Mrs. Guntly was born December 29th, 1849 in the town of Kewaskum. She was married to Carl Ebert April 5th, 1880, 7 children were born of this union, 2 died in infancy. Mr. Ebert died Aug. 7th, 1895. On December 14, 1897 she was married to John Guntly. Deceased leaves to mourn, her husband, John Guntly of Turn, Michigan and five children, namely: Otto Ebert on the homestead at Dundee, John Ebert on a farm near Waucoasta, Emma (Mrs. Fred Heider) of Dundee, Minnie (Mrs. Frank Giese) of Waucoasta, Johannah (Mrs. Christ Johnson) of Van Dyne; three brothers, August Stern of Addison, Wisconsin, and two of New Prospect, Theodore Stern of Kewaskum, Herman Stern of Farmington, one sister, Mrs. E. J. Peterson of California. The funeral was held Sunday at 1:00 p. m. from the Otto Ebert residence and at 2:00 p. m. at the Dundee Trinity Lutheran church. Rev. Walter Strohschein officiated. The English and German languages were preached. The floral offerings were beautiful.

JOHN HOTH
John Hoth, a former resident of the town of Auburn, died on Tuesday, January 27, 1931, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. Miske at Jackson, Wis., following a several weeks' illness. Deceased was born November 31, 1873 in Germany. In 1889, at the age of seven years, he immigrated to America and settled in the town of Auburn, Fond du Lac county, Wis. After residing there for several years he moved to the town of Scott, Sheboygan county with his parents. Mr. Hoth is survived by a half sister, Mrs. Mary Henkel of Milwaukee; three aunts and five nephews, and one cousin, Mr. Charles Bluhm of Milwaukee. A short time before his death, Mr. Hoth wrote a letter to John Sauter and Martin Krahn of Beechwood, in which he stated the number of each song he wanted to have sung by the choir and congregation at his funeral services. He also selected his pall bearers, who were as follows: Chas. Firme, John Sauter, Martin Krahn, Ed. Seefeld, Frank Held and Ed. Kreutzinger. The funeral was held on Friday afternoon, from William Weber's residence at Beechwood with services in the St. John's Evangelical church at Beechwood. Rev. Kuenne officiated. Burial was made in the Beechwood cemetery where those who attended the funeral were away were: Mrs. H. Passow of Milwaukee; Arthur and daughter of Kohler, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Miske and family and Mrs. Arthur Mische of Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fischer of Wayne, Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Miske of Grand, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Habeck and Mrs. Anna Miske of Adell and Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bluhm of Cascoe.

MAN ARRESTED IN ABDUCTION CASE

Sheriff George Freund of Fond du Lac went to Marshfield Monday to arrest a young man wanted at Fond du Lac for the alleged abduction of a farmer's 16-year-old daughter at Campbellsport last month. The man is named as John Doe in the warrant which was issued several weeks ago by Judge H. M. Pellenz of the municipal court. Two men were named in the original complaint. One of them was arrested and held in jail until recently after being bound over to circuit court. Charges against him were withdrawn and he was released. The man being held in Marshfield will be returned to Fond du Lac to face the charges. He had been employed by the man who was arrested earlier. Former Sheriff Alfred Vande Zande of Campbellsport learned the identity of the second man and asked Marshfield authorities to be on the lookout for him, as he had information that the suspect would go to that place. The complaint alleges that the man now under arrest went to the farmhouse near Campbellsport and induced a 16-year-old girl to accompany him to the village. After remaining in Campbellsport for two hours the man agreed to take the girl home but instead, it is alleged, he took her to Milwaukee. While he was in a hotel arranging for a room the girl drove away in his automobile and returned to her home, she told authorities.

WASHINGTON COUNTY STATE TAXES

In the fiscal year ended June 30, 1929, Washington county paid $201,694 in state taxes according to a report just given out by the State Tax Commission. Of this sum $22,416 were general property taxes, $36,491 normal income tax, $1,942 street railway tax, $129,708 derived from motor vehicle licenses, and $11,139 inheritance tax.
During the same period Washington county received state aid as follows: County aid, $104,724; town, village and city aid, $19,251; aid to local schools, $41,160. This aid sums up to $165,135 and leaves an excess of taxes paid over aid received of $36,559.
There are no accurate records of the gasoline tax paid by Washington county during the period, but the average for the state is about three-fourths of the license fees paid. This would approximate about $97,281, making a total excess of taxes paid over aid received of approximately $138,840.
A four-cent gas tax would raise this total about $95,000. Out of this under the proposed 4-cent tax bill the county would be reimbursed the amount received for personal property tax collected on automobiles and other vehicles and some additional allowance for city streets and county and town roads. It is also proposed to increase some of the license fees which would add to the above.

