The Kewaskum-Farmington Dairy Herd Improvement association re-organized and started a new year May 1st. Miss Irene Jaehmig was elected secretary and treasurer and Edward Krautkramer, president. We are sure the association will flourish with so capable officers in charge and such fine cooperation we have received from all the members. The five high herds for the month of May are, Wm. Jaehmig, 46.3 pounds of butterfat; H. F. Pieper, 43.0 pounds of butterfat; Martin Knickel, 40.4 lbs. of butterfat; And. Hayes, 40.1 lbs. of butterfat; Ernst Schultz, 39.1 lbs. of butterfat. The five high cows are as follows: Wm. Jaehmig, 78.6 lbs. of butterfat; Wm. Jaehmig, 74.2 lbs. of butterfat; John Weingard, 72.5 lbs. of butterfat; Sisters of St. Francis, 65.4 lbs. of butterfat; Martin Knickel, 63.6 lbs. of butterfat. Both Mr. Jaehmig and Mr. Pieper feed a well balanced ration, which accounts for their high herd average. Many of the members as well as other dairymen of this vicinity could profit by following either of these men's feeding practices. A ration to be recommended for cows on good pasture is as follows: ground oats 400 lbs., ground corn or barley meal 100 lbs. Feed at the rate of one pound of grain to each four or five lbs of milk produced daily.

CITY TO INSTALL LIGHT STANDARDS

Representatives of the Wisconsin Gas and Electric company were in Kewaskum Tuesday to lay out plans and make arrangements necessary for the installation of electric light standards. The company installed four standard light posts of two different types and style on Wednesday and Thursday, at the intersection of Main street and Fond du Lac avenue. These lights are installed by the company for demonstration purposes, to see what difference it will make in lighting up the streets from that of the present system now in use. These standards will have four lights each, to be lit every night for a period of three or four months. The work of demonstrating these lights by the company, is no doubt the outcome of a great deal of agitation here by citizens the past year of having all electric light and telephone poles removed from Main street and a white way system installed.

BUT PAINTED BAD

Brown - "She's not as bad as she's painted." Green - "But you must admit that she is painted pretty bad."

Precaution
"Why do you offer your piano for sale at such a low figure?"
"Well, you see, my children are getting old enough to take lessons now."

A La Mode
"Her mind is essentially modern."
"How do you mean?"
"She never seems to have much on it."

May's Struggle Is Over
Miss Ann (wearily) - I've been to parties and balls every evening this week. You don't go out much, do you?
Miss May - No; I don't need to. I'm engaged.

An Obedient Wife

Great Runner Stages Comeback

Schalk Has Seen Host of No-Hit Ball Games

In respect to no-hit games, Ray Schalk probably holds a record. Many ball players put in years of playing in the majors without seeing one of these classics. Ray has caught five of them and seen two others from the dugout.

He was behind the plate when nine innings of hitless ball were pitched by Bob Russell, Jim Scott, Joe Benz, Eddie Cioetto and Charlie Robinson. He saw Ted Lyons turn the Red Sox back without a hit in 1926, and recently, as acting manager of the Giants in the absence of John McGraw, he saw Carl Hubbell stand the Pirates off without a hit. Scott, Ray recalled, did not allow a hit for nine innings, but was beaten 1 to 0 in the tenth, while Robertson's was a perfect game, in which no enemy hitter reached first base.

John Evers Is Reminded of Cubs-Giants Fights

Johnny Evers was one of the heroes of the days when the Cubs and Giants were bitter rivals of the diamond, and he sees another chapter in the old fight this season in the National league pennant race. Says Johnny: "It will be like old times to see the Cubs and Giants battling each other in the final stages of the race. I'd like to see a Jim like the one we went through in 1903. The game was rougher then. The players were tougher. The ball was dead. I often wonder what some of the hard hitters of those days would do to the present ball."

New Job for Wieman

Elton E. "Tad" Wieman, recently deposed head football coach at Michigan, has been appointed director, supervisor, and adviser of the four-year physical education course. The announcement was made on recommendation of Director Fielding H. Yost.

O'Farrell Is in Form as Backstop for Giants

When the Cardinals won the National league pennant in 1926 Rogers Hornsby declared that a major portion of credit for that feat was due Bob O'Farrell for his skillful handling of the pitchers and his timely hitting. It may come to pass this year that O'Farrell's work will give the Giants just the edge they need to win the flag, for after an off year in 1928, Bob is coming back amazingly. He is dividing the catching equally with Frank Hogan and is pounding the ball in the pinches again, just as he did when he was with the Cardinals, and before that when he played with the Cubs.

