INSTALLING WIG-WAG SIGNALS

The Chicago & North Western Railway company, in keeping abreast with the times in safe-guarding against life, limb and property, has a crew of men engaged here installing wig-wags at the Main street crossing. There will be two of them installed, one will be placed on the west side of the tracks and one on the east side. Both will be plainly visible to motorists. When a train is within 2200 feet from the crossing from either direction, both wig-wags will show a red light and swing until the train has passed by. This new system will be in operation day and night. To make doubly sure of the safety of this crossing, especially for school children, the company in connection, will maintain its present system of keeping a flag man at the crossing, who will, however, be there during the day only. The job is now being held by Romand Kuehl of St. Kilian, who has been employed by the company for the past several months, during which time he has taken care of the duties in a very capable manner.

The installation of the wig-wags is no doubt the outcome of having Main street paved from curb to curb last fall, when the company saw fit to raise the gates, to prevent vehicles from crossing the tracks on the approach of an oncoming train, railroad officials apparently felt that the old system of protecting the crossing was inadequate to safe-guard against the ever increasing traffic over this crossing, and which were operated during the day only. While this is a rather dangerous crossing, as the view of an oncoming train is obstructed from both sides, and though no serious accidents have happened, there were, however, some very close calls, during the night time especially, the company is to be given much credit for the steps it is taking in making this crossing doubly safe for traffic and to safe-guard the lives of children also.

HOLD RURAL MUSIC DRAMA
Because home talent activities are fast becoming vital factors in many rural communities, they will come in for their share of the honors at the coming Farm and Home Week to be held at Madison, February 2 to 6.

A. F. Wileiden, who is in charge of all state rural drama and music tournaments, reports that at the first state-wide music festival, seven counties will participate. These are Kenosha, Rock, Milwaukee, St. Croix, Racine, Waushara and Sheboygan.

The last day of the annual five-day session for rural people at the Wisconsin College of Agriculture has been set aside for the finals in both the first music festival and the fourth annual drama tournament. Among the 16 counties entered in the drama tournament, eight are new entrants. These are Buffalo, Eau Claire, Grant, Green, Manitowoc, Iowa, Trempealeau, and Vernon counties. Those entered for the second, third or fourth times include Dane, Jefferson, Milwaukee, Pierce, Racine, Rock, St. Croix and Winnebago counties.

E. B. Gordon of the University of Wisconsin music school, has worked out a plan eliminating all competition between individuals and groups which ranks them on a basis of standard of excellence. Each group will be ranked as being either superior, excellent, good, or fair and the highest ranking counties will present their selections during the Friday evening final as well as join every other group in a big vocal and instrumental climax of Handel's "Largo," the standard festival song; the "Anvil Chorus;" and "Men of Harlech." Each group must present the "Largo," but the other songs may be chosen by the musicians.

The drama finals are scheduled for Friday night, too, in connection with the music finals. Judges for the drama and music contests have been selected by the state committee and approved by the individual counties entered. Wileiden expects that there will be at least 150 groups in all the 16 counties vying for the first place to represent their own county in the state tournament. The music groups are holding county-wide festivals too in order that the representative groups may be wisely chosen.

Though many Wisconsin counties have not entered the state tournament and festival and have not taken steps to hold county contests Wileiden feels that starting the music work this year is an indication of the increasing importance of rural talent development.

WISCONSIN FIRST IN KRAUT CABBAGE

Wisconsin was first in all states in the nation in production of cabbage for kraut with a crop of 64,800 tons in 1930 or an increase of 37 per cent over production of last year. This exceptional crop came largely as a result of a 31 per cent increase in acreage, from 5,500 last year to 7,200 in 1930, according to the crop reporting service of the Wisconsin and United States departments of agriculture at Madison. Yield per acre was down about one-half of that this year compared to last.

Total production of cabbage for kraut in the United States was 192,700 tons in 1930 or an increase of 24 per cent over the crop of last year and 34 per cent over the 1928 crop. Acreage in the United States showed an increase of 32 per cent compared to the 1929 acreage. All states with significantly large areas usually devoted to kraut cabbage planted larger acreages in 1930 than in 1929. Farm value of the United States 1930 crop of cabbage for kraut is estimated at $1,536,000 which is four per cent under the value of a year ago due to a decrease of 22 per cent in price which placed the average price in the country as a whole at $7.97 per ton for this year's crop.

Wisconsin accounted for 29 per cent of the United States acreage of kraut cabbage during the past season and produced 34 per cent of the country's entire crop. The average seasonal price is estimated at $8.50 per ton for the 1930 state crop as compared to $11.00 and $8.20 for the 1929 and 1928 crops respectively. Average price of Wisconsin cabbage for the past season was well above that in most other important kraut cabbage producing states. Farm value of the 1930 Wisconsin crop has been placed at $561,000 which, due to greater production, is $31,000 more than the value of the 1929 crop and it is $213,000 more than farm value of the 1928 kraut cabbage crop.

FEED THE GAME BIRDS

Now is the time to do something for our game birds. The heavy snowfall of Sunday has covered the fields and swamps and the birds cannot get at their natural food. If you know of a covey of quail, prairie chicken, or pheasant, or places where partridge can be found, please notify Warden R. J. Lake, phone 480, A. G. Langenbach, phone 400, or M. Kratzer, phone 4, West Bend, so arrangements can be made to supply food. Corn on the cob nailed to trees or posts for pheasant, a sheltered place for shelled corn, chaff, etc., for quail, prairie chicken and partridge. Barn sweepings are an excellent food, and our farmer friends can help greatly by supplying this. Do not throw the food on the snow, simply scrape the snow away to the ground and place the food. If thrown on the snow away to the ground and the birds will not be able to get at it.

The Washington County Fish and Game protective association will provide the funds, where necessary, to supply food, and we need a lot of volunteers to carry out the feeding program. Enlist and do your part now. *Subscribe for the Statesman now.

HEAVIEST SNOW OF SEASON HITS VILLAGE

The heaviest snow fall of this winter, fell here Sunday and Sunday night, when the ground was covered with a white blanket of over a foot deep. The snow was wet and therefore did not drift very much causing serious interference to traffic or damage to power or telephone lines. Trains and busses were able to keep their schedule about normal. Though the roads were slippery and a number of automobiles skidded off the road into the ditch, none of them, however, were damaged badly, nor was anyone hurt. The heaviest previous snowfall of the winter was three inches on December 18.

MILK QUALITY IS ON UPGRADE

Results thus far obtained in the market milk survey being conducted throughout Wisconsin indicate that a vast improvement has been made in the quality of milk being supplied to consumers during the past two years. Bacterial counts in some samples of raw milk have been found to reach the remarkably low figure of 3,000, according to Harry Kluefer, chief of the dairy and food division of the department of agriculture and markets. Two of the lowest bacterial counts were found in small towns. One milkman in Cambria had milk which reached only 3,000 bacteria and another milk dealer in Sauk City had milk with a bacterial count of only 4,000. Four samples taken of raw milk in the city of Madison varied in counts from 6,000 to 36,000, also remarkably low, according to Mr. Kluefer.

Pasteurization has made a remarkable improvement throughout the state. Samples of some pasteurized milk taken in 1929 showed a count as high as several million due to failure in many cases to keep the cooling apparatus clean. Unless the coolers which cool the milk after pasteurization are kept clean, Mr. Kluefer explains that the milk may become reinfected. Milk plants have co-operated with the state department in remedying these difficulties.

Reduction in average bacterial count of all samples of milk taken in the city of Madison are pointed to as being reasonably typical of the progress made in the state. Mr. Kluefer said. The present milk survey shows an average of 23,500, while in 1929 the average count was 390,000. The present milk census gives the count in Baraboo at 182,000 for an average of all samples. In Saux City the count averaged 29,000; in Prairie du Sac 93,000, and Kilbourn had 178,500, Cambria 29,000, Randolph 132,000, Fox Lake counts showed 174,500 and Pardeville 53,600.

