Conferences With Country's Leaders Most Gratifying.

BILLIONS FOR BUSINESS Washington.-Promises of nearly five billion dollars in business expenditures have come forward from all parts of the country in response to President Hoover's appeal for forward industrial activity in the next

Some of the larger programs provide: One billion by railroads; one billion to three billions for general construction; one billion by New York city; 500 millions for federal buildings; $12,000,000 to $20,000,000 for government ocean mail contracts; $16,000,000 of a 100 millions electrification program by the Pennsylvania railroad.

Henry Ford, who attended the industrial conference, announced afterward that a general advance in wages is to take effect immediately throughout his automobile plants. About 135,-000 men will benefit.

Labor leaders promised no new demands for wage increases, but instead "every co-operation" with industry.

A call was issued for a national meeting which will bring into being a permanent organization of business. mobilizing industrial and commercial employment and buying power, and

Washington, - President Hoover's conferences with leading railroad officials, bankers, manufacturers, labor, farm and other leaders in the country's business affairs, to stimulate the tide against any oppressive effect from the stock market decline have resulted in most gratifying assurance that business will proceed at even a greater pace than in the past.

One of the most important facts brought out as a result of the President's call for conferences is that the railroads of the United States will spend a billion dollars for expansion and equipment in 1930.

At the annual dinner of the Railway Business association held in Chicago, following the meeting with President Hoover, a general outline of railroad betterment and construction programs added to the plan to keep business

Eastern railroads, which are expected to furnish the bulk of the building projects, are busy working on the details of their 1930 spending. The Pennsylvania alone, according to President W. W. Atterbury, will expend $100,000,000. Of this, $20,000,000 to $25,000.000 will go for electrifying its road between Washington and New York, it is estimated. The whole electrification project will reach $100 .-000,000, and it is assumed that $16,-000,000 of it will be used in 1930.

announcement of greater expenditures for equipment and general betterment of their property, all of which will add to the lubrication of the wheels prison and hospital in keeping with of United States industry. The government has instituted plans for a sharp increase in public construction

Interest in the development of inland waterways has greatly increased during the last year, and the Chicagoto-gulf waterway is expected to be completed in the next two years, according to a report made to the National Industrial Traffic league by its committee on inland waterways.

Among the notable aggregations conferring the past week with President Hoover for the purpose of main-December, 1928, objecting to the teach- taining business progress, was one headed by Henry Ford, and included Peters, school clerk. The trend toward cheaper money was made evident by an announcement by the federal reserve board of its approval of a reduction in the rediscount rate of the Boston federal reserve district from 5 to 41/4 per cent. The Boston bank is the second of the 12 federal reserve banks to make this reduction, the New York bank having taken the lead a few days ago.

The President particularly is anxious that construction activities of the various industries shall be expanded, in line with his theory that construction work can be used to take up the slack in employment.

QUAKE TIDAL WAVE TAKES MANY LIVES

Wall of Water Strikes Along Thirty-Mile Front.

St. John's, N. F .- An immense tidal wave, 40 feet high, caused by an earthquake, swept the isolated section of the south coast of Burin peninsula, Newfoundland, killed many, and caused property damage of thousands of dollars, it is reported here.

The town of Burin felt a severe earth tremor. Two more shocks followed a half hour later. Almost simultaneously the gigantic tidal wave crashed into the village, sweeping away everything along the water front. Sixteen dwellings were crunched by the mass of water and their wreckage swept to sea. Nine lives, mostly women and children, were lost. Several bodies have been recovered.

All communication by wire was destroyed.

It is also reported that 18 lives were lost at Lord's Cave, a tiny fishing settlement a few miles from the town of Burin. Lamalin also reports great damage with a loss of life. The S. S. Daisy, a government revenue patrol boat, was standing by to render assistance.

St. Lawrence, an extensive fishing village, was also struck by the tidal wave, but no loss of life is reported here. Hundreds of people are report-

The : anche of water also caused great havoe from Rock Harbor to Lamalin. Houses, provisions and boats were submerged along the water front. Seven were drowned at Port aux Bras, with four bodies recovered. The town of Corbin also reported being struck by the wave.

