MARRIAGES OF THE PAST WEEK

KRUEGER-HEBERER WEDDING

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at St. John's Lutheran church at New Fane on Saturday, October 24th, at 7:30 P. M., when Miss Mildred Krueger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Krueger, became the bride of John Heberer, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Heberer. The bride wore a white satin gown floor length, her veil fashioned in cap style was fastened with orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of roses, baby's breath and ferns. Betty Lou Geiter was flower girl, she wore a pink dress and carried a basket of mixed garden flowers. Miss Laura Heberer was maid of honor. She wore a canary yellow colored dress with slippers and handband to match. Ruth Krueger, cousin of the bride and Clara Muench were bridesmaids. They wore green and orchid dresses respectively with slippers to match. Both of them were handbands of lilies of the valley and carried bouquets of roses and ferns. Raymond Vetter was best man and Art. Noffke and Clarence Heberer were the groomsmen and Edgar Noffke and Milton Muench were ushers. After the ceremony dinner was served to about 50 guests. Later in the evening a wedding shower was given in honor of the newly weds at Koch's hall in Beechwood. Many beautiful and useful gifts were received. Those from afar who attended were: Adla, John and Leonard Brockhaus, Mr. and Mrs. Anton Geiter of Wabeno, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Heberer, Mr. and Mrs. Salmon Heberer, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Noffke and family, Mrs. Emma Bassil, Mr. and Mrs. George Heberer, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Perschbacher and Miss Elsie Kill, all of Milwaukee, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Heberer and daughter of Reedsville, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Umbright of Milwaukee.

BEISBIER-ST. MARY WEDDING

At St. Martin's church at Ashford, last Wednesday, occurred the wedding of Miss Frieda M. Beisbier, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Beisbier of Ashford and Raymond St. Mary, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward St. Mary of Eden. Rev. John Gruenwald officiated. The bride wore a blue transparent velvet dress with hat and slippers to match and carried a bouquet of roses and baby's breath. Miss Barbara Beisbier, who was bridesmaid, wore a gaslight green dress with hat and gloves to match, she carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. Floyd St. Mary was groomsmen. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents with 50 guests in attendance. The home was decorated with flowers and streamers of blue, white and green. Mr. and Mrs. Beisbier left on a short trip in the northern part of the state. Upon their return they will reside on a farm in the town of Ashford, where they will be at home after November 15.

"JIMMY, BE CAREFUL"

All who patronized plays produced on St. Michael's stage in the past, will be pleased to learn that on Sunday evening, November 15th, a three act comedy-drama full of action and humor, "JIMMY BE CAREFUL" will be staged by an all star cast of the St. Boniface Mission League Dramatic Club of Milwaukee. The high quality of amateur acting done by this club is well known to this community, as they have appeared on St. Michael's stage a number of times giving great satisfaction and meritizing a hearty applause. And all who patronize "Jimmy Be Careful" will enjoy a most pleasing evening of entertainment. Arrange now to see this play at St. Michael's.

CARD PARTY AT NEW FANE

A card party will be held at Kola's Hall, New Fane, on Tuesday evening, November 10th, at 7:30 p. m., given for the benefit of the New Fane school. Schafkopf, 500, skat and Bunco will be played, for which prizes will be given. Admission 25 cents, including lunch. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

WILL HOLD BAKE SALE

Members of the Ladies' Aid of the Peace Evangelical church, will have a bake sale on Friday, November 2th, from 2 to 5 P. M., at the residence of Mrs. Jacobitz. Special orders can be placed with Mrs. Jacobitz not later than Wednesday evening, November 11th. All are invited.

TOWNS BUY FIRE EQUIPMENT

An agreement was recently reached by the towns of Auburn and Oseola to purchase a new fire engine. The citizens of the town of Ashford are to pay $2,500 towards the purchase price. The engine will be kept at the Campbellsport fire department house.

After All These Years, What Have We Learned?—By Albert T. Reid

WANDERER KILLED BY FREIGHT TRAIN

A wanderer whose identification has not been ascertained by county officials, was killed near Rockfield Saturday, when he was struck by a north-bound weigh freight. According to a statement made by Conductor Nolan in charge of the train, the man was seen by the train crew standing along side of the tracks facing the oncoming train, when same neared him he stepped into its path and was instantly killed. Being a man probably out of employment, it is thought that suicide was the reason for his walking onto the track ahead of the train. He is a man weighing about 160 pounds, five feet tall and about fifty years old. He wore a new blue suit with white stripes in it. The body was brought to Reinders undertaking parlors where it will remain until his identification has been learned, if not learned and no relatives found to claim him, the remains will be buried in Potters Field at West Bend.

CARD PARTY WELL ATTENDED

The grand prize card party held at St. Michael's Tuesday evening under the auspices of the Christian Mother's society was a grand success, both socially and financially. Prizes were awarded to the following: Skat, 1st—Frank Rose; 2nd—Roman Smith; 3rd—Frank Himes. Schafkopf, 1st—Albert Theusch; 2nd—Alf Klug; 3rd—John Rodenkirch. 500, 1st—Clarence Kudek; 2nd—Mrs. Roman Smith and 3rd—Mrs. John Stelplug. Cinch, 1st—Jacob Schmidt; 2nd—John Bremser; 3rd—Gerhard Schmidt. Bunco, 1st—Lawrence Staehler; 2nd—Helen Staehler; 3rd—Lloyd Bremser. Rummy, 1st—Frank Herring; 2nd—Mrs. Oscar Thull; 3rd—Mrs. Math Herring. The door prize was awarded to Jos. Uelmen. The society wishes to thank all who so kindly assisted to make the party a success.

AUCTION SALE OF HOUSEHOLD GOODS

GEO. F. BRANDT, Auctioneer.

SHOWED INTERESTING MOVIES

The movies held at the Kewaskum Opera House last Friday evening by the Kettle Moraine Chapter of the Izaak Walton league, were very interesting, entertaining and educational. The pictures consisted of reels showing different scenes of Moon Lake and the wild game refuge of the Izaak Walton league of Milwaukee, and two reels of comics. Several prominent speakers were present and gave interesting talks on the work done by the Izaak Walton league and the state conservation commission, and the rapid progress that is being made by both of them.

TEN CALVES KILLED WHEN TRAILER TIPS

Ten calves were killed while on their way to Milwaukee market near mid night Monday, when the trailer on which they were being hauled upset into the ditch on Highway 56 near the John Koepke farm home north of here. The driver, Wallace Kraemer, of the large truck with trailer was forced off the road by another truck coming from the opposite direction. The trucking company, known as the Northern Wisconsin Cattle Line came from Door Isler, Wis., and had 11 head of cows, 63 calves and 27 goats on their load. K. A. Honeck, one of our local stock buyers was called upon to load the livestock onto his trucks and haul them on to Milwaukee.

SEVERAL INJURED IN AUTO WRECKS

Leander Schmidt, son of Mrs. John Schmidt of West Bend, sustained several deep cuts and bruises on his face, body and hands when the Nash car he was driving, rolled down an embankment into the ditch last Saturday evening. Mr. Schmidt was on his way home from Kewaskum when he approached the farm home of Christian Backhaus, located about a half mile south of Kewaskum on State Trunk Highway 55, another car driven by Arthur Bunkelman of the town of Farmington, drove out of the Christian Backhaus yard and a collision was the result. Mr. Schmidt's car went down an embankment and rolled over into the ditch. He was taken to the St. Joseph's hospital at West Bend where medical attention was given him. His car was badly wrecked.

