BURGLARS AGAIN ROB OIL STATION

Some time Monday night burglars again entered the Dreher-Honeck Oil Station on East Main street and stole a number of batteries, bulbs, tubes, silver ware and an electric clock, all told the loot amounted to about $75. Entrance to the building was gained by prying the lock off the front door. This is the third time within several months that this oil station has been robbed. Officials are of the opinion that the work is that of local talent. The same night the garage owned by Ernest Ramthun at New Pave was entered. Nothing however, was stolen.

NOVEL WAY TO FIGHT BARN FIRE

The barn on the Conrad Radolph farm in the town of Germantown, on Highway 41, about a half mile north of Menomonee Falls, was found on fire on Monday, December 29, about 1:50 in the morning. The Menomonee Falls fire department was called to the scene, but as there was no water available, their apparatus which they brought out in record time, availed them nothing. However, undaunted by this fundamental handicap, Chief Elmer Basted ordered his men to take pitchforks, shovels, rakes, hoes and such other utensils as lie about in barns and attack the seat of the blaze. The men obeyed, and in a short time the burning and smoldering hay, straw and chaff was raked, shoveled and thrown out of the barn, thus gaining control of the situation and removing all further danger. A report has it that work was hampered for only a short time, when two of the smoke eaters found that they had forgotten their teeth. The damage done to the barn was nominal. —West Bend News.

DAIRY PRODUCTS INSTITUTE AT W. B.

A co-operative marketing institute on dairy products is scheduled for West Bend, January 20 and 21, according to E. L. Luther, Superintendent of the department of Farmers' Institutes.

A large part of the farm income in the territory surrounding West Bend comes from the sale of dairy products, and this institute will deal with the possibilities of increasing farm income through co-operative marketing. "The marketing of dairy products is equally as important as their production. It is the plan of this institute to study the possibilities of marketing dairy products cooperatively as a means of obtaining for the farmer the greatest possible return from the sale of his product," states Mr. Luther.

An invitation is extended to all dairymen in the district and especially those patronizing a condensery, to be present at all the sessions. Two sessions will be held each day beginning at 10 A. M. and 1 P. M. and closing at 3:30 to permit farmers to return home in time for the evening work.

FAMILY IMPLICATED IN HOLD-UP

As an aftermath of the recent hold-up of the Louis Wagner grocery store in Town Mequon, a most unusual record of crime annals occurred in the arrest of the entire family charged with the hold-up. They are Mr. and Mrs. Frank Heiple, their 21 year old daughter Elva and Mrs. Heiple's brother William Greene, alias O'Neil. Mrs. Heiple was discharged soon after the arrest as two small children need her care. Developments of the hold-up of the Wagner grocery revealed that Greene planned the job with the knowledge of the others. He was the mastermind and sent Miss Elva Heiple to the store to buy some groceries. He gave her a $20.00 bill to pay for the goods, assuming that Wagner would not have that much charge in his cash drawer. He concealed himself while Wagner went to the living room where he kept larger sums of money to change the $20.00. He staged the hold-up therefore with the full knowledge as to just where the bulk of the store money was kept. The total amount that he got was over $300 including checks which he burned. The money was found the next day concealed in the woodshed at the Heiple home. Greene is suffering from tuberculosis and has a long criminal record. Authorities will also give him a sanity test prior to trying his case in circuit court. —Cedarburg News.

DOG LICENSES MUST BE PAID BY FEB. 1

With one dog for every 15 persons in the state or a total dog population of 192,677, Wisconsin treasurers are in for a busy month. All dogs must have their new 1931 license tags by February 1, according to a statement just issued by Commissioner William F. Renk of the department of agriculture and markets. Collection of dog license fees will be made during the entire month of January. The license fee applies to all dogs six months old or over on the first of the year, the charge being $2 for females and $1 for male dogs.

While the dog license tags are obtained for the entire state by the department of agriculture and markets, Commissioner Renk explains that the tags are distributed to local treasurers. Local treasurers also issue the dog licenses and the tags and all applications should be made to them.

Funds obtained from licensing dogs are placed in the county dog license funds which are used to pay indemnities for losses to farm animals caused by dogs. The amounts allowed for farm stock killed by dogs is regulated to be not over $3 for poultry, $30 for sheep, goats or swine; and not over $100 for horses, mules and cattle. During the year 1929 about $80,000 was paid farmers in indemnities in this manner. Estimates for 1930 indemnities place the amount at approximately the same.

HUNT CLUB TO HAVE DAY IN COURT

Shotgun hunters and hunters who ride to the hounds have declared a truce in Washington county and have been invited to submit their differences to the state conservation commission when it meets January 10 at Madison, William Mauthe, of Fond du Lac, chairman of the commission, said Tuesday. Mr. Mauthe said he had been assured by the Milwaukee Hunt club officials that no foxes will be released in Washington county by the club by its fox hunts. The club has previously denied releasing any foxes. The issue was raised by a group of sportsmen at Hartford, headed by Arthur E. Breitenfeldt, druggist. The sportsmen complained that foxes were on the increase in Washington county and that the "vermin", as they called them, were destroying wild game; that the state is trying to propagate and conserve. They charged that the hunt club was raising the foxes that killed the game that the state was raising. The hunters and conservationists Mr. Mauthe said, have been asked to present evidence, even circumstantial, indicating that wild game of any kind has been killed by foxes and the hunt club has handsomely promised to do the right thing by replacing the pheasants, rabbits and other game. Mr. Mauthe said the commission also will consider formulating a rule which would prohibit the planting or releasing of any wild animal without the consent of the commission. He said the commission will make sure that it has the authority to make such a rule before acting. And the chairman will not yell "hoicks!" when he calls the meeting to order.