Coach Attacks Golf

Tuss McLaghy, football coach at Brown, though a golf enthusiast himself, picks some flaws with the links game, and says football develops a man to better advantage. He says: "Golf doesn't cause the development of character and the co-operation of mind and body that football and other competitive sports do. Football is the only game in which bodily contacts are allowed. This direct physical competition develops moral character and strengthens the body."

Another Vivid Yarn of Western Golf Ace

Speaking of holes-in-one in golf, tie this one! Robert France is a member of the Sacramento (Calif.) fire department and makes no pretense that he knows much about the technique of golf. In fact he handled a club for the first time on the practice links at the rear of his fire station the other day.

He swung heavily three times. On the fourth try the globe spun down the fairway. What happened was told by his friends. The ball hit a barn, a garage, a fire bucket, a dishpan, a piece of fire hose, and then lodged in the cup 150 yards away. Believe it or not!

BASEBALL NOTES

Six members of a Birmingham (Ala.) semipro team are named Creel and all are related. The Baltimore Orioles hit better on the road than they did in their first long stay at home. Frank Seyboth, two years ago the fastest outfielder in the Piedmont league, now is a catcher with Charlotte.

Fabe Ruth has been a big league player for 15 seasons and has an average batting mark of .347 for this period.

What has become of the old-fashioned pitcher whom an experienced catcher could have caught in a rocking chair?

A Harvard professor tells us that the earth's center is red-hot glass. Now we know what becomes of all the pop bottles.

Raymond Rhoads, pitching ace of the University of Kentucky baseball team, has signed a contract with the Detroit Tigers.

The New York Yankees recorded the fewest assists ever made in a major league game when only five were made in a game in 1921.

Cy Young and Kid Nichols, who were each credited with pitching 70 games in one season, were satisfied with salaries of $3,000 a year.

Edwin Johnson of Port Byron, Ill., has been named captain of Augustana's 1930 baseball team. He has been a star pitcher for three seasons.

Frankie Parenti, who led the second basement in the Central league last year with the fine mark of .970, apparently has made good in the Eastern league.

Shortstop Johnny White has been sent to the Des Moines club of the Western league under an optional agreement, officials of the Columbus Senators announce.

Harry Krause, left-hand spitball pitcher of the San Francisco Mission Reds, Pacific Coast league, is going strong again this season, his twenty-first year in organized baseball.

Pacific coast teams are strengthening in an effort to head off the Mission club. Los Angeles bought Fred Haney from the Cards. Haney was a big cog in Indianapolis' A. A. victory last year.

Rip Collins, Rochester first baseman, leading the home run hitters of the International league, practically won the pennant for Rochester in the closing days of last season by hitting home runs at Montreal.

Baseball was invented 90 years ago by Gen. Abner Doubleday, but it was not until 1846 that the first real contest was played in Hoboken between the Knickerbocker and New York nines.

Beryl Richmond, a promising young southpaw with Baltimore was not getting much chance to work so he asked where he be transferred to some club where he could pitch in turn. The request was granted and he was assigned to New Haven of the Eastern league.

JOHNSON'S GREAT PITCHING STUNT

Three Victories Over Highlanders Stand Out.

His three shutout victories on successive days against the New York Highlanders in 1908 stand out as one of the greatest pitching feats of Walter Johnson's 20 years on the mound for Washington.

Johnson, whose twentieth anniversary in the big leagues will be observed on August 2, readily admits that those 27 scoreless innings gave him one of the biggest thrills in his colorful career.

Just a rookie was Johnson then, strong as an ox and possessed of blinding speed, and he eagerly jumped at the chance to work so often against New York when Manager Cantillon asked him to do so because of injuries to a trio of Washington pitchers.

Johnson faced Chesbro in the first game and triumphed, 3-0. He won the next day by a 6-0 score and, after resting Sunday because no games were played on Sunday then, he worked in the first game of Monday's double-header and again registered a shutout win.

This feat might have been four straight scoreless victories had not Johnson been injured by a pitched ball. He was ready to start the fourth successive game of the series, but Manager Cantillon refused to let him go in because of his injury.

"That," says Johnson, "is the only time in my career I was ever called upon to pitch so many games during one series, and I doubt very much if I could do the same stunt again. Father Time doesn't stand for such tricks, you know."

Ty Turns to Golf

Ty Cobb, for 20 years a star of the diamond, has turned to golf. This is one of the first pictures made of him on the golf course at the Forrest Hills club near Augusta. During his diamond career Cobb said he'd never play golf because he thought the game would spoil his batting eye. Now he's retired from the ball field and golf pros say his eye is just as keen on the fairway. He's never missed the elusive pill yet.

Elly Spears, Vanderbilt's great quarterback of two seasons ago, is expected to return to Vanderbilt as an assistant to Coach Dan McGugin next fall.

