NUMBER 30

PUBLIC SCHOOL ACTIVITIES

The ball team will play Campbellsport on the home diamond Friday afternoon. A sale of booster tickets for the game is being conducted by the team members.

On Monday the strong Grafton team defeated the locals 9 to 2. Henry Lay, who has been the school's oratorical winner in the Tri-County League and in the state sub-district contests, placed fourth in the district contest held at Kaukauna. This, too, is a worthy placing when one considers the number of contestants taking part, and the size of the schools represented.

Commercial Department
The following students have won awards recently in the Commercial Department: Dolores Andre, a fifty word typewriting pin; Ruth Kanies and Helen Kohn, forty word typewriting pins; George Koerble and Elroy Hron have merited membership cards in the Order of Artistic Typists; and Joseph Uelmen has merited an eighty word transcription certificate in shorthand.

On May 1, the annual Junior Prom was held in the High School gym. Apple green and violet, the colors selected by the class, were used in decorating. Clem Shermeister's orchestra furnished the music.

The grand march was led by William Harbeck, vrom chairman, and Sylvia Klein, prom queen. Refreshments were served by the girls of the freshman class.

One hundred thirty-two numbers were sold at the door. The total receipts including check room fees were $145.00.

The class working under the supervision of their advisor, Mr. Johnson, are to be complimented on the attractive way the gym was decorated and for the general management of the prom.

Daily rehearsals are being held for the operetta program to be given by the grades on Friday evening, May 15. Two operettas will be presented. The lower grade pupils are giving "Cinderella in Flowerland" and the upper grades "Pirates of Hawaii". The pupils of the school are now conducting an advance sale of tickets. As on former school entertainments the reservation of seats is free. It may be made at Miller's Drug Store on or after 4:00 o'clock Thursday, May 14th. Because of the number of small children taking part the program is to be started promptly at 7:50.

NEW SERIAL STORY

*Beginning with this issue of the Statesman, a new serial story, "The Sealed Trunk," by Henry Kitchell Webster, will be published. The story contains a lot of startling elements, but devoid of murders and other gruesome accompaniments.

A brief synopsis of the story follows:

"It was an odd little old leather trunk and its contents—thousands of sheets of paper covered with apparently meaningless figures—seemed so unpromising that Rhoda McFarland sealed it up and consigned it to a closet. There it rested for several years. But, all of a sudden, that trunk became an object of importance and the central figure of a plot that caused Rhoda to leave her friends, take a position as a stenographer in the city and attempt to hide her identity under an assumed name. And the possession of the trunk brought other experiences into her life—romance, adventures and acquaintances with oddly assorted persons, some good, some not so good and others just queer; among them a handsome young man—who but you must read the story yourself in coming issues of the Statesman. Watch for this new serial, "The Sealed Trunk," starting in the issue of today, May 8th.

INSTALL HYDRAULIC PUMP

The Sinclair Oil Company, of which Joe Doll is local agent, has had men engaged the past three weeks installing a large hydraulic pump at their oil tanks here, located just north of the mill house. With the installation of this new pumping system, the danger of fire hazard has been considerably eliminated. The new outfit is stationed in a new fireproof building. Said pump will save a great deal of time and labor in loading the truck tanks and unloading car tanks. Mr. Doll states that only half of the work will be required to load and unload tanks in comparison to what it formerly did. The new method is quite an improvement over the old style of operating at the station.

INCOME TAX IS PAYABLE

Approximately 5,000 state employees will lose their federal income tax exemption under a ruling made by the bureau of internal revenue at Washington this week, according to A. E. Garey, director of the state bureau of personnel. The ruling says that "state employees are exempt from federal income tax only when they are engaged in functions which can be performed only by the state itself." It is interpreted to mean that higher education, provision of transportation, artificial light, water, or utilities are not state functions. Mr. Garey says if the interpretation is correct, 5,000 employees at the university, besides workers engaged in the other fields will be affected.

RURAL ROUTE NO. 5 DISCONTINUED

Beginning last week Friday, May 1, rural route number five out of the local post office was discontinued. This was done in compliance to orders given out by post office officials at Washington, D. C., last winter. The reason for discontinuing this route, is due to the fact that the modern way of delivering mail by automobile is done faster and at the same time covering more mileage than in days gone by when mail had to be delivered with horse drawn vehicles. The extreme southern portion of the route is now being taken care of by the West Bend post office, while the remainder of it is taken up by the rest of the Kewaskum routes. Kewaskum will from now on have four routes. August Bilgo carrier on route one, Edwin Backus on route two, Herbert Backhaus on route three and John H. Martin, who formerly was carrier on route five, will be carrier on route four.

The new ruling as set forth by the post office department, further states that all rural mail boxes must be placed on the right side of the road, and the number as recently sent to all rural patrons by Postmaster Erwin D. Koch, must be properly placed on the mail box. Rural patrons are also instructed and warned that their post office address must be written according to their route and box number.

CYCLONE SALLY has taken its place as one of the most popular plays on the amateur stage. The play contains a wealth of action, full of uproarious comedy from beginning to end.

TOWN BOARDS APPEAR AGAINST BILL AT MADISON

Members of the town boards of Cedarburg and Mequon appeared against a bill before the legislative committee at Madison last week that would in its purpose, according to Mr. Chas. Pollow, Town Clerk of Cedarburg, exempt foxes on fox farms from taxation. The bill was introduced by a Milwaukee socialist and was worded so that it classified oxes on farms as farm animals and would exempt all farm animals born after December 31 from taxation. The committee recommended the bill for indefinite postponement which virtually sounded the death knell of the measure.—Cedarburg News.

CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned desire to express our sincere thanks to all our neighbors, relatives and friends for the kind sympathy shown us in our late bereavement, the illness, death of our beloved husband and father, Pat Darmody. To the pall bearers, to Rev. Vogt for his consoling words, for spiritual bouquets and many beautiful floral offerings, to all who loaned cars and to all who showed their last respect to deceased by attending the funeral.

OPENING BALL GAME SUNDAY

Next Sunday, May 10th, marks the opening game of the season for the Kewaskum baseball team, and for all teams in the Wa-Fon-Do league. Sunday's game also marks the first game in a number of years in which Kewaskum is represented in a league, as such, local officials are trying to make this a real day for both fans and players. If it is possible a band will be engaged to play several selections on Main street and at the ball park. Just who the battery will be for the local team cannot definitely be stated at this time, most likely, however, it will be Eldon Ramthun, pitcher and Kral catcher.

The team has been supplied with entire new equipment, such as new uniforms, which are of a warm gray with blue stripes in color, new baseball bats, new bases and new mask, breast and shin protectors for the catcher. Improvements made on the baseball grounds are that the diamond has been scraped and leveled off, dug-outs for the players of both teams, seats have been placed on the grounds and a grand stand at the south end of the field has been built.

