Control of Oat Smut With Dust

Disease Will Respond in Same Manner as With Copper Carbonate.

Indications are that the smut disease of oats will also respond to dust treatments in the same manner that treatment with copper carbonate dust is now satisfactorily controlling smut to wheat.

Two Control Dusts. "There are two dusts which give promise of controlling out smut when applied to the seed before planting," says G. W. Fant, plant pathologist at the North Carolina state college. "One of these is a compound containing mercury in organic combination and the other is a fine clay which has been impregnated with formaldehyde. As well known, we have used a formaldehyde solution to control oat smut heretofore. This is not so simple a treatment as it might appear because under some conditions the germination of the seed oats is reduced and the grains may swell because of ansorbing moisture from the disinfec-

Mr. Fant says there was much oat smut this past spring. Fields in which about one-half of the heads were affected were found frequently and in some instances fully 80 per cent of the heads in a field were found to be infected. This is a serious loss. During the spring months the smut spores pass from these infected heads to the healthy grain and | feet tall.

remain there during storage and through planting time. When the grain is planted, the smut spores grow and infect the seedling grain which eventually produces diseased grain. By treating the seed oats before planting, the smut spores are destroyed and healthy plants produced.

Receiving Attention.

These new dust treatments for oats are receiving careful attention in all parts of the United States. Mr. Fant says that several successful farmers have used them during the past two seasous with encouraging results. He thinks that the same barrel used to treat seed wheat with copper carbonate dust may be used in treating oat seed with the new dusts.

Check Movement of Sand

by Planting Pine Trees Sixty years ago the father of Senator Henry W. Keyes was troubled with the blowing of sand from a certain part of his property at Haverhill, N. This is rect this state of affairs, in 1870 the elder Keyes planted the sandy lot with northern white pines brought from a nearby pasture. MUCH OF STRAWBERRY CROP NOW BEING PUT IN COLD STORAGE

Berries Are Like Fresh Ones From Field When Used.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

More than 100,000 barrels of strawberries were packed by the "cold-pack" or "frozen-pack" method in 1928, according to George M. Darrow, senior pomologist of the United States Department of Agriculture. This amount is the equivalent of 4,000 to 5,000 carloads of fresh berries in crates, he

Handling strawberries in this way is the outstanding development of the industry in recent years, Mr. Darrow says. The fresh berries are packed in 50-gallon barrels, usually with one part sugar to two or three parts berries, and placed in storage at a temperature below freezing. Packed in this way they are like fresh berries when ready

Preserves have found that a better preserve can be made from coldpacked berries than from berries fresh

Also because preserved berries deteriorate after a time, cold packing and storage offer a remedy for this difficulty by making it possible to put up preserves as they are needed. Furthermore, the preserves can utilize their preserving plant the year through Instead of for a brief period of a few weeks at the strawberry season. A still newer development, Mr. Dar-

Soil Erosion Control

Is Big Farm Problem

The control of soil erosion is a mafor agricultural problem. Its consideration is prominent in programs of most learned societies having to do with agriculture. In Illinois alone, thousands of tons of our best soil is washed away each year to be deposited in sand bars on the Mississippi or In deltas of lower Louisiana. The terracing of sloping land subject to heavy washing is the only effective control we know if that land is to be continued in cultivation, says the Illinois Farmer. Definitely formed ravines and washes may be checked by brush and earth dams and the hillsides may be seeded to permanent grass crop or planted to timber and allowed to sod over. It seems likely that a considerable proportion of our lands most subject to erosion would be more profitably used as grazing or timber land than as plow land. The problem of erosion therefore allies itself with the problem of marginal landsareas which are not sufficiently productive ever to pay a good return, yet whose yields help to create a surplus which in turn depresses the value of crops grown on highly productive fields. An agricultural policy which will consolidate and solve these several problems is needed. Forest experts, looking years ahead, assure us that on no less than one-seventh the total area of Illinois, timber will prove the best paying crop.

Crop of Alfalfa Hay

Producing Three Tons A crop of alfalfa producing three tons of hay is worth $57.24 per acre for milk production. This value is arrived at on a protein basis from analysis and from actual feeding tests. The same land would produce one and one-half tons of timothy hay per acre worth $8.10 for milk production on the same basis.