LARGE SEDAN BURNS UP

A Studebaker sedan, owned by Walter Muckerheide, residing about two miles west of Kewaskum on Highway 28, was totally destroyed by fire last Sunday evening at about five o'clock, after it left the road and tipped upside down. The accident happened when Miss Amelia Muckerheide, driver of the car, Agnes Muckerheide, Mr. and Mrs. John Thull and daughter Mae and Mrs. John Thull, were on their way home from St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac where they had visited with Miss Agnes Thull, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Thull, who underwent an operation for the removal of her appendix four weeks ago. While driving south on Trunk Highway V, about a mile north of Kewaskum, the driver in some manner lost control of the machine which left the road, and in an attempt to bring it back on the highway, the car tipped, rolled over and came to a stop bottom side up, caught fire and was totally destroyed. Luckily the glass of the windows in the car was broken allowing the occupants to clear themselves from the wreck before the fire had gained any great headway, thereby saving themselves from being badly burned. Amelia received cuts and bruises on her face and arm and Agnes was also cut on her arm, leg and face, none of the rest of the occupants were injured.

CAR ROLLS OVER

The Chevrolet coupe driven by Henry Rosenheimer of here, was badly wrecked Saturday night on highway F, when it tipped and rolled over several times on the highway. Henry was blinded when he met another car coming from the opposite direction, in trying to pass the other machine. Henry's car started to swerve, tipped and then rolled over. He sustained a cut on his finger and a sore knee. Frank Pieper who was with him in the car received a deep cut on his leg.

DEATH OF MRS. PHILIP STEGER

On Thursday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at her home 2 1/2 miles south-west of Theresa, occurred the death of Mrs. Philip Steger, aged 47 years, a native of St. Kilian. Deceased (nee Saulte Lilla) was born at St. Kilian on August 4, 1884. On October 22, 1907, she was married to Philip Steger. Besides her husband she leaves to mourn, the following children: Mrs. Lawrence Steger, Esther and Leona and Arnold at home, and three grand children, three sisters, Mrs. Paul Spantikou of Milwaukee, Mrs. Arthur Krehl of Wauconda, Ill., Mrs. Fred Zimmerman of Kewaskum and one brother Raymond Lilla of Mayville. The funeral was held Monday at 9:30 a. m. from St. Theresa Catholic church. Rev. M. Groff officiated. Burial was made in the Catholic cemetery.

57th ANNIVERSARY SALE A SUCCESS

The 57th anniversary sale at the L. Rosenheimer store held last week Thursday, Friday and Saturday, was a big success. On Thursday, the opening day, the store was crowded to its capacity with anxious buyers, taking advantage of the bargains offered in all departments. On Friday and Saturday, while the crowds were not so big, the clerks, however, were kept busy waiting on customers, thus making the sale a big success.

DEATH OF MRS. ALBERT HAESSLY

At her home 228-8th street, Fond du Lac, occurred the death of Mrs. Albert Haessly, (nee Kudek), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kudek of Kewaskum, on Thursday, Nov. 5th, at 2:45 a. m., following an illness of two weeks. Deceased was born in the town of Wayne. The funeral will be held Saturday morning with services in St. Mary's church, Fond du Lac. Full details will be published next week.

MANY VICTIMIZED BY FREE LOT SCHEMES

That hundreds of Wisconsin residents are being solicited on a free lot scheme is indicated by the letters pouring into the division of fairs and state development as the result of a recent press release warning persons against the scheme.

Addresses of persons were taken at the state and several county fairs under the guise of advertising campaigns for stores and other reputable agencies. Persons who thus signed their names are now being informed that they have received a free lot in Illinois and Minnesota.

The real estate companies concerned in the racket claim the lots to be worth from $200 to $550 but offer them to the so-called lucky persons for from $39 to $50 as incidental expenses to securing title and the like. The intended victims are requested to call at the real estate concerns and when the lots are found to be inferior, high pressure salesmen attempt to sell other high-priced lots at sums ranging from $200 up.

In nearly all cases the lots are of little or no value. Land worth a few dollars an acre is foisted off on those unacquainted with the situation at a rate of hundreds of dollars an acre, says R. E. Ammon, chief of fairs and state development.

One of the shrewdest replies to the real estate solicitors was sent by a woman in Racine who received a letter saying that she had won a lot. She replied that as the company was in the real estate business and valued the lot at $550, she would be glad to have them dispose of the lot at that price and pay her $300. No reply was received to that letter.

TWO WOMEN AND SUSPECTS IN STORE THEFT

Merchants throughout the state are asked to be on the look-out for two women and a man who apparently are making a good living shoplifting. They victimized Lauterbach's Clothing Store Friday, and one new buckskin jacket is missing, and other articles may be included in their loot here Friday. The three walked into the local clothing store, and the man said he wanted to buy a pair of khaki pants. The two women remained in the front of the store while the other one of the trio was being shown the khaki trouser selection. Mr. Lauterbach noticed the women leave shortly after, but he suspected nothing at the time. The fellow left without buying the trousers, saying he would be in again. Several hours later Mr. Lauterbach noticed one of the buckskin jackets missing, and recalling the visit of the two women and the man, and the women taking sudden leave, built up a pretty strong circumstantial case that the women had shoplifted.—Cedarburg News.

4-H CLUB CORN AND POTATO SHOW HELD

The 4-H Club Corn and Potato Show was held at the fair grounds in the horticultural building on Saturday, October 31. Although, the exhibits were not as numerous as in previous years and about forty-five club members exhibited, there were very fine products in both corn and potatoes and there was strong competition in the various sections of the county. The exhibits were made up of two classes of Rural New Yorkers and four classes of Golden Glow Corn.

A corn judging contest was also held in connection with the show and Clarence Yoast of the town of Trenton won first place.

S. S. Matheison, County Agent of Sheboygan county, judged the exhibits. Elda Grubbe was the champion Potato Club member from the north half of the county and Leona Eckhart of the south half. Willard Grubbe won the county sweepstakes on his corn.

Badger State Happenings

Madison—Carl A. Johnson, 61, prominent manufacturer of this city, is dead from a heart attack. He served as president of the Wisconsin Manufacturers' association for seven years.

Chippewa Falls—Two attempts to hold up the same gas filling station here within three days brought about the arrest and conviction of Robert Bates, 27, a farmer near Bloomer. Bates will serve a term of three to four years in Waupun prison.

Madison—A new welding process invented by Prof. Edward Bennett of the electrical engineering department at the University of Wisconsin is to be added to the projects exploited by the Wisconsin Alumni Research foundation. Prof. Bennett's invention promises to revolutionize the pipe line industry. Profits of the foundation are used to promote further research at the university.

Kenosha—Rural school buildings at Liberty Corners and at Volt lake were burned to the ground and another school structure at Paddock's lake was badly damaged by fire shortly after midnight on October 30. The schools were less than five miles apart and as the fires broke out at practically the same hour, Kenosha county authorities believe that Halloween pranksters are responsible.

Madison—A 12 1/2 per cent reduction in salaries of Dane county employees whose pay is not fixed by statute is recommended by the finance commission of the board of supervisors. The cut would become effective Jan. 1, 1932. It would not apply to employees whose salaries would be reduced below $115 a month. The committee also voted in favor of reducing the pay of all board members, effective in the terms of their successors.

Waupaca—The first murder trial in Waupaca county in sixteen years opened here with Edward Riske of New London charged with causing the deaths of Louis Hoffman and Henry Kapitke, by giving them poisoned liquor at a barn dance near Weyauwega last June. Mrs. Hoffman, wife of one of the dead men, drowned herself in the Wolf river at New London a few days later, after admitting that she had been friendly with Riske.