The visiting team will be Ashford, who come here heralded as one of the strong teams of the league. Both teams as we understand, are all "pepped" up for the opener, and are anxious to win their initial contest. For the past two weeks the locals have been practicing hard, practically every evening in the week and Sunday afternoons. Judging from the interest that has been shown by fans since the organization of a ball team here, Sunday's game ought to be attended by a large crowd of enthusiastic fans. Other teams in the league paired for the opener are: Brownsville and Osceola at Osceola and Campbellsport and Eden at Campbellsport.

RETURN FROM CALIFORNIA

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Colvin, who left last fall for Los Angeles, Calif., to remain for the winter months, returned home last Saturday hale and hearty. Mr. and Mrs. Colvin enjoyed their stay in the Golden West immensely, spending a great deal of their time in sight seeing, fishing and other outdoor sports of interest. Mr. Colvin states that conditions in the West are about the same as they are here or anywhere else in the United States on account of the depression, with little promise at present for improvement. During their stay in Los Angeles they met a number of former Wisconsin people, who were indeed glad to meet some of the old familiar faces from back home. On their return home they took the southern route via automobile passing through the state of Texas, where they encountered quite a little rain. Mr. and Mrs. Colvin left for the West last fall on account of climatic conditions and where Mr. Colvin expected to regain his former good health. He states that the change did wonders and he is now feeling fine. They will reside at their summer home at Forest Lake to which place they will move as soon as they can.

HIGHWAY 55 TO BE WIDENED

Property owners along Highway 55 south of here for a distance of 7 miles from a point 3 miles south of West Bend to 10 miles south have been served with encroachment notices by the county highway commission as the first step toward widening the shoulders on this concrete highway. Fences and poles must be moved back to give the state a 66-foot right-of-way. The shoulders on this road will be widened to 8 feet on each side, and ditches will be sloped more gradually than they are now. Work on this project will begin as early this season as possible at a point about 10 miles south of West Bend, and the county crew will work north as far as the appropriation of $6,000 for this purpose will reach. The sum of $1,200 has been appropriated for the purpose of widening the sharp curve on Highway 55 ten miles south of West Bend. The first major highway project to be tackled by the county crew this spring is the straightening out of an offset in Highway 28 in section 5, town of Wayne. Much grading will be necessary to complete this job, and $13,500 has been set aside for this work. A dust preventative will be spread on gravel portions of Highways 83, 60 and 144 in this county this spring. On Highway 41 the end walls of culverts will be removed and the culverts widened.—West Bend News.

Events in the Lives of Little Men

PLAYBACK, THE STORY OF A THWARTED SUICIDE

By FANNIE HURST

TO THE druggist, what happened one motionless July evening, on one of those streets of lower New York that after dark, whether merited or not, take on a sinister gloom, while by no means routine was nonetheless not without frequent precedent in the many years of his shopkeeping.

He knew the ear-marks so well. The strangely lit eyes, the smeared pallor, the elaborate manner of asking for rat poison. In the case of the girl with the strawberry-colored hair and the pitiful lower lip with a tiny mole that looked like a court plaster beauty spot, it was much the same as usual, except that she was so young. Not over sixteen, if the druggist was any judge, and he flattered himself that he was.

The thing to do in these cases was not to interfere; to interfere was to invite desperate and frightened recoil. There was a little shelf in the store for just such emergency. Neat little phials of burley water duly labeled "poison." In this wise, chances were the subject would have time to recover from the mental aberration and in all probability not repeat the attempt at self-destruction.

That had been the druggist's experience where he had been in a position to follow up the case, but usually they just drifted out of sight after the flash he thrust on them, and it was left to his intuition, which he trusted, to gauge the results.

On one or two occasions the would-be self-annihilators had returned to thank him for the deception. But more usually, at least according to the druggist's conviction, they just drifted sheepishly out of sight.

In any event, it behooved him to regard the matter that way. It assuaged his unease of mind.

The sixteen-year-old girl with the strawberry hair had not returned, but in the odd times his mind flashed back to her after the event, the druggist had leaned upon his conviction that failure to succeed that once had jerked her to her senses.

The druggist's life was too involved in the multitudinous affairs of his little business to let these matters obsess him. The exacting hours of his shop weighed heavily. It was at the period when his son was attending Pharmaceutical college and the assistant he had was all too inadequate.

The druggist had been fourteen years in his small old-fashioned shop which the antiquated air of a pharmacy still pervaded instead of the modern electrified atmosphere of the newer type of drug store. He took pride in that, and further prided himself in the fact that when his only son had finished training, he, too, would carry on in the spirit of the chemist, rather than that of the new fangled department store regime which had overtaken the corner druggist.

And even down there on the remote by-street, tidings of this small shop spread among physicians to whom the perfectly-filled prescription meant much. Motor cars that seldom, if ever, frequented that part of town swooped now with frequency into the druggist's street. His shop became a trademark of quality.

Curiously and against the modern tendency of the modern youth, the son had returned to fit himself with enthusiasm and valor for the cause of medicine, in the old shop.

Eight years after his graduation from the state college, he was practically carrying alone the increasing responsibilities of the drug store. Meanwhile of course the neighborhood had changed, becoming in a way even more remote and even more sinister in its implication.

Various the opportunities that had come and the offers from doctors to help finance the removal of the shop to a more likely part of town, but the old druggist, half bed-ridden now, was querulous when approached on the subject, and for one reason or another his son, twenty-nine past, of steady caliber, and his father's passionate pride, did not urge it.

After all, the store was the old gentleman's life and work. It was he who had created it out of pennies; nurtured it, tended it in infancy and seen it flourish with the years. The world might well be said to have beaten a pathway to the door of the little shop. It was because of his integrity that doctors with national and international reputations recommended it to their patients, and once gained, a customer remained.

No, this was scarcely the time to cross a bed-ridden old man in his desire for the stabilization of his life work.

Not that it was a strenuous or tormented old age into which he had entered. The little rooms above the shop where he had dwelt the twenty-eight years following the death of his wife were snug to him as the proverbial bug in its rug. Peace and pride ruled here; the peace of honest achievement and high pride in a son whose ideals were the ideals of the father and whose youth stood aside in deference to the conservatism of age.

Some day, naturally, the boy would blossom out into a new and wider enterprise. It was right that he should. He had the ability, the opportunity, the ambition. But while the father lived, there he remained in the shop, right-hand to the business, right-hand to the parent.

And of course, along about the time the older man began to feel upon himself the Shadow, there began to move across his mind torments, fears, heart-aches, even terror for the future of this boy. There was something so naive and trusting and simple about the boy. His one weakness in the affairs of business was his tendency to take every one at his word.

