For many years wood bridging has been used to re-enforce frame construction, but a comparatively recent innovation has been the utilization of steel for the same purpose.

Steel, in its superior strength, is naturally more efficient as a re-enforcement material than wood, and it has the added advantage of doing away with the nails which were liable to loosen or pull out.

to Cauliflower

Excellent Flavored Vege- | tant to the lungs and breathing aptable Is Good Source of Calcium and Iron.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Broccoll is not a newly discovered regetable, but until tately it was not well known or widely grown. Of European origin, it has long been familiar to the French and Italian household, and it was doubtless introduced to Americans through these nationalities. Recently broccoll of the sprouting type has been produced extensively sehl, University of Nebraska. in Texas and California, and has become very popular. It is now possible to obtain this excellent flavored green vegetable in the stalls of most large city markets.

From Cabbage Family.

Broccoli is one of the forms of the large brassica or cabbage family. Cauliflower, cabbage, brussels sprouts, kale, and kohlrabi are its nearest relatives, botanically speaking. Of these it is most like cauliflower. The flower head of sprouting broccoli unlike that of cauliflower, is not white, but deep green, as is the rest of the part that is cut for food. The stalk is long, leafy, and branching. Because of this long stalk, some people have thought that sprouting broccoli must be a cross between asparagus and cauliflower, but horticulturists of the United States Department of Agriculture say this is not the case. When a first crop of flower heads has been cut from the plants, a second growth may be obtained.

The flower heads and the more tender parts of the stalk are eaten. The lower end of the stalk is trimmed off, so that sometimes there may be considerable waste in preparing broccoli for the table. Like any other green vegetable, it is cooked in lightly salted boiling water. The pieces are left whole and should be carefully removed from the saucepan to keep them shapely for serving. Broccoli usually becomes tender in 20 to 25 minutes' cooking. It is then drained and served with melted butter or Hollandaise

No vitamine studies have so far been made with broccoll, but probably, like other green-leaf vegetables, it is a good source of one or more vitamines.

It is possible, of course, that the breeding birds which produced the turkey eggs were a little low in vitality, or perhaps they were overfat. Generally, yearling males mated to earlyhatched yearling or two-year-old bens. will give better results than matings of old toms and old hens.-F. E. Mus-

Two Important Factors

in Development of Pigs Pigs which make good gains during the suckling period will be ready for market earlier and usually return greater profit. The two most important factors which determine the derelopment of pigs during the suckling period are the ability of the sow to produce milk and proper sanitary measures to provide healthy conditions for the pigs. Sow differ in their ability to produce milk, and the poor milkers will have small, unthrifty pigs at weaning time. Pigs which make good gains during the suckling period have a decided advantage over pigs raised by sows which are poor milkers. Strong, rugged pigs are most

You cannot get a feed too good for young chicks as your egg yield will depend greatly on how your pullets are developed. The highest priced chick feeds on the market will cost you only about twelve cents a chick up to eight weeks of age.

Chicks need sunshine, plenty of range, good ventilation, both day and night, lots of green food and clean sanitary quarters.

Catch Weeds When Young

to Improve Vegetables Weeds in the vegetable garden can e destroyed with least effort when they are in the seeding stage, advises the Farm Journal. There is a great toss of ground, seed and labor every year because many gardeners lose interest when the weeds get the best of the vegetables in the garden. Such a condition need never exist if the gardener will use cultivating tools which stir the soil to a shallow depth. When weeds are even slightly disturbed in

The laying and care of the

In attempting an explanation of the change from the smooth to the hairy form, Dr. A. J. Pieters of the United States Department of Agriculture, says it is "necessary to turn to the wild red clover" to which all clovers are related and which shows a tendency toward hairiness. The possibility of producing hairy plants was therefore "in the blood" of the relatively smooth type brought from England more than 200 years ago, he says. Furthermore a that eliminates worry and study on few rough halry plants may have occurred in fields seeded with the Eng> lish clovers. When this English clover was brought to America it encountered new conditions, among them a little insect not known in Europe and called the potato leaf hopper. This insect damages red clover, especially the smooth forms, doing the most injury to the second, or seed, crop, Doctor Pleters says. It always keeps down the growth of the smooth plants of European clovers grown in the United States so they will not seed well. The hairy American type is little affected. especially when there are smooth