BLUE RAMBLERS TAKE TWO STRAIGHT

The Kewaskum Blue Ramblers girls' basketball team, won their second game on Tuesday evening at the high school gym, when they defeated the strong Wabaskies by a score of 4 to 13. Both teams played hard from the start, trying to get a lead over their opponents, the best they could do, however, was to come through with the score a tie at the end of the first quarter. From there on the locals played air tight ball, allowing no more points for their opponents for the remainder of the game. The first half ended 5 to 4 with our girls in the lead. In the second half, the Ramblers came back strong and were successful in scoring eight points, making the score 13 to 4 at the end of the game. The summary of the game is as follows:

The A. C's. were defeated the same evening by Boltonville by a score of 27 to 23. The first half ended 13 to 7 in favor of the locals.

EX K. H. S. STARS TROUCE KOHLSVILLE

The newly organized Kewaskum "Bear Cats" consisting of Backhaus, Bartelt, Schaefer, Meilahn and Honeck, all former high school stars, defeated Kohlsville at Kohlsville Wednesday evening. The Kewaskum team going to Kohlsville with only five players who had not played together since their high school days, clicked with mid-season precision, and handed Kohlsville a 50 to 21 shellacking. In spite of the fact that Kewaskum was playing in cramped quarters, the local five showed rare form in pass work and shooting. Schaefer and Bartelt led the scoring, the former with 11 buckets and the latter with 8. Meilahn showed his exceptional floor work and Backhaus and Honeck in smearing the opposing players. Good strategy was shown by the manager Earl Dreher, who showed unusual skill in dropping out the opposing players. Ammerling and Wietor looked best for Kohlsville. The summary of the game follows:
Kewaskum—
Bartelt, f. 8 1 17

Kewaskum Takes Its Medicine

Doctor Campbellsport administered a bitter pill to the Kewaskum High Cagers at the local gym, last Friday night. The medicine was in the form of a 21 to 11 basket ball score with Kewaskum on the short end.
Most of the time the game was closely contested and exciting. It was not until well into the fourth quarter that Campbellsport could boast of any decided advantage. And only then after Kewaskum lost one of their regular guards on account of four personal fouls. The game opened with several minutes of exciting scrimmage with neither team scoring. Kewaskum began the counting with Harbeck dropping in a neat short shot. Campbellsport then counted twice in quick succession but Lay tied the score with an overhead hook shot. The advantage wavered slightly to one team and then to the other until a fast and furious first half ended with the score 9 to 9. Beginning the second half both teams held on defense. Campbellsport made one field goal during the third period, while Kewaskum was held to a single free throw counter. About this time Hron made his fourth foul trying to guard Reese, the speedy Campbellsport star forward. Habeck replaced

BOARD FAILS TO APPRAISE LAND

Prospects for immediate acquisition of the Nast woods, an 80 acre tract at Forest lake, by the conservation commission, faded Tuesday afternoon when the appraisal committee selected as arbitrators failed to reach an agreement on the price.
No report from the committee had been given to William Ma'he, commission chairman, but the two Fond du Lac men on the committee declared that the report will be to the effect that agreement was impossible in view of conditions under which they were working.
The Fond du Lac men on the committee were Mayor George W. Watson and County Highway Commissioner J. S. McCullough. Mr. McCullough was chosen by August Nast, Marblehead, owner of the tract; the conservation commission representative was John Borden, Madison, forester who surveyed the Kettle Moraine forest area for the commission, and Mayor Watson was chosen by the other two men.
Since the tract adjoins the Moon lake wild life refuge and is one of the finest forest tracts in Fond du Lac county, the conservation commission has been negotiating with Mr. Nast for several months, seeking to acquire it as the first state owned land in the Kettle forest area.
Condemnation proceedings will be started at once, Chairman Mauthe said unless it appears that the written agreement made by the owner to accept the state's offer of $11,000 unless an arbitration committee fixed the price higher is construed to set the price at the figure named in view of the failure of the committee to agree upon any price.

