Autumn is here and with the ideal fall weather the trees have taken on such a beautiful coloring, the woods presenting a picture as magnificent as an artist could paint.

Handicapped to his man—the key thrown away—Sergeant Daley becomes snowblind from the glittering expanse of white. This is just a bit of the fast moving drama in "The Danger Patrol", the new Rayart picture which will be shown at the Kewaskum Movies tomorrow, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bendel entertained the following on Sunday, kirmess day: Mr. and Mrs. Jac Bendel, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Obenberger and Nic Rodenkirch of Milwaukee, Mrs. G. Mrs. John Roden and the Misses Lorena and Helen Staehler attended the funeral of their cousin Oscar Knoeck at Barton last Friday morning. Mr. Knoeck died at his home at Rollingston, Minn., after a three days' illness with pneumonia. He was the husband of a former local girl namely, Mathilda Seefeld, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis Seefeld. He leaves his widow and four small children. We extend our sympathy.

Dr. H. Driessel, one of Kewaskum's well known and prominent physicians and owner and manager of the Driessel hospital, returned to his home here on Tuesday, after being confined to the Marquette University Annex Hospital, Milwaukee, where he underwent an operation four weeks ago, for the removal of a cataract in his right eye. His many patrons and friends will be pleased to learn that he is able to be up and around and attend his patients who call at his office. The doctor, however, has not as yet recovered fully enough to warrant him to make regular calls, and probably will not be able to do so for about two weeks. After he has recovered he will again regain the full strength and vision of the eye and be in a position to attend to his medical practice as before.

THE DANGER PATROL AT THE MOVIES

Virginia Browne Faire always has been one of the most capable troupers before the camera, and has a long list of successful impersonations to her credit. And now she comes along in Rayart's "The Danger Patrol" to appear more charming than ever, and to give further evidence of her histrionic ability, for she is called upon to portray a very difficult role in this drama of the Canadian north woods which will be shown at the Kewaskum Movies tomorrow, Sunday evening.

Dr. H. Driessel, one of Kewaskum's well known and prominent physicians and owner and manager of the Driessel hospital, returned to his home here on Tuesday, after being confined to the Marquette University Annex Hospital, Milwaukee, where he underwent an operation four weeks ago, for the removal of a cataract in his right eye. His many patrons and friends will be pleased to learn that he is able to be up and around and attend his patients who call at his office. The doctor, however, has not as yet recovered fully enough to warrant him to make regular calls, and probably will not be able to do so for about two weeks. After he has recovered he will again regain the full strength and vision of the eye and be in a position to attend to his medical practice as before.

FIELD TRIALS AND BENCH SHOW OCTOBER 5-11

Through the untiring efforts of Jos. Eberle, a member and officer of the Wisconsin Kennel Club, the annual field trials will be held here starting today, Saturday and continuing until Friday, Oct. 11. According to the number of dogs entered and by the liberal donations made by business men of Kewaskum, for the prize winners, indications are that this year's annual event of the kennel club, will be the largest sponsored by the organization. Mr. Eberle has everything in readiness, having built enough kennels to house from 50 to 100 dogs. Commencing yesterday, Friday, beagle dogs arrived from all over the United States, including some of the best and highest priced dogs in the country. It is the desire of the citizens and business men of Kewaskum that this year's field trials will be the most successful one held in the history of the club, and that Kewaskum will be selected by the members of the organization as the proper place to hold the annual field trials in years to come. The citizens and businessmen of Kewaskum extend a welcome hand to every member of the club and wish them a good time and good luck.

A number of fields nearby have been picked by Mr. Eberle and other officers of the club in which the field trials will be held. The 13-inch derby class will start at 10 a. m., today. Tomorrow, Sunday afternoon, October 6, the bench show will be held at Eberle's place at which the judges will award the prizes to the best beagles in the show. RESULTS OF CHEST CLINIC

Five cases of heart disease but no cases of tuberculosis were diagnosed among the forty-two school children and eight adults examined here Sept. 25 by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association physicians. This clinic for Washington county and as such was jointly financed by the county board and the W. A. T. A. Funds of the association are raised through the annual sale of tuberculosis Christmas Seals, the local 1928 sale having been directed by E. E. Skaliskey.

Three patients were found to have a condition which is often pre-tuberculous. This condition—a pulmonary infection, non-tuberculous—indicates that the lungs of these persons have been weakened through pneumonia or influenza. Because weakened lungs provide fertile soil for tuberculosis germs and because tuberculosis usually develops gradually, persons with this condition are urged to have their health checked up on periodically so as to prevent the development of tuberculosis. One person had had contact with a tuberculous person.

