Yeah," replied the old fellow. "I got a little 2-tube affair. It's a pretty good one, though."

"Can you tune out these little stations with it?"

"Well, I was listening to a quartet the other night, an' I didn't like the tenor, so I just tuned him out and listened to the three of 'em."

DIAMOND PICK-UPS

Cumberland (Md.) fans have bought the ball club from Jim McGuire.

George Susco, scrappy catcher of the Phillies, is a product of the sandlots of Bellefont, Pa.

"Doc" Woods, with the New York Yankees, is rated by most players as the best trainer in baseball.

Hugo Bezdek of Penn State coaches both football and baseball and has three grid stars in his outfield.

The Middle Atlantic league has abandoned the split-season schedule. Last year there were 15 leagues with the split.

Omaha has announced the sale of Pitcher Herman Sparks to Wichita. Both clubs are members of the western league.

Fritz Maisel thinks Augusta, Ga., is hot enough for baseball training. He was laid up five days with a bad case of sunburn.

J. H. Patrick, owner of the Los Angeles club, is offering a suit of clothes to every player on his team who hits a home run.

Bob James, the young shortstop from Omaha of the Western league, is making quite a name for himself with the Boston Braves.

Bob Shawkey, former New York Yankee pitcher, says Dule Alexander should be one of the sensations of the year in the American league.

Ernie Koob, who once pitched a no-hit game while with the St. Louis Browns, is pitching for the Mobile Southern association club this season.

Eddie Gill, seventeen, hit a baseball high into the air at Laporte, Ind. It hit a sparrow. Both fell. The ball was caught. Eddie was out. So was the bird.

Mike Kelley, manager of the Minneapolis team of the American association, turned over First Baseman Jim Oglesby to Des Moines of the Western league.

Johnny Byrnes has been signed to manage the Cumberland team of the Middle Atlantic league. Byrnes has been first baseman of the team for several seasons.

Leo Norris, infielder, and Fred Kinderman, outfielder, have been sent back to Vicksburg of the Cotton States league by the New Orleans club of the Southern league.

Ross Lyall, well known as a shortstop in minor league circles, has been named manager of the Phoenix club of the Arizona State league. Lyall played with Phoenix last season.

Only three big-league ball players, Pete Donohue, Luke Sewell and Ted Lyons, have been with the same club throughout their professional careers. All made the grade upon leaving college.

Connie Mack, who at the age of sixty-six is the oldest big league manager in the history of baseball, began his professional diamond career 45 years ago as catcher of the Meridian team in the Eastern league.

Babe Ruth has encouraged Manager Bill Carrigan of the Red Sox by telling him that he has picked the Sox to finish last during the league race so that Bill will get more credit if the team finishes higher.

Jack Holloway of San Antonio, who has been seen around first base in a number of class B, C and D leagues, has been named manager of the new Ballinger club of the West Texas league.

Sam Agnew has been named manager of the San Diego team of the new California State league. He was under contract to Hollywood, but obtained his release to handle the little club.

Zach Wheat has hung up his baseball trappings. The veteran outfielder who spent 19 years in the game announced that he had retired and would devote his time to his farm near Polo, Mo.

Manager Johnny Dobbs of Birmingham has signed Outfielder Jack Kloza and Catcher Bailey Tipton to Montgomery of the Southern league.

Larry Bettencourt, former All-American football star, now with Milwaukee, says he gets more thrills playing baseball than he did from football.

The famous "Hack and Mack" football combination at Tennessee, Hackman and McEver, are now out for baseball. They're sophomores and were outstanding halfbacks last fall.

Sixteen-Year-Old Girl Successor to Suzanne

Miss Lella Anet, aged sixteen, is being hailed as the tennis player capable of filling the vacancy left by Suzanne Lenglen, the former amateur tennis champion.

Suzanne admits that she expects to marry Baldwin N. ("Lucky") Baldwin of California, and is even now her tennis dates are over.

Miss Anet has been playing tennis ever since she was strong enough to hold a racket, and scoring victories over older adversaries since she was thirteen years old.

She is the daughter of M. Claude Anet, well-known author. He fully sympathizes with her ambition to become a court star and gives her the benefit of his amateur success, just as the late M. Lenglen trained Suzanne.

Miss Anet attracted little attention by her early successes, but experts began to talk about her as the new hope when she recently won the criterion de lawn tennis in a sensational victory over Miss Adamoff, an Armenian star. She is playing regularly in Paris and on the Riviera.

Struggle for National League Pennant Narrow

For several seasons it has been agreed and demonstrated that the struggle for the National league pennant lies among four teams with the other four merely in there to make possible a 154-game schedule and to fill up the second division berths.