The fact that the wave swept in after dark added to the distress. The scenes in the darkness, with the roar of the water and the crashing of houses, added to the helplessness of the frantic populace. One woman and her three children were carried out to sea in one of the houses. A girl and her brother were lost in another. The people were speculating on the earth tremors when, without warning, the great wave swept in, engulfing the homes and then rolled back to sea with its toll of human lives and the shattered remains of houses.

Washington.-The special session of congress which has been at work since April 15, called primarily to pass farm aid and tariff measures, has adjourned. The regular session opens December 2. It is estimated that the total cost of the special session will amount to more than $1,000,000.

Congress succeeded only in disposing of farm legislation.

Agriculture got its promised relief in the form of a $500,000,000 fund and farm board to administer it, but there will be little else to remember the session beyond nearly 15,500,000 words of oratory in both houses in the Congressional Record.

Based on an average of 2,500 words to the page, 15,417,500 words had been written into the record since April $60 a page. Thus, the oratory, much or most of it futile, will cost the federal treasury close to $375,000.

In addition to that, it cost $325,000 to print copies of the tariff bill, the many and voluminous analyses and summaries of its provisions, the hundreds of amendments offered or contemplated, and the many volumes of testimony taken at the senate and house committee hearings. Probably half that amount was spent to print the farm relief measure, and hearings held in both houses.

Then there is an item of $175,000 to pay the mileage allowances of members of the house for travel to and from the session and a similar expenditure of $51,000 for senators.

No estimate could be found for the cost of taking and printing the hundreds of thousands of words of tes timony taken in the course of the Shearer-shipbuilders' investigation, the hearing in connection with the confirmation of farm board members, or the lobby investigating hearings now

When Spray Residue Is Not Removed From Fruit Storage Rots Result.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.) Washing fruit to remove spray residue is another of the newer practices which add to the market value of the product when the job is properly done. But when carelessly done washing may be the means of spreading storage rots, according to the United States Department of Agriculture. Washing Proves Value.

For the past two years the washing treatment has been used commercially and has proved its value, says D. F. 15 at a printing cost of approximately Fisher of the bureau of plant industry of the department, who is conducting investigations in this phase of fruit handling. "Comprehensive studies and surveys covering important shipping points and all the larger marketing centers," he points out, "have shown conclusively that both in storage and on the market washed fruit holds up as well or better than that which is unwashed, and in addition it usually offers a more attractive appearance. "The principal hazard in washing apples, aside from increases in rots due to punctures resulting from extra handling, is caused by soluble arsenic, derived from the spray residue itself. This injury is usually localized at the blossom end," says Mr. Fisher. For this reason, he says, varieties characterized by a large proportion of open calvx tubes-such as Jonathan, Stay- 14 days earlier.

Ginger went in without a word She was a stricken soul. She climbed to the studio, and counted her store of dimes. She looked at her complicated page of multiplication and addition. She sat for a long time. figuring, thinking.

Obviously, Marjory and the rich ness of a wealthy husband were to be denied them as succor. Marjory was forever lost to her plans for the future. All the years of washing dishes for the sake of Marjory's hands had been in vain. All her dreams of a romantic figure breezing mysteriously into their commonplace circle were dissipated into thin air. Ginger was practical enough to admit defeat when she met it, and Marjory was her Waterloo. Marjory, beautiful peach-bloom Marjory would marry a minister, and her future would be that of catering to a Methodist church, and a parsonage minimum of three.

In that hour, Ginger Ella rose to great heights of renunciation. She relinquished ail her dreams of fortune, of fame, of social supremacy for ber beautiful sister. She would be satisfied to see her merely happy. She smiled. She went down the wabbly ladder without a moment's pause, for her decision was made, She knocked at the door of her father's room, now occupied by Hiram Buckworth.

Silence prevailed within. Ginger knocked again.

exactly-" "No. You merely said it was understood.

"But I didn't mean a man. I meant топех." "Money?" He was entirely puzzled.