Seven persons were found to be apparently in normal health while thirty-eight were referred to their family physician for further advice or for treatment. W. A. T. A. physicians urge the correction of physical defects which may be leaders to such contagious diseases as tuberculosis by lowering the resistance of an individual to a dangerous degree. A summary of the physical defects diagnosed in the clinic is as follows: Children at least 10 per cent underweight, 3; malnourished adults, 1; decayed or neglected teeth, 15; diseased tonsils, 16; nose and throat diseases 24; diseased adenoids, 4; suspiciously diseased adrenals, 4; glandular conditions, 20; simple goiter, 21.

The W. A. T. A. clinic crew of two physicians and a social worker, Miss Dorothy Durbin, was assisted in the clinic work by Miss Ruby McKenzie, County Nurse.

This demonstration will be put on by Marvin Schwoer of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, and S. P. Murat, County Agent of Fond du Lac county. Five towers have been erected and beaconlights will be installed soon. The beacon nearest Fond du Lac is located southeast of Fond du Lac about halfway between that city and Campbellsport. Starting at the lighted field and beacons at Milwaukee county airport and Maitland field, beacons on the route are placed as follows: No. 1 two miles south-east of the village of Granville; No. 2, three miles northwest of the village of Rockfield; No. 3, two and a half miles east of West Bend, where a beacon and a lighted intermediate or emergency landing field has been established; No. 4, one mile north of Kewaskum; No. 5, southeast of Fond du Lac. The airport lights and beacons at Fond du Lac, Oshkosh, Appleton and Green Bay are close enough together that other beacons on the route are unnecessary.

LANTERN SETS BARN AFIRE

James McCullough, farmer living on the Byron campgrounds road, a mile west of Highway 41, narrowly escaped being trapped in a barn blaze Wednesday night when a lantern he was carrying exploded and started a fire which destroyed his barn, a chicken coop and damaged the granary. Damage was estimated at approximately $8,000 and is only partially covered by insurance. Mr. McCullough had gone into the barn shortly after 6:30 p. m. to do his chores. He had just set the lantern on the floor when it exploded and fired the barn interior with a flash of flame. He had time only to run out of the building, he said and might have been trapped by flames had he delayed even a few minutes.

WEST BEND, WISCONSIN

Your Business Based on Quality Sure to Win

The idea of paying for milk and cream on a quality basis, is gaining steadily. We will all welcome the time when under-grade milk will be completely outlawed, and only good quality paid for. As long as human nature continues to have good and bad streaks, there will always be some patrons trying to get by with poor quality. Dairy men who have the best interest of their business at heart, will insist that only good quality milk be allowed on the market. After all is said and done, producing quality milk is the only way the dairyman can hope to make his business better and more prosperous.

BEAVER DAM MAN WOUNDED BY SON

A. G. Knaack was recovering Tuesday from a bullet wound dangerously near the heart, which he received at the hands of his 16-year-old son, Amos, according to police. The shooting is said to have followed a family quarrel after which the youth seized a .32-caliber revolver and fired at his father. Although his condition was reported serious, it is believed he will recover. The son was not taken into custody according to police, but the case is expected to be taken up by juvenile authorities.

Pennsylvania Tries Halfbacks

COACH Louis A. Young of the University of Pennsylvania football squad has decided to try out a number of halfbacks in calling signals for the team.

Alfred Brodbeck, who played in the national amateur golf championship last September instead of reporting for football, has decided to devote his time to the gridiron sport this fall. He reported in excellent fettle and seems destined to make as much a name for himself in the fall sport as he has in basket ball and golf.

Mort Wilner, who for two seasons was first string substitute quarterback on the varsity, is the first choice to call the signals. His experience as an understudy combined with his ability to run the ball have won him the position as regular quarterback.

In addition to Brodbeck, Young has designated Dick Gentle, a veteran halfback from last year and Bill Graupner, a freshman quarterback develop as the coaches anticipate, Gentle will return to a halfback position.

Walter Opekun, whose sensational run of 93 yards after having recovered a fumble in the Cornell game will not be duplicated this season because of the new rule, is the fullback of the team. He will meet real opposition from Bill Raffel, 175-pounder from the freshman team of last season. Robert Meyer, who weighs about the same, and a yearling, and Jack Ruggiero, who, while light in weight, is one of the most aggressive players in the squad.

Coach Young has decreed heavy work from now on. The charging machine, tackling dummy and other paraphernalia regarded as implements of torture by the uninitiated will be used every day from now on, followed by a scrimmage drill that will last from twenty to forty minutes.

