This vicinity will be shrouded in partial darkness on Monday, April 28 by a solar eclipse at the height of which 67 per cent of the sun's rays will be deflected from this area. Other sections of the United States will be affected in graduated degree, as the moon floats into the path of the solar rays to the earth. The eclipse will begin in Milwaukee at 12:23 p. m., will reach its maximum at 2:05 p. m. and its final stage of visibility at 3:22 p. m. It will be visible throughout the nation and Canada, according to Prof. Edwin Frost of the Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., and most effective in British Columbia, and the northeast sections of California and Nevada. It will be least effective in Texas and Florida. Those sections in direct line with the moon's shadow which will be 140,000 miles long will be darkest. Only a tip of the shadow reaches the earth, however. At Chicago 64 per cent of the sun's rays will be deflected. The eclipse will be visible the most extensively of any like phenomenon in the United States for the next forty-nine years. The family was aroused about 3:30 a. m., by a pet dog, kept in the house. The family was forced to leave their residence in night gowns, as the fire had already gained such headway, that they could not take time to dress. All that could be saved was a chair, used to break a window to save the family from suffocation from smoke. The Kewaskum and Kohlsville fire departments were called upon the scene to save the barn and brooder house from being destroyed. The loss sustained by the conflagration is much greater than what the building was insured. Mr. and Mrs. Diels wish to thank all their neighbors and those who helped to save as much as possible.

RAPID RISE OF AIR MAIL FLYER

Leon S. DeLong of Minneapolis, Minn., well known here, where he spent a number of weeks several years ago, instructing Harry Schaefer and Ernie Gessert in the work of flying an airplane, and who for some time piloted the government mail plane between Milwaukee and Green Bay is given high praise as an aviator in the Fond du Lac Commonwealth-Reporter under issue of Friday, April 18. The article in question reads as follows: "Leon S. DeLong, senior among the group of airmail flyers who roar through the night at the controls of the tiny 162-mile-an-hour planes which speed the Northwest's mail in and out of Chicago, is a native of the Twin Cities whose early flying exploits have taken in practically every town in the Dakotas.

He is beginning his twelfth year as a flyer after an eventful career flown by a record of having flown thousands of passengers without mishap or injury. He began his flying during the war and when peace was restored watched and helped aviation grow to the giant of today. His flying hours total close to 3,000.

DeLong was serving overseas with a machine gun battalion when opportunity came to transfer to aviation, and he was sent to Mitchell field at Long Island for training in the spring of 1918. Subsequently he was transferred to the pilots' school at Carlstrom field, Arcadia, Fla., for primary training and to the observation pilots' school at Post field, Lawton, Okla., for advanced training in 1919. On completing his course he was detailed to flying instruction and remained in service until 1920 when he returned to the Twin Cities.

Aviation was in the beginning of the modern commercial phase with the spectacular predominant and DeLong took his post graduate course in barnstorming. His activities led him into Minnesota, North and South Dakota, Montana, Nebraska, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa and Ohio and ranged from stunt flying to student instruction and aerial photography.

The three years after he left the army were devoted wholly to barnstorming, and in 1924 he became a flying instructor for the Northrup Airplane company of Minneapolis.

The next year found him operating a flying company of his own at Jamestown, N. D., but in 1926 he returned to the Northrup company as a pilot, leaving to operate as an independent late in the season.

DeLong's independent operations took him through Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois and Ohio until 1928, when he again returned to Northrup as sales and operations manager.

Later that year he became chief pilot and assistant operations manager for Universal Air Lines in this territory.

He joined Northwest Airways as a transport pilot when operations were begun on the Green Bay line in 1929. He is married.

The ordinance, which was to become effective May 1, provides that all pasteurized milk sold and delivered in Kaukauna must be pasteurized and bottled in a plant located within the city limits and that no license will be granted to buy or sell milk in the city if the main source of the milk supply is more than five miles from Kaukauna. LINDY SPANS U. S. IN LESS THAN 15 HOURS

World's Air Ace Hops From Los Angeles to N. Y.

New York.—Tearing along at an average speed of 180 miles an hour, Col. Charles Lindbergh and Mrs. Lindbergh pushed a Lockheed Sirius plane from Los Angeles, Calif., to Roosevelt field, New York, in 14 hours, 45 minutes and 32 seconds.