LAW ENFORCEMENT

The past year was by far the most successful in the history of the law enforcement division of the conservation commission. Although the fiscal year upon which records are based ended on July 1, the figures for the year which ended last July 1 indicate the success of the law enforcement division. Conservation wardens throughout the state made 2,085 arrests, an increase of over 500 over the previous year. By the work of the wardens last year the state school fund was enriched by $71,960.00 from fines imposed upon game law violators. A total of 11,561 days in jail was imposed upon violators in lieu of fines.

While the number of arrests made by officers should not be the sole criterion of the efficiency of the force, it is the most obvious way to gauge its efficiency. Educational work was carried on by the wardens throughout the state last year as the policy of the commission in regard to law enforcement is to prevent violation rather than to merely punish violators.

The foregoing are but a few of the achievements of the Wisconsin Conservation Commission during 1930. These were selected because they are indicative of trends of policy followed by the commission.

The conservation commission feels that it is laying a firm and broad foundation upon which may be built in the future a real conservation program. Essential to such a program however, is a favorable public sentiment toward it. With favorable public opinion which will insure adequate funds, and with judicious expenditure of that money by competent men, there is no limit to the success Wisconsin can make in conservation.

Unmeasured Winds
The strongest winds are those of the west and have never been measured. The estimates based on reports of these storms run up to 400 miles an hour, in some cases instrumentally blown at the Mt. Washington, N. H., station in 1878. The indicated wind was 180 miles an hour, but certain necessary corrections reduce this to 140 miles an hour.

RELIEF MEASURES TO STIR UP LAWMAKERS

Congress in Session; Faces Additional Turmoil.

Washington.—Congress reassembled after a two weeks' holiday recess, with numerous members in both branches primed to stir up trouble for the administration with new proposals for relief of various kinds.

Entirely unsatisfied by the two major pieces of relief legislation enacted before the holidays, on the recommendation of President Hoover, the Democrats and radical Republicans are offering all sorts of suggestions.

Developments in Arkansas, where 500 farmers stormed the town of England demanding food, intensify the pleas affecting relief in the drought-stricken areas.

Senator Joseph T. Robinson (Dem., Ark.), minority leader of the senate, was active in the unsuccessful efforts to obtain a clause in the drought relief bill authorizing loans for food as well as for seed, feed, and fertilizer, and the occurrence in his home state caused him to renew his efforts along this line.

Senator T. H. Caraway (Dem., Ark.) announced his intention of offering a bill for the appropriation of $15,000,000 for food loans to farmers.

Flareups on the floor of the senate are expected, with President Hoover and Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde, who resisted the granting of food loans, as two particular targets.

The drought relief situation came officially before the house when a bill appropriating $45,000,000 for loans under the authorization for this amount approved by congress before the holidays was reported from the committee on appropriations. Its prompt passage is expected.

Administration spokesmen in congress attempted to quiet the disturbers by insisting the drought situation will have been adequately cared for when the appropriation bill is passed.

Representative John Q. Tilson (Rep. Conn.), majority leader in the house, offered assurance of this.

"With the prompt passage of the $45,000,000 relief measure a final step in the drought relief program of the administration and the congress will have been taken," said Mr. Tilson.

"Machinery of the Department of Agriculture has been put in readiness for the handling of this relief fund expeditiously.

"The drought relief program is made up of successive steps taken at the direction of President Hoover and by the congress since it assembled early last month."

After enumerating various steps taken by the federal drought relief committee, the Department of Agriculture, the intermediate credit banks, the farm board and other agencies, Mr. Tilson said that the $45,000,000 loan fund will make it possible for the afflicted farmers to proceed with the planting of their spring crops.

The new proposals dealing with the unemployment situation will be predicated on the theory that the administration bill enacted before the holidays for the appropriation of $116,000,000 to speed up highway, river and harbor and flood control projects already authorized is inadequate as a relief measure.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Dem., Mont.), came forward with a suggestion for approval of the bill by Representative W. P. Holaday (Rep., Ill.), which has been pending for five years, for a $5,000,000,000 bond issue and the employment of 1,000,000 persons in the building of a federal highway system.

MARSHAL JOFFRE DEAD

Paris.—Death came to Marshal Joffre, last of the chief French military leaders of the World war, after a fortnight's illness in which it was necessary to amputate his left leg.

The marshal was seventy-nine years old. His death removes from the world stage all save three of the great military leaders of the war—Field Marshal von Hindenburg and Gen. Eric Ludendorff of Germany and Gen. John J. Pershing of the United States.

Marshal Joffre.

Washington.—Members of the Wickersham committee are guarding closely the conclusions they have reached on the prohibition question. One high commission authority stated that he could not even divulge an inkling of what the President's law enforcement body will recommend to the President for the simple reason that the commission itself has not yet approved any final report.

He stated that despite widely published reports purporting to outline what the commission has decided or has not decided to recommend as a solution of the existing turbulent liquor question, the final findings have not been agreed to by the personnel of the President's investigating body.