Judging by the few formations that have been used thus far, the lineup for the first team will be something like the following: Olexy and Gervin, ends; Captain Utz and Barret, tackles; Kuen and Magal, guards; Warren, center; Wilner, quarterback; Gentle or Masters and Caristen, halfbacks, and Opekun, fullback.

According to Coach Young not one position on the team is settled. Changes will be made almost daily with any individual showing sufficient worth replacing one of the favorites.

Any one of twenty-two freshmen from last season may supplant a letter winner. Certain it is that a number of last year's yearlings will be used as first string substitutes.

Frank Merrick, who is six feet three inches tall and weighs close to two hundred pounds and is thus the biggest man in the squad, is regarded as a real threat to the ambitions of Tom Barrett and Bill Williams to be one of the two regular tackles. A summer of strenuous work has placed Merrick in ideal condition to fight his way to a regular berth.

Coach Lou Young.

CARRIER'S FAME MOST ENDURING

That Style of Offense Brings Red Grange to Front.

More grid players have gained fame through ability to carry the ball off tackle and around end than any other form of attack. Once in a while a kicker, a pass receiver, a passer will be a team's great star, but the carrier's fame is the most enduring. This style of offense brought Red Grange into the limelight.

The wide end sweeps and the cut back plays with excellent blocking by linemen and leading backs made Grange famous. The same was true of Paddy Driscoll when he wore the purple colors of Northwestern. Oliphant, of Purdue, who afterward went to the Army, was given excellent support by his line, and thus made his reputation.

However, there must be a variation of attack. A pass, especially if used from the running formation, makes the ground gaining easier off tackle and around end. The line plunge, with a fake thrust off tackle, is the more effective if tackle plays have been gaining.

Quarterbacks seek to find the weak spot in opponents' defense. A game may be won by the use of five plays instead of the fifty or sixty which may compose the offensive repertoire.

As the modern game is played any back may be shifted to a ball carrying position. In this manner ball carriers may be rested. Ends may be brought back if they are adept at running.

Congress may be asked to intervene in the squabble between the Army and Navy departments over the resumption of athletic relations. Congressman Hamilton Fish, New York, called on President Hoover and suggested that the games be resumed. The famous one-time Harvard varsity grid player, talking after the interview, said:

"I suggested that the secretaries of war and navy, the superintendents of the two academies and the athletic directors should call a conference in an effort to remove the differences that caused a break in relations."

Miller Huggins, famed manager of the New York Yankees, who passed on the other day, was at one time the leader of the St. Louis Cardinals and as such had a long and serious debate with Bob Connerly, St. Louis scout, over giving $300 for the purchase of a rookie. Connerly finally won and Rogers Hornsby became the property of the St. Louis team.

Ohio State's passing for the coming season will be handled by McConnell and Holman, practice at Stadium field indicated. Arden McConnell, a third-year man, has come up from the ranks in the last two weeks of pre-season work and has what seems to be a regular halfback position.

Mickey Walker, middleweight boxing champion, will meet Ace Hudkins, of Nebraska, in a ten-round title bout at Los Angeles on October 29.

Chuck Wiggins, Indianapolis heavyweight boxer, was sentenced to serve 90 days in jail and was fined $500 and costs upon his plea of guilty on nine charges growing out of a recent automobile accident.

One of the great races in which the late Sam Hildreth trained the winner, was the international, in which Zev defeated the English Derby winner, Papyrus. Hildreth showed a fine spirit in this race by entertaining Ben Jarvis, trainer of the English horse in his box.

Bobby Jones' recent exhibition at the San Francisco Golf club netted the Shrine Hospital for Crippled Children close to $6,000. Jones says Doctor Willing of Portland, Ore., wants him to go fishing in Oregon next year and also that the Japanese government has invited him to play exhibition matches in Japan.

Ralph Hewitt, a sophomore at Columbia, is looked upon as the best backfield prospect since the days of Walter Koppisch.

Wood for Lead Pencils
The forest service says that the red cedar, from which lead pencils are made, grows all through the eastern part of the country. The lead pencils are made from the heart wood, and probably the trees suitable for this purpose are about fifty years old.

Parachute Fall
How far a parachute jumper can allow himself to fall before opening his parachute has never been determined. An army air corps sergeant, to demonstrate that people do not lose consciousness in falling, dropped 1,500 feet before pulling his rip cord.

Must Use Horsehair
The Etude says that materials other than horsehair for violin bows have been tried, but none has proved satisfactory or come into general use.