ROUND LAKE

Mr. and Mrs. George Buehner and son visited Sunday afternoon at their home here.
Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Seifert and son Clarence were business callers at Milwaukee Monday.
Eddie Hinn of Beechwood is employed at the home of his uncle, Arnold Butzke at Round Lake.
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Habeck and family were Sunday visitors at the home of Mrs. Hennings.
Chas. Romaine and sister, Mrs. Lydia Hennings visited Friday with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Romaine at New Prospect.
Mr. and Mrs. Michael Gariety and Mrs. Herman Fotts and son Marvin and Mrs. Rob Weist of Brownsville, visited Friday at M. Calvey's.
Vincent Calvey, Eddie Hinn, Mildred Kraeger and Leona Roehl received cash prizes at the Mask Ball at Batavia Sunday evening. They were masked as a group of drum corps.
Schlaefter Bros., carpenters of Campbellsport are remodeling the kitchen for Mr. and Mrs. Doc Mitchell, as the interior was partly damaged by fire recently. Over a thousand dollars worth of damage was done.
If you own a car, tractor, truck or other machinery be sure to attend the Oil School at the Opera House, Kewaskum, on Monday night at 7:30 o'clock, February 9th, given by Wadham Oil Company and Rex Garage.
A large concourse of relatives and friends attended the funeral of Mrs. John Guntly Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, at her home and at 2 o'clock at the Lutheran church at Dundee. Interment was at Campbellsport cemetery. Clem Reinders of Kewaskum had charge of the funeral.
The home and garage of Mrs. Lydia T. Hennings and family, located at Dundee has been sold to Norman Seifert of here, he will take possession March first. Inventory is being taken this week of the tools and fixtures. His brothers will assist him in business in the spring. Mrs. Hennings

The estate of Harry G. Schultz of the town of Ashford one of the victims of an automobile-train collision at Lomira on Christmas Eve, was filed for probate in county court at Fond du Lac Tuesday. The estate consists of $2,500 in personal property and $8,000 in real estate. A widow and daughter are named as heirs.

Hron and played well but Kewaskum's luck seemed to have broken. Several baskets in quick succession in the last quarter put the game on ice for Campbellsport. Schaefer replaced Habeck in the closing minutes but was unable to connect for a basket. Weddig at center, played a hard game throughout. Marx played a tight game at right guard and was especially valuable in breaking up signal plays by getting Campbellsport's tips.
Though still denied a victory, the principal, coach and student body all were encouraged by the improved brand of basket ball. If the boys continue to improve they should beat Lomira next Tuesday night at 6 o'clock.

With the Wisconsin Legislature

A state budget of $41,985,288 has been recommended to the legislature by Gov. La Follette in a message in which he asserted that this figure was $14,910,708.25 less than the total requests made by the various departments and agencies and $344,794.47 below the comparable total for the preceding biennium.

An outstanding feature of the governor's message was a criticism of the state's educational system, which was accompanied by a slash of $513,365 in the request of the university and a cut of $318,600 in that of the teachers' colleges. He said that an examination of the whole educational system of the state was overdue and that it was not made successfully by educators within the system it must be made by others.

"Two pertinent facts are inescapable," he said. "They are obvious to even the non-expert observer. One is the continually mounting expenditure for educational purposes and the other is the continually growing uncertainty respecting educational aims and practices."

For the board of control the budget provides $1,250,000 capital and $422,500 for additional operations. In discussing prison policies, the governor advocated the use of prisoners in conservation work in the northern part of the state.

Repeal of the reciprocity feature of the inheritance tax laws is provided in a bill by Senator Severson of Iowa. It would repeal the Schmiege law enacted by conservatives last session prohibiting the state from collecting inheritance taxes on Wisconsin residents who have moved to other states.

The assembly requested the attorney general to rule on the constitutionality of a proposed chain store law that would assess an organization fee of $100,000 on all domestic or foreign corporations proposing to conduct more than five mercantile establishments in the state.

The bureau of personnel has reported to the assembly that among the state's 9,500 employees there are 233 instances of husband and wife on the state payroll. This information was sought as a guide to a contemplated move to bar such double employment and give more families affected by unemployment at least one wage earner.

An additional state income tax on net interest is proposed in a bill introduced in the assembly by Assemblyman Arthur Hitt.

All persons, including fiduciaries and corporations, deriving net interest of $1,000 from money loaned or invested in notes, mortgages, bonds or other evidences of debt, would pay a 3 per cent tax, while the rate on interest exceeding $1,000 would be 5 per cent, provided the additional tax should not exceed the normal income tax, the bill provides.

Legislation to extend the use of parole in Wisconsin, which, it is estimated, would save the state more than $1,000,000 each biennium, is asked in a bill sponsored by the citizens' committee on crime and justice.

