Vogue for Light-Top Velvet Gowns BIG STEEL CONCERNS By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Dorothy's Mother Proves Claim MAKE CUT IN WAGES

Gen. Motors Pares Salaries; Rubber Shortens Week.

New York .- Leading corporations in three major industries-steel, motors and rubber-made definite moves in the long discussed problem of payroll reduction arising from the depression.

Wage rates of steel workers which have been maintained in the face of shattered prices for steel products, greatly reduced mill activity and lower dividends for the owners of steel shares, were cut 10 per cent October 1 by United States Steel corporation, Bethlehem Steel corporation and Youngstown Sheet and Tube company.

Other big concerns, including copper mining companies, put in effect similar reductions. United States Steel took the initiative in the move which makes the steel business the first among the country's large industries to deal definitely with the wage question. Other producers are expected to fall in line.

Vieing in importance with the steel wage cut were announcements from General Motors corporation, giving notice of a 10 to 20 per cent salary reduction; affecting about 25 per cent

Children don't ordinarily take to medicines but here's one that all of them love, Perhaps it shouldn't be called a medicine at all. It's more like a rich, concentrated food. It's pure, wholesome, sweet to the taste and sweet in your child's little stomach. It builds up and strengthens weak, puny, underweight children, makes them eat heartily, brings the roses back to their cheeks, makes them playful, energetic, full of life. And no billious, headachy, constipated, feverish, fretful baby or child ever failed to respond to the gentle influence of California Flg Syrup on their little bowels. It starts lazy bowels quick, cleans them out thoroughly, tones and strengthens them so they continue to act normally, of their own accord.

Millions of mothers know about California Fig Syrup from experience. A Western mother, Mrs. J. G. Moore, 119 Cliff Ave., San Antonio, Texas, says: "California Fig Syrup is certainly all that's claimed for it. I have proved that with my little Dorothy. She was a bottle baby and very delicate. Her bowels were weak. I started her on Fig Syrup when she was a few months old and Washington .- The news that the steel corporation had reduced wages 10 per cent was received with regret by administration officials although no official comment was made at the White House. Officials close to President Hoover said he was disappointed over the failure of the big steel organization to maintain wages at the old levels.

The administration's viewpoint was expressed by Secretary of Labor Doak, who in expressing regrets that also suitable for dining and the the the steel corporation "found it necessary to make a wage cut" declared that in spite of the corporation's course there was no change in the opposition of the administration to wage reductions.

Find Trinkets Hidden

in Old Pueblo Homes Indian maidens who lived in New Mexico a thousands or more year ago did not have safety deposit vaults in which to store their jewelry, so they hid it in the walls of their pueblos instead. W. W. Postlewaite, treasurer of Colorado college, recently returned from an expedition during which he excavated the ancient pueblo of Chetro Keti in Chaco canyon in the New Mexican Navajo desert. He said that an Indian workman opened a small hole in the adobe wall of a house and found a string of 1,045 jet and white beads. In a nearby pocket a large number of small bits of turquoise were discovered. Postlewaite believes that the discovery of the ornaments means that it was the custom to secrete valuables in the masonry of structures when Chetro Keti was inhabited hundreds of years

SEASON OF HIGH COLOR PROMISED

There is a great deal of color in Paris, - The amount of color prevailing in French fashion collections is watched with much interest. Most of it shows the influence of the French Colonial exposition.

The lighting and setting of the exposition is superb, and the reds and browns shown in the Paris fall collections are replicas of the roofs, the cornices and lacquered pillars of the Madagascar and Indo-China buildings and the many shades of white are Tunisian, Moroccan and Martinique in feeling. One of the buildings in its verdigris green certainly has furnished a handsome color motif 'for French designers.

There are also pastels like the pinks, blues, yellows and greens seen in the fountains at the exposition, Generally speaking, colors most in evidence in the new style showings

In the early Paris millinery collecemphasize geranium, many browns, tions felt was in the lead, but later from beige to nigger, emerald green, showings are reacting in favor soft greens, considerable red and wine tones, also yellow and orange. There velvet. Many smart berets are made is much black and white. Gray is also entirely of veivet ribbon. The model illustrated is a likable fashion for the in high fashion as it combines with schoolgirl. The original is in beige brown or black. Aubergine is a favorite shade, being one of the deep purple and brown, but it would be as efhighly regarded. Ombre fective in any of the new color comeffects in velver are introduced by binations.

lace or intriguing embroidered effects ture passed a cotton acreage reduction bill, calling for a 50 per cent curtailment in cotton plantings in 1932 and 1933.

> Farmers are prohibited from planting cotton next year on more than 30 per cent of the land cultivated in all crops this year. The same percentage will apply in 1933 and no 1932 cotton land be planted to cotton in 1933. After 1933 there will be no percentage limit, but no land can be planted to cotton in successive years. Columbia, S. C.-The measure prohibiting planting of cotton in South Carolina in 1932 was ratified by the legislature and sent to Governor Blackwood. This action was the same as that in Louisiana in conformity with the plan of Governor Long of that state.

Creatures Queer The Echidna or Porcupine Ant Eater. If you will pull on your seven league boots, we will just stroll over to Australia for a few moments and find a queer creature that books a little like our own prickly porcupine.