They clipped 3 hours, 14 minutes and 49 seconds from the record set last July by Capt. Frank M. Hawks in another Lockheed monoplane. Hawks' record was 17 hours, 38 minutes, 50 seconds. The distance covered was approximately 2,700 miles.

The Lindberghs' flight was unique in that it was pursued at altitudes ranging from 14,000 to 15,300 feet, never lower. It was a test of the theory that express and passenger plane service can be greatly speeded if the planes fly in the higher reaches where the air is thinner and the resistance correspondingly less than at lower altitudes.

It was a complete triumph in every way, and Mrs. Lindbergh shared the honors with her husband, because she did not ride merely as a passenger, but acted as navigator as well, guiding her husband in the trackless lane by "showing the stars" with an aviation sextant. This aid was invaluable, since the plane although the flight was far too high for ordinary ground observations.

Lindbergh was high in his praise of his wife, who, he said, not only did the navigating, but kept the charts and even took the controls at times.

The only time the ship was observed in its rocketlike dash from coast to coast was when the thunder of its Wasp motor was heard over Allentown, Pa. By that time the ship was being brought down to normal flying altitudes, since the goal was near.

Five thousand men and women waited in the light drenched field near Garden City all through the evening for the chance of seeing Colonel Lindbergh set a new record. They showed their appreciation by cheering wildly and honking their auto horns as the pilot set the lighted ship, low-winged ship on the field in a neat three-point landing.

Colonel Lindbergh had reporters after he landed that the flight does not definitely establish the theory that flying at the greater heights is a better method for more efficient express and passenger plane service. He said he was pleased with the general results, but that further experiment would be necessary and that he would undertake the experiments.

Cotton Shippers Join Opposition to Co-Ops

Memphis, Tenn.—The Southern Cotton Shippers' association at its annual meeting here not only backed the Memphis Cotton exchange in its resolution condemning the federal farm board, but also recommended the appointment of a committee of three members to protest the actions of co-operative government sponsored associations before the board.

This action was taken through the adoption of a report of the committee on cotton economies.

"It is the opinion of this body that the aid to agriculture voted by congress should be extended to all farmers regardless of their affiliation with any association or organization," the report read. "Also it is recommended that present legislation should be so amended as to make this aid available not only through co-operative associations but through any reputable and responsible agency, in order to leave the farmer free to handle his cotton in the way he considers best."

Any manipulation in the futures market by government sponsored associations, by individuals also was condemned. The meeting of the southern cotton shippers was held here prior to the meeting here of the American association of which the southern group is a member.

D. A. R. Refuses to Take Sides in Liquor Fight

Washington.—A resolution adopted barred prohibition, politics, and religion as topics of discussion at future sessions of the Daughters of the American Revolution. A resolution to this effect offered by Mrs. Robert J. Johnston, acting chairman of the resolutions committee, was approved by the delegates attending the thirty-ninth continental congress of the D. A. R.

The action of the congress came as a surprise to most delegates and was prompted by the attempt of certain delegates to have the D. A. R. go on record in favor of the dry law enforcement.

BELGIUM HONORS YOUNG

Owen D. Young.

Brussels.—The Belgian government conferred the Grand Cross of the Crown order upon Owen D. Young, chairman of the experts' committee on reparations, and the Grand Cross of the Order of Leopold upon J. P. Morgan, one of the experts' committee and chief of the Morgan financial interests.

150 DIE AS PRIESTS BLESS WORSHIPPERS

Were Attending Vigil Service in Rumanian Church.

Cotesti, Rumania.—One hundred and fifty Rumanians were burned to death within a few minutes here when a church in which a Good Friday vigil service was being conducted caught fire and was destroyed.

Helpless against the frenzied rush of the congregation to flee from the roaring flames within the wooden structure, the priests pounded at their posts and blessed the victims as they died.

Only three of those inside the building when the fire began escaped. They attributed the death of the others to their pious anxiety for the sacred vessels, the host, and a valuable altar cloth, which they rushed to rescue.

They turned finally to the door, the one means of egress. It opened inward, and the mass, panic-stricken and goaded by the searing flames, jammed against it and died before those outside could push it open.

It was all over in a few minutes. The blazing ceiling, tapestries and paper wreaths on the walls fell on the fear-maddened congregation, who trampled the women and children under foot. Their screams soon died out, leaving only the crackle of the flames and the shouts of the would-be rescuers.

The fire started when a breeze, wafted through a high rear window struck a candle's flame with one of the tapestries. Its tinsel fringe took fire, paper wreaths caught, and in a minute the building was a blazing inferno.