Such a youth would fall easily and readily into the hands of any woman who desired him sufficiently, and at twenty-nine there was dignity to his fellow, fine clarity of eye and brow and a naive quality that gave him added attraction.

With the old gentleman standing by to add his pinch of cynicism when ever necessary, all that was well and good. The boy had had his threats of pitfalls and come out unscathed. It was the aftermath the father dreaded. What about after he had passed on?

It therefore became almost a secret obsession with him. What about this boy's future? A woman could break or make him. What untold relief to see this boy settled in life before . . .

Intuitive always, the old man watched for signs. The reticence of secret thoughts—there was none of that. The absorption in some one of the many charming young women who come into the shop—not a suggestion of personal interest with anyone. The telephone's unexplained demands that might suggest a hidden sweetheart—there were no clues there to indicate a preparation for the inevitable.

Countless times he attempted to broach the subject but the boy would have none of it. Not interested in women! Why must father get on the morbid subject of death—nothing but gout the matter with him! Let the future take care of itself.

The future did take care of itself. One spring evening the sick room with a look on his face that caused the heart of the old man to leap in terror and hope.

This boy was in love!

He was, and the matter of introducing the girl to a father who depended so strongly upon intuition was a time of untold nervousness to the boy.

"If you don't like her, Father, it's terrible to have to tell you, but if you don't like her I'm going to marry her anyway."

It required only one meeting to set the fluttering old heart of the fluttering old man at rest. She was right! She was the assured future of his boy. She was everything, in her strawberry-haired prettiness, with the mouth so prettily shadowed by a mole, her eyes so prettily shadowed by good common sense, that this father could wish for his son.

One felt so at home with her at the very first meeting. It was as if one had known her before. . . .

Native African Houses

The native of Kirdi-Massa, on the west coast of Africa, builds his home of a stiff clay much like the abode used by Mexicans and Indians. This is poured over a framework of slender wooden poles used as reinforcements, and allowed to dry in the sun. The design is worked on with a crude trowel-like tool while the mud is moist.

The houses look like huge ant hills, with only an inadequate opening for a door in the side and a small round chimney hole at the top to admit light and air. The design on the outside is often elaborate and worked out with the greatest pains, for it serves to identify the owner of the hut.

Lightest Known Gases

One cubic foot of hydrogen under ordinary conditions will lift .071 pound. One cubic foot of helium gas will lift .068 pound. These are the lightest gases known and practically the only ones used for balloons. It is stated that the government helium plant in Texas can produce helium at about $12 per thousand cubic feet, or at a little more than twice the cost of hydrogen. Hydrogen is inflammable while helium is not. While heated gases and smoke have a tendency to rise, their lifting power will depend on their specific gravity and on the temperature.

British Civil List by No Means Extravagant

The income of the king of Great Britain is known as the civil list and the amount is decided, usually, at the beginning of each reign. The present civil list was determined by parliament in 1910 when George V ascended the throne. It is an annual appropriation of £470,000, or $2,284,000, which goes to maintain the upkeep of the palace, including the upkeep of the servants and functionaries and "royal bounties." The actual amount received from the civil list for the personal expenses of the king and the queen probably does not exceed the salary of an American cabinet officer. In addition, however, the king receives some income from the dukedom of Lancaster, of which he is the duke.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Manager Connie Mack Jars Old Guard by Naming All-Time Athletic Stars

Connie Mack, who has been treading back over the 50-year trail he made through baseball history, for the benefit of admiring newspaper readers, rather shocked the old guard when he declared, in naming his all-time Athletics baseball team, that "Mule" Hans and "Bing" Miller were entitled to places on that mythical outfit.

The grandstand managers of 25 years ago have it that Connie is spoiling us. They believe that the Athletics of other days had several outfielders deserving of preference over both Hans and Miller. Among the noted fly-chasers and lifters who made history for the Athletics might be mentioned "Socks" Seybold, the renowned Davy Fultz, "Topsy" Harisel, Elmer Flick, Danny Murphy, Amos Strunk and Rube Oldring, among others.

These men flourished from 15 to 25 years ago under conditions when high batting averages were far more difficult to accumulate. Their swatting figures are then might not compare so favorably with the hoisted hitting averages of today; but all of those named were splendid fielders, scientific hitters and good throwers; most of them were fine base runners.

Citing the recent action by Columbia and favoring that move, the Yale Daily News renewed an appeal for a revision of Yale's system of athletic awards, whereby the distinction between major and minor sports will be discarded. The News has advocated this change for some time.

The News referred in its editorial to changes made by other institutions leading toward the final revision which is the objective set by the Ell undergraduate publication. Among these was the Princeton plan of considering all minor sports on the same basis.

Madison Square garden of New York has leased both Yankee stadium and the Polo grounds, keeping out big time competition during the outdoor season.

The baseball uniforms of the Baltimore Orioles of the International league will be striped this season instead of the usual solid white color. The suits will be a cream color with a thin black stripe and will carry a number on their back so that the players can be identified.

Race-horse betting through parimutuel machines in 1930 at the four Maryland tracks—Pimlico, Bowie, Laurel and Havre de Grace—totaled $47,754,674, nearly $7,000,000 under the 1929 total. The state is entitled to $6,000 daily license fee and 15 per cent of the profits of each association.

Charles A. Comiskey, one of the oldest of baseball men, pays high tribute to Ty Cobb:
"Ty Cobb never has been equaled. Baseball has changed a lot since I was a player. In my day it wasn't necessary to specialize, but Cobb could do everything."

Frosty Peters, star backfield man for the Illini during the big years of 1927, '28 and '29, and more recently star quarterback on the Portsmouth professional team, is back at Illinois to complete his work here he left off after the close of the 1929 football season. "Frosty" needs another semester to get his degree.

Before Jack Dunn's death the Baltimore Orioles confined themselves fairly close to the Athletics in player deals. But since Dunn's death the club has dealt with 11 big league clubs in the last two years.

And during the last two years not one deal has been made with the A's—who gave Dunn $285,000 for four players, Grove, Earnshaw, Bishop and Boley.

My Greatest Thrill in Sport

By JACK KELLY
World's Champion Single Sculler

My greatest thrill came after the race in which I defeated Bob Dibble, then holder of the Canadian and American rowing championship, on July 4, 1929.

It was a terrific race. Fred Paisted, the great professional sculler, who had rowed against Hanlan and all the stars of his day, said that it was the finest he had ever seen. The finish was a flaming dash into which we each threw all our remaining strength, and the prow of my shell went over the line ahead of his.

We were both swaying in our seats when we stopped rowing, but I was buoyed up by the victory and consequently felt better than Dibble. After we rested about five minutes, I moved over to Bob, as we always shook hands in the boat after a race, but I noticed his face had taken on a whitish-green hue which always preceded a collapse from exhaustion.