51,222 TONS OF FERTILIZER USED IN 1930

A total of 51,222 tons of fertilizer was used by Wisconsin farmers in 1930, according to a report just made by W. B. Griem, in charge of feed and fertilizer inspection of the department of agriculture and markets. This amount is an increase over 1929 of more than 11,000 tons. The use of commercial fertilizers has shown a constant increase, only 1,500 tons being used in 1929 and only 16,000 tons were used in 1926.

Cabbage, corn, potatoes and tobacco are the crops for which most of the fertilizers are bought, according to Mr. Griem. About one-half of the 1931 supply was used for corn, while 10,000 tons were used on potatoes. About 7,000 tons of 2-12-2 fertilizer were purchased last year and an equal amount of 2-12-6 was used. This shows an increasing use of higher analysis fertilizers as the amount of 2-12-6 fertilizer constituted only one-half that of the 2-12-2 used in 1928. High grade superphosphates have also shown a marked increase in use throughout the state, the reason for this being the fact that freight rates on the high grade fertilizers are no more than on low grade. Over 2,000 tons of treble-superphosphates were used in 1930, as compared to only 85 tons in 1925.

GRAND PRIZE CARD PARTY

The ladies of the Holy Trinity congregation have arranged for a grand prize card party, to be held Wednesday, Jan. 28 at the school hall. The following games will be played: Skat, bridge, cinch, 500, schafkopf and bunco will be played downstairs. A door prize will be given and a fine lunch will be served after the games. Playing will begin at 8:15 p. m. sharp. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

RADEMANN FINED $300.00 AND COSTS

Fred Rademann, Mecker inn-keeper, changed his plea of "not guilty" to "guilty" on the charge of keeping a house of ill fame after finding that the evidence against him was too strong. He was fined $300 and costs, and received a sentence in the county jail of one year, but the sentence was suspended and he was placed on probation to Sheriff Theo. Holtebeck for the period of time.

In the case of H. H. Loomer vs. L. Murray, an auto accident case, the jury brought in a verdict of $225.00 in favor of the plaintiff. The case of Chas. Aesch vs. Chas. Sullivan was settled. The Chas. Litow vs. Herman Duberke case was dismissed.

Ed. J. Schwartz of Milwaukee was granted a divorce from Kathleen Schwartz of Milwaukee. Walter Wyman had his marriage to Grace Paige Wyman annulled. The couple had from Fond du Lac and were married four years ago when both were 17 years old.

Victoria Schlegel of this city was granted a divorce from George Schlegel of Milwaukee, formerly of this city. A cash settlement was made in lieu of alimony, $1,000, and $50 attorney fees. Mr. Schlegel must pay $5.00 a week for the support of his child.—West Bend News.

MEMBERS OF THE G. U. G. GERMANIA TAKE NOTICE

Please take notice that the undersigned received the new certificates of all the members who changed their certificates for 20 years payment or other certificates, and are urgently requested to come to the meeting on Monday evening, January 26 and call for their certificates and pay their assessments, or come to the home of the undersigned. The undersigned will not and can not advance any assessments from now on. Assessments must be paid every month or three months in advance otherwise suspension will follow. Also be advised that installation of officers will take place Monday evening, January 26th, and refreshments will be served after the meeting. All members should attend said meeting.

JOHN KLESSIG, Secretary.

With the Wisconsin Legislature

Agricultural and unemployment relief programs for immediate application were offered the Wisconsin legislature by Gov. Philip F. La Follette in his first message to that body.

Beginning of a power project based on public ownership of utilities, creation of a governor's council from public and private life, a new labor code including increased benefits under the workmen's compensation law, and new election laws were recommended by him.

The gallery and available floor space around the edge of the assembly chamber were packed with visitors who came to hear first hand the recommendations of the 33-year-old executive.

Further messages relating to state finances and appropriations, and legislation covering regulation of private utilities, chain banks and stores will be offered later, La Follette explained.

Increased gasoline tax from two to four cents a gallon is the basis of his unemployment relief project. It calls for concentrating three years of normal grade crossing removal work into the present year.

"Your action can put men to work in a few days," La Follette told the joint session of senate and assembly. He pointed out that plans and specifications already have been prepared by the state and the railroads concerned.

The 60th regular session of the Wisconsin legislature convened at Madison with progressive republican supporters of Gov. Philip F. La Follette in control of both assembly and senate.

Charles B. Perry, Wauwatosa, was elected speaker of the assembly with almost solid backing from both republican and democratic sides.

Birchwood—Birchwood's last Civil war veteran, Hiram Santos, 85, is dead.

Fennimore—James Lomas, 81, a resident here 74 years, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Otto Gutweiler.

Madison—The Southern Wisconsin Teachers' association will meet in its annual convention here Feb. 13 and 14.

Hudson—Blasting open a safe at the Roberts postoffice near here, bandits obtained $250 in stamps and money.

Grantsburg—Four bandits who held up the First Bank of Grantsburg escaped with $10,000 after locking 10 persons in the vault.

Green Bay—Joseph Linsmeyer, 43, was almost instantly killed when he was thrown into a circular saw on his farm four miles west of Denmark.

Madison—Philip H. Porter, appointed to the state railroad commission last June by Governor Kohler, has tendered his resignation to Gov. La Follette.

Thorp—Mrs. John Kalaczakowski, 40, and her daughter, Eleanor, 4, were killed when the car in which they rode was struck by a Soo line train at a crossing here.

Mineral Point—Glen Wenger, 24, was fatally injured when a rifle in the hands of his companion, James Toay, was accidentally discharged on the outskirts of this city.

Oshkosh—J. M. Burge, chiropractor charged with using the title "Dr." on his business cards, was found guilty after 30 minutes' deliberation by a municipal court jury.

Kenosha—Mrs. Emma Churchill White, 93, who was the first white child born in the settlement of Southport, which since has become Kenosha, died here at the home of her son.

Sparta—The American Cigar company has opened its sorting rooms here, giving employment to 180 tobacco workers and 40 employes in other departments.

Green Bay—A large still and 120 gallons of finished alcohol were confiscated by federal prohibition agents when they raided the farm of Edward Jarvis, route 5, Green Bay.

Milwaukee—A former sheriff of Brown county, William Gauerke, 61, of Green Bay, Wis., was arraigned in court here on a charge of operating a confidence game in connection with the issuing of a $26.50 check which turned out to be no good.

Menasha—Robert Schommer, 3, was rescued from drowning in Lake Butte des Morts when Mrs. E. K. Sindahl and Mrs. J. Samletzke crept out on thin ice to reach him. The women worked fifteen minutes before they succeeded in getting the child out of the water.

Madison—Psychiatrists who examined Myron Stevenson of Marinette, former University of Wisconsin student convicted of assault with intent to rob, said that he was suffering from an acute mental upset and ordered him to Bradley Memorial hospital under guard.

Weyauwega—The Wisconsin Potato Growers' Exchange co-operative has made a new departure in Wisconsin potato marketing. The potatoes are being put up in 15-pound or one-peck sacks and shipment has been made direct from the farmers' co-operative to retail stores.

Madison—The city of Plymouth lost its supreme court suit against the railroad commission to get the exclusive right to sell utility service in the contiguous town of Plymouth. The city asked the commission to prevent the Wisconsin Gas & Electric Co. of Racine from extending its electric lines into that territory.

Madison—It cost $35,201,753, or $11.91 per capita, to operate the general departments of the state of Wisconsin during 1929, the commerce department at Washington announced.

In 1928, the per capita cost was $10.37 and in 1918 it was $9.04. Total revenue receipts were $54,100,856, or $18.31 per capita. This was $18,789,644 more than total payments for the year, exclusive of those for permanent improvements, and $2,089,749 more than total payments including such improvements.

