The injunction was sought by the Martin Orchard Co. here, owner of the largest sour cherry orchard and a stockholder in the co-operative.

Madison—Although 16 states outrank Wisconsin in farm acreage, the Badger state holds third place in value of all livestock, the Wisconsin and United States departments of agriculture announced. Wisconsin's farm area is 2.4 per cent of the total acreage in the United States but the value of its livestock is 5.4 per cent of the total. On Jan. 1, 1930, the value of Wisconsin livestock, excluding poultry, was estimated at $317,000,000, an increase of 1 per cent over the value of a year ago and an increase of 37 per cent over the five-year average value of $231,000,000.

Rice Lake—The annual reports of the three largest creameries of Barron county, located at Rice Lake, Cameron and Barron, show that $250,000 more was paid to patrons in 1929 than in 1928 despite the slump in butter fat prices the latter part of the year.

Hugh Harper, president of the Wisconsin farm bureau, expressed the hope that more county federations be organized and that these function through a state federation.

"It is the opinion of this department," the ruling stated, "that under the decision in the Horicon marsh case the moneys appropriated in section 20.20 are available for purposes specified." The decision to which the ruling referred was handed down several weeks ago by the supreme court and held that the act establishing the Horicon marsh is constitutional.

FIFTEEN MEET DEATH WHEN PLANES CRASH

Craft Plunges Into Crowd at Legion Air Circus.

Lafayette, Tenn.—Seven spectators among a large crowd gathered here to watch an air circus sponsored by the American Legion post were killed and 20 others were injured as a plane crashed into the onlookers.

The dead are: Bonney Beard, fourteen; Kelly Towry, twenty-three; Lawrence Smith, twenty-eight; Monroe Marbury, thirty-seven; Hurley Spray, twenty-six; Rufus Banner, nine, negro, and Marvin Ashby, thirty. Of those injured doctors said several were expected to die.

Milton F. Covert of Columbia, Tenn., pilot of the plane, was placed in jail in a nearby county after threats of violence.

The plane fell from a height of about ten feet. Covert and two companions were nearing the landing field in the plane when, witnesses said, the craft dropped, crashing into a crowd on a railroad embankment. The pilot and his companions were not injured.

Capt. Al Gombert of Akron, Ohio, in charge of the circus, said officials had warned spectators not to stand on the embankment, because all planes had to sweep close over it in landing.

Portsmouth, N. H.—A boy and a girl burned to death after an airplane crash beside the Portsmouth Country club. The dead were Geneva Brackett, fourteen, of Sufield, Conn., and Bruce Hoffer fourteen, of Greenland. The pilot, Clyde Robinson of Exeter, was seriously burned.

Detroit, Mich.—Herbert J. Faby, thirty-three, former army flyer and holder of the world's solo endurance record, died at Mercy hospital, Grayling, Mich., from injuries received when his plane struck a stump on the landing field of the Cliff Durant estate, near Roscommon.

His wife, Claire, also a prominent pilot, escaped injury in the crash, because she was in a separate cabin to the rear of the fast ship.

Alvord, Texas.—An airplane crash during a storm five miles northwest of here cost the lives of James H. Kelly, twenty-five, of endurance flight fame, and two companions, Kelly and G. W. Manis, Sr., fifty, an oil operator, both of Fort Worth, Texas, were killed outright, and C. F. Williams, forty-nine, Tonkawa, Okla., died in a Fort Worth hospital.

G. C. Ross, Oklahoma City oil operator, the fourth occupant of the plane, was injured seriously. He suffered a broken right shoulder and lacerations about the head.

With R. L. (Red) Robbins, Kelly set a new world's endurance flight record at Fort Worth in May, 1929, by keeping aloft their monoplane, the Fort Worth, more than 172 hours.

Kelly and his three companions were en route from Oklahoma City to Fort Worth when the plane ran into the storm and crashed from a low altitude.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Albert Roden, twenty-six-year-old amateur aviator of Saukville, Wis., crashed from a height of 200 feet above the Brown Deer flying field here and was killed. A passenger, Harry Wegner, fifteen years old, student of the high school in Grafton, Wis., also was killed.

The figures proposed by J. Clawson Rock, director of the budget, will be spread through more than 200 cities and towns and the District of Columbia.