Just as I reached to take his hand he collapsed completely and fell out of his boat into the river. I was not in much better condition, but without thinking I dived over after him. Unfortunately his outrigger caught me in the stomach and gave me a two-inch gash which knocked any remaining breath out of me. As soon as I hit the water I swallowed half the Schurkill, so the would-be life saver found himself fighting for his own life.

I struggled to get my head above water and finally was successful. I had forgotten Dibble entirely for the moment, but as soon as I had coughed all the water out of my lungs, I caught hold of the stern of one of the shells, which luckily was right at my hand.

I then looked for Dibble but did not see him, when suddenly his hand shot up from under the water and I reached, caught hold of his wrist and pulled it over the boat.

Strain as I would, I could not get his mouth above the level of the water and every time a wave ripped the water, some would go into his mouth and he would cough. I was afraid to change my grip for fear I would lose him altogether.

Finally Harry Burke and Elliot Newlin, the referees of the race, went overboard and saved the pair of us. Dibble did not regain consciousness for several hours, and incidentally that race proved the finish of the career of the greatest sculler I have ever met.

Yes, all things considered, I've never had a greater thrill than when I went into the Schurkill that blistering afternoon, after I had defeated Bob Dibble.

Oil Filter Saves Wear on Automobile by Excluding All Harmful Particles

(By the SERVICEMAN)
Today I am going to tell you about a device that saves wear and makes cars run better. And I am going to tell you something more important—how to take care of this device properly. Because if you don't you won't enjoy its full benefits.

This device is the oil filter. It prevents foreign matter, such as dust, grit, sand and other particles from mixing with the oil.

To vividly describe an oil filter is to compare it with the way a housewife makes grape jelly. She crushes and cooks the grapes, after which they are put in a fresh, clean cloth. Then she strains the juice of the berries through this cloth into a pan. The cloth retains all of the skins, seed and pulp, leaving the pure juice to drain into the receptacle. This straining makes the jelly clear and free from impurities. As the straining process continues the cloth becomes so full of residue that it ceases to act as a strainer, and another clean cloth is used.

In principle, straining fruit is very much like filtering oil. The oil filter strains the oil and when the filtering bag, or cartridge, becomes filled with abrasive matter, such as sand and hard pieces of carbon, it is necessary to replace the filter cartridge so the filter will always work at its highest efficiency.

While the principle of straining fruit, juices and of straining oil is similar, there is a vast difference in the methods. In straining the fruit juice the free flow of juice diminishes almost immediately after the process begins, soon merely dripping through. That is because the filtering area of the cloth is limited.

With the oil filter the oil is filtered progressively and through a filtering area of as much as 600 square inches. The filter functions at high efficiency until every inch of the filtering area has been finally filled with residue, which occurs about every 10,000 miles of driving. Then it is that the oil filter cartridge should be replaced, which will make the oil filter as good as new again, and ready for 10,000 more miles of service.

Carbon Proof Spark Plugs Most Logical
How to keep motors that have a tendency to "pump oil" running well has long been a problem with repairmen. In nearly every instance, new spark plugs are fouled up within a short time after installation. As a solution carbon proof spark plugs are the most logical type to use for such engines.

These plugs have what is known as a carbon proof insulator, with a series of high temperature fins circling the lower end. The fins attain sufficient heat to burn off any deposits of soot or oil, thus offering effective resistance to carbon troubles. They assist quick starting, and resist the greasy smoke that quickly coats the smooth surface porcelain when rich mixtures are used, or the choke used to any extent.

Hornsby Would Rather Have Woody English
When shortstops are mentioned in the National league you think of Jackson and Gelbert, Wright and Maranville, but Hornsby would much rather have English.

"He is the most unappreciated ball player in the league," says Hornsby. "To judge a ball player's real value you've got to play alongside of him and I've had an opportunity to get first-hand information on English. He makes some errors, that's true, but that's all right with me. He makes errors because he goes after everything. He goes after every tough chance. He never sidesteps anything and he is smart. He knows how to play batters. He doesn't give away plays and he's there in a pinch. He comes up when he should come up, but when a lot of others go down."

Sam McAllister, former athletic star at St. Viator college, turned down big league baseball offers to follow coaching. He is the new head coach in baseball and basketball at Alabama Poly.

International curling will have a place on the 1932 Olympic winter sports program to be conducted at Lake Placid.

Doc Leggett, catcher, is back with Reading, where he starred in 1928. Since then he has been with the Cubs, Braves and Newark.

The old egg-or-hen controversy has led to another somewhat similar, in the Northwestern press: Which came first, umpires or pop bottles?