"Yes. You see, we have always heen so very hard up. Father did not go to seminary as you did-he didn't even go to college. He only gets about as much money now after all these years as you will get at the very start. And it takes so much for his eyes, and the furniture is simply falling to pieces, and you can see yourself we haven't any clothes." "Yes, I know, Ginger," he said not without sympathy. "But what has that to do with-ber?" "She is so beautiful. So we naturally decided that she had better marry a millionaire. You must ad mit she's got the looks for it." "Ginger, what do you mean? ts Marjory engaged, or isn't she?" "Not engaged-not exactly. But It was all understood-we talked it over and we ill agreed-we girls did, that is, father just laughed at us-that Margie should marry money, lots money, millions-"

"And she's not engaged to that-fat young Andrews-or anybody else-"Certainly not. There's no man mixed up in it at ali. Just money." if tooks could slay, the career of Ellen Tolliver would have ended at that moment. "Why, you little devil!" he ejacutated irreverently, and flung ber roughly out of his way. "She's still in the hammock," cailed Ginger meekly.

Then she went immediately to bed. She wept for a while, sofily, for it is natural that youth should abandon its dreams and its expectations of great riches with reluctance. But in the end she smiled, and suffened her slim little shoulders beneath the white sheets. Very well, then. Plainly the future of the entire household devolved upon her, and her alone.

"Selah," she whispered into the darkness.

CHAPTER IX

A great peace, a sort of subdued grandeur, descended upon the turbulent spirit of Ginger Ella, for she had schooled herself to accept life as it is, and mold it to ber own pattern as opportunity came. That the opportunity would never come now, as concerned Marjory, she was well aware, but without resentment. After all, perhaps one had no righ, to attempt to mold human lives, free souls, like herself. As for Mirlam and the grocery clerk, she yet had boxes Alexander Murdock was teaving on this very day, and Ginger did not for a moment believe that the sensible twin was so deeply interested as to disqualify her for interest in more Intriguing figures—granted the appearance of such figures.

Get her away-that was the best method. Ginger was adjusting herself to a new impression of the sensible twin. So still she had always seemed, so subtly impenetrable, that in contrast with Marjory's radiance she had appeared more of a liability than anything else. But there was something strange about Mirlam Ginger did not understand it. Besides, it an embryonic teacher could supplant the can grocer in Miriam's heart, no doubt a little later on, the new conqueror could also be conquered by, say, an embryonic tinan cier. She must hope for the hest. As for Marjory-Marjory, whose beauty, and whose married fortune were now forever denied them, why should they, from their limited funds, provide the money to send Marjory to normal to study to be a teacher, when she would be no teacher? Why learn pedagogy, when all her future held was the accommodation of her person to missionary societies, and ladies' aids, and the minimum of three? The finger of relentless logic pointed in another way. Let Marjory prepare berself for keeping a parsonage by keeping a parsonage-their own. She could take Mirlam's place as servitor to their father, thus leaving Ginger free for her own further schooling and for the conduct of her favorite charity.

Ant-Killer Uses Pincers for Grinding Its Victims

life are to be found many that tax the credibility. One is a creature only about three inches long which bears a superficial resemblance to the spider and also to both the scorpion and the vinegerone. Frequently it is mistaken for one of these, but its correct pseudonym is ant-killer, a name the implications of which are fully borne out by its behavior toward these little insects. Its reason, writes C. T. Reed in Nature Magazine, for killing the ants, and nearly all the other small animals, chiefly arthropodans, is not pure love of destruction.

After killing the insects it thoroughly grinds the bodies in its powerful and needle-like chelae, which project forward in front of the small head. Then through a toothless mouth, scarcely bigger than a small pinhead. it sucks the juices from the bodies of the victims.

The ant-killer is dreaded by the Bee Keeping in Book Form The Miller library of the University of Wisconsin has one of the most complete collections in the world relating to bee keeping both in the shape of books and historic material. This in stitution has been recently made the recipient of a straw "skep," a type of beehive which is now only occasionally seen in old pictures. This particular skep or beehive was made on May 29 1848, the day Wisconsin was declared a state, by D. D. Danniher, a Madison beekeeper, who spent that day in makenkins and go up the stairs. Ing a straw skep in which to quarter tense arm about Ginger's a colony of his bees, and he kept the > Sheep are branded with paint and not with hot irons as cattle are. The fleece grows out so that hot-irop brandings would be covered up. Sheep must be branded every time they are fleeced. The branding of sheep is more common in the range countries than in the farm states, as sheep are usually kept under fence on farms. and there is not much need of brand ing. Special branding paint should be used instead of just any kind of tar or barn paint, so as to reduce to a minimum the trouble of scouring the wool. Manufacturers prefer that the brand be placed on sheep where the wool is of the least value, such as on top of the rump.

