HOUSE BODY IS FOR 110 TARIFF CHANGES

The rule is similar in many re spects to that under which the Fordney-McCumber tariff bill was considered in the house.

The committee recommended 110 amendments. The amendments were submitted to a Republican caucus, which failed to reach a complete agreement. The committee recommended no change in the sugar schedule, which provides for a boost from 2.40 to 3

Many changes in industrial prodncts were made, nearly all increases. Rayon tariff rates were boosted

Commercial Activity Greatest for First Quarter.

Washington.-The first four months of 1929 were described in a statement by Secretary Lamont as showing greater industrial and commercial activity than has ever been registered in a similar period.

"Automobile production, which furnishes a valuable indicator of the general buying power of the community, was more than 50 per cent greater than during the first four months of last year, over 2,000,000 cars and trucks being turned out.

"A still broader measure in the expansion of industry is furnished by the fact that the number of employees in factories was 5 per cent greater during the first four months of 1929 than in the same period the year before, while the increase in the amount of pay rolls, by reason of more continuous employment and perhaps also of higher wage rates, was much greater still, amounting to 9 per cent.

"The only important field in which decline in activity has thus far been reported is that of residential construction, by reason of which the total value of new building contracts of all classes was 11 per cet less than last year.

"On the other hand, new contracts for commercial and industrial buildings and for public works and utilities were considerably larger than last

HOOVER CRIME BOARD TAKES UP NEW WORK

Body to Probe All Phases of Law Enforcement.

Washington.-President Hoover has announced his promised national law enforcement commission, composed of eleven eminent citizens, selected to attack what he regards is the dominant problem before the American people and his administration-a growing disregard for law, which, in his opinion, has made life and property in America relatively more unsafe than anywhere in the civilized world.

To seek a solution for "the entire question of law enforcement and the organization of justice," possibly involving sharp changes in the Federal court system and even in prohibition, Mr. Hoover created a non-partisan Presidential commission, headed by George W. Wickersham of New York, attorney general in the Taft administration, for a nation-wide inquiry which is expected to take two years. Other members of the commission, all but one judges and lawyers of wide experience and distributed approximately in line with judicial districts. Newton D. Baker of Cleveland, sec-opinions pertinent to the broad subject, there is a disposition to avoid open public hearings that would merely waste the commission's time by the repetition of arguments of zealots for one cause or another. The President is leaving the determination of procedure to the commission itself, it was said, but the trend of his mind has been revealed in his long series of conferences about the scope and character of the inquiry. The eleven members of the commission, drawn from all parts of the country, recently took luncheon with him. During the session Mr. Hoover outlined his objective and joined in the general discussion.

The White House statement nouncing the personnel of the commission called attention to the fellow-ing facts: The commission is the fulfillment of President Hoover's pledge in his accentance speech for a searching investigation of facts and causes in prohibition.

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to practical home building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the manufacturer, he is, without duot, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Economy is many times an outstanding asset with prospective home builders when selecting a design for their new home. What runs up the cost of building a home is the irregular shape of a house which requires an irregular shape foundation. Each angle or turn in the foundation requires almost twice as much masonry as the same wall running straight. That is why architects in designing small homes stick pretty closely to straight lines. The home building design shown in the accompanying illustration is a rectangular home, 24 feet deep by 26 feet wide. However, the plainness that might come by these dimensions is broken by an artistic open porch one end. The entrance, too, has

Simplicity and Dignity

Needs of Small Home Dignity and simplicity are the basic essentials of the successful small house. Fussy and elaborate details not only detract from the architectural merits of a house, but needlessly add to its cost. The realization of this fundamental architectural principle is slowly being driven home to the American people. with the result that we are beginning to see a great improvement in our domestic architecture. The increased cost of building that followed the armistice has at least one good effect. It made people give more serious consideration to the materials used in home building and greatly increased the use of the more permanent materials. People appreciate more than ever that there is little difference between the cost of the cheaper materials and the best, especially when the difference is reduced to a percentage of the total investment. The use of hetter materials and construction and the growing appreciation of the good in architectural design is adding to the attractiveness of many un American community.

A second perquisition will then not come amiss; in fact, you will have it bruited all over the neighborhood that this particular family has been denounced as 'suspect' and that their arrest and subsequent trial in Paris, on a charge of treason, is only a matter of days. You understand?"

