Dispose of All Surplus Chickens

No Profit in Holding Cockerels Longer Than Twelve Weeks.

All surplus males, indeed all of the cockerels whether they are to be raised or not, should be removed from the company of the pullets before they are old enough to become bothersome. On most farms it is the custom to sell the males at the age when they weigh about 2 pounds each. Chicks that are hatched before the first of April bring good prices at the 2-pound stage. should be by the time they are 10 or 12 weeks old, or earlier. Many grow good brollers of 2 pounds in eight weeks, sometimes in six. No Profit in Holding.

There is no profit in holding the cockerels longer than 12 weeks, unless they are to be kept for breeding purposes, or to supply a special market. I know of a number of poultry men who supply motorists chicken lunches and dinners during the summer and early fall. These men make a good profit by holding the cockerels to a later date, sometimes to the age of four or five months, because they can dispose of them at a large price to the traveling public, says a writer in the Indiana Farmer's Guide. Poultry men who are located on main-traveled roads should consider this method of making larger profit from their flocks. It is a field of endeavor not yet overcrowded. Cockerels to be kept for breeders should be removed to a separate house and range. If there happens to be but one good range available, let the pullets have it. It is of more importance to them than it could possibly be to the cockerels. However, it is a good plan to take good care of the mates. Remember, they

Storage Buildings Above

Ground Are Now Favored Most new common storage buildings for apples are being built above ground with insulated walls and ceilings. The floor is usually left as earth to keep fruit from shriveling in storage. Slatted floor racks of barrels are often used over the earth. Intake openings are cut at intervals of 10 to 12 feet around the building just above the floor level. These openings are usually 18 by 20 inches or larger to permit easy intake of air without too much loss from friction. Many storages in the past were built with intake openings too small to let in the cool air quickly at favorable times for ventilation and cooling. The total area of the intake openings is usually in proportion to one square foot of intake space to 700 cubic feet of storage volume. Stacks for outlets are built up through the roof. These are usually 3 by 4 feet or larger to permit free movement of air. They are placed about 20 feet apart the length of the building. The outlets are usually designed to figure at least one square foot of area to each 1,200 cubic feet

Grow Good Pullets.

There is one last rule that poultry men should observe in endeavoring to other common belief was that folds grow good pullets. Be careful in changing them to the laying quarbefore they start laying or as soon as a few eggs are found. Do not delay the matter, as they learn to hide the eggs in out-of-the-way places; also, and most important of all, never house the cockerels with the pullets. It is time enough to introduce males when hatching eggs are needed a year later.

Advantages of Broccoli

Over Cauliflower Plant Broccoli, says a "Vegetorial," in the Journal of the Market Garden Field station, Massachusetts Agricultural college, has two distinct advantages over cauliflower, which it closely resembles. The grower is almost certain of a crop of broccoli even under rather adverse circumstances. Then, too, after the terminal head of broccoli has been removed, side shoots continue to develop, which carries the crop through a long season, from July to freezing weather. The vegetable is increasing in popularity in this country. The variety, Christmas

Plants Not Forced Will

Endure Low Temperature Garden vegetables such as cabbage, tomatoes, etc., will endure lower temeratures and greater extremes of drouth without injury, after transplanting, if grown more slowly in the sandy soil, low in plantfood, watered sparingly and ventilated freely, have large fibrous root systems, short, stocky, firm, woody stems and a concentrated sap of low freezing point.

Vegetables grown in a seedbed of rich soil, highly manured, abundantly watered and in a high temperature with little ventilation, have scanty root systems.

of storage volume. It is a good fault to make them a little oversize.

Tomato growers who wish to hasten the ripening of their crop to take advantage of early markets will find treatment with ethylene gas an effective accelerator, according to Dr. R. H. Harvey, agricultural botanist, University Farm, St. Paul, inventor of this process which has recently been granted a patent. Many wholesalers and commercial growers now are using the ethylene method of ripening with notable success.

All that is necessary in the way of special equipment is a suitable room or chamber and a tank of ethylene gas equipped with a simple flow meter. The meter, plus enough gas to treat several carloads of tomatoes, will cost only about $30. The gas cost is negligible, ranging from about 40 cents to $1.00 a carload. The room or chamber should be closed off so as to make it practically gas tight. An ordinary plastered room, or cellar room, will work satisfactorily, providing cracks around windows are closed with adhesive tape and if it has a fairly tight fitting door. Some means should also be available for maintaining a temperature of from 65 to 80 degrees Fahrenheit.

