DEATH OF CARL KREAWALD

It was quite a shock to the near ones and friends to learn that Carl Kreawald passed into eternal sleep on Tuesday evening at 11:30 o'clock, at his home near New Fane, caused by hemhorage of the brain. He was born February 7, 1863 in Farberzine, Germany. He arrived in America as a little boy, spending most of his lifetime in the town of Auburn. On December 11, 1890 he was married to Miss Louise Molkenthin, making their home on the farm near New Fane, until 12 years ago when he re-Wednesday | tired from farm life and moved to the village of New Fane. Besides his wife he leaves three children, namely: Adela (Mrs. Willie Wunder) of Lake Fifteen, Edwin on the homestead and Eleanore at home. One son Alfred died in infancy. Besides these he is survived by one brother William of the town of Auburn. Mr. Kreawald was a good provider for his family, kind and willing to help all those who needed his assistance. His many friends and relatives regret his sudden death. May he rest in peace. The funeral was held on Friday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the house, with services at St. John's Lutheran church at New Fane. Rev. C. J. Gutekunst officiated. Burial was made in the congregation's cemetery. IN MEMORY

Baum was operating in this territory securing subscriptions for the Wisconsii. Losses From Hog Cholera Lowest Raising Animals Under Mc-Lean County System Is Emphasized.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Hog cholera seems to be slightly less prevalent this year than last, and last year losses from the disease were the lowest since the United States Depart ment of agriculture has been keeping records, Dr. U. G. Houck, associate chief of the bureau of animal industry announced in a summary of informaton assembled from thirty-one states.

In four of these states, howeverlodiana, Michigan, Nebrask and Ohio -hog cholera is more prevalent than last year. Approximately the same emount of cholera as last year was reported for Colorado, Kentucky, North Carolina, Texas, Illinois, Mississippl. Tennessee, and Wisconsin. Less Cholera Reported.

In Alabama, California, Georgia. Kansas, Maryland, Oklahoma, South Dakota, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Arkansas, lowa, Florida. Idaho, Louisiana, Missouri, South Carolina, Utah, and Oregon observers report less cholera this year than last. With the exception of three states the decreases are slight, but Oklahoma reports a reduction of 50 per cent. Lousiana 40 per cent, and Idaho 30 per

"The hog cholera situation, in general," said Doctor Houck, "seems to be somewhat better than last year According to our information there has been considerable increase this year over last year in the amount of mmunization against hog cholera in fifteen of the thirty-one states. There was no appreciable difference in nine states and seven states report less immunization than last year."

Doctor Houck referred to a report rom Idaho stating that most of the hog cholera of recent months occurred on farms where there had been purchases at public grounds of unimmun ized animals. A middle-western vet erinarian explained occasional "breaks' of the serum usually occurred when too little attention is given to the condition of the herd immediately prior to immunization," the conse quence of administering virus when the animals were not in fit physical tremely bowlegged.

Harm Done by Vendors. Doctor Houck also quoted an ofserver of the swine industry in New braska as saying that "vendors ox swine remedies have become increasingly prevalent during the last few years in Nebraska. It many cases they have caused owners of sick herds to delay in securing competent veterinary assistance until too late to save their hogs. In other cases the remedies fed to prevent sickness have actually caused sickness." This observer also emphasizes the desirability of raising hogs under the letean County system of sanitation as sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture, comments on the desirability of feeding balanced rations, and emphasizes the advisability of immediately employing a competent veterinarian when disease appears in a

Legume Crops Are Not

Satisfactory for Silage Legume crops do not make good fertilizer as a rule. They are so high in nitrogen and low in sugars and starches that they do not keep well in a silo. At the University of Missouri some years ago Professor Eckels was able to make very good silage out of alfalfa hay that he allowed to wilt hefore putting in the silo. Most experiments, however, have not been so successful. It is necessary to save some sugar and starch fermentation to develop a good keeping quality.

GARDENERS ADVISED TO KNOW HABITS OF DIFFERENT PLANTS

Traits Must Be Known for Best Results in Crops.

The home gardener must be well the plants he grows if he is to secure the best results for his efforts, advises the vegetable department of the college of agriculture at New Brunswick. The trait of our common vegetable plants which cannot be overlooked in any way is their sensitiveness to climatic conditions. Some vegetables require hot weather for their best development and are killed by a very light frost. Others do not develop properly during hot weather but will endure treezes. Each must be planted at a season of the year which will enable it to make its best development.

Of the cool season crops some reach edible maturity quickly, and are almost always grown without transplanting. In this group we find peas; the short-season root crops like radish, kohl rabi, and turnip; the greens, such as spinach, mustard and kale; and the salad crops like leaf lettuce, garden cress and corn salad. These should be planted as soon as the danger of killing frosts is over.