Madison—Executives of some of Wisconsin's largest industries were called into conference on the subject of general economic conditions by Gov. Philip F. La Follette. The conference, held at the executive mansion instead of the capitol, was attended by Ray Smith, C. R. Messinger, Chain Belt Company, Milwaukee; C. W. Nash, Nash Motors Company, Kenosha; S. B. Way, the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Company, Milwaukee; Otto Falk, Allis-Chalmers Company, West Allis; and L. R. Clausen, J. I. Case Company, Racine.

Stevens Point—The Wisconsin Telephone Co. has completed installation of a $49,000 underground conduit here. Work is being continued on a long distance cable between Stevens Point and Appleton, Wis., involving an expenditure of $2,000,000.

Appleton—The old Lake Winnebago level war has been settled with the stipulation that the level be maintained at 24 1/2 inches above the crest of the Menasha dam, according to a communication from F. H. Payne, assistant secretary of war.

Madison—Sixty-nine of the 80 Wisconsin persons who died from diphtheria in 1929 failed to have toxin administered, the state board of health reports in pointing out the necessity of immunization. Thirty-four of the 80 victims were children under 6, while 23 were between 6 and 12.

Ashtland—Theft of a mail sack containing $21,000 a Saxon, Wis., on New Year's eve was confessed by Frank Bauer, 20, of Saxon, who implicated Theodore Palmquist, 14, also of Saxon. The two are held in jail here.

Juneau—A force of 60 enlisted vigilantes was sworn in here to protect Dodge county business places against robbers. The deputies will be under the sheriff and will hold regular target practice.

MANY DIE AS QUAKE WRECK MEXICAN CITY

Oaxaca in Ruins; Hundreds Are Made Homeless.

Mexico City.—Soldiers are digging in the ruins of Oaxaca, capital of the state of Oaxaca, to uncover more bodies of victims of an earthquake which shook all southern Mexico and northern Guatemala.

Radio messages from Oaxaca report that 50 persons have been found dead and that 90 per cent of a population of 40,000 have been made homeless. Parks and plazas have been converted into camping grounds for thousands, while outside the city hundreds of others waited, fearing to return to the few houses left standing.

Most of the adobe houses in Oaxaca crumpled with the first quake, which lasted three minutes. Telegraphic communications were cut, power lines severed, and the helpless city was plunged into darkness while the panic stricken population fled to open fields to escape being crushed to death by the tottering walls.

Rescue work is going on under the direction of Gen. Evaristo Perez, military commander of the state of Oaxaca, whose staff established an encampment on the outskirts of the city after the barracks were destroyed. He was also gathering a supply of food for the destitute, who are facing starvation. Troops are patrolling the streets, while rescue squads are frantically digging to remove dead and injured. Other troops are tearing down partially wrecked houses whose unsupported walls are a further menace.

President Ortiz Rubio, now in Acapulco, kept in touch with Oaxaca by radio. He ordered aid be rushed to the stricken city. Doctors and nurses were enlisted here and sent to Oaxaca, while medical supplies, hospital equipment and food stores were rushed to the scene.

With the death list mounting the people of Oaxaca are in mourning. Families have been separated, and there is no way of checking the missing until order is restored among the quake-stricken mobs, who fear more quakes.

According to General Perez the damage to property will run into millions in Oaxaca alone.

From other towns in the same state have come reports of death and destruction. No word had been received from mountain villages. It is feared the loss in these areas is considerable.

The quakes lasted for three hours and spread over fifteen states. In Mexico City one was killed and 25 were hurt. There was also considerable property loss. Mount Popocatepetl was reported smoking, though no word of an eruption has been received.

Mazatlan, Mexico.—Hunters returning from Pacific coast trips said they had seen great columns of smoke rising from the sea.

This was taken as indicating that an undersea volcano was erupting.

Dead fish, probably killed by poisonous fumes, have been thrown on the beaches for ten days.

Negro Chained to Roof Slowly Burned to Death

Maryville, Mo.—Raymond Gunn, negro, chained to the ridgepole of a little white country schoolhouse, died in flames, the victim of a mob's vengeance.

Neither civilian officers nor a National Guard battery, mobilized to protect him, interfered after those who resorted to lynch law had wrested Gunn, confessed murderer, from the automobile of Sheriff Harve England and marched and dragged him three miles to the school.

There, eyewitnesses said, he was taken to the place where the battered, partly nude and violated body of Velma Colter, nineteen-year-old school teacher, had been found, and made to repeat a confession of complicity in her death.

Liability Limit $500 in Lake Death of 48

Milwaukee, Wis.—Liability of the Grand Trunk Car Ferry lines in damage suits totaling about $250,000, which were started by relatives of 21 seamen who were drowned when the car ferry Milwaukee sank in Lake Michigan, was limited to approximately $500 in an opinion given by Federal Judge F. A. Geizer. Forty-eight seamen lost their lives when the ferry was lost during a terrific storm in October, 1929.

The ruling limits the amount that can be collected in the damage suits to the value of the car ferry at the end of its voyage, as provided in an old marine statute. The only salvage was two lifeboats and earned charges a freight.

Former Wrestling Champ Dead
San Antonio, Texas.—Wayne Munn, thirty-five, former heavyweight wrestling champion, died in the base hospital, Fort Sam Houston, from bright's disease.

Rob Wisconsin Bank of $10,000
Milwaukee.—In a holdup of the First bank of Grantsburg, Wis., three bandits obtained $10,000 and made their getaway in an automobile in which a fourth member of the gang awaited them.

Draws Double Life Sentence
Fort Scott, Kan.—Alvin Payton, twenty-one, received a double life sentence in the state penitentiary after a jury convicted him of killing Under Sheriff Melvin C. Hamilton of Labette county.

Is Named Attaché
London.—Capt. Patrick McNamara has been appointed British naval attaché to the United States, Panama and Cuba. He will reside in Washington.

WOULD KEEP MARINES

President Jose Moncada.

Managua, Nicaragua.—President Jose Moncada of Nicaragua believes it would be unwise to withdraw American marines from the country at this time. The president said he would like, however, to insure additional cooperation of Nicaraguans with the marines in an effort to stamp out banditry.

BILLION AND HALF PUBLIC WORK READY

Great Program of Construction Projects Now Completed.

Washington.—A billion and a half dollars worth of construction projects have been reported to the President's employment committee as ready to get under way.

Cities, counties and other minor political subdivisions have available $700,000,000 for public construction and $217,402,400 more will be available as soon as bonds can be sold.

The government has either under way or authorized $346,118,507 of federal building projects exclusive of money authorized for purchase of lands and sites. This does not include such large projects as the Boulder dam.

The exact figure for state building projects has not been reported to the committee, but more than $100,000,000 worth of state bonds for highway purposes have been voted and many millions of dollars worth of contracts are in preparation.

During December $12,109,196 worth of federal aid highway projects were contracted for by state highway departments.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Busy days ahead for the tire industry with millions of motorists running their automobiles on casings worn to the cord were predicted by the Union Trust company of Cleveland.

In a survey the company has just completed, it found that motorists probably will be in the market in 1931 for 61,000,000 casings, or 14 per cent more than they bought last year.

Lorain, Ohio.—Order for 80,000 tons of seamless pipe has been received by the National Tube company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, it was announced here.

Clarksburg, W. Va.—The Century Coal company announced it will reopen in a few days five mining plants at Century that have been idle since July, 1928.

Reading, Pa.—Salesmen of the Reading Iron company, with headquarters here, brought tidings of better times and a larger volume of business at their annual meeting, P. N. Guthrie, Jr., president, stated. For the first time in a long period the big tube mills here are in full operation, and plants in other parts of the city and the big mills at Danville, Pa., are at work.

First Woman Hanged in Hungary in Generations
Szolnek, Hungary.—Crying "God help me," Frau Marie Kardos was hanged in the prison courtyard here in atonement to the state for murder of her husband and twenty-two-year-old son last year. She was the first woman to be hanged by court sentence in Hungary for many generations.