Traditions of Sheep Disproved

Coverings of Wool Over the Face Does Not Indicate

Its Quality.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Traditionally sheepmen have believed that the best sheep have cov. erings of wool over their faces. Anaround the neck and shoulders of a sheep was an indication of a fleece of superior quality and value. Another idea commonly held was that the weather exercised a controlling influence in the quality and quantity

Research work by the United States Department of Agriculture has disproved two of these ideas and confirmed the other, but with a highly important modification To bring out the facts, the department workers have for years carried on painstaking investigations, using methods which they admit seem wasteful and useless until the methods and results are understood.

The bureau of animal industry maintains a flock of sheep in eastfirst and the amount gradually in. ern Idaho. Each June at shearing time each sheep is identified, weighed, and sheared. The staple is measured. The fleece is weighed. A sample is inclosed in a tin container and sent to the United States Experiment farm, Beltsville, Md. In the wood laboratory skilled workers dry the gradually increased until the last of samples in an electric conditioning oven and get the moisture-free weight. They remove grease with carbon tetrachloride and the dirt by a special scouring process. Another drying makes possible a determination of the weight of clean wool and of dirt. Thus it is possible to compile a complete record of each sheep's production each year and for succes-

Constant Culling Wise.

These records have disproved the first two ideas which were widely belleved. Weather does make some difference in wool production, but there is much more difference between individual sheep in one season than there is between flocks in different seasons. This points the wisdom of constant culling of low-yielding ewes and selective breeding for heavy fleece production.

Application of these facts on the sheep ranges is returning to sheepmen each year many times the cost of the research, says E. W. Sheets, who is in charge of the animal husbandry work of the Department of Agricul-

Access to Water Thrive

It has been demonstrated many times by experiment stations as well forcing bed than is customary. Such as by thousands of producers that vegetables grown in a seedbed of hogs do better and make larger gains from a given amount of feed when Normally a hog drinks only small quantities at a time, but it likes to drink often. It will drink several times during one feeding period when it can run to a self-feeder at will. When the feed is thrown on the ground or on a feeding floor where the individual hog must eat in competition with a large group, it is not likely to stop for water so long as there is grain to eat. But when it can run to a self-feeder it soon learns that there will be plenty of feed left when it returns. Then it begins to eat more deliberately and to drink several times bef re it has satisfied its hunger.

Feed Market Chickens

as Much as Possible

All chickens intended for the early market should receive as much food as they will consume four times dally. Under good management it is possible to add half a pound weekly to the weight of birds which have been specially bred for the table.

Of course, in every flock there will always be a few birds with a tendency to put on very little flesh-in fact, there is often some difficulty in main-

Such birds should be marketed without delay. If kept for special fattening they frequently drift into an unmarketable condition.

Valuable Pork Crop

Rape is one of the valuable crops for pork production. Although it is not a legume, rape compares favorably in composition with alfalfa and clover and is particularly valuable as When the grain feed is very much a forage to help out these two crops will be used in making the early gains. likely to make short growth. Rape during July and August when they are ranks close to alfalfa in the number of hogs it will pasture per acre. With a favorable season it will support from ten to twenty shoats.

Farm Notes

A good draft horse is a ready and willing worker and is neither irritable nor nervous.

Pullets and cockerels should be kept in separate flocks if they are to develop as they should.

When she came in on the Aquitania, winner for the third successive year of the Wimbledon championship, thirty news cameramen and a big crowd of reporters boarded the ship at quarantine to take pictures of her and interview her.

After the ship docked, one of the ship reporters hurrled to a telephone and, in his story, quoted Miss Wills as having said she doubted if she ever would play tennis in Europe again. The story went out, and during the afternoon reporters began to flock into her hotel to find out why.

"Somebody must have misunderstood me," she said amiably, when she had found out what the excitement was all about.