Actual appropriations for the first of this work are expected in the deficiency bill to come later in the year and the early commencement of some of them will give employment to many thousands in the building trades and allied industries.

NEW AIR MAIL ROUTE IS BLAZED BY LINDY

He Crosses Caribbean Sea in 9 Hours 58 Minutes.

Cristobal, Canal Zone.—With characteristic swiftness Col. Charles A. Lindbergh blazed a new air mail route across the Caribbean sea, linking New York and Buenos Aires in a seven-day mail schedule.

Leaving Havana, Cuba, the flying Col. split the famous Lindbergh Caribbean circle route, striking the Central American mainland at Cape Gracias a Dios, Nicaragua, instead of at Yucatan, on his old route. He landed at France field here, completing his flight of 1,033 miles from Cuba in 9 hours and 58 minutes.

The plane brought 215 pounds of mail, destined for various parts of South America. Post office employees here prepared the mails for the southward journey. Colonel Lindbergh plans to return to the United States the latter part of the week.

L. R. "Einy" Moore, who participated in the United States navy's attempt to fly the Atlantic in 1919, piloted the southbound mail to Talara, Peru. From that point other planes were to relay the mails to various South American republics. It is scheduled to arrive in Buenos Aires Friday.

Under perfect flying conditions, Colonel Lindbergh sailed easily over the long water jump. He carried Basil Rowe as co-pilot and Bert Denick as radio operator. Constant communications were maintained with the radio base of the Pan-American airways at Miami, Fla., and with other stations of the company in Central America.

The rector was convicted of using "defaming and disrespectful language concerning his bishop," but was acquitted of violating a written pledge not to marry a Catholic, given when he was ordained last year, and violating his word to the bishop, H. P. Almon Abbott.

The young rector on January 25 married Catherine Rogers of Baltimore at Elkton city, Md. A Catholic priest officiated.

OHIO GOVERNOR HAS REPORT ON PEN FIRE

Board of Inquiry Submits Findings—320 Dead.

Columbus.—The investigation by the governor's board of inquiry into the recent fire at the Ohio penitentiary here, in which 320 men, prisoners, locked in the cells, met death from fire and suffocation, has been completed, and the report is now being considered by Governor Cooper.

The last of the victims—some half hundred bodies unclaimed—were buried here in one long trench. Other bodies were claimed by relatives and were taken to their former homes for interment.

There still remain in the prison hospital a large number of prisoners who were badly affected by the smoke and many of them seriously burned; it is expected that others will die, while many may be crippled or incapacitated for life.

The object of the board of inquiry chiefly was to ascertain the cause of the fire, alleged to have been from two causes—live wires in a new cell block under construction, or by some of the rebellious convicts.

Many witnesses, among them Warden Preston E. Thomas, A. E. Nice, chief of the Columbus fire department, various prison guards, and numerous prisoners who assisted in saving lives and fighting the fire, were heard by the board.

Prisoners were strong in their claims that Warden Thomas was to blame for the great loss of life, because of lack of fire protection within the prison grounds, and especially the failure of the guards to unlock the tiers of prison cells where the 320 men lost their lives in their cages, their release not being effected for some time after the fire started.

The prisoners have been rioting much of the time since the fire, and have refused to work. An order was issued, backed by a threat of machine gun fire, if the convicts did not return to their work.

An ultimatum demanding that Thomas be removed as warden of the penitentiary came from prisoners.

Further demands from the men who are recovering from the effects of the fire were that a stay be granted to John Richardson, who was under sentence to die last Friday for murder, and that the prison food and tobacco rations be increased.

The prisoners won all, except the warden's dismissal. The execution was held up, and more food and smokes granted.

Steps now are being taken here, at the suggestion of Governor Cooper, to prevent a recurrence of the disaster. It is the governor's plan to appoint a committee of citizens to map out a program of institutional building to meet the housing needs of penal wards, and to enable the governor to submit such recommendation to the next general assembly. Also, it has been decided to transfer the short-term convicts to the London prison farm. The program further calls for the speedy completion of two new cell blocks at the penitentiary as well as rebuilding of the fire-swept G and H houses, in which the recent fire had its beginning.

The penitentiary housed 4,300 convicts, some 2,500 above the capacity for which it was intended, when the fire swept through the upper tiers of the four blocks, spreading death and suffering.