Legge Warns Pit Bears
Washington.—Chairman Legge of the federal farm board has delivered a subtle warning to wheat pit bears, disclosing that the farm board even now is holding tremendous contracts for future delivery on the one hand, and is rapidly gaining control of the cash wheat supply on the other.

Legge said the grain stabilization corporation is holding about 75,000,000 bushels of cash wheat, and about 55,000,000 bushels of futures contract wheat which must be delivered between now and next July 1.

Legge admitted that on July 1, when the new crop begins coming in, he expects the board to be holding "virtually all of the national carryover."

Trotzky Is Refused German Visa
Berlin.—Leon Trotzky, exiled Soviet leader, has been refused a German visa by the German consulate in Istanbul.

Sell 55 Carloads of Potatoes
Chicago.—More than 2,000,000 pounds of Idaho russet potatoes for March delivery, comprising 55 carloads, were sold at the Chicago mercantile exchange, marking the opening of what is said to be the world's first potato futures market.

Grid Gate Totals $499,822
Stanford, Calif.—Football receipts for Stanford university totaled $499,822 for the 1930 season, it was announced here.

$1,570,000 for Rails
Chicago.—Contracts for 36,500 tons of steel rails were distributed by the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy railway, involving an expenditure of approximately $1,570,000. Track fastening requirements will be placed in a few days, it is understood.

$15,000,000 DROUGHT ALLOWANCE DEFEATED

Bill to Conference; Appeal for Red Cross Funds.

Washington.—After a session bristling with debate in criticism of the administration drought and economic relief program, the senate found itself squarely up against the demand that $25,000,000 be donated from the federal treasury to the American Red Cross if an extra session is to be avoided.

Offered as an amendment to the agricultural appropriation bill, the proposal was submitted by Senator Robinson of Arkansas, Democratic floor leader, with the warning that failure of congress to accept the plan would cause much of the legislation planned for this session to "land on the scrap heap."

Washington.—The house declined to agree to the senate amendment for $15,000,000 for food for farmers and their families in the drought areas, which was added to the $45,000,000 drought relief bill. Then the house ordered the bill with the amendment to conference with representatives of the senate.

When an agreement is reached funds will become available for the drought loans authorized by legislation enacted before the holidays as part of the President's relief program. The house action came shortly after President Hoover had appealed to the public for $10,000,000 in popular contributions to the Red Cross fund for relief work.

Washington.—President Hoover issued an appeal to the public for contributions to the Red Cross $10,000,000 fund for relief in the drought-stricken areas. The appeal follows:

"There must be a very material increase in the resources of the American Red Cross to enable it to bear the burden which it has undertaken in the drought area and smaller communities over 21 states during this winter. Within the last ten days the Red Cross has had to increase the rate of expenditures to an amount greater than during the entire preceding four months."

"The American Red Cross is the nation's sole agency for relief in such a crisis; it is meeting the demand and must continue to do so during the remainder of the winter."

"The disaster reserve of the Red Cross which was pledged to this emergency last August is not sufficient to meet the increased demand. It is imperative, in the view of the expert members of the board of directors of the Red Cross, that a minimum of at least $10,000,000 be contributed to carry the relief program to completion."

"The familiarity of this situation, due to months of press reports of its progress, should not blind us to the fact that it is an acute emergency nor dull our active sympathies toward our fellow countrymen who are in actual want and in many cases will lack the bare necessities of life unless they are provided for."

"As president of the United States and as president of the American Red Cross, I therefore appeal to our people to contribute promptly and most generously in order that the suffering of thousands of our fellow countrymen may be prevented. I am doing so with supreme confidence that in the face of this great humanitarian need your response will be immediate."

In making public his appeal President Hoover pointed out that the problem in the drought areas is connected with the general depression. Not only have the farmers been hit by the drought of the past season, but the cities and villages in the agricultural area have felt the reaction of both the business depression and the drought.

Assurance was given by the President that the Red Cross and the Department of Agriculture will cooperate in administering relief work, the latter having authority over drought loans for seed and fertilizer authorized by congress.

Urges Farm Board Wheat Be Ground for the Poor
Oklahoma City.—A resolution memorializing congress to empower the federal farm board to have ground in flour for the poor 100,000,000 bushels of wheat now held by the board's subsidiaries was adopted unanimously by the Oklahoma house of representatives.

FASHIONS IN KNITTED WEAR PLACE EMPHASIS ON STRIPES

SENTENCED to receive many stripes of many gay colors—such is the decree handed down for knitted fashions. In all the advance showings of things knitted, stripes are made a theme of special importance, not only for sweaters and accessory scarfs and such, but for the costume attire as shown in the illustration herewith.

Suits on the order of the model pictured declare emphatically "what's newest" in knitted togs for midseason wear and for spring. This fetching two-piece is of light woven knit. The skirt with its inverted box pleats and the little jacket are striped in pink, white and green.

Competing with the very new stripes are charming flecked effects. For instance, the all-ance of white, black, and gray is noted in a stunning knitted suit for spring. Contrasting patterning and color arrangement in the yoke and scarf make the costume unusually attractive.

Angora embroidery is another decorative feature in the knitted realm. Tailored knitted suits designedly worked with angora are highlighted throughout resort collections, which is assurance of their prestige for spring.

The tunic blouse and lace-way sweaters are also contributing factors to knitted modes for now and for the season to come. Bouclette tunic dresses are proving very great favorites. One model in particular has captured the fancy of style-minded women—that with angora stripes in its sleeves and the scarf which finishes the neckline.

Lacy wool sweaters are advanced, especially in white, at the present moment, for resort wear to complete modish white flannel ensembles.

Particularly noteworthy are the sweaters which space lacy knit with embroidered patterning.

It is interesting to note the emphasis placed on such styling features as the peplum, the bolero and the flaring skirt in knitted fashions.

For Party or Resort.
Half the urge of going south is the prospect of wearing the lovely sheer frocks which are being so temptingly displayed at this time of the year among resort fashions. Likewise half the fun in staying home is the lure of wearing frocks just as airy-fairy, to parties and dances which are so happily filling in the winter night hours for those who remain in the north.

Every one knows that sheer cotton makes one look very young whether it be under southern sunny skies or in the dine and dance environment of midwinter festivities in the north. The frock illustrated is a timely theme arate jackets and coats to be worn for sports or over lingerie frocks. These embroidered materials are bought with more than usual care and in that the better grades are worked with durable cotton which means that their colorings are reliable and of an attracting luster due to special processing.

With the midseason and spring season the call of the mode is for the blouse made of fine eyelet-embroidered tulle in lovely pastel tones.

therefore, for the sweet young maiden who will be having her way in the south this summer, well as for gay youth in the north which will dine and dance the night out to heart's content.

This "daring" dress achieves extreme youthfulness in its rene embroidery done in a rosebud motif. It's flounced way up to the waist and if you have been studying the new fashions, you will have discovered that designers are decidedly in favor of Myriads of tiny ruffles or one or three or four wide ones for that's the way they are doing it. CHAPTER VII

In Rama Was There a Voice Heard

Vladimir left the House of Krassin as he came in—by the back door, and went to the little wicket gate on the rear street. He was in a worn uniform, that of a common soldier.

The time had come to bring his dawdling to an end, to take his plunge; to assume his supreme duty; to yield to the exigent necessity of the hour—resistance to the Dictatorship of the proletariat.

As he reached the wall, he turned back at the great old house on its hill overlooking Kazan and fronting on its principal street. Though it looked so homelike, with its few lights shining out toward him between the boles of the tall trees, he felt rather light-hearted. He could no longer be thrown into the temptation to compromise conspiracy with love in his frequent meetings with Musia; and he would no longer feel when Mrs. Krassin that one moment he was condemned by her for his neglect of his duty to Musia, and the next that she almost hated him for taking the bold course which might bring Ilya into danger.

He had decided to go without bidding either of them good-by—for several reasons. He knew that they would understand, and that he would not be expected to mention his plans to them; he would be spared any farewell to Musia—a farewell for which he longed, but one which he feared would be too much for his self-control. And then in slipping away thus, he should avoid any display of the contrast between his course and Ilya's, either before Musia, who was his partisan, or her mother who stood with Ilya.