Delinquent Jap Youths

Trained to Be Sailors A floating prison for the sole confinement of Japanese juvenile delinquents has just been opened, the inauguration ceremony being attended by Minister of Justice Hara and other high judicial officials. It is anchored off the coast of Tokyo, near Yokohama, and from time to time will go out on short cruises. This prison ship. formerly the warship Musashi, was remodeled with a view to providing some practical method of curing young lawbreakers by giving their minds and bodies healthy occupations. The crew will be selected from various juvenile detention houses, Each boy taken on the ship will be kept for six months and given the training of a regular seaman. About fifty boys are to be kept on the ship at a time. Half of them will range from fourteen to eighteen years of age and the rest from eighteen to twenty-three years. When they have served their terms the boys will be able to get work on merchant ships and thus earn an honest living, it is pointed out by the judicial authorities.

School Observatory Is

New Idea in Education The city of Oakland, Calif., maintains a unique institution as a part of its public school system. It is Chabot observatory, a modern astronomical and meteorological observatory situated on Leona heights in the suburbs of that city. It is maintained for popular instruction in the sciences relating to weather, climate, and the stars. It is also affiliated with the United States Weather bureau and with the college. It has a large telescope through which visitors are permitted to view the wonders of the heavens, and it is free and open to the public day and night. In addition to the school children of Oakland, many thousands of tourists call at the observatory every year. It is, perhaps, the only institution of its kind in the United States maintained as part of the municipal public school system.

Soy Bean Human Food

By a new process perfected by Dr. L. Berczeller of Vienna, Austria, soy beans may be made into a meal for human food. The patented process makes the bean of the Orient palatable and preserves it. It may be used by bakeries, confectioneries, canners, sausage makers and health food producers, and is said to be especially effective in preparations for diabetics.

No woman ever wielded a coal shovel in a home heated with a Silent Automatic. To make the house warmer or cooler, she simply moves the thermostat pointer with her finger.

And do you know that Silent Automatic Oil Heat will keep the house so clean and dustless that housework becomes a pleasure? Do you know that wall paper and decorations stay clean twice as long; that the amount saved in interior upkeep and many other ways will pay for your burner? Have you ever been told that the health of your family will be greatly improved, because chill, stuffiness and overheating (the primary causes of most winter illnesses) are immediately corrected?

In addition to these advantages, you can get away from every care of your heating plant . . . no more "firing up" ... no "toting ashes" ... no "banking" at night ... no scurrying for kindling.

Ask your friends or neighbors about their "Silent" . . . or come in and let us show you the many features of this perfect oil burner.

You will then be thoroughly convinced that you can install a Silent Automatic Oil Burner with confidence, convenience and economy-THIS SEASON.

THE PRICE of Silent Automatic is $395 complete with automatic safety and operating controls. Nominal installation charges depend on basement conditions, oil storage capacity and local requirements.

history of the legislature has virtually

Shortly before midnight, Friday, Aug. 30, both houses had acted upon the last matters of business before them and the last roll call had been taken. As a final move, which brought a sudden end to the record-breaking session, four remaining bills proposing boosts in the gasoline tax were defeated. This means that Wisconsin's fuel tax levy will remain at 2 cents at least until the next session.

Formal or sine die adjournment cannot be taken for about a week as a skeleton organization must be kept to act upon messages of the governor. When the last bill has been acted upon by the executive adjournment will be taken formally.

The legislature this year acted upon 3,594 bills, amendments, and resolutions, six hundred more than any previous legislature.

A bill to raise the gas tax from 2 to 4 cents and to repeal the personal property tax on cars was first voted down in the lower house. Then a similar bill to repeal the personal property tax and to increase the fuel tax to 3 cents also was rejected.

Then the senate, realizing that the house would not likely concur in any of its bills, killed the so-called compromise measure, calling for a 4-cent gas tax, repeal of the personal property tax and for the building of through and local hard-surfaced roads. The vote was 19 to 1. By a vote of I to 2, the Carroll 4-cent gas tax bill, the only remaining hope of a higher gas tax, was defeated.

The bitter income tax fight ended when the senate, by the slender margin of one vote, concurred in the Hitt substitute which substantially increases taxes on incomes in excess of $4,000. The bill now goes to the gov-

The Hitt bill increases exemptions for married persons and heads of families from $17 to $20, and for dependents from $3 to $4. It decreases the exemption of a single man from $8 to $7. The bill also repeals the three year average as a basis of taxation.

