Friday the students participated in an advanced sale of tickets for the Senior Class play, "His Majesty," which will be presented on Saturday, February 13.

The admission will be 25 cents with reservations made free at the Jewellery store on and after Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 11.

Students are afforded to miss seeing Simon Felton manage the wedding of his darling niece, Francine, who happens to be a boy, the humble Philander Filnow, who happens to be a girl, and the lawyer, a Mormon, who has at least three wives, as far as she knows. Of course Silas knows the constable who is to do his duty. It is always with that "hayseed" Timothy. No play is complete without its characters, there is Dora who is considered one of Dick's wives and Alice Malcolm and William who don't know what they are all about. Then we have Mrs. Mallen who won't like to be handed upon that critter of a husband.

The characters at least three humiliations in this dramatic comedy, "His Majesty," so be sure and see it.

A recent state-wide psychology test in which more than 20,000 seniors practically every public and private high school in the state participated, the Kewaskum high school student who placed in the upper percent and received a percentile rank of 98. This student was Elizabeth. Her rank in the test indicates she was grouped with the best, approximately 200 pupils taking the psychology intelligence examination. It is indeed, a worthy showing and school heartily congratulates her.

Kewaskum students placing in the test and deserving of special mention were: George Koerble, Fred Lay, Fred Weddig and Joseph.

Test results are used by the University of Wisconsin and other educational institutes as a factor of a student's ability to do factory school college work. Sim-

CALLED INTO ETERNAL SLEEP

DEATH OF MRS. RUDOLPH HOEPNER

It was with sorrow and regret, that the many friends in the community and afar, received the sad news of the untimely death of Mrs. Lillian Hoepner (nee Bartel) of Wayne, who after an illness of several months, especially the last three days of her life suffered untold agony, was taken to submission to the will of a merciful God, when she passed away in death from the family circle at 12:15 P. M., Sunday, January 25, 1931 at a hospital in Oshkosh.

Mrs. Hoepner was born January 23rd, 1902 on a farm a mile and a half southwest of Theresa, where she lived until she was thirteen years old, when she moved with her parents to Theresa, on March 28, 1915. On November 28, 1923, she was married to Rudolph Hoepner. She leaves to mourn her loss, her grief-stricken husband, one daughter Arline, aged four of Wayne; her father William O. Bartel of Theresa, one sister, Miss Elsie Bartel, formerly of Detroit, Mich. and one grand father, Frank Recklau of Oakfield. Her mother preceded her in death several years ago.

While residing in the town of Theresa she attended the Theresa district school, where she finished her elementary education. She was confirmed March 28, 1915 being a member of the first confirmation class, Rev. E. Behrens presiding at the confirmation. She was the first young woman whom the Rev. Behrens, during his 44 years in ministry, both confirmed and married and officiated at the baptism of her daughter Arline. Deceased always was a true and loving wife and mother and lent a helping hand to those in need and a faithful christian. Though she is gone, and will be greatly missed by all who had the good fortune of making her acquaintance, her kind deeds and pleasant disposition will linger on in memory of those who knew her. The funeral was held Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the family residence at Theresa with services in the St. Peter's Lutheran church at Theresa. Rev. E. Behrens officiated. Burial was made in the adjoining cemetery. The pall bearers were former neighbors of Wayne, namely: Ralph Petri, Wendel Petri, Rudolph Kullman, Washington Foerster, Andrew Kuehl and Hilbert Gritzmacher.

Mrs. Frank Keller Jr., of here received the sad news of the death of her mother, Mrs. Mary Schwind aged 59 years, which occurred at her home in the town of Greenbush, Monday, January 26th, 1931, following a month's illness. Deceased was born near Campbellsport and was the widow of Nicholas Schwind, who preceded her in death three years ago. Mrs. Schwind is survived by thirteen children, namely: Mrs. James Fitzgerald of Los Angeles, Calif., Mrs. Margaret Johnston of Michigan, Mrs. Martin Tunn of Campbellsport, Mrs. Frank Keller Jr., of Kewaskum, Mrs. Frank Goebel of the town of Empire, Mrs. Alfred Baus of Marytown, Mrs. George Burns of Armstrong and John, Henry, Joseph, Magdaline, George and Andrew at home. The funeral was held Thursday at 9:15 a. m., from the residence and at 10 a. m. at Our Lady of Angels church at Osceola. Rev. Francis Finnegan officiated. Burial was made in the adjoining cemetery. Mrs. Schwind also leaves to mourn, two sisters, Mrs. Peter Wagner of Fond du Lac and Mrs. Anna Brandstetter of Kewaskum and two brothers, Peter Miller of Greenbush and William Miller of Elsworth, Minn.

FORMER ASHFORD RESIDENT DEAD

John Krudwig, aged 69 years, a former resident of Ashford, died at his home in Greenville, last week Wednesday, after a long illness. Deceased is survived by his wife, formerly Regina Thelen of Ashford and the following children: Mrs. William Becker of Appleton, Mrs. Conrad Becker of Greenville, Mrs. Albert Schmit of Elmore and Arnold Krudwig of Campbellsport. The funeral was held Saturday at 9:30 a. m., with services at St. Mary's church in Greenville. Burial was made in the adjoining cemetery.

BIG KIRMESS PARTY AT WAYNE

A big Kirmess party will be held at Frank Wietor's hall at Wayne, on Sunday evening, February 1st. Music will be furnished by Valesky's orchestra. This is the first kirmess party to be held at Wayne in many years, and no time nor effort will be spared in making it a most enjoyable event for all. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Tests given during the past two years reveal that this prediction approximates 100% true. Hence the five students mentioned above are of deserving college caliber.

MODERN LIQUOR HAS QUEER EFFECTS

Modern liquor has even modernized the after effects of intoxication.

Arnold Puls of Mayville got drunk but instead of seeing the usual snakes and pink elephants he saw burglars, robbers, bandits and gangsters. His vision was so realistic that the sheriff, the police, constables and the Dodge county vigilantes were called out.

Puls, it is said, after being ejected from a Mayville store drove to the telephone office and using the police phone there, called the operator.