An indoor golf course has been opened on the fifty-third floor of the Woolworth building by the Professional Golfers club. Use of every club in the bag is permitted by an ingenious device.

Con O'Kelly, Irish heavyweight, settled down near the car barns in New York when he first came over. He made friends with the motormen and now he buys them a block of seats when he fights.

Could John L. Sullivan come back today he would be amazed at the purses his would-be successors are getting for staging pillow fights.

James Burton of the Los Angeles (Calif.) Athletic club is the champion rope climber of the world. His record for the 25-foot climb is 6 seconds.

Gray thoroughbred race horses, and there are comparatively few in the world today, all trace their ancestry back to two original sires, there being only two equine families of this line.

CUT DOWN EXPENSES, PRESIDENT'S POLICY

Plans to Keep First Budget to $3,780,000,000.

Washington.—President Hoover has advised the budget bureau that he aims to keep his first budget down to the total of the last Coolidge budget, $3,780,000,000, if not less. The President's decision was forwarded to the departments in the call for preliminary estimates that was sent out. The procedure would be unusual, if not unprecedented, since the practice has been to give rein to the departments in making their first estimates.

The administration's statement of the basis on which the new budget is to be drawn up is expected to put an end to the belief that with a new President in the White House, and an engineer at that, new projects will be undertaken without stint, resulting in increased government expenses. President Hoover made it plain that while the new projects are contemplated, rigid economy is to be the order. That, he is said to feel, was a mandate of the November election in which he pledged himself to maintain "Coolidge economy."

The most satisfactory way of keeping the pledge, in Mr. Hoover's opinion, administration leaders say, is to stay within the bounds of President Coolidge's current budgets, so far as general conditions will permit. It is the President's conviction, it is asserted, that such economy need not be at the expense of government efficiency or national progress. Although not desiring to push economy to the point of cramping necessary governmental activities, he believes substantial savings can be made in certain departments to offset unavoidable increases.

Budget-makers in the army and navy have been put to the test by the administration program. Armament plans are on foot in both these departments, some of which are subject to cancellation by the President in the event of an international agreement of naval reductions.

As matters stand in the War department, Mr. Hoover wants to keep this country abreast of modern requirements and maintain a progressive policy without, if possible, going beyond his present deadline. So far as can be learned, the President has not committed himself as to the War department's permanent program now before the general staff, which includes a request for some $13,000,000 to start fortifying important cities, interior and seaboard alike, against possible air attacks in time of war; and also an estimate of about $10,000,000 to carry along the five-year airplane program.

The most that can be said, according to administration officials, is that the President would like to keep the army estimates down to about $45,000,000. That is the amount included in the 1930 budget, and it is required to cover the government's expenses at the Panama Canal, in addition to the regular department costs.

CHURCH FIGHT ENDED

Mexico City—The Mexican government and the Roman Catholic church have made peace.

Emilio Portes Gil.

Mexico City.—The Mexican government and the Roman Catholic church have made peace. President Emilio Portes Gil and Msgr. Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, archbishop of Michoacan, and Msgr. Pascual Diaz, bishop of Tobasco, special envoys of Pope Pius, issued a joint statement announcing the agreement on the church question and immediate plans for a resumption of church services.

DAWES AND GIBSON ON NAVY CURB JOB

Ambassador and Envoy Are to Handle the Matter.

Washington.—In another swift step toward the goal of a new naval arms conference, President Hoover ordered Hugh S. Gibson to London to collaborate with Ambassador Charles G. Dawes. Mr. Gibson, American ambassador to Belgium, was instructed to proceed at once. It was he who laid before the recent Geneva naval arms conference President Hoover's plan for breaking the naval disarmament deadlock.

The two American ambassadors are to consult "on the disarmament question with particular reference to its present status before the preparatory commission for a disarmament conference," according to a State department announcement.

Informed circles took the move to mean an attempt to convene the sea powers this fall in a general arms conference, but that the immediate purpose was to bring about a prompt reconvening of the preparatory commission to work out preliminary plans. In this respect, it was believed that the two ambassadors, with Premier MacDonald, would take the leadership in the move for an early meeting of the preparatory committee.

The President's move came after the State department had shown some disturbance about newspaper reports that Sir Esme Howard, British envoy, had discussed the question of freedom of the seas with Senator William E. Borah, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, at a private conference in the senator's office.

Although Sir Esme Howard made haste to explain to Secretary Stimson, according to the latter, that there had been no such discussion, the belief persisted in high navy quarters that recent negotiations between this country and Great Britain do not contemplate giving much prominence to the question of freedom of the seas in the proposed new conference.

