"No other Flour could make such light fluffy Biscuits,"

"That's How I Knew It Was 'Kitchen-tested' Flour

"My husband brought home a 'sack of flour' and put it in the bin. I did not see him do it and I did not ask him what kind it was. But when I made biscuits with this flour-which I consider the supreme test-they came out light and fluffy every time-Then I found the blue slip and I knew I was using Gold Medal Flour. It had met the test and come through with flying colors. No other flour can satisfy me now. I could tell Gold Medal 'Kitchen-tested' flour in the dark."

Thousands of Women Have Banished "Guess Work" From Their Baking. They now know they can get perfect results every time—that time is saved and worry eliminated.

THEY use a new-type flour for all baking purposes—GOLD MEDAL "Kitchen-tested" Flour that simplifies baking remarkably and banishes the cause of most baking failures.

Failures, experts found, were mostly due to the fact that two sacks of the same flour often acted differently, even with the same recipe . . . it was not uniform in oven action.

So now all GOLD MEDAL Flour is Kitchen-tested" before it comes to you. As each batch comes

Durability of Leather Shown by Recent Find

The durability of leather was proved by the discovery, in the course of excavating for the foundations of the new Bank of England, of soles of Roman shoes, one of which bore clearly the impress of the official Roman

Salvation Army Titles

It is to Elijah Cadman, a humble chimney-sweep of Coventry, to whom the credit for the military ranks and titles of the Salvation army must really go, writes a contributor in London Tit-Bits. Once known as "King of the Roughs." Cadman was converted and became an ardent Salvationist. He was given charge of a mission and began to call himself a "captain tn God's army to fight the devil." To mark William Booth as his superior officer, Cadman called him "general." And because William Booth knew well the value of a dramatic appeal to the popular mind, the titles, after some hesitation due to modesty on William Booth's own part, were accepted.

"Ub until two years ago when my father died, I had never known anything but a happy Christmas, But it was not so with my father. He was often cold and hungry and Santa Claus brought him no presents. He never remembered his father and his mother was very poor; and when she died daddy had no home and no friends to help him. He found a place to sleep in the back shed of an old wardhouse and a kind old man gave him a quilt and a blanket that were little better than rags.

"His name was George, but most of those who knew him never heard his hame because he was generally called 'the alley kid.' 'The alley kid' knew that there was a Christmas for most boys and girls, but he had never had one. The day he was ten years old was Christmas. It was a cold day and daddy had no presents and no breakfast. Everything in the garbage cans was frozen. He wandered about in the cold and watched the happy crowds go by, but they brought nothing for him. He was cold and hungry; sometimes tears came into his eyes, but he brushed them away lest somebody should see them.

"In the afternoon a little girl came down the street, carrying a basket of little boxes filled with candy and nuts for poor children in that section of the city. She saw him and gave him a box of candy. Childlike, she asked him what he got for Christmas. "'I didn't get nothin',' replied the

But suddenly her mother instinct solved the problem, and pressing her daughter more closely in her arms she said, "Your Sunday school, teacher isn't married. Befty, I guess she doesn't know all about such things. It's mostly fathers and mothers who really know about Santa Claus. Santa Glaus is the personification of the Christmas spirit. He does not live at the north pole, as some people think, or if he does live there, he journeys each December throughout the world touching the hearts of people to awaken in them the Christ spirit of unselfishness and generosity. It is usually mothers and fathers who know the most about him, because they love their children unsenishly as Christ loved little children, but people who do not have any children themselves are also often permeated with this particular Christmas spirit of giving. Jesus said, 'Let not your right hand know what your left hand doeth' and only those who understand His words can know the real Santa Claus, Some people exchange gifts at Christmas.

and for them Christmas has merely come to be a harter of presents. They like people to know who is giving something to them. But Jesus wanted giving to be done in secret, and Santo Claus Is that steret jay of giving which animates all mothers and fathers and lovers of

GRAIN DEALERS WAR ON NEW FARM BOARD

Battle Is Over Farmer-Owned Marketing Agency.

Washington.-President Hoover and congress are watching a struggle between commission grain dealers of the Northwest and the new farm board over the latter's administration of the farm relief act proposing a farmerowned and farmer-controlled marketing agency.

The farm board has been stormed with protests from commission dealers, who see their status in the grain marketing endangered, but Chairman Legge is standing firmly by his program.