Madison—The University of Wisconsin varsity debating team, which will open western conference competition Dec. 16, is to be made up of the following candidates: Robert Bassett, Sturgeon Bay; Charles Bridges, Waunakee; Theodore Case, Milwaukee; Robert Elliott, Shawano; Joseph Fishelson, Milwaukee; Leo Gurko, Detroit, Mich.; T. Parry Jones, Oregon; Theophil Kamholz, Ripon; Alvin Okonski, Milwaukee; Edwin Wisniewski, Milwaukee.

Bayward—County Treasurer Ola F. Frets has been served with a writ to show cause why she should not make good a shortage of $1,405.47, with interest from May 5, 1931. At the time a shortage in the treasury was discovered by state tax commission auditors Mrs. Frets said that she could not and would not make good. She said that the discrepancies undoubtedly were due to insufficient help in her office and inadequate locks, both of which she had asked the county board to rectify.

Shell Lake—The best butter in the United States is made by Charles C. Gobel of Shell Lake. It was decided at the dairy industries exposition held at Atlantic City, N. J. Gobel received a gold medal for his butter, which scored 94.25 when placed in cold storage last June and 95 when removed from storage for the final test. In the international cheese contest Wisconsin took first place in five of seven classes of cheeses judged, namely, American, black swiss, round swiss, brick and Limburger.

Milwaukee—Mystery surrounds the death of Phil A. Koehring, prominent manufacturer and former president of the Milwaukee Association of Commerce, whose body was found in the driver's seat of his automobile in a field of Highway 12 in Juneau county. Death had been caused by a bullet wound in the head, a high powered rifle lying in the car with Koehring's finger resting on the trigger apparently being the weapon used. No person is known to have seen the car leave the road, although the engine was still running when the body was found. Tests conducted by Sheriff Elmer Hempelman of Maunston indicate that it was possible for Koehring to have fired the shot himself, but in the absence of any definite reason for suicide, authorities believe that he may have been murdered. Koehring is said to have carried about $500,000 life insurance.

Waunakee—Rodney Williams, former army aviator who brought down five enemy airplanes in the World war, is an ace to his buddies but just a reckless driver to his wife, Lucille. A county court jury has granted her $2,000 damages from Rodney on charges that his recklessness with an automobile caused serious injury to her.

Kenosha—Thomas Guttormsen, a member of the Kenosha police department for five years, has been discharged because he is not a citizen.

Fond du Lac—Construction of an auxiliary highway between Fond du Lac and Oshkosh was assured following announcement of plans by the highway commission of Winnebago and Fond du Lac counties. The $300,000 project, which is to be started early next year, will relieve congestion on Highway 41.

Marshfield—Thirty-eight cattle and three horses perished in the flames when a bolt of lightning ignited a large barn in the farm of Steve Rosandich, near here.

Menasha—Werner Wink, 90, head of the Menasha Brewing Co. and one of this city's oldest residents, is dead.

Baldwin—Seven business places here were entered by burglars in one night. One of them was the restaurant conducted by the night watchman.

Waukesha—About 150 cadets of St. John's Military academy at Delafield temporarily lost their living quarters in a $25,000 fire that damaged De Koven hall.

Appleton—The First National Bank of Appleton has taken over assets of the Citizens' National, which gives the first named institution resources of about $9,500,000.

Rhineland—Antone Sarocka, 21, member of the Rhineland city football team, died of injuries suffered in a game here with a Clintonville team. Officials immediately disbanded the Rhineland football team.

Stevens Point—Bernard Rutta, 17, was crushed to death by a freight elevator at the Lullaby Furniture corporation plant here. Rutta raised a safety gate and attempted to jump on the moving elevator. His body was jammed into a space having a clearance of less than two inches.

Portage—A film reclaiming plant which also manufactured celluloid novelties was destroyed by fire here with loss estimated at $40,000. P. H. Kantra, owner, said he believed the fire was started by the sun's rays igniting inflammable material used in the plant. The fire put twenty employees out of work.

Madison—Wisconsin shipped out more dairy cattle during September than in any other month since October, 1930. Shipments during the first nine months of this year totaled 41,342, compared with 40,247 during the corresponding period of 1930. The average price per head in September was $51, compared to $52 in August and $77 in September, 1930.

Madison—The state conservation commission has appealed to Wisconsin hunters to co-operate in lessening the number of fatalities and injuries during the rabbit and squirrel hunting seasons which open Nov. 1. The commission issued a warning against carrying a loaded gun except when one is actually hunting, careless pointing or handling of a gun in the fields. Carrying a loaded gun in an automobile is specifically prohibited by law.

Madison—Wisconsin farm products will probably be exhibited at the national Grange convention here Nov. 11 to 14 by ten Wisconsin farm organizations. The United Fruit Growers' union, National Cheese federation, Wisconsin Tobacco pool, Wisconsin Pure Milk association, Wisconsin Wool Growers' association, Wisconsin Council of Agriculture, Wisconsin Cranberry exchange, Wisconsin Creameries' association, Wisconsin Potato Seed Growers' exchange and Wisconsin Experiment association have been asked to prepare exhibits.

Shawano—The body of an unidentified white woman, apparently between 25 and 30 years old, was found in a field four miles south of Mattoon, near the Menominee Indian reservation, on Oct. 26. The body was unclothed and a burly sack covered the head. An autopsy revealed that death had been caused by a bullet wound in the head. The woman was 5 feet 5 inches tall, weighing 130 pounds, eyes gray-brown, bobbed black hair, and her hands were well groomed. A peculiar crescent shaped scar resulting from an operation for appendicitis is regarded as a likely clue for identification.

Menominee—The discovery of the bullet riddled car used by the Kraft State bank robbers, abandoned and burned near Cambridge, Minn., ended the hunt for the bandits which had been carried on by sheriffs' posses in northwestern Wisconsin. The work of finding the two surviving members of the gang became a job for detectives. The identification of two members of the robber gang who were killed by the rifle fire of vigilantes in the street and on the road has given the detectives something to work on. The funeral of James Kraft, son of the president of the raided bank and a victim of the robbers, was attended by 5,000 people.

Darlington—In a move to escape the heavy financial drain which operating through the National Cheese Producers' federation has exacted during the last few years, representatives of the 116 cheese factories in Lafayette county have filed papers in Madison for incorporating their own marketing and warehousing organization. Under the rules of incorporation, the company is permitted to sell $75,000 worth of common stock, the money to be used in erecting a cold storage warehouse here. The new organization here has been given the name of Lafayette County Dairy Products company. The incorporators are David S. Rose, Dr. W. W. Peck and H. H. Lane, lumber dealer, all of Darlington.

Stevens Point—Entangled in a dog chain so that she could not escape, Jennie, 4-year-old daughter of Stanley Kolodzek, of Portage county, was burned to death when two hay stacks caught fire. A younger daughter was saved by Mrs. Kolodzek, who tossed the child away from the blaze. The sisters were playing with their dog between the hay stacks, the dog being chained to a peg in the ground.

Madison—Citizens of Verona have voted to build a sewage and water-works system to cost $65,000.

Rheboyan—Several buildings in the village of Randon Lake, southwest of here, were destroyed in a fire causing loss of about $16,000. Fire departments were called from this city, Port Washington and other nearby towns to help check the blaze, which was fanned by a high wind.

Wausau—A $70,000 appropriation for poor relief resulted in the adoption of a new city budget which provides a 10 per cent salary decrease for all employees from the mayor down, including the education department.

HOOVER AND LAVAL TELL OF THEIR TALKS

Conferences Open Way for War Debt Revision.

Washington—President Hoover and Premier Laval of France concluded their conversations on international affairs and issued a carefully prepared and rather vague statement, setting forth the results of their conferences. This statement says in part:

"An informal and cordial discussion has served to outline with greater precision the nature of the problems. It has not been the purpose of either of us to engage in commitments binding our governments, but, rather, through development of fact, to enable each country to act more effectively in its own field.