New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Pittsburgh are the actual pennant contenders. Cincinnati, Brooklyn, Boston and Philadelphia will fit into their old grooves in the second division.

The American league, despite the supremacy of the New York Yankees, has witnessed the rise and fall of a number of other clubs, so that the first division is not all booked up like a tourist pullman until the season gets well under way.

Even the Yanks tumbled right down into seventh place when they ceased winning for a season.

Allgood Is Good

Larry Allgood, right-handed hurler, captain of North Carolina State college baseball varsity who is already off with a conspicuous start for Dixie collegiate honors. He is trying to beat his record of last year when he lost only two out of ten games.

Baseball Is Waning as Golf Is Growing

Leo Deigel, champion professional golfer of America, Canadian open champion and holder of the Massachusetts, Middle Atlantic and San Diego championships, thinks the future of golf will mean the decline of other sports.

"Golf is expanding tremendously. It is giving all other sports a hard race," said Leo. "Baseball in particular is being hit hard and despite its eight decades of popularity soon will suffer a loss in gate receipts."

Critz Now Captain

Hughes Critz is going to be in the middle of things this summer with the Cincinnati Reds. Manager Jack Hendricks has announced that the little Cincinnati peeper is to be his field captain as well as play second base.

It looks like a wise move on the part of the mentor. Short or second is the logical spot from which a field captain should function. He doesn't have to come running in from the outfield. The whole strategy of play revolves around him.

Psychology Is Seen in Yankee Contests

Inability to beat New York has been Philadelphia's greatest handicap in the last two years.

Grove, invincible against six teams in the American league, wilts before the attack of the Yankees.

Grove lost eight games last season and he lost six of them to New York.

He is a fast ball pitcher and New York is a fast ball hitting team.

If Grove overcomes the New York hoodoo Philadelphia will have a better chance of winning.

There is considerable psychology involved and psychology is hard to beat in baseball, or anywhere else in sports for that matter.

Cubs Using Pitcher to Imitate Enemy in Game

Henry Grapp is a fixture on the Chicago Cubs' pitching staff, yet he never pitches a game. He is the only major league baseball player who is neither a regular nor a substitute.

Nor is he a bat boy. "Official batting pitcher" is Grapp's title. While other big league clubs rotate that job among regular and relief twirlers, the Cubs employ Grapp almost exclusively in that role.

For three reasons Grapp has held his job, working every day.

His favorite stunt is to imitate the opposing pitcher for the day. If Alexander is hurling for the Cardinals, Grapp will throw as Alex does; if Carl Mayes is pitching for the Reds, Hank will feed underhand tosses to Cub batters.

Grapp finishes his day's labor before his mates start to earn their day's pay. By three o'clock of any afternoon he is washed up, for the box score never includes his name.

Yale Grid Captain

W. W. "Firpo" Greene of Huntington, Pa., who was elected captain of Yale's varsity football team for 1929. Green plays left guard and was the only player to be mentioned as outstanding.

Sporting Squibs

Over 150 big league hockey stars only three were born in the United States.

The largest sports club in the Argentine has a membership of 12,000 athletes.

Allie Morrison, Olympic 135-pound champion, was re-elected captain of the Illinois wrestling team.

With seven men back from last years team, the wrestlers of Missouri university see a big season ahead.

Hans Wagner, veteran baseball star, has resigned his position as sergeant-at-arms of the house of representatives.

There are rumors abroad that Miss Florence Killilea will serve as head of the Milwaukee club until a new owner is found.

The receipts of the National Amateur Athletic Union basketball championship tournament run off recently in the convention hall in Kansas City, Mo., were $17,824. The tourney lasted six nights.

Coach Oakes of the Nebraska football squad had twenty-five candidates for backfield positions alone in the spring practice which the corn husker eleven held.

The fall meeting at Dale Park track, near Henderson, Ky., has been authorized by the state racing commission. Dates will be September 4 to 11, just preceding the Lexington fall meeting.

Peter Manning, 1.56%, the speediest trotter the world has seen, made the fastest mile turned in over a half-mile course in 1928, 2.03%, despite the fact the horse has reached the age of twelve.

Coach Ky Enright of California's world's champion varsity crew has a great freshman eight to represent the Golden Bears this year. The crew averages 100 1/2 pounds in weight and 6 feet 3/4 inch in height.

Rifle shooting was the only form of athletics that interested Charles Lindbergh, transatlantic hero, while he was a student at college.

A new sports arena, to be known as the Garden and costing $3,000,000, is to be built at Kensington. In the north-eastern part of Philadelphia, Pa.