Probation of 1,500 men during a two-year period would effect a $1,000,000 economic gain, it is claimed, and would make unnecessary the construction of an institution to house them, which would probably cost the state $3,000,000.

The bill would permit both first and subsequent offenders, with the exception of those convicted of murder, assault, armed burglary or robbery and kidnaping, to be placed on probation at the discretion of the judge sentencing them.

A resolution adopted by the assembly orders an investigation of the University of Wisconsin Memorial Union, $1,250,000 student clubhouse. This action followed charges by Madison businessmen that the Memorial Union is not properly managed and that butter substitutes are used in the dining halls in violation of a state law.

A 10 per cent reduction in electric light, power, gas and telephone rates, as an emergency measure effective for six months, is demanded in a joint resolution offered by Senator Duncan of Milwaukee. Public utilities alone have escaped economic stress in the depression period, and their rates have not been reduced as have other commodity prices, the resolution declared.

Eau Claire—Authorities are looking for two men who drove up to the H. N. Wheelan store at Bracket, 10 miles south of here, and at the point of guns forced the proprietor to hand over all the cash on hand, $55. After getting the money the robbers locked Wheelan and two girl clerks in the coal bin in the basement.

Wautoma—Mrs. Ora Jaek, aged 57, was burned to death in her farm home ten miles east of here, her remains being found in the ruins. The fire is of unexplained origin. Her nephew, Kenneth Jaek, who slept in another part of the house, awoke in time to escape without injury. Mrs. Jaek was a pioneer school teacher at Neenah.

MANY ARE KILLED IN INDIANA COAL MINE

Workmen Victims of Explosion or Black Damp.

Linton, Ind.—More than a score of workers of this coal mining community are dead, victims of an explosion which tore through the Little Betty mine shaft near here. Nine miners of those in the immediate vicinity of the blast which wrecked the west entry survived the blast. Most of the 115 men of the day force working in the west entry had just left the mine when the explosion sent its booming warning over a two-mile radius. Others quickly rushed to safety, but thirty-two were trapped underground and either killed outright or caught by the poisonous black damp which followed the blast. Rescue teams risking their lives in efforts to reach the entombed men, while hundreds of persons, including wives and children of miners, milled about the pit mouth. Eight of the rescuers were temporarily overcome by the gas.

Officials differed in their opinions as to the cause of the explosion. Belief was expressed, however, that a spark had ignited either a gas pocket in the depths or had reached 600 pounds of blasting powder, carried in to the mine for the shot firers a few minutes before the explosion. Charles Herbert of Vincennes, Ind., supervising engineer of the United States bureau of mines, said the cause could not be determined until an investigation is made inside the mine. Poisonous gas and brattices broken by the explosion delayed progress of the rescue crews. Twenty-nine bodies were brought to the surface. Earl Bedwell of Dugger, Ind., died in a hospital after he was removed from the mine alive. Don Burris of Dugger and Joe Wallace of Pleasantville, were reported in satisfactory condition at hospitals.

Those brought to the surface were Lucie Hale, Julie Wellington, William Bedwell, Ben Snyder, Charles Love, Jess Crouss and Herman Brown. Burris from his hospital bed told how, after the explosion, he seized a trolley wire and followed it toward the mine mouth, calling to others to follow him. He said "suddenly everything went black" and he didn't remember anything until he reached the air. He was unconscious in the mine for two hours before rescuers reached him.

Earl Bedwell was brought out at the same time as Burris, and Wallace was found a little later, after he had been reported dead. The mine is operated by the Little Betty Mining Corporation of Chicago, of which Lyle Dayhoff is president. It is said to be one of the largest producing mines in the state.

Peter Donie, vice president and superintendent of the mine, rushed to the scene from his home in Vincennes, and entered the workings with one of the first rescue teams. He was carried out later in a state of collapse.

Modifies Liquor Ruling for Physicians, Dentists Washington.—The regulation requiring physicians to specify on the stub of liquor permits for permanent record at Washington the nature of the ailment for which whisky or permissive liquor is prescribed, has been dispensed with, according to Dr. James M. Doran, director of the bureau of industrial alcohol, in the Treasury department.

Doctor Doran said that the revised regulation was contained in a circular sent out to permit supervisors in twelve administrative districts throughout the country for their private guidance. This change is the result of protests by physicians that such reports violate medical ethics.