"It is our joint purpose that the conference for the limitation of armaments will not fail to take advantage of the great opportunity which presents itself and that it will be capable of meeting what is in reality its true mission—that is, the organization on a firm foundation of permanent obligations so far as international obligations are concerned we recognize that prior to the expiration of the Hoover year of postponement some agreement regarding terms may be necessary covering the period of business depression, as to the terms and conditions of which the two governments make all reservations.

"The initiative in this matter should be taken at an early date by the European powers principally concerned within the framework of the agreements existing prior to July 1, 1931. "Our special emphasis has been upon the more important means through which the efforts of our governments could be exerted toward restoration of economic stability and confidence. Particularly we are convinced of the importance of monetary stability as an essential factor in the restoration of normal economic life in the world, in which the maintenance of the gold standard in France and the United States will serve as a major influence.

"It is our intent to continue to study methods for the maintenance of stability in international exchanges. "While in the short time at our disposal it has not been possible to formulate definite programs, we find that we view the nature of these financial and economic problems in the same light and that this understanding on our part should serve to pave the way for helpful action by our respective governments."

Separately from the above joint text the White House at the same time issued the following statement:

"A press statement that the President had proposed any revision of the Polish corridor is absolutely without foundation. The President in Washington has no suggestions of any such character. Members of congress viewed the Hoover-Laval agreement suspiciously as just another step toward ultimate cancellation of allied debts to the United States.

The majority of senators in Washington opposed that portion of the "understanding" that linked German reparations and intergovernmental debts. Many denounced it.

New York—Premier Laval of France had farewelled to the United States as he sailed aboard the Ile de France, happy in the belief that his visit to President Hoover had resulted in a clearer understanding of the "respective interests and common duties" of France and the United States.

"Even if our conversations in Washington had no other results," he said at a banquet of the French Chamber of Commerce, "they would have fulfilled great hopes. This is the moral benefit of our meeting. "But we have accomplished more. By seeking the most constructive methods for restoring economic stability and confidence, we have done our duty in the cause of international solidarity."

Wisconsin Radicals Insist on Own Program Madison, Wis.—The La Follette wing of Wisconsin's delegation to congress served notice through the Madison Capital Times, La Follette newspaper, that it will not support the regular Republicans in the organization of the house in December unless its demands for unemployment and agricultural relief are given consideration.

Eight of Wisconsin's Republican congressmen are members of the La Follette faction, organized by the late Senator Robert M. La Follette. The present party division of the lower branch of congress is so close that the eight hold a balance of power.

A meeting of the eight congressmen is to be held in Madison within a few weeks and invitations are to be extended to radical representatives of other states to join them in formulating a platform for the Seventy-second congress.

Scholarship for Harvard Captain Cambridge, Mass.—Barry Wood, Harvard football captain, was awarded the $775 Francis H. Barr scholarship for "combined scholastic excellence, athletic ability, and undergraduate leadership."

Prima Donna Weds Banker New York—Mrs. Florence Easton, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera company, and Robert Stanley Rogers, banker and broker, were married in Bedford, N. Y.

Perez Whips Genaro Paris—Young Perez, Tunis, knocked out Frankie Genaro, New York veteran recognized by the National Boxing association as world flyweight champion, in the second of a 15-round title fight.

Quick Work in Reno Reno, Nev.—O. B. Winters, advertising man, divorced Pauline Lord, noted actress, here, and ten minutes later married Mrs. Constance S. Harrington of Wichita, Kan.

Messenger and Bonds Gone New York—Carrying bonds valued at $70,000, most of them negotiable, Louis Gemmer, thirty-one, a messenger, disappeared, officials of the brokerage firm of Ernst & Co., told police.

SANCHEZ CERRO

Lieut. Col. Sanchez Cerro, who was provisional president of Peru for a time after the revolution, has been elected president, defeating three rivals.

MACDONALD WINS IN BRITISH ELECTIONS

National Government Swamps the Labor Party.

London—Virtually complete returns show that the election resulted in a most astounding victory for the National government and the utter rout of the Labor party and the Socialists. Of the 608 seats in the house of commons now filled, the National government will hold 552 and the opposition 56. The National government's majority is 496, and when the seven remaining seats are declared it will reach the 500 mark.

The government party thus far is composed of 471 Conservatives, 33 Liberal Nationals (Simonites), 33 National Liberals (Samuelites), 14 National Laborites and one Independent. The opposition comprises 51 Laborites, four Independent Liberals and one Independent. Neither Sir Oswald Mosley's new party nor the Communists succeeded in winning a single seat.

Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald shared in the National government's triumph, winning his seat at Seaham by 5,951 votes against William Coxon, Laborite school teacher. He issued a statement in which he admitted frankly that "the very emphasis of the country's response is embarrassing and far beyond the dreams of even the most enthusiastic of us." He also repeated his pledge not to allow the new government to serve purely partisan interests.

Stanley Baldwin, leader of the Conservative party, echoed this latter note by declaring: "This is not a party victory—it is an emphatic victory in favor of national co-operation in order to restore the fortunes of our own country. Let us not forget in the moment of victory the tremendous responsibilities placed upon us."

Arthur Henderson, defeated leader of the Labor party, asserted: "The nation has been duped on a grand scale. No one will be able to claim that the new parliament is a fair representation of opinion throughout the country. The new house of commons will be a mockery of democratic parliamentary representation, and from the standpoint of the national interest this is a danger and a disaster."

Another Real D. A. R. Is Discovered in California

Washington—Discovery of another of these rare persons—a "real daughter" of the American revolution—was announced by the D. A. R. She is Mrs. Mary Priscilla Tillman, ninety-three years old of Berkeley, Calif., daughter of Sgt. Fielding Reynolds of South Carolina cavalry, who enlisted in the Revolutionary war at sixteen.

Mrs. Tillman is a widow, mother, and grandmother of soldiers whose combined service covers all wars in which the United States ever has engaged—including the Indian campaigns along the frontier.

Week for Boosting Wool Products Is Set

Boston—Arthur C. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, and James C. Stone, chairman of the federal farm board, will give the principal addresses at the inaugural dinner of National Wool Week at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, New York, Saturday evening, November 7, it is announced by Col. Charles F. H. Johnson, general chairman of Wool Week.

The week will continue until November 15 under the plan arranged to feature wool products throughout the United States. Merchants in every city and town in the nation will give prominence to woolen clothing and goods, stressing their quality, reasonable price and new styles.

Army Player Killed West Point cadet, whose neck was broken by the fury of his own play as he tackled Bob Lassiter in the final quarter of the Army-Yale game, died in Cambridge.

Hunter Kills Himself Portland, Maine—Henry V. Poor, widely known New York corporation lawyer and publisher, accidentally shot and killed himself while on a hunting trip at Rumford, near here.

Girl Accused of Murder Lancaster, Wis.—A twenty-year-old girl, Susie Jensen of Kieker, Wis., was held in jail here on a first-degree murder warrant, charging her with the slaying of her sweetheart, Leon Courad, twenty-one, of Potosi.

Doolittle's Fast Trip St. Louis, Mo. Maj. James Doolittle flew from Mexico City to St. Louis in 6 hours and 33 minutes, averaging 230 miles an hour for the 1,500 mile flight.

ILLINOIS HAS PLAN TO AID CORN GROWER

Million Dollar Pool Formed to Finance Holding.

Springfield, Ill.—Officers of the farm bureau of every Illinois county where the lowest corn prices since 1900 are a paramount problem, voted approval here of a plan proposed in a closed meeting by Earl Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, to form a million-dollar credit corporation to finance the holding of 30 to 50 million bushels of corn on Midwest farms.