RADICALS TO FIGHT TARIFF PROVISIONS

Opposed to Rates on Industrial Commodities.

Washington.—Senate radicals have organized for a fight against high tariff rates on industrial commodities. Nearly a dozen of the radicals met in the office of Robert M. La Follette (Rep., Wis.) to map out their campaign.

It was decided to allot the various schedules to different senators with a view to preparing material for use in an attempt to hammer down industrial rates on the tariff bill reaches the floor of the senate. The radicals will support high duties on certain farm products, but are not in complete agreement on this proposition. Most of them are likely to oppose the high duties on sugar, favored by some of the agricultural members. Some of the other agricultural rates may be subjected to attacks by this group.

The radicals will join in the movement to attach the export debarment scheme to the tariff bill.

Washington.—Congress recessed for the summer after approving President Hoover's recommendation that the French government be relieved of the necessity of paying approximately $400,000,000 on August 1, when due, in connection with its purchase of surplus war supplies.

A condition attached to the action is that the French parliament shall ratify the Mellon-Berenger debt funding agreement prior to August 1.

Outside of the adoption of this resolution, congress accomplished little on its final day.

The senate will return on August 19 to commence debate on the tariff bill, which the finance committee is expected to have ready to report. The house recess will extend until September 22. Between September 23 and October 14 the house will meet in perfunctory sessions twice a week under a resolution approved by the house on the theory that the tariff will not be ready to go to conference before the latter date.

Both houses passed the administration farm relief bill, without the export debarment amendment objected to by President Hoover, and the emergency appropriation bill. Revision of tariff remains as the major business to be disposed of when congress reconvenes. The house has already passed a tariff revision, incidentally more general than President Hoover contemplated in his recommendation for "limited" revision to help put agriculture on a basis of economic equality with other industry.

Design for Small Cottage That Typifies Real Spirit of

Here is a little cottage which seems to typify the spirit of the story-and-a-half construction has been designed to produce a dignified appearance and the interior will be found equally attractive.

By W. A. RADFORD Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to practical home building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 1827 Prairie avenue, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

Where your house is to be built is almost as important as building it. The particular size of lot, with the particular frontage or natural advantages which you may want to be available to you for several reasons. The kind of neighborhood, the distance from transportation, the conditions as regards paving, sewer, gas and electricity, etc., are some of the things that will govern your selection of a home site. So we say pick out the place you want to build before you attempt to choose a house plan.

Having done that, and with the lot in mind, try to find a house that will fit it. If it is a narrow lot, then you must have a narrow house; if it is a shallow lot, then you must find a plan that is not too deep from the front to back but that it will not merely go on your lot, but will leave a little room for a backyard and perhaps for a flower or vegetable garden.

It is only by using a complete plan, that you can get a definite estimate on the cost of building your home. All other figures are but guesses and it is dangerous to guess when building, no matter how experienced in building the guesser is.

The proper person to give you a definite, reliable estimate on your home is your local lumber dealer or home. All other figures are but guesses and it is dangerous to guess when building, no matter how experienced in building the guesser is.

The President is represented to be disturbed over the tendency to give the tariff a wide overhauling and to be prepared to use his influence, wherever proper, to get through congress a truly "limited" revision.

The administration relies upon the conference between senate and house to bring the schedules into line with the President's wishes and thus make the comprehensive product of the extraordinary session conform generally to the farm relief plan Mr. Hoover contemplated in calling congress together.

The extraordinary session had run nine weeks and two days when it little over a month after President Hoover's inauguration. At least nine weeks more will be required, it is estimated, to complete the administration's farm relief program and the few other matters of unfinished business.

The President will stay in Washington throughout the summer, with the possible exception of short trips into the Virginia mountains and to comparatively nearby places to participate in certain exercises, such as the opening of the upper Ohio river to navigation.

Color Now Demanded in Present-Day Home Color from top to bottom, color inside and out, in the kitchen, in the bathroom, in the office, in the living room, on the roof, in the basement; in fact practically every manufacturer of materials and equipment going into present-day building is striving to keep pace with the increasing demand for color.

For instance, in the roof, the former staid black slate has been replaced with varied colors in greens, blues, reds, soft browns and purples. The wooden shingles now harmonize with the painted walls of the house with soft tints supplied by stains.

In the bathrooms, soft pinks, orchids, delicate greens, blending blues, contrasting blacks, yellows and ivories may be seen in the wide assortment of bathroom fixtures and accessories in the exhibit. Even the shower curtains may be obtained in vivid reds, oranges and solid colors; and, of course, the wonderfully colored tiles serve to make a suitable background for all these.

Even in the basement there is a flaming red furnace installed on a floor of green, or an oil burner of contrasting green and black.