"Call the cops, robbers are in the bank and are cleaning out the stores," he announced. The operator called Police Chief Alvin Holtz, constables, sheriff's deputies and members of the vigilantes. Within a short time several automobiles filled with armed men appeared on Main street in Mayville looking for the bandits.

When the report was investigated, however, it was found that it was without foundation. Puls was questioned and was arrested for being drunk and disorderly. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs.—Fond du Lac Commonwealth Reporter

ONLY ONE 300-EGGER LAYS 24 OUNCE EGGS

Although five Wisconsin hens laid over 300 eggs in 1930, according to the R. O. P. preliminary official reports issued by poultry supervisor Howard King of the department of agriculture and markets, only one of the birds was able to lay eggs that averaged the required 24 ounces per dozen throughout the year.

The five 300-eggers included one Barred Rock and four S. C. White Leghorns. The only 300 egg bird to qualify as an approved R. O. P. breeder was a S. C. White Leghorn of the Hylandale Hatchery, Rockland, Wisconsin, which laid 307 eggs averaging 24 ounces per dozen in 365 days.

NOTICE OF TOWN BOARD OF AUDIT

Notice is hereby given that the town board of audit for the Town of Kewaskum, Washington county, Wisconsin will meet at the regular meeting place in the Village of Kewaskum on the 4th day of February 1931, for the purpose of auditing claims and demands of all persons against said town.

Dated January 27, 1931.
ADOLPH J. HABECK,
Town Clerk.

BUSINESS PLACES ROBBED AT WAYNE

Some time during Sunday night or early Monday morning, burglars broke into William Foerster's garage at Wayne and stole about $35.00 worth of articles. Entrance was gained by prying the rear door of the building open. The same night, supposedly to be the same gang, entered the Rudolph Hoepner harness shop, located across the street from the Foerster garage and a small loot was taken. It is the belief of authorities that the burglary was committed by local talent.

KEWASKUM WINS AND LOSES

Before a capacity house of enthusiastic fans, Kewaskum lost and won a double header basket ball game last Sunday afternoon at the high school gymnasium.

The preliminary game played between the Blue Ramblers, Kewaskum's newly organized girl's basket ball team and the Campbellsport girl's team, was won by the local quintette by a score of 7 to 14. In this game both teams put up a fine brand of basket ball, with Campbellsport having a little edge in better team work, this no doubt can be accounted for by the fact that the visitors played together longer this season than ours did. The local team having practiced only four times before entering their initial contest of the season. Height, weight and superior basket shooting by Miss Mc Carty, backed up with some good team work is what won the game for the home team.

Judging from the brand of ball that the locals put up, it was readily conceded by the fans and old time basket ball players who were highly pleased with the kind of a game they were treated to in last Sunday's contest that Kewaskum again has the material and the makings of a real team; one which with continued practice and playing can hold its own against teams of high standard.

Next week Tuesday evening, February 3rd, the girls will clash with the Wabaskies girl's team. This squad comes here highly recommended, having defeated Campbellsport and other strong teams in this section. The boys will play the Boltonville M. A. team.

The second game between the Kewaskum A. C.'s and the Maytag Junior team of Port Washington, was won by Port Washington by a score of 17 to 29.

The summary of the girl's game is as follows:

The Evangelistic meetings that are being carried on for the third week at the Woodman Hall, will conclude Sunday night. Dan Miller will continue to speak each night including Saturday.

AUTO ACCIDENTS OF THE PAST WEEK

Three men were cut by flying glass and bruised when the Nash sedan driven by William Foerster Jr. of Wayne and the Chevrolet sedan driven by Clarence Bloedorn of this city collided at the intersection of Fourth and Oak-st shortly after 2 o'clock Sunday morning. Foerster, who approached Fourth-av on Oak-st, had failed to stop for the arterial and Bloedorn, who was driving north on Fourth, could not avoid the crash.

Foerster suffered a cut scalp, and Henry Knoebel of Kewaskum, who was with him, was thrown to the sidewalk when the car struck a tree. Knoebel was knocked unconscious, and a bad cut on his forehead severed an artery. He lost much blood before the flow was stopped at a surgeon's office and the wound stitched. Later he and Foerster were taken to St. Joseph's Community hospital.

Ray Haebig, who was with Bloedorn, has a cut above his right eye which required a stitch. Stanley Klassen escaped with minor bruises. Both cars were badly damaged.

To Night Officer Harvey Lemke, who reached the scene of the accident quickly, Foerster admitted that he did not realize he was entering the arterial, being under the impression that he had another block to go before reaching it, and that he had not stopped.—West Bend News.

SEDAN COLLIDES WITH TRUCK

Due to the slippery condition of the road on Wednesday, many autos skidded off the concrete pavement and tipped over into the ditch. No one, however, was seriously injured. One of the worst wrecks of the day occurred on Highway 55 near Kohn's Curve, about two miles north of here, when an Essex sedan sideswiped and crashed into a large truck loaded with livestock.

J. Brown and son Louis of Dotyville driving the truck were on their way to Milwaukee, when an Essex sedan, driven by Ben Saw of Milwaukee who was on his way to Oshkosh, in rounding the curve applied the brakes with the result that the machine sideswiped and crashed into the oncoming truck. Mr Shaw received severe cuts on his head and was taken to the Driessell hospital here where medical attention was given him. With Mr. Shaw in his car were Jim Mc Nally and Mary Neubaum, all of Milwaukee, the latter was on her way home to Oshkosh. None of the passengers were badly injured, nor was the truck driver and his son. The sedan was badly damaged.

GAME REFUGE OFFERED TO STATE

The Moon Lake wild game refuge located about seven miles northeast of Kewaskum, and owned by the Milwaukee chapter, Izaak Walton League, was offered to Wisconsin, at a meeting held by the league Monday night at Milwaukee. The refuge of which Kewaskum was the southern outlet, has since it was purchased by the Milwaukee chapter, been a sight-seeing and recreational spot for not only Waltonians but many others who were anxious to see the place. Since its existence, it has become widely known, not only in the state but nationally as well.