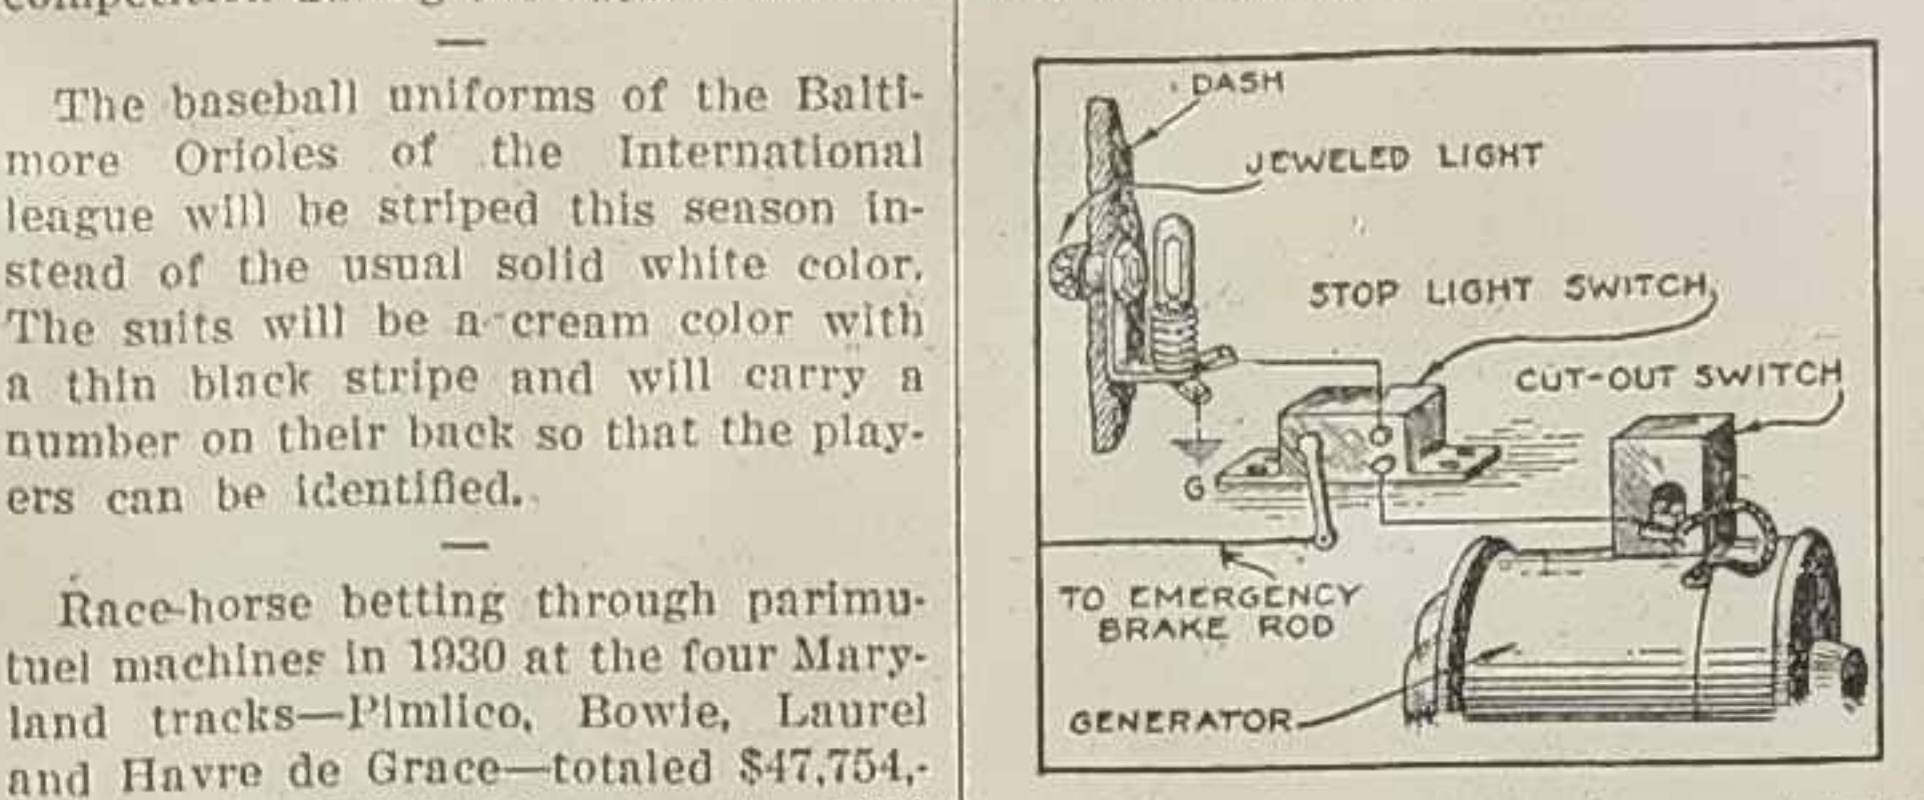

The International league has three new magnates—Leo Danduraud and Joseph Cattarinich, of Montreal, and Samuel Colacurcio, of Jersey City.

The Australian women's hockey team recently completed 13,000 miles of travel to play field games in England. They competed with teams in Ireland, Wales, Scotland, Germany, Holland, Belgium and France.

Bobby Jones was an amateur for a long time, but now he is raking in the money. He is to get a quarter of a million from the movies and about one hundred thousand dollars each from the radio and his newspaper writing.

Emergency Brake Light With Unique Feature

Here is an emergency brake indicator light with a novel feature. The ordinary method of hooking up such a light has one serious defect. If you forget to turn off the light when you leave the car, the light will run down your battery. By taking the current supply from the generator instead of from the battery wiring, the light will burn only while the motor is running and the emergency brake is set. The wiring is shown. A jeweled radio indicator light or any other small light fastened to the dashboard of the car will serve the purpose.

Emergency Brake Indicator Light. Hooked to the Generator, is on Only When Engine Runs.

Locate the wire that comes from the generator and connect to the automatic cut-out. Make connection to this wire as shown. Since the voltage on the generator side of the line may rise above six volts, use a 12-volt bulb or a fixed resistance in series Monthly.

Watch Instrument Board to Avert Any Accident

The instrument board is a bulletin board and the constantly changing reports it brings from various vital parts of the car should be of the greatest interest to the driver. This is the best argument that can be mustered against the practice of some individuals who drive with the dash light turned off. This light, now indirect on a majority of makes of cars, offers no obstacle in the way of glare that cannot be overcome with ease. The light never should be off at night.

WOOD-BURNING ENGINE SAVES MUCH FUEL
Engineers and automotive experts were treated to a surprise when they witnessed demonstrations at Berlin, Germany, of the newly developed Imbert wood generators which, it is claimed, result in a saving of 90 per cent in the cost of fuel. The new device can be installed in any car without changing the motor. Two hundred twenty pounds of wood, it is said, is enough to propel a car for about 60 miles. A bus which has been equipped with an Imbert wood generator is shown. It may be seen beside the driver's seat.

Life's Seamy Side Seen in Paris Flea Market
The traveler who does not want to miss one of the most unusual spectacles in all of France, and one which may not last many years longer, says go out some Sunday to Saint-Ouen, in the old military zone of Paris, when the famous flea market is in operation.

Here, on cleared land which once held the old fortifications that guarded the city of Paris, and which is still under the jurisdiction of the military authorities, the homeless poor of the city long ago set up a wretched empire of hovels and here they have held sway for many years, eking out a wretched existence with ragpicking and junk-collecting and kindred lowly occupations and holding, every Sunday, a gigantic rummage sale—picturesque, colorful and sordid.

Here the human wreckage of Paris buys second-hand clothing and household utensils for a handful of sous. Here are set forth for sale many brushes, toothless combs, ancient Victrola records, discarded family portraits, fantastic bric-a-brac, toy, empty picture frames, stuffed dogs—anything and everything that has seen better days and been cast off. To this shabby bazaar come the poor working man and his wife, tramps and in fact all the unfortunates of Paris to look and to buy, and to it also come tourists to see this tragicomic spectacle and to seek hopefully for some unrecognized treasure which may have found its way to the junk heap.

WOMEN SHOULD LEARN USES OF MAGNESIA
To women who suffer from nausea, or so-called "morning sickness," this is a blessing. Most nurses know it. It is advised by leading specialists:

Over a small quantity of finely cracked ice pour a teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. Sip slowly until you are relieved. It ends sick stomach or inclination to vomit. Its antacid properties make Phillips' Milk of Magnesia quick relief in heartburn, sour stomach, gas. Its mild laxative action assures regular bowel movement. Used as a mouth-wash it helps prevent tooth decay during expectancy.