In the kitchen color does its part to relieve this room of its atmosphere of drudgery. Painted woodwork, colored tile, gleaming ceiling together and fluting oil paint is applied to the walls. Bleeding occurs within the cupboards and can be finished off in the most desired. In absolute cases the shellac and one of paint. This is necessary to put on coats of paint and paint until the bleeding stops.

CHAPTER V

Disension

It was not everybody at Molsson who sympathized with the Deseeze family when they were arrested. There were all the envious, the dissatisfied, the ambitious, as well as the rag-tag and bobtail of the district, who had linked their fortunes with the revolutionary government and who looked for their own advancement by loudly proclaiming their loyalty to its decrees. For such as these the Deseeze family, with their well-known integrity, their wealth, and unostentatious piety, were just a set of aristos that the principles of the glorious revolution condemned as traitors to the state and to the people.

And on market day Molsson was always full of people; they were noisy and they were aggressive, and while the sympathizers with the Deseeze family, after they had waved a last farewell toward the fast-disappearing diligence, went quietly about their business or returned silently to their homes, the others thought this a good opportunity for airing some of those sentiments which would be reported in influential quarters if any government spy happened to be within earshot.

In spite of the persistent bad weather men congregated in and about the market place during the intervals of business and lustily discussed the chief event of the day. There was much talk of Citizen Lauzet, whom every one had known as a young out-at-elbows ragamuffin in the employ of Hector Deseeze, and who now had power of life and death over the very man who had been his master. He had noted that Lauzet appeared to have few friends amongst the crowd of drovers and shepherds and the farmers who came in with their produce from their outlying homesteads. With advancement in life had come arrogance in the man and a perpetual desire to assert his authority over those with whom he had fraternized in the past. Those, however, who had their homes in the immediate neighborhood of Molsson dared not say much for Lauzet was feared almost as much as he was detested; but the strangers who had come into Molsson with their cattle and their produce were free enough with their tongue. Rumor had gone far afield about this arrest of the Deseeze family, and many there were who asserted that mysterious undercurrents were at work in this affair, undercurrents that would draw Citizen Lauzet up on the crest of a tidal wave to the giddy heights of incredible fortune.

Pavement of Coffin Lids

Attention has been recently called to the strange fancy of a rich Berlin tradesman who had the habit of walking in the garden that was attached to his country villa laid down with a number of coffin lids, which he had been at considerable time and expense to collect. They were of all ages and conditions from the wooden covering for the peasant to the most elaborate metal-work designed for noble or prince. On his death his son replaced them with ordinary gravels and subsequently presented the most valuable to a local museum.

Useful Little Animal Victim of Ignorance

It is a tiny animal which is found in many parts of the world. It is not a rat, nor a mouse, nor a shrew, but a creature which is greatly misjudged and often killed by persons who are ignorant of its uses. It is the shrew, a tiny animal which is found in all kinds and in all parts of the world. It is of great benefit to man in particular and mankind in general. In a book published in London it is mentioned that the common shrew is a cruel mind, desiring to eat everything that it can get its teeth into. There is no creature more voracious than the shrew. Jury of Grecian Origin?
Trial by jury is generally conceded to have originated with the Greeks. In Athens a certain number of freemen, selected by lot, heard and decided under the direction of a judge every case to be tried at law, a different group of men hearing each case. A similar system was adopted in Rome. The Normans made use of a primitive form of jury when they conquered England in 1066, calling them "jurats."

Hasten Tomatoes by Use of Fertilizer

Plants Need Long Season and Right Aids to Hurry Their Growth.

"Fertilize tomatoes to hasten their maturity," advises F. O. Underwood, of the vegetable gardening department of the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, N. Y. "The tomato," he points out, "requires a long season to mature a full crop, so that anything a grower can do to ripen them is apt to mean a bigger total yield."

Professor Underwood says that many points have to be considered in fertilizing the crop, such as type of farming and soil, previous crop grown and fertilizer used, money returns, and the cost of the fertilizing materials.

Plant Food Needed.

Tomatoes need some of all the plant foods for their best development. Nitrogen is needed early in the season to help develop a good vine to carry the fruit; though too much nitrogen may produce too rank a leaf growth at the expense of fruit. Some potash is also needed, but phosphorus is particularly needed to get large yields and ripen the fruit before frosts in the fall.

"If a grower," says Professor Underwood, "is applying manure liberally, say at the rate of twelve or twenty tons an acre, he is probably supplying enough nitrogen and potash, but additional phosphorus will probably pay. Phosphorus increases the fruit and seed parts of plants, and acid phosphate is the best source. Applied at the rate of from five hundred to a thousand pounds to the acre, it should give good yields."