Other cool season crops have a longer growing season than these, and must be started in a green-house, hotbed or cold frame sometime before they could be sown outdoors if they are to mature before hot weather. Cubbage, cauliflower and head lettuce are in this class. The time to transplant these crops from the greenhouse to the field is as soon as the danger of killing frosts is past. Successive planting of some can be made up to the first of May, but after this date it is better to plant some of the warm season crops.

Tractors Are Gaining

on Many Truck Farms In regions around large centers of population where truck gardening prevalls and in other places where small road crops are grown, the garden tractor is gaining a strong foothold.

Poultry, fruit or truck farms use this mechanical power very advantageously in seeding, cultivating and bar-

Fix Garden Tools Now,

Save Time Next Spring By properly taking care of the garden tools in the fall, hours of making ready in spring can be saved, says the November American Home. Rust has a knack of doing slow but effective damage and is the thing to be guarded against most carefully.

All metal work, and wood, too, can be rubbed with an oil soaked rag. The oll used should be clean but not too light, for it must give a perfect covering through the winter. All bearings, too, can be kept shiny, such as the share of the garden plow or the boe blade, coat the surface liberally with bard oil. This work is a dirty job and should be done in old clothes.

Should you find a tool hadly rusted, a brick bat will be found an excellent thing to remove the rust. A fine grade of sand paper will also cut through picely. A home garden that is planted on the spur of the moment after warm weather appears in the spring is only half a garden. Now is the time to plan your garden.

Land can he kept in good condition for a reasonable length of time by plowing under sweet clover or medium red. It should have in addition manure occasionally for the best results. A grain mixture of 300 pounds of hominy or corn meal, 300 pounds of wheat bran, 300 pounds ground oats. and 100 pounds of linseed oil meal, fed four to eight pounds, will meet the needs of dry cows. An expenditure of two or three cents for formaldehyde and about three minutes of time per acre will prevent oat loss from smut attacks.

The average loss in untreated oats is two bushels per acre.

For COLDS

We all catch colds and they can make us mises but yours needn't last long if you will do this: The two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin just as soon at possible after a cold starts. Stay in the house if m can—keep warm. Repeat with another tablet or too of Bayer Aspirin every three or four hours if the symptoms of cold persist. Take a good laxative way you retire, and keep bowels open. If throat is dissolve three tablets in a quarter-glassful of water tablets in a quarter-glassful of water tablets. and gargle. This soothes inflammation and reduce infection. There is nothing like Bayer Aspirin for a cold, or sore throat. And it relieves aches and pain almost instantly. "Heston scored more than one hundred touchdowns for Michigan and played in more than fifty games. He never played a losing game and in only one tie game. When necessary he was one of the quickest and fastest defense nien I ever saw.

"Friedman and Oosterbaan, in my judgment, are two of the greatest men that ever played football. Friedman is not so outstanding, perhaps, because in his sophomore year he was only an ordinary player. He has grown better all the time and in my judgment is the most valuable football player on any team in the country today. He was an almost unanimous choice for All-American honors. COMPLETE PLANS FOR SOUTH GAME

Loyolas Play for Christmas Toy Fund at New Orleans.

Arrangements have been completed for a second football game to be played between the Loyola universities of Chicago and New Orleans.

The season's second clash between these two schools will take place at New Orleans on December 22, the receipts going to that city's Christmas toy fund. The first contest, played Armistice day, resulted in a 6 to 6 tle in a game that was played in the mud and rain.

Loyola of New Orleans is one of the two teams which Coach Dan Lamont's eleven was unable to defeat, the other being Duquesne at Pittsburgh, which won a 7 to 6 victory. Optimism reigned on the North side campus when the game was assured, for Coach Lamont's crew believes it can win the next contest.

COUNTY MUST PAY FOR RABIES

The county must pay farmers for animals whose deaths have been caused by rabies developing from dog bites. Atty. Robert Freeman, temporery corporation counsel, told the county board's finance committee Friday. An opinion had been asked by the committee. The claims are paid out of the dog license fund and are charged back against the township's apportionment of the fund. Atty. Freeman ruled that 80 per cent of the claims are to be paid if the owner of the biting dog is unidentified and the full amount if the owner is known.-Hart-

NEW CONGRESS TAKES UP TAX AND TARIFF

President's Annual Message Sent to Both Houses.

Washington .- Tax-reduction and appropriations in the house and the Vare case and the tariff in the senate were the principal subjects to receive attention from congress following the pening of its regular session.

Speaker Longworth and Vice President Curtis called the two houses to order for the first regular session of the seventy-first congress.

While only ten days had elasped dince sine die adjournment of the special session it was the first time since tast June that a quorum of the house has been present.