Doctor Doran also disclosed that other changes will give dentists the same quantity of whisky for office use as now permitted to physicians, namely, twelve pints annually. Other changes will liberalize the prescription of liquor by physicians.

Flu Doubles in Reports to U. S. Health Service Washington.—A rapid spread of influenza was reported by the public health service with a large increase in number of cases compared with a week ago. The public health service estimates the disease is about five times as prevalent as shown in the report, since several states do not require influenza reporting and others have only the statistics showing the heaviest increase were Massachusetts, Illinois, Maryland, West Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Arkansas, Connecticut and Texas.

In New York city the report showed many more cases than a week ago. New York state does not report.

NORTH DAKOTA MOB HANGS SLAYER OF 6

Youth Lynched After He Confesses Killing Family

Schafer, N. D.—Charles Bannon, twenty-two, confessed slayer of six members of the A. E. Haven family, was lynched by a mob here. Overpowering a deputy sheriff, the mob broke into the Schafer jail, took Bannon to a bridge two miles east of here and hanged him. James F. Bannon, father of Charles, also held in connection with the Haven slaying, was not molested.

The mob on arrival at the jail surrounded Deputy Sheriff Peter S. Hall and tied him to a chair. Battering down his cell door, members of the crowd took the younger Bannon and spirited him away in an automobile. Sheriff F. A. Thompson, aroused by the commotion, was seized and also tied up.

Although the mob was intent only on getting Charles, the son pleaded that his father be not harmed. "Save my dad," he urged. He was told that the elder Bannon "would be given a chance" with the courts.

Young Bannon was brought to the McKenzie county jail here several days ago from the Williams county jail at Williston, N. D., where he had been held for safekeeping since his arrest. He and his father were to have been arraigned here on first degree murder charges for the slaying of Mr. and Mrs. Haven and their four children.

Officials estimated that eighty men were in the mob. All wore masks and some were armed. Using huge timbers, they battered down the front door of the jail. Young Bannon had been employed on the Haven farm, near Schafer, last December he told authorities that after a quarrel he shot and killed first one and then another of the Havens and buried their bodies in a barn on the place.

He had previously told neighbors that the Havens had left the farm and had gone to live in Oregon. No suspicion attached to him until late in November when he was arrested on a charge of selling property that did not belong to him—hogs from the Haven farm. Checking in Oregon failed to locate the Havens.

6-Point Referendum on Rum to Indiana Senate

Indianapolis, Ind.—A proposal for a state-wide prohibition referendum was introduced in the Indiana senate by Senator John Niblack, Indianapolis attorney. Six specific questions would be placed on the ballot as follows: Are you in favor of retaining the present state and national laws regulating use of intoxicating liquors? Are you in favor of modification of the present laws so that liquor may be legally purchased for drinking purposes? Are you in favor of repeal of the Eighteenth amendment? Should the Indiana laws be repealed prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor? Are you in favor of the legal return of licensed saloons? Are you in favor of federal control of the manufacture of beer, wines, whisky, and other alcoholic drinks, and a federal government system to permit liquor dispensing?

RED CROSS REFUSES TO TAKE $25,000,000

Organization Declines Job of Handling Fund.

Washington.—In the midst of action to appropriate $25,000,000 to the Red Cross to relieve human distress in the economic emergency, congress received notice that the Red Cross preferred to be "left alone" to raise its own funds and would refuse to administer the proposed appropriation. A unanimous decision of the Red Cross central committee to that effect was laid before a house subcommittee on appropriations by Dr. John Barton Payne, chairman of the national relief organization. Promptly conveyed to the senate, it precipitated a violent forensic outburst in which both President Hoover and the Red Cross which he heads, were declared to have failed to rise to a "great national crisis."

The senate immediately laid aside other business while a dozen senators joined in the attack on the administration. Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic leader, called upon congress to repudiate the President and the Red Cross and transfer the appropriation to some other agency. Senator Robinson and several colleagues have discussed plans to make the Salvation Army or the American Legion the administrator of the proposed fund and even, possibly, to raise the appropriation to $50,000,000, as suggested recently by William Gibbs McAdoo.

The Red Cross central committee action was taken with eleven of the eighteen members present. Mr. Payne made known the attitude of the Red Cross in testifying before a house subcommittee, in which the $25,000,000 senate amendment to the Interior department appropriation bill is pending. He followed the announcement with further testimony, later supported by superintendents in the field, all calculated to show that the Red Cross is meeting the present need in the drought area and that no government help will be necessary.