Among the dead, who were burned to a cinder, were two priests, a notary, and the boroughmaster of Cotesti, which is a small town of 5,000 population, 65 miles northwest of Bucharest, near the edge of the Transylvanian Alps. Hardy a family in the town escaped unscathed.

Unsinkable Ship to Be Built by Cunard Line

Liverpool.—Within a month's time the first step to be taken by Britain to recapture the transatlantic speed record, which the North German Lloyd liners Bremen and Europa wrested from the Mauretania, will be made here when the Cunard Steamship company places its order for a 70,000-ton ocean greyhound which will not only be the world's fastest and biggest liner, but which will be, according to details learned here, unsinkable.

The new vessel is expected to make more than 28 knots and will probably be propelled by turbines aggregating 200,000 horsepower.

The hull will be divided into watertight compartments so that the vessel will remain afloat even if extensively damaged below the water line. She will carry 4,300 passengers and a crew of 700, or a total of 5,000.

NAVY PACT SOON TO REACH U. S. SENATE

Support of London Treaty Is Sought by Hoover.

Washington.—Admission that the London conference fell short of its objectives was made by Senator Joseph T. Robinson, a member of the American delegation, in a transatlantic radio address broadcast throughout the United States from London over the national network.

Responsibility for the defection was laid upon France and Italy, whose only participation in the treaty is with regard to reductions of capital ships and the humanization of submarine warfare.

Washington.—President Hoover has launched a drive for senatorial support of the London three power naval treaty and indicated that the new pact may be submitted to the senate shortly after the American delegation returns from London.

Opposition which developed in congress to the pact may, however, result in delaying senate action on the naval agreement. Final decision on the question of when the treaty will be forced to an issue in the senate will not come until after the United States delegates reach this country, the latter part of the month.

President Hoover has been holding conferences with various members of the senate to ascertain their views on the agreement reached in London. The upshot of these conferences, at which the President disclosed statistical details of the pact, is that it is now clear that Senator Borah will work for senate approval of the treaty while Senator Hale will be found in the ranks of the opposition. Senator Watson's views were not made known, although he urged the President to handle the treaty until after the tariff bill has been disposed of, a matter of several weeks.

Senator Hale said after a conference with President Hoover that when the treaty was presented he would hold a series of meetings of the committee on naval affairs to hear naval officers and others in order to enable the committee to determine what the effect of the agreement would be on the American navy. To this procedure Senator Borah, as chairman of the committee on foreign relations, to which the treaty will be referred, will make no objection, but he said when the treaty came before his committee he would seek to have it disposed of and reported to the senate as quickly as possible.

Senator Hale also revealed, although he declined to issue a statement formally, that he is opposed to the American construction of eight gun cruisers. He pointed out that the treaty allows this country to build but eighteen eight-inch gun ships when the navy general board has said it should have a much larger number. Senator Hale also disapproved of an arrangement, said to have been entered into at London, whereby the United States would agree not to complete more than fifteen eight-inch gun cruisers before the end of 1935.

Under the terms of the treaty the United States is limited to eighteen eight-inch gun cruisers but is allowed to build up the cruiser maximum of 325,000 tons in six-inch gun ships. Mr. Hale's objection is that the treaty cuts the number of eight-inch gun ships the United States needs and allows us to build ships we do not need.

Four Electrocuted as Plane Hits Live Wire

Jersey City, N. J.—Count Henri de la Vaulx of Paris, president of the International Aeronautic federation, and three other occupants of a Canadian Colonial Airways four-passenger biplane flying from Albany, N. Y., to Newark, N. J., were electrocuted 300 feet above the ground. Their plane, seeking a landing place, struck a high tension wire. The craft, enveloped in flames, crashed to the ground with its cargo of dead and was burned.

The bodies, badly charred, were removed from the wreckage and identified from an official list as Count de la Vaulx; Mrs. Marie E. Williams, Providence, R. I.; A. V. Conklin, New York, and the pilot, John Salway, thirty-seven, of Albany.

Medium-Sized Barn That Meets All Requirements of the Modern Dairy

By W. A. RADFORD
Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF CHARGE on all problems pertaining to the subject of building work on the farm. For the readers of this paper, on account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on the subject. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 407 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill., and only in close two-cent stamp for reply.

The barn here illustrated is designed for the medium-sized herd. It provides accommodation for twenty-four cows, with a bull pen and calf pen at one end. The dimensions of this building are 34 feet by 84 feet.