There is evidence that the commission men have laid their case before Mr. Hoover, but there is no evidence that he is interfering with Legge's plan.

Realizing the importance of the situation, congress is beginning to give it attention, and Senator Nye of North Dakota is prepared to rally support for the board.

Senator Nye indicated he soon would have some disclosures for the senate on the fight made by the commission men.

Acting on reports of threats to call loans on elevator owners who join the farm board's grain marketing organization, Legge has given notice not the $500 000 000 farm board fund is available for loans to elevator owners who need money to protect old loans to the commission dealers.

IOWA WINNER OF 206 STOCK SHOW AWARDS

Also Won 38 Championships; Illinois, Second.

Chicago.-Iowa exhibitors won total of 206 awards, including 58 championships, leading those from the other states, at the International Live Stock Exposition which closed a few days ago. Illinois was second with 165 awards, including 21 championships. The total attendance for the eight days was estimated at about 500,000 with 80,000 present the final day, including 25,000 school children.

B. H. Heide, general manager of the annual exposition, said that the quality of the live stock shown this year was targely due to efforts of the boys and girls and college students.

"The 1928 grand champion steer was owned, fed and shown by a boy twelve years old, while credit for this year's king of live stock goes to a youth twenty years of age," said, Mr. Heide. "The contribution of youth in quality deserves special praise. Their records were sensational."

Chicago.-The world's highest beef price was paid at auction by J. C. Penney, chain store operator, for the grand champion steer of the International Live Stock show. Elliott Brown, the twenty-year-old, Rosehill, Iowa, farm youth, who raised "Lucky Strike, the prize steer, receives $7,837.50 for the 950-pound animal.

At last year's show, Mr. Penney set a new record for that time when he was awarded "Dick," 1928 grand champion, for $7 a pound. Since that time the mark was advanced to $8.02 for the title steer at the American Royal tractive open sandwiches. Sliced Live Stock show at Kansas City.

But desert conditions, in the sense of high temperatures and shortage of water arise at times on almost all land areas. Seasonal deserts, areas that for a part of the year have an abundant water supply accompanied by a luxuriant vegetable growth, and through the remainder of the year have no water supply and can show only dry masses of dead leaves and stems, are common. Illustrations of such conditions may be found along any roadside in midsummer. They are very common in places where there nad seen them ad- is but a thin layer of soil over bed

It is to Elljah Cadman, a humble chlinney-sweep of Coventry, to whom the credit for the military ranks and titles of the Salvation army must don Tit-Bits. Once known as "King of the Roughs." Cadman was converted and became an ardent Salvationist. He was given charge of a mission and began to call himself a "captain in God's army to fight the devil." To mark William Booth as his superior officer, Cadman called him "general." And because William Booth knew well the value of a dramatic appeal to the popular mind, the titles, after some hesitation due to modesty on William Booth's own part, were accepted.

Ancient Legal Expression The expression "A man's bouse is his castle" was first used by Sir Edward Coke, famous British jurist, 1552-1634, in his Institutes, part III, "Against going or riding armed."

HE hig house on the hill was full of Christmas. In every room festoous of greenery, poinsettias and holly wreaths vied with candles, bells and tinsel to make more radiant the festive scene and increuse the Christmas spirit.

There were two great cedur of the mantel, and both were decorated and overburdened with a harvest of Christmas cheer.

The last one of fifty expected boys had just arrived-fifty boys whose ages ranged from nine to thirteen years. They scarcely looked the scions of wealth and ease. The tragedy of struggle was deeply graven on every countenance and greatly overaged their appearance. They were clothed in a nondescript array of longworn garments, each article of which had been divorced from a former suit and handed down from a former owner. t'atches, tatters and rags covered faded, oversized, buttonless shirts and constituted their full dress for the

They were happy today. Each looked around upon the resplendent luxury with pop-eyed astonishment. It was all unreal and new to them. Down from the mantel behind trees came candy and nuts, and it was all for them. There was a pair of warm mittens for each boy, a cap and a pair of shoes with warm wool stockings for each one. I think that perhaps ten of you were here a year ago today and will remember the story, but I will tell it again and hope

"Up until two years, ago when my father died, I had never known anything but a happy Christmas, But it was not so with my father. He was often cold and hungry and Santa Claus brought him no presents. He never remembered his father and his mother was very poor; and when she died daddy had no home and no friends to help him. He found a place to sleep in the back shed of an old warehouse and a kind old man gave him a quilt and a blanket that were little better than rags. 1 "His name was George, but most of those who knew him never heard his bame because he was generally called 'the alley kid.' 'The alley kid' knew that there was a Christmas for mo. t boys and girls, but he had never trees in the hall, one on either side had one. The day he was ten years old was Christmas. It was a cold day and daddy had no presents and no breakfast. Everything in the garbage caus was frozen. He wandered about in the cold and watched the happy crowds go by, but they brought nothing for him. He was cold and hungry; sometimes tears came into his eyes, but he brushed them away lest somebody should see them.