> > Speed of Fastest Birds

Swallows fly at the rate of more than 100 miles an hour and are among the world's fastest birds, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. The puma is reputed to be one of the swiftest wild animals and whippets hold most of the speed records among domesticated animals. Race horses often attain a speed of well over 1,000 yards a minute, while pigeons have been timed at speeds of nearly 2,800 yards a minute for short spurts.

PRIN. SKALISKEY WILL DIRECT SEAL SALE

Kewaskum's participation in the 1929 sale of tuperculosis Christmas Seals of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis Association, Milwaukee, will be directed by E. E. Skaliskey according to an announcement received from the W. A. T. A. Funds raised in this seal sale will carry on Wisconsin's 1930 fight against tuberculosis which will be made-as it has been for twentyone years-by the W. A. T. A.

"Ring out Tuberculosis, Ring in Health," is the slogan for the 1929 seal sale. The scals of this year show a bell-ringer dressed in the costume of medieval days in England, tolling a large bell. The red of the bell-ringer's costume and the red of the double barred cross shown on the seal precominate in a color scheme of red, yellow and blue. "Health Greetings, 1929" is the message in the upper right hand corner of the seal.

"Helping to fight tuberculosis by the purchase of Christmas Seals is a part which we may all have in the program to lower the high tuberculosis ceath rate among our young people," says Skaliskey. "The winning fight against tubere closis must go on so that can still further be diminished. An investment in Christmas Seals is therefore a 'saving' for human lives."

Funds raised through the annual sale of Christmas Seals finance the W. A. T. A. These funds help to pay for free chest clinics in which more than 140,000 examinations have been health program. RAMEL-GATZKE WEDDING

A very pret'y wedding was solemnized at the St. John's Lutheran church at New Fane, on Saturday afternoon, November 23rd, at 2 o'clock, when Rev. C. J. Gutekunst united in holy bonds of matrimony Miss Lorinda Ramel, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ramel and Walter F. Gatzke, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gatzke, both of the town of Auburn. The bridal couple entered the church to the tune of Lohengrin's wedding march played by Miss Lillian Moldenhauer. The bride wore a white satin crepe dress, trimmed with lace and beads. Her veil was in fan effect and reath of pearls caught with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of Columbia roses, lillies of the valley, babysbreath and ferns. She was attended by Miss Elsie Gatzke as maid of honor and Miss Hilda Gatzke as bridesmaid Both attendants wore peach colored georgette dresses trimmed with lace and rhinestones. Each carried an arm bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. Grace Briese, a cousin of the bride, was flower girl She wore a lavendar flat crepe dress trimmed with silver ribbon with head band to match and carried a basket of babymums and roses. Howard Briese, cousin of the bride, was best man and Edward Metzger, cousin of the bride, was usher. After the ceremony the bridal party together with about 60 invited guests gathered at the home of the bride's parents where a five o'clock wedding dinner was served. The home decorations were of blue white and yellow. Guests from afar attending the welding were from Milwaukee, West Bend and Adell. We extend our congratulations and wish them every happiness on their voyage on the sea of matrimony.

Turkey Raising on Clean Ground

One of Most Important Preventives of Dread Disease of Blackhead.

/Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Success in turkey raising is largely question of proper management. says the United States Department of Agriculture. The fundamental factors essential to success are described by Dr. M. A. Juli and A. R. Lee of the bureau of animal industry in Farmers' Bulletin 1409-F, just published by

First Aim of Raiser, Avoidance of parasites and preven tion of disease should be the first aim head occasionally affects adult turk. eys, but it occurs principally among young turkeys between the ages of G weeks and 4 months. Keeping the quarters strictly sanitary and burning all dead birds will help prevent spread of the disease.

It is of more importance, however, to adopt measures that will prevent the introduction of blackhead into the flock. One of the most important preventive measures is the keeping of the poults on clean ground not occupied by chickens because chickens often carry the host of the blackhead organism. Pigeons, sparrows and others birds or animals should also be kept from the turkey houses or yards for the same reason

Suitable Turkey Breeds.