Alfalfa Pasture Great

Help in Producing Pork

Alfalfa pasture will produce more pork per acre on the average than any other forage crop. It is one of the eartiest pasture crops to be available in the spring and if kept clipped when necessary during the summer, it will provide good forage until late in the fall. Under average conditions an acre of alfalfa will pasture from 10 to 20 shotes, depending on the conditions previously mentioned. It should not be pastured too closely as it does not stand very heavy foraging. It probably would be best to pasture it in such a way as to permit the cutting of two small crops of hay during the season in addition to the pasture furnished. Alfelfa is a crop that is high in protein and mineral matter, both of which are very necessary in animal growth and which are decidedly lacking in sorn, the feed that forms the basis for practically all hog rations. For this reason alfalfa is doubly valuable to the hog raiser when used as

A reasonable inference, says Doctor Pieters, may be drawn from what is known to happen today, and from the known facts the most reasonable auswer to the question of why American clover is hairy is that the constant attacks of the leaf hopper carried on for more than one hundred years gradually eliminated the smooth form by keeping down the production of seed, while the rough hairy form produced more seed than the other, and so constantly increased.

NEW SIZE CURRENCY TO BE READY SOON

Banks of Country to Aid in Its Circulation.

Washington. - Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon announced that July 10 has been designated for the initial issue of the new small size currency.

The federal reserve banks and branches have been authorized to make available to the commercial banking institutions of their districts limited amounts of the new currency on an equitable basis.

After this initial issue the treasurer of the United States and the federal reserve banks will follow the present procedure of supplying the paper currency demands of the country, paying out old size currency concurrently with the new size money. Thus, the replacement of the old by the new currency will be a gradual process, depending largely on the redemption of old currency unfit for further circulation.

The first issue will include all kinds of currency, except national bank notes, and all denominations from $1 to $20. The national bank notes in the new size will be issued in order of charter numbers, beginning about July 15, 1929, and the new gold certificates and federal reserve notes above $20 at a later date.

New designs on a denominational basis have been adopted for the new currency. The designs have been simplified generally to eliminate existing confusion and will provide a more effective protection against counterfeiting.

HAWLEY TARIFF BILL IS PASSED BY HOUSE

Measure Put Up to Senate; Action Is in Doubt.

Washington.-The Hawley tariff bill, boosting agricultural and industrial duties to a new high level, was passed by the house by a vote of 264 to 147. Twelve Republicans voted against the bill. Their defection was more than offset by 20 Democrats who voted for it.

Prior to the final action, a motion by Representative John Garner (Dem., Texas), minority leader, to recommit the bill, was defeated, 157 to 254. Party lines were drawn more tightly on this roll call, only three Republicans voting with the Democrats for the motion and only one Democrat joining with the Republicans against it.

The bill now goes to the senate, where the program is somewhat uncertain. Administration leaders are holding out the suggestion that if the senate will agree to a definite date for a vote on the tariff bill not later than the middle of November a recess of both houses from about June 10 until about September 15 may be possible. There is considerable doubt, however, as to whether various senators wiff consent to any sort of a limitation of debate on a bill of this character.

Unless an understanding can be reached which will insure the enactment of the tariff bill into law before the beginning of the regular December session, the senate probably will be forced to work during the bot summer months. The senate finance committee will require at least a month for consideration of the house bill and may take longer. In any event the senate will be allowed to recess during this York city flattering flower period. If the finance committee should complete consideration of the in accordance with the bill early in July it might be possible to get it on the statute books before September 1.

involved in the negotiations for a summer recess is the farm relief bill on which senate and house conferees are still deadlocked. It is a certainty that congress will not be allowed to recess until the farm relief bill becomes law,

Senator Charles L. McNary (Rep., Ore.), head of the senate group of conferees after a conference on the situation with President Hooover predicted that there would be developments within a few days. It is expected that the senate conferees will find a way to get rid of the export debenture provision of the senate bill, and that a conference report will be shaded asters of felt. These are ready for the consideration of the two houses some time soon.

After it approves the conference report on the farm bill and acts on the census and reapportionment bill and a few miscellaneous measures which passes the tariff bill.