Part of this barn is set aside for the use of the farm horses and in this part we have three single stalls, one box stall, feed room and harness room.

One of the features is the placing of the feed room and the silo. This arrangement, it will be noticed, centers the supply of feed and facilitates the establishing of a feeding plan which will eliminate all wasted energy. The arrangement places the cows facing in. The preference, relative to this point, is divided among different farmers, some preferring the arrangement which faces the cows out, and others favoring that used in this design. The gutters flanking the litter alley are sloped and a drain placed at the inner end of each stall. Where running water under normal pressure is available, it is the use of but a few minutes to the clean out the stable.

The outstanding feature of this barn is the roof construction. The modern dairy barn should be built like a factory, because a factory, housing very expensive and delicate machinery for production of milk—namely, the high-bred cow. It should be given the same intelligent planning for its operation that is necessary to successful factory.

As a matter of fact, most farmers look for much choice in their roof. A large, inefficient dairy is not possible anymore. The farmer who wants to keep heavily producing simply must have an efficient dairy barn.

Labor saving is the keynote of modern barn design and equipment. Some of its features are planned to correct the cows up to correct pick-up and speak. Such are ventilation, cow cups, cork floors.

Don't Scrub Linoleum if You Wish Best Result

If you wish to preserve your linoleum on the kitchen floor, do not scrub it. When it is first laid, wax it two or three times with light coats of wax, well polished. Use a dust mop daily. If anything is spilled wipe it up at once. When washing is necessary use only a mild soap and lukewarm water. Then wax. The wax will fill the pores of the linoleum and the dirt will not grind in. If your linoleum is printed, give it a light coat of varnish before waxing, to preserve the pattern.

Adobe Brick Now Used in Small Home Building

"Adobe," lumpy, sun-dried brick, was used by Franciscan fathers in the building of their missions, and later many homes and commercial structures were erected with these rudely made bricks.

Blue Bureau Drawers Help Keep Linens White

The old bluing bag that was stuffed into (and still is by many) a wash tub of water in which white clothes were rinsed, has a competitor. Its competitor is blue bureau drawers. Recently the new practical application of the blue drawers became popular. It has been proven that if blue drawers are covered with blue cloth the linen will remain a delicate white. The old-fashioned bluing bag was full of blue and the clothes came out blue. The new blue bureau drawers are covered with blue cloth and the clothes come out white.

You can now buy this McCormick-Deering for the LOWEST PRICE IN YEARS

Now, of all times, is the time to buy a tractor! In keeping with International Harvester policy, the economies resulting from large-scale manufacture are being passed on to the customer in the form of lower prices. The McCormick-Deering 10-20 is now offered at the lowest price in 6 years and the McCormick-Deering 15-30 at the lowest price ever.

The 10-20 is the same husky tractor that is performing dependably throughout the world—fully equipped and up to the minute in every respect.

The 15-30—also the latest improved model—now develops 22 h.p. at the drawbar and 36 h.p. at the belt—with a generous reserve beyond these ratings. Both models are triple-power tractors, delivering power through drawbar, belt pulley, and power take-off.

The full power of the 15-30 means additional safeguard against strain. A new manifold design keeps fuel consumption way down, and a new oil filter—also regular equipment on the 10-20—provides additional protection from dust and dirt. You can depend on the 15-30 to reduce labor costs and speed up operations all along the line.

Drive the 15-30 or the 10-20. Put one on the toughest job you have. See for yourself which size best fits your needs. A demonstration can easily be arranged. Just phone us.

Keep Eggs Clean

"Considerable saving can be effected during the spring months by keeping the nests clean and the eggs from becoming soiled," declares E. R. Menefee of the Purdue university market department. Menefee points out that dirty eggs cost the farmer and poultryman from one to three cents per dozen because of the low grade into which they are classified. In the spring, when the birds are turned out on wet ground, dirty eggs are more likely to occur.

Tuberculosis Is Hard to Destroy

Damp, Poorly Ventilated Houses, Filthy Runs and Improper Food Blamed.

In managing most poultry flocks it is considered advisable to cull all hens which appear droopy and listless, of light weight and in poor condition. These symptoms would indicate tuberculosis and the birds should be discarded at once.