Famous in Finance
Wall street, New York, takes its name from the location of an old wall erected by the early Dutch settlers as a protection to their property.

Patriotism may be mere habit.

Jim Poole Wins
Jim Poole, the Nashville veteran, finally won out in his hot race for the batting leadership of the Southern league. Final unofficial averages showed him leading the loop with a mark of .347. He beat out both Wels of Birmingham and Jeanes of Memphis, who had respective averages of .344 and .341. Poole also paced the field in runs batted in with 114 and in home runs with 32. Dashiell of Chattanooga stole 45 bases to rank first among the runners.

Ed Leader, crew coach at Yale, was graduated from Washington University with an LL. B., earned a B. A. at Yale, and is now continuing his scholastic work for an M. A. degree.

Among the women to successfully own and operate large racing stables is Mrs. Margaret Emerson Baker, of Baltimore, Md. She has a string of 20 on hand at Havre de Grace.

A football coach is one driver who never has to worry about advice from the back seat.

Sport Notes

Pitcher Jimmy Walkup of Fort Worth is left-handed, but he doesn't walk many batters. In fifteen recent games he issued thirteen passes.

More facilities for municipal golfers are being provided in Baltimore as fast as workmen can do the job. The new Hillsdale course is being enlarged nine holes this fall.

The National bank bills are also coming out in small sizes, and if some one told us that John L. Sullivan's picture appeared on the $10,000 issue we'd have to believe that, too.

Football is making strides forward in Hawaii. The game is so popular that the native boys play in their bare feet and manage to kick about as well as their cousins across the water.

Fairy Story: "Well," remarked the football fan, "as long as I have tickets for six games this fall, I might as well sit down and master the 1925 rules. Then I will know what it is all about."

Both the Villanova college and New York university football elevens wear numbers on the front and back of their jerseys so that fans can identify the players during the games this fall.

Leo Diegel, professional golf champion of the United States and Canada, got his start in the game as a caddy at the age of nine and was breaking 80 by the time he was thirteen.

Mike Gibbons once fought 15 furious rounds at St. Paul, Minn., and received $22.50 as his share of the gate receipts. A few days later he was fined $25 for violating the anti-fight law.

An observer says 70 per cent of the members of congress play golf at some time or other in the year. It would be interesting to see the log-rollers conceding one another the 40-foot putts.

"Chick" Gagnon, former Holy Cross college football star, will coach the backfield players at Catholic university, Washington, D. C. this fall and next spring will have charge of the baseball squad.

Nobs Price, football coach at California, views the coming battles of the gridiron: "I think the coming season will be one of the greatest ever played on the Pacific Coast. Every team is likely to be better."

According to a new ruling of the American Bowling congress, effective during the 1929-30 season, no bowler who is not a member of a sanctioned organization will be allowed to participate in tournaments or leagues.

Joseph Bower, Oil City (Pa.) student-manager of the University of Pittsburgh football squad, is a World war veteran. He served for 13 months overseas. Bower enlisted at the age of sixteen in a motor transport unit.

Ed Leader, crew coach at Yale, was graduated from Washington University with an LL. B., earned a B. A. at Yale, and is now continuing his scholastic work for an M. A. degree.

Among the women to successfully own and operate large racing stables is Mrs. Margaret Emerson Baker, of Baltimore, Md. She has a string of 20 on hand at Havre de Grace.

A football coach is one driver who never has to worry about advice from the back seat.

Babe Herman Says He'll Ask $100,000 Salary

Floyd C. (Babe) Herman, Brooklyn slugger, leading National league slugger, has made it known that he is prepared to ask the Robins' management for $100,000 for his next season's work.

The illustrious .400 hitter has it figured this way: If Babe Ruth can ask a hundred grand for his next season's stipend why can't he? If a member of a Bronx team can expect that much compensation, why not a representative of Flatbush?

The answer seems to be that the McKeever-Ehlers interests can't begin to pay what Colonel Ruppert with his prosperous Yankees can.

This Babe, however, suffers from no inferiority complexes. He is prepared to point out that he will out-hit the Babe 50 points any year, that he can hit a ball as far as well as off-ender, and that the only reason he doesn't make as many home runs is because he hits slashing liners to left and center instead of pulling pop flies into nearby right-field stands.

Nevertheless, the belief prevails that Herman will be lucky to get a quarter of what he plans to demand. It is reported that Lou Gehrig gets $25,000 a year and no one will gain-say the Brooklyn Babe in his contention that if Lou is worth that kind of money to the Yankees he is worth at least as much to the Robins.