Within several hours the fire had been brought under control, but the suffocating smoke continued to take its toll among the convicts. In adjoining cell blocks men screamed to be released and when the prison officials capitulated to their demands the wide penitentiary yard became a streaming mass of gray-clothed men.

Before two hours had passed this mass of men, picking their way among countless bodies spread over the yard, became a threatening menace. Some of them cut the fire hose which continued to play upon flames that spread to the prison court and wooden mills. Others hurled stones and slugs at the guards that were trying to maintain order. In the dining hall dishes and tables were upset.

Every available policeman in Columbus was summoned for duty both within the prison and on the outside. A sub-machine gun in the guardroom protected the entrance to the prison yard.

Two companies of regular army troops and 1,500 Ohio national guardsmen were stationed at strategic places about the penitentiary. Every guard on both day and night shifts was on duty.

Modified Dutch Colonial Home in Shingles Is an Attractive Design

By W. A. RADFORD

Mr. William A. Radford will answer questions and give advice FREE OF COST on all subjects pertaining to practical home building, for the readers of this paper. On account of his wide experience as editor, author and manufacturer, he is, without doubt, the highest authority on all these subjects. Address all inquiries to William A. Radford, No. 497 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill., and only inclose two-cent stamp for reply.

One reason for the popularity of the Dutch colonial type of architecture is that it gives an attractive exterior with very little, if any, waste of inside space. The roof lines are broken by dormers which extend the length of the building on both front and back.

so that the house appears small but is in reality a two-story home.

While the shingled home shown in the accompanying illustration has the appearance of a Dutch colonial, it will be noted by the floor plan that it is slightly different. In the true Dutch colonial the living room usually runs at one end through the depth of the house; the entrance door is in the center and the dining room and kitchen

Advice on Selecting Plumbing Fixtures

Are you planning to build this spring? Here are a few points about the selection of your plumbing fixtures that may be of interest to you.

Of course you will want color in your bathroom. The modern bathroom is distinguished from its old-fashioned predecessor as much by the quietness and efficiency of its fixtures as by color.

You should buy a high-grade toilet that will be quiet and positive in its operation. There are three types of toilets made by nearly all manufacturers: The wash-down, the reverse trap, and the siphon jet.

The latter is the "Rolls-Royce" of toilets. It is the last word in smoothness of operation. Of course, it costs more than the others, but the home owner gets all he pays for. Such a toilet has a larger water seal, it is built low, it has better lines, and it will give trouble-free operation for practically the life of the house.

Now as to the lavatory. The pedestal type of lavatory will be specified by the thoughtful owner who has in mind the resale value of his house ten years from now. Two legs rather than one solid pedestal are desirable.

The home owner can have a lavatory of enameled iron or he may buy one made of vitreous china. If an enameled iron lavatory is purchased it is advisable to pay the additional cost and buy one with an acid-resisting enamel.

Many people prefer lavatories made of vitreous china. They are easier to keep clean, they will not chip or stain, and they will retain their luster indefinitely.

The type of faucet is optional on all lavatories. It is advisable to select the mixing type so that the water may be tempered.

Bathtubs in various styles, widths, and lengths are on the market. The one positive thing that may be said with reference to tubs is that the tub on legs is not the thing to put into a new house. It is still made, but it

Painted Floors Help Beautify the Home

Too often floors are considered simply as a resting place for furnishings rather than as a part of the decorative scheme. They can add much to the gaiety and charm of any room.

For bedrooms, sun parlors or the informal breakfast room painted floors are particularly good. Pick out the charm of a bedroom with a floor of soft green, blending with dainty green furniture and mottled walls with a touch of the same shade, or a sun parlor in yellow.

en on the opposite side. In this design the standard colonial door is at one end and leads into the living room which is the length of the house rather than the depth.

The floor plan which accompanies the exterior view of the house shows the arrangement of the house and the house contains and the living room is 23 feet long and 6 inches wide. At one corner the stairs to the second floor. The second floor is the dining room 11 feet square, and to the right is the kitchen, 7 feet 6 inches by 6 inches. A fire feature in this home is a sun room 13 feet by 7 feet 6 inches with most continuous windows making light, airy sitting room. It is connected with the living room by an opening, and there is a doorway from the dining room.