In this new publication the poultry specialists describe the various breeds or varieties of turkeys suitable for the different sections of the United States. Also they discuss the approved management practices and the preparation of the birds for market.

Copies of the bulletin may be obtained free as long as the supply lasts by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington,

Many Flocks Are Kept

in Very Small Houses

Many Kansas flocks are kept in ouses too small to make possible the best results from the hens. For light breeds the house should afford 31/2 square feet of floor area for each bird. The heavy breeds should not have less than 4 square feet. Only sufficient height to furnish head room for the attendant is needed in the poultry ouse. Many poultry houses have been built unnecessarily high, at extra cost and resulting in a less comfortable shelter.

For economical construction that will meet the essential requirements for profitable poultry and egg produchouse is recommended to meet Kansas climatic conditions .- Walter G. Ward. Extension Architect, Kansas State Agricultural College.

Spreading Fertilizer

on Snow Good Practice

Manure is too valuable to waste in May way. A manure spreader is one of the most profitable pieces of equipment that a farmer can have, and with t manure can be spread rapidly and uniformly so that the greatest good is zotten from it. Haul and spread maaure whenever possible during the winter. Keep the spreader close to the barn so that when the stalks are clean the manure can be thrown directly into it. Spreading the fertilizer on the soil before snow or in between storms is good practice. The rainfall zoing through the manure will teach out much of its value and carry it eight into the soil. Strawy manure spread in the winter time has a chance to rot before it is turned under the soil in the spring.

"Doggone" Good Story of

Boston Red Sox Scout Pat Monahan, the Boston Red Sox scout, brings this one fresh from the sunny Southland. It features Joe Engle, scout for the Washington Senators and one of his famous hunting dogs. Engle and Walter Johnson are great dog fanciers and each takes pride in his kennel of hunters. Engel has one dog in particular that he brags about for his smartness.

One morning just before Joe and a friend were starting out for a few birds. Joe had delivered a lengthy oration on the wisdom of this dog, who was to accompany the pair and do the pointing.

They packed their traps in an auto and started out with the dog riding in the rear seat. When they reached a point about four miles out of town, the dog jumped out of the car and headed for home. Joe wheeled the old bus around and retraced his tracks, arriving there shortly after the canine.

"He never did that before, and I can't understand it," explained Engel to his friend.

So they gathered up the dog and started out again. When they reached about the same spot the dog repeated his performance and the huntsmen were obliged to go after the animal once more. They were completely nonplused. But they took extra precautions on their third start and tied the dog in the back of the car.

The dog made a struggle, but had no luck in getting away and the two nimrods reached the spot where they were to dismount and take to the

Despite Latest Rules.

Dartmouth came on a play where Alf Beane, Ell bank, grubbed a ball that had squirted out of the arms of Al Marsters. In the Obio State-Northwestern game, Wesley Fesler, the great Buckeye end, snared a "flying fumble" on his one-yard line and dashed the remaining 99 yards to a touchdown. It was just as bad a "break" for the Army when an Illinois end, Wolgast, intercepted a lateral pass to run 80 yards for a touchdown.

If the rules-makers want to elimthe game, it seems they must adopt from its production. a blanket resolution barring the progress of any "recovered ball."

The new mountain range has been named "Cherski" after the Russian geologist and geographer I. Cherski, who headed an expedition sent out in 1891 by the Russian Academy of Science to this region and who died as a result of exposure to the rigors of the Siberian winter. It was Cherski's idea that there were undiscovered mountains forming one great range with the Arctic mountains, and the discoveries made by the Obrutchev expedition have confirmed this view. Very few expeditions have been made to this region, on account of its inaccessibility, the first having gone there over two hundred years ago, and over 500,000 kilometers of land, an area as large as France or Germany, remains unexplored to the present day.

Welcomed Cooling Shower

Memories of the tortoise-hare race. renowned in table, were revived at Northampton, Mass., in the forest fire area. Out of the blazing woods, hustled a rabbit and a turtle, almost side by side. The spray from a fire hose was swished in their direction and the two creatures appeared to welcome the cooling touch on their superheated bodies. The rabbit skipped around in circles under the shower, while the turtle stretched out its neck eagerly into the cascading water. Later the rabbit allowed itself to be picked up and fondled by one of the firemen.