The man who grows alfalfa hay for his dairy cows does not have to buy as much high protein feed such as linseed meal or cotton seed meal as does the man who grows timothy.

Burying Potatoes

Potatoes may be buried in the ground over winter. A shallow hole about 6 to 12 inches deep should be dug and lined with about 2 inches of straw and about 4 or 5 inches of soil. Ventliation should be provided in the same manner as for storing other root crops. As the weather gets colder, place another layer of straw on the mound and add sufficient soil to prevent the tubers from freezing.

row says, is the cold packing and storage of both strawberries and raspberries in small containers for home use. Several million packages were handled by the cold-pack method this year.

Tennessee Says Farmers

Can Go Broke Farming The division of extension of the University of Tennessee has recently released ten points telling how farmers can go broke farming. Farmers will be interested in these points in order that they may avoid the consequences. Here they are:

1. Grow only one crop.

2. Keep no live stock. 3. Regard chickens and a garden as 4. Take everything from the soil

5. Don't stop gullies or grow cover crops-let top soil wash away, then you will have "bottom land."

6. Don't plan your farm operations -it's hard work thinking-trust to

7. Regard your woodland as you would a coal mine, cut every tree, sell the timber and wear the cleared land out cultivating it in corn. 8. Held fast to the idea that the methods of farming employed by your grandfather are good enough.

9. Be independent-don't join yout neighbors in any form of co-operation. 10. Mortgage your farm for every dollar it will stand to buy things you would have the cash to buy if you followed a good system of farming.

Inspect Equipment to Order Needed Repairs It is a good idea for farmers to look over their machinery in ample time to place orders for repairs. The farm equipment industries prepare, during the winter, for furnishing Tepair parts and they can serve agriculture to good advantage, if the repair part orders are sent in early. One cannot wait until the day he begins to use a machine and expect the implement industry always to be in position to supply him with repair parts. Very often expensive delays are brought about due to late orders for closeup of Mr. Turkey Gobbler, the "National Bird" grace the tables of America on Thanksgiving day.

Wild Turkey Ranked King of the Woods

When Charles the Ninth of France sat down at his wedding banquet in the year 1570, he was probably entirely unaware that something was about to happen to him which had never happened to any other king of France. Perhaps his mother, Catherine of Medici, had knowledge of what was coming, for Catherine was a managing sort of woman and kept a watchful eye on everything that was done or planned in the royal palace. But chefs are an independent tribe, intolerant of interference with their af fairs, and possibly only the palace chef and his underlings knew that a rare distinction was about to be conhe in the world - breads. | ferred upon their exalted master.

The important fact-vouched for by Charles Lucian Bonaparte, the French naturalist-is that Charles the Ninth at his wedding banquet consumed doubtless with great gusto, tiberal portions of a strange new fowl never before euten in France-a large and extraordinary and very delicious bird known as a "Cock of the Indies."

Thereby Charles the Ninth of France established a precedent. That "Cock of the Indies" was, as a matter of fact, a turkey. No other French king, probably no other European king, had ever dined on turkey, and certainly no African or Asiatic potentate had enjoyed that experience. Hence Charles the Ninth's wedding banquet may be set down as one of the turning points of history. Then and there the turkey, noblest of his royal race, came into his own as the king of all table birds, fit provender for monarchs and for presidents.

Second to None on Earth. He is not only the king of table be man who doesn't send birds. He is also, in his wild state, the king of game birds, certainly the noblest game bird of the Western hemisphere and probably unexcelled anywhere on this planet. "It has been given to but a few hunters," says Dr. William T. Hornaday, director of the New York Zoological park, a great sportsman as well as a naturalist, "to seek this bird in its native forests. witness its splendld flight, and afterward shoulder a splendid gobbler weighing from 25 to 30 pounds for a ten-mile carry. He who has done this, however, will thereafter rank the bird as second to none on earth." To the naturalist and nature lover, also, the turkey is the feathered monarch of familiarity too often breeds contempt, the woods, just as the eagle is the and though the wild turkey is as far many other plausible and widespread winged ford of the air. He is one of superior to the domestic turkey as a assumptions, however, this idea is inthe wildest and in many ways one of numbers; but I have never yet seen delight which only the wildest of wild things can impart. And so it will be until my woods-roaming days are over.

Wild Gobbler Beautiful Bird.