"On sandy soils, or on other soils where little or no manure is used, complete fertilizers usually pay. The 4-12-4 or 5-10-5 are both good; the former on the heavier types, while the 5-10-5 makes a good mixture for soils less well stocked with nitrogen and potash. Though the 2-8-10 is often used, a 4-12-4 seems better for the crop. The 2 per cent of ammonia in the former mixture is probably derived from some organic chemical which will be slowly available to the tomatoes. Tomatoes need nitrogen early in the season, and not when the fruit is forming."

Fertilizer Pays.

"Exact amounts will depend upon individual soils and cash returns, but the tomato crop will usually pay for additional fertilizer up to 1,600 pounds to the acre, although good crops are grown with less. In addition to proper fertilizers, however, the plants must be well-grown, and must be set at the proper time. Soil and weather conditions also play their part."

Cleanest Culture Helps Strawberry Leaf Spot

The Ohio station gives the following advice about handling leaf spot of strawberries: "Plant resistant varieties; the majority of present-day commercial varieties are somewhat resistant. 'Set plantations where both air and water drainage are good. When setting out plants remove and destroy the diseased leaves; do not leave them about the patch. Practice the cleanest culture possible. 'Rotate strawberries with other plants. Summer spray for apples, usually known as the cluster bud or pink spray, is most effective when applied as soon as the pink buds appear in the blossom clusters, says L. C. Williams, extension horticulturist, Kansas State Agricultural college. The cluster bud spray consists of one and one-half gallons of liquid lime-sulphur and one and one-half gallons of arsenate of lead to each fifty gallons of spray. Dry lime-sulphur may be used instead of liquid material.

PER CAPITA POTATO YIELD IS SAFE GUIDE FOR ANY PRODUCER

Price Trend Upward When Production Is Low.

Per capita production of potatoes in the country, as a whole, is as good a guide as any, when the grower is trying to decide whether he should store his crop in hope of higher prices that prevail at harvesting time, or sell them for the market price when they are dug, according to C. R. Arnold of the rural economics department of the Ohio State university at Columbus.

Arnold reports that the bureau of agricultural economics of the United States Department of Agriculture has been studying records for the past 27 years, and finds that when the national production has exceeded 3.8 bushels per capita, the price has tended downward during the ensuing season. The trend has usually been upward when the production has been less than 3.2 bushels per capita.

Only when the indicated crop was not much more than three bushels per capita was the grower usually justified in holding his potatoes. In other years the chance of profit was too uncertain to balance extra cost of risk, storage and shrinkage.

Production in the late potato states, according to the federal investigators, is the most important factor in determining the season's price level.

Dusters Satisfactory in Fields for Killing Bugs

Dusters are fairly satisfactory in potato fields, for killing bugs. However, under most Nebraska conditions they are not nearly as satisfactory as they are in regions farther east. To be used most advantageously the dust should be put on when the plants are damp with dew and when there is little wind. It is not at all advisable to try to use a duster on a windy day. Consequently it is very desirable to dust the plants in the early portion of the day before the wind comes up.

Treating Potato Seed Increases Usual Yield

Seed potatoes treated three or four weeks ahead of planting will show no delay in sprouting as is often the case with seed treated to kill disease organisms it may be carrying. Treating seed that is coming out of dormancy may cause it to become somewhat dormant again. Early treating gives the seed time to come out of dormancy and be ready to grow as soon as planted. Treating seed potatoes has increased the average yield 22 bushels per acre in the test plots conducted for the past eight years in Kansas.

Supply Farrowing Pens With Needful Fenders

Every farrowing pen should be supplied with fenders to protect the little pigs during and after farrowing. These consist of 2 by 8 inch planks fastened as shelves about eight inches from the floor, along both sides of the corner in which the sow makes her bed. This largely prevents the sow from squeezing the pigs against the wall or lying on them while they are small. If the farrowing pen has a concrete floor, a board overlay in the nest corner makes the sow's bed warmer, drier and cleaner.

Grinding Feed Does Not Increase Digestibility

For feeding dairy cattle, the grinding of a roughage will not increase its digestibility nor its value as a feed. Grinding coarse feeds may reduce waste by eliminating the coarse parts of the feed and may make the feed more palatable. When feed is high in moisture, grinding may prove advantageous. Grinding coarse feed will not make the feed into a concentrated feed. Neither will grinding dry, coarse roughage make the feed as good as when put in the silo.