All legislation which originated in tne special session keeps its place on the calendars. The tariff bill remains the untinished business in the senate. It will not be necessary to reintroduce the hundreds of bills which were thrown into the hopper during the special session in anticipation of committee action in the regular session.

After committees were appointed to notify President Hoover that congress was prepared to receive any communication which he desired to present both the house and senate adjourned out of respect to the memory of the late Senator Francis E. Warren of President Hoover's annual message was read to the two houses, also his annual budget message was presented, as was Secretary of the Treas ney Mellon's annual report.

Organization of committees received attention in both houses. The house curing the special session perfected the organization of only such committees as were necessary to transact the business then pending, rules, accounts and appropriations. The other committees remained to be appointed. While there were but few changes, a number of vacancies had to be filled redvocated by the Wisconsin Farm party strength to match the increase in the Republican house majority.

> Inasmuch as the senate is a continuing body, its standing committees do not require reappointment. The death of S nator Warren, however, left a vacancy in the chairmanship of the committee on appropriations which is filled by the transfer of Sen ator Wesley L. Jones (Rep., Wash.) from the chairmanship of the com mittee on commerce. This led to several shifts in chairmanships.

> The death of Senator Theodore E. Burton of Ohio and the resignation of Senator Walter E. Edge of New Jersey to become ambassador to France left a number of committee vacancies. The first of the annual appropriation bills ill be ready for presentation in the house by the time the tax > measure is out of the way. Another bill which will be brought up in the house before the holidays provides for ratification of the Mellon-Berenger agreement for funding the French debt. The ways and means committee will commence hearings on this bill as soon as the tax cut resolution has been sent to the senate.

Some senators still think there is a for Dunn county this year was more fore the Christmas holidays, but the than $200 higher than in 1928, it was general belief seems to be that final an appropriation of $2,829 to reimburse uary, which will mean that the bill

It is expected that the house tax cut resolution will be given the right of way in the senate as soon as it is approved by the finance committee.

COM. R. E. BYRD FLIES ACROSS SOUTH POLE

May Aid the United States in Claim to Antarctic.

Commander Richard E. Byrd's flight over the South pole and the great icecapped Antarctic continent strengthens the United States' claim on this tremendous land of desolation, which may in the future be of great value to the world's peoples.

Diplomatic discussions with Great Britain over disputed sovereignty of the continent, which is believed to be larger than all Europe, has just been postponed after an exchange of notes.

Byrd's detailed survey of the region is expected to make available a greater store of knowledge of the South polar regions than any previous exploration, and inasmuch as sovereignty claims in such cases rest largely on the extent of exploration, the American claims, according to experts, may be considerably enhanced.

New York .- Reports from Commander Byrd's Antarctic expedition announced that the commander safely returned to his base, Little America, after a successful flight across the South pole, in which he surveyed much adjacent territory.

Three years and seven months before, in May, 1926, the intrepid ploneer of air exploration startled the world by flying across the North pole with the late Floyd Bennett at the controls of his plane.

The commander and three companions, Pilot Bernt Balchen, Aerial Surveyor Capt. Ashley C. McKinley, and Harold I. June, made the 1,600mile flight to the South pole and returned in a trimotored Ford plane.

In returning to their base without mishap, they had accomplished one of the most hazardous flights in history, braving the unknown perils of the Antarctic waste lands to the goal ever succeeded in attaining.

The first man actually to reach the South pole was Roald Amundsen, the dauntless Norwegian, who lost his life in June, 1928, when he set out in a plane in the hope of rescuing members of the ill-fated Italia expedition in the Arctic. Amundsen reached the South pole on December 14, 1911, using the ordinary dog-sled method of Arctic and Antarctic exploration. He lived to fly over the North pole and until Byrd's latest feat was the only man to have seen both poles. The second expedition to reach the

In her heart, for Miriam's sake Ginger felt it was a very good thing It would give her a much wider range from which to select a substitute for the can grocer. Besides, Miriam, except for her one aberration, was sensible. Education might really make something of her-she might go into politics, or literature, or-Ginger's imagination fulled her. She knew the world offered wide avenues to brilliant women, but she knew not whither those boulevards finally led.

The whistle of the postman brought Miss Jenkins to the veranda.

"Why, Ginger," she ejaculated, "who in the world are you writing to? There are sixteen letters for you. Sixteen-' Ginger's greedy lingers took them away from her. "Dear Ginger," he said tolerantly. "I hope you strike Pay Dirt of your own. You deserve to."

Ginger was glad to make her escape without further discussion, and with her sixteen little white angels. Sixteen dimes tinkled out to join their brothers in the doll's trunk.

"Pay Dirt, I'll tell the world," she crowed. "Why it beats Sunday collections all to pieces. And besides. that has to be divided with the poor and the church and foreign missionsand every cent of il' is a straight baul for the parsonage."