The refuge, which consists of about 1,000 acres of lake, swamp and woodland, was bought by the Milwaukee chapter in 1926 for $34,000. An indebtedness of $11,000 still remains. Of the amount subscribed for the purchase, $6,000 was donated by the Wild Life Conservation society.

If the state decides to accept, it must do so on condition that the land be devoted exclusively to conservation purposes, according to terms of the resolution.

In a talk urging the 300 members attending the meeting and dinner in the New Pfister, F. W. Luening said the purpose for which the league had bought the property was fulfilled. Since that time a true conservation commission has been created, he said, and that commission has followed the example set by the Waltonians and established other game refuges.

William Mauthe, chairman of the conservation commission, said he felt confident the state would create a game farm and reforestation project at Moon lake in the event the gift is accepted.

The following were elected directors for the coming year: Judge L. C. Landis, Edward W. Hoffmann, H. W. Eskuche, Henry C. Kuehn, Karl T. Mindemann, Harold Story, Hugo Sauer, Harry Hall and E. A. Flancher. S. A. Barrett was chairman of the nominating committee.

Judge Landis, president of the chapter, presided and spoke in favor of turning over the refuge to the state. The feeding of wild birds in the lagoon in Juneau Park, the building of an aquarium there or in Washington park and a plan to build up the state organization of the league were discussed.

Since the refuge was owned by the Milwaukee chapter, carp and other rough fish were seined from the lake, which was stocked with black bass and other game fish. Brook and brown trout were also planted in small streams and springs on the refuge. The refuge has been in charge of a gamekeeper and has been very successful in raising pheasants, many of which, both birds and eggs, have been supplied to other chapters of the league in Wisconsin. Many trees have also been planted. The property is in the Kettle Moraine district and Moon lake is one of the head waters of the Milwaukee river. It will, if accepted by the state, become part of the Kettle Moraine state park and forest preserve established in that district by the conservation commission.

WALTONIANS PREPARE BILL

A legislative program including a proposed $1 resident fishing license will be sponsored during the present session by the Wisconsin division of the Izaak Walton League, Frank Grass, executive secretary announced on Monday.

The license requirement would apply to all male residents of Wisconsin over 18 years of age fishing on inland waters of the state where money is being used in propagation and protection of fish.

Receipts from the source would be administered by the conservation commission for propagation of fish and game, enforcing fish and game laws and for acquisition of land and water for public hunting grounds.

Grass explained that the bill was more extensive in purpose than a similar $1 license proposal vetoed by former Gov. Walter J. Kohler in 1929.

Among the bills already drafted for introduction in the legislature are proposals to permit establishment of federal fish hatcheries and migratory bird reservations in Wisconsin; to penalize promiscuous "gun-toting" about Wisconsin woods; to strengthen the trespass law for protection of property owners against careless hunters or other invaders; to increase the bounty on cub wolves; to require state park maintenance funds to come from general funds rather than fees of hunters and trappers; to make possession of fake nets in inland waters illegal; to give game wardens equal authority with the other enforcement officers; to license taxidermists and fur dealers; and to give the conservation commission more supervision over commercial fishing in the St. Croix and Mississippi rivers.

KISSEL AUTO CO. BANKRUPT

An involuntary petition was filed in federal bankruptcy court on Tuesday against the Kissel Motor Co., of Hartford, Washington county, Wisconsin. Papers in the case stated the company has at least twelve creditors whose claims total more than $1,000,000.

B. A. Lehnberg, vice-president of the Chris Schroeder & Son Co., is the petitioner. He says his company assigned to him a claim against the Kissel company for $12,083.

Several months ago the company was placed under receivership when Melvin A. Taylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago and trustee for the bond holders in the motor company, asked for a foreclosure on the bonds. Atty. Carl Geilfuss was named receiver. This suit was dropped in federal court shortly after it was filed. It has since been restored by the filing of a similar action in the state court at Hartford, Wis.

DEATH OF MRS. JOHN GUNTLY

At the home of her son, Otto Ebert at Dundee, occurred the death of Mrs. John Guntly, aged 81 years, after a short illness on Thursday morning at 2:15 o'clock. Deceased is survived by her husband in Michigan and five children, namely: Otto Ebert on a farm near Waucousta, Johanna (Mrs. Christ Johnson) of Van Dyne, Minnie (Mrs. Frank Giese) of Waucousta, Emma (Mrs. Fred Heider) of Dundee. Besides these she leaves two brothers to mourn her demise, Theodore Stern of Kewaskum and August Stern of New Prospect. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock with services in the Dundee Lutheran church. Rev. Strohschein will officiate. Burial will take place in the congregation's cemetery. A more complete obituary will be published next week.

TRUCK DRIVERS FOUND OVERCOME BY GAS

Two drivers of the A & P truck were found overcome by monoxide gas on the short-cut road between Grafton and Highway 141 Saturday morning. The two men operate the company's truck out of Milwaukee making deliveries to the stores in this section. They reached Cedarburg about 1:30 p. m. and were on their way to Port Washington. Their truck was seen standing along the road beyond Grafton and one of the men in the vicinity saw them apparently fast asleep. In trying to arouse them, he found that they had been overcome by motor fumes. An ambulance conveyed them to a hospital at Milwaukee where they are recovering from the effects of the poisonous gas.—Cedarburg News.

Quack grass produces from 8 to 16 tons of roots to the acre in many instances, according to A. L. Stone, director of seed and weed control of the department of agriculture and markets. Because of this high fertilizing value as humus, Professor Stone suggests that quack grass be killed on the fields rather than burned. Much of the value is lost in burning.

Penny an Old Coin

It is curious, but true, that that most common coin, the penny, is the most ancient of our coinage, and is the only one left which was known to our Anglo-Saxon ancestors. They called it "poenig," which has been corrupted into "penny."

HIGH-PRESSURE SALESMEN SELLING CHICKS

Although high-pressure salesmen from out-of-state hatcheries are busy throughout the state taking orders for baby chicks, no better chicks can be had anywhere than in Wisconsin, declares A. A. Brown, poultry specialist of the state department of agriculture and markets. Wisconsin accredited and certified hatcheries are in a position to furnish good chicks at a fair price, Mr. Brown says, and they make a guarantee to the department of agriculture and markets that their customers will obtain honest treatment.