The stairs lead to a central hall the second floor off of which are two bedrooms. The one at the end is unusually large and the other is of convenient size.

is ugly and makes the business of cleaning much harder.

A showerbath should, if possible, be installed either over the toilet in a separate compartment, or be equipped with a special drain mixer which enables the bathwater to be kept at a temperature by only one valve. Standing water should not pass through such a mixer. Failure of the cold water supply, or a stantly cuts off the delivery of the newest things in showerbath type which cleans itself by a simple twist of a lever.

Plenty of towel bars of the equal to the fixtures should be put into the new bathroom. Make otherwise handsome bathroom as been spoiled by inferior towel bars.

Years ago the idea of a pedestal in a small space as possible. The tendency not only is toward better located bathrooms, but also toward better ventilation, and exposure should be given consideration in selection of the space saving bathroom. Years ago one would somewhat grudgingly allow a bathroom. Today two or more bathrooms are provided in order to get plenty of sunlight and ventilation. This important room.

Wise Economy

Look about and see that the small salaries we own that others have told us that it is possible to square out a home a month to apply to their own something to show for the money.

Paint Your Own Modernistic furniture purchased at most furniture stores painted, to be decorated by chaser as he sees fit or painted considerably less than the product and has the added advantage of allowing the home owner to suit his own taste.

Home Only as Good as Roof, Expert Declares

"No foot, no horse" is an old saying. "No roof, no home," applies with equally as much force. A house is only as good as its roof. It must be protected substantially if the home's full protective purpose and assurance of comfort are to be realized.

Your roof, like the bow of a vessel, must stem the tide of the elements. It pushes upward against the oncoming stream of destructive winds. Heat and cold, rain, snow and ice are forever splitting their way through the roof.

The roof is a great protection to your home and your family. Its protective duty only is not of its endurance. It can be made to last that. A washing machine is expected to do a woman's work if you put on a roof that will stand in rain, snow and wind—your home never weaken in the face of a storm cannot expect the work to stand.

If the natural standing water does not there, though your roof is not there, your roof will lose its protective duty. In money outlay that an expert would have cost at the time.

Accurate Spacing Means More Potatoes to the Acre

From Bulletin No. 1188, United States Department of Agriculture—"It is significant that the yield of potatoes is less, and the cost of production greater on farms where planting is done by hand than on those planting by machine. The increased yield comes from planting sufficient seed and spacing it uniformly. That is why increased yields follow the use of McCormick-Deering potato planters—they space accurately. The open seed chamber enables the operator to see the pickers and know that the seed is reaching the soil on time. McCormick-Deering potato planters can be supplied either with or without fertilizer attachment. We want to show you one of these up-to-date planters.

COUNTY HAS FIVE TROOPS IN BADGER BOY SCOUT COUNCIL

The Badger Boy Scout council, which includes organizations from three counties, now has 26 active troops, according to E. C. Swartout, Scout executive. The troops which have recently been chartered are Troop 2, Reeseville, with William Rand as Scoutmaster; Troop 7 of Barton with F. H. Kircher as Scoutmaster; Troop 12 of Fond du Lac with A. H. Seibel as Scoutmaster, and Troop 15 of Horicon with H. P. Vilvoek as Scoutmaster. It is expected that another new troop will soon be started at Hartford, another at Beaver Dam and at least three in Fond du Lac.

Other troops listed in the Badger council are: One at Taycheedah, one at Horicon, one at Waupun, one at Kewaskum, two at Mayville, one at Hartford, two at West Bend, three at Beaver Dam, one at Theresa, one at Juneau, one at Randolph, and three at Ripon. During the past year interest in the work has increased to such an extent and the demand for Scout awards have become so numerous that it has been necessary to hold court of honor meetings every month. These meetings have taken on added importance in the minds of the boys because with them each month some special feature has been presented.

FARM LABOR SUPPLY IN WISCONSIN ON INCREASE

Farm labor supply in Wisconsin is greater now compared to normal than it was in January. Present supply is 105 per cent of normal and is being met by a demand of 88 per cent of normal. Demand this month is up one point as compared to that of January, announces the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States departments of agriculture at Madison.