Present Day Sees Only Infancy of Television
An ordinary telephone is not used in television because it would hide part of the speaker's face. A person seats himself in a booth before a frame in which he will see the face of the person with whom he is talking. His own face is rapidly scanned by a mild beam of blue light which reflects from his face to the photoelectric cells and gives rise to the current which transmits his image. There is no fierce glare to the scanning beam. One is not annoyed by its presence and may even gaze directly at it without inconvenience. Special telephone transmitters and receivers are concealed in the booths. One talks face to face to the distant person, and a hidden receiver speaks the words, which seem to issue from his mouth. The other part appears with sufficient detail for recognition of facial expression, but the effect is like looking at an animated cabinet-size photograph, because the image is produced in monochrome.

River Resumes Old Channel

Castoria is a never-failing comfort to children and mothers alike because it was formulated expressly for children—to correct their little ills and upsets.

The beauty of it is you can give Castoria to children of all ages with equally sure results. When baby's cry warns of colic, a few drops of Castoria has him soothed; and free from pain, he is asleep again in a jiffy.

In an older child when coated tongue or bad breath tell of constipation, a more liberal dose is usually all that is needed to cleanse and regulate the bowels.

Your doctor will tell you Castoria deserves a place in the family medicine cabinet until your children are grown. He knows it is safe for the tiniest baby; effective for a child in his teens.

FIRE SCHOOL

Firemanship has changed. The bucket brigade, hand pump, rivalry as to what company could throw the most water, and old hit-or-miss methods are things of the past.

Fire hazards have changed. Buildings are increasing in height some to "sky scraper" proportions. The hazards of a former generation arose from burning wood, coal or kerosene. Today the firemen must contend with hazards of powerful electric currents, flammable liquids, fuels, oils, solvents, lacquers, paints and mixtures, city gas, various compressed gases, liquefied petroleum gases used for light and fuel, gases and anaesthetics used in hospitals, nitro-cellulose films in theatres and hospitals, gases used in refrigeration, new and dangerous drugs and chemicals and many other new hazards.

Fire apparatus has changed. Gone are the buckets, squirts, hand pumps, hose reels, faithful dobbin, steamer and many other things of a former day. Chemical engines, large and small, motor driven pumps and aerial ladders have taken their place. In most fire departments are found smoke, gas or fresh-air masks, lung-motors, oxygen inhalators, and many tools and appliances not known to the fireman of a former generation.

Firemen must change and progress with the times. Fire prevention and control is not merely "a job"; it is a scientific profession.

In this onward march the fire school can help greatly. It acts as a meeting point to compare means and methods. Expert drill masters lead in movements and evolutions, trained instructors teach methods of life saving, resuscitation and first aid, and experienced practical men discuss machinery, tools and modern methods. All firemen cannot attend. Those in attendance must impart the gathered information and new methods to the department members at home. It is important that bright, active resourceful men be selected to attend who can get most out of a short course, and are best able to instruct and train the members at home.

Better and more effective methods of work bring about a greater saving of property and lives and thus increased benefits to the community. Firemen on the whole take pride in their profession and work and welcome new methods and improvements to enable them to give better service; but they are not men of means, and it is hoped that each community will send some of its firemen and allow the necessary expenses of attendance.

The next short course in firemanship will be conducted by the state university on June 23 to 26 inclusive.

With a McCormick-Deering Two-Row Cultivator

... one man can do two men's work

YES, you can cultivate twice as large an acreage with the McCormick-Deering UD Two-Row Cultivator; but that is not the most important factor. What is more important to you is that you can use this two-row cultivator on your present acreage, and do a good job of cultivating in half the time.

Remember that, at twice the speed, if the season is rainy, you can get twice as much cultivating done between rains. And if you hire help, the two-row makes a clean-cut saving of 50% in the cost of cultivating.

WE can supply this Two-Row with the beam and shovel equipment you require. Visit us next time you are in town.

HIGH RECORD

Paul L. Justman of the town of Wayne, treasurer of Washington county, has recently made an outstanding record in dairy herd improvement association records for the state. In these records, which have been published, Mr. Justman's herd of sixteen grade Holsteins; stood thirteenth on the list, averaging 1,364 pounds of milk during the month and 48 pounds of fat. The average butter percentage was 3.5.—Hartford Times.

With the Wisconsin Legislature

The creation of a state regional planning commission was referred to Gov. La Follette for his approval as the result of assembly concurrence in a bill by Senator Duncan of Milwaukee.

The assembly adopted the Gwidl resolution for an investigation of the state conservation commission by a vote of 62 to 13.

The Nixon resolution for the establishment of the initiative and referendum has been concurred in by the senate.

The Twiss bill to enable cities to market milk and dairy products failed in the assembly by a vote of 42 to 28.

The proposal to permit election of two justices to the supreme court at one time when a vacancy occurs has been rejected by the senate by a vote of 17 to 14.

The measure that passed the assembly, emerged as a result of former Gov. Kohler's appointment of five members of the supreme court.

After July 1, 1933, it will be compulsory upon all counties to adopt the old age pension system and levy a county tax sufficient for the payment of pensions.

All hearings before court commissioners will be open to the public if the assembly concurs in a bill passed by the senate and if Gov. La Follette signs it.

The assembly concurred in the senate committee bills allowing registration of voters 10 days prior to election instead of from the Tuesday preceding and prohibiting use of the term "butcher" on foods containing fats other than butter fats.

Mr. Hodson announced in advance of the court session he would not appear before the court or appeal from its decision. He said that he and all members of his family have been received into St. Joseph's Catholic church at Sturgeon Bay.

400 DIE, 2,000 HURT IN ARMENIAN QUAKE

Property Damage a Million; Thousands Are Homeless.

Erivan, Armenia.—Nearly 400 persons were killed and 2,000 injured in the earthquake which rocked Armenia, according to preliminary estimates, and property damage probably will reach $1,000,000.

The shocks were felt generally throughout Armenia, but were most severe in the southwest near Nakhichevan, where the longest shock lasted about a minute, and was followed by terrifying subterranean rumblings. The flimsy native huts collapsed in a dozen villages, and as the little town of Sisan every house was destroyed. The villages of Gersin and Megrin also suffered heavily.

The Opuz (secret police) have seized hundreds of tons of grain consigned to Baku, and relief committees organized in the neighboring Soviet republics are sending money and supplies to the points where they are needed most.

Twenty thousand peasants are said to be homeless in the Kafance district, living in the open. A heavy rainfall added to their misery, and food is scarce.

In the Gersin district nine villages were wiped out, with more than 100 killed, and at Sisan the death toll was even higher. All wire communications and electric lighting systems were badly damaged.

The epicenter of the quake seemed to be in the vicinity of Zangezur.

Moscow.—Three hundred and ninety-two persons are known here to have perished in the earthquakes which devastated three districts of the Soviet republic of Nakhichevan, in Transcaucasia.