Many of the out-of-state hatcheries are making extravagant claims through their salesmen, Mr. Brown says, and many of these claims are in no way supported by facts. Too many Wisconsin chick buyers get gyped each year because elaborate catalogs and unscrupulous salesmen make them believe they can get chicks from 300 egg hens at small cost. In the five states of Minnesota, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, and Wisconsin there are probably not more than a dozen or fifteen official 300 hen layers.

Research work also indicates, according to the specialist, that chicks do best when fed as soon after hatching as possible. Tedious journeys by mail are not as good for the chicks as a quick transfer from hatchery to brooder.

Mr. Brown defines accredited chicks as those in which the flocks have been inspected by the state department for standard qualities, health, vigor, and vitality. Male birds are inspected also for conformation.

Certified chicks are those from male birds which have pedigrees showing them to be progeny from hens that lay 200 eggs or better per year.

R. O. P. chicks are from males and females with official records. All R. O. P. females must have laid 200 eggs or more by official record and all males must be from hens that lay 225 eggs or more per year. At the present time there are about 1000 R. O. P. hens in Wisconsin.

Emergency Took Him Out

During his first week of school little Mary came home saying her teacher had told the class the story of Joseph and his coat. In repeating the story, Mary exclaimed: "Joseph's brothers put him down in a deep well and went away and left him and the 'emergency' came along and took him out of the well."

Urban Age

It is nearly 2000 years since an urban settlement was founded on the territory which today is covered by Vienna. The small Roman military camp Vindobona developed into the modern metropolis with her enormous municipal area of 275.88 square kilometers, second only to London.

FARMERS HAVE DISEASE FREE HERDS
Two farmers in the Fond du Lac territory now have Federal state accredited abortion disease free herds. E. C. Miritz of Fond du Lac, R. 7, was granted certificate number 39, and Carl Waldson, Fond du Lac, was granted certificate number 41. These are the first of the smaller herds in the county to be put on the list of accredited abortion free herds.

Corium Farm, Fond du Lac, has certificate number 1, and was the pioneer Wisconsin herd in this work. This certificate was granted to the Corium Farm in June, 1929.

A herd, to be placed on the state accredited disease free list must pass three clean tests six months apart, and must have a clean test once a year from then on to stay on the accredited list.

The herd of E. C. Miritz consists of 10 registered Holsteins and 24 grade Holsteins. Carl Waldson has around 35 head of pure bred Holsteins.

Around fifty herds of cattle in Fond du Lac county are being blood tested regularly to eradicate this disease in their herds. Blood testing and isolation or disposal of positive animals has been found the most practical method of controlling this disease.

Around 50 herds have been tested for eradicating of this disease in their herds in Fond du Lac county this last year and results have been very satisfactory. Several other herds will be on the accredited list soon.

Eradicating this disease will not only improve both the health and production of the herd, but helps in the sale of surplus cattle. Most states now will not permit shipment into the state of anything but cattle that are negative to the blood test.

SERVICE, NOT SERVITUDE

By Fannie Hurst

(© McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

AS FAR back as the days when Carrie-Lee was a ten-year-old child trudging to school each morning, there was something that to her was peculiarly and pathetically servile in the way her father's back curved up around the shoulders, even when he was a young man. As a matter of fact, Walter Mason's shoulders were not necessarily curved because he was a waiter. As a child he had been round-shouldered and had worn a small brace as a corrective. Nevertheless, it had always seemed to Carrie-Lee that this stoop was an attitude of servility; the servility of a man who waited on table. It was painful to Carrie-Lee to recite her father's occupation when asked by her schoolmates or for registration purposes as "Waiter." It hurt, more than it embarrassed her, to say it. There was never a time she could remember when she had not been poignantly, heart-hurtingly sorry for her father. Oftentimes, when occasion took her to the hotel where he was employed, she would stand at the swinging door of the pantry, watching him scurry in between the tables in the dining room, bent on service, perspiring with servile, eager to please.

It was a large hotel, one of the finest in the city, and there was a smell of cut flowers and a pleasant din of orchestra and the voluptuous odors of unpronounceable foods. Her father, while on duty, wore a uniform—at least it appeared a uniform to Carrie-Lee. A black suit with stripes down the trousers and a ghostly, glassy, white expansive shirt front. The shirt front was not really a shirt front at all, but a glazed dicky which her mother laundered at home and ironed, while wringing wet, with an enormously heavy and almost red-hot flat-iron. The tie was ready-made, too. It slid into the celluloid collar with the click of false teeth. It was a hideous outfit. All sham.

And another dreadful aspect of it was that her father never seemed to mind. He would lean, eager and servile, over the chairs and the tables of the hotel. Women with bare shoulders and with frigid, aloof bearing would draw away slightly as he hovered. The men were curt to him, sometimes abusive and, more often than not, dictatorial, even when they tossed him tips. That was most unbearable of all to Carrie-Lee, seeing her father stand by, after he had handed the patron his check, his eye curved, watchful, waiting, appraising, for the tip.

Standing behind the pantry door as a child, the pain and torment of this were almost unbearable. Her nice, kind father, standing there in the cringing attitude of servility, waiting for what tips would fall from the rich man's table.

Then and there, decision was born in the small mind of the small girl called Carrie-Lee. Her life work took form in her brain. She must emancipate her father from the horrible serfdom of waiting. She must free him from the black, shiny-fronted, stiff uniform of servility. He must be emancipated from that cringing attitude beside the dining tables of the rich. He must never, never again care whether the fat man with the purple veins in his cheeks and the roll of flesh at the back of his neck preferred his sirloin medium or underdone. No frigid woman to whom he was so much clay must ever again withdraw her delicate shoulders from his violently concerned nearness.

Sometimes Carrie-Lee wanted to throw, to hurl herself against the smug implacability of these people, to claw off, in the name of her burning resentments at their treatment of her father, the jewels and silks and the regalia.

