PIONEERS CALLED IN FINAL SLEEP

DEATH OF MRS. HERMAN SEE. FELD

Mrs. Herman Seefeld, (nee Emma Ramthun), an esteemed resident of the town of Kewaskum, answered the final roll call, when the angel of death called her away from her family circle at her home on Tuesday at 7:15 a. m., November 18, 1930. Cause of death being a stroke of paralysis, which she suffered Sunday night at one o'clock. Deceased had been in ill health for some time, but was not confined to her bed until two days prior to her death. She was born May 6, 1870 in the town of Kewaskum where she spent practically all of her life. On December 14, 1890, she was married to Herman Seefeld. The couple made their home on a farm where she resided up to the time of her death. Eight children were born of this union, four of whom died in infancy. Those together with their father who survive are: Ella (Mrs. Edwin Klumb) of the town of Barton, Alma (Mrs. Arnold Klug) of the town of Kewaskum and Arthur and Amelia at home. She also leaves to mourn, two grand children, three brothers and one sister, namely: Fred Ramthun of the town of Kewaskum, cial Depart- I'enry Ramthun of here. COUNTY ASYLUM HAS_GOOD YEAR

In their report to the County Board the trustees of the county institutions say that, as far as they know, the past year was the best in the history of the asylum, viewed from a financial standpoint. They lay stress on the fact that they do not ask for any appropriation and did not receive any board money for the care of insane from this county. Although about £2,000 were spent in improvements, there is still a balance of $3,666.65 on hand. During the year the electric wiring in all the buildings was inspected and all faulty fixtures and fittings were replaced by new ones, a number of fire extinguishers were added, and an 8-inch water pipe was laid into the back yard, all of this to serve as additional fire protection.

During the past year more money than ever before was spent for recrea-The home talent play, "That's One tion and entertainment of the inmates, and they were fed fully as well as ev-

Each member of the cast tients who could pay for the care received, amounted to $45,014.82.

The cost of the care for the inmates, maintenance and the proportion of administration expenses totaled $38,-177.93. This brings the per capita cost per week to $4.81, or the per capita cost per week to $3.35/

The barn, farm and garden yielded a net profit of $4,147.9€, after deducting all expenses, including interest on the properties.

The asylum had 152 inmates, 86 men and 66 women, at the beginning of the year and 148 at the end, June 30. Eleven died. The county home had 35 inmates, 29 men and 6 women, at the beginning of the year, and 34 at the end. Ten died during the year. The per capita cost per week at the county home was $7.40.

In his report the visiting physician, Dr. W. J. Wehle, makes the noteworthy suggestion to install a radio at the county home. While the asylum has a phonograph and a radio, the county home has only a phonograph. In supporting his suggestion, he says, quite plausibly, that the inmates of the county home are all old and most of them have eyes too poor to read with. Wisconsin's 1931 all-state fair will begin on Saturday, August 2:, and extend through the following Friday, September 4, according to an announcement just made by Manager Partz are residents of Milwaukee .- Ralph E. Ammon. The change in dates of the fair is made in response to requests from Milwaukee laboring men that they be given an opportunity to visit the big exposition over the week-end.

New plans call for a complete setup and finished fair to open Saturday, with grand stand performances afternoon and evening, Mr. Ammon says. The week-end patrons will thus be able to see the entire fair. It is estimated that Saturday and Sunday crowds this last year were more than 50,000, but because the fair was not scheduled to open until Monday, many of the visitors were unable to see the Arrangements are at present under way to add a sacred concert to the Sunday afternoon performances before the grand stand.

MAYVHLE LOOKS AT THE BRIGHT SIDE

Mayville is comparatively fortunate during this period of depression. The Wisconsin Radiator Furniture company has more business now than ever before; the Peerless Traveling Goods company is working at capacity; the shoe factory provided fairly steady work until this week, when a short layoff was ordered. style details are featured in this arresting costume. There is first of ali the youthful bolero effect. This modernized version sort of compromises between a bolero-proper and a short jacket with a one-side diagonal front fastening.

About the first impression one gets of this chic dress is "cuffs," for that is the way of cuffs this season to be conspicuous because of their novelty and their extreme "lines."