Two hundred persons were killed and 205 injured in the Gersy region. In the Sisana region there were 102 known dead and 600 injured. Eighty per cent of the villages in the Zangezur district were destroyed, and great numbers of cattle perished throughout the quake area.

Tiflis and Erivan were badly shaken, but there were no casualties. The Qorlussan district of Armenia was believed to have suffered many casualties. The quake was most severe there.

The government has appropriated 2,000,000 rubles (nominal value $1,000,000) for relief of the area.

He will present the Democratic governor of Ohio, George White, who will accept the memorial on behalf of the state. Thereupon President Hoover, who is honorary president of the memorial association, will accept the beautiful $750,000 marble temple in the name of the nation.

Under the amendments, honorably discharged soldiers, sailors and marines will have five points added to their earned ratings in examinations for entrance to classified government service.

Lumber From Russia Is Allowed to Enter U. S.

Washington.—A cargo of Russia lumber brought to Providence, R. I., by the Finnish steamer Anversoise was admitted to the United States because there was no evidence it had been produced by convict labor.

Under Secretary Mills of the treasury ruled the lumber could be brought into the United States after the importers produced documents to show it had not come from an area where convict labor is used.

The decision, however, applies only to the Anversoise cargo, Mills said, adding that each shipment of lumber from Russia must stand on its own merits as to entry into this country.

PROGRESSIVES WANT HOUSE SPEAKERSHIP

Schneider, of Wisconsin, Discusses Program Planned.

Washington.—Progressive Republicans will sponsor a third candidate in the house speakership election next December regardless of whom party regulars nominate.

This was the prediction of Representative Schneider (Rep., Wis.) as the Capitol discussed prospects of two of the outstanding candidates, Republican Leader Tilson and Chairman Snell of the rules committee.

Schneider emphasized that Progressives are more interested in a liberal legislative program than in details of house organization.

"I am convinced there will be a third man in the race," he said. "I believe the Progressives will exact an understanding for liberalization of the rules and for a program of Progressive legislation."

Solid Progressive support of a third candidate could block indefinitely the election of Democratic Leader Garner of Texas or his regular Republican opponent because a majority vote is required to elect a speaker.

Though both Tilson and Snell have predicted that Republicans, on the basis of a close numerical majority, will organize the house, Schneider's announcement raised doubts over the final result. A compromise western speaker was considered a possibility.

Schneider has said that he and other Progressives do not intend to participate in the Republican conference nominating a speaker.

Several Dead in Texas Gusher Blast and Fire

Gladewater, Texas.—Flaring heavenward in fiery defiance many hours after it had blasted at least seven men to death in liquid fire and injured three others, the Sinclair No. 1 Cole well, two miles southwest of Gladewater, was finally quenched.

Taming of the wild gusher was within a few minutes of accomplishment when friction in the lowering of a valve ignited millions of feet of gas gushing from the casing. Fire shot skyward and a terrific explosion followed, igniting the gusher and oil-filled slush pits.

The crew of ten terrified workmen screamed from the scene, the clothing of nine afire.

Highway of Highways From Kentucky to Atlantic.

Washington.—A "highway of highways," combined into a rough figure-eight from Kentucky to the Atlantic, is planned to join three great proposed national parks of the East.

Linking the proposed Mammoth cave, Great Smoky mountain and Shennandoah National parks and historic sites of the East, the highway has been laid out over five states for a total of 1,950 miles.

Following established highways, the system is improved for all but 75 miles of the distance, most of which is under construction.

Agreement on the route, with alternative loops for motorists not making the entire circuit, was reached at a recent conference of federal and state officials and civic organizations called by Representative M. H. Thatcher of Kentucky. A permanent association was formed to promote the highway's formal creation.

Representatives of the association will meet with state officials for their approval of the individual part of each in closing existing gaps and marking the route with signs.

Adoption in its entirety, the eastern national park-to-park highway will be presented to Director Albright of the national park service for designation on official park maps.

The highway has been so routed as to enable motorists to cover the East's family of proposed national parks and historical sites, ranging from Lincoln's birthplace in the Middle West to Washington's in the East, in a tour of from ten days to three weeks.

As laid out, the highway runs from the Mammoth cave in Kentucky into Tennessee and the proposed Great Smoky mountain national park branching in the Smoky region so that one way leads into North Carolina.

The branches join at Wytheville, Va., running to Natural Bridge for the main junction of the rough figure eight. Eastward the trail runs to Richmond, where it again loops to go direct to Washington or to include Lee hall and Yorktown.

Northward from Natural Bridge the trail leads to Staunton, where a loop is formed giving the motorist the choice of skirting the lower edge of the proposed Shenandoah national park or passing directly across it by way of the Luray caverns.

This loop joins at Warrenton, Va., for a single trail to Washington.

The modification committee hereafter will be known also as "labor's liberty legion" upon recommendation of the committee on officers' reports, which declared that "the paramount need of our times is for revival of faith in liberty and democracy and the marshaling of a great legion of defenders of freedom against covert and insidious assaults, in the long list of which the Volstead act is perhaps the most vicious."

Believe Big Ransom Was Paid to Dr.'s Kidnapers

St. Louis.—Despite denials from the victim, members of his family, and his close friends, police are working on a theory a substantial ransom was paid for the release of Dr. Isaac D. Kelley, Jr., prominent physician, who mysteriously disappeared several days ago.

Three gangsters, all former members of the notorious Cuckoo gang here, but now allegedly allied with the equally notorious Shelton gang in southern Illinois, are being sought in the case.

Police believe the gangsters, who disappeared from their customary haunts at about the time of the kidnaping, have definite knowledge of the abduction.

ENTHUSIASM FOR ORGANIE IN SPRING AND SUMMER

IMPORTANT in fashion's vocabulary for late spring and all summer is the word organdie. French designers, in their newest creations, have set the pace for others to follow in this matter of organdie, in that they employ it both formally and informally.

Leading couturiers are displaying in their salons stunning creations in which reflect the elegant note in that they are fashioned of organdie richly worked with metal embroidery, posed in many instances over taffeta.

The tinted organdie frock posed over the taffeta slip is a favorite theme as it has to do with the formal mode. As to whether the taffeta be matched to the color of the dress or accent a contrast is left to choice.

Enthusiasm for organdie has led to a very happy number on the style program for the coming months—the hat-and-frock ensemble which is made entirely of organdie. A charming version of this smart mode is presented in the illustration. The dainty dress is just such as debs and sub-debs are wearing when they dine and dance. It is made of pale green organdie of bemberg. The bands which circle about the skirt and trim the bodice are formed by doubling the material.

Sans hat this lovely frock tunes to formal evening wear. Topped with its picturesque chapeau, which is made of the same bemberg organdie, this costume takes on a daytime air which suggests coming garden-party events.