The bill does not increase the rate of taxation on incomes below $4,000, but it does decrease the taxes of married persons earning less than this amount in that it raises exemptions. Thusly, a married man with an income of less than $4,000 will pay $3 less in taxes and $1 less for each child.

As the Hitt bill passed the legislature, the rate of taxation of the first $3,000 of taxable income remains the same. On the fourth $1,000 the rate of taxation is increased from 1% to 2 per cent. From $5,000 to $12,000 the rate of taxation is increased one-half of 1 per cent. On any sum in excess of $14,000 the rate is increased from 6 to 7 per cent. It is in the brackets in excess of $14,000 that the bill provides for its most drastic increase.

Four outstanding bills, passed by the two houses of the legislature, were vetned by Gov. Kohler.

Two were park measures, calling for purchase out of the general fund of lands in the northern lakes area of Price county and the Kettle-Moraine area of Fond du Lac and Sheboygan counties. A third was a bill which would transfer from the secretary of state to the various county clerks the duty of collecting auto license fees and distributing license plates. The fourth bill would have authorized the state to purchase tax delinquent lands of northern Wisconsin countles.

"The general fund has been subjected to heavy drain because of large appropriations and its funds must be conserved," the governor's parks veto message said.

The present centralized plan of llcense plate distribution by the secretary of state makes for more efficiency than might be obtained from the county clerks, the governor said in his auto veto license passage.

"It has been estimated," the governor said in his fourth veto message, "that if put into effect this provision (purchase of tax delinquent lands by the state) would cost the general fund over $400,000 a year. No method is provided for the raising of this money."

The senate passed the Casperson bill to appropriate $20,000 to purchase and distribute 1.250,000 copies of a digest of the state traffic laws. It concurred in assembly amendments to the Boldt state fund investment bill and sent it to the governor for his signa-

AGREE ON WAR DEBT; YOUNG SCHEME SAVED

Calls for Evacuation of the Rhine by June 30.

The Hague.-The international conference for the liquidation of outstanding war problems successfully ended here. The powers agreed on the costs of the armies of occupation from September 1, when the Young plan became operative, until June 30, 1930, when the last of the foreign troops will evacuate German soil.

Under the agreement the German government will pay first $11,662,000 toward the maintenance of French, British and Belgian garrisons totaling 56,000 men now holding the Coblenz and Mayence bridgeheads and adjacem areas. The British force on the Rhine numbers only 6,250,

This places a premium on the allies liberating the Rhine by Christmas, as thereafter, or whenever Germany's donation of $11,662,000 is expended, the French, British and Belgians must pay for their own troop maintenance pro rata.

"We bought back our Rhineland provinces for $11,662,000," one German delegate remarked dryly.

The Young plan, though scheduled to start on September 1, really becomes effective from November 1, according to the plans of the delegates of the great powers. The beginning of the plan is truly timed by the eight Oshkosh-On condition that he make | months given the French to evacuate ember 1, 1929, to June 30, 1930.

The project will then be submitted to the parliaments for ratification. Dr. Gustav Stresemann will insist on an immediate vote so that the Young plan can begin,

WHEAT YIELD LOSS IN 26 COUNTRIES

U. S. '29 Crop 2,208,223,000 Bu.; Last Year 2,347,665,000.

Washington .- Wheat production in wenty-six countries is estimated at 2,208,223,000 bushels compared with 2,347,665,000 last year, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. These countries in 1928 had about 60 per cent of the world's wheat production outside Russia and China. Estimates for sixteen European countries total 947,339,000 bushels, compared with 1,012,508,000 in 1928.

Production of wheat and the other principal grain crops in Prussia, according to an official estimate August , is below that of last year. Prussia usually has about 60 per cent of Germany's total wheat crop, 57 per cent of the barley crop, 70 per cent of the oats crop and more than 75 per cent of the rye crop. The Prussian winter wheat crop is estimated at 59,414,000 bushels and spring wheat 6,357,000 bushels. The total wheat crop is put at 65,771,000 bushels, compared with 86.384.000 in 1928.