Who were they to sip the clear, golden soups that her father came bearing them, to reject with intolerable curtness the chicken because it was not browned to their liking or the salads, if they lacked some esoteric ingredient?

Carrie-Lee hated these people. She ground her small, square teeth over them. She resolved in her bitter, hurting heart that her life work was to free her father from serving them. It was not a resolution that was easy of accomplishment. There were six children besides Carrie-Lee, all younger, and a frail mother who was to die bearing her eighth child, when Carrie-Lee was fifteen. There was no let-up to the constant financial strain that existed in the little household. No wonder the eye of Carrie-Lee's father curved anxiously toward the plate the moment after he had deposited the check beside the customer and the tip was expected to fall.

It was a hungry, exacting family that had to be fed, doctored, clothed, educated and housed. And at fifteen, Carrie-Lee was mother there.

Yet, through it all, the determination in her born back there in the days when she had stood behind the pantry door, never failed, never flattered, never faltered.

Curious, too, because in her father there apparently flared no sense of the ignominy of his work. It was hard, yes. Exact, yes. The hours were long, but his main grievance had not to do with the nature of the work, but with the compensation. Tips were not what they used to be. Prohibition had knocked the waiter's role "higher than a cocked hat." A man had to hustle to make a living out of it, nowadays.

Try as she would, Carrie-Lee could never get a rise out of him where the social aspect of it was concerned. Apparently he was not conscious of the servility of his kind of work. It was just a job. One had to make a living somehow. He had started in as bus boy and his life work had just naturally gravitated to waiting at table. As a matter of fact, he considered himself extremely fortunate. As social stratifications went in his world, he belonged to the upper places of his profession. For fifteen years he had waited at table in the foremost restaurants in the city. Some of the fellows were still flinging dishes in a third-rate restaurant, to say nothing of lunchrooms.

Still Carrie-Lee's lamp of decision burned. It took her the first thirty-five years of her life to accomplish what she set out to do. On her thirty-sixth birthday, with every one of her brood of sisters and brothers, comfortably accounted for, and her own position as resident-buyer in a large department store comfortably assured, Carrie-Lee found herself with her dream materialized.

Besides the four thousand dollar savings account in the bank, she had bought and paid for, that week, a five-room bungalow in a new and extremely attractive New Jersey subdivision that was within commuting distance of her work.

There was half an acre of land, a toothsome for her father to putter in, a brand new car in the one-car garage, a garden with hose attachments and every device for her father to keep it comely; a white veranda with unpainted furniture awaiting the touch of her father's brush, and countless small creature comforts that had been installed with loving care by Carrie-Lee.

Her father, who had grown old in service and whose knees were bent and whose eyes were dim with tiredness, was almost unbearably pathetic to her now. It seemed simply past his understanding that here he was at sixty-three, safely installed in this lovely little home and in a position to live his days in peace and comfort and quiet.

To her enormous discomfort, the old man tried so heart-breakingly to serve Carrie-Lee. During their first weeks in the new home he arose at dawn so that he might ferry her breakfast, piping hot, to her room in order that she could get up in a leisurely fashion and make her train to the city without rushing. He wanted to serve. He could not sit still through a meal. He was constantly jumping up to pass things, waiting on table, eager, officious.

The stamp of service was upon him. After a while Carrie-Lee realized that it was no use. She even encouraged him to have his way, realizing that by depriving him of an outlet for his energies the tranquility and dignity of his home life might soon pall. Eventually that is just what did happen.

One year after their installment in the new home Carrie-Lee returned one evening to find her father in a state of excitement and activity that she had not observed in him for months on end.

He was a person re-made. The old light was back in his eyes. The round-shouldered stoop was there, but a new importance was in his carriage. He had come back into his own. He had succeeded in obtaining his old position in the hotel where he had served as waiter for so many years.

Looking at him, Carrie-Lee suddenly realized the futility of the years of her pain. Waiting at table was not servility to her father. It was service. And a sense of service can glorify anything.

Evolution of "Gossip"

A gossip was originally a godparent, from the Old English godsbibb, meaning "talker" or "standing in relation to." Gossip soon came to mean a friend or acquaintance, either of the parents of the child baptized or of the other godparents, and hence women friends of the mother present at birth. The transition of meaning to an idle chattering is easy.

Morgan's Historic Raid Placed Under Analysis

The public opening at Lexington, Ky., of the old home of Gen. John Hunt Morgan, daring Confederate cavalry leader, serves to recall his spectacular dash into Indiana and Ohio and the controversies that raged about him and his comparatively small band of followers in the dark days of the Civil war.

"Morgan's Raid," as the event has gone down into history, was a challenge to odds as great as any man faced, in that long-drawn-out conflict, when the Kentucky general, at the head of not more than 1,500 men, crossed the Ohio river into states virtually alive with Federal troops. From Indiana, through a combination of good tactics, good luck and good fighting ability, Morgan dodged and cut his way through the southern part of Ohio to the banks of the Ohio opposite Virginia, there to be hemmed in and trapped when a swift and unexpected rise of the river prevented him from crossing, says the Kansas City Star. It was a feat of daring and skill perhaps unequalled in the five years of warfare.

In a way, those of the North who regarded Morgan as a guerrilla leader were about as nearly right as those who regarded him as regular Confederate cavalryman, subject to the orders, rules and regulations of the higher Confederate officers and the Richmond government. As a matter of fact, Morgan was neither. He was Morgan—neither guerrilla nor regular, but an independent force allied to the Confederacy.

Glorified Cordial

The cordial, Benedictine, originating with the monks of that order on account of its supposed recuperative properties, was named by Francis I. of France in 1534 Benedictine and majorem Dei gloriam (for the greater glory of God). Liqueur is now distilled at Fecamp on the site of the old abbey and the bottles bear the ecclesiastical initials D. O. M. or Deo Optimo Maximo (to God most good, most great),

ARE you prepared to render first aid and quick comfort the moment your youngster has an upset of any sort? Could you do the right thing—immediately—though the emergency came without warning—perhaps tonight? Castoria is a mother's standby at such times. There is nothing like it in emergencies, and nothing better for everyday use. # DESIGNERS ENTHUSE OVER TWIN PRINTS IN DIFFERENT TONES

Informal Dress of Twin Prints.