"I do," Lauzet replied, in a tone that sounded decidedly perplexed and unconvinced. "But-"

"Majority" and "Plurality" A candidate for office may be elected by r plurality, though he does not receive a majority, which is more than half of the votes cast in an election. "Plurality" is defined as the "excess of the highest number of votes cast over the next highest number." To illustrate, supposing 10,000 votes are cast in an election in which there are three candidates. The winner may receive 4,000 votes, the runnerup 3,500 and the third man 2,500. STREET FROCKS NOW POPULAR; SMART SUIT FOR SUMMER WEAR blouse of white crepe is trimmed with dressmaker bows, which adds a popular touch.

STREET frocks are very popular this season. In the picture is to be seen one of purple tweed. The blouse shows a double-breasted style finished with feather buttons and showing a belt of the material tied set on at the hip-tops in uneven line. A purple hat showing a one-sided trimming belongs with this costume which has been shown much preference thus far. Quite different from the majority of frocks this one is collarless in the back, but has two broad lapels in the front, lending a coat effect which is quite becoming to almost any type of woman, and it may be worn by the miss or matron.

While tweeds and jerseys, usually considered only correct for country wear, have been shown much favor the season they now are built into suits for town wear, strictly tailored.

SIGNBOARDS ARE VERY UNSIGHTLY

Industries Depending on Highways for Business

Worst Offenders. (Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) In a canvass of advertising signs on the highways, the bureau of public roads of the United States Department of Agriculture found that the automobile industry and those industries which serve it are the worst offenders. Their signs carry advertisements for cars, tires, oils and other accessories. Hotels and restaurants. the bureau says, probably rank second in the amount of advertising done along the highways.

Thomas H. MacDonald, chief of the bureau, in a recent statement declared: "There is little of fairness to the public in the fact that the industries which depend upon the highways for their whole business should be the worst offenders in erecting and maintaining thousands of glaring, distiguring signs along our streets and roadways." He also pointed out that many of the producers of the best products do not advertise in this way.

Distract Driver's Attention.

"These signs," says Mr. MacDonald. "are concentrated on the main trava beap of buttered beets and in the eled highways and are habitually placed at turns in the road where the motorists should be giving most careful attention to driving. In many instances they cut off the view of approaching cars at curves and at road intersections. Some even cut off the with hot water in finger sized pieces. sight of approaching trains at unprotected grade crossings. Those which carry the word 'stop' and other words ordinarily employed on the legitimate warning signs weaken the force of the properly placed cautionary signals." The bureau found that signs tend to multiply on poor or inferior real road; that frequently abandoned sheds positions for large billboards.

The unsightliness of the tin signs hung on wire fences or attached to sprinkle with a little of the suet and tree trunks was very noticeable to the investigators. Many such signs have Bread Pudding Dessert.-Remove been completely washed out by the weather, yet remain to disfigure the Danger Signals Obscured.

The effectiveness of the standard numeral signs and direction and danger signals on the principal transcontinental highways, which have contributed immeasurably to the convenience and safety of travel, is hindered in many instances, says the bureau, by advertising signs which are so placed as to obscure them or withdraw attention from them. In many cases such advertisements are a posttive hindrance and menace to the traveling public, especially when they contain misleading information about distances and the condition of the road ahead, which is belied in less obtrusive fashion by the public signs. In his last annual report Mr. Mac-Donald stated: "In practically all cases these roadside advertisements merely repeat in the same form appeals that are made quite properly and insistently through other agencles. They are unneeded by the public and are of doubtful value to the advertisers. It is hoped that means may be found by suitable legislation to effect their complete elimination upon all roads constructed in part with money appropriated by the national government."

There Is a Difference There is one point, among several, that should be borne particularly in mind when buying a used car. This exercise is of little value compared is that unlike when buying a new machine, appearance is a secondary consideration. It is all right to give appearance a big margin in the latter case because all new cars are good these days. In the case of the used car, the condition of the chassis is a big item. This, of course, does not eliminate appearance as a factor.

Worst Garden Insects.

"Some of the worst insect enemies of the garden are doing their utmost just at the time when the gardener wants to take a rest," says Victor H. Ries, extension florticulturist at Ohio State university. "As the season advances the real gardener must become more vigilant and active instead of less so." The blister beetle, the tarnished plant bug and the red spider are among the most vigorous enemies of plants during July and August.