And then it was the dark of the moon, for which he had been waiting. He would travel by night and hide by day, disguised in his soldier's uniform. His was the temperament of the happy warrior; he knew that Musia would understand and approve—and his heart rose as he opened the little wicket into the back street.

He stood with his hand on the hump of the gate and looked back again, at the big house, lichened and scaly with age, with all its treasures of tapestries, books, sculpture, rugs, antiques, musical instruments, and its great store of provisions. He felt a twinge of guilt at leaving Musia undefended in it. He thought even of the old judge, who knew nothing of the revolution, but whom it must reach at last—unless the forces which Vladimir was about to join could bring rescue in time. Vladimir was the last of the men to depart; for he never included Ilya in his list of men. But what could he do alone, even if he stayed? There was no other course—he must take the plunge, and trust to fortune that he might return to Musia in time.

He opened the gate and stepped out. He stepped out into the midst of a detail of Bolshevik soldiers! It was as if a trap had been set for him. The spring of the door had sprung it behind him, and the spring lock held it fast. He was locked out—with his back to the wall. The hand which went to the hoister was pinioned to his side; but he turned the muzzle up and shot from the hip. One dark form staggered and he toppled over. There was a short sharp fight with fist and foot, in which numbers prevailed; and Vladimir was hustled off, disarmed and bleeding, toward the krepost by the soldiers.

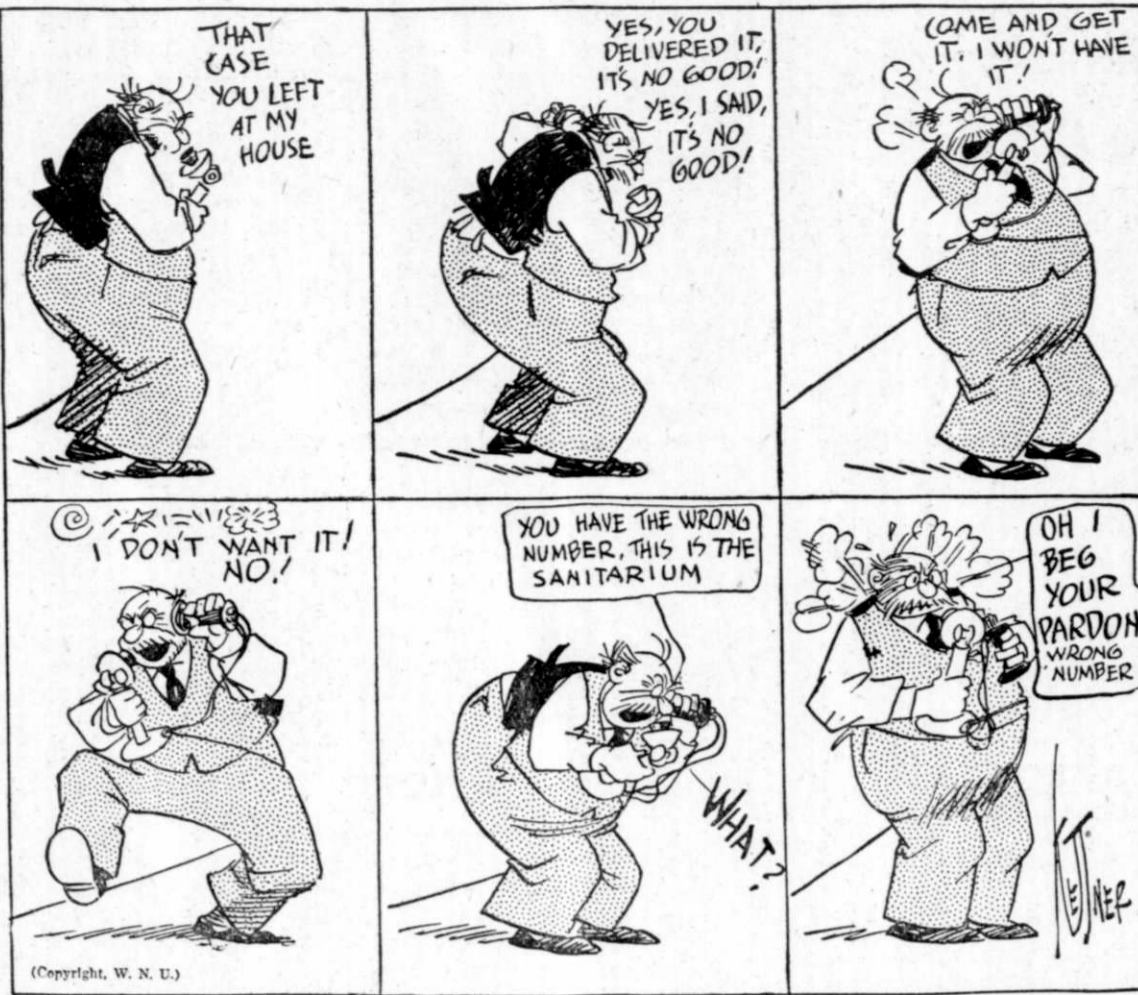

"Tovarisch," said the man in command to one of his soldiers, "go to the front and tell the commander that we have got one of them—and that he got one of us!"

FOR THE BUSY HOUSEKEEPER

In many homes fresh cookies are so much more enjoyed than a large amount baked at one time. Here is the ice-box cookie which may be kept many days and when a tin of fresh cookies is wanted, slice off a few, put them in the oven and bake them as brown as you like.

Ice Box Cookies.—Take one cupful each of butter, brown and granulated sugar, two eggs, one teaspoonful each of salt and soda, one cupful of nutmeats, one teaspoonful each of almond and vanilla extract and four and one-fourth cupfuls of flour. Cream the butter, add the sugar, eggs and other ingredients. Roll into two rolls and let stand on a cloth in a pan placed in the ice box. The cloth keeps the dough from flattening and sticking to the pan and thus losing its round shape. Slice very thin, decorate with half a nut meat, a raisin or cherry as one's taste suggests.

Another food so much liked in all our homes is fresh rolls. It takes time to prepare a light and crisp roll. Here is a recipe which will keep for a week or longer in the ice chest and a pan of biscuits may be baked any time one cares to serve them.

Ice Box Rolls.—Dissolve two compressed yeast cakes in one-fourth of a cupful of warm water, adding two teaspoonfuls of sugar. Add two table-spoonfuls of shortening, one teaspoonful of salt, one-half cupful of sugar to a pint of boiling water. Beat two eggs and mix all together with four cupfuls of flour. Beat well, then add three and one-half cupfuls more of flour, mix well with a spoon but do not knead. Set away in the refrigerator until the next day at noon, when it will be ready to use. Handle the rolls quickly, brush with melted lard or sweet fat when they are placed in the pan. Let stand until more than double their bulk; keep covered while rising in a warm place.

With these two mixtures in the ice box, one may be ready for the unexpected and need not worry.

World Pays Tribute to Shrine of Bobby Burns

Many places have been "made" by the genius of a great writer. Scott has done more for the tourist agencies and the railways of England than any of his countrymen, because his range was so wide. He discovered the Trossachs and Loch Katrine, and even made the Peak of Derbyshire world-famous. But there are no more halcyon spots than those which dot the Burns country.

The country town of Ayr lies in the center of a fine sandy coast, with wonderful sea view across the great firth. There is no house in the kingdom, no palace or castle or great mansion, that has half the attraction for the world as the little thatched biggin at Alloway where Robert Burns was born. In its visitors' book are inscribed the names of men and women famous in literature, art and statescraft, the names of peers and peasants and of kings, all come to worship at the shrine of genius.

Close by is the Auld Brig o' Doon, leaping in a single gray and graceful span the little stream whose name has gone round the world. Close by, too, is the haunted kirk, where Tam o' Shanter saw witches and warlocks holding revelry in its churchyard. In the town itself can still be seen the Auld Brig of Ayr, the theme of one of his finest poems, whilst the river Ayr is forever associated with the ode.

