WEST BEND HAS $125,000 FIRE

February Twelfth
By Albert T. Reid

Could Abraham Lincoln speak to his countrymen today
he probably would ask them not to make a Deity of him but to look upon him as a human being who had the most heartbreaking task our country ever gave to any man and who tried his best to bring peace to reunite his country and to heal the wounds

NEW CITY TEAM LOSES FIRST GAME
The Kewaskum Merchants, newly organized basketball team who played their initial game last Sunday afternoon, at the high school gymnasium, lost to Sheboygan Falls by a score of 16 to 19. From the start it appeared as though Kewaskum would have an easy time of it, for reason, that although the visitors were good at passing work they were poor shots at making baskets, the locals therefore were first to score and kept the lead, until the last few minutes of play, when the Falls team staged a strong come back and were successful in making enough field goals to win the game. Both teams played a good brand of ball.

The preliminary game between the Amity team of West Bend and the Watertown Main Cafe Jr's, was won by the latter by a score of 38 to 32. This, though one-sided at first, when Watertown took a wide lead in the first half, turned out to be a close and interesting contest in the second half, when the Amity team came back strong, overcoming the lead and were able to hold their opponents down by playing a good defensive game. The game was very interesting.

Tomorrow, Sunday afternoon, no doubt, will be the biggest game of the season, when Spatz Miller's New Gang of Milwaukee, will be here to clash with the local squad. Everyone here knows and remembers Spatz, the star basketball center of Kewaskum's former city team. We all know that he knows and understands basketball, he knows what fans here want, the kind of players and the game to be played to make the game interesting, full of pep and plumb full of excitement at every stage of the contest, and what's more he knows a good basketball player when he sees him in action. With this record in his credit in this particular sport, we can expect a galaxy of basketball stars which he will bring here tomorrow, Sunday to make things lively for our boys, and the kind of a game we can look forward to. Enough said. The game starts at 3:00 o'clock sharp.

Our circle will then be complete again. Never to be broken anymore. Sadly missed by her loving parents, husband and brothers.

TO TAKE THE DECENNIAL CENSUS

Headquarters for the decennial census of the United States, Ninth district of Wisconsin, comprising Jefferson, Dodge, Washington, Columbia, Sheboygan and Ozaukee counties, are located at Watertown under the supervision of Don V. Smith of Lake Mills.

The fifteenth census covers the following subjects: Population, agriculture, irrigation, unemployed, drainage, distribution, blind and deaf mutes, manufacturers, quarries and mines.

The enumeration of quarries, mines, manufacturers and distribution will be started the first of February and must be finished before April first. The enumeration of population, agriculture, irrigation, unemployment, drainage, and blind and deaf mutes will begin the second day of April. In the cities, such work must be finished in two weeks time and in the rural districts in four weeks time.

As a rule, the enumerators for population and agriculture will be paid on the basis of the number of persons and farms enumerated, so much per person and so much per farm, the amount will vary somewhat according to conditions. The enumerators for other subjects will be paid so much per schedule.

The census taking should not be considered either coercive or a meddlesome interference in private affairs. It is performing a function necessary and beneficial to us all, collectively and individually. No one need hesitate to answer frankly and fully the questions asked by the enumerators. They have no personal interest in your affairs. They are merely units in an organization engaged in a mighty task. Utmost secrecy surrounds every census contact.

Under the law, the information furnished shall be used only for the statistical purposes for which it is supplied. No publication shall be made by the census office whereby the data furnished by any particular establishment or individual can be identified, nor shall the director of the census permit anyone other than the sworn employees of the census office, to examine the individual reports.

This is a public service, important and far-reaching. It cannot be successful unless the people themselves realize their responsibility and join the Department of Commerce with confidence and full co-operation in this great government undertaking.

Early Diving Suit
The diving suit is not so new as one might think. A patent was granted to John Stapleton on March 17, 1883, for "a new engine so by him contrived as to permit a person included in it to walk under water, and to a new invented way to force air into any depth of water to supply the person in the said engine therewith and for continuing a lamp burning under water; also a way to degenerate and purify the air so as to make the same serviceable for respiration."

STATESMAN TO CHANGE PUBLICATION DAY
Beginning next week, the publication day of the Statesman will be Friday instead of Saturday, which has been the publication day of the paper since its organization thirty-five years ago. By changing the date, it means that the paper will be printed on Thursday instead of Friday and circulate through the mail on Friday instead of Saturday as heretofore. It also means that all copy, including ads, must be in the office by Wednesday noon of each week at the very latest to assure publication.

The reason for changing the date is to satisfy the businessmen who do extensive advertising and who have asked us time and again to make the change. Giving for their reason that if the paper circulates Saturdays it will not reach the readers in time to have them read the advertisements, and do their Friday and Saturday shopping. Further, it will give the merchants an opportunity to offer two-day week-end special bargains instead of one, furthermore, should the roads be dritted, inclement weather or a breakdown of any of the presses in the office, cause a delay, or prevent the paper from circulating through the mail on Friday, it will, however, circulate on Saturday and still give the readers a chance to read the ads in time to do at least some of their shopping at a late hour on Saturday and take advantage of the specials offered by the merchants. Kindly bear in mind that beginning next week the Statesman will be printed one day earlier, and all copy must reach this office one day earlier, otherwise it CANNOT AND WILL NOT BE PUBLISHED that week.