While not denying that several phases of the liquor problem have been discussed to a point where agreement almost has been reached, he insisted that a definite vote on the recommendations to be made by the law enforcement body will not be taken before the latter part of this week.

He stated that it will not be possible for the commission to conclude its labors on prohibition in time to get the report to Mr. Hoover this week.

This commission authority declined to state what the commission will offer in way of recommendations designed to bring about better dry law enforcement. He declined to state whether the commission was considering changes in the law to make it more enforceable. He also remained mum when asked if the commission had decided not to recommend any modification of the Eighteenth amendment or the dry law itself.

Chicago.—Nine persons, members of two families, were killed when the small sedan in which they were riding was struck by the International Limited of the Grand Trunk Railroad on a grade crossing in Harvey.

The accident brought New Year's auto fatalities to 18. Nine persons were killed in other crashes, two of which were attributed by police to intoxicated drivers.

FOUR RY. LINES SIGN EIGHT BILLION PACT

Plans Are Sent to Interstate Commerce Commission.

New York.—After five years of negotiation and controversy, the presidents of the eastern trunk lines formally announced a plan for consolidating the chief railroads in their territories into four great systems.

With a mileage of about 60,000, these roads comprise about one-fifth the mileage of the entire country. Each of the four enlarged systems will be worth about two billion dollars.

The announcement was made through the issuance of a copy of a letter which has been sent to the Interstate Commerce commission.

It is signed by General Atterbury, P. E. Crowley, president of the New York Central railroad; Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, and J. J. Berner, president of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad.

Each of the railroads whose presidents signed the letter will become a basis for an enlarged trunk line.

While the plan, as announced, is the culmination of many years of effort, its completion at this time is the result of the influence brought to bear by President Hoover. Important construction by the eastern roads has in many cases been deferred because of the uncertainty as to their future under a plan of general consolidation, which, it was known, eventually must be devised.

It was the belief of the administration that an agreement on consolidation would be of benefit, not only to the railroads but to the country as a whole, by stimulating industry and, hence, general business.

Under the terms of the plan the four railroads represented at the conference would be enlarged as follows: The New York Central will receive the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad and a direct connection with the Virginian railroad.

The Pennsylvania will receive the Wabash, Detroit, Toledo & Ironton and the Norfolk & Western and certain rights over the Lehigh Valley. Rights on the Nickel Plate will go to the Pennsylvania under arbitration.

To the Baltimore & Ohio will go the Ann Arbor, Reading, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Western Maryland, Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh, Buffalo & Susquehanna, Lehigh & Hudson River, and the Chicago & Alton.

The Chesapeake & Ohio allocation comprises the Nickel Plate, Hocking Valley, Erie, Bessemer and Lake Erie, Pere Marquette, Wheeling & Lake Erie, Chicago & Eastern Illinois, and the Lehigh Valley.

Allocation of the Ann Arbor to the B. & O. previously had not been indicated. This will give the B. & O. an entrance into Michigan which it would have received if plans it formerly furthered for acquisition of the Wabash had been carried through. The Wabash now controls the Ann Arbor.

While this division of the eastern railroads represents a triumph for the Chesapeake & Ohio and Baltimore & Ohio, the two roads which stood to gain most by consolidation, it also means the collapse of other schemes for consolidation put forward by ambitious railroad heads.

The fifth system proposed by the commission in its final plan had previously two proponents. One was L. F. Loree, head of the Delaware & Hudson railroad, and the other was William H. Williams, former chief lieutenant of Loree. First Loree and then Williams put forward plans for a fifth trunk system, and both received rebuffs which in the case of Loree caused him formally to abandon the plan. Frank E. and Charles F. Taplia of Cleveland also have pushed a fifth trunk plan.

Indiana Search Warrant Measure Held Invalid

Indianapolis, Ind.—The search warrant section of the Indiana booby dry law enacted in 1925 and making issue of a search warrant mandatory on affidavit of any person before a magistrate, was found in conflict with the federal and state constitutions in a ruling by Judge James A. WICKERSHAM REPORT NOT YET COMPLETED

Recommendations of Commission Have Not Been OK'd.

Washington.—Members of the Wickersham committee are guarding closely the conclusions they have reached on the prohibition question. One high commission authority stated that he could not even divulge an inkling of what the President's law enforcement body will recommend to the President for the simple reason that the commission itself has not yet approved any final report.

He stated that despite widely published reports purporting to outline what the commission has decided or has not decided to recommend as a solution of the existing turbulent liquor question, the final findings have not been agreed to by the personnel of the President's investigating body.

While not denying that several phases of the liquor problem have been discussed to a point where agreement almost has been reached, he insisted that a definite vote on the recommendations to be made by the law enforcement body will not be taken before the latter part of this week.

He stated that it will not be possible for the commission to conclude its labors on prohibition in time to get the report to Mr. Hoover this week.

This commission authority declined to state what the commission will offer in way of recommendations designed to bring about better dry law enforcement. He declined to state whether the commission was considering changes in the law to make it more enforceable. He also remained mum when asked if the commission had decided not to recommend any modification of the Eighteenth amendment or the dry law itself.

TIME OPPORTUNE TO CONSIDER STARTING ON FAMILY SEWING

HERE'S hoping that the first weeks of the new year will be profitably spent in getting the family sewing in motion. Of course, the prologue to this annual sewing-fest is going to be a matter of looking up new materials and studying the latest patterns and attending to the numerous details which have to do with mapping out a successful dressmaking campaign.