For Afternoon Wear. "Every inch a lady" does she look, the debutante of season 1930-31, clad in a velvet gown of exquisite simplicity such as fashion bids her wear, as she makes her rounds of formal calls, attends afternoon musicale and art reception, or when she teas at five at some fashionable sleeve as styled for the dress pictured is typical of the new vogue. Somewhat less formal but equally as modish is the model to the left. It really has quite a tailored appear ance, as so many of the chic velvet afternoon frocks are wont to have this season. In accomplishing its graceful silhouette it has needs undergone an infinite amount of intricate seaming involving a side panel which develops into a draped girdle which ties into an effective bow at one side.

A most distinctive feature of this gown is its seed-pearl beaded neckline, thus lace as trimming for the afternoon (evening also, for that matter) frock has a rival. It is a very flattering fashion, this of enhancing velvet with colorful, if not white.

The work of recovering the vessel is difficult, but the hull itself is so well preserved that it may be possible to reconstruct the ship with its arms ment and rigging fairly complete.

Lonely Life Savers

A lonely vigil is kept by coast guard and lighthouse crews at Big Sable point north of Ludington, Mich. They live in complete isolation the year round. Finding of coins and other antiques by different members of the crew indicates that the point was visited by early explorers. Three years ago a big canoe was unearthed but was washed away before crews could rescue it. Recently Albert Howard, in charge of the coast guard station, found an ancient Spanish coin in the sands near the beach. It bore the date of 1731, and was picked up only ten miles south of the point where Pere Marquette died on May 18, 1675.

It was on the night of October 2 that a strange thing happened. A great storm had come up from the northwest, blowing in a huge wall of water from the German ocean. The fleet of Admiral Boisot had advanced to the last great barrier held by the Spaniards, Fort Lammen, and was awaiting a last sharp encounter in the morning. The Spaniards, thus hemmed in between the city, the sea and the oncoming fleet, began to think themselves in danger.

Suddenly, during the night, there was a hideous crash—a sound so terrifying that the poor citizens of Leyden thought that now at last the Spanjards had broken in and would butcher them all! The Spanish, on their part, were sure the Leydenese had broken out and were making a last desperate sortie. Flight, they were convinced, was the only hope of safety.

So it came to pass that in the storm and darkness, over the only remaining causeway leading to The Hague, the Spanish army silently took its ignominious departure.

The curious thing about it all was that this horrible sound which had alarmed both contending parties equally was caused by the falling in of a part of the city wall for the space of nearly a quarter of a mile. Not to this day is it definitely known just why it happened. Probably it had been undermined by the incoming water, but at any rate, had the Spaniards only known it, they could have entered the defenseless city without Singularly enough, the only soul in or about the city of Leyden who happened to witness the flight of the Spaniards that night was a little boy, Gysbert Cornellisen by name. He saw the long procession of lights flitting over the causeway, guessed at the retreat of the Spanish, and when all was silent and dark again, made his way to the headquarters of General Valdez. Here he found all deserted, but in such a hurry had they been that an iron pot filled with "hodgepodge" (stewing meat and vegetables) was still cooking over the camp fire.

At dawn the next morning Boisot's fleet prepared for the attack, but what

There was rejoicing in the city that day. The famished populace, with the crew of the conquering fleet, repaired at once to the cathedral of St. Peter's and there went up such prayers of thankfulness as only a miraculously delivered city could render. In the midst of singing the great battle hymn, voice after voice broke down till the whole congregation wept in the intensity of its emotion.

From that day to this Thanksgiving has been celebrated in Leyden on October 3, and the crowning dish of the feast is the hodge-podge, eaten in memory of the great relief.

But this is not all. More than 30 years later, when the Netherlands was at last a free and peaceful country, there went to Leyden a band of Puritans who had left England to seek a more congenial spot. In that city they lived for a number of years, sharing the hospitality of the Dutch and joining with them in their feasts and holiday customs. Many a time did they eat hodge-podge on October 3.

When at last, in 1620, they left the kindly city and sailed for their desti- But some will do so for fifteen or nation in the New world, they doubt- even twenty days. In the succeeding years they found that they had their own causes for thankfulness, and in celebrating this New world festival they deemed it expedient to substitute roast turkey and pumpkin pie in place of the historic hodge-podge of Leyden.