Man's Better Half

The correct expression as used in the Bible to describe a man's wife is helpmeet. In Genesis 2:18 is this: "And the Lord God said, It is not good that the man shall be alone; I will make him a help meet for him." Meet is here used to mean fit or suitable—a helper suitable for him. The words were combined as helpmeet to mean a wife, and changed by popular misuse to helpmate, and both words now are recognized as proper.

New Slant on Evolution

by Baltimore Scientist

That the African gorilla is becoming more like man than it once was, an example of converging instead of diverging evolution, so that the similarities of man and gorilla of which many evolutionists make much may be partly accidental, is a conclusion which may be drawn from a new diagram of man's family tree published in the anthropological review Human Biology by Dr. Adolph H. Schultz of Johns Hopkins university, as a result of many detailed studies of the body forms of man and his closer relatives among apes and monkeys.

The evolutionary stem which was to lead to man split off from the main stem of the apes and monkeys, Doctor Schultz's diagram assumes, very long ago; in which conclusion the Baltimore anatomist apparently agrees with the widely quoted views of Dr. Henry Fairfield Osborn of New York city.

Only a short time after this original split into a monkey stem and a man-and-ape stem, the latter stem split again into one line which became that of man's ancestry and another line which led to the three manlike apes, the gorilla, the chimpanzee and the orang-utan. The creatures belonging to this ancestral stem of man were characterized from the beginning, Doctor Schultz believes, by living on the ground and by walking on four feet.

The ape stem, on the other hand, included creatures partly tree living and walking on four feet.—Baltimore Sun.

MOTHERS ARE LEARNING USES OF MAGNESIA

From the beginning of expectancy until baby is weaned, Phillips' Milk of Magnesia performs the greatest service for many women.

It relieves nausea, heartburn, "morning sickness," inclination to vomit; helps digestion. Its mild laxative action assures regular bowel movement.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is better than lime water for neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding. All drugstores have Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in generous 25c and 50c bottles. Always insist on the genuine, endorsed by physicians for 50 years.

A Bit Thick

Senator J. Thomas Hefflin, of Alabama, discussing a certain bribery case, said at a dinner in Washington:

"The proof of innocence was overwhelming, almost too overwhelming. In fact it was laid on a bit thick."

"It reminds me of a man whose wife accused him of receiving telephone calls from a young lady. The man denied the accusation, naturally."

"That night he was called up. He went to the telephone, and this is what his wife heard him say:

"Hello, Bill. Is that you, Bill? Sure I will, Bill. All right, Bill. Much obliged, Bill. Good-by, Bill."

"Then he hung up and said to his wife: "That was Bill."—Detroit Free Press.

NEW WESTERN BARLEY POOR FOR WISCONSIN

A "new-comer" barley, widely advertised in the West but inferior to standard Wisconsin varieties, has found its way into commercial channels and may get onto Wisconsin farms unless carefully guarded against, cautions Henry Leitz, inspector for the state seed laboratory operated by the State Department of Agriculture and Markets.
Last season this barley made its appearance on the mid-western markets mixed in a few shipments of barley from Wisconsin, Illinois, South Dakota, Minnesota and Iowa. Because of qualities objectionable to the commercial trade, its appearance on the market, even as a slight mixture, causes the entire quantity, in many instances to sell at a discount of from 10 cents to 20 cents a bushel under the price paid for standard Wisconsin varieties, Leitz finds.
This "new-comer" known as Trebi barley was introduced from North Africa in an effort to get a barley adaptable to the arid conditions of certain sections of the West and under dry conditions has made good yields and as a result has become quite widely advertised.
In Wisconsin it proves to be a poor variety. Tests conducted with it at the Wisconsin experiment station, Madison, by B. D. Leitz, agronomist, reveal the fact that it is a poor yielder under Wisconsin conditions. In 1930 it yielded 11.3 bushels per acre less than Pedigree number 38, the Wisconsin barless variety, and in 1929, 19.4 bushels per acre less. It also had a weak straw causing it to lodge badly, and the grain was of poor quality.
Trebi barley is described by Leitz as having a rather short head, the kernels are somewhat gray in color and slightly more slender or tapering than Wisconsin varieties. It has a low pearling value because the product made from it shows a decided gray color. It has little or no malting value since it produces a cloudy color in the malt products, an objectionable quality that gives it a serious price cut on the market.
Leitz suggests that Wisconsin growers acquaint themselves with the facts pertaining to this variety and exercise caution when obtaining seed, particularly from out of state sources, to make certain that this variety does not find its way into Wisconsin farms.

TORRENTS OF WATER

McCORMICK-DEERING ENGINE

WITH a McCormick-Deering Engine and an Atlas Pump Jack on the job you can end the drudgery of hand pumping for once and for all. With a good force pump at the well, you can build a running water system that is simple, efficient and easy on the pocketbook as well. All you need is a little plumbing skill, a few lengths of pipe, a tank on the attic and you're all set. Think of the time and effort it would save. Consider the convenience and added pleasure it will bring to your household. Pumping water was never meant to be a woman's job—and no man should waste time doing this tedious chore. We sell the engine, the jack, and the other accessories, and we will quote you a price on a complete outfit for your farm on request. Come in and let us talk over.

Feed Prices Are Lower

International Special Dairy Feed, Per ton	$27.00
Egg Mash, with Cod Liver Oil, Per ton	$49.00
Pure Bran, Per ton	$20.00
Oil Meal, 3 1/2% protein, Per 100 pounds	$2.25
No. 2 Yellow Corn, Per 100 pounds	$1.45
Chicken Wheat, Per 100 pounds	$1.50

The proper care and feeding of live stock and poultry is doubly important when prices are low—because then you must have satisfactory production to avoid actual loss in feeding.

Highest Paid Short Fiction Writer

FANNIE HURST is the highest paid short story writer in the world today. There's a good reason for that. She knows human nature and under the magic of her touch, the people about whom she writes become real people, not mere literary creations. The plots of her stories are based on incidents from real life as it is lived every day by the common people.

Such are the stories which are appearing in this newspaper. Be sure to read them and talk to your friends about them, for they like interesting stories, too. And Fannie Hurst's stories are interesting stories.

The BEST Gray Hair Remedy is Home Made

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

—Mrs. Milton Ehrent entertained twelve little guests Wednesday afternoon in honor of Arleigh Ehrent's sixth birthday. All enjoyed contests with prizes and games. Supper was served at six o'clock. The table being decorated with green and pink streamers fastened to nut cups and place cards. Those present were: Delores Fick, Berdell Ficks, Shirley and Marvin Kempf, Harold Backhaus, Marie Kolafa, Dorothy and Ruth Haack, Delores Heberer, Florence Bleck and Miss Marie Adams. The little guest of honor received many pretty little gifts. In the evening five hundred was played by the parents. Honors going to ladies' first—Mrs. Adolph Heberer; second—Mrs. Erwin Kempf. Gents' first—Henry Fick; second—Lester Ehrent. Dainty refreshments were served after the games.

Restoring Old Colonial

City of Williamsburg

The restoration of Williamsburg is the dream of Rev. William Goodwin, rector of Williamsburg Old Bruton parish church. An article in the September, 1928, issue of the Review of Reviews says that Doctor Goodwin was fired by a vision of Duke of Gloucester street as it must once have been. He conceived the plan of restoring Williamsburg, with modern buildings removed to side streets, old buildings brought back to their original beauty and others restored upon their original foundations in re-creation placed at Doctor Goodwin's disposal more than $4,000,000. The article says that all buildings on Duke of Gloucester street were bought by Williamsburg, Inc. "The modern buildings are to be torn down and rebuilt elsewhere, the old ones restored, the missing ones artfully contrived to look just as they did 250 years ago."

My Greatest Thrill in Sport

By OCTAVUS ROY COHEN
Popular Author—As Told to Homer George.