ICE FISHING LAW TO INCREASE FISH SUPPLY

That the ice fishing law passed by the last legislature may prove to be the deciding factor in restoring Wisconsin's lakes and streams to their once enviable reputation as the best fishing grounds in the country, is indicated in a recent statement by Mr. William Mauthe, chairman of the conservation commission. The ice fishing law closed most of the lakes, and streams of the state to fishing after January 1.

"If Wisconsin is to regain her high position as a fishermen's paradise, state agencies and the people in general must co-operate not only in the propagation and distribution of fish, but also in the proper protection of the fish after they have been planted," says Mr. Mauthe.

The state conservation commission, through its department of fisheries, last year hatched and distributed more than 342,000,000 fish which were planted in lakes and streams throughout the 71 counties of the state. The commission is also maintaining a conservation warden force of about 70 men to protect the fish and game.

But all of this activity, and all the money it costs every year, cannot be most efficient without the co-operation of the state in giving those fish a sporting chance.

The state department of fisheries has been planting fish for many years in sufficient quantities to meet the demands of an increasing number of fishermen, but the fishing has remained constant rather than being materially bettered.

If the fishing is to increase, the propagation and warden protection will have to continue, and other means of increasing the fish will have to be started. The last legislature made an admirable beginning in this when it passed the ice fishing law which prohibits fishing through the ice after January 1 in most of the waters of the state.

Although the conservation commission had nothing to do with the framing or passing of this law, the commission is heartily in accord with it as being a sound conservation measure, and urges the co-operation of the fishermen of the state in enforcing it.

Catching fish through the ice is in most respects similar to killing the goose that laid the golden egg, as the fish taken through the ice after January 1 are full of spawn and are ready to lay their eggs as soon as the ice goes out in the early spring. Many fishermen have remarked at the great abundance of female fish caught through the ice. This is because the females being full of spawn, are hungry and will bite at anything to get food enough to develop the thousands of eggs they are carrying.

No waters in the state can be fished all the year round and be expected to keep up with the demand that is made on them by a constantly increasing number of fishermen. This is indicated in recent complaints coming from the Lake Winnebago district that fishing through the ice in Lake Winnebago is yielding smaller catches this year than ever before. The Lake Winnebago district is the only place in the state except Bayfield county where ice fishing may be carried on after January 1.

RACKOW MOVES TO OBTAIN DISCHARGE FROM CUSTODY
Judge Edgar V. Werner of Appleton has been notified that motions will be presented at his convenience for the discharge of Arthur E. Rackow, tried for murder last week, and leaving that motion is denied, a request will be made for a reduction of bail. It is expected by Attorney J. E. O'Brien, counsel for Rackow, that Judge Werner will be able to hear the motion on Saturday but up to noon he really had been received from the court. After two jury deadlocks, Rackow will press his plea for a discharge from custody on the ground that there is insufficient evidence to convict and that the element of doubt is so strong that further hearing of the case is futile.

CHARLES GRITNER SERIOUSLY INJURED
Roman Smith received word last Friday that his step-brother, Charles Grittner of Milwaukee was seriously injured last Thursday evening when struck by a street car. The accident occurred in front of his home at 1426 Juneau Ave., when returning home from work, when he stepped off the street car in which he was riding and walked around the car to cross the street, another street car coming from the opposite direction which he did not see, struck him and knocked him to the pavement. He sustained a fractured left collarbone and deep cuts on his face. He is getting along as well as can be expected at this writing.

If Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

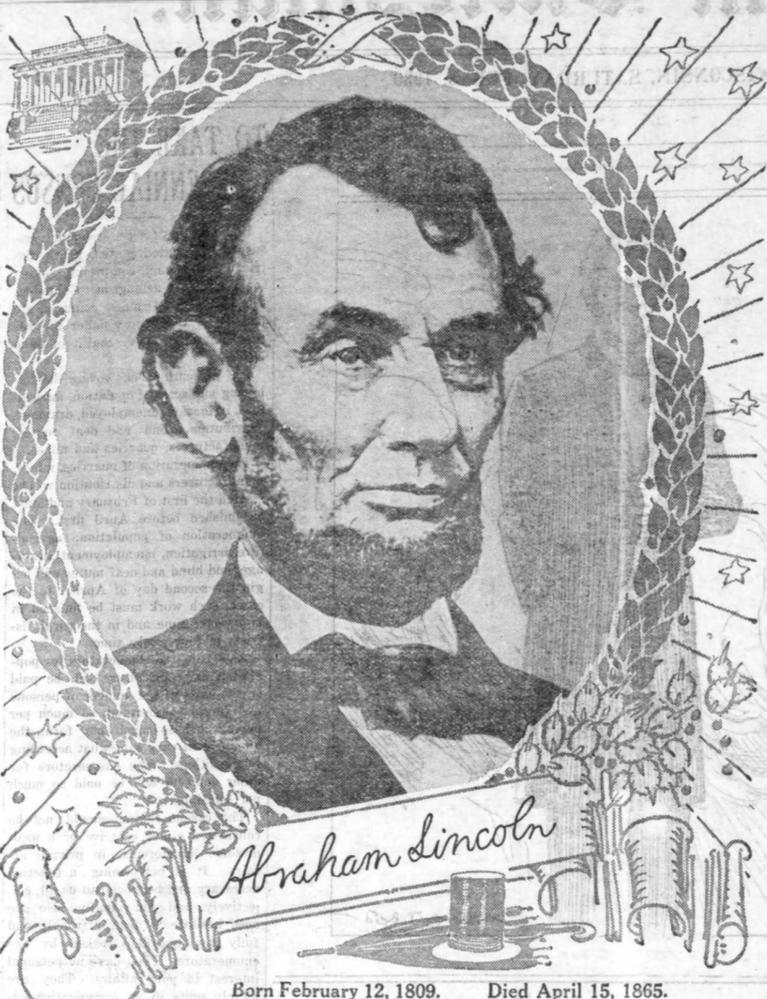

Says Backache Often Means You Have Not Been Drinking Enough Water

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and clogged.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