The man who knows only the domestic turkey, and who has seen that pompous and rather foolish swaggerer often in the barnyard, may find it a little difficult to understand why the sight of a turkey in the woods always and invariably makes a red-letter day. Let him go hunting wild turkeyseither with or without a gun-and he will understand why. As a matter of fact, the tame turkey of our barngard and the wild turkey of our woods are two entirely different birds. differing not only in plumage (though in this respect the difference is slight) but also in form, in bearing, in men tality and in personality. In the wild gobbier, for all his size and weight, there is something of a gamecock's slimness. His form is powerful and stalwart, yet beautifully centuates his wildness; and somehow that wildness is apparent in every line and curve of his body, in the poise of his head, in the glance of his eye, in the springiness of his stride. His and glints in the sun and in certain lights gleams like burnished gold; and when he is on guard (and it is no easy matter to catch a wild gobbler napping), he holds himself splendidly amazingly tall and that clean thoroughdelights the eye of the beholder. There have been times when, fresh sunlit glades, I have almost been ready to agree with old Ben Franklin that the turkey and not the bald eagle should have been chosen as our national symbol.

Not Match for Fierce Eagle, Almost, but not quite; for the wild stateliness and pride of bearing, can- tions which have been offered are not compete with the eagle in those supreme attributes which render the "Bird of Jove" the most impressive the wisest of all woods creatures, and it is the parnyard bird that generally American Legion Monthly.

a glimpse of him in his wilderness | comes to mind when the turkey is haunts is an event never to be for- mentioned. The turkey, whether wild gotten. I have seen him many times or domestic, belongs not with the marin the woods, for I am fortunate that birds but with the game birds, a enough to live in a region where the much less dashing and aggressive wild turkey still exists in considerable group than the eagles and falcons; and though he is fairly strong and him without experiencing that thrill of swift on the wing for short distances, his power of flight is as nothing compared with that of the great eagle family. As for physical prowess, the largest turkey gobbler, though far outweighing the largest eagle, would have no chance in a combat with the latter bird. Not many miles from where this is being written such a combat once took place, though the eagle in this instance was not the bald eagle. our national bird, but a golden eagle.

Belongs to New World. Nevertheless, though it is probably just as well that Franklin did not have his way, the wild turkey might be regarded as, in some respects at the symbol of the United States; and lumping the wild and the domestic much. forms together for the moment, the popularity of the tarkey as a table delicacy in America and the prominence which it assumes at Thanksmolded. His bearing is proud and giving and Christmas might well enconfident; yet one sees in him always title it to be called "Our Other Naa hair-trigger aleriness which ac- tional Bird." Hence the history and natural history of the turkey constitute a subject of particular interest, especially in view of the fact that most Americans know very little about this bird which plays a gala rich coppery-bronze plumage glows part in our gastronomic lives, while a good deal of what they do know about it is not true. Perhaps the most videspread error concerning the bird is the vague idea shared by thousands of people that erect so that his tall form seems the turkey came originally from Turkey. This is an utterly false notion. bred slimness which distinguishes him | The turkeys are a distinctively New world family and were entirely unknown until the first explorers crossed from a meeting in the woods with the Atlantic. Possibly the turkey owes some superb bronze monarch of the its misleading name to the habit once prevalent in England of calling every strange and foreign object Turk, Indian, and so forth; or possibly the English of those times saw in the headgear of this bird a resemblance to the headgear worn by the Turks. No one really knows how the name turkey, with all his stalwart grace and originated and most of the sugges guesswork. Another common error is the notion that the tame turkey is the descendant of all the denizens of the air. The of the wild turkey of our woods. It turkey's name is against him, too. It is quite natural to assume that some lacks both majesty and beauty, and to person or persons in the early days many people it implies, naturally caught some wild turkeys and tamed enough, a Moslem origin. Moreover, them and that from these our domestic turkeys are derived. Like a great gamecock is to a dominicker rooster, correct.-Herbert Ravenel Sass, in Red Granite-The largest order for dressed blocks received at the Red Granite quarries in many years is being filled by the Waushara Granite quarry, known as Flynn's. It is for 200,000 five-inch blocks, which will give employment to 40 paving cutters and 120 workmen throughout the winter and will require 45 cars to ship.