Infected fowls often become lame, and the shanks become pale and shriveled. When picked up, such birds will be observed to have only a very little flesh on the breastbone. Only one or two in the flock will be noticed to have the disease at the same time in all probability, and these will eat heartily until almost the time of their death. Other birds in the flock will be infected, however, since the disease is usually widespread in a flock that has one or two infected birds. Other diseases often cause loss of weight, and a post-mortem examination is necessary to make a positive diagnosis of the trouble. Lesions of the disease, yellowish in color, and varying from the size of a pinhead to the size of a pea will be found on the liver and spleen of visibly infected birds. Nests varying from the size of a pea to that of a small walnut will be found on the intestines and the intestinal membranes. Lesions also occur frequently in the kidneys, lungs, skin and bones. Birds in the early stages of the disease cannot be detected by external symptoms. In order to detect these birds the tuberculin test must be applied by some veterinarian competent to do this testing. Losses from the disease do not occur with birds under a year old, since chicks do not have the disease at time of birth and must contract it from older birds.

Cause of Disease.

Tuberculosis is caused by bacteria and can be caused by no other agency. Damp, poorly ventilated and badly lighted houses, filthy runs, and improper feeding practices hasten the spread of the disease where the germs are present, but these factors are never solely responsible for the trouble.

Birds affected with tuberculosis can not be cured. Those that are known to be infected should be killed and burned. Strict sanitary measures should be adopted in caring for the flock. If it is desired to merely avoid losses from tuberculosis, desiring of all birds one year old or over will take care of this, but if the owner desires to rid the flock of the disease, additional steps must be taken.

There are two possible methods of eradicating the disease from the flock. The first method is to dispose of all stock after the laying season is over; thoroughly clean and scrub all roosts, nests, floors and runways with a solution of high-test lye, and keep all fowls off the premises for several months. In order to destroy all of the bacteria in the ground which has been frequented by the infected flock, it should be plowed occasionally during the spring, summer and fall, and seeded after each plowing.

Use Tuberculin Test.

In flocks that are valuable as breeders, the tuberculin test can be used and only those birds known to be infected then disposed of. This should be given every six months and all reactors should be removed from the premises and the houses cleaned and runs plowed after each test in which reactors are found, as mentioned in the first method. In either case, young chicks brought on the premises should be raised on clean ground, and, if possible, should be put into new quarters and the old quarters utilized for some other purpose as soon as the old flock has been entirely disbanded. This later is not essential, however, if proper sanitary methods have been followed.

Diseased Plants Barred by the United States

Importation of plants and plant products is by far the most important means of introducing plant diseases into new regions or countries, says the United States Department of Agriculture. Diseases may be spread over short distances by insects, wind, or other agents but when they are spread over long distances it is usually the result of transporting some part of the host plant such as fruit, seeds, bulbs, tubers, straw, etc. For this reason the cargo of every vessel arriving at a United States port from a foreign country is carefully inspected to see that plants or fruits imported with dangerous diseases are not brought in.

SCARS MADE BY PRUNING NEED PROMPT TREATMENT OF SHELLAC

Wounds Should Be Painted to Prevent Drying.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Shade trees often suffer permanent injury as a result of improper care or complete neglect of the wounds caused by pruning. Specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture recommend that scars made in pruning be painted immediately with shellac to prevent drying out and consequent dying back of the cambium layer, the area just beneath the bark.

Shellac should be prepared by dissolving gum lac in alcohol. No other solvent should be used, as some solvents actually kill back the cambium layer instead of protecting it. In the case of small wounds a half inch or less in diameter, shellac will give complete protection under ordinary conditions, but on larger wounds the shellac should be covered with some more permanent preparation, such as asphalt, tar, or good lead paint of any desired color.

Aid Cross-Pollination With Colonies of Bees

At least one colony of bees should be allowed for every acre of orchard, and these colonies should be distributed throughout the orchard to help with cross-pollination, according to the New York state college of agriculture. Lack of pollination is probably the greatest, single factor responsible for the lack of setting of fruit when a tree blooms and still does not mature a crop.

Nearly all varieties of apples are self-sterile and even varieties which are self-fertile produce more fruit when cross-pollinated with an inferior variety. A grower should all variety his varieties which bloom about the same time and will inter-cross. He should choose good varieties for pollination purposes and then rent bees from a good beekeeper to do the pollination work for them. Pollinator bouquets should be placed 15 feet from the trees.