Usually it is the little folks whose needs are considered first by home-sewing mothers, and the spring fabric collections are apt to be studied from the viewpoint of what's prettiest for little daughter's school and playtime frocks. Just now, for practical and immediate wear, crepes, both printed and plain, also piques, attract considerable attention, and the outstanding note about them is their high colorings and the fact that they are used together in striking contrast, such as brown with yellow, pink with blue, green with white and so on.

One of the discoveries in the fabric realm is that of a new weave which the salesperson will tell you is called satin Jersey. It is made of bengery which means that it is woven of a synthetic yarn which is neither silk, cotton, wool or linen, but is one of the man-created fibers which have so successfully worked their way into the good graces of modern weavers.

The cunning youngster in the picture is wearing a jacket costume made of peach-colored bengery satin Jersey. The blouse is of the same material in white. The fact that this smart little model is styled with a pleated skirt, a short jacket and a blouse is

NOTES OF THE FASHIONS OF THE DAY

In combating silks and wools this season one notices a marked tendency to use the same design. Recently one exclusive shop showed a number of new woolsens side by side with silks in similar designs.

There is a real vogue for colored evening gloves. Rose pink, off-white green, and a soft yellow that has a bit of chabreuse in it are very popular.

It was difficult to think of the solid plain lady who was her mother, as a little girl; but yet she had the aid of a pastel which hung on the walls of this very room: a picture of Mrs. Krassin as a child in a low-necked, sleeveless dress, with light brown hair hanging down her back, and a narrow blue ribbon across her forehead, and with a small dog in her hands and a slightly frightened look in her eyes.

CHAPTER VI Love and Conspiracy One evening in 1920, in Vladivostok, an American talked with a Russian noblewoman. She had fled from her Russian home on foot, had walked for weeks, a vagrant, shelterless, often foodless; had caught rides on Siberian railway trains, stowed away in freight cars, or perching on their roofs—from a Sibirite to a tramp!

She had become nurse for Koltchak's army, amid the most horrible conditions of lack of supplies, organization and skilled personnel—and a mortality which was terrible. She had gone ragged and dirty, and for weeks had not had even a change of underclothing. Her clothes fell away bit by bit. As her stockings wore off at the toes, she cut them off and sewed them up until they were gone—and a fellow refugee asked her, after a glimpse below her skirts, where she had obtained her nice, white stockings; and was thrown a bit of American slang derived from Red Cross workers in the information that they were her birthday hose.

Vladimir Had Asked for Musia, and Had Gone to Her.

She had lost father, mother, brothers, sister and fiancée, and was now, in what was left of an old ball dress, dancing absently to the jazz music of an American warship's band in the long hall in the barracks.

"I constantly marvel," said he, "at the way you refugees manage to enjoy yourselves."

"Well," said she, smiling up at him, "one can't be always weeping!"

So it was with the Krassin's; they had already acquired the resiliency of those who walk daily in peril; and after "the terror by night" had passed them, and their little group had gathered as usual under Mrs. Krassin, their general, they were in rather better spirits than usual. A peril had passed them by. They had not been notified to quit their house. Another day had come. Mrs. Krassin especially was in a cheerful frame of mind; for Vladimir had asked for Musia, and had gone to her where she sat surrounded by her peculiar household gods, in a room which was half a study, half a sitting room, the central feature of which was a great piano, with harp and guitar at hand, and statues, engravings and rare porcelains scattered about. The selection and arrangement spoke of a craving for variety and a restless mind.

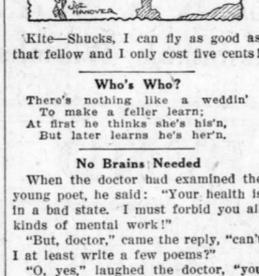

Mrs. Krassin had decided long ago; when Musia and Vladimir were children, that the two distant cousins were to be married. Both families cherished the wish for the alliance. Mrs. Krassin had never talked to Musia about this, thinking it better to endeavor by indirect and invisible means to bring the event about, so that it would seem to happen in the natural course of things. For a year or so past, she had begun to feel a sense of disappointment and irritation, because these plans were so slow in coming to fruition; but she looked upon a talk with Musia as a last resort. She had a feeling that she might encounter in her daughter something tending toward rebellion; and saying to herself, "You never can tell beforehand how things will turn out with Musia," she declined to put the affair to the test of an issue, like the cautious diplomat which she prided herself upon being.

A little of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin will clear up trouble like that gently, harmlessly, in a hurry. The difference it will make in your feelings over night will prove its merit to you.

Dr. Caldwell studied bowels troubles for forty-seven years. This long experience enabled him to make his prescription just what men, women, old people and children need to make their bowels help themselves. Its natural, mild, thorough action and its pleasant taste commend it to everyone. That's why "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin," as it is called, is the most popular laxative drug stores sell.

Astronomer Says Moon and Earth Will Crash

London.—One day in the dim and distant future the moon will crash into the earth, says Sir James Jeans, world-famous mathematician and astronomer.

We shall not be there to see, Sir James declared in a radio broadcast, but the result will be that millions of fragments will surround the globe in rings like Saturn's; it will be moonlight all night, and people will spend their time dodging tiny falling moons.