Wage rates per month with board was $44.00 as of April first compared to $33.75 in January. This increase is less than the seasonal increase of the last two years, it being a jump of 17 per cent in wages per month with board from January to April. This increase was 20 per cent last year as compared to 23 per cent in 1928. In 1927 the seasonal increase was the same as for this year.

The average monthly farm wage with board in April 1930 is $4.00 less than in April of last year, $2.75 below 1928 and $3.50 under 1927. Average monthly wage without board is $62.25 this month, while daily farm wages are $2.15 with board and $2.85 without board. These figures are state averages and considerable variation may be found in different localities.

Old Crops Often Found Disguised

New and Fancy Names Give Impression of Discovery of Value.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Every now and then some old but little-known name gets considerable notice in stories and advertisements in the press. Many people get the impression that by some magic power a new crop has been discovered which has all the good qualities and none of the short comings of the crops commonly grown.

To some extent this is the situation which now exists regarding proso or "hershey," says Dr. John H. Martin, cereal specialist of the United States Department of Agriculture. Proso is not a new crop. It was introduced into the United States during the early colonial period, and has been listed in the catalogues of leading seed dealers for many years. Neither is it a "magic" crop, but it has both good points and bad points.

Called "Hershey."

Hog millet, broomcorn millet, Early Fortune millet, and Manitoba millet are the names by which the crop is best known, says Doctor Martin, but it usually is called "hershey" in northern Colorado and the adjacent sections of Kansas and Nebraska.

Proso is grown mostly in the Dakotas and in northeastern Colorado, but is found occasionally on farms in many other states. It is best adapted for growing as a late-sown catch crop in the northern great plain states. Even there it usually does not yield as well as other grains sown at the proper time, but can be sown later than other spring grains. Proso usually is sown on land which was not prepared in time for other crops or on which some other crop has been destroyed. It matures within 60 to 85 days from seeding.

Not Satisfactory.

Proso is not as satisfactory a hay crop for late seeding as Sudan grass and the foxtail millets, adds Doctor Martin. In the southern plains where grain sorghums yield well or in the northeast where buckwheat is adapted, these crops produce more grain from late seeding than will proso.

Seed of this crop is an ingredient of most mixed bird feeds, many chick feeds, and some scratch feeds. It is a satisfactory feed for poultry, hogs, and sheep, and can be fed also to horses and cattle. Proso has been found to be practically equal in feeding value to corn and barley when fed to pigs or lambs.

Vitamin E Is Essential for Breeding Animals

For many years chemists have known that some substance in the germ of corn and wheat vitally affected the growth and development of animals. Just recently the discoveries of Herbert W. Evans and George O. Burr, published in the proceedings of the National Academy of Science, gave official recognition of this substance as a vitamin.

It is called vitamin E. It is found abundantly in nature; its chief source being in the seeds and green leaves of certain plants as well as in some of the glands of animals, as for instance the liver.

This vitamin has a great deal to do with the reproductive ability of animals. Some authorities claim that it is solely responsible for the very existence of living organisms. Researches indicate that animals, either male or female, that are deprived entirely of foods containing vitamin E appear to be absolutely incapable of reproduction.

Spraying Potatoes Is Profitable Practice

Surveys by the Pennsylvania Potato Grower's association show that a man cannot afford to raise spuds unless he sprays often and carefully.

A number of growers of long experience averaged 350 bushels for spraying an average of 12.6 times, while plots treated otherwise the same, except that they were unsprayed, yielded only 241 bushels. Careful spraying gave an increase of 61.4 per cent, a difference which will always boost the net income.

Water Is Essential for Good Health of Trees

Trees need enormous quantities of water to keep them in a healthy condition, says the United States Department of Agriculture. An apple tree thirty years old gives off approximately a barrel of water a day in summer, and a good-sized birch tree gives off nearly two barrels of water on a hot day. A single oak tree is known to have given off into the air in the form of vapor more than 100 tons of water in a single growing season.

Agricultural Notes

The safest insurance for the dairy cattle breeder is the use of a proved sire; the element of risk is reduced to the minimum when proved sires are used in breeding programs.

The value of the milk produced in the United States in a year is equal to the entire national gold reserve, which is four times greater than that of any other country in the world.

Particular care must be exercised at this time of year to insure the herd sire not being neglected. Allowing him to run with the herd during the hot season is an especially bad practice.