Extensive increases in agricultural duties are the principal feature of the tariff bill as passed by the house localte the discatisfaction of form groups because of inadequate rates and because of increases in industrial rates. The agricultural increases include the following:

Cattle, 11/2 and 2 cents per pound to 2 and 21/4 cents per pound; hides. 10 per cent, now on free list; beef and veal, 3 to 6 cents per pound; sheep and lambs, $2 to $3 per head; wool, 31 to 34 cents per pound; mutton, 21/2 to 5 cents per pound; swine, 1/2 cent to 2 cents per pound; pork, % cent to 21/2 cents per pound; lard, 1 to 3 cents per pound; mllk, 21/4 to 5 cents per gallon; butter, 12 to 14 cents per pound; cheese, 5 to 7 cents per pound; eggs, 8 to 10 cents per dozen; corn, 15 to 25 cents per bushel; soy beans, 1/2 cent to 2 cents per pound; grass seeds, 4 to 5 cents per pound; turnips, 4 to 5 cents per pound; beans, 1/2 cent to 31/2 cents per pound; peas, 1 to 2 cents per pound; onlons, 1 to 2 cents per pound; potatoes, 50 to 75 cents per 100 pounds; tomatoes, 1/2 cent to 3 cents per pound: preserved tomatoes, 15 to 40 per cent ad valorem, and flaxseed, 56 to 63 cents per bushel.

Another increase which is designed to benefit agriculture in sections where sugar beets are grown but which has not the complete approval of farm groups in some of the other sections of the country is that on sugar, which is raised from 2.2 cents to 3 cents per pound on full duty sugar and from 1.76 to 2.4 cents on Cuban sugar,

The farm interests in order to get a 10 per cent duty on hides were forced to accept rates of from 121/2 to 30 per cent on leather and 20 per cent on shoes.

The increased industrial rates which have been most vigorously opposed by the farm groups are those applying on various building materials. No opportunity was given for separate action on any of the building materials on the floor of the house. been a pattern of commercial integrity and lofty patriotism.

And now these perquisitions! these detentions; and finally the arrest, not only of good Citizen Deseze blmself but of his invalid wife and pretty little daughter if one dared, one would profest, call a meeting, anything. It was almost unbelievable, so unexpected was it. What had the Deseze family done? No one knew. Inquiries at the commissariat of the section elicited no information. There were vague cumors that the poor invalid citizeness had always remained plous. She had been taught plety by her parents, no doubt, and had been brought up in a convent school besides. But what would you? Piety was reckoned a sin these days, and who would dare protest?

The servants at the substantial house inhabited by the Deseze family were speechless with tears. The perquisitions, and then the arrest, had come as a thunderbolt. And now they were all under orders to quit the house, for it would be shut up and ultimately sold for the benefit of the state. Ob, these were terrible times!

The same tragedy had occurred not far away from Moisson in the case of the Tournon-d'Agenays, whom no one was allowed to call comte and comtesse these days. They, too, had been summarily arrested, and were being dragged to Paris for their trial when. by some unforeseen miracle, they had been rescued and conveyed in safety to England. No one knew how, nor who the callant rescuers were; but rumors were rife and some were wild. The superstitions believed in direct divine interference, though they dared not say this openly; but in their hearts they prayed that God might interfere in the same way on behalf of good Citizen Deseze and his family.

Poor Hector Deseze himself had not much hope on that score. He was a pious man, it is true, but his piety consisted in resignation to the will of God. Nor would he bave cared much if God had only chosen to strike at him; it was the fate of his invalid wife that wrung his heart, and the future of his young daughter that terrified him. He had known the citizen commissary practically all bis life. Lauzet was not a bad man, really, Perhaps he had got his head rather turned through his rapid accession from his original situation as packer in the Deseze house of business, with a bed underneath the counter in the back shop, to that of chief of section in the rural division of the department of Seine et Oise, with an official residence in Mantes, a highly important post, considering its proximity to Paris. But all the same, Lauzet was not a bad man, and must have kept some gratitude in his heart for all the kindness shown to him by the Deseze family when he was a lad in their employ.

But in spite of every appeal Lauzet remained stony hearted.

"If I did anything for you, citizen, on my own responsibility," he said to Deseze during the course of an interregatory, "I should not only lose my position but probably my head into the bargain. I have no ill will toward you, but I am not prepared to take such a risk on your tehalf."

"But my poor wife." Deseze pro tested, putting his pride in his pocket and stooning to appeal to the man who had once been a mental in his pay. "She is almost bedridden now and has not long to live. Could you not exercise some benevolent authority for her sake?"