Self-Feeding Lambs on Chop Feed Is Favored

Western feeder lambs have been successful and economically self-fed at the University of Illinois on a mixture of ground corn and chopped alfalfa hay. The self-fed lambs gained faster than a similar lot hand fed on shelled corn and unchopped hay and required less feed per 100 pounds of gain.

A portion of the Illinois report reads as follows: "Apparently there is no danger of overfeeding when a mixture of ground corn and hay is self fed and the proportion of corn to hay is about one to four at the start and one to one after seven weeks of feeding."

At the Nebraska station, a ration of cracked corn, chopped alfalfa and linseed meal proved very successful for fattening lambs. It was found necessary to crack the corn to prevent the lambs from picking out the kernels. Alfalfa hay and other roughages can be chopped for live stock by means of farm-owned roughage mills.

Planting Asparagus

Asparagus roots should be planted about six inches deep in rows four or five feet apart and the plants two feet apart in the row. The first year the roots are not covered the full depth of six inches, but about three inches of soil is put over them and as cultivation proceeds through the year the trench will be filled up in the fall. Asparagus needs plenty of fertilizer and will do fairly well in many soils that receive sufficient moisture during the growing season.

Would you like to try this doctor's laxative free of charge?

Every family has occasional need of a laxative, but it should be a family laxative. One that can't form a habit, but can be taken as often as needed. When breath is bad or tongue coated. Or appetite fails. Only a doctor knows the right ingredients. Dr. Caldwell discovered the correct combination of harmless herbs and pure senna. It starts muscular action and soon corrects constipation. Gently, but surely, it relieves a bilious or sluggish condition. It is mild, Delicious, Effective. All druggists keep this famous prescription ready, in big bottles. Or write Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, Monticello, Ill., for a free trial bottle postpaid.

Violet Rays Employed to Fight Common Colds

Experiments covering two years at Cornell university seem to indicate that the prevalence of the common cold may be reduced by 40 per cent by the use of the violet ray. The medical director of the institution said:

"In 1920 and 1921 there was not one of the normal students had colds, but among the cold-susceptible students there were weeks when as high as 62 per cent had colds. For two years we have irradiated cold-susceptible students through the dark cold period of the year with ultra violet lenses over the entire skin surface from ten to fifteen minutes once a week.

"This ten to fifteen minute irradiation of the entire surface of the body is equivalent to a whole week's sunlight in the summer with only the face, neck and hands exposed. On that basis we got a reduction in cold incidence of 40 per cent."

First Auto Speeder?

Another record is shattered. A man named Auto Jim Quinn has long claimed the distinction of being the first man arrested in America for auto speeding. That was in 1905. Now comes along a statistician of the auto industry who says the honor should go to Thomas W. Shevlin of Minneapolis, who was dragged into court in that city in 1902 and paid $10 for driving his 1902 more than ten miles an hour.

Children Like Own Church

Children of Bourneouth, England, have taken the idea of replacing the Sunday school by a special afternoon service of their own at St. Michael's church. The little ones are supplying their own readers of lessons, choir, organist and warden. The church at Kew has also established a special chapel for the use of children under eight years of age.

Veteran Swedish Cow

A twenty-eight-year-old cow, believed to be the oldest in Sweden, is living contentedly on a farm in the western province of Holland. Considering that cows rarely reach more than twelve to fourteen years, this one seems to have broken all Swedish records for longevity.

Fishy

The Parana river in Brazil is full of fish that look like dogs. In his "Cruise of the Falcon" E. F. Knight says:

"The fish we caught were all very fierce, biting everything they came across when landed on our deck, and barking like dogs."

Original "Samplers"

The word "sampler," applied to a certain kind of cross-stitch needlework is derived from an old English word meaning "original" or "model." A sampler was supposed to exhibit various patterns for future copying.

Hush, little goldenrod, don't you cry— You'll be a blonnie tire By and by.

Hoped to Rouse Curiosity

Wright—I'm writing my autobiography. Bright—What have you that's interesting to tell?

Mad

"You should have seen me foaming at the mouth the other morning." "Were you mad?"

Speechless Emotion

"Hallo, where have you been?" "To the station to see my wife off for a month's holiday."

Wants John to Try It

Mr. Jabbs—Good nature is just nothing more than a state of mind, Jane. Mrs. Jabbs—Well, I hope some day you will be able to get into that state of mind, John.

Get Steamed Up, John

Mr. Slack—I want you to understand that I have my own train of thought.

Why He Lost Her

"You used to say I was a man after your own heart." "Yes, but when I found you were after half a dozen other girls' hearts, I changed my mind."