They also voted to urge that all American grain exchanges "discontinue temporarily if not permanently the short sale of grain except for legitimate hedging purposes."

A third action of the day was also expected to stimulate "more effective co-operation of grain producers and their local co-operative elevators in centralizing sales of grain through their own agencies on the terminal markets."

The formation of the National Agricultural Credit corporation, with paid in capital of $1,000,000 to be subscribed jointly by the federal farm board and private commercial interests, was effected later in Chicago. Farm leaders from Iowa, Nebraska, Indiana, Missouri, Kansas, and South Dakota had been asked to meet with the Illinois sponsors to incorporate the project.

Meanwhile, having based their source of credit on farm warehousing receipts, the leaders were assured that Stuart E. Pierson, state director of agriculture, would be ready to begin authorizing the storing of corn in cribs or granaries on Illinois farms.

Pierson announced the procedure would be for a local committee of three or five men, approved to the state director by a local banker, to make formal application to him to be authorized as the county warehousing board. This board would name a county sealer who would upon application of individual farmers measure their corn and seal it under the state warehousing act of 1927.

A local banker acting as agent for the National Credit corporation would attach the sealer's certificate to the owner's note, provided no lien existed on the corn and the loan made by the corporation. Intermediate credit banks in St. Louis or Omaha are empowered to hypothecate this collateral and sell debentures to the public, the present interest rate for which is 3 1/2 per cent.

It was announced, also, that provision would be made for a blanket insurance against loss by wind or fire on such state sealed corn, which is also immune from any lien or attachment by anyone except the holder of the certificate. Similar insurance with a bonding company against other loss is expected to furnish additional guarantee of the grain certificate.

Smith anticipates that with prevailing low prices of corn, the movement being set on foot, which has been under consideration by the farm bureau and financial interests for several weeks, may serve to prevent the "distressed sales" of corn by farmers unable to delay selling regardless of price. This, in turn, leaders said, "ought to serve to strengthen market prices."

Lawyers Are Indicted in Bank Failure Case

Waukegan, Ill.—Two Chicago lawyers, Lewis Shaffer and Maurice J. Freedman, were indicted on perjury charges by the Lake county grand jury in connection with their activities in the closing of the Waukegan State bank.

Three minutes after the bank closed on last June 18 Shaffer and Freedman rushed into the Lake county Circuit court and filed a claim under the stockholders' liability law on behalf of Mrs. Catherine Miller of McHenry, a depositor of the bank. This was the undisputed testimony before the grand jury.

Suspected of possessing advance knowledge of the bank closing, the lawyers were summoned before the grand jury. Both declared they had gone to Waukegan on another legal matter and declared their filing of the claim in Mrs. Miller's behalf so soon after the bank's closing was a coincidence. A Waukegan cab driver, contradicting this story, declared they had paid him to stand at the bank door and signal them the instant the notice of closing was posted.

Crushed to Death in Machinery Adrian, Mich.—Carlton Churchill, thirty, of Blissfield, was crushed to death in the plant of the Great Lakes Sugar company at Blissfield. He either fell into the machinery or his clothes caught and he was dragged into the gears.

Cuban Woman Dies at 136 Santiago, Cuba.—Dolores Mesa, believed to have been the oldest woman in Cuba, is dead. She was said to be one hundred and thirty-six years old.

Council Bluffs Ousts a Red Council Bluffs, Iowa.—George Papacun, twenty-nine, Communist organizer in Council Bluffs, was taken 14 miles east of Council Bluffs by 12 unidentified men and ordered "to keep on going."

Look! My New Fur Jacket for Fall

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

PERFECTLY thrilling are the new little fur jackets which everybody's wearing or going to wear this fall. So quaint, some of them, so pretty feminine, so everything that is fascinating and out-of-the-ordinary are they, their presence in the world of fashion today. Just go to the shops and smart fur departments and see with your own eyes what charming fur novelties they are showing for autumn-winter 1931 and '32.

There are the cunningest little contraptions one may ever hope to see devised to go with these jackets, for instance, tippets (ask grandma, they were "in style" when she was a tiny girl), and muffs, amusingly small, and if you will believe it, shoulder capes; yes, fur shoulder capes which are detachable and may be worn separately. It is just such quaint accessories as these that seem to tell us that to be new-fashioned is to be old-fashioned, at least so far as furs are concerned.

From the wee velvet hat with its ostrich feather trimming to the old-fashioned jacket of black galeak fur, ermine-edged and accompanied with a diminutive muff, the adorable outfit to the right in the picture declares mid-victorian influence, which it should for the last word in regard to the new furs is they are going increasingly "victorian" with every tick of the clock. Which being interpreted means that the fur trimmings and fantasies which are now in fashion are delightfully decorative and novel, ornamental, so to speak, as well as useful.

There are many winsome fur fashions in store for young girls. Some of the smartest are decidedly "sporty" looking. One of the most popular furs of the season for youthful sports coats and accessories is gray-kidskin. It is this sleek swagger fur which spells outstanding chic for the jacket ensemble illustrated to the left. There is, as you see, a scarf, beret and muff to match. The entire outfit is most intriguingly designed with "catchy" details. The muff is wonderfully clever as you will note and the belt is too fetching for words, being made of bright green leather which is braided together most of the way round the waistline.

If you are wanting to give your new wool frock an extra dash of style, top it with one of the jaunty little fur jackets made of an effective flat fur, if not caracul then seal or mink or spotted leopard skin, the latter being all the rage for the coat entire, or used as trimming, and especially nifty for the new cravat and muff sets which are so highly in vogue. The latest wrinkle is to carry a flat pocket-book made of the same fur as the jacket, or, if preferred, a wee muff. Newest extras fasten at the neck with a scarf tie of self-fur. Others have voluminous collars, while still others adopt piquant little military neckbands.

It is indeed a season of fancy elaborate furs, a fact which is emphasized particularly in the new neckpieces which are of endless variety. There is, for example, the lei boa, the ends of which are joined in a circle, the idea being to throw it about the neck and shoulders as the Hawaiians wear their flower garlands. These are especially smart in rose-beige furs. Then there is the scarf fashioned of as many as five or six skins, perhaps ermine or maybe mink or sable. These can be arranged in all sorts of effective poses.

Perhaps the biggest sensation in the realm of furs is the two-in-one coat which has its skirt portion attached to the upper portion with snap fasteners and in less time than it takes to tell it can be converted into a short jacket or long coat.

FASHION FEATURES OF 1931-32 COATS

"KNITTED" THE WORD

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A coat of fur or a coat of fabric may well be asked these questions. If it can answer most of them in the affirmative, it passes fashion's test for this winter:

- Is it long enough to cover the dress?
- Is it inclined to breadth in the shoulders?
- Does it definitely fasten at the natural waistline, and at one side?
- Are the hips slimly molded?
- Does it have only a moderate flare, but sufficient lap-over so it doesn't fly open?
- Does it have fullness and interest somewhere in the sleeves?
- Does it have an upstanding, flattering collar?
- Does it have a wider armhole?
- Does it treat flat fur as if it were fabric?
- Does it use long-haired fur for its most flattering effect?

Fur Coats Are Cheaper and More Attractive

This year very few wardrobes will be lacking in a fur coat. For they're not only more reasonably priced than they have been for years and years but they're also made in much more attractive styles. Fur coats follow the same silhouette that's smart in cloth coat fashions. Long straight lines with waistlines fitted in and interest concentrated above the waist. Concentrated mostly in making one look broader at the top. And this is brought about through various shapes in collars and through the sleeves as well.