Lauzet shook his head. "Impossible," he said decisively.

"And my daughter," moaned the distracted father, "my little Madeleine is not yet thirteen. What will be ber fate? My God, Lauzet! Have you no bowels of compassion? Have not you got a daughter of your own?"

"I have," Lauzer retorted curtly, "and therefore I have taken special care to keep on the right side of the government and never to express an opinion on anything that is done for the good of the state. And I should advise you, Citizen Deseze, to do likewise, so that you may earn for yourself and your family some measure of mercy for your transgressions." And with this grandiloquent phrase Lauzet indicated that the interview was now at an end. He also ordered the prisoner to be taken back to Moisson, and there to be kept in the cells until the following day, when arrangements would be complete for conveying the Deseze family under escort to Paris.

Smith said Loughran was the only boxer in the group who had not lost a bout during the last five years. He explained his high rating of Braddock, light-heavyweight contender, by saying that he believed the hard-hitting Jersey City boy had enough strength and skill to defeat all of the men rated below him.

 Nothing Emotional

About Bob Meusel There is nothing emotional about Bob Meusel, the clouting outfielder of the Yankees, who won the second game with the Athletics in their recent memorable series with a home run in the eighth inning with the bases filled.

In the clubhouse after the game, Bob was asked what kind of a ball he hit that gave the Yankees their second victory of the day. "It was a curve ball," he answered.

"Was it a nice curve?" was the next question put to the outfielder. "As nice as Rommel can throw," replied the outfielder. "Well, it was a pretty nice hit," spoke up another one of Meusel's questioners. "Well, a fair one," slowly remarked the outfielder. Clouting Bob didn't appear to be excited over the biggest blow struck during the afternoon before the biggest crowd in the history of baseball.

Pitcher J. Miljus Has Seen Much Service in Box.

They call Roger Hornshy a baseball nomad because he never settles in one place for very long. But Hornsby is as stable as a rock compared to one member of the Indians

The great National league slugger has seen service with seven clubs since he broke into professional baseball. John Miljus has worked for thirteen, writes Gordon Cobbledick in the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

John's baseball career started at the University of Pittsburgh in 1912. For three years he twirled for the Pitt nine and at the end of the 1914 season was signed by the New York Giants. The following season he jumped McGraw's outfit and signed with the Pittsburgh Federal league club.

That short-lived threat against the supremacy of the two major leagues went to smash and Miljus got a job with St. Mary's in the Interstate league, and the next year, 1917, found him with Brooklyn. The Robins farmed him out to Binghamton in the New York State league, and he promptly jumped again—this time into Uncle Sam's army.

The war over, he joined the Toledo Mudhens in 1919, and was back at Brooklyn in '20 and '21. The season of '22 he divided between New Orleans and Nashville in the Southern association. In '23 he was with the out king of the major leagues. His Rochester International leaguers and in '24 with Bridgeport in the Eastern league.

From Bridgeport he went all the way to Seattle and there, in the sasons on the hill fhe big Nebraskan lubrious atmosphere of the Pacific seemed to have as much speed as Coast circuit, Big John seemed to find himself. History of Tanning

Hide and Leather says that the earliest tanning consisted of placing skins in pits between layers of bark One of the most important develop ments in American tanning history was the introduction of leaching. in which the tannin content was extract ed from the bark, which permitted placing skins in tanning fiquors

His Version

Little Billy, aged three, was sitting with his father and mother in front of the grate one evening when his father remarked that the fire in the grate was dying down. Little Billy spoke up and said, "Yes, daddy, there is a little fire in the grate, but not much-the much went out."-Indian-

Price and Prosperity

Price of milk per hundred weight or per pound of fat is generally considered all important by the milk producer. The fact is price alone will not make perous dairymen. Price of milk and dairy products is controlled mainly supply and demand. Raising the price to a high point in order to make to consumer pay more is unreasonable. The efficient dairyman can make goo. profits at the present price, while the slovenly and indifferent, lose money Why should the consumer be compelled to pay for inefficiency. The man while produces 5000 pounds of milk per cow annually may lose money, while the mat producing 10,000 pounds per cow annually is making a good big profit. All t the same price. Good returns above cost of feed go hand in hand with his production. There is nothing wrong with present prices, but there is please of room for herd improvement, quality and quantity production.