Five Copies of Lincoln's Speech At Gettysburg

Abraham Lincoln's address at Gettysburg is unique among his speeches in many particulars, one of which is that there are in existence at the present time no less than five copies of it in Lincoln's own handwriting.

Copy Not Preserved. Most of Lincoln's speeches, if written out, met a like fate. If the copy came back from the office with the proof, Lincoln tossed it into the waste basket, and no one rescued it.

The five copies of the Gettysburg address, two are in the Library of Congress. One of them is mainly in ink, written on a sheet of paper headed with the usual "Executive Mansion" caption. The other sheet is ruled letter paper of the same size, and with wide spaces between the lines.

Library of Congress draft I think was written in Gettysburg on the morning of the delivery. The place of writing was in the home of Judge Willis, facing the public square.

Just to dispose of a question which is sure to rise, whether Lincoln did not write the address upon the back of an envelope on the train on his way from Washington to Gettysburg, let me answer that he may have made a few penciled notes, and for this purpose may have used the back of an envelope, but he did not write the address as a whole in any such fashion.

Five Texts of Speech. The first two copies vary but little from each other. The last three copies vary but little from one another. How they vary I have set forth in interlinear versions in my "Life of Lincoln."

other and the later group, and that we know in detail the history of the last three. Intermediate between these two groups in Lincoln's own hand are a number of other versions printed at the time.

Lincoln's Ohio Speech on Way to Washington Abraham Lincoln passed through Columbus, Ohio, on his way to Washington to be inaugurated as President. Speaking before the legislature, he said: "It is true, as has been said by the president of the senate, that very great responsibility rests upon me in the position to which the votes of the American people have called me."

had and indifferent, says "that the lion shall, under God, have a birth of freedom." There was so common source from which all the reporters could have obtained these words but from Lincoln's own lips at the time of delivery. It will not do to say that Stanton suggested those words after Lincoln's return to Washington, for the words were telegraphed by at least three reporters on the afternoon of delivery and published all over the country.

Inspired by Occasion. But all three of Lincoln's copies that were made after the address had been delivered do contain the words of the three or more reports made while he was speaking, "under God," Lincoln said those words; the several independent reports that went to the wires at once agree that he said them; and Lincoln certainly wished to be remembered as having said them, for he wrote them into every one of the three copies which he made for permanent record.

Where, then, did Lincoln get those words? He got them, I think, out of his own stock of phraseology. He was not given to the careless use of religious phrases, but this one he used at other times. It came to him as he sat on the platform at Gettysburg, inspired by the sense of solemnity that the occasion brought upon him. The journey, the reception of the night before, the parade, the sight of the battlefield, the long and eloquent oration of Edward Everett and the growing depth of feeling as his own time came to speak, roused in him a deeper sense of the nation's need of reliance in God than had been in his mind when he was engaged in the work of writing.

In a number of particulars Lincoln's delivery varied from his written notes, but this was the most important variation. He said it then and there because it was then and there borne in upon him. And he said it because he felt it. Every orator who prepares his addresses in writing and delivers without being closely confined to his manuscript knows that there come to him while on his feet, under the emotional stress of the occasion, expressions which no amount of cold thought would have enabled him to invent. That was the case with Lincoln—William E. Barron, in the New York Times Magazine.

Lincoln's Ohio Speech on Way to Washington

Abraham Lincoln passed through Columbus, Ohio, on his way to Washington to be inaugurated as President. Speaking before the legislature, he said: "It is true, as has been said by the president of the senate, that very great responsibility rests upon me in the position to which the votes of the American people have called me. I can but know that you all know, that without a name—perhaps a name—there has fallen upon me a task such as did not rest upon even the Father of His Country! And so feeling, I can only turn and look for those supports without which it will be impossible for me to accomplish that great task. I turn then and look to the American people and to that God who has never forsaken the American people."

Occasions for Pride. I like to see a man proud of the place in which he lives. I like to see a man who lives in it so that his place will be proud of him.—Lincoln.

A Lucky Break. "Yes," smiled the old maid, "I loved and won." "But you never married!" exclaimed her caller. "No," she replied, "he fitted me and I got $10,000 heart balm, while the girl who married him found he wasn't worth 30 cents as a husband."