Though one will occasionally see collars of long-haired contrasting furs, much more often they are made of the same fur as the coat. The shawl type still remains a favorite. Up in the back and framing the face, nothing could be more flattering.

Jersey and Tweed Are Favorites for Sports

Firm jersey and lightweight tweed are the favorite fabrics for sports dresses. Many of them are designed with short bolero jackets which button either in front or back and add both chic and warmth to the dress. Others cling to the belted hip tunic model.

Notes of Women's Wear From Style Centers

Detachable collars are a new trick on fall coats. Velvet is a leading fabric for formal gowns. Hair nets are being worn again by several smart Parisiennes. A good many of bustle styles will be seen as the season advances. Higher necklines for evening gowns, tiny jackets and capes are noted on

Smart women are all enthusiastic in regard to the knitted costume as a "now is." Not a dressmaker detail of note or a high-lighted color combination has been omitted in knitted styling and the effect in texture is so versatile it challenges even an expert to discover whether this or that is actually knitted or woven.

There's nothing smarter for fall than gay diagonal stripe effects. Black, red and white are the colors chosen for the sports dress shown. Tri-color diagonal knit is used in the skirt, scarfed yoke and cuffs, in striking contrast to the black jersey. The black kid pumps which are so decidedly chic have an interesting side trim of eyelets punched to reveal a white lining.

Notes of Women's Wear From Style Centers

There is no hard-and-fast law in this matter of skirt lengths nowadays. Wide belts are smart unless worn by women who are too stout at the hips. Coral jewelry is very much in vogue as an accent to black, dark blue or gray costumes. A perfect frock for the business girl has a skirt of black wool and a very smart jumper of green.

TO CLEMENT-31

The American Red Cross in Action

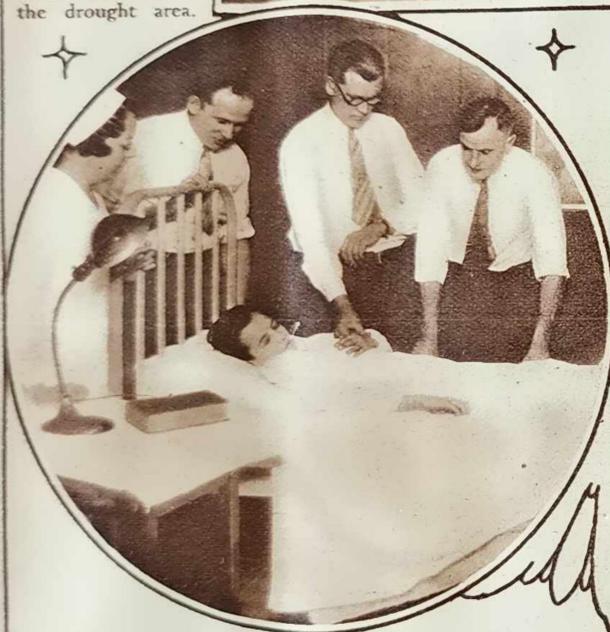

Above—Red Cross paid the grocery bill, and maintained the health and morale of more than two million drought sufferers. Balanced rationing and ample provisions prevailed. The Red Cross commanded the services of thousands of volunteers. It was an impressive demonstration of neighbors helping neighbors. At right—Hot lunches for school children in the drought area.

Colorful and strange is a field trip out of Manila. The native napa house is a real home that warmly welcomes the Red Cross nurse.

Bits of cheer at Christmas time—80,000 boxes spread good will and happiness round the world. An important phase of Junior activities.

Men's classes are popular features of Home Hygiene and Care of the Sick.

The American Red Cross was founded in 1881. It is, by Presidential proclamation, the National Relief Agency. It is chartered by Congress, headed by the President of the United States, and supported by annual memberships.

These memberships make possible a program which includes:

Disaster Relief—1,000 catastrophes in 50 years—all the way from Johnstown flood to Drought.

Veterans—380,000 social and financial problems in a year for ex-service men and their families and for the men of the regular Army and Navy.

First Aid—73,000 certificates awarded in a year—the answer to the annual toll of 100,000 deaths from accident.

Life-Saving—70,000 candidates pass tests in year—one way to prevent the 7,000 drownings now occurring each year.

Public Health Nursing—1,340,000 visits to patients in 12 months—building health in home, school, and community.

Home Hygiene—568 Chapters conducting this work—teaching the family how to care for sickness.

Nutrition—138,000 children and adults taught in year—better food and better bodies.

Junior Red Cross—7,000,000 school children enrolled—spreading cheer and good will round the world.

Insular and foreign activities—aided in 12 disasters last year.

Volunteers—110,000 in one year—ever ready in war and in peace.

Says Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes: "The American Red Cross represents the united voluntary effort of the American people in the ministry of mercy. It is the best and most effective expression of the American heart."

The annual party for disabled veterans on the lawn of the White House. President Hoover who is also president of the American Red Cross is interested in all phases of Red Cross service to both the sound and the well among soldiers, sailors, marines, veterans and their families.

Water Safety methods, as taught by the Red Cross, prevent many needless deaths from drowning.

Currants from Greece were used in these cookies baked by Juniors and served in school lunches in drought areas. There are 12,000,000 Juniors in the world, bound together by mutual understanding and ideals.

THE STORY

Yancey Cravat, just returned from the newly opened Indian Territory, relates his experiences in a large gathering of the Yancey family. Yancey is married to Sabra Yancey, a criminal lawyer and editor of the Wichita Freeman. Yancey announces he is going back to the Oklahoma country with Sabra and their four-year-old son, Cimarron. They arrive at Osage, where Yancey intends to start a newspaper. Yancey is determined to find out who killed Editor Pegler of the New York Freeman. Yancey consents to conduct a service Sunday. During the services Yancey announces he has learned who killed Pegler. He attempts in time to escape a bullet fired by Yontis, a stooping, Yancey shoots and kills Yontis. Then he announces that Yontis killed Pegler. Yancey frustrates a bank robbery and kills two desperadoes. Yancey urges Sabra to join him in the run at the opening of the Cherokee strip. She refuses. He is gone five years. Dixie Lee and her girls arouse the indignation of the wives and mothers of Osage. The women of Spain begin to talk of a robbery. Yancey returns in the uniform of a Rough Rider.

... but here in this land, Sabra, my girl, the women, they've been the real hevers of wood and drawers of water. You'll want to remember that Sabra remembered it now, well enough. Slowly the crowd began to disperse. The men had their business; the women their household. Wives linked their arms through those of husbands, and the gesture was one of perhaps an entirely unconscious cruelty, accompanied as it was by a darting glance at Sabra. "Rough Rider uniform, sack of gold, golden voice, and melting eye," that glance seemed to say. "You're welcome to all the happiness you can get from these. Security, permanence, time, husband—I wouldn't change places with you." "Come on, Yancey!" shouted Strap Buckner. "Over to the Sunny South-west and have a drink. We got a terrible lot of drinking to do. Can't we boys? Come on, you old long-bone. We got to drink to you because you're back and because you're going away." "And to the war!" yelled Bisler. "And the Rough Riders!" "And Alaska!" Their boots clattered across the board floor of the newspaper office. They swept the towering figure in its khaki uniform with them. He turned, waved his hat at her. "Back in a minute, honey." They were gone. Sabra turned to the children, Cimarron, Deana, flushed, both with the unmet excitement; out of hand. Her feet set itself with that look of quiet defiance. "Half the morning's gone. I want you to go along to school, say. Now, none of that! It's no use your staying around here. The show must be got out. Jesse'll be no good to me the rest of the day. It's easy to see that. I'll write a note to your teachers. . . . Run along now. I expect to court."

and more. Driving her out is not going to do it. You've got to drive the devil out of—"

"Yancey Cravat, are you preaching to me? You who left your wife and children to starve, for all you cared! And now you come back and you take this creature's part against every respectable woman in Osage—against me!" "I know it. I can't help it, Sabra." "I'll tell you what I think," cried Sabra—the Sabra Cravat who had been evolved in the past five years. "I think you're crazy! They've all said so. And now I know they are right."