She read the letters, slowly, one after the other, sixteen letters, such friendly sympathetic letters, wishing such good fortune to the parsonage home, calling down God's blessing upon it in such words of faith, that Ginger's eyes filled with tears.

"You darlings." she whispered. "You dear, good, Christian darlings."

In spite of her entbusiasm, she could not quite banish a slight uncomfortable pang of regret that the home was not catering to as broad field as its kindly donors thought. "But after all, it is a very good

CHAPTER X

All Ginger's hottest arguments could not shake her fathers determination. The small matter of his awa vision must wait upon the education of the twins. The money they had saved during the summer-thanks to his own vacation at Pay Dirt, and to the presence of Hiram Buckworth as a lege. As for himself, he was to be in no hurry. The doctors had agreed that the first thing for him to do was to become strong and robust, and to in the morning? live at peace with all the world. This, then, was his present duty, and to it in two years." in this emergency, Mr. Tolliver departed from the established rule of the house, and arranged for a charge account at Joplin Westbury's dry goods store. He cautioned the girls, in conference with Miss Jenkins, to use it as sparingly as possible, but what other young girls had for college, the twins, too, must have.

Ginger and Marjory held their own counsel. They used the charge account only enough to allay the sus pleions of Miss Jenkins and flelen who was back in Red Thrush after her honeymoon, and living, strangely, in a small cottage some blocks removed from the parsonage. But mostly they drew upon the contributions to the home for the blind. It burt Ginger afresh every time she drew a dime from the precious store that she had fondly hoped would bring the blessing of clear vision to her father, but he had decreed flatly that the twins came first, that he and his affairs must walt. So Ginger obediently set her self to the accourrement of the twins. Already they were registered at towa Wesleyan. Already arrangements had been made for them to live at Hershey halt, giving service in return for their accommodations. Marjory at the telephone. Miriam in charge of the library. Visions of fairy-like loveliness are the debutantes who wear all white ensembles such as a dress of white moire or of satin and tulle, topped with a coatee of exquisitely transparent white velvet, the just-below-the-hip hemline being bordered with white fox, the opulent collar repeating the same.

Metal cloth for the evening wrap being in high favor, the white note is carried out in that the brocade is all white with an allover patterning of interwoven sliver threads.

Colorful transparent velvet for the furless evening wrap is widely exploited. In developing the velvet wrap, sleeves have become a plaything of the designer, who lavishes upon them much fine detailing in way of shirring, tucking and draping. With their dainty satin gowns so often in

Verily, in their Twentieth century beauty crusade, interior decorators Cover and set aside until thoroughly spare not even the humblest object cold. Add three cupfuls of orange in the home-ordinary kitchen crockjuice and two cupfuls of grape juice ery no exception. Behold grandma's popular cookie jar and even the oft-Macedonia of Fruit.-Combine one sung "little brown jug," the more modcupful of diced pineapple, one-half ern cracker far, pitchers, too, with cupful of grapefruit cut into pieces, drinking mugs to match, likewise one-half cupful of apple cut into bits, flower pots and other crockery items one cupful of orange sections and too numerous to mention, all "dolled one-half cupful of confectioner's up" with painted hollyhocks and other gay blooms, posing as Christmas

It's fashionable to give pewter this year. So jot down in your Christmas list a few apropos articles, such as a quaint candlestick, perhaps a vase, or a nut bowl, or if one gives generously, an entire coffee or tea service. There's no doubt about it-pewter is

"it" for Christmas or wedding gifts. ROSE POWDER BOX

Well may it be said of the woman who uses this dainty flower powder box that "she has a rose-leaf complexion." Cunning idea, this of nestling a little round pasteboard powder box in the heart of a handmade crepe paper rose. A cluster of artificial flower stamens are pasted on the lid, which makes it easy to handle (see sketch). Lovely Christmas gift!

DRESSED IN CREPE PAPER

This decorative gypsy doll fairly radiates vivid color from the corner of the davenport or divan where she is posed to look like a gay, round sofa cushion. A roll of crepe paper, modernistic both as to color and design, will dress several, and the doll heads cost but a few cents. From the standpoint of attractiveness at little expense, this doll qualifies as one of the most intriguing Christmas gift items brought out this season.

There's a Key To All Problems

Regardless of what your problems are somewhere there is a key that will unlock it if you will search tor it. There is a solution to every problem whether it is in production, delivery or service. Maybe you can solve it alone or talk it over with someone else—but there is an answer in some way. Most of us follow the lines of least resistance but the easiest way is not always the best way. The problem of producing good milk is very important, in fact the very life of the dairy industry depends on quality. Give this problem serious thought, and tackle it at once. After its faced and settled you'll feel better and glad you didn't wait.