Sir James said: "In the far future our own moon must inevitably be drawn in closer and closer to the earth, until finally it comes too near for safety and must meet its fate."

Bee May Give Up Lease, but She's Good Tenant

About 8,000,000 colonies of bees acknowledge human protection in the United States and return for it more than 140,000,000 pounds of honey a year. It is a curious relationship that exists between men and bees. For no matter how long domesticated, the bee remains a true barbarian. Though she may trace her ancestry through hundreds of generations of hive-dwellers, she, without a moment's notice, may take to the woods, make her home in a hollow tree and revert completely to the primitive.

The compact between man and bee is that of landlord and tenant. The beekeeper tricks his bees into staying with him by furnishing apartments to their liking. But the bee never surrenders her liberty nor her complete right of choice. If she is not pleased with the condition of the new house offered her at swarming time, she promptly moves out and takes to tall timber.

But the beekeepers have learned to

Pharaoh's Curse in Garage

Centuries before Socrates drank the hemlock men knew that anyone shut in a small room with a brazier of burning charcoal would be taken out dead. Even savages knew, as they know now, that because of some terrible poison—the oldest known to mankind—safe fires are to be built only at the mouths of caves and not in the unventilated depths. We now recognize the poison to be carbon monoxide, and its presence in long-unopened caves or tombs probably explains the mysterious deaths of early excavators and tomb robbers, and may be responsible, it has been suggested, for the legends of Pharaoh's curse.—E. B. Free in the Forum.

is refused, the native is likely to brood, and begin to pine away with a purely imaginary ailment, actually dyspepsia by inches—a striking example of how the native curse is told he is victim of the curse; it preys on his mind, and he pines away and does die.

A native, the writer says, is made perfectly happy if he is given a dose of medicine, and he thinks it is. A tasteless mixture of castor oil and nauseating will be swallowed with every sign of bliss.

There should be a good market, in Mr. Hoefler's opinion, for cosmetics and chewing gum in Africa. Not only are the women possessed of an urge for personal beautification, but the men as well. They anoint their bodies with outlandish and evil-smelling mixtures to improve on nature and give themselves color and gloss. A favorite

Physicians hold little hope for his recovery.

TRAVELERS ON ARTERIES HAVE NO SPECIAL PRIVILEGE

That travelers on arteries for through traffic have no special privileges over traffic entering from intersecting highways was the statement made by the Highway Commission.

"Many people traveling along arteries for through traffic believe that they have the right of way over traffic entering upon the arteries for through traffic," continues the statement "but this is not the case. When a traveler on an intersecting highway has come to the full stop required by law, he has the same rights that he would have at any other highway intersection. The operator of a vehicle approaching an intersection is always required to yield to an operator who is in the intersection, and the law specifically provides that all operations, not only those who are about to enter the artery for through traffic but those on the artery as well, are subject to this requirement. Stops for arteries for through traffic need not necessarily be made exactly at the point where the stop sign is located. According to law, they may be made anywhere within thirty feet of the near side of the intersection.

"Operators on arteries for through traffic must bear in mind that they have no special privileges. The speed limits on such arteries are exactly the same as on other streets and highways, and any operator who operates at an unlawful speed or in any other unlawful manner immediately forfeits any right that may otherwise have been his."

DIAMOND MINES ARE BECOMING EXHAUSTED

Only a Question of Years, Scientists Assert, Before Present Sources of Virgin Diamonds Pan Out

Eventually say diamond authorities, unless new chimneys—as diamond pockets are called—are discovered, the world will be dependent upon second-hand diamonds—stones which have been sold, stolen, or lost to return again upon the market.

From the time the mines of India first supplied the world's demand, diamonds have been discovered in varying quantities and qualities in Sumatra, Borneo, the Urals, Australia and parts of North and South America. For the past half century, however, the mines of South Africa have produced 90 per cent of the world's best grade of rough diamonds.

The yield of the Transvaal mines, like that of its predecessors, has steadily declined. As the shafts have sunk deeper—they are now some 8,000 feet below the surface—the cost of mining has increased. Today, a ton of diamond bearing rock yields an average of only $6.00. As only 5 per cent of the diamonds mined cut to perfect stones, over 100 tons of rock must be dug, transported to the compounds, weathered, washed, sorted and sent to Europe to produce the equivalent of a one carat stone.

It is easy therefore to appreciate the increasing value of diamonds and the resulting scarcity of true virgin stones. As a matter of fact, the demand for diamonds direct from the mines, which have never before been owned or worn, has increased to such an extent that a firm, the Virgin Diamond Syndicate has been remarkably successful in specializing in virgin diamonds exclusively, supplying a registered certificate of title with each gem.

PLOWS EQUIPPED WITH WIG-WAGS

Juneau, Dec. 24—Dodge county snow plows have been equipped with wig-wags devised by Fred Schultz, foreman of the county shop, to distinguish them from other trucks on highways. The wig-wag mechanism is similar to a windshield wiper and is placed atop the truck, throwing a red light to warn approaching traffic. While as yet no trucks have been called out to clear off the highways in the county, Highway Commissioner E. C. Nitschke has had all machinery made ready for the first call. Two trucks have been placed at Beaver Dam and five are in readiness at the county shop in this city. One tractor has also been placed at Beaver Dam and one at Mayville, both equipped with plows. The Dodge county highway commission now has ten "Wisconsin Specials," a plow made by the Otto Biefeld company at Watertown and three V shape plows made at Wausau, Wisconsin, as well as the two tractor plows which are "Wisconsin Specials." One Rotary plow is owned by the county and may be placed in use within a short time.