Restless Children

Children will fret, often for no apparent reason. But there's always one sure way to comfort a restless, fretful child. Castoria! Harmless as the recipe on the wrapper; mild and bland as its taste. But its gentle action soothes a youngster more surely than some powerful medicine that is meant for the stronger systems of adults. That's the beauty of this special children's remedy! It may be given the tiniest infant—as often as there is any need. In cases of colic, diarrhoea, or similar disturbance, it is invaluable. But it has everyday uses all mothers should understand. A coated sugar tablet for a few drops to ward off constipation; so does any suspension of bad breath. Whenever Castoria doesn't eat well, don't rest well, have any little upset—this gentle vegetable preparation is just what's needed to get everything back to rights. Genuine Castoria has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper. Doctors prescribe it.

"What the devil are you playing about, then?"

The freakish devil that had possession of me prompted me to reply—at a venture, "What about the money?"

curred to me that I might as well shin up one of the palm trees, and see whether there was really anything in this talk of a launch.

"Go on," I thought, "will be Black I wonder what the two of them will make of it when they get together?"

"But when I got down safe to ground again, I was more than sobered by the thought that came almost immediately—'If what he said is true—'

"Once I must tell you—but I will tell no more than I must—belongs to a non-British power, which has a short way with offenders against its rather Draconic code of laws."

"I thought the matter out at length. I could arrive at any one conclusion. Whole knowledge was better than half."

"Once more I climbed the palm; swung out, among the clashing stems among the swaying boughs of the leaves, and looked for the launch."

"God!" I thought, and sat down again. A few minutes rapid walking found me once more among the little, sinister houses, with their bowered gables and their air of being huddled together for some evil deed.

"I stood in the doorway and looked, till my strike burned out. I did not strike another. I walked away, and left the deserted lot to itself."

"In the little hollow there were fifteen other houses, all small and rudely built of bush material. I looked at them for a minute, swallowed in my throat—'

"I found a coconut stump for a torch, lit it and carried it, flaring furiously in the diminished wind, to the first of the houses. The door was not shut. I held the torch above my head and looked in. I looked for quite a long time at what I saw, making sure that I understood it, and that my eyes had not in any way misled me."

SEASONABLE DISHES

What to eat and how to prepare it, is the daily problem of thousands of housewives all over the land.

Eggs are often high and scarce in the early months of the year, but citrus fruits are then at their lowest price and are usually most abundant.

Apples now, because of the storage conveniences are most always available. The apple ranks high as a healthful fruit. The following will be found a most tasty dessert:

Apples—Mix together one cupful of chopped apples, one cupful of soft brown sugar, four tablespoonfuls of flour blended with six tablespoonfuls of butter, one beaten egg yolk, one-half cupful each of milk and raisins and fold in the egg white beaten stiff.

Veal Heart.—Wash, trim and slice crosswise a calf's heart. Dip the slices in seasoned flour. Fry one small onion in one-fourth pound of small butter fat, brown removed, brown on both sides. Arrange in a casserole, pour over hot stock, add one-half cupful pimento and green pepper, salt, pepper and a bit of bay leaf.

Eggs in Jelly.—Scald and peel the eggs from two chickens, cook in three pints of water with one onion, one carrot, one stalk of celery, all cut into bits. Simmer for several hours, strain and cook down to three cupfuls of liquid. Season well, add one-half tablespoonful of gelatin, softened in a tablespoonful of cold water to the hot broth. Cut four hard-boiled eggs lengthwise. Arrange the eggs in a mold with rings of stuffed olives, bits of breast of chicken and pour chicken broth over all. Chill. Turn out and garnish with chopped parsley and pimento. If the chicken feet are not used double the gelatin.

A CHAPTER OF SAUCES

A well made and appropriate sauce will take an ordinary meat dish out of its class, making it a real creation. The following are a few that are different:

Beef Sauce.—Take one tablespoonful each of sugar, horseradish and made mustard, mix with four tablespoonfuls of vinegar.

Lamb Sauce.—Pour one-fourth cupful of boiling water over four tablespoonfuls of vinegar and enough orange marmalade to make a thick sauce.

Unusual Meat Sauce.—Mix together two tablespoonfuls of brown sugar, one teaspoonful of grated chocolate, one-half cupful of preserved currants, one tablespoonful of shredded orange peel and the same amount of capers. Pour over these ingredients a cupful of vinegar and let stand for several hours. Before serving strain off the extra vinegar.

Olive Sauce.—Mix together one tablespoonful each of melted butter and flour, add one cupful of ground beef, salt and cook until smooth and thick. Add the scant teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce and one dozen finely chopped olives. Season with a little salt and pepper. Let the mixture simmer gently for three minutes.

Egg Sauce for Fish.—Wash the yolks of three hard-boiled eggs with two tablespoonfuls of butter, one tablespoonful of rich cream and two tablespoonfuls of lemon juice. Another is prepared with a white sauce, two hard-boiled eggs chopped fine and salt and pepper to taste. Allow two eggs to each pint of white sauce. This is good served with cauliflower.

Celery Sauce.—Blend two tablespoonfuls of flour and one-half cupful of butter, add to one pint of boiling milk. Chop very fine three bunches of celery and boil for five minutes, strain and add the celery to the sauce. Season with salt, pepper and a bit of mace if liked. This sauce brings out the flavor of fish, game or meat.

Orange Sauce for Pudding.—Beat two egg whites until stiff, add gradually, one-half cupful of orange juice and the same quantity of confectioner's sugar, stirring all the time. Grate the orange rind over the sauce and serve over cottage pudding or sponge cake.