INCOMING prints which are registering for immediate wear and for the future are very interesting. They tell their own story, as to whether they are intended for informal daytime frocks and ensembles or for formal afternoon and evening wear.

You know the moment you see the new dark-toned neat-patterned types that they expect to be worn throughout the informal daytime hours about town or in the realm of sports just as you are perfectly sure that the gorgeous big florals are destined for a career in the midst of dressy afternoon affairs and evening formals.

Designers are enthusiastic over the new "twin prints" which are produced in two different tones of one color so they can be used together. In the picture the body of the frock is made from the darker color of a twin diamond print while the trimming is in the brighter shade of the same print.

These smart-looking twin prints are especially adaptable to the very popular contrast-yoke fashions. The lighter portion makes the deep yoke and in most instances the sleeves, while the darker silk which carries the identical patterning is employed for the rest of the bodice and the skirt.

Plaid is the smart thing in prints for spring, both in crepe silks and chiffons. At this moment it is the costume blouse of plaid silk which is initiating the vogue for plaids. It brings most any cloth suit right up to the minute in fashion, if beneath its fur-trimmed jacket there is revealed a blouse of vivacious plaid.

It is easy to distinguish the silk absence. Most of the gowns of distinction are classics in simplicity. In order to impart individuality to formal dress, fashionists have turned to novel and striking decolletage as a solution to the problem.

The newest gesture in the way of low-cut necklines is the "harness" decolletage. See it carried out effectively for the gown pictured. This dress which emphasizes the opulence of fabrics which go to make up modes of exquisitely sheer metal cloth.

Not only is sheer and shimmering lame weaves adding their glamorous beauty to the evening picture but the glint of their gold and silver splendor is reflected in many a gorgeous blouse as it tops a skirt of handsome velvet or peeks from beneath a richly fur-trimmed jacket or coat on a wintry afternoon.

Since the decolletage has become so important a factor in evening fashions more variety is being exploited than has been the rule for several seasons. The deep V-shape which extends almost to the waistline at the back competes with the youthful and naive off-the-prints which have just arrived on the scene, because of their colorings, which have a distinction all their own, the tendency being to run to rather neutral tones, such as for instance, a delicately outlined plaid effect done in black and gray on white.

When the new plaids, stripes or checks are not in use then fancy turns to medium-sized spaced types—on preferably black, navy or brown backgrounds. Emphasis is being placed on grounds. Emphasis is being placed on blue in every key with navy and white combinations made a leader.

For Formal Occasions. In creating evening modes, designers are doing everything to center attention on the elegance of the fabrics of which they are made. With this object in view superfluous frills and furbelows are conspicuous by their shoulder treatments which add a quaint ruffle or bertha of lace or beaded work.

Frocks of satin, taffeta or crepe are often tied from shoulder to shoulder at the back with scarflike arrangements, the streamers of which soften the decollete lines.

Velvet gowns noted at the theater, opera, balls and night clubs often introduce a border of white ermine. Glittering straps are also favorite themes.

Very flattering are the diversely-cut necklines, some round and dropping off the shoulder, others pointed or square, which are outlined with borders formed of tiny flowers either the color of the gown or in charming contrast.

FASHION HINTS OF GENERAL INTEREST

London advocates birds' skin for shoes.

Grecian sandals in jewel tinted antelope are another smart shoe novelty.

Two-thirds coats of satin or velvet are much worn with the softer, longer dresses for late afternoon.

The demt-oxford, a low-cut model built on a pump last, will play an important role for "dainty" types.

All-hazard and all-crocodile walking shoes are high style with winter dress costumes and spring tailleur types.

Multicolored brocade for evening with a subtle blending of colors is quietly coming to the fore in high style favor.

Hat brims are a good place to flaunt the effective jewel-clips now so much in vogue, and coat collars are another resting place for them.

The various species of fish produce varying amounts of eggs. The Atlantic salmon (Salmo salar) averages 1,426 per fish, while the sturgeons average 1,680,000 eggs per fish.

HINTS FOR HOMEMAKERS

Caramel is a favorite flavoring with a large majority of people. It is equally as good as a flavoring for meat sauces, soups and made dishes, as in ice creams. It may be quickly and easily prepared as follows:

Melt a cupful of granulated sugar slowly in a smooth omelet pan and cook until it becomes a rich brown, being careful to avoid scorching. Pour in a cupful of boiling water and stir until a thick sirup is formed. The caramel may be kept indefinitely if kept covered or bottled.

Ink stains of the fingers can be removed by rubbing with a cloth moistened with household ammonia. Rinse the hands in clear water afterwards.

Lemon juice and sunshine is an excellent remover of rust spots on linen or white fabrics.

When it is necessary to use boiled water for drinking it will taste better if it is poured back and forth from two pitchers, giving it more air.

Use a lump of two of sugar instead of starch when washing fine laces.

An easily prepared mushroom sauce which adds tremendously to the attractiveness of a broiled steak is prepared thus: Mix in a frying pan one tablespoonful each of butter and flour, stir in gradually one cupful of brown stock; when boiling point is reached add one cupful of mushrooms, salt and pepper to taste, a tablespoonful of mushroom catsup, with a teaspoonful of caramel.

When white stains on polished wood surfaces cannot be removed by a cloth dampened in alcohol, use powdered pumice mixed with linseed oil to make a thin paste. Rub over the spots until they disappear. Wipe off carefully with a soft cloth dampened with furniture polish.

A quick relish may be made for an occasion by chopping cooked beets with celery and cabbage and a tablespoonful or two of freshly grated horseradish root, sugar, salt and a little vinegar or lemon juice to taste.

Reasons for Scarcity of Batak Literature

Marco Polo and the emperor of China landed on the Batak coast, to avoid being eaten by the natives. For the Bataks were and are cannibals, eating renowned individuals, not for dietetic reasons, but that his strength and wisdom may be incorporated in the banquets. The choice cuts are the fingers, toes and the palms of the hands; and—according to an explorer—the popular term among cannibals for human flesh is "long pig," as the general taste is like that of the pig.