Highest Paid Short Fiction Writer

FANNIE HURST is the highest paid short story writer in the world today. There's a good reason for that. She knows human nature and under the magic of her touch, the people about whom she writes become real people, not mere literary creations. The plots of her stories are based on incidents from real life as it is lived every day by the common people.

Such are the stories which are appearing in this newspaper. Be sure to read them and talk to your friends about them, for they like interesting stories, too. And Fannie Hurst's stories are interesting stories.

THE BEST Gray Hair Remedy is Home Made

To half pint of water add one ounce layrum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any drugstore can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

Greatest Thrill in Sport

By CAPT. EDDIE RICKENBACKER
America's Greatest Ace

My career of racing, driving and flying is easily able to draw the greatest thrill in sport.

Ed Rickenbacker, Albatross machines

With my machine I was able to fly over the ocean and land in a field of wheat. I was the only man in the world who had done this.

I made headway much faster than I was falling and sudden elation swept over me. I tried to lift her head, but no use. I could fly straight only. Then came the Archies, but I was so grateful that I paid them no attention—until suddenly I found myself back over the French lines. Freed from landing in Germany, I tried several small tricks and then I grazed the top of our hangar and, with motor still running, I pancaked flatly upon my field.

As the French ran up, they said I had looked like a bird alighting with a broken wing, as I had come to the ground. But anyway—I was safe!

SPORTING SQUIBS

Playing tennis on skates is a recently discovered sport.

Jack Berg and Fidel La Barba are the only two boxers to defeat Kid Chocolate.

North Carolina State's basketball squad this year is made up almost entirely of sophomores.

Dartmouth is considering rowing. L. A. Deidinger, chairman of the athletic council, says it will cost $15,000 a year.

The Detroit club paid only $700 for Ty Cobb in 1905 and the Boston Red Sox expended but $400 for Tris Speaker in 1907.

Skating has become one of the most popular sports in Germany and the German Ski union is one of the largest organizations of its kind in the world.

Most Important Aids to Start Very Cold Motor

Among the most important aids to starting motors in cold weather are the correct fuel and lubricant, points out the mechanical first aid department of the Chicago Motor club in a bulletin on the care of the car in winter.

Various grades of gasoline differ greatly, so far as easy starting qualities are concerned, the bulletin stated. It was suggested that car owners who anticipate trouble in starting use only those grades of gasoline which possess easy-starting qualities. Frequently it is advisable to readjust the carburetor. This should be done only by a capable mechanic.

The agency of the make of car is always in a position to advise owners as to the best oil. Some cars used the same consistency of oil the year around; most, however, are designed for thinner lubricant in winter. Honest and to the minute filling stations usually offer the right grade of oil for the car in question; the Chicago Motor club does not, however, advise motorists to trust all stations to recommend the correct oil. The reason that a comparatively thin oil is better in winter is because oil thickens in low temperatures; frequently the "drag" of the pistons against the cylinder walls and other sources of friction cause an excessive load on the starter if the oil is too thick or too cold.

The choke should be used sparingly. Excessive use of this aid to starting will result in undue amounts of raw gasoline being drawn into the cylinders, and a certain amount, depending upon the efficiency of the piston rings, will leak past the pistons into the crank case, thereby diluting the crank case oil.

Whenever the starter encounters difficulty in spinning the engine because of cold oil, the crank should be used to loosen the engine. This practice will save the battery from undue drain.

Many car manufacturers advise a light lubricant in the gear case, and also in the differential housing. Ascertain from the agency handling the car what grade of oil or grease is best in those parts, and act accordingly.

Jimmy Collins' Start

Jimmy Collins, first baseman promoted from Rochester to succeed Bottomley of the Cards, got his start with Johnstown in the Middle Atlantic league, along with Joe Cronin, shortstop with Washington; Eddie Montague with Cleveland, and Jose Olivares, shortstop, with Louisville.

OF VARIOUS KINDS FROM ALL PARTS

Stanford and Dartmouth will meet again next fall, the westerners playing in the Harvard stadium.

Tommy Yarr, Notre Dame center, is the son of an Irishman and his mother is of Cherokee Indian descent.

The Crimson Tide of Alabama will lose 13 men by graduation this year. This includes many of the best grid men.

Ralph Cairney, University of Washington athlete, won letters in basketball, track and football during the last year.

Phil Scott reports he is coming back. O'Gowan wants to know just what he is coming back to, and where he ever was in the first place.

Both Jesse Hawley and Shaz Shaughnessy coached Harvard in the passing game at its meeting with Michigan, but the Wolverines won.

Jim Londos now claims the world heavyweight wrestling title. The first thing a wrestler learns to do is to take hold of the world championship.

Major Frank W. Cavanagh, Fordham coach who was an all-American end 31 years ago, has produced three unbeaten football teams during his lengthy career.

His first season in baseball brought Bill Werber, Duke university product, the honor of being the most valuable player in the Eastern league. The Yanks farmed him to Albany.

When Navy and Army broke football relations Army was leading in the long series 14 victories to 12, with two games tied. The 1930 game gave Army 15.

Next year's national open golf tourney will be held at Toledo, and the national public links meet will be held in St. Paul. The Canadian open will be contested at Toronto.