The barn should be provided with a system of ventilation, so there may be an intake of fresh air without causing a draft on the cows. There should be four square feet of window surface per cow.

Barrows on Feed Test Gain Most

Hogs Under Almost Every Known System Were Used in Trial.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Hog farmers in the future will do well to give special attention to the male hogs on their farms. Feeding tests recently completed by the United States Department of Agriculture show that barrows make better gains than sows when all get the same kind of feed and attention.

In eight years of comparative feeding tests, 5,633 hogs were studied. Of this number 3,018 were barrows and 2,615 were sows. The barrows out-gained the sows by 5.43 per cent, according to E. Z. Russell, of the bureau of animal industry, who was in charge of the tests.

Study on Hogs.

The study was made on hogs in various experiments conducted in practically all parts of the country, under a wide range of climatic conditions and during nearly every month in the year. It included pure breeds of all of the popular breeds used in this country, both bacon type and lard type, as well as a number of crossbreeds between some of these and grades of unknown breeding.

"Hogs under almost every known system of management were used," according to Mr. Russell. "The results included dry-lot feeding, also hogs on pasture supplemented with limited rations. In some of the experiments a limited ration of barley was fed, followed by a full feeding of corn; in others this ration was reversed.

"In some of the experiments the hogs were full fed from weaning to a weight of about 200 pounds. In others the hogs were started on full feed at weights as high as 150 pounds and carried along to 500 pounds or more.

Practically all known hog feeds including peanuts and soybeans, were used and the resulting carcasses graded in fineness all the way from oily to hard.

"The hogs studied were from sows ranging in ages from twelve months to over seven years and by boars within the same age limits. Most of the pigs had been farrowed in March, April, May, September, and October, although a few were farrowed in every other month of the year. Some were from sows farrowing but one litter a year, others from sows farrowing two litters."

Flies Cause Dairyman Trouble During Summer

Flies probably cause the average dairyman as much trouble and aggravation as any other problem during the summer months. If one were to determine the number of flies that could be hatched from just one pair of flies during the summer, the figures would cover an entire page of paper.

The first step in keeping down the number of flies is to keep all of the manure hauled out. A pile of barnyard manure is the favorite breeding place for flies.

Darkening the stables will help to make the dairy cows more comfortable, as this will lessen the number of flies in the barns. Painting the windows with alabastine blue is recommended, as this is easily washed off.

Some men also adopt the practice of hanging a blanket or sack over the top part of the door, so that the cows will rub a good many of the flies off their backs as they come into the barns. All of these different practices, as well as the use of good fly sprays, are to be recommended in order to keep the loss and bother from flies down to a minimum.

CLEANLINESS QUITE ESSENTIAL TO HEALTH OF CHICKEN FLOCK

Birds Will Not Thrive if Not Healthy.

Everybody feels proud of their young chickens if they continue to grow satisfactorily. Chickens will not grow at a good rate of speed unless they are healthy. When chickens get droopy, only partially feather out, and become stunted, they are no longer a source of pride, and probably will not be a source of profit.

Clean chickens, clean ground, clean houses, clean feed and clean watering vessels are all essential in the production of healthy chickens. Clean chicks are necessary to start the program. Chicks that are from weak or diseased stock will not have the vitality or freedom from disease that is necessary for best results.

It is impossible to keep the best chicks healthy unless they are raised under clean conditions. Clean ground means freedom from disease germs and worm eggs. Clean houses, feeds and watering utensils aid in preventing the spread of any diseases that may have gained entrance into the flock of chicks, as well as providing the sanitation that is necessary for health.

If it is possible, move the young pullets out on good range where they will remain separated from the remainder of the flock during the summer months. This will not only allow them to grow under better feed conditions, but will also keep them away from contamination of different diseases and parasites. Prevention of which cleanliness is the most important factor, is greatly aided by the use of a high-test fly solution in scrubbing.

Sudan Grass Excellent Emergency Cow Pasture

That sudan grass should make an excellent emergency pasture for dairy cows is the principal conclusion indicated thus far by a five-year experiment on the carrying capacities of three pasture crops at the South Dakota State College experiment station, according to a statement recently by Thomas M. Olson, head of the dairy department. The investigation, now in its third year, is also attempting to solve the cause of heat when cows are pastured on alfalfa and sweet clover, the two other pasture crops included in the experiment.