New Pirate Pilot

Jewel Ens, who took the place of Donnie Bush as pilot of the Pirates, imparted snap and dash to the Bucs and captured a lot of games near the end of the season.

Lively Ball Costly

The lively ball is expensive. Harry Hinchman, manager of the Reading club of the International league, says: "With the lively ball the clubs in this league have to carry nine and ten pitchers instead of six or seven. For in these days you can scarcely count on the starting pitcher going the route. These extra pitchers cost each club about $12,000 a year in salaries."

Claims "Fork Ball"

A Tacoma plumber, Bert Hall, has dropped his tools long enough to produce evidence that he is the originator of the "fork ball" of baseball.

"Bullet" Joe Bush, former major league pitcher, claims to have used the odd delivery for the first time in 1920.

But Hall's book of clippings reveals he started on the road to fame with the fork ball in 1908 while twirling for Tacoma in the old Northwestern league.

My health hasn't been good for years and in spite of the fact that I have been doctoring myself I could never get my stomach right. My stomach simply refused to digest my food and my appetite was gone until I was given DRECO. I also suffered with rheumatism and DRECO relieved me at times and my joints were in pieces. Then I was given DRECO and in just a few days I was on the rapid recovery.

Writings Direct From the "Land of Shadows"

The White Mountain, official publication of the Sect of the White Mountain, a religious cult organized in Germany, had some remarkable contributors. It was discovered when the police investigated activities of the cult. There were articles signed by Bismarck, Frederick the Great, Nietzsche and other famous dead persons. Weissenberg, founder of the cult, claimed that as he was the great protector of the dead, he had at his disposal an unlimited number of contributors.

Occasionally there were articles signed by the archangels Gabriel and Raphael, who naturally glorified the prophet. All the faithful had to buy the publications, and according to the police inquiry Weissenberg made $1,300 a month by the sales.

Locate Well Believed Dug by Dutch Settlers

A well, believed to have been sunk by the early Dutch settlers of Long Island, was recently uncovered in Long Island City. Discovery of the shaft, which is 90 feet deep, came through the widening of the street. The ground over the well, which was placed in the street line by the new width of the thoroughfare, was weakened by the passage of heavy trucks.

Commissioner of Public Works, John J. Halleran, said that the well probably was one of a series of community wells dug by the early settlers. He recalled that when De Witt Clinton was governor his home was nearby, and that probably water from the well was used by the governor's household.

Death From Electricity

The amount of electricity required to cause death may be stated both in volts and amperes. Experiments at Sing Sing have resulted in the conclusion that no human body can stand an alternating current of 1,500 volts and that 300 have produced death. For continuous current it may be necessary that as much as 3,000 volts are required to bring about fatal results. In such cases the ammeter usually shows from 7 to 10 amperes.

Drawing a Line
As a matter of practice we know that a line can be drawn, as we make use of drawn lines all through our lifetime. As a matter of mathematical theory a line has length, but no breadth or thickness, and from that point of view it is impossible to draw a line without giving it some breadth or thickness.

We Recommend the Renown "900" Circulating Heater because---

A Circulating Heater to properly heat your home must be built with the ruggedness of a warm air furnace—and the Renown "900" is built like a furnace in every sense of the word.

A Circulating Heater should be beautiful, with furniture lines that harmonize with the other furnishings in your home. The Renown has the appearance of a beautiful walnut cabinet, finished in porcelain enamel that is no harder to keep clean than a table top.

A Circulating Heater should have a large fuel door, equipped with mica to give you the benefit of radiated heat. The Renown fuel door is the largest on any heater made, and the cheerful glow of the fire floods the room through the mica front.

Heat from a circulating heater is determined by the amount of radiation from the heating unit. The super-radiating firepot and the double-action combustion dome in the Renown have every advantage of radiating all of the heat from the fuel burned.

These, and a dozen more features, determine the difference between a "good" and a "bad" circulator. We have chosen the Renown because it has every construction feature that assures economical, trouble-free performance!

HAZARDS OF SHARP CURVE IN EDEN WILL BE LESSENER

Through the co-operation of the county highway commission, the village board at Eden, the Wisconsin Telephone company and M. Scudella, proprietor of the Salter hotel, work has been started in the village of Eden which lessens the hazards of an abrupt right-angle turn on Highway 55 at the corner occupied by the Salter hotel.

Two telephone poles have been removed from the corner to make room for filling out the corner with concrete and installing a curbing. The county will lay an underground drain to take care of surface water, and the village of Eden will supply enough 15-inch pipe to extend the drain about 100 feet. The hotel proprietor will rebuild the entrance to the filling station on the corner which he owns.