Neillsville-The Clark county board passed an $88,000 bond issue, the third of a series to finance the county road paving program. The issue will make possible the paving of 13 miles of United States highway 10-five miles west of Neillsville and eight miles between Granton and Neillsville. The board also voted to pave two miles of road at Greenwood.

Rhinelander-A claim for $15,000 as damages for the death of her husband was disallowed the widow of Gust Nagle, this city, by the Oneida county board. Mr. Nagle died as the result of a bullet wound received when he stood behind a shooting gallery at the county fair here last August. Faulty construction of the shooting gallery is alleged to have been responsible for Madison-Wisconsin's supremacy as the nation's leading dairy state was again demonstrated when the state board of control Holstein herd won nine firsts and eight second places at the Pacific international livestock exposition in Portland, Ore. The board of control made almost a complete sweep in the six bull classes by capturing five first places and one second. Their outstanding yearling, Six Homestead Pontiac Beets 11th, was adjudged junior champion of the show.

Sturgeon Bay-A farmers' week for northeastern Wisconsin, following the lines of the state agricultural college farm and home week in Madison, will be held here Dec. 2 to 7, according to County Agent B. F. Rusy, who planned the meeting in the belief that many farmers are prevented by distance from attending at Madison. The program will deviate from the Madison setup only along regional lines, speakers and demonstrations stressing the salient features of northern Wisconsin agriculture instead of generalizing on state problems.

Janesville-The Rock county board voted to investigate the expenditures of the county farm after a request for a $10,000 loan was made by the farm management. The action follows closely the investigation of affairs at the Rock county asylum.

BIG TEN GRID RACE NOW IN FINAL WEEK

Purdue in First Place; Ohio, Illinois for Second.

Chicago.-Purdue, by clinching the western conference championship, and Notre Dame, by defeating Southern California, maintained their unbeaten records on Saturday when the football season reached its peak.

In the Middle West next Saturday, the Northwestern-Notre Dame, the Chlcago-Washington Intersectional contest here, and the Illinois-Ohio State battle at Columbus for second honors in the conference offer the principal gridiron interest.

Outside of the latter game, only three conference encounters are scheduled, Iowa at Michigan, Wisconsin at Minnesota, and Indiana at Purdue. all of which will have little effect upon the Big Ten standing.

Purdue, possessor of an eleven that for the first time in history has won a western conference championship. a team that has proved its superiority over all opponents, still would hold its championship position even though the revitalized Hoosiers, fresh from the decisive victory over Northwestern, provide another upset. The Purdue eleven has won four games and lost none and a loss to Indiana would leave it with a percentage of .800, while its nearest competitor's standing would be .750.

Indiana's 19 to 14 victory, its first of the season, was notable chiefly because it maintained for the third time its record of beating Northwestern regardless of the quality of the latter team, and because it freed the embittered Indiana student enthusiasts from their pledge not to shave until the team had won a game.

Purdue's triumph over the powerful Iowa team kept the Purdue record unsullied and appeared to indicate approximately the difference between two great elevens.

Illinois' triumph, 20 to 7, over Chicago, at Champaign, was approximateby what the followers of the Illini expected on their record thus far, which includes a tie with Iowa, their only loss having been at Northwestern.

The Michigan defeat of Minnesota. 7 to 6, was virtually as great an upset as the Indiana game, only the Gophers' failure to kick goal preventing a tie.

Similarly, it was failure to kick goal that lost for Southern California, as had been the case twice before in four years that this eleven has met Notre Dame, The 13-to-12 score indicates the stubbornness with which the teams battled to the final whistle. However, statistics on yardage gained gave the Irish a big edge.

Yale's 13-to-0 defeat of Princeton, Dartmouth's 18-to-14 conquest of Cornell and New York university's 14-to-0 triumph over Missouri were outstanding results in the East. Tennessee maintained its perfect record in the South by beating Vanderbilt, 13 to 0. In the Far West California defeated the University of Washington, 7 to 0. while Santa Clara produced an upset and defeated Stanford, 13 to 7.

Argentine Grain Gluts Ports of Great Britain

London.-Unprecedented wheat imports from Argentina are glutting the English ports. Many vessels are unable to land their cargoes. At Liverpool, which is the pivot port of English trade, a number of steamers are waiting to discharge their cargoes.

BIG TAX REDUCTION IS PLANNED BY U. S.

Total During Year of 1930 to Reach $160,000,000.