"If you dare to think of disgracing me by defending her. And your children. I've fought her for months in the paper. A miserable creature like that! Your own wife—a laughing stock—for a—"

"The territory's rotten. But, by G—d, every citizen's still got the legal right to fight for existence!" He put her gently aside. She went mad. She became a wildcat. She tried to hold him. She beat herself against him. It was like an infuriated sparrow hurling itself upon a mastodon. "If you dare! Why did you come back? I hate you. What's she to you? I say you won't. I'd rather see you dead. I'd kill you first. That scum! That filth! That harlot!"

Her dignity was gone. He lifted her, scratching, kicking, clawing, set her gently down in the chair in front of her desk. The screen slammed. His quick, light step across the porch, down the stairs. Crumpled, tear-stained, wild as she was, and with her hat on one side, she reached automatically for her pencil, a pad of copy paper, and wrote a new head. "Vice Again Triumphs Over Justice!" Then, with what composure she could summon, she sped down the dusty road to where the combination jail and courthouse—a crude wooden building—sat broiling in the sun.

Because of the notoriety of the defendant the inadequate little courtroom would have been crowded enough in any case. But the news of Yancey's abrupt departure from the Sunny Southwest saloon—and the reason for it—had spread from house to house through the little town with the rapidity of a forest fire leaping from tree to tree. Mad Yancey Cravat's latest freak. Men left their offices, their stores; women their cooking, their cleaning. The jury so hastily assembled, Pat Leary in a solemn suit of black, Dixie Lee with her girls, even Judge Sipes himself seemed in momentary danger of being trampled by the milling mob. It was a travesty of a courtroom.

The jury was a hard-faced lot for the most part. Plucked from the plains or the hills; halting of speech, slow of mind, quick on the trigger. A slow, rhythmic motion of the jaw was evidence that a generous preliminary bite of plug served as a precaution to soothe the nerves and steady the judgment. This legal farce had already begun before Yancey made his spectacular entrance. "Case of the Territory of Oklahoma versus Dixie Lee." (So they had made it a territorial case. . . .) "Counsel for the territory of Oklahoma," Pat Leary stood up. . . . for the defense." No one. The close-packed courtroom was a nightmare of staring eyes and fishlike mouths greedily devouring Dixie Lee's white, ravaged face. Oddly enough, compared to these, she seemed pure, aloof, exquisite. "The defendant having failed to provide herself with counsel, it is my duty, according to the laws of the government of the United States and the territory of Oklahoma to appoint counsel for the defendant." He shifted his quid, the while his cunning, red-rimmed eyes roved solemnly through the crowd seeking the shyster, Gwin Larkin. A stir in the close-packed crowd; a murmur. "I hereby appoint—" The murmur swelled. "Order in the court!"

Towering above the crowd, forging his way through it like some relentless force of nature, came the great buffalo head, the romantic Rough Rider hat with its turned-up brim held by the crossed sabers; the massive khaki-clad figure. It was dramatic, it was melodramatic, it was ridiculous. It was superb. Here was the kind of situation that the Southwest loved and craved; here was action, here was blood-and-thunder, here was adventure. Here, in a word, was Cimarron.

He stood before the shoddy judge. He swept off his hat with a gesture that invested it with pignones. "If it please your honor, I represent the defendant, Dixie Lee." No territorial judge, denying Yancey Cravat, would have dared to face that crowd. He cast another glance at this round-a helpless, baffled one this time—waved the approaching Gwin Larkin back with a feeble gesture. Larkin bowed and proceeded with the case according to the laws of the territory. Certainly the look that he turned on Sabra Cravat as she entered a scant minutes later, white faced, resolute, and took her place as representative of the press, was one of such tive of bewilderment and reproach mingled have embarrassed anyone less as would have preoccupied than the editor and publisher of the Oklahoma Wigwam.

Objection on the part of the sick judge. Overruled, perforce, by Pat Leary. A shout from the crowd, the judge. A shout from the crowd. Law Order! Bang! Another shout. Law Order! Bang! community not yet ten in a lawless community made up, for years old, of people whose very the most part, meant impatience of presence there meant defiance of the old order, defiance of the conventions. Ten minutes earlier they had been all for the cocky little Leary; eager to cast the first stone at the woman in the temple. Now, with the inexplicable fickleness of the mob, the electric current of sympathy flowed out from them to the woman to be tried, to the man who would defend her. Hot and swift and plenty of action—that was the way the Southwest liked it justice.

Pat Leary, Irish, ambitious, fiery. His temper, none too even at best, had been lost before he ever rose. The thought of Yancey ahead of him, the purity brigade behind him, spurred him to his frantic, his disorderly charge. His years as section hand on the railroad had equipped him with a vocabulary well suited to scourgify this woman in black who sat so quietly, so white faced, before him, for all the crowd to see. Adjective on adjective; vituperation; words which are considered obscenity outside the Bible and the courtroom.

A curious embarrassment seized the crowd. There were many in the packed room who had known the easy hospitality of Dixie's menage; who had eaten at her board, who had been broken in Grot Gohl's gambling place and had borrowed money from Dixie to save themselves from rough frontier revenge. She had plied her trade and taken the town's money and given it out again with the other merchants of the town. The bankers could testify to that; the mayor, this committee; that committee. But Dixie Lee's name down for a thousand. Part of the order of that disorderly, haphazard town.

Names. Names. Names. The dull red of resentment deepened the natural red of their sunburned faces. The jurors shifted in their places. A low mutter, ominous, like a growl, sounded its distant thunder. Blunt, Sharp, Ruthless. Younger than Yancey, less experienced, he still should have known better. These men of the inadequate jury, these men in the courtroom crowd, had come of a frontier background, had lived in the frontier atmosphere. In their rough youth, and now, women were scarce, with the scarcity that the hard life predicted. And because they were scarce they were precious. No woman so plain, so hard, so undesirable that she did not take on, by the very fact of her sex, a value far beyond her deserts. The attitude of a whole nation had been touched by this sentimental fact which was, after all, largely geographic. For a full century the countries of Europe, bewildered by it, unable to account for it, had laughed at this adolescent reverence of the American man for the American woman.

"Your Honor, Gentlemen of the Jury. I Am the First to Bow to Achievement."

Leary finished in a burst of oratory so ruthless, so brutal that he had the satisfaction of seeing the painful, unaccustomed red surge thickly over Dixie Lee's pale face from her brow down to where the ladylike white turnover of her high collar met the line of her throat. The pompous little Irishman seated himself, chest out, head high, eye roving the crowd and the bench, lips open with self-satisfaction. A few more cases like this and maybe they'd see there was material for a territory governor right here in Osage.

The crowd shifted, murmured, gabbled. Yancey still sat sunk in his chair as though lost in thought. The gabbler roared, soared. "He's given it up," thought Sabra, exulting. "He sees how it is." The eyes of the crowd so close packed in that suffocating little courtroom were concentrated on the inert figure jolting so limply in its chair. Perhaps they were going to be cheated of their show after all.