Babe Ruth is still enthusiastic over the game he pitched and won against the Boston Red Sox last September. Ruth plans to pitch now and then next season. As a pitcher the big "bambino" would prove interesting to modern fans who never saw him deliver his fast ball and curves.

John "Bugs" Bonner, star forward of the Temple university basketball team, who is still going strong after having played and scored in 146 consecutive basketball games during the past seven years. During that time Bonner has totaled 2,500 points, an average of 370 per season. Bonner is also a letter-man in baseball, boxing and football.

Tension of wire wheel spoke quite important. An important matter with wire wheels is the spoke tension. All the spokes should have the same amount or the wheel will not run true. The tension on the spokes can be tested very simply by tapping them with a light stick of wood or even a pencil, while the car is jacked up. Each spoke should give the same musical note as it vibrates after being tapped. If some give a high "bing" sound and others a low "bong," the spokes need adjustment, and the adjusting nut should be turned until they are all in tune. The tighter the spoke the higher the note.

Flashy Swimming Team Now Seen at Columbia University

When and if he is able to get all his athletes properly assembled, Coach Ed Kennedy is hopeful of having the best swimming team that has ever represented Columbia in the Intercollegiate Swimming association.

Up to the present time Kennedy has fought a losing battle with the eligibility rules. His star swimmer and water polo player, the sensational Ray Riddly, has temporarily withdrawn from competition to devote all his time to his studies. Julius "Whitey" Dolgos, Columbia's second best swimmer and water poloist, is also burning the midnight oil these days in an effort to make himself eligible by the beginning of the second term in February.

As if this were not enough trouble for Coach Kennedy, two others of his swimmers will be barred from competing until the second term. Former interscholastic breast-stroke champion of New England, and Lon Wimmer, sophomore sprinter. These two boys entered Columbia in February, 1930, but will not be qualified for varsity competition until February, 1931.

Wanted to See the Fight
Joseph Van Raalte tells of a New Yorker who went to see the same theater play every night for two weeks. "You seem to be stuck on this show," the ticket seller said to him one evening.

"No," said the man, "it's this way: You know that part in the second act, where the husband goes out and the lover comes in the fire escape window? Well, some one of these nights the husband is going to forget something 'an' come back for it 'an' ketch that bird. An' when he does, I want to be there."

Automobile Facts
A generation is rapidly growing to manhood in this country that never heard "coupe" pronounced coo-pay.

When checking the oil or filling the crankcase, be sure the car is on level ground. Otherwise, the oil level reading will be inaccurate.

It is not necessary to get out of the car to ascertain if the headlights are lit. Watch for their reflection in the rear of a shiny car.

Is there a rattling noise when the car coasts with the clutch disengaged? If there is, it may be that the universals are badly worn.

Nearly one-half, or 49.8 per cent, of the 4,794,808 automobiles manufactured last year replaced worn out cars which were scrapped.

There will be fewer South American revolutions when all the South American people can afford to buy cars and spend their spare time tinkering, tooting and traveling.

Statisticians have computed that the automobile dollar today is worth $1.22, while the cost of living dollar is worth only 62 cents, on the basis of 1914 purchasing power.

Those persons and things, then, that inspire us to do our best, that make us live at our best, when we are in their presence, that call forth from us our latent and unsuspected personality, that nourish and support that personality—those are our friends.—Randolph S. Bourne.

VARIOUS GOOD THINGS
If you like the Chinese dishes this will be one to prepare for the guests who also enjoy them:

Crab and Egg Omelet.—If the fresh shrimps or crab is used, cook and cool. Shred one cupful of crab or shrimp. Cut one cupful of lean pork into inch long narrow strips. Use scissors for the cutting. Soak one-fourth of a cupful of dried mushrooms, then cut into strips. Slice one large mild onion and cut fine into strips. Fry the pork in two tablespoonfuls of peanut oil until tender and brown. Add onion, one cupful of bamboo shoots and mushrooms, a tablespoonful of soy sauce. Just before dinner beat six eggs, add the finely cut crab or shrimp and the vegetable mixture. Fry in a small amount of peanut oil in small bits like a pancake.

Lobster Club Sandwich.—Toast bread cut one-third of an inch thick, butter and keep hot. Allow two slices for each person to be served. Sauté the lobster in a little butter, use either fresh or canned. Season well with salt, pepper and a teaspoonful of currant jelly. Fry bacon until crisp. Place slices of bacon on toast and over this a layer of pieces of lobster; cover with mayonnaise, then top with a piece of crisp lettuce or chilled watercress; make another layer of bacon and lobster and on top place a slice of toast. Garnish the sandwiches with sliced tomato, mayonnaise and lemon. Cut into triangles and serve.

Pimiento Cup With Egg and Celery.—Drain the small red peppers from their liquor, place in gem pans to fill. Fill with the following salad: Chop one cupful of celery very fine and mix with two hard cooked eggs chopped. Into this stir one-half cupful of mayonnaise and fill the cups. Decorate with green pepper. Serve very cold on crisp lettuce with toasted biscuit and cheese.

Star Cage Forward
John "Bugs" Bonner, star forward of the Temple university basketball team, who is still going strong after having played and scored in 146 consecutive basketball games during the past seven years. How Volcanic Islands Act as Safety Valves
Ninfaou is one of the Tonga, or Friendly islands, situated halfway between Samoa and Fiji in one of the most restless geological areas in the world. Stretching across the South Pacific from Samoa to North Island, New Zealand, there is a huge fissure in the earth's crust.