Of many years of watching fights, baseball games, golf matches, horse races and other kinds of sporting events, I am perfectly safe in picking instantly the greatest thrill which sport ever gave me. And that was when Luis Firpo knocked Jack Dempsey out of the ring in their famous battle. I cannot imagine any happening or any event from which the spectator could have had more of a kick than I had at this time.

It happened that I was in the second row, just back of the press stand, and naturally could not miss this tremendous thing. All my life I have been a writer and an associate of writers. I know newspaper men are trained to keep their enthusiasm under a basket; their wits always with them; their eyes wide open and their minds always calm so that every observation can be accurately recorded.

But this night I saw cold, collected newspaper men rise as much "in the air" as the wildest of partisans and create a scene which surpasses anything of my sporting knowledge. It was all so sudden, so unexpected and so wonderful of results that madness reigned in the press box as well as all over the enormous place. And I was as delirious as any other, despite my effort to remain under control.

What a sight it was! Here a man who was being rapidly beaten down and down; who was utterly lacking in science at a game which demands great science; and who was apparently almost out; a man desperately hanging on to his chance to last a bit longer suddenly coming up from the floor and more suddenly crashing out with a blow which lifted the greatest

INTERESTING SQUIBS OF SPORTS OF DIFFERENT KINDS

There will be eight clubs in the Sally league next season according to the plans of President W. G. Bramham.

A famous golfer has been presented with a completely furnished home. But what does a golfer want with a home?

Alfred DeOro won his first pocket billiards championship in 1887 and 24 years later, in 1911, he again was the titleholder.

University of Nebraska plans to re-trench its athletic department finances because of decreased gate receipts in football. No minor sports will be abandoned, but allowances to all sports will be reduced.

Raise for Gabby
The reward of perseverance was repaid amply by Gabby Hartnett recently.

The Cub loud speaker, who blew an inner tube in his propelling arm in 1929, but who came back with the explosion of a French "75" this past season, was offered a two-year contract by President William L. Veck of the Bruins, calling for better than $20,000 a season.

Worn Tires Are Big Threat to Safety in Operating Car

Worn tires are a threat to the safe operation of the automobile and a blowout, especially on the front wheels, when the car is traveling at a fair rate of speed, often makes it impossible for the driver to control the machine, according to Frank Hatfield, president of the Hoosier Motor club.

Mr. Hatfield pointed out that at a time when tires are the cheapest since the advent of the automobile, motorists should not sacrifice their own safety, as well as that of others, in the interests of economy. "Tires should be replaced," said the club executive, "as soon as they wear through the tread and the fabric begins to show. Moreover, the fabric is built in the tire as a foundation for the rubber tread and is not prepared to stand the strain of driving. "Frequent reports are received of serious accidents caused by worn tires. The front wheels guide the car and while tires on the rear wheel or the front of driving, good tires would always be on the front, as of all fighters off his feet and through the ropes out of the ring. Such a spectacle as this is to be found nowhere else in history.

And with that blow came a reign of pandemonium. Men trained by years of effort to withhold exhibitions of excitement went mad. With them thousands without such training completely lost all thoughts except that of the blow and its effect. So it became a mob house with hats flying in the air; hoarse shouts from every mouth and dizziness in every head. It was stupendous. It was far and away the most unexpected and stirring happening in the annals of sportdom.

And so I say it was my greatest thrill and it is hard to imagine how any other onlooker can think of any other happening which could have afforded him a greater thrill.

This six-wheel truck will always remain on an even keel, no matter how rough the road or what obstacles are in its path. Its peculiar construction is such that the wheels give in all directions. An excellent example of this is shown in the above photograph, where the truck has mounted two blocks of stone, with no effect on its equilibrium.

Grid Teams to Contest for Ancient Shillalah

There is the "Little Brown Jug," emblematic of years of rivalry between Minnesota and Michigan and also the "Old Oaken Bucket" for which the huskies of Purdue and Indiana risk their necks annually. These two now have a companion.

Kenneth L. ("Tag") Wilson, athletic director of Northwestern university, presented Kante K. Rockne with an ancient shillalah as a trophy to be fought for on the football field in the years to come between the two schools. The presentation was made at the annual banquet of the Notre Dame club of Chicago at the Lake Shore A. C.

In presenting the shillalah to Rockne Wilson stated that Northwestern and Notre Dame were building a splendid rivalry and tradition on the football field. He declared that this should be perpetuated and offered the shillalah as a trophy. The shillalah is over one hundred years old and came from Ireland.

Harry (Nemo) Lethold has signed a new contract to manage the Columbus American association baseball club next year. He joined the club as a player in 1926 and became its pilot in 1929.

Winter sports are now assuming a major role in the play life of the nation and with important roads kept open in the snow areas, motorists are ever increasing numbers are enjoying these outdoor activities, according to the American Automobile association.

The A. A. A. bases its statement on the inquiries received at touring bureaus of affiliated motor clubs and reports from hotels and resorts catering to winter travelers.

The total cost of the equipment for the third Olympic winter games, to be held at Lake Placid, N. Y., February 4 to 13, 1932, is estimated at $800,000. The funds will provide for a bobsled run, an open air stadium seating 4,000 and an arena where night skating and hockey events will be held.

The business depression hasn't caught up with football receipts at Northwestern university. The Wildcats, in five home games, drew 194,000 spectators, with receipts of $376,000. It was announced. The average attendance was above that of 1929, when the receipts were $427,208 and the attendance 219,000 for six games at home.

When Jack Zeller, the Detroit scout, dropped into Beaumont the other day a number of his friends there asked him about Bill Akers of the Detroit Tigers, who formerly played with Beaumont.

"Is he still gabbing as much as ever?" queried one of the fans. "Has anybody stopped Niagara falls?" countered Zeller. "The answer is 'no.'"

The official American association pitching records show Ben Tecumseh, of Louisville as the leader in 1930 with twelve games won and three lost and that is doing better than when he was a comparatively young man. In his forties, or thereabouts.

Until last season Ben was sort of slipping back. He had gotten to the point where he had lost almost all interest in his work.

Lubrication Big Need During Severe Weather

Cold-weather lubrication is of immediate importance to all farmers and machinery owners. Few there are who have not had more or less trouble lubricating their machines properly in cold weather. The reason for this is that the oil that is usually the most satisfactory and gives the best results in the summer does not have a sufficiently low "cold test" to flow freely when the temperature gets down much below freezing.

For summer lubrication the fire and flash test of an oil is the most important. What a machinery owner wants then is an oil that will stand up and retain its body when his machines are operating at the high temperatures usually encountered on the harvest fields. An oil of the proper fire and flash test as well as body, to properly lubricate under these conditions, usually has a cold test running from 25 to 35 degrees above zero. If this oil is used in the late fall, winter, or early spring, when the temperatures are below freezing, it thickens up and if the temperature gets low enough, will solidify, thus making it practically useless from a lubrication point of view, until the machines have warmed up to a point above the cold test of summer oil.

Modern refining processes have made it possible to remove the waxes found in lubricating oil which, while necessary to hot weather lubrication, are detrimental to the cold test. The removing of these waxes will lower the cold test of an oil from 15 to 25 degrees below its normal cold test.

All oil, and in fact any liquid, becomes solid at some temperatures and even specially cold tested winter oils will thicken up if the temperature gets low enough, but they will thin out quickly and do their job of lubricating properly a half hour before ordinary summer oil would be thin enough to be on the job.

Winter oils are ready to flow through the pump to all wearing parts of the motor within a few moments after starting when ordinary summer oil would be so thick and heavy that it would be twenty minutes or a half hour before it would be flowing freely. The resulting friction and wear on the motor during this time naturally causes tremendous damage and is avoided if properly cold tested winter oils are used.