The use of lace with organdie is notable this season. The winsomeness at this alliance of organdie and lace particularly registers in the field of design which has to do with frocks which the spring 1931 graduate will wear. Sometimes the organdie is posed over a lace slip.

Whitest of Seasons. This promises to be one of the whitest seasons on record, so far as fashion is concerned. The interesting thing about the present vogue for white is that it began so early in the spring. The world of fashion did

Timely Hints About Seasonable

Blouses repeat the dark-and-light motif. Some of the newest models are made of half brown crepe and half white. Other smart combinations are navy and white and black and white.

Brown tweed trimmed with white galayk is one of the new notes of the season for street costumes. A white kid turban, brown pumps with white bows, and white eight-button length slip-on gloves are correct accessories.

Important Suggestions for Raisers of Ducks

A prominent eastern duck breeder, who has been in the business for over a quarter of a century, offers the following "Do's" for duck keepers. He considers them more important than "Don'ts" and for that reason he has listed his points as "Do's":

Islands Now American

Wake Island was acquired by the United States in 1898, as a result of the Spanish-American war, and was ceded to this country by Spain under the treaty of Paris, which ended the war. Midway Island is now a part of the Hawaiian group, and under the jurisdiction of the Hawaiian government. They were discovered by Capt. U. C. Brooks in the ship Gambler on July 5, 1859, and officially taken possession of in the name of the United States on August 28, 1867, by Captain Reynolds of the U. S. S. Lackawanna.

Alaska's Old Capital

Sitka, Alaska, was the old Russian capital of Russian Alaska, and remained the capital of the new territory of Alaska when the Americans took possession on October 18, 1867. There was very little government in Alaska for some time after its acquisition, and it was not until the act of August 24, 1912, that the territory was organized and the capital officially established at Juneau.

Woman's Words

How's your vocabulary? Prof. Henry M. Robinson of the American Magazine has figured out that the average girl with a grade school education uses between 1,200 and 2,000 words. With a high-school education she possesses 3,000 to 4,000. After a college education she commands anywhere from 5,000 to 12,000. Shakespeare, in his plays, employed 24,000 different words.

Cooled water may be fed in gradually if temperature is dangerously high.

FORD BRAKES ARE UNUSUALLY EFFECTIVE

Reliability and safety due to simple design and careful construction

ONE OF the first things you will notice when you drive the Ford is the quick, effective action of its four-wheel brakes.

They are unusually safe and reliable because they are mechanical, internal expanding, with all braking surfaces fully enclosed. This prevents mud, water, sand, etc., from getting between the band and drum and interfering with brake action.

Other outstanding features of the Ford are the Triplex shatter-proof glass windshield, four Houdaille double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, aluminum pistons, torque-tube drive, more than twenty ball and roller bearings, Rustless Steel, reliability, economy, and long life.

You save when you buy the Ford and you save every mile you drive.

SPARROW AND MOLE DAMAGE CHECKED BY RIGHT METHODS

Damages to flower beds, gardens, seeded plots, and lawns by English sparrows and moles can be largely reduced and often prevented by the use of proper measures, suggests H. F. Wilson, of the Wisconsin college of agriculture who in cooperation with G. C. Oederkirk of the United States Bureau of Biological Survey is working on this subject.

Damage by English sparrows can be prevented by the use of traps which when properly tended will catch a large number of birds thus preventing their increase and damage during the spring and summer. A poisoned wheat or cracked corn bait, although efficient as a method of control, is not recommended except in locations where other beneficial life will not be endangered.

Because moles are particularly active at this time of the year in search for insect food, much damage will result if they are permitted to enter or remain in gardens, lawns, or even fields. If a few traps are reset frequently in the principal mole runways a number of the animals can be removed in a very short time. For this purpose the choker or scissor type trap has been found to give the best results.

It has also been found that moles can be prevented from entering a garden or other area by opening their runways at the edge of such an area and inserting some good repellent as a moth ball or a teaspoonful of flake naphthalene. The use of a trowel will aid in making openings in runways and when repellants are thus inserted moles can be prevented from operating in these areas.

FIRE PREVENTION

That occurrence of serious fires destructive to life, property and forests can be materially reduced through early seasonal clean-ups by burning dead grass and other inflammable waste material, is the statement just made by John S. Bordner, director of the economic land survey of the department of agriculture and markets. Roadsides, vacant lots, abandoned fields, open grass meadows and swamps filled with dry grass should be burned over early in the spring when there is little or no danger of fire spreading to forest areas, Mr. Bordner says.

Fire is a friend of the prairies and a foe to forests, says Mr. Bordner. The prairies species are more vigorous and aggressive than the forest plants and spread everywhere when fire and axe open the way.

After visiting Adams, Wood, Taylor, Rusk, Sawyer, Bayfield, Douglas and Burnett counties, Mr. Bordner said that while there were numerous small fires, the very bad fire which swept southeastern Rusk county was the result of a fire started in the "beaver meadows" along tributaries of the Jump river.

Numerous villages which experienced losses in the recent fires could have prevented these by an early spring clean-up and burning of grass in all vacant lots around the town. Mr. Bordner pointed out that the village of Drummond burned its vacant land early when snow still lay on the forest and brush land. As a result, the entire area passed over the danger period without a damaging fire, while other villages were compelled to save themselves by back-firing.

RUPTURE EXPERT HERE

C. F. Redlich, Minneapolis, Minn., will demonstrate without charge his unequalled method in

FOND DU LAC

TUESDAY, MAY 12.

at the Retlaw Hotel from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M.

Mr. C. F. Redlich says:

The "perfect Retention Shields" hold the rupture perfectly, no matter what position the body assumes or how heavy a weight you lift. They give instant relief and contract the opening in a remarkable short time.

The secret of their success is in their simplicity. An expertly adjusted device seals the opening without discomfort or detention from work. It is practically everlasting, sanitary, comfortable and actually holds ruptures which heretofore were considered uncontrollable.

Stomach troubles, backaches and constipation, nearly always a consequence of rupture, promptly disappear.

Bring your children. According to statistics 95% recover by our method.

NOTICE: All whom we have treated during the past ten years are invited to come in for a free inspection.

Nobody Loves a Policeman!

That's an old saying but it isn't true any more. At least, it hasn't been true since E. O. Alexander added "Finney of the Force" to the list of famous comic strip characters. For "Finney," with his twinkling humor and his shrewd comment on people and the common everyday events of life, is a lovable character, as thousands of newspaper readers who have followed him through his various adventures will testify.

"Finney of the Force" is a regular feature in this newspaper with whom our subscribers are acquainted, and all enjoy him. Then tell your friends about him, for they will enjoy him as much as you do.