The blister beetle, a black, hardshelled insect about half an inch long. eats up the plants and escapes before the average poison can get in its work on him. The tarnished plant bug is particularly active on asters. Both may be controlled by one of the several newer spray materials which contain pyrethrum as the active ingredient. These sprays are not to be confused, Ries points out, with the old-fashioned pyrethrum powder. Another antidote for the two bugs mentioned is dusting with sodium thuosilicate. Nicotine oleate is also recommended. Both insects mentioned are active and numerous, and will require regularly repeated applications of spray.

The red spider, a semimicroscopic mite, infests many evergreens as well as the common garden phlox. It may be controlled by dusting with powdered sulphur or spraying with a miscible oil, which is greatly diluted when used as a summer spray.

Alfalfa Seed Injured if Mixed With Sweet Clover

There is no way by which alfalfa seed may be separated from the sweet clover, as they are similar in size and shape. Only the experienced seedsman can detect the prevalence of the sweet clover in any lot of alfalfa offered. Sweet clover ts a wonderful crop, and it has a distinct place in the world, but its place is not among the alfalfa either in the sack or in the meadow. If the alfalfa is never intended for anything but hay, a little sweet clover may not matter, but when the one having seed for sale, including alfalfa. Is admittedly somewhat adulterated by natural process "Alfalfa" cannot contain over 5 per price is plenty tow enough. The of other legumes. If the grass convery problem. The sweet clover may not do any harm in the cornbelt meadow, but better it would be for a good stand of alfalfa if all the seed sown were alfalfa and not partly something PREVENT SPREAD OF BINDWEED

Not Advisable to Burn

It is not a good plan to burn off the land any kind of trash which will make humus in the soil. Even old sweet clover grass is worth too much plowed under to be burned off. Of course, if there is enough fine trash in the field to afford a good harbor for chinch bugs there may be some justification for burning over a field. But sweet clover growth does not usually afford good enough protection for the chinch bugs to live over winter. Burning over red top, timothy and blue grass does sometimes make it look as though it was helped, but this is likely to be only an appearance, because one can see the new grass starting better than when the old growth is not burned off.

Forage Is Always in Demand by Dairymen.

(Prepared by the United States Departmen High-grade alfalfa hay could be profitably produced and marketed in much greater quantities than at pres ent according to the United States Department of Agriculture. Dealers in all big alfalfa-hay-distributing markets annually receive thousands of orders from dairymen for high-grade alfalfa hay which they cannot fill because an Insufficient quantity of such hay is produced. Many dairymen who do not now utilize much alfalfa hay would become buyers if supplies of high-grade hay were available at all times, says the department.

Study Market Demands.

Farmers who grow alfalfa for a cash crop are urged to study market demands and then make their production and loading practices conform to the market requirements. Methods of producing, bating, and loading highgrade alfalfa hay for market are discussed in Farmers' Bulletin 1539-F. entitled "High-Grade Alfalfa Hay, just issued by the department.

Among the causes for low-grade alfalfa listed and discussed in the bulletin are thin stands containing weeds and grasses, foreign material such as decayed rakings from previous cuttings, weather damage, over-ripeness at time of cutting, overdrying, baling and stacking undercured hav, baling during weather conditions which cause loss of leaves and causes stemmy-appearing bales.

Characteristics of high-grade alfalfa hay, on the other hand, are purity, a high percentage of leaves, clinging foliage, green color, and pliable stems. Leafy alfalfa hay having one or more of these desirable characters is the type of legume forage that is always In demand with the dairy-cattle feed ers because of its well-recognized effeet on milk flow.

The foundation of the business of producing alfalfa hay for market is a good, pure, stand. Seed of varieties known to have local adaptation, free from foul weeds, and sown in sufficient quantity to produce a thick stand is of greatest importance.

Classifying Alfalfa. In the official United States hay standards, alfalfa hay is classified according to its purity. The class named with sweet clover, see to it that the cent of grasses nor over 10 per cent chances are that he bought the supply tent is over 5 per cent but not over at a bargain up where the growers 20 per cent the class is designated as grading factors in the United States possible.

Desirable Type of Legume standards are leafness, color, and foreign material, anyone of which may lower the grade of a lot of hay.

The most important item of all in loading is to load cars with hay of uniform class and grade. Uniform loads unvariably sell for better prices than nonuniform loads, and sometimes the difference in price is substantial. Nonuniform loads often sell on the basis of the lowest grade found in the car lot.