This tendency on the part of the Bataks is probably the reason why libraries are not usually furnished with Batak literature, because very few agents could be induced to look for rare works within reach of people with such ideas. Indeed, the Cleveland public library is probably the only library in the world to possess a pustaka.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Inn's Many Famous Guests

The Lion Inn at Shrewsbury, England, still popular with tourists, has entertained famous persons for more than a century. There George IV danced before the battle of Trafalgar and there Paganini once played. De Quincy spent a night at the Lion and Disraeli was there in his early days.

In 1838 Charles Dickens, accompanied by "Phiz," was accommodated at the inn and wrote to his daughter of "the strangest little rooms" and "how the windows bulged out over the street as if they were the stern windows of a ship." The ballroom, designed and decorated by the Adam brothers, is still used for dancing.

Back to the Library

A young patron at the West Indianapolis public library was explaining why he had not been taking out books for some time.

"Well, you see," he said, "my brother used to buy lots of magazines and I'd read them. But he went 'goofy' and got married and don't buy 'em any more."

Change in Membership of Congressional Body
Congress does not necessarily have to pass a new reapportionment law before the changes in the membership of the house, based on the 1930 census, take effect. Unless that body enacts a new reapportionment law before March 4 next, the report of the bureau of the census, as ascertained by the method used in the last preceding reapportionment, will become effective as applied to the Seventy-third congress, to be elected in 1932, and to succeeding congresses, or until congress does enact a new law. This gives several states new members to the total of 27 and takes a corresponding number away from other states. A fight may be made to increase the total membership of the house so that no state will have its present membership decreased.—Washington Star.

Kilmainham Jail Now Merely Historic Relic

The Kilmainham Jail, Ireland, which has played a prominent part in Irish history, has been abandoned finally as a place of detention and handed over to the Dublin county council for other disposition. The graves of two men executed there after the killing of fourteen British officers in November, 1920, was rescued from the jail under dramatic circumstances. Charles Stewart Parnell's room is still pointed out, and a white stone set in the wall shows where the scaffold was erected for the execution of Gen. Thomas E. Burke, Irish-American officer, who came over to take charge of the Fenian forces in Tipperary more than sixty years ago. On the prison walls are the names of John Dillon, Thomas Seaton, William O'Brien and William Redmond, father of the present Irish M. P., who fell fighting in Flanders in 1917.

New Cucumber Promises to Achieve Popularity

In the course of a year or two the marketer will be enabled to buy the new cucumber which has been recently developed by scientific agriculturists. It is known as the Geneva, a cross between the Arlington White Spine, a common American type, and Rochford Market, a popular English forcing cucumber. The vines are said to be vigorous and productive with the fruit very uniform in shape and size. The cucumbers are about 10 inches long and 2 1/2 inches wide, smooth dark green in color, and with white flesh. The seed cavity is small and contains only a few small abortive seeds. When placed alongside the common American forcing type, Geneva won immediate preference even at much higher prices.

Conveyors Carry Ford Car Parts

Trains unload in the plant.

Bodies starting through the shop.

Conveyors carry wheels with mounted tires over a line on which cars pass to completion.

The highly important part played by conveyor systems in all Ford Motor Company manufacturing and assembly plants is graphically shown in the above three pictures taken in the recently opened Edgewater, N. J., plant. One of the pictures shows how parts may be unloaded from freight cars within the plant only a few feet from the various assembly lines. Another picture shows automobile bodies starting their trip on a conveyor while the third view is of the conveyor system used to bring wheels to the chassis which are also moving on a conveyor. As indicated in the picture, a constant flow of wheels on which the tires have already been mounted moves around and over the chassis assembly line. As a chassis enters the section, workers, in groups of four, each take a wheel from the hooks and fasten it to the chassis.

BOY SCOUT COUNCIL AFTER RENEWAL OF CHARTER

Applications for renewal of the Badger council Boy Scouts charter for the fiscal year beginning on July, 1931, was made last Friday by E. C. Swartwout, scout executive, to national headquarters in New York.

The council, composed of Fond du Lac, Washington and Dodge counties, has troops in Fond du Lac, Waupun, Horicon, West Bend, Mayville, Beaver Dam, Ripon, Reeseville, Taycheedah, Barton, Hartford, Kewaskum, Juneau, Neosha and Randolph. The 26 troops in the council have an enrollment of 554 boys. Of this number, 294 are Tenderfoot Scouts, 170 Second Class Scouts and 90 First Class Scouts. Five new troops were organized during the last year and two troops were dropped. The new troops added during the year are located at Reeseville, Barton, Fond du Lac, Horicon and Neosha.

During the year 245 merit badges were awarded to First Class Scouts and 105 merit badges to Second Class Scouts.

During the coming year, Mr. Swartwout estimates, approximately 150 Scouts will be dropped but expects that 250 new boys will be enrolled, which should give a total enrollment of 654 Scouts or a gain for the year estimated at 100.

The cost of operating the executive department of the council during the last year including the Scout camp at Camp Shaghiippi amounted to $7,899.77. The total receipts, including subscriptions, camp fees, miscellaneous, notes and revolving accounts, were $7,944.01. This left a cash balance December 31 of $47.26.

G. F. Hutter of Fond du Lac is president of the county; F. H. Clansen of Horicon vice-president; B. C. Ziegler of West Bend, vice-president; H. C. Rassman of Beaver Dam, vice-president; W. A. ### STATE RECEIVES 2,000,000 MONTANA BROOK TROUT EGGS

In an effort to maintain as high a strain of brook trout as possible, the conservation commission is again this year exchanging rainbow trout eggs from Wisconsin for wild brook trout eggs from Montana.

The brook trout eggs are being received now in Wisconsin and are sent to the St. Croix Falls hatchery. They have been coming in shipments of about 500,000 each. Two million will be received in all.

During February and March, the spawning time for rainbow trout, Wisconsin will ship two million rainbow trout eggs to Montana in exchange for these brook trout eggs.