SHEAF OF THANKS

Every day we take our joys and blessings more or less unthankingly. On Thanksgiving day we harvest our crop and bundle them up in one big beautiful sheaf, bound together with a cord of prayer; there are thanks for peace and safety; for life and health and home; for things that are, and things that are not, for things material and things spiritual; all are in the great lovely sheaf that is offered to the harvest of the Supreme Giver on Thanks-

BANANA DESSERTS

The banana is one of our most popular and well liked fruits, one we can always find in our markets and it deserves a chapter all for itself. Banana Bavarois .-Scald one cupful of milk in a double boiler. Stir in two teaspoonfuls of gelatin previously soaked in two tablespoonfuls of cold water. Add one cupful of sugar and when cold and it commences to set stir in one cupful of banana pulp and one cupful of whipped cream. Pour into a mold and place on ice to set. Serve with:

Mousseline Sauce .- Bring one cupful of milk to a boil, add one-half cupful of sugar, one teaspoonful of flavoring, mix well, set aside to cool, then add one-half cupful of whipped

Banana and Coconut Dessert .- Cut four bananas each into four pieces, place in a buttered pan and sprinkle with three teaspoonfuls of lemon juice. Beat an egg white until stiff, add three tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar. Add one-half cupful of shredded coconut, put a tablespoonful of this meringue on each section of banana. Bake until brown. Serve with whipped cream. Banana Bread Pudding .- Take three slices of bread or three rolls, break into small pieces. Pour over this two cupfuls of milk, one-half cupful of sugar, four bananas sliced, stir in lightly two beaten egg whites and bake for half an hour. Serve hot with a sauce using the two egg yolks beaten well, one-fourth of a cupful of sugar and a cupful of boiling milk; stir and flavor, then serve hot. A little lemon juice and rind may be used for the flavoring.

Banana Fluff .- Cut one-half pound of fresh marshmallows into small pieces. Whip one cupful of heavy cream, add one teaspoonful of vanilla, one-half cupful of sugar, a bit of salt, stir in the marshmallows, one cupful of broken nutmeats (less may be used), and one cupful of banana pulp finely mashed. Serve with crushed strawberries, or over ice cream of any

Bedouins Prize Camel Above All Possessions

A camel is considered worth more than a wife to Bedouins. Their incomes, sometimes their lives, depend upon their camels. A camel which can travel without food or water for ten or twelve days is valuable indeed less took with them the memory of these prized beasts are the finest that money can buy. A man who has four or five camels is considered well-to-do. One who has fifty is considered wealthy. He has many servants, and lives on the income of his camels.

The rivalry between chieftains who have 500 or 600 camels is just as intense as it often was among the cattle barons of the West. Sometimes one of the shieks will hire Bedouin bandits to steal another's camels and start a feud that lasts for years. Camels eat a thorny weed called gavan. The weed is so dry that it is used to start fires. The root is filled with a resinous fluid that yields almost pure glue. Some of the best glue in the world is made from it.

Mexico Stirs Interest

The Mexican department of educaion has announced that boy scouts have discovered a new archeological zone in the wilds of the state of Guerrero. Among the figures discovered is a large stone sphinx bearing a marked resemblance to that in Egypt. Government archeologists have left to study the zone, which according to the discoverers' preliminary reports, probably includes an entire buried city. A number of hills in the zone are believed to cover pyramids On the summit of one of them there is a huge globular stone covered with of the West-marvelous climate-warm sunny hieroglyphics. The department communique said that there was n known record of the zone, which i was believed had never been seen be fore-by a white man. Thanksgiving The lines are fallen unto me in pleasant places; yea, I have a goodly heritage

We give thanks, O Lord, for the pleasant places, the goodly heritage. We are the heir to all the ages. Other men have labored and we enter into their labors. All the resources of industry, of science, of art, of literature, are at our command. We give thanks for the opportunities that thus have come to us; the opportunities to have happy homes illumined with friendship and love, suffused with the myriad sides of culture; the opportunities to do useful work, to contribute our part to the complex fabric of civilization, to serve the present age. We give thanks for the great adventure of living, with all its risks of joy and sorrow. If happiness be our portion, may we accept it with joyous hearts; if sorrow, may we find strength to fulfill our obligation with courage, knowing that, in so doing, happiness will break through.

as squirrel hunters invaded a farm home near Mount Zion, killing Patrick Gorman, 65, and his son, Paul, 18, and wounding Stevens and Cornelius Horrigan. The slavers, three men and a woman, escaped in an easterly direction in a small automobile. The Horrigan brothers live with a sister as housekeeper near the east line of Crawford county and are reputed to be wealthy. Reports said the robbers obtained nothing at the farm. Authorities here were of the opinion that the attempted holdup was prompted by belief that a considerable amount of noney was in the possession of the Horrigans at their farm home. Patrick Gorman and his son, Paul, who came to Wisconsin a week ago fror Huron, S. D., were visiting the Horrigans at the time of the holdup.