Good yields of wheat are reported in France. In Czechoslovakia both winter and spring wheat were below average condition August 1, according to an official report. Lithuania's wheat production is expected to be about 8 per cent below last year's turnout of 6.327,000 bushels.

Indications are that Russia's total bread grain crops may not exceed those of last year and the commercial crop may be below last year. The surplus-producing areas of the east have crops less satisfactory than the commercially less important western area and the deficient northwestern ticularly, is below last year. Russian grain procurements during the current marketing year, which began on July 1, are higher than last year, though still considered insufficient. Needless competition exists among procuring organizations and the opposition of the richer peasants continues. Inadequate transportation facilities are an additional handicap.

More Hospitals Urged for Disabled Veterans

Paul, Minn.-Additional hospital facilities for disabled veterans throughout the United States were demanded in a resolution adopted by the Veterans of Foreign Wars at their thirtieth annual encampment

Adopting the report of its committee on legislation, the veterans also went on record as favoring increases in pay for all of the military forces of the nation, liberalization of rules relating to hospitalization of veterans, and the Brookhart bill providing for immediate payment of adjusted compensation allowed by the government The organization also recorded itself as opposed to the placing of any time limit for filing of claims for disability, Another resolution was adopted urging that veterans employed by the government in civil service be entitled to retirement after 25 years of service and also be given credit for military service in their status. Approving the report of the committee on pensions and soldiers' homes the convention indorsed the bill introduced by Congressman Harold Knutson of Minnesota to provide increased pension allowances for veterans of the Spanish American war. Approval also was given to proposals for pensioning widows of disabled World war veterans, increasing pension allowances for veterans who have been malmed, and increasing pension allowances for veterans of the Civil war.

FARM BOARD OFFERS RELIEF TO GROWERS

Grain Men to Be Allowed Short Time Loans.

Chicago.-The federal farm board for the first time announced a definite policy of extending credit relief to grain farmers when, at the close of an organization meeting of the Farmers' National Grain corporation held here, Alexander Legge, chairman, issued a statement outlining conditions under which growers will be brought under the benefits of the federal board. This statement gives the general plan by which loans on grain in warehouses may be pledged as security for short-time loans. The statement fol-"Whenever co-operative elevators, terminal associations and grain pool organizations have obtained loans from a federal intermediate credit bank, the federal farm board will make an additional advance of 10 cents a bushel on unhedged grain.

"This advance will be made on the same storage receipts or documents practical home building, for the readwhich have been accepted by the intermediate credit bank, these papers to be deposited with the custodian of the intermediate credit bank. "The lien of the federal farm board will be junior and subordinate to the lien of the federal intermediate credit bank received as security for its loan. "Further, if grain received by a given co-operative has been hedged through a sale for future delivery at a definite price, the federal farm board will make an advance, bringing the total loan up to 90 per cent of the sale price of the grain. The board will also make a similar advance in cases where grain has not been sold through an exchange but definitely contracted for to a reputable buyer."

Mr. Legge said that he did not know whether any applications from farm groups for loans that might qualify under this policy are now filed with the farm board. He anticipated that many would now be filed, he said, and that the machinery for taking care of the applications would be in operation in a very few The grain corporation organization meeting drafted general provisions for its constitution and adjourned leaving the labor of drafting the measure to a special committee headed by C. E. Huff and including John Manley and S. J. Cottington. The report of this committee will be first submitted for the approval of the farm board then to the parent organization committee. William Settle, chairman, said that no information as to the constitution of the corporation would be released, nor any indication as to general policies before the general committee had passed on the finished document and organization papers were filed. He voiced the general satisfaction of the farm leaders as to the work so far done and issued a statement in explaining the action taken. "Our committee during its three ing for it-and she should not get it ! -she will feel bad-about disappointing us-"

Breathless with the horrid fear of thus embarrassing their beauty, they rose simultaneously and bastened upstairs, crowding upon each other. "As if we care whether she gets it or not," said Ginger stoutly.

Mr. Tolliver, with the courage of his conviction, went instantly to bed. Not for worlds would be confuse a daughter of his with the thought that he expected her to bring him money by her loveliness. But the two girls.

however much they might wish to spare their sister's teelings, could not entirely sacrifice their own. They must see her-they must !- must catch the first thrill of her voice-feel the first touch of her quivering tingers. They took off their shoes, making pretense, and thrust their feet into their shabby old mules. This was to prove that they were utterly indifferent to the outcome, practically in bed and asleep. Then they sat on the bed and waited a while. It seemed a long time to them.