Mr. Payne told the subcommittee that the Red Cross central committee had met and adopted two resolutions: One, "That it is the sense of the central committee that the Red Cross is in a position adequately to complete the task it has undertaken in the drought-stricken areas, and it hereby assumes the responsibility of completing said task without public appropriations."

The other, "That it is the sense of the central committee that the Red Cross cannot accept the administration of the funds for general relief purposes, as provided for under the terms of the bill which has passed the senate and is now pending in the house."

Before the house subcommittee Mr. Payne presented a picture of the work that the Red Cross is doing. He stated that up to date, in addition to donations of seed during the fall, assistance had been given to 650,000 individuals in 653 counties of nineteen states. He explained that relief was being directly administered through local chapters under trained workers from headquarters and that the local chapter determines the amount of relief necessary.

Through January 27, said Mr. Payne, the Red Cross had expended $329,162 for the seed program and $2,531,532 for food and other items, including donated supplies, or a total of $2,860,694. Of this, local organizations had contributed $602,539; the remaining $2,258,154 had come from national funds. With local resources all but exhausted, he said, an even larger percentage of relief must come from the national organization.

Of $5,000,000 set aside for drought relief, he said, $2,741,575 remains, and he declared this amount, with the $10,000,000 fund now being raised, would meet future needs. Contributions toward the $10,000,000 fund now total $3,874,996.

U. S. Live Stock Value Was $4,366,447,000 Jan. 1 Washington.—The total value of the live stock on the farms of the United States as of January 1, 1931, was $4,366,447,000, according to figures released by publication by the crop reporting board of the United States department of agriculture. The figures show a falling off in the value of farm live stock of $1,521,517,000, as compared with the figures reported for January 1, 1930, and of $1,639,619,000 as of January 1, 1929. Horses and colts, mules and mulc colts and swine including pigs showed a falling off of $1,000,000, as compared to the same date a year ago, while cattle and calves, sheep and lambs, cows and heifers show a slight increase, according to the report.

To Ann Rutledge (Beloved of Lincoln)

FROM Sand Ridge farm to Concord burial ground.

Along with thee, that fateful August day, They also took thy lover's soul away— With thee to lay beneath the somber mound. He hardly heard the dull, depressing sound Caused by the impact of the clods of clay Upon thy hier; nor could he cry or pray, Though all he'd lost to which his life was bound.

HE SAW THEE (and the picture crushed his heart)

Alone out there in rain and storm and dark; Thy cornsilk hair, thy mouth, thy bright blue eyes, That in his heart to a flame had fanned the spark! Thy memory, sweet Ann, we love and prize, Fate ne'er called one to play a sadder part.

—A Nicoll Weeber.

True Type of Rugged Men of Frontier

Lincoln was a patriot given the country by the frontier. Americans of today might have trouble in understanding how and from what hands or conditions the frontier families received the torch of patriotism which they passed on burning from carrier to carrier, from generation to generation. There was something finer than no-blesse oblige, fine as that is. These frontiersmen were not responding to the aristocrat's principle that he who has the most is the greatest service, that he shall be the first into the breach, the last to leave a field and the first to attempt its recovery.

That nobility is one of compensations, of rewards and merits, of privilege honorably paid for. The great American pioneer families did not have the best of it. Much of the time they had the worst of it. They seemed to get little from their country. It could have been to them as much of an abstraction as it was a reality. It frequently was indifferent to them and just as often it was obstructive and hostile.

Sometimes it failed to protect them and sometimes it restrained them from defending themselves. At times the frontier was restless and even rebellious where government seemed hostile or careless, but it gave the country Jackson, a great Unionist, and Lincoln, a greater Unionist, and Lincoln's circumstances now and earlier have been found pail in their allegiance to the country which gave them opportunity, but at need the frontier has been stanch.

Washington's devotion to his country is heightened by the fact that his natural inclination toward established order and the allegiance inherent in his aristocratic position could very well have attached him to the home government. He gave his complete loyalty to a new concept called his country, putting at hazard all the advantages a high place in life contained for him.

Lincoln in his youth represented the frontier hopelessness of a family that had receded generation by generation from competence to what may be regarded as incompetence, from opportunity to the lack of it, from good land to poor. Various generations of the family had found themselves progressively less capable of getting much from the country and found it offering less and less to them. Then from the retreating stock the great Unionist came when he was most needed. He was a humanitarian. He hated slavery. He wanted to improve the common lot, but his inspiration was not found in any of these qualities or in like emotions and sentiments. They were all subordinated to his devotion to the country. He never considered satisfying his altruistic desires at the expense of the nation. There were many Americans who long before the Civil war. The first floor now sells apparatus to brewers. The Ford theater, scene of the shooting of Lincoln, is not so far away. The latter is now used as an army recruiting station and sells the house for government records.