Guard Plants and Trees

Against Japanese Bugs By C. H. Zimmer, Supervisor Japanese Beetle Control, New York State,

The Department of Agriculture finds that plants and trees can be sprayed with an arsenical poison and be successfully protected against the attacks of the Japanese beetle. From the standpoint of the production of fruit or protection of shade trees, this insect does not offer a menace which cannot be prevented or controlled. To prevent injury by Japanese beetles or other leaf eaters, the foliage should be sprayed with a mixture of 3 pounds of powdered arsenate of lead and 2 pounds of flour to 50 gallons of water. Mix the arsenate of lead and flour dry, then add water to make a paste. dilute and strain into the spray tank. In order to protect the foliage and fruit from the attacks of the Japanese eetle, it is necessary to have the spray applied before the plants become infested. The exact time for do-Ing this varies somewhat with the sea

If the tender foliage of peach trees is to be sprayed, the poisons should be applied one-half the strength above mentioned.

Poisoned Bait Controls

Cutworm Appearing Early Poisoned bait has been used with success in the control of cutworms on corn land. The formula for the poion mash is as follows: Wheat bran 50 pounds; paris green or crude arsenic, two pounds; black-strap me lasses, two quarts; water, one gallon. or more as needed. The mash should be mixed thoroughly together in a dry state and then the molasses should be added and stirred in. This poison mash should be broadcast over the field, taking care to sprinkle it sparingly around the hills. The pol son for the cutworms should be put pear above the ground so that the and seedsmen are wrestling with this "Alfalfa Light Grass Mixed." The worms may be killed as quickly as of its spread is the next best thing to complete eradication for checking the ravages of this weed pest. "Since the killing of bindweed with sodium chlorate as a spray should be practiced only under the supervision of the county agent or some leader who has received special training in handling the chemical, it is advisable to handle bindweed patches by prevent ing spread," suggests E. H. Teagarden, bindweed specialist, extension service Kansas State Agricultural college. "It is possible that more new patches of bindweed start from seed than from all other sources. For this reason, every effort should be expended to prevent the bindweed plants from producing seed."

Plowing of bindweed patches at the time the first blooms appear is recommended by the specialist. Subsequent surface cultivations may be made at any time after growth is resumed. When the plants start to bloom, plow again and prevent the plants from producing seed.

Teagarden cautions farmers having trouble with bindweed against the long life of the seed. It may live in the soil eight or ten years or even more before growth starts. For this reason any seed prevented from forming will lessen the eradication problem to a great extent.

"The man who can putt is a match for anybody." To which Harry Vardon replied: "The man who can pitch doesn't need to putt." And one witty sophist dodged the issue by saying that the most important shot in golf is always "the next one."

"The drive is the most important shot," said Walter Hagen, "It makes every other shot easier and harder." This is essentially a reasonable verdict, especially in these latter days of Gargantuan courses, with the second shot depending almost exclusively on the long and accurate wallop

His failure to win the championship, and, indeed, to win it by from two to eight strokes, is directly attributable to his inability in that tournament to keep his tremendous and usually accurate tee-shots in the fairway.

The long and accurate drive makes all the difference between a pitch to the green and a hard iron or a spoon shot, sometimes from a disadvantageous position, on many of the twoshot holes which nowadays constitute the potent factor of our championship courses. On the popular holes of 400 to 440 yards, a fine drive leaves a pitch or a medium iron, where a short or partly missed drive means a poke with the longer irons or a desperate bang with the wood.

Two-thirds of a modern championship course is built on the drive with the wood.

Asks for Upper Berth

Found: A big league ball player who begs to ride in an upper berth. He's Harold McKain, the new White Sox pitcher. He made this startling admission when he asked Traveling Secretary Lou Barbour "if it would be possible, please," to change his lower berth on the train for an upper. "I sleep much better in uppers," young McKain said.

"In my many years in baseball," Barbour said later, "I've met many remarkable situations, but this is the first time I ever heard of a ball player, especially a recruit, who refused to have high 'ideas' and admitted he'd rather ride in an upper. Quite a few believe it is/more comfortable up there, but won't admit it."

Pitcher Carroll Struck

Out Four in One Inning P. Owen Carroll, who led the Detroit pitchers in games won last year, achieved a distinction while pitching for Toronto that few pitchers in professional baseball win.