Volcanic Islands, such as Ninfaou, strewn along this gigantic crack, act as vents for the molten mass within the earth. The jack-in-the-box island of Falcon has popped up from the ocean's bottom at least twice, only to be washed and blown away each time by sea and wind. Only recently it has made its reappearance again in larger size, acting as one of these famous safety valves for the earth's mighty internal furnace.

To passengers of steamers passing close, the island looks like any other tropic isle, green with vegetation and coconut palms. Clear white houses and thatched native churches set in grassy lawns dot the hillside. When wind and sea are quiet, landings are made in small open boats which are guided skillfully into a nook partly sheltered by fingers of lava flow. Such landings are dangerous and exciting, because the boats bob up and down with the incoming rollers and scrape against the steep, jagged cliffs.—National Geographic Society, Bulletin.

Nature Improved On in Production of Orchids

Science and sentiment are mingled in the commercialization of orchid production.

Successful application of the Knudsen method of seed germination, the scientific crossing of orchids to produce hybrids far more healthy and vigorous than those produced by nature in the high reaches of the Colombian Andes, and the operation of the United States quarantine have recently led to the investment by business interests of $2,500,000 in orchid growing.

Thomas Young, Jr., spent 22 years developing his nursery at Bound Brook, N. J., until his preserve covered 50 acres, and there were 140,000 mature orchid plants and 100,000 younger plants and seedlings in his 33 greenhouses. He provided 11,000 orchids for the 1929 Easter season, cutting on an average of 1,000 blooms a day and sometimes 4,000.

There are unusual features about orchid-growing. Six to eight years are required to raise an orchid from the seed to the flowering stage, and the field is restricted because of the comparative scarcity of mature plants and because of the quarantine restrictions, designed to prevent the introduction of disease into the domestic stock.

The six to eight years prior to the flowering of the matured plant are fraught with danger, and the propagation is a highly scientific series of operations. The seeds are planted in agar, a substance obtained from seaweed. As many as 500 seeds are sometimes enclosed in a single tube of agar, and after this there are repeated transplantings and watchful care until the final blooming. The prices secured for the blooms and plants warrant the time, trouble and investment.

Small's Big 1931 Rowing Season Is Seen in Outline

The 1931 rowing season, plans for which were announced by Graduate Manager Boney Berry, will begin on Lake Cayuga on the first of the regatta crews which were to be selected at the regatta at Poughkeepsie, N. Y., on September 12.

His first season in baseball brought Bill Werber, Duke university product, the honor of being the most valuable player in the Eastern league. The Yanks farmed him to Albany.

When and if he is able to get all his athletes properly assembled, Coach Ed Kennedy is hopeful of having the best swimming team that has ever represented Columbia in the Intercollegiate Swimming association.

Up to the present time Kennedy has fought a losing battle with the eligibility rules. His star swimmer and water polo player, the sensational Ray Riddly, has temporarily withdrawn from competition to devote all his time to his studies. Julius "Whitey" Dolgos, Columbia's second best swimmer and water poloist, is also burning the midnight oil these days in an effort to make himself eligible by the beginning of the second term in February.

As if this were not enough trouble for Coach Kennedy, two others of his swimmers will be barred from competing until the second term. Former interscholastic breast-stroke champion of New England, and Lon Wimmer, sophomore sprinter. These two boys entered Columbia in February, 1930, but will not be qualified for varsity competition until February, 1931.

Wanted to See the Fight
Joseph Van Raalte tells of a New Yorker who went to see the same theater play every night for two weeks. "You seem to be stuck on this show," the ticket seller said to him one evening.

"No," said the man, "it's this way: You know that part in the second act, where the husband goes out and the lover comes in the fire escape window? Well, some one of these nights the husband is going to forget something 'an' come back for it 'an' ketch that bird. An' when he does, I want to be there."

Cards' Relief Hurler

There was a lot written about Hal-Jahan and Haines and Grimes and Earnshaw during and after the world series last fall, but nobody gave Jim Lindsey, relief pitcher for the Cards, much space or thought.

His first season in baseball brought Bill Werber, Duke university product, the honor of being the most valuable player in the Eastern league. The Yanks farmed him to Albany.

When Navy and Army broke football relations Army was leading in the long series 14 victories to 12, with two games tied. The 1930 game gave Army 15.

Babe Ruth is still enthusiastic over the game he pitched and won against the Boston Red Sox last September. Ruth plans to pitch now and then next season. As a pitcher the big "bambino" would prove interesting to modern fans who never saw him deliver his fast ball and curves.

Early Diving Suit
The diving suit is not so new as one might think. A patent was granted to John Stapleton on March 17, 1893, for "a new engine so by him contrived as to permit a person inclosed in it to walk under water, and to a new invented way to force air into any depth of water to supply the person in the said engine therewith and for continuing a lamp burning under water; also a way to deaerate and purify the air so as to make the same serviceable for respiration."

New Fireproof Wood
One of the most important uses to which straw has been put is that of making a new kind of wood called solomite. The straw is compressed, under a pressure of 200 pounds to the square inch, in a machine which interlaces it with wire. The machine can turn out four thousand square feet of board a day, and a remarkable feature of the wood is that it is fireproof.