Lincoln's Superb Poise His Positive Quality Though Mr. Lincoln bore a burden of enormous weight, he never gave the impression of being strained or of temper or thought. There was no "fluster" about him. Incapable of violent, or even extreme language, he would, if alive today, find it difficult to understand our excoiators, who are thrown into a passion—or who seem to be such—by the slightest causes. There are people who seem to be on a strain all the while. To their class Mr. Lincoln did not belong. Of course he suffered in spirit often terribly. But he was master of himself, and he always maintained a superb poise. His was not the mood of indifference or carelessness or aeration of indifference to the life of a singularly earnest man who cared greatly about the work he was called to perform, and the nation which he was the head. Of his greatness there is no longer any question.

Lincoln's Grandchildren There are two grandchildren of Abraham Lincoln living, both daughters of Robert Todd Lincoln. Both grandchildren of Abraham Lincoln have families but all their children are girls, too. Robert Todd Lincoln had a son, but he died at the age of eight. So, since the death of Robert Todd Lincoln a few years ago there has been no living direct descendant of Abraham Lincoln by the illustrious name of Lincoln—Capper's Weekly.

Highest Paid Short Fiction Writer

FANNIE HURST is the highest paid short story writer in the world today. There's a good reason for that. She knows human nature and under the magic of her touch, the people about whom she writes become real people, not mere literary creations. The plots of her stories are based on incidents from real life as it is lived every day by the common people.

Such are the stories which are appearing in this newspaper. Be sure to read them and talk to your friends about them, for they like interesting stories, too. And Fannie Hurst's stories are interesting stories.

The BEST Gray Hair Remedy is Home Made

To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. Barbo will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off.

SHEER VELVET IDEAL FABRIC FOR LUXURIOUS PAJAMA MODES

AND again sheer, soft, colorful velvet lends its glamorous beauty to the mode. This time the scene of its triumph is staged in the realm of luxurious pajama fashions.

After designers have exhausted all the adjectives at command in lauding the beauty, the colorfulness, the exquisite sheerness and the softness of velvet, they climax the argument by telling you that the thing to remember especially is, that above all else, velvet is as practical for pajama costumes, as it is lovely.

To prove the practicality of velvet

Plaids? They're everywhere. You can't miss 'em, no matter in which direction you may travel along fashion's pathway this spring. And when a fabric is not plaided then it is almost sure to be checked or striped. Bear this information in mind when looking for what's new in spring materials, for there is no doubt about the spectacular role which will be played by plaids, stripes and checks during the coming months.

The interesting thing about plaids is, that they are exploited for materials of every description, from sheers as a medium for pajama suits, designers who specialize in this field say that being so exceedingly sheer as modern weaves are and so supple, velvet is delightfully "comfy" to lounge about in, and for the same reasons it yields gracefully to simple treatments.

For hostess pajama costumes, which, by the way is a theme of outstanding importance in the smart world, there is no doubt about the prestige of lovely velvet as a fabric-ideal. Often the trousers are made of black velvet and they are so wide and flaring at times they seem more like divided skirts. The accompanying jacket or coat is frequently of velvet in a pastel shade, or the blouse is apt to be of dainty chiffon or perhaps of handsome metal weave.

In the picture two very conservative pajama types are illustrated. A pajama costume simply tailored of chiffons and daintiest silks for formal dress to the most utilitarian of cottons as well as all the other types which go between, the new lightweight woolsens especially subscribing to the vogue for plaids.

This craze for plaids and stripes, gay Roman stripes if you please, extends especially into the blouse section, where the most intriguing models of striped and plaided silks are displayed, for as the salesperson will tell you these bright-patterned tuck-ins and over-blouse effects are a smart new item with the tailored cloth suit.

This flair for plaids, stripes and check, should carry a message of special importance to the woman who does her own sewing, since much of the success of the "simple little frock" which she usually plans to make at this time of the year depends upon selecting smart materials.

The attractive dress in the picture thin, black velvet is shown to the left. A Roman-striped sash, the stripes repeated in sleeve decoration and neck-pliping gives a brilliant dash of color which is altogether fascinating.