MUNGRY PORCUPINE ANT-EATER

To begin with he is called a Porcupine Ant Eater. You can see the sharp spurs on his back and tail. He can raise these and roll himself into a ball when he is frightened, just as our porcupines do. When rolled up he looks just like a great chestnut burr. and naturally nobody wants to touch him, he is so unpleasantly prickly.

He never has to go to the dentist, for he has no teeth! But he does have the longest tongue you can imagine. and with the tip, which is rather sticky, he picks up unlucky ants and other insects and grubs.

Captain Spindler's recital of his prison camp experiences made me think of the first German prisoners I saw after we disembarked in France. They were huge, blond fellows, and appeared to be very contented with their lot, About all they had to do was a little policing of the camp and their only guard was a little, old Frenchman in a sort of blue frock coat who carried a rifle with a long bayonet, which was taller than he was, When he wished to smoke, he would hand the rifle to a prisoner to hold light a cigarette, and then take his gun back again and resume the business of the day. How It Started

"Hackneyed" Expression

A T FIRST thought, there would between a hackneyed expression and a worn out horse-yet, that is exact

We have the term "hackneyed' orig

ly how it started.

First photograph of the sculpture for the remodeled tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington, a full-sized model of which is being displayed at the War department in Washington. The design shows three allegorical figures; Victory in the center presents the palm of victory to a male figure signifying Valor, while Peace, with a dove resting upon its arm, stands at the left. holding the hand of Victory.

> | inally from "hack" which is a reference to a horse that is hired-a hired horse being proverberally subject to abuse. From this special significance, the word "hack" was applied to a writer I not seem to be any connection who rehashed stories long since gone stale. The word hackneyed is a modification of "hack" used as an allusion to word, phrase or tale that has long since lost its freshness.

Evidence that the turtle is a destroyer of fish is easily found and indisputable. Times almost without number the soft-shelled turtle, called "cooter," has been caught upon live bait. I refer to the use of bait that is alive and able to swim about so that a turtle must pursue it to effect a capture. The "cooter" is largely a meat eater and is an efficient scaven-

In Carleton lake, Putnam county, Florida, I found a nine-pound black bass being devoured by "cooters" while the bass, still alive, floated on the surface, struggling weakly. Save where the turtles were attacking, there were no marks of any kind upon it. Further proof of the slaughter of fish by turtles comes from I. T. Quinn, Alabama game commissioner, who says that "there is much evidence in this state that turtles destroy the spawn and also the fingerlings of many species (of fish). We have considerable trouble at the Alabama state fish hatchery with turtles feeding on fingerlings in rearing ponds." Similar reports come to me from officials in Arkansas, Florida, and South Carolina.

"That's all right, Pete. Once we buy an organ we'll have to build a church to put it in. Stands to reason. Members of the congregation, anybody putting in less than two bits will be thrown out of the tent by me. Indians not included."

The collection was taken up, in two five-gallon sombreros, the contents of which, as they passed from one hairy sunburned paw to the next, were watched with eagle eyes by Southwest Davis and Ike Bixler, and, in fact, by the entire gathering. The sombreros were then solemnly and with some hesitation brought to the roulette table pulpit for Yancey's inspection.

"Mr. Grat Golch, being used to lightning calculations in the matter of coins, will kindly count the proceeds of the collection."

Arkansas Grat, red-faced and perspiring, elbowed his way to the pulpit and made his swift and accurate count. He muttered the result to Yancey. Yancey announced it publicly. "Fellow citizens, the sum of the first collection for the new church organ for the Osage church, whose denomination shall be nameless, is the gratifying total of one hundred and thirty-nine dollars and fifty-five cents. Heh, wait a minute, Grat! Fifty-five -did you say fifty-five cents?" "That's right, Yancey."

white surface of the tent a tiny circlet of blue that was the Oklahoma sky. But before that dot of blue appeared Yancey Cravat had raised himself halfway from the hips, had fired from the waist without, seemingly, pausing to take aim. His thumb flicked the hammer. That was all The crack of his six-shooter was, in fact, so close on the heels of that first report that the two seemed almost simultaneous. The congregation was now on its feet, en masse, its back to the roulette table pulpit. Its eyes suspended. That figure-a man-was seen to perform some curious antics. The incident of the shooting was not referred to in this account, An outsider, reading it. would have gathered that all had been sweetness and light. On an inside column of the four-page sheet was a brief notice:

"It is to be regretted that an unimportant but annoying shooting affray somewhat marred the otherwise spiendid and truly impressive religious services held in the recreation tent last Sunday, kindness of the genial and popular proprietor, Mr. Grat Gotch. A ruffian, who too long had been infesting the streets of our fair city of Osage, terrorizing innocent citizens, were on one figure; its breath was and who was of the contemptible ilk that has done so much toward besmirching the dazzling fame of the magnificent Southwest, took this occasion to create a disturbance, during which he shot, with intent to kill, at overhead?" the person presiding. It was necessary to reply in kind. The body, unclaimed, was interred in Boot Hill, with only the prowling jackals to mourn him, their own kin. It is hoped that his nameless grave will serve as a warning to others of his class." Having thus modestly contained him self in the matter of the actual shooting, Yancey let himself go_a little on the editorial page. His editorials, in fact, for a time threatened the paper's news items. Sabra and Jesse Rickey had to convince him that the coming of the Katy was of more interest to prospective subscribers than was the editorial entitled, "Lower Than the