EXTRA SESSION NOT ON SENATE PROGRAM

Both Sides Promise Aid to Speed Up Legislation.

Washington .- President Hoover has received a pledge of aid from Republican and Democratic leaders of the senate in avoiding an extra session of the new congress, the White House revealed.

This co-operation in passing the government supply bills without delay was promised by Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican leader, and Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic leader.

While there were some protests against this "harmony" program from Democrats, the pledge to the President was expected to prove enough to prevent an extra session.

The White House statement fol-

"The President has been in communication with the floor leaders of the Republican and Democratic sides of the senate with a view to securing co-operation for the prompt passage of the appropriation bills through the senate at the forthcoming session.

"Both leaders have expressed their desire and full co-operation to accomplish this. The fear and apprehension which have been expressed over reports that delay or fillibuster would be resorted to to force an extra session of the congress have therefore no foundation."

Co-operation between the leaders of the two major parties in giving a pledge of this kind to the President narked a new departure in congressional politics. The "harmony plan" had its inception immediately following the recent elections when seven prominent Democrats issued a statement promising that there would be no "rocking the boat by the Demo-

President Hoover immediately accepted this at its face value and wrote Senator Robinson asking his help in avoiding an extra session.

The Democrats apparently have no desire for a special session next spring, even if they are able to organize the next house. They insist, however, upon having their own legislative program when the new congress meets.

$100,000 Football Funds to Help the Unemployed

Chicago.-Northwestern university has answered the plea for charity football by offering an immediate advance of $100,000 to the Illinois state unemployment commission providing certain requests were granted for the Notre Dame-Northwestern game in

Dawes Urges $18,000,000 for the Waterway Fund

Washington,-William R. Dawes of Chicago, president of the Mississippi Valley association, has asked an increase of $18,000,000 in waterway appropriation for next year as a means of speeding up the work and at the same time relieving unemployment. The current appropriations, he said, including a $12,000,000 deficiency fund, aggregate $67,000,000 The rivers and harbors act last year added new projects and increased funds will be needed, Mr. Dawes pointed out.

MANY DEAD, INJURED IN AN EARTH SLIDE

Nuns, Policemen and Firemen Among Victims.

Lyon, France.-Scores of persons are dead and injured as the result of a series of disastrous landslides which demolished dozens of homes and buildings in the densely populated St. Jean district of Fouvieres, a suburb of Lyon, one of France's largest and most important industrial Among the dead were nineteen firemen and seven policemen who were caught by a second slide after the first avalanche had torn its path of destruction down the hillside on which St. Jean nestles. The first slide was caused by the unexplained collapse of a wall of the St. Jean hospital, situated almost at the summit of the hill. Other slides occurred, halting rescue work and causing additional death. The convent of Notre Dame De

Simon, a large apartment house and two blocks of old homes, each housng several families, were destroyed by the avalanche. Among the victims were nuns who were sleeping in the convent when the hurtling earth brought the structure down about their heads. As the electricity supply was cut off by the first slide, rescuers worked by flickering torchlight, laboring bravely in the face of death from new landslides in an effort to rescue scores of injured who were trapped in the shambles of their homes. Heavy rains are believed to have veakened the earth at the top of the hill, enabling the falling hospital wall to start tons of dirt and masonry on their downward path of destruction. In the space of a moment, the avalanche became a demolishing machine of destruction fifty yards wide and

200 yards long. Houses and buildings caught in the path of the slide were crushed like papier mache.

political theories, for the first time apparently realizable, took him into the Bolshevist camp. Among the bluntest, roughest and rudest of these new dogs of war, was a man in a peasant's smock. He was Tovarisch Vilinsky, who, somewhat ahead of his order, we have seen inspecting the house of Krassin-and its occupants.

For an hour or more the group remained in session. Clerks took down memoranda. Papers were sent for. Dossiers were examined. Stenographers took notes. Frowning through his bushy brows, Commissar Vilinsky, after the routine matters before the meeting had been disposed of, suddenly made the point that the people's interests would be more efficiently served if Commissar Loris should remove his headquarters from his railway car to the palace. Commissar Loris, in a consultation with the pale student-a consultation that he suddenly made more earnest-seemed to fail to hear.