"In the afternoon a little girl came down the street, carrying a basket of little boxes filled with candy and nuts for poor children in that section of the city. She saw him and gave him a box of candy. Childlike, she asked him what he got for Christmas.

"'I didn't get nothin',' replied the shivering boy. 'I never had no Christ-

George was soon eating the first Christmas dinner be had ever had. The little girl's papa talked kindly to George and that night he was given a bath, a new lot of clothes, and for the first time since he could remember he slept in a clean, warm

"The rest of the story is soon told. George never went back to the old alley to live or sleep. That little girl was my mamma. Her papa gave George a chance to work and let him go to school. He grew to be a fine boy. He was taught to tell the truth, to be honest and industrious. He became a smart business man. On Christmas day when he was twentyone years old there was a big wedding in the home where he had had his aret Christmas dinner and he was married to the little girl. He worked hard and was honest and every Christmas he and my mamma used to carry a basket of food and nice things to the poor people in the part of the city where daddy used to live. Daddy worked until he got to be president of the hig bank where he first began trouble was. Her to work. ran to her room. "What's the matter?" Mrs Pendleton called from the foot of the stairs.

"What is it, Betty?" Smothered sobs were the only answer, so Mrs. Pendleton ran up the stairs and into her daughter's room. She took Betty in her arms and tried to ralm her, but the sobs continued uncontrolled for some manutes longer. Finally she was able to tell her mother what the Sunday school teacher had just there was no Sanwas only a myth, and that it was wicked for parents to teach their little children such a lic. More sobs followed the broken explanation which Betty had given, and her little body trembled with convulsions of emotion, Mrs. Pendleten had to think quickly and clearly. What was to be done? The child was heartbroken, and was still so young it seemed a pity that her teacher had distilusioned her about one of the loveliest of childhood's funcies. Her mother could not very truthfully deny what the Sunday school teacher had said, and she did not want to teach her child to question the wisdom of Orfistinas.

predicament for Mrs. Pendleton. But suddenly her mother instinct solved the problem, and pressing her daughter more closely in her arms

she said, "Your Sunday school teacher isn't married. Befty, I guess she doesn't know all about such things. It's mostly fathers and mothers who really know about Santa Claus. Santa Gaus is the personification of the Christmas spirit. He does not live at the north pole, as some people think, or if he does live there, he journeys each December throughout the world touching the hearts of people to awaken in them the Christ spirit of unselfishness and generosity. It is usually mothers and fathers who know the most about him, because they love their children unsellishly as Christ loved little children, but people who do not have any children themselves are also often permeated with this particular Christmas spirit of giving. Jesus said, 'Let not your right hand know what your left hand doeth' and only those who understand His words can know the real Santa Claus, Some people exchange gifts at Christmas. Christmas has merely come to be a barter of presents. They like people to know who is giving something to them. But Jesus wanted giving to he done in secret, and Santo Claus is that secret juy of giving which animates all mothers and fa #3 thers and lovers of children at Christmas time. The Santa Claus you see on the street or in the stores or at a Christmas tree is not the real Santa Claus who lives at the north nale or elsewhere. He is a representation of him, however, and as such, he is just as teal as anything which a exists in this world. Your Sunday school teacher knows that just as well as I do, only she did not know exactly how to explain it to you."

Betty had ceased crying and, had listened attentively to her mother,"So there is a real Santa," she gaid. And Mrs. Pendleton replied, "Yes, my dear, there is a real Santa, and when you came to live with us you brought him back to us after he had been away for many years." That Christmas was a lovely one for all the Pendletons because at twelve o'clock on Christmas eve, Santa Claus came down their chimney and filled all their stockings full. Before he left, he drank the glass of milk and ate the apple which had been left for him, and then he hurried on to the houses of other people who believed in him,