The handsome suit to the right combines transparent velvet in colors which while they contrast at the same time, they are in that artistic harmony which appeals to discriminating taste. The satin blouse has a soft Vionnet neckline which is flattering.

NOTES FROM THE WORLD OF FASHION

Yellow is an important color. Pearl or covered button trims appear on sports models, jewel touches on formal types.

Many women who have an eye for smartness as well as for the budget will welcome the return of the blouse. Blouses of all kinds are in the mode, afternoon blouses, blouses for street wear and blouses to be worn with sports things.

Flannel, silk serge, linen, rough sports silks, massively printed silks, and wool jersey both plain and patterned are represented in outstanding collections.

Backs are reverting to period—that is, backs of evening dresses are. The greatest successes at the mid-season openings in Paris smack of the gay '30s. There are bustles and bows, ruffles and bouffants at the back.

Quite "Sizeable" Farm, Even for These Times

Senator Fess of Ohio said at a dinner in Doylestown:

"European farmers, with their fields about as big as a pocket handkerchief, can hardly credit the immense size of our American farms, with their motor plows that can plow eight furrows at a time, etc.

"Describe these things to a European farmer and he'll think they're about as true as the anecdote.

"It's an anecdote about some men in a New York hotel who were bragging about home. Finally one of the braggers said:

"My home, gents, is in the West. We got some quite sizeable farms out there. For instance, Bob Smith, friend of mine, always starts with his men in the spring, and they plow a straight furrow till fall. Then they harvest back."

Niagara Falls Drops a Piece of Its "Lip"
Without warning, in the night when nobody was looking, a huge chunk of limestone about 175 feet and 150 feet wide broke off the edge of the American Falls at Niagara and plunged into the gorge below the Falls. This changes the contour of the Falls completely, but without impairing their beauty. The rock is gradually wearing away but this is the largest single break in recorded history. The photograph was taken from Goat Island, looking toward the American side.

OFFER PRIZE FOR OLDEST PIECE OF FURNITURE

Have you a mohair-covered chair or sofa in your home. If so, you may be two hundred and fifty dollars the richer for it!

The Statesman is in receipt of a message from the Household Science Institute, Chicago, asking for help in locating the oldest piece of mohair-upholstered furniture in the United States. The Institute feels that there is a possibility of its being found in this section. The style of the sought for furniture or its use or non-use at the present time, are not important, providing it is in good condition. The owner of the piece selected will be awarded two hundred and fifty dollars and the piece itself will be exhibited with other old-time furniture during the World's Fair at Chicago in 1933.

Back of the Institute's offer is the desire on the part of Grace Viall Gray, its director, to ascertain the longevity of mohair. Although innumerable pieces of mohair-covered furniture and mohair rugs have seen many years of hard daily service, it is claimed that unless deliberately injured no instance has yet been found of a mohair fabric ever wearing through. Kewaskumians who feel that they have something of interest should communicate with Mrs. Grace Viall Gray, Household Science Institute, 7 S. Dearborn St., Chicago, Illinois, giving the history of the piece they have in mind and all facts concerning age, color, condition and other pertinent information. Mrs. Gray will then decide whether the article is the one wanted and make arrangements for shipping it to Chicago.

History does not tell just when it was first discovered that mohair—the long, silky fleece of the Angora goat—made exceedingly beautiful and durable fabrics. But this is known: mohair fabrics are of great antiquity and have always been looked upon as rare and valuable. Prior to 1881, when George B. and Louis B. Goodall of Canford, Maine, perfected a process for weaving mohair on power looms, the manufacture of mohair velvet was largely confined to Germany and France, where it was made by hand. Especially famed is mohair velvet or velmo as it is called for short, as an upholstery fabric. Years of hard day-in-and-day-out service leave the deep, rich pile unmarred, its colors fresh and undimmed. Unless one willfully cuts or burns it, it is as nearly indestructible as any woven material can be. This is due largely to the fact that all the rub and wear comes on the top ends or loops of these pile fabrics, whereas in smooth surfaced materials the rub comes on the sides of the individual fabric. Also because the mohair fabrics are smooth-surfaced, the dust and dirt do not easily collect on them and usually a light brushing is all that is required to keep mohair fresh and clean. Housewives' fear of moths has been ended by the recent perfection of a mill mothproofing process that makes mohair fabric immune to damage by these pests.

Aside from its use in furniture, mohair velvet is the favored fabric used in the upholstery of automobiles, railroad cars, in the making of fine rugs, robes, draperies, clothing and many other articles.

Three Great Men of Letters