Such a transfer insures a strong stock. The brook fish at the various hatcheries are produced from these wild stock eggs from the Rocky Mountains. It builds up the strain of wild blood in Wisconsin's native fish which makes for a gamier species and enables fish to become acclimated to conditions more quickly when planted in streams.

SEED CORN PICKED LATE DAMAGED BY FALL FROST

Because of several damaging frosts which covered most of Wisconsin during the late fall, A. H. Wright, agronomist at the Wisconsin college of agriculture, is recommending that seed corn struck by those frosts be tested for germination at an early date without waiting until spring.

Following the severe frosts, which occurred about the third week in October, samples of corn were collected and tested. Many of these samples were so badly damaged, Wright found, as to test as low as 50 per cent germination.

All seed harvested after that date should be viewed with suspicion and tested without delay. Where the seed corn harvest was in progress at the time of the frosts, that part gathered after the frost should be kept separate until after a germination test has been made.

There is plenty of good seed corn throughout the state this year Wright states, and suspicious seed corn should be tested before spring so that a good product can be located in time should damage have been done to the quantity saved.

The fruit jar seed corn tester or paper tester as it is sometimes called, is a convenient method of doing this testing. All that is required is a newspaper and fruit jar and by rolling the kernels to be tested in moist paper and set aside in a fruit jar in a warm place for a couple of days, the tests can be easily made, he states.

LOW ROUND TRIP RATE IN EFFECT FARM WEEK

A fare and a half for the round trip is all it will cost on any railroad in Wisconsin to make the trip to Madison for the Farm and Home Week program, February 2 to 6, announces K. L. Hatch, in charge of arrangements.

This rate applies from all points in Wisconsin to Madison beginning January 31, and is for round trip tickets only. Every year there are a few people, Hatch states, who pay their full fare one way expecting to purchase a return fare at half price but this arrangement does not apply. So when leaving the home station, passengers will want to purchase a round trip ticket and ask for the special rate to the Farm and Home Program.

The final return limit is February 8. This will provide ample time for all to reach their home stations after the week's program has come to an end. No stopovers are granted.

The week's program is a busy one because in it are special courses or programs for about every farm group. This includes for poultrymen, dairymen, livestock breeders, fruit and orchard men, for those interested in special things in marketing, in soils, and in farm engineering. A program has been arranged for the women.

The state grain show, held at the same time on the campus of the College of Agriculture, will prove of general interest to all as well as special interest to growers of seed grain and corn. Many prize winning exhibits from the International Hay and Grain show will be a part of the display.

A dairy manufacturing course running at the same time is designed for the benefit of operators, managers, and boards of directors of creameries, cheese factories and ice cream factories. This course running for the full five days will give opportunity for those present to have answered through actual factory operation and by special conference with specialists, the questions which they meet in everyday factory operation.

SWEET CLOVER FOUND TO POISON CATTLE

Danger of poisoning from the use of sweet clover as a forage and silage crop has just been pointed out by Dr. W. Wisnicky, director of livestock sanitation of the department of agriculture and markets. It has been found that cattle fed on either sweet clover hay or silage have in some instances developed a diseased condition which produces an inability to clot blood.

A number of deaths from this cause have occurred throughout the state, Dr. Wisnicky says. The animals appear to be in good condition, but when their blood reaches the stage where it will not clot any slight injury or wound will bleed until the animal dies from a loss of blood.

In some instances no injury is necessary. The blood seeps through the walls of the blood vessels and hemorrhages occur under the skin, in the muscles or internal cavities. It is not safe to dehorn or operate on animals being fed sweet clover without first making a test to determine whether the blood will clot. The most recent fatality from the disease was in Keweenaw county and up to this time eight animals have died by bleeding to death. While the disease was first observed in 1922, Dr. Wisnicky states the exact cause has not yet been determined.

The greatest difficulty comes from sweet clover poisoning in the months of December, January, February and March. Considerable feeding of sweet clover is required before cattle begin to show symptoms. Young cattle seem to be more susceptible than older cattle.

When difficulty is experienced in feeding sweet clover, the feed should be discontinued at once, according to the director. The only cure found thus far is that of giving a blood transfusion, the blood being secured from animals which were not fed on sweet clover.

It is suggested as a preventive measure that farmers feeding sweet clover keep a few rabbits as test animals. As domestic rabbits are highly susceptible to sweet clover poisoning, they will die long before the cattle show any symptoms of the disease. In this way the feeder can be forewarned of danger and stop feeding sweet clover.

The fact that a peculiar diseased condition is produced by sweet clover in some instances should not keep farmers from using the crop, Dr. Wisnicky explains. With proper precautions and early treatment, losses can be prevented.

FORD SMOOTHNESS

The new Ford has more than twenty ball and roller bearings

EVIDENCE of the high quality built into the new Ford is the extensive use of ball and roller bearings. There are more than twenty in all — an unusually large number. Each bearing is adequate in size and carefully selected for the work it has to do.

At some points in the Ford chassis you will find ball bearings. At others, roller bearings are used regardless of their higher cost. The deciding factor is the performance of the car.

The extensive use of ball and roller bearings in the new Ford insures smoother operation, saves gasoline, increases speed and power, gives quicker pick-up, decreases noise, and gives greater reliability and longer life to vital moving parts.

Other outstanding features that make the new Ford a value far above the price are the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, silent, fully enclosed four-wheel brakes, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, chrome silicon alloy valves, three-quarter floating rear axle, Rustless Steel, the extensive use of fine steel forgings, and unusual accuracy in manufacturing.

NEW FACTORY MAY BE STARTED AT JUNEAU

The establishment of a basket and veneer plant in Juneau is being considered by the Juneau Advancement Association. The proposed factory would be a branch of one in operation at Kaukauna. F. J. Conant, organizer of the Kaukauna factory, has been promoting the Juneau proposition and declares that a branch in the southern part of the state is needed. If Juneau obtains such a plant the sale of stock locally will be necessary. As for a site, it is planned to house the new industry either in the old Peters Furniture company building or in an unused portion of the Libby, McNeill & Libby plant at Juneau.—Hartford Times.