Mustard Sauce.—To one teaspoonful of evaporated milk add one teaspoonful of mustard, mix well and then beat in eight tablespoonfuls of olive oil, drop by drop, and one tablespoonful of vinegar.

Fall Fledged at Birth The common house fly is full size when it hatches from the pupa, and does not grow any larger. When it hatches it is distorted and it takes from 15 to 30 minutes to straighten out. The fly is not sexually mature until from three to five days after it hatches.

5218 Happy People Give up Their Secret

JUST suppose you could get 5000 joyful happy people together in one big hall and could ask them what made them all so full of joy. Suppose, strangely enough, that all of them had discovered the same way to be happy. You would feel that way, if anywhere in the world, was the secret of how to get joy out of life.

This is just what has happened during the last few weeks. We knew there were millions of people who had found the secret of happiness in the same way, and we asked them in one or two small announcements in the magazines and newspapers to tell us their story. Letters came to us from practically all over the globe.

All of them said "The secret of happiness is health." How to get this health? The way that all of these people had discovered was not some magic medicine, not some powerful drug, not some difficult course of training—but only a simple, harmless, natural method. It was to keep the body internally clean, sweeping its natural poisons away each day, regularly, as clock work—by the use of Nujol.

These people had made a great discovery. They had found out that Nujol contains no drugs; that it is tasteless and colorless as pure water; pleasant to take and forms no habit; that it cannot hurt you, no matter how much you take; that it is non-fattening; not absorbed by the body;

Muzzled "Just think! A man came into the music room and said: 'Not a sound, or I fire.'" "Were you just going to sing?"

Peace Policy "Fifty years of happily married life! How have you managed it?" "Well, for one thing, son, I've always admitted I was wrong."

As We Grow Older

We Should Keep Careful Watch of our Kidneys. KIDNEY disorders are too serious to ignore. It pays to heed the early signals. Scanty, burning or too frequent kidney excretions; a drowsy, listless feeling; lameness, stiffness and constant backache are timely warnings.

To promote normal kidney action and assist your kidneys in cleansing your blood of poisonous wastes, use Doan's Pills. Used and recommended the world over. Sold by good dealers everywhere.

Eskimo Music

The Eskimo are very fond of music. Their native music consists chiefly of songs, chants and melodies, many of which possess considerable musical rhythm. Although the tunes to which they are sung are very crude, they can be traced to keynotes. The melodies especially are said to be very pleasing and a number of them have been published with corresponding music.—Exchange.

U. S. WARNS L. OF N. TO KEEP HANDS-OFF

American Naval Policy Perils Plans of the French.

Washington—The United States will resist any compromise measure or any other conciliatory system in the naval policy involving the League of Nations.

This frank declaration of the American official viewpoint was brought forth by reports from London that the French project of compromise provides for a formal notification to the league whenever any of the signatory powers desires to alter its allocations of tonnage under the global tonnage method.

Reference was made in restating the official viewpoint of the United States to the announcement of Secretary Stimson before his departure for London.

Some time before the conference opened France sent out to all the participating countries a manifesto of her intentions to be embodied in the French project of agenda. One of these details provided for the complete subordination of the London negotiations to the future disarmament conference under the auspices of the league.

At that time Secretary Stimson announced: "The United States will in no way be guided, influenced or affected by the league at the London conference."

There has been no change in the attitude of this government toward the league. Naval experts here are unanimous that the French plan of compromise would lead to unfortunate consequences if it were necessary to appeal to the league every time a modification in the building program of any nation were decided. Retaining the league and substitution of joint action and approval by the signatories as has already been suggested, they believe, would have a more harmonious effect.

New York—Senator Joseph T. Robinson (Dem., Ark.), member of the United States delegation to the naval conference, told an American radio audience that "previous conferences and diplomatic negotiations have, unfortunately, produced the way for probable success" of the conference.

Speaking from London over a hook-up of the Columbia broadcasting system, the Democratic leader in the senate requested his colleagues in that body "not to grow impatient because of the delay here."

He asked them to think of the delays in the senate "since the tariff bill was brought forth" and continued: "Surely we shall not fall here without full consciousness of the significance of our failure. It means a renewal and quickening of naval construction and consequent anxiety among the people of the naval powers, certain to bring forth insecurity and suspicion."

Outlining some points of the American delegation's position, Senator Robinson said: "We would abolish the submarine. Failing in that, our desire is to restrict its number and its use against merchant vessels."

"Succeeding in arrangement after cruisers, submarines and destroyers, we desire also to reduce the battleship replacement program contemplated by the Washington conference treaty. All limitations and reductions, supported by our delegation, are conditioned that equality between Great Britain and the United States shall result."

The senator mentioned several of the difficulties attendant upon the conference, but said, "We hope in concert with other delegations to find a basis of agreement fair to all."

Export During 1923 at Highest Point Since 1920

Washington—An increase in exports from the United States to the highest point since 1920 was shown in complete returns for 1923 issued by the Department of Commerce.

Only in 1916 and 1920, when prices were inflated by war and post-war conditions, have exports been higher than the $5,236,000,000 total reached last year. There was a 2.3 per cent more than sales abroad during 1923 and was nearly two and one-half times larger than the average value for the period 1914-1919.

Practically the entire increase in total exports was confined to the first four months, with May, October, November, and December exports declining. Shipments of finished manufactures were larger, however, in all except three months—May, November, and December.