Cleanliness, but Hard on Rest of the Outfit

After a 12-day voyage we arrived at Brest, France, in July, 1918. We marched to the Pontannan barracks that afternoon. Our outfit was assigned to two barracks, with a promise of a bath on Wednesday.

Water was very scarce there, and at each end of the barracks assigned to us was a barrel of water for drinking purposes.

I happened to get up about two o'clock in the morning and leave the barracks. On my return I saw Mike Connors in the barrel taking a bath.

"I got my clothes in that one," Mike assured me.—John J. Boyle in New York Telegram.

Belligerent Owl

A struggle between an owl and the engineer of an electric express train has been reported at Linkoping, in southern Sweden. The bird, probably attracted by the headlights of the locomotive, burst against one cab window and broke the glass.

Government officials estimate that there are 5,000 farms of less than three acres in this country to which individualism gave their entire time last year.

A caller on Elijah Harriman, South Warren, Maine, ninety-eight years old, found him doing his share of work and helping prepare the evening meal.

Remarkable Memory

"When you forgive an enemy," said Uncle Eben, "maybe it's best to keep away from him so's you won't be tempted to forget your forgiveness."—Washington Star.

Enlarging His Business

First Beggar—Yesterday you were blind; today you are deaf and dumb. Second Beggar—Yes; you see, I've enlarged my business.

Wisconsin Bankshares Corporation ANNOUNCES

Important Expansions and Improvements in Service for Customers of the Unit Banks

CARRYING out its avowed purpose—"to bring better banking service and greater banking facilities to the communities in which its banks are located"—Wisconsin Bankshares Corporation announces the following program of improvements and additions to the service provided for the 400,000 customers of the unit banks of the Group:

BANKING (Additions to Capital): It is planned to add $100,000 of additional capital to the Badger State Bank of Milwaukee, and $100,000 to the Union National Bank of Eau Claire, because it is apparent that such additional capital can be profitably employed in the communities served by these institutions. This is the first of a number of steps planned to increase the capital of unit banks of the Group when it is indicated that such capital can be profitably used.

What is Group Banking?

A banking system whereby a number of corporate independent financial institutions, retaining their own identity, capital, personnel and management, are coordinated, through majority stock ownership, by a supervising holding company operated by the banking interests of the territory which it serves.

MORTGAGES: The operations and services rendered by First Wisconsin Mortgage Company will be developed and enlarged to cover a wider field.

TWO NEW SERVICES: To further increase the usefulness of the banks to their communities, Wisconsin Bankshares Corporation is providing two additional services:

1. Title Guaranty Company, of Wisconsin, a reorganization of the Milwaukee Title Guaranty and Abstract Company, has been formed to extend to the customers of all banks of the Group the services of the Company which previously were confined largely to Milwaukee. The new Company will provide throughout this trade area, the increasingly desirable protection of title guaranty on real estate properties. Adequate resources to carry out this program have been provided. The company will have a capital structure in excess of $3,000,000 of which $2,500,000 will constitute a contingency reserve. Its Board of Directors has been selected and includes representative attorneys throughout the state.

2. Wisconsin Equities Inc., will be an investment trust, investing largely in Wisconsin businesses. This Company, in time, should prove to be a helpful influence toward stabilizing the market for the securities of sound Wisconsin businesses. It is likewise a necessary part of the complete banking service which Wisconsin Bankshares Corporation proposes to furnish to Wisconsin. Future expansion of this Company is planned on a conservative basis.

INVESTMENTS AND SECURITIES: The investment and security business of the banks will be centralized and consolidated into one corporation, First Wisconsin Company, which will be owned directly by Wisconsin Bankshares Corporation. Through this organization, the customers of every unit of Wisconsin Bankshares Corporation are served by a Company occupying an outstanding position in the underwriting and distribution of securities, and have available the sales service, trading and analytical departments of this important unit.

TRUST FUNCTIONS: The trust activities, individual and corporate, of the banks will be under the supervision of First Wisconsin Trust Company, which will be owned directly by Wisconsin Bankshares Corporation. Greater safety and the opportunity for better estate management are obvious advantages of this broadened scope of trust department operation.

Public confidence in this Group Banking Organization and in the Officers and Directors guiding its affairs have brought increased earnings, increased deposits, and a greater number of customers to the unit banks of the Group during the first three months of co-ordinated group operation.