Jim Corbett is credited with having started the vogue of public training camps for fighters, when he was conditioning himself for his encounter with John L. Sullivan.

WHAT DR. CALDWELL LEARNED IN 47 YEARS PRACTICE

A physician watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the system and is not habit forming. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting, and youngsters love it.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic purges and purges. He did not believe they were good for anybody's system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly.

Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to the nearest druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. B.B., Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

That Might Succeed Reader—How can I keep my daughter home? I need to do it by hiding her clothes. This doesn't work any more.

Editor—Hide her lip-stick.

The Usual Agnes Reppier of Philadelphia, one of the four members of the Seville exposition committee, sparkles in her conversation as brightly as in her essays.

At the Acorn club the other day Miss Reppier discussed the case of a pretty girl who married a man to reform him, failed in her task, and returned home to her parents.

"Yes," Miss Reppier said, "she married him to mend his ways, but she soon found out that he wasn't worth a darn."

A Bad Wreck

Of the constitution may follow in the track of a disordered system, impure blood or inactive liver. Don't run the risk! Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is an alternative extract of herbs and roots that drives out impurities—acts on the liver.

When you're debilitated, and your weight is below a healthy standard, you regain health and strength by using the "Discovery." It builds up the body.

Mrs. Mary A. Johnson of 132 S. Franklin St., Madison, Wis., writes: "For years and years I have used Dr. Pierce's medicine. I was wonderfully benefited by taking the 'Discovery' as a tonic and blood medicine."

Sold in tablet or liquid form. If your dealer does not have it, send 65 cents for the tablets to Dr. Pierce's Invalids Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

Confusion of tongues stopped Babel, but it doesn't seem to affect New York.

Commercial Uses of Airplanes in Europe

The delivery of newspapers by airplanes is commonplace in many parts of Europe. Fleets of special planes are employed. Bundles of papers are dropped from the speeding planes, flying on regular schedules, so that the late editions are carried 100 miles within an hour. Last year German air lines alone covered a distance of 3,882,250 miles and carried 93,000 passengers.

The surprising activity of the air routes in Europe today is shown by the latest air timetables. In place of the tabulated figures of ordinary railroad schedules, airports and connecting lines are indicated on maps.

The time for departure and arrival of airplanes is printed within circles denoting the various cities, and can be read at a glance. The map has no geographical boundaries or political divisions, for the airplane overlaps all the ancient barriers.—Nation's Business Magazine.

Strike Table on Display A restaurant in London has put on display the table about which the strike leaders gathered in 1926 to discuss the peace terms in the general strike that tied up England. Socialists have taken a great interest in it. The restaurant at one time was the gathering place of politicians, among them being Lloyd George, Herbert Asquith and Winston Churchill.

Temporary Occupation "How are your daughters, Mrs. Johnson?" "Thank you; just at the moment they are all married."—En Rollig Half Timma, Gothenburg.

Of relative importance—your "Uncle."

Some people derive a lot of pleasure from affecting affection.

WORKS HARD IN THE FIELD Relies Upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rankin, Illinois—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a tonic before and after my first child was born six years ago. Then when my second child came and I felt weak and run-down, I took it again. I am still taking it and I am feeling better. My mother used it for herself when I was small and always got good results. She still takes it. I do all kinds of heavy work, including my housework and I also help in the field. I recommend the Vegetable Compound and will gladly do so at any time. I am willing to answer any letters asking about this medicine."—Mrs. BEN. ORENLAND, Route 2, Rankin, Ill.

Trust Your Engine to POLARINE or ISO=VIS

Your engine will be safe with either of these two rich and sturdy motor oils.

Both Polarine and Iso=Vis will stand up under the trying conditions of country driving. They are sturdy!

Both Polarine and Iso=Vis will protect every bearing surface with cushioning films of oil. They are rich!

Polarine is an economical motor oil. Only because of the large volume produced is it possible to sell Polarine at anything like the low price you pay for it. And only because it gives such satisfactory service is such a large volume demanded.

Iso=Vis is the sensational motor oil that wears and wears! Motorists say they can't wear it out! It maintains a constant body and constant lubricating efficiency—many are able to drive for 1000 or 2000 miles without draining the crankcase.

Anybody with ambition is interested in success. Keeping everlastingly at it is the price of success in any business. To get better milk for use in all branches of the dairy business is no exception to the rule. We have many problems to contend with, but the quality problem overshadows all the rest. The best selling program is of little use without quality improvement. Make a better product and let consumers know about it, is the way to build for better business. All dairymen should be keenly interested in producing quality goods. That is the main-spring of their business.