Washington.-Reductions in taxes varying from $3.75 for a person with a net income of $4,000 to $98.75 for a person with an income of $15,000 and larger cuts for those with regular incomes, will result from the administration tax cut proposal. the earliest possible date was made by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. Disclosure of the administration's plan is understood to have been decided upon at a conference at the White House, in which the President,

Secretary Mellon, Undersecretary of the Treasury Ogden Mills and Roy Young, governor of the federal reserve board, participated. The proposal contemplates an aggregate tax cut of $160,000,000, divided between reductions in individual and corporation income taxes. All income tax rates would be cut by 1 per cent

under Secretary Mellon's plan. The reductions would be made effective

"While the final detailed estimates of revenues and expenditures for the fiscal years 1930 and 1931 have not been completed, the secretary of the treasury considers the estimates have reached the point where tax reduction should be recommended to the congress at the coming session.

"The indications are that business profits, dividends, interest, and wage payments in 1929 will considerably exceed those of the year 1928. Our estimates indicate that the government should close both the fiscal years 1930 and 1931 with a surplus. Taking all factors into consideration, the secretary of the treasury, with the approval of the President, will recommend tax reduction to the congress.

"The form of relief to the taxpayers which the treasury's recommendations White or Weathered will probably take will be a 1 per cent reduction of the normal tax on the incomes of individuals and corporations applicable to 1929 incomes and payable in the calendar year 1930.

"That is to say, on the first $4,000 News that for the frame house good | wall above would not be of taxable incomes, the rate will be taste limits us to two choices for the The contract will reduced from 1% per cent to one-half of 1 per cent; on the second $4,000, from 3 per cent to 2 per cent; and on the balance the present 5 per cent rate | The house with shingle walls dependwill be reduced to 4 per cent. The corporation tax rate will be reduced from 12 per cent to 11 per cent,

"The total reduction of taxes to be will amount, it is estimated, to approximately $160,000,000.

"The reduction, it is hoped, will take the form of a joint resolution of congress, thus permitting prompt action by both houses hy avoiding a general revision of the revenue law.

"The proposal has been discussed with the Republican and Democratic leaders of both houses of congress, who have tentatively approved the proposed recommendation." That the administration hoped to be able to recommend tax reduction in the coming regular session of congress has been generally known. Recently, however, reports have been circulated that prospective increases in expenditures coupled with a possible shrinkage in tax revenues due to losses in the stock market might make a reduction impossible.

Under ordinary circumstances the President would have reserved announcement of his program until he sent his annual budget message to congress the first week in December. The secretary of the treasury also ordinarily would have held back information as to his recommendations until his annual report was submitted to congress.

The present stock market situation is admitted to have prompted the announcement at this time

A simplicity that is reminiscent of the early Colonial homes is the appealing characteristic of this house and its trim appearance will make it fit harmoniously in with any group or setting of which it may be made a part. It is an economical house to build because of the straight lines of its foundation walls of the house itself. It is of a design which gives the home builder the greatest amount of

"White is always satisfactory. It affords an excellent surface for the play of shades and shadows cast by details on the house itself by foliage or by passing clouds and it forms a dominant note of contrast whether set against the cool green of summer foliage, the glowing colors of autumn or the dark gray tracery of winter trees. If one wants to be relieved of the cost of keeping a white house white, then good taste demands the use of tones which wood naturally takes on when exposed to weather.

"There are stains on the market which approximate these weather tones. Weathered tones are good because they are natural and although full of variety they are never loud nor flashy."

All know the story of his "Invincible Armada"; but It had an unforeseen result through one of the vessels being wrecked on the Fair isle, off the coast of Scotland, and some 200 of the crew being saved. During a stay of some months there, the Spaniards taught the women their quaint patterns. One of the patterns the blouse top being of satin in an acis a golden anchor on a blue ground. This was the coat of arms granted to Columbus by the Spanish sovereigns as one of the rewards for his discovery of the New world.-Montreal Family Herald.

Quality and Service

Quality and Service are two words that mean much in the affairs of the average American. In conducting a milk plant, quality and service means as much as in any other line of business. In order to be able to pay our patrons top prices, it is absolutely necessary that they enter into our plan with the proper spirit of co-operation, and bring only good wellcooled milk for the city market. You turnish the Quality and we furnish the Service. That isn't asking anything out of reason.