Complete statistics for imports showed a total of $4,400,000,000 during 1923, an increase of $300,000,000 over the preceding year and only slightly below the 1926 figure.

IOWA IS REINSTATED IN SPORTS AFFAIRS

Action Follows Suspension on Charge of Subsidizing.

Chicago—University of Iowa, suspended from the western conference last May for subsidizing and proscribing athletes, was reinstated at a special meeting of the faculty committee held here. The reinstatement is now in effect.

While Iowa was restored to good standing, the action was not without qualification. In a supplemental statement to the one giving Iowa a clean bill the faculty committee members advised Iowa authorities against applying for reinstatement in eligibility of any of the athletes disqualified December 11, 1923. At that time twenty-seven men, including eleven who still are in school, were banned from further competition.

The action was evidently timed to aid Iowa. If the suspension had been in effect when the north central conference of colleges holds its annual meeting, March 7, Iowa would have risked banishment or expulsion from that organization, and its credits would not be acceptable to other colleges and universities in the north central jurisdiction area.

Because of that threat, the faculty committee is supposed to have acted as quickly as it did.

The vote of the committee was unanimous. It was taken after the report of the eligibility committee had been read. This group, composed of Prof. T. E. French of Ohio State and Prof. A. C. Cullen of Illinois, investigated conditions at Iowa.

The resolution follows: "Whereas, the conference is satisfied that the athletic authorities at Iowa have re-established the principle of faculty control and are endeavoring earnestly to correct the conditions which led to the suspension of athletic relations;

"And, whereas, although there is reason to suspect that certain forces outside the administration are still resorting to improper methods of aiding athletes, the conference has confidence in the ability and determination of the Iowa authorities to ascertain the facts and to deal effectively with such abuses as may be found to exist;

"Therefore, resolved that athletic relations with Iowa be resumed, effective at once."

The following supplementary resolution was passed: "It is the opinion of this meeting that Iowa authorities be informed that it would be inadvisable to apply for the reinstatement to eligibility of those athletes disqualified on December 11, 1923."

Although reinstated, it may be difficult for Iowa to schedule contests with other members of the conference immediately. Iowa has an open date on its football schedule, and it may be filled by a Big Ten eleven. This is not true of other sports. Coach George Breenahan can enter his track team in the indoor and outdoor championships. He also can schedule dual meets with other conference teams. Iowa's next year's schedules, with the exception of football, will be with Big Ten teams.

24 AMERICANS WITH INCOMES OF $5,000,000

Market Profits of Past Year Brought Many Wealth.

Washington—Huge profits in the stock market are reflected in a preliminary report on statistics of income for 1923 made public a few days ago by the bureau of internal revenue of the Treasury department. The figures which show a big increase in the number of large incomes, are based on returns filed during 1923.

Total net income of individuals during the calendar year 1923 exceeded by more than $2,000,000,000 the total for 1922. There were 496 persons with incomes of $1,000,000 or more as compared with 290 in 1922, 231 in 1921, 207 in 1920, and 75 in 1914.

Net income of individuals totaled $24,623,000,000. This set a new record since the passage of the 1924 revenue act when increased exemptions cut the number of income tax returns almost in half and resulted in a sudden reduction of several billions dollars in the total net income reported. The total in 1927 was $22,545,000,000. In 1924 a high mark of $25,700,000,000 was reached.

There were many more large incomes in 1923 than during the years of war profits. The $1,000,000 and over incomes totaled 206 in 1916 when American manufacturers were reaping profits on the sale of munitions and supplies before this country entered the World war. The number slumped to 141 in 1917, 67 in 1918, 65 in 1919, 33 in 1920, and reached a low water mark of 21 in 1921 when a business depression prevailed. In 1922 there were 67 incomes above $1,000,000 and in 1923 there were 74.

The preliminary report does not show to what states were the persons with the largest incomes. This information will become available when the complete report is issued.

Of the 496 incomes of $1,000,000 or more 24 were in the $5,000,000 class, 17 between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000, 20 between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000, 89 between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, 105 between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000, and 280 between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000. These totals represented 15 per cent in all but one group, the 1922 report having shown 17 of $5,000,000 and over, 8 between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000, 22 between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000, 55 between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000, 55 between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000, and 128 between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000.

The 24 persons with incomes of $5,000,000 or more in 1923 reported total net incomes of $32,000,000, and paid a total tax of $3,654,823.

Returns of individuals reporting incomes for 1923 numbered 4,050,959 of which 2,434,640 were taxable and 1,616,319 were nontaxable. The tax liability was $1,142,259,780. The number of returns decreased by 71,283, or 1.73 per cent. The amount of tax showed an increase of $316,014,283 or 33 per cent. The average net income was $6,078.03, the average amount of tax liability $281.97, and the average tax rate 4.64 per cent. Prior to 1924 more than 7,000,000 persons filed income tax returns.

Of the net income, $10,263,317,251 or 36 per cent came from wages and salaries, $3,288,963,184 or 11 per cent from business, $1,940,274,581 or 7 per cent from partnerships, $2,943,173,181 or 10 per cent from profits from the sale of real estate, stocks, and bonds, and $1,843,339,500 or 6 per cent from capital net gains from the sale of assets held more than two years. The balance came from rents and royalties, interest on investment, government obligations, and stock of domestic corporations.