"Tovarisch Loris," said Vilinsky, "I am discussing a matter in which I think you may be interested." "I was engaged," said Loris; "what is the matter to which you refer?" "I was making the point, Tovarisch Loris," he repeated, "that it would be better if you were to transfer your headquarters to the center of our government, this palace. The people's interests, it seems to me, would be better served."

To call each other "Tovarisch" was almost obligatory. "Tovarisch" means "friend," and is the verbal badge of the Russian revolution, as "citizen" was of the French.

"There is something in what you say," replied Loris. "I am considering it. Tovarisch Vilinsky"

"It would be more convenient, Tovarisch Loris," continued Vilinsky, "for other members of the govern-

"But there are advantages also," said Loris, "in my remaining where the people whom we serve have learned to find me. It should be, should it not. a question purely of the thing which is best for the people?" There was a sense of antagonism in the air. At Loris' statement the pale student nodded assent. The others seemed non-committal, Vilinsky passed, as if to avoid the issue, to the overcrowded state of the city, and the urgent need of more housing "These bourgeoisie," he shouted, striking the table with his fist and growing red in the face, "even under the dictatorship of the proletariat, still crowd the proletariat into the street! The parasites! While they sleep on beds of down, we lie on the stones of the pavement!"

"I thought Tovarisch Vilinsky was better housed," said Loris sympathetically.

A smile went round. Every one there knew of the entire floor of the chief hotel of the city which Vilinsky had commandeered for himself and his immediate retainers.

"You know what I mean, Tovarisch | riculum." Loris," he cried. "The people sleep on stones! This must not be!"

"You are quite right," replied Loris. "We." with a slight emphasis on the pronoun, "have a right to protest against the necessity of sleeping on stones. The bourgeoisie are increasing every day by hundreds. They come by boat, by rail, by vehicle, and on foot, because of the horrible living conditions in Moscow, Petrograd and other cities; and because for many of them, this is the old seat of their families. They claim to be crowded,

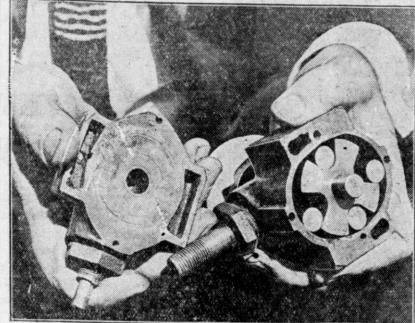

"And you," said Vilinsky ingratiatingly, "see in their crowding a reason for not disturbing them?"

"Allow me to finish my statement Tovarisch Vilinsky," said Loris. "They claim to be crowded; but their standards of crowding are not those of the proletariat. They have much room to spare. If we do not find a remedy for the conditions of which Tovarisch Vilinsky speaks before winter, there will be much suffering and many deaths. It grows worse daily. And most of these returned bourgeoisie are secret plotters against our rule of liberty and equality. These secret treasonable societies which these papers" -picking up a dossier from the desk -"describe. Their lives are justly forfeit to the state for treason, and, when they are imprisoned, or their forfeited lives are taken by the people, their rooms will be available for the proletariat! Is not this suggestion worth considering, Tovarisch Vilinsky?" Every one but the pale student nodded. Loris had the genius for the practical. He had won the members of the government to his side, as he had done many times before, by giving voice to the idea which appealed to them. Vilinsky saw that he was losing ground in what was becoming a rivalry with Loris.

The spark plugs should be checked, not only for deposits of carbon or thick, gummy oil but for the width of the spark gap, as well. If the plugs are caked with carbon or oil, it is advisable to purchase a new set. The width of the gap varies with different ignition systems, but generally the gap should be approximately the thickness of a dime.

The insulation of cables and wiring should be scanned, and if it is not in first-class condition the connection should be replaced by a new length, Breaks in the insulation are likely to cause short circuits and possibly set the car on fire, to say nothing of getting wet and perhaps shorting the ignition system.