A striking result of pasturing sudan grass came recently when seven cows that had been fed on a rich test ration for several weeks were turned into the sudan pasture and immediately increased their production. Professor Olson pointed out. The test ration on which the cows had been fed consisted of a mixture of several different grains, plus beet pulp, silage, and alfalfa. The only supplement to the sudan grass now making up their ration is a combination feed consisting of 50 per cent each of oats and corn by weight and fed according to the individual production of each animal, the Jerseys and the Guernseys getting one pound of the mixture to six pounds of milk produced, and the Holsteins and Ayrshires one pound to seven pounds of milk.

Hardwood Ashes Quite Valuable Fertilizer

Gardeners frequently ask if coal and wood ashes make good fertilizer for garden soils. According to the United States Department of Agriculture, wood ashes from hardwoods contain considerable potash and a little lime, and are a valuable fertilizer. Fairly dry unbleached hardwood ashes may be applied at the rate of not more than 50 pounds to 1,500 square feet. Wood ashes from softwoods, and hardwood ashes that have been exposed to the weather and have had the potash leached from them, have little fertilizer value. Coal ashes have little value as fertilizer, their use being mainly to loosen the soil and make it more workable. On heavy clay soils coal ashes tend to lighten the soil.

Seed Worn Cultivated Soil in Early Spring

The best time for seeding worn, cultivated land to grass is during the late winter or early spring. Since the land has been in corn or some other cultivated crop, the ridges should first be disked down.

A thin coating of manure should be spread over the surface. If the manure is spread by hand the grass seed should be sown ahead of it, but if the manure spreader is used the seed may be scattered over the manure before it is spread.

Use for Hydrated Lime

Several beneficial functions in reducing calyx injury to apples may be performed by hydrated lime when combined in excess amount with arsenical sprays. The lime neutralizes such acids as may be liberated by the apple itself, as well as any water, soluble arsenic acid or other forms of soluble arsenic. It changes the surface tension of water, making evaporation more rapid if the fruit becomes wet.

Agricultural Squibs

Always feed calves milk that is the same temperature from one feeding to another.

Straw from soy beans is valuable as roughage for wintering dry dairy cows and beef cattle. It is also a good roughage for sheep.

Fertilizer attachments for horse-drawn and tractor planters give promise of being the accepted means of distribution for corn growing.

Contamination can be materially reduced by rinsing all of the milk utensils in a good chemical disinfectant solution immediately before they are used.

Providing ample drainage for the yards where the birds range and clean deep litter in the house so that the birds can have their feet clean before they go on the nests will help to eliminate the cause of dirty eggs.

Just a few words to let you know, that we purchased 2000 White Leghorn chicks from Schwartz Poultry Farm, Lomira, Wis., just 5 weeks ago. We have fed them on your International Health Chick Mash, as recommended by your local dealer and salesman. The Lomira Co-op. Those chicks are now past five weeks old, and consumed only a little over 1 ton of your mash, and have not fed an ounce of other feed in connection. Our chicks are the finest in this community, lost only about 4% and the balance are the most uniform lot of chicks around Tomah. I now admit that 3 lbs. International Chick Mash will grow a Leghorn to eight weeks old with wonderful results.

Sincerely yours,
FRED VOIGT

International Sugar Feed Co., Minneapolis, Minn.
Dear Sir:

Just a few words to let you know that feeding of baby chicks on International Health Chick Mash is a pleasure. We have placed 1000 chicks under our brooders now exactly eight weeks ago. We lost just 94 chicks out of the lot and have sold 600 broilers at just eight weeks old that averaged just two lbs. We call this wonderful growth, and our chicks all developed into the lot and have sold 600 broilers at just eight weeks old that averaged just good results.

Sincerely yours,
ALYS LECHER, R. 1, Fort Washington, Wis.

So 'tis betwixt faith and works." —John Seiden.

"Vel": I never realized there was so much difference between O'Neil's and ordinary gasoline.

"Vel": Is that so. Well, if you don't like me. I can find somebody else who doesn't use gasoline for perfume. I can go out with anybody I please.

"Gas": Sure you can, baby. That's a safe bet. You will never please anybody.