FITTED PRINCESS SILHOUETTE CALL OF THE SPRING MODE

AFTER all, it is the simplest frocks which are usually the loveliest. At least that is the message which the exquisite gown of white moire in the picture conveys. This lovely princess frock can accurately be said to be of the off-sung "sweet simplicity" type. Rather does its every line bespeak that "unobtrusively elegant simplicity" so eagerly sought. Least the technique of the modelled-to-figure princess lines with their low-placed faros prove no error, designers are adding a softening note in the way of a huge bow placed either at one hip as illustrated, or at some other equally as advantageous point. Repeatedly, these princess bows enhance the formal evening silhouette. They are for the most part of self-material. The hemline of the white moire gown pictured is interesting for the reason that it is even, or at least, very nearly so, all around. The newest modes call for even hemlines rather than the pointed, jagged and generally erratic effects. If there is any fabric which yields more beguilingly than moire to the new princess evening silhouettes, dressmakers and couturiers have yet to find it. Of course, the moire pastels are good to look upon, and their number is legion, but there is that about the all-white moires which spells enchantment to even a greater degree. Now that the charming blonde, Princess Marie Jose selected white moire for one of the frocks in her tailored types are outworn, those which exploit clever manipulation in the way of rucks, gowns, insets, applied bands of real fabric which are cleverly without, fancy contrast pipings and other manipulations which make for effective styling. Stunning ensembles are fashioned of lace-woven Jersey, which is trimmed with plain Jersey, the latter cross-crossed in diagonal bands, forming fanciful bandings. Quite a few of these Jersey models have crepe de chine dress, which also combine the lace-pattern with the plain. JULIA BOTTLEMAN. (© 1923, Western Newspaper Union)

Waistline Effect One of the most striking elements of the new silhouettes is the fact that the frock tightly about the hips and normal waistline. As a matter of fact, crepe de chine dress, which is slightly above the waistline, and back. Bolero Coat Letonia has a new evening gown of chiton lace in floral design, with a bolero swinging below the waistline.

Seeing Big League BASEBALL

By BILLY EVANS
Sports writer, Big League Umpire and General Manager of the Cleveland Indians

The opening game of the 1928 season was a momentous occasion for me. It marked my exit as an American league umpire, my debut as general manager of the Cleveland Indians. During our stay at New Orleans, Manager Peckinpaugh had worked for condition. Realizing his club had many weaknesses, he tried to get his players in the best possible shape, in order to get away to a flying start if such a thing was possible.

Things certainly worked out for a time as both Manager Peckinpaugh and I had hoped. The club was in great shape, when we came north, particularly as to pitching. I felt that I am conservative in saying that our club was 15 per cent farther advanced in condition, than any other club in the majors. Elmer Shante, Hurlin and Miller formed a winning pitching combination that, for two months, caused the Indians to be the most talked about club in the league.

In our very first game on the road, after winning five out of the first seven at home, the club appeared to have suffered a catastrophe in the loss of second baseman Fonseca and center fielder Eddie Morgan. In the early part of the game they collided, while trying for a short fly to center field, which neither player was quite able to reach. It took the hard-hitting Fonseca out of the game for some time, and temporarily shelved Eddie Mor-

Some Peculiar Failings of Many Baseball Men

Every time John McGraw signs a new coach the writers put out that old paragraph that always reads the same:

"It is thought McGraw brought back Benny so that he can groom him to become his successor. The Little Napoleon wants a capable understudy who eventually can take the reins and let him retire."

Another bromide of the writing profession is to predict in the spring that the minor leaguer who is whaling the apple won't be hitting it as soon as the pitcher discovers his weakness.

And if he hits everything else they'll say: "Just wait until the pitchers start throwing curves on the outside corner."

And they might add: "Show us a few pitchers who can."

The percentage is against the bushy making good. But now and then one does.

The St. Louis Cardinals have announced release to Houston of the Texas league on an optional agreement of Clarence Jonnard, third-string catcher.

In seven years of pitching, Charley Ruffing of the Red Sox, said to have every quality a winner should possess, has never broken even in games won and lost.

The release of Pitcher Arthur Reinhart to the Houston club of the Texas league has been announced by Clarence Lloyd, secretary of the St. Louis Cardinals.

The fifty-fifth running of the Kentucky derby officially has been set for May 17, according to an announcement by Col. Matt J. Winn, guiding genius of Churchill Downs.

Doc Spears of Minnesota wouldn't take that Oregon football coaching job unless permitted to practice medicine on the side. He might find a better career in the hockey business.

Mike Rodden, coach of the Hamilton Tigers, great rugby football team of Canada, has achieved wide renown as a master mind of the gridiron, being called the Knute Rockne of Canada.

Pauvo Nurmi, former "Flying Finn," still holds every running record from the mile to the five-mile event, with the exception of the two-mile distance. He hopes to win the next Olympic marathon.

Knute Rockne originated the idea of educating his football players of Notre Dame by carrying members of the faculty in club cars en route to and from games requiring lengthy trips from the campus.

NEW BLOOD NEEDED IN SMALL CIRCUITS

Veterans Predominate in Many of Minor Leagues.

Baseball's urgent need right now is sandlot material. Several minor circuits are putting in rookie rules and others have increased the number of rookies allowed each club.