All oil should be kept in a warm place so as to make it easy to draw from the container. When using an auto, truck or tractor during extremely cold weather, many find it easiest to drain the crank case at night while the oil is still warm, placing the oil in the house or where it is warm and putting the same oil back in the morning after thoroughly warming it. This, of course, gives the same starting conditions as far as the oil is concerned in winter as in summer.

Wakeful restless CHILD needs Castoria

We can never be sure just what makes an infant restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as Baby has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Other times it's constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked promptly. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow promptly; if it doesn't you should call a physician.

All through babyhood, Castoria should be a mother's standby; and a wise mother continues it in more liberal doses as a child grows up.

Readily obtained at any drug store, the genuine easily identified by the Chas. H. Fletcher signature and the name Castoria on the wrapper like this:

SPARE BUMBLEBEES THIS SPRING

Being friends of the bumblebees this spring will be worth $10,000,000 to the country, says state entomologist E. L. Chambers. The 47 varieties of bumblebees found in this country are responsible for good clover and alfalfa seed crops to a great extent, as the bumblebees are responsible for a great deal of pollination except in dry seasons when the blossoms are more available to honey bees.

Thousands of bumblebees have been sleeping in some clump of moss or trash since last July and August, Mr. Chambers says. These two summer months, Mr. Chambers says, are the festival and honeymoon period of the big black and yellow bee. During this time when the nectar flow on clovers and alfalfa is plentiful, from 100 to 500 males and queens may be produced by a single colony. Following the mating time the males eventually die and the queens go to sleep for nine months so that they do not wake until the following March and April. No male bee lives over winter.

Because of last summer's drought Wisconsin's bumblebee crop this coming year is apt to be short, Mr. Chambers says, but as each queen which comes through the winter is capable of producing hundreds of bees this next season, their protection is necessary. Skunks are one of the bumblebees' greatest enemies as they search out hiding places of the bees and at them.

When the queen wakes from her solitary slumber this coming spring she will find an old mouse nest or build a nest of her own, collect nectar build a cluster of 6 or 12 cells, lay her first batch of eggs and construct a honey pot which she keeps filled for use during bad weather or at night. What spare time she has she spends incubating the eggs. The eggs hatch in four days and the young bees, which are all workers, are full grown in 11 days and become perfect workers in 22 days. The life of a worker is about four weeks and the period from spring to summer is spent in rearing the worker colony up to 200 to 400 bees. Then the queen is ready to retire and lay the eggs which will be hatched into males and queens for the next season's progeny.

HEART DISEASE AMONG CHILDREN

"Heart disease, regarded by many people as being entirely an affliction of adults, takes its toll among Wisconsin school children," says Dr. T. I. Harrington of the Medical Staff of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association in discussing some of the causes and the prevention of heart disease in children.

Between 1 1/2 and 2 percent of the approximately 700,000 school children in the state have heart defects or heart disease, he says. The actual number being between 10,500 and 14,000.

"Not only is heart disease a serious crippling handicap for any boy or girl but a certain number of these children, now being educated in the schools at the expense of the taxpayer, will die before they reach the age of 20 years," he declares.

"In 1927, 1928 and 1929 the last years for which complete figures are available at present, the average number of deaths annually from heart disease in the various school age groups were as follows:

Five to nine years of age, 29.
Ten to fourteen years of age, 41.
Fifteen to nineteen years of age, 41.
"During those three years 335 children between the ages of five and nineteen died of heart disease. In 1929 the figure was 113.

"Heart disease is serious and costly because it not only handicaps the individual but may strike him down before he has had an opportunity to become a real asset to society.

"And why are there so many cases of heart defects and heart disease? Because of some infection that finds entrance to the blood stream. These infections are often preventable.

"Rheumatic fever is one of the most common causes of heart defects and heart disease. Rheumatism in children frequently begins with an infection of the tonsils. If the diseased tonsils are removed before the infection enters the blood stream, the heart might be spared.

"Diphtheria is another cause of heart disease, but no child need have diphtheria if the parents protect it by having the Schick test made to determine whether the child is likely to take diphtheria.

"If the Schick test is positive, showing that the child is liable to take diphtheria, toxin-anti-toxin should be administered to immunize the child against the disease.

"Some other infections, not always so easily preventable as is diphtheria, may be followed by heart defects or heart disease. Among these are 'flu,' scarlet fever, St. Vitus' dance and, less frequently, pneumonia.

"However, if physicians insist on and parents cooperate in giving the child that has had a severe infection of any kind, prolonged rest in bed after the fever has disappeared, there will be fewer cases of organic heart disease.

This is a vital element in decreasing the number of damaged hearts. Heart defects or heart disease following scarlet fever and other infections may not appear until several months after the child has apparently recovered.

"This Way Ladies and Gentlemen!"

For a Bigger and Better KEWASKUM

Ballyhoo serves its purpose when it attracts attention—but only merit achieves—over the long haul. It's the long haul which has to do with the further development of KEWASKUM therefore we drop the ballyhoo and go to merit. The founders and the builders of KEWASKUM did a good job. Their work is done—and the responsibility passed on to we citizens here today. The future of KEWASKUM depends a great deal upon what we do. If we nourish and cultivate the community loyalty which was necessary in the development of our town to this point—then all will be well and KEWASKUM will achieve to greater success.

Community loyalty is first registered by each and every citizen in the smaller acts of the day. To trade at home with the home owned store merchant is not necessarily an imposed duty—but simply common sense. KEWASKUM can never be built up with dollars sent away from the home town—and gone forever. Upon what basis will trade improve, property values increase, salaries be advanced, better positions and jobs created and greater living comforts be realized—except through loyalty to KEWASKUM?

The unselfish and leading citizens of KEWASKUM are not this year advocating boom expansion and wild speculation. But they do urge that vision never falter—vision and striving for better homes, better public buildings, more factories, modern business structures and a bigger and better KEWASKUM. This all comes about through loyal support of all citizens to home industries and home business. Home industries and Home business will in turn offer better service and greater opportunities to the citizens.

No Community Was Ever Built With Dollars Sent Away From Home.

IS DISCHARGED FROM CUSTODY

Art. Falk of, Campbellsport charged with enticing a minor from her home, and who was confined in the county jail at Fond du Lac for four weeks awaiting trial in circuit court, was released last Thursday on motion of District Attorney L. E. Gooding of Fond du Lac, for lack of evidence. Falk was given a preliminary hearing in municipal court at Fond du Lac a month ago and was bound.

M. Gooding acted as prosecuting attorney and Falk was defended by Attorney Kenneth E. Worthing. Dist. Attorney Gooding, after reading the testimony in the case, declared that there was no evidence on which a conviction could be secured and he made a motion for a dismissal of the charge which Judge Fellenz granted. The complaining witness in the case was W. H. Ferber, county humane agent.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned desire to express our heartfelt thanks to all our neighbors, relatives and friends for the kind sympathy extended to us in our late bereavement, the death of our father-in-law and grand father, John Kloekenbush. To the pall bearers for the many beautiful floral and spiritual tributes, to Rev. Vogt for his consoling words, to Undertaker Reinders for services rendered, and to all who attended the funeral.

Mrs. Frank Kloekenbush and children.

Attend the card party sponsored by the ladies of the Holy Trinity congregation, Kewaskum, at the Holy Trinity School Hall at the above named place, on Wednesday evening, January 28th. The usual games will be played.

SEEKS INFORMATION ON MAN KILLED AT HARTFORD

An inquiry has been received at the office of Washington County Coroner Clem Reinders of Kewaskum in regard to one, Edward Thoma, who was one time lived in Hartford and whose death in an accident at the Hartford foundry, May 7, 1881. The person inquiring, his daughter, Mrs. John Uhl, 1612 Buron Ave., St. Paul, Minn., desires to know the names of the man and the year and place of his birth, and the place of his burial. She needs the information, according to a statement she made in the letter to Mr. Reinders. The letter asking for these details was sent to H. J. Thoma of this city, and from him found its way to points would be conferring a favor upon the lady mentioned above by sending them to her at the given address—Hartford Times.