Now Easy Task to Lubricate Windshield on an Automobile

are usually rather difficult to lubricate, owing to the fact that they are fitted to the windshield directly under the top, where it is impossible to use an oil can. Without oil, however, the leather washer or packing on the piston inside of the wiper becomes hard and dry, and in a short time leaks air, so that the wiper works sluggishly or becomes entirely inoperative. A good method of avoiding this trouble is shown in the drawing. Two teaspoonfuls of very light oil are poured into a small container, such as a deep saucer or a fruit jar lid. The air hose is disconnected from the nipple on the cylinder, and a six-inch length of tubing substituted. Open the air valve, and move the wiper to the extreme right, until the valve clicks. Then more the wiper to the second position which is about three-quarters to the extreme left. At this point, the tube is submerged in the oil and the winer is then given a quick movement to the right until it is vertical. as in the third position. Then the tube is withdrawn from the oil. If Athletics Is Duty The keynote of college athletics is "duty," declares Sir Henry Thornton, former Vanderbilt coach, who is now president of the Canadian National railroad. "Duty to your teammates, duty to the team itself, duty to your alma mater. There stands in every aspect of college life pre-eminently

"The same thing has been found upon military fields in times of great crisis. Wellington said that the battle of Waterloo was won upon the football field of Eton and Harrow, Nelson, at Trafalgar, flew at the masthead of his ship, 'England expects every man to do his duty' and the result of that battle-indeed the result of all battles-has been that recognition of duty which is characteristic of athletic teams."

It Pays to Look After Appearance of New Car

It pays to look after a new car; second-hand value is greatly affected by appearance, and if you start right away with a new car, cleaning it regularly, subsequent operations do not involve such hard labor as if left for weeks without polishing. Then, after a season's use, the car will still have its pristine appearance, and the owner will realize . that the cleaning was worth while. With any kind of finish it is the best plan, if facilities are available, to wash the car down before it is garaged, when it has been out in the rain or driven over wet roads. The mud is then soft and can be removed easily.

 Many Essentials About Modern Car

Do you know that oil consumption while driving at 50 to 65 miles an hour is more than twice the amount consumed at * 30 miles an hour?

That an automobile, running * at average speed pumps from 150 to 200 gallons of oil hourly? 3 That the oil in the crankcase is completely circulated through the engine's oiling system from 100 to 150 times every hour?

That the content of crankcase is pumped through the oil filter 10 to 15 times an hour?

DON'T let a Cold Settle in your Bowels!

Keep your bowels open during a cold. Only a doctor knows the importance of this. Trust a doctor to know best how it can be done.

That's why Syrup Pepsin is such a marvelous help during colds. It is the prescription of a family doctor who specialized in bowel troybles. The discomfort of colds is always lessened when it is used; your system is kept free from phlegm, mucus and acid wastes. The cold is "broken-up" more easily.

Whenever the bowels need help, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is sure to do the work. It does not gripe or sicken; but its action is thorough. It carries off all the souring waste and poison; helps your bowels to help themselves.

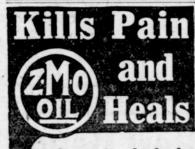

Take a spoonful of this family doctor's laxative as soon as a cold starts, or the next time coated tongue, bad breath, or a bilious, headachy, gassy condition warns of constipation. Give it to the children during colds or whenever they're feverish, cross or upset. Nothing in it to hurt anyone; it contains only laxative herbs, pure pepsin and other mild ingredients. The way it tastes and the way it acts have made it the fastest selling laxative the drugstore carries!

Lands Big Tuna What is believed to be a world's record for the yellow-fin tuna was set in Kona waters by William F. Roth. of San Francisco, who hooked a 198pounder there.

Although blue-fin tuna have been known to weigh as much as 700 pounds, the yellow-fin tuna do not attain such weight. Three years ago Marshall Webb, Honolulu architect, caught a yellow-fin weighing 140 pounds. There is no record of a yellow-fin tuna of greater size.-San Francisco Chronicle.

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX HAS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

The introduction of the new Chevrolet Six marks the most impressive forward step in Chevrolet's twenty-year record of constant progress and improvement. For this Bigger and Better Six offers new beauty, new luxury, new completeness and new quality-yet it sells at lower prices!

The improvements in the new Chevrolet Six begin at the smart new chrome-plated headlamps and extend throughout the entire car. The radiator is deeper and unusually efficient. Due to the increased wheelbase, the lines are longer and lower, giving an air of exceptional fleetness and grace. And the new Fisher bodies combine with this more attractive exterior appearance, a new degree of interior luxury.

Classifi

OLUME

The chassis of the new Chevrolet Six has also been refined and advanced in a number of different ways. The frame is heavier and deeper. There is a smoother operating, long lived clutch; a sturdier front axle; an entirely new steering mechanism; an easier shifting transmission.

And along with these improvements, Chevrolet offers a 50horsepower, six-cylinder motorfour long semi-elliptic springs -four hydraulic shock absorbers -a safety gasoline tank-and an economy of operation not surpassed by any automobile.