The minors never realized how many veterans were hanging on until L. G. McEvoy, vice president of the St. Louis Americans, completed a survey that revealed the average age of players in Class AA and Class A leagues to be thirty and a half years. The average age in the National is twenty-nine and a half, and in the American twenty-eight and a quarter.

McEvoy said that a new manager of a Texas league club submitted to the club president a list of 11 players he desired for 1930. The list showed that every player was about to be shunted to the minors by the majors because they were getting old.

The Tulsa club, 49 per cent of which is owned by the St. Louis Browns, is a good example of youth. The Oilers won three consecutive pennants, and every year the personnel of the club changed in nearly every position.

Marty Berghammer, who led Tulsa to the 1927 and 1928 pennants, and in '27 had one of the best clubs ever to win in the Western, took great pride in his youngsters.

On his first trip to Omaha in 1929 Marty remarked when we went over to the morgue to get his line-up: "Well, I've got another new team here, another bunch of kids. Don't know how good they really are, but they have shown some promise and I think we'll be up there."

Marty was right. The Oilers were up there and after the tag was just about in the grasp Marty was promoted to the Milwaukee club and Nick Allen sent to Tulsa. Marty developed the rookies and earned the promotion which may lead to the management of the Browns some day.

"Creighton university of Omaha has a rival of 'Stretch' Murphy, of Purdue, generally regarded as the best of all basketball centers performing on college floors both in height and in scoring skill," writes Francis J. Powers.

"The Nebraska sky-scaper is Bud Jensen, who towers 6 feet 7 inches. He not only is a clever jumper but a good floor man and a keen performer around the bank boards. Jensen is rather unique in college basketball. He had no high school experience in

Delaney to Retire

Jack Delaney, retired light-heavy-weight champion of the world, has fought his last fight. Dr. George W. Hawley, bone specialist, wrote "finals" to Delaney's ring career when he declared that an injury to the right arm which has bothered the former champion for two years threatened to cripple the arm permanently unless Delaney abandons boxing.

In the game, but made the Creighton team as a sophomore and now is finishing his college career in whirlwind style. Last season he scored 158 points and was one of the dead-eye shots of the Missouri valley."

Charley O'Leary, who has been the Man Friday for Miller Huggins ever since the latter became manager of the Yankees and who is going back now to work for Bob Shawkey since Huggins' death, doesn't think for a minute the Athletics will run off with the next A. L. pennant. Charley was having lunch the other day with Donie Bush who once took the short-stop job away from him in Detroit.

"Take that pitching staff away, and the A's haven't a thing," was the first thing Charley said about the world's champs. "Three or four fellows, aside from the pitchers, played ball last year as they never played before," he added. "Of course, pitching means a lot, but if one of those good ones falters this year, some other club will knock those fellows off. I don't think they'll repeat. See if I'm not right."

Ty Cobb entertains guests at his home in Augusta, Ga., with movies of European scenes taken on a trip abroad.

In his 23 ring encounters, Larry "Big Boy" Dawson, youthful heavy-weight of Dorchester, Mass., has scored 22 knockouts. He is the heaviest hitter, it is said, since Boston produced the famous John L. Sullivan.

Eventually, no doubt, the national hockey authorities will stop experimenting and professional hockey will then settle down to a permanent set of rules. At least everyone interested in the game will join in the hope this will happen.

The basic idea of the new rules, judgment upon which has been delayed pending the final settlement of official minds, is good. It does away with four-fifths of the whiffling for face-offs which spectators so openly detested and besides the new stipulations eliminate some of the grounders of checking, and have taught hockey players something they never knew before—how to cover their mas-

DIPHTHERIA PROTECTION—CAN WE AFFORD TO NEGLECT IT?

By immunizing children against diphtheria they are being given a gift that will give life long protection. So much as that cannot be said of any of our protective serums up to date. Ozaukee county children have had it; Waukesha county is formulating it's plans for the giving of it this year. Fifteen counties in Wisconsin have already administered it, as have the majority of the larger cities in the state. Milwaukee alone has administered toxin-antitoxin to over seventy thousand of it's school and pre-school children. No ill results have ever been reported from the effects of it; school life is not disrupted; all children attend regularly.

Washington county parents will not want to fall behind other progressive counties in this movement for protecting children against diphtheria. Even though diphtheria has not been present in your community for some time, you should not have a feeling of security. The following story told by a public health nurse illustrates the point. She was present at a woman's club meeting for the purpose of urging them to support a T. A. T. program. The president interrupted her talk to ask her not to take up their time talking about diphtheria protection, saying that she could not remember that they had a case of diphtheria in their community in the past ten years. Four months later this mother's only child was stricken with diphtheria and died. She came to the nurse to tell her that she realized what a foolish attitude she had taken, and she wanted to offer her services in instituting a toxin-antitoxin program. Even one case of diphtheria in a community should be considered a disgrace.

Toxin-antitoxin is to be offered in the schools to all the children from six months of age through the grades and will be administered by the Drs. of the county. Each one of you may help this program along by giving support to it when the work is being organized in your community. Definite dates for giving T. A. T. in Kewaskum will be announced soon.

Due to the fact that the County Nurse did not word clearly enough the article that appeared in last week's paper she wishes to make a correction. The article gave the impression that the county board had made an appropriation sufficient to allow all of the children to receive toxin-antitoxin free. That is not the case. A small charge will be made. As soon as the County Health Committee meets to decide just how the fund is to be expended, the details will appear in the paper.