"She won't be here for hours and nours," mourned Miriam.

"But If we go to bed we may fall asleep," protested Ginger. "And she would come home in whispers, and it would be morning tefore we knew what had happened."

This was too hopelessly awful even to consider. They stared at each other disconsolately.

Sheer desperation finally drove them up the corridor, beyond the twins room, to the one which Ginger shared with Helen, in spite of the excitement attendant upon the beauty pageant, had been putting some last tender touches to her wedding gown, and bad left it carefully spread out across ber bed.

"So slinky," cooed Ginger. "Real lace," exulted Mirlam. "If only it were the prince of Wales instead of Horace Langley."

"But Helen loves Horace." "So dumb of her."

They lapsed into moody silence. Ginger broke it at last, "It's not that I'm altogether opposed to marriage, you know. But people should marry somebody that is somebody, if they're going to marry at all. You must admit that it is silly of Helen to marry a common school teacher who doesn't earn a cent more than father does. She's not gaining a thing by it, not a thing. In absolute depths of desperation, although the slightest touch upon the shimmery whiteness of the gown was strictly prohibited, Ginger lifted it up. carefully, and held it against her own slight figure, smiling at her reflection in the mirror.

"Oh, beautiful," she sighed rapturously. "It would be almost worth attaching a husband just to get to wear it. Miriam, listen. There isn't a thing to do-she won't be home for hours and hours-and she won't come up while he's there! I'm going to to try it on." Miriam's start was one of abject norror-but she distened, frowning. And she showed interest. Still arguing against it, she held the gown carefully high from the floor, while Ginger slipped out of her modest little frock and into its silken slip. Giggling ecstatically, nervously, both girls held their breath as Mirlam lifted the soft folds over Ginger's sleek little

Ginger posed with great dignity before the mirror, practicing a slow bridal step.

"Oh, Ginger, it is lovely. Why, really, you're quite pretty."

Ginger paraded back and forth before her mirrored reflection in a complete ravishment of delight "How sumptuous-1 mean, scrumptious," she exulted. "How dignified I am! Why, I look as old as Helen. Oh, I wish we had a veil." Her face fell disappointedly. Unfortunately, the family finances had not yet admitted of the purchase of that ultimate bridal accessory. "Look in Helen's drawers, Miriam. She must have something. You can't get the effect without a vell."

Miriam obligingly ransacked the cedar chest, the dresser drawers, but in vain. She did produce however a small circlet of creamy white flowers saved from the hat of a previous summer, and these she twined prettily on Ginger's head, admiring the effect. But Ginger was not to be pleased.

"But we've got to have a veil, it tooks tike a nightgown, or anything.

"You must wear white gloves. Wait." Miriam ran noiselessly to the bathroom, and returned with a pair of shapeless white canvas ones which Marjory kept there in reserve for her infrequent turns of dusting. She tucked these effectively into Ginger's hand, but Ginger would not be distracted from the quest.

"Miriam, think-we must have something. Look! The curtains!"

Forgetting the sacred gown, she swung herself lithely up to a chair by the window, but was quickly drawn from danger of disaster by her sister. "Ginger, be careful. Come away

Balancing herself on the chair, she removed one of the long thin curtains from the rod, and shook it carefully out the window to remove the dust. Then, with a nice regard for effectiveness, she attached it by pins to the wreath in Ginger's bair. Ginger trembled with delight. "Oh, Miriam-bonestly-I'd marry him myself. Think of walking into church like this." "You must walk slowly and look very sad. Brides always look sad. To keep from laughing, I suppose." Miriam?" Ginger cast a disapproving look at her clumsy old mules. Mercy!

What-on-earth-" tain, listening intently. Downstairs, Helen and Horace also heard the unaccustomed uproar, and went to the front window to investigate. Mr. Tolliver heard it, and sat up in bed, wondering, regretting his helplessness in his own home. But his life with four gay daughters had accustomed him to accept strange experiences without much question, and he subsided quietly.