In the little world's series of 1926 between Toronto and Louisville Carroll struck out four of the Colonels in one inning. Oven took the first two without accident and cut the third strike over on the third batter. But his catcher permitted the ball to roll away with the remark: "That's all right; we'll get the next one."

Carroll bore down on the fourth batter and struck him out, too.

Max Bishop Anxious to Be Great Lead-Off Man

Max Bishop, regular second baseman for the Philadelphia Athletics, says his ambition is to become the greatest leadoff man in the game. "I want to set an all-time record for passes to first," he remarked. "Last year I batted .316 and did a lot of free swinging, which shows I didn't wait out the pitchers as much, as in former years." Rival players have often said that the Mack infielder's eyesight is uncanny and umpires usually agree with

Few teams ever win 100 or more teams have ever lost 100 games in n single season. The record for defeats is still held by Washington. Back in 1904 the Washington team lost 113 games, the largest number ever lost by one team in a single season. Washington's defeats that year brought forth the crack: "Washington, first in the bearts of his countrymen and last in the American league race."

GUY BUSH PLANS TO REFORM SELF

Will Quit Easing Up at Soft Spots in Pitching.

Guy Bush, more widely known as Joe, and sometimes referred to us "Mississippi Abe," is going to re-

This information, however, isn't anything that will change his habits of living, for Joe adheres rigidly to all training rules and always gets to bed early.

in fact, Joe's self-made training rules leave nothing for a manager to desire. Still Joe says he's going to reform, writes Ronald McIntyre in the Chicago Journal. And he doesn't mean that he's going to quit selling bonds, his manner of making a living between baseball seasons. Joe says he's going to institute the reforms in his methods of pitching. Heretofore Joe has bad a babit of a soft spot in an opposing batting order. I'ossessed of excellent speed and a good curve, Joe always was trying to develop a slow ball that would make him one of the outstanding pitchers in the league. Now it was perfectly all right for Joe to work on his slow ball but there were times when he was pitching last season when he would have been much better off if he had posteasing up when he thought he had poned his experimenting until the morning practice of the next day. Any number of instances might be cited to show that Joe used poor judgment when he eased up last season. One day, in particular, the Cubs were playing Brooklyn and Jess Petty was pitching against Bush. The Cubs had a one or two run lead and there were two out and two on when Petty strode to the plate. Bush didn't bear down as he had been doing and a single to right resulted and the score was tied. Later in the game, Petty got another hit that scored another run and the ball game went to

Brooklyn. Now Joe has been hearing of the trials and misfortunes that Dazzy Vance had getting established as about the best right hander in baseball. He has heard tell of how Vance toured the minors for years until he learned that his only trouble was that lineup where he could slow up a little. Dazzy found out that 'he had And so-Joe Bush is going to

Hard to Set Limit to Height of Buildings the old almanacs.

Because of its lightness and strength this material will permit higher buildings with more pyramiding, thinner walls and therefore less bulk, so that space will be saved for practical uses.

School for Commuters Something of Novelty

Carrying still further the new idea of education in the home, several educational institutions of southern California have combined to offer courses to suburbanites for study while traveling to and from their work. Fees are small, the pupil is self-taught, but may consult an instructor it he wishes, and the text-books are small and easy to

More than twenty courses are listed by the school with more to follow if the demand warrants. Subjects which appeal especially to the suburban resident are included, such as home building, home gardening and real estate. Among the others are such varied choices as advertising, art appreciation, aviation, English investments, personal leadership, psychology, radio, salesmanship and stenography.

"Ton-Litters" of Pigs by No Means Unusual

To city folks, brought up on the stories about "Three Little Pigs" and the wolf that huffed and puffed, a pig is just a fat little squealing baby until it is big enough for the smokehouse, but, not so in Idaho. Out there, one raiser reports that at six months there was a little of 14 pigs which had reached the total weight of 4,156 pounds, nearly 300 pounds a pig. Quite a mouthful for the wolf.

The ton litter, now the aim of all pig raisers, is one in which the total weight of the litter is 2,000 pounds or more at six months. They used to be rare, but in 1928, farmers in 30 states reported reaching the coveted mark. There were 492 of and in order not to anibble over a few pounds, made them long-ton litters, at that. Pennsylvania led all the states with 65 such litters, and Ohio was second with 48 .- Washington Star.