Control Outworms

Outworms are among the most troublesome insects with which the gardener and the farmer have to deal. Their principal damage is done in the spring when they cut off young plants at or near the surface of the ground. Outworms are not difficult to control. The most effective and the most practical method is to poison them with poisoned bran mash.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

With small children in the home their food must be carefully selected and served. When they sit at the same table with the grownups, it is best to serve the kind of food all may eat and enjoy. For breakfast the citrus fruits, baked apples, prunes, figs or cooked pears, when the fresh are not obtainable. From this list the adult may find one that suits his taste. With a good cooked cereal, served with toast and a glass of warm milk for the child, coffee for the adult.

For dinner—steamed chicken or boiled fish, broiled steak, roast lamb, lamb chops, mashed or baked potatoes, noodles or spaghetti with the chicken, spinach, cabbage shredded and served with the cream and a bit of lemon juice and sugar as dressing, steamed tomatoes, buttered parsnips, carrots or creamed onions. For dessert, fresh fruit, tapioca or prune whip, floating island, junket or various custards or rice pudding.

For supper—vegetable soup, or any cream soup containing the cooked vegetable like onion, asparagus, spinach. Scrambled or cooked eggs, entire wheat bread, any simple sponge cake or cookie, apple sauce, berries, fresh peaches, canned pears, and warm milk.

Rice Custard.—Beat two eggs thoroughly, add one pint of milk, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt and one-half cupful of sugar; stir in one and one-half cupfuls of cooked rice and flavor with nutmeg or cinnamon. Bake twenty to thirty minutes in a moderate oven. Serve with thin cream for the children or a hard sauce for the grownups.

Floating Island.—Put a quart of milk into the top of a double boiler. Beat the whites of three eggs until dry; put a spoonful over the top until the milk is covered. Cover and cook until the egg is set. Remove the egg white with a skimmer. When all are cooked place in a glass dish. Beat the yolks of three eggs, add one-half cupful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful each of salt and vanilla and add to the boiling milk. Cook until the egg white is cooked and pour around the egg in a simple cookie for dessert.

Take a pint of hash made of a cupful each of meat and mashed potato, well seasoned, doubling the amount if needed. Spread over the center of a well greased hot plank. Make small depressions with a tablespoon and fill with halved hard-cooked eggs, stuffed and covered with buttered crumbs. Bake with halved or sliced tomatoes around the edge, covered with a savory dressing.

Various Good Things.

A simple rice dessert which is both wholesome and easy to prepare is:

Baked Rice Custard.—Take a quart of milk, a half cupful of rice, one-half cupful of sugar, a little salt and a half cupful of raisins. Mix all well, dust with cinnamon and place in the oven to bake for an hour and a half.

Oatmeal Ginger Cookies.—Heat one-half cupful of butter, one-half cupful of brown sugar and two tablespoonfuls of milk. Sift one cupful of pastry flour, one cupful of oatmeal, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of soda and one teaspoonful of ginger and add to the first mixture. Cool and roll on a floured board, cut into cookies and bake on a baking sheet fifteen minutes in a moderate oven. Many prefer to brown the oatmeal well and grind it through the meat grinder before adding.

Fruit Cup.—Take one cupful each of white grapes, orange sections and diced pineapple. Remove the skins and seeds from the grapes and the membrane from the orange sections. Mix the fruit, one-half cupful of orange juice and the same of pineapple juice, sugar to taste and a few grains of salt. Pack in a freezer until the juice begins to freeze. Serve in tall glass garnished with maraschino cherries.

Walnut Prune Whip.—Take one cupful of prune pulp (cooked prunes, seeded and put through a sieve), beat three egg whites until stiff, add three tablespoonfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of vanilla and carefully fold in the prune pulp and one-half cupful of chopped walnut meats. Set in a pan of hot water and bake until firm in the center. Serve with whipped cream. A cold custard may be served with it if desired. Coconut instead of walnuts may be used.

To save spattering the cook book when in use cover with a glass plate, or keep a piece of window glass for the purpose.

Hawaiian Ornamentation

Originally the leis of the Hawaiian Islands were all real flowers. They are woven by expert leimakers of plumeria, ginger, carnations, roses and countless other blossoms. The Hima garlands are the ones which are imitated with paper flowers.

SCARFS AND PANELS FLUTTER; PRINTED CREPE IDEAL FABRIC

COSTUME designers have discovered that nothing so sets forth the chic and charm of sheer materials as to give them a carrie blanche to flutter and flutter at sweet will in guise of scarfs, panels and various capelets as novel and unique as genius can devise them. Wherefore the newest chiffon frocks are indulging in an orgy of shimmering airy-fairy drapes and contrivances which bespeak grace and beauty.

many lovely cape and deep collar or wide scarf suggestions which so artfully serve to veil the arms in the absence of sleeves. In the devising of these novelty soft necklines and shoulder drapes which are now so in fashion, fabric manipulation becomes a theme of supreme importance for most of them are made of self-material. Patternings may come and patternings may go, but when it comes to polka dots they go on forever in the son. One never can tell whether the modern yoke will remain true to its kind, or whether it will suddenly develop a "complex." Most of the new intricately designed yokes do just that.