The mad medley of noises presently detached itself into distinct and recognizable consonants. There was an overtone of excited girlish laughter, a chorus of admiring bass.

"Marjory !"

The big car careened dizzily up to the end of the flagstone path, and tigures, many tigures, disentangled themselves from running boards, fenders and hood. The dark shadow of them surged across the lawn, and standing out against it, laughing, pale silk, dull gold, with cream-white face and arms glimmering in the moonlight, was Marjory. The wailing siren had fallen to sudden silence, only the twanging discordancy of the ukulele proclaimed ber triumphant return. "Oh, Margie," cried Helen, as she ran to the door to greet her. "How wonderful! How lovely!" Like moonlight Marjory tripped into the dull old house, with her shadowy

MILLINERY, ENSEMBLES AND SUITS FOR EARLY AUTUMN The KITCHEN

T WOULD seem as if hats have moods as well as modes. One is almost tempted to accuse them of being temperamental, or is it the wearers that are thus? At any rate, according to modern millinery cult, the hat must tune to individuality. Not only must it enter directly into the color scheme of the costume of which it be-

According to the initial conturiers showings, suits and ensembles are going to indulge in lavish, also extremely unique, fur trimmings this fall and winter. The furs employed run the gamut from smooth fabriclike pelts to showlest long-haired types.

Church Communion

The Encyclopedia of Church History defines "open communion" as the service of the holy communion of saints which is open to all who apply, irrespective of creed. In "closed communion" the service is confined to the members of a single society or at least to the members of a denomination who are baptized. By "communion erary tastes of those hardy ploneers of place" is meant the administration of the sacrament in a consecrated building. It also refers to the retention of the Host.

FOR YOUR TEA TABLE

When serving afternoon tea, which is a pleasant and social custom, one does not assume that the guests are bungry, so any food served at this time should be very dainty and in such small servings that the appetite for dinner will not be dulled. The usual filled cookle is made by putting the filling on one and covering with another. Even when cut with a small cutter, the cookie is quite substantial. Try making them this way:

Half Moon Cookies. - Cream one cupful of shortening, one cupful of sugar, add one egg, one-half cupful of milk with three cupfuls of flour, sifted with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and a half teaspoonful of salt. Mix and roll, adding as little flour as possible.

Filling.—Take two cupfuls of dates sliced into bits, one cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of flour, one cupful of boiling water and two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Mix the flour and sugar, add the boiling water and the dates, lemon juice, stir in at the last one-half cupful of nut meats. Cool. Place in a spoonful of the tilling on a cookie, fold over to form a semicircle, press the edges together lightly and bake on baking sheets. This recipe makes about six dozen.

Glace Dates .- This is another tea table dainty which will be enjoyed at any time or season. Pit one package of fresh, moist dates and stuff with a nut meat or two, a welldrained piece of canned pineapple. wrapping the date well around the discolors or test by the candy ther- floor. mometer at 310 Fahrenheit. Angel Cakes with Almond Filling .- Bake angel cake batter in the very small gem pans. When cold carefully with the point of a knife take out a little of the center and fill with a thick, boiled custard, flavored with almond. Sprinkle the top with shredded almond after icing them, or place a whole almond on top. Cookies are always liked and often a cooky or two with tea will make a pleasant occasion of a simple call.

Ice Box Cookies.-Cream one-half cupful of butter, add one cupful of sugar and three eggs, one at a time: then add one teaspoonful of vanilla and four cupfuls of flour sifted with two teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Mix and work well, then roll out into two rolls, adding nuts if desired. Place on a baking pan and put into the ice box over night. In the morning cut into thin slices and bake in a quick oven. FAMILY DOCTOR LEARNED THIS ABOUT CONSTIPATION

Dr. Caldwell loved people. His years of practice convinced him many were ruining their health by careless selection of laxatives. He determined to write a harmless prescription which would get at the cause of constipation, and correct it.

Today, the prescription he wrote in 1885 is the world's most popular laxative! He prescribed a mixture of herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in thousands of cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness and lack of appetite or energy showed the bowels of men, women and children were sluggish. It proved successful in even the most obstinate cases; old folks liked it for it never gripes; children liked its pleasant taste. All drugstores today have Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin in bottles.