The yoke in the picture is a fair example of the capriciousness of yokes. It started just like any other yoke being stitched flat across the front of the frock. However, when it arrives at the shoulders it assumes a dual role in that it glides into a graceful, floating scarf.

The majority of last minute styles elaborate the yoke idea in that they endow it with fantastic interpretations, such as, for instance, the tie yoke which enhances so many necklines in looking up patterns for summer frocks it behooves the woman who does her own sewing to select those which exploit fanciful yokes.

Another outcome of the yoke for a soft "dressmaker" styling is the presence of cunning capes and bertha collars. Under the magic touch of daintily, filmy, floating draperies such as are now exploited, the crudities of sleevelessness vanishes. As the se-pathway of the mode. Just now long summer-day dress pictured below a turn-down collar and ends in a long Paris has gone polka-dot mad.

Even to the accessories of a Parisienne exploit the polka-dot motif. A polka-dotted parasol, a handbag to match—yes, indeed, polka dots are given a prominent place in the French mode.

In choosing silk prints for the smart daytime frock, again do women in the French capital express their preference for polka-dot themes. The striking summer-day dress pictured below is made of navy blue crepe de chine with large white polka dots. Those who know fabrics declare that printed crepe is a material ideal for the dress one wants to wear and wear.

Also, please notice that this particular crepe used for the gown shown here adopts blue and white for its color scheme, for, blue and white, be it known, are playing a leading part on fashion's fabric program, appearing together in plaids, checks, stripes as well as in floral and modernistic patternings.

The dress in the picture also believ-son advances one realizes how cleverly designers are offsetting the unaltered trends by incorporating all sorts of over-the-shoulder drapes, where novelty and grace work hand-in-hand to achieve winsome feminine lines.

Bow Scarf

A newest scarf is one of slender dimensions that ties in a bow with long ends, under the chin, in a demure fashion. One completing a gray silk jersey sports frock has four tones of pink in it.

Sleeveless Crepe Dresses

Designers insist upon the modish scarf that hangs below the waist on cool warm days. So they have introduced clever models sans sleeves for wear on summer days when a coat is necessary. These smart frocks are delicately trimmed with lace dyed in contrasting colors.

One Lapel

A new coat in bright navy crepe has a novel closing. The right side is finished with a three-inch facing that extends around the neck to form a turn-down collar and ends in a long scarf that hangs below the waist on the left side. The left front has a finished lapel that buttons across to the right facing.

NEW GAS SERVICE POPULAR

Recently a survey was made relative to the purified and compressed natural gas, SKELGAS, which is bringing dependable and efficient gas service to thousands of women living far from city gas mains.

Users were questioned in sections of every state in which this product is sold—north, east, south and west. Some seventeen hundred were interviewed and, without exception, they said that now that they had used SKELGAS, knew the convenience and service it brought, they would not be without it.

Whereas a short time ago gas service was largely limited to our big cities, with SKELGAS, real gas service is available anywhere. You can now cook with gas. Fifteen million women are now using gas in preference to any other fuel because they know it is the ideal cooking fuel; fast, intensely hot, easily controlled, permits automatic temperature control, is clean, odorless and sootless. Every day, hundreds of women are being added to the ranks of gas users for they are finding all the conveniences and comforts of gas service in SKELGAS.

More, really, for the SKELGAS flame, rich, clean, intense is five times as hot as the ordinary city gas flame. Ranges built especially for this product utilize every bit of this heat.

Kewaskum Hardware and Electric Co., local authorized SKELGAS dealers are demonstrating SKELGAS daily. They say that the service of this product cannot be realized until it is seen in operation and they invite all women in town and on farms in this vicinity to see SKELGAS in their store, to actually use it themselves. This offer is made, of course, without obligations of any sort and many women are taking advantage of it daily.

PROOF ENOUGH

Mr. Lepard in a letter to Hoard's Dairyman of June 25th, says: "Mr. Lamar of Ottawa County, Michigan, has proved the value of cow testing the past two years. In the second year his herd average was increased 40 pounds of milk per cow, and cost of feed per cow lowered $19.00. This brought an increase of $38.00 in profits per cow. Mr. Lamar received 60 cents more for every dollar spent for feed. He produced fat for 11 cents less per pound, and his milk cost 40 cents less per 100 pounds." This also proves that price alone is far from being the only factor of economic importance. Some farmers place so much emphasis on price that they lose sight of economy of production. Join a cow testing association to solve your economic problems. Produce quality goods and equalize production. It pays.