Slowly the big head lifted, the powerful shoulders straightened, he rose, he seemed to rise endlessly, he walked to Judge Sipes' rude desk with his light, graceful stride. The lids were still cast down over the lightning eyes. He stood a moment, that singularly sweet and winning smile wreathing his lips. He began to speak. The vibrant voice, after Leary's shouts, was so low pitched that the crowd held its breath in order to hear. "Your honor, gentlemen of the jury. I am the first to bow to achievement. Recognition where recognition is due—this, gentlemen, has ever been my way. May I, then, before I begin my poor plea in defense of this lady, my client, most respectfully call your attention to that which, in my humble opinion, has never before been achieved, has never duplicated, in the whole of the Southwest. Turn your eye to the figure held your attention, and so deservedly upon him. Regard Gaze once more upon him. Regard him well. You will not look upon his like again. For, gentlemen, in my opinion this gifted person, Mr. Patrick Leary, is the only man in the Oklahoma territory—in the Indian territory—in the whole of the brilliant and glorious Southwest—may, I may even go so far as to say the only man in this magnificent country, the United States of America!—of whom it actually can be said that he is able to strut sitting down." The puffed little figure in the chair collapsed, then bounded to its feet, redfaced, gesticulating. "Your honor! I object!" But the rest was lost in the gigantic roar of the delighted crowd. "Go it, Yancey!" "That's the stuff, Cimarron!" Here was what they had come for. Doggone, there was nobody like him. Even today, though more than a quarter of a century has gone by, there still are people in Oklahoma who have kept a copy, typed neatly now from records made by hand, of the speech made that day by Yancey Cravat in defense of the town woman, Dixie Lee. "Yancey Cravat's Plea for a Fallen Woman," it is called; and never was speech more sentimental, windy, false, and utterly moving. The slang words hokum and bunk were not then in use, but even had they been they never would have been applied, by that appreciative crowd, at least, to the flowery and impassioned oratory of the Southwest Silver Tongue, Yancey Cravat.

Cheap, melodramatic, gorgons, impassioned. A quart of whisky in him; an enraptured audience behind him; a white-faced woman with hopeless eyes to spur him on; the cry of his wronged and righteous wife still sounding in his ears—both himself, in his heyday, never gave a more brilliant, a more false performance. "Your honor! gentlemen of the jury! You have heard with what cruelty the prosecution has referred to the sins of this woman, as if her condition was of her own preference. A dreadful—a vicious—a revolting picture has been painted for your life and surroundings. Tell me—tell me—do you really think that she willingly embraced a life so repellent, so horrible? No, gentlemen! A thousand times, no! This girl was bred in such luxury, such refinement, as few of us have known. And just as the young girl was budding into womanhood, cruel fate snatched all this from her, bereft her of her dear ones, took from her, one by one, with a terrible and fierce rapidity, those upon whom she had come to look for love and support. And then, in that moment of darkest terror and loneliness, came one of our sex, gentlemen. A wolf in sheep's clothing. A fiend in the guise of a human. False promises. Lies. Deceit so palpable that it would have deceived no one but a young girl as innocent, as pure, as starchy eyed as was this woman you now see white and trembling before you. One of our sex was the author of her ruin, more to blame than she. What could be more pathetic than the spectacle she presents? An immortal soul in ruin. A moment ago you heard her reviled, in the lowest terms a man can employ toward a woman, for the depths to which she has sunk, for the company she keeps, for the life she leads. Yet where can she go that her sin does not pursue her? You would drive her out. But where? Gentlemen, the very promises of God are denied her. Who was it said, 'Come unto me all ye that are heavy laden, and I will give you rest'? She is indeed heavy laden, this trampled flower of the South, but if at this instant she were to kneel down before us all and confess her Redeemer, where is the church that would receive her, where the community that would take her in? Our sex wrecked her once pure life. Her own sex shrinks from her as from a pestilence. Society has reared its relentless walls against her. Only in the friendly shelter of the grave can her betrayed and broken heart ever find the Redeemer's promised rest. The gentleman who so eloquently spoke before me told you of her assumed names, of her sins, of her habits. He never, for all his eloquence, told you of her sorrows, her agonies, her hopes, her despair. But I could tell you. I could tell you of the desperate day—the red-letter day in the banner of the great Oklahoma country—when she tried to win a home for herself where she could live in decency and quiet. . . . When the remembered voices of father and mother and sisters and brothers fall like music on her erring soul . . . oh, gentlemen . . .

But by this time the gentlemen, between emotion and tobacco juice, were having such difficulty with their Adam's apples as to make a wholesale strangling seem inevitable. The bean-tiful flexible voice went on, the hands wove their enchantment, the eyes held in their spell. The pompous figure of little Pat Leary shrank, dwindled, disappeared before their mind's eye. The harlot Dixie Lee, in her black, became a woman romantic, piteous, appealing. Sabra Cravat, her pencil flying over her paper, thought grimly: "It isn't true. Don't believe him. He is wrong. He has always been wrong. For fifteen years he has always been wrong. Don't believe him. I shall have to print this. How lovely his voice is. It's like a knife in my heart. I mustn't look at his eyes. His hands—what was that he said?—I must keep my mind on . . . music on her erring soul . . . oh, my love . . . I ought to hate him . . . I do hate him . . ."

It was finished. Yancey walked to his seat, sat as before, the great buffalo head lowered, the lids closed over the compelling eyes, the beautiful hands folded, relaxed. The good man and true of the jury filed solemnly out through the crowd that made way for them. As solemnly they crossed the dusty road and repaired to a draw at the roadside, where they squatted on such bits of rock or board as came to hand. Solenely, briefly, and with utter disregard of its legal aspect, they discussed the case—if their inarticulate monosyllables could be termed discussion. The courtroom throng, scattering for refreshment, had barely time to down its drink before the jury stamped heavily across the road and into the noisome courtroom. . . . and the defendant, Dixie Lee, not guilty." CAP AND BELLS

STUMPED

An Irish doctor was motoring along a lonely road. Suddenly he came upon a girl in distress. She was standing beside a new two-seater. The doctor pulled up. "Can I help you in any way?" he said, gallantly. The girl smiled through her tears. "It's this petrol indicator," she said. "You see, it's standing at the half-way mark, but for the life of me I can't remember if it means half full or half empty."

"What's the trouble?" "I made up my mind the other day that I would be truthful and obliging. I answered every question anybody asked me." "And told the exact truth?" "Yes. And none of the people I told the truth about now speak to me."

FARM POULTRY

KEEPING TAB ON AGES OF CHICKS

Good Reasons Why Matter Is Important.

The question may arise in the minds of some as to why it is necessary to be able to tell the differences in ages of pullets. The answer is that when it is time to put the pullets in the laying house, there are some are not worth keeping. These should be sorted out, and it is well to keep all of the same age and development by themselves. The earliest maturing pullets are usually the best ones. If pullets of all ages are allowed to run together on range, it will be impossible to tell the difference between the slow-developing ones of the earlier hatches and the fast-growing ones of the later hatches. Naturally, such birds are not all of the same value and should not be placed in the same pen. Unless pedigree hatching and breeding are done and all chicks banded, such pullets cannot easily be told apart. They can easily be marked by toe punching or sipping the webs between the toes. By using different combinations it is a very simple matter to know definitely the ages of the various pullets.

Poultry House Litter Carrier Has Advantage

In some of the newer commercial poultry houses a litter carrier and track has been installed to great advantage. The track is supported from the rafters just in front of the dropping boards. The carrier when in position is just right to receive the droppings as they are scraped from the boards. The track may be extended through the house if the doors between units are arranged properly. At the end, or at both ends the track can be extended to allow the carrier to be dumped into a manure spreader. This system greatly reduces the labor of cleaning the house. One great advantage of the large flock is the fact that labor-saving equipment can be installed with profit, permitting one man to care for many birds with a minimum of labor.—Exchange.

Care of Ducks

When duck eggs are hatched in an incubator, the temperature should be 102 degrees during the first week. For the remainder of the hatch, it should be held as near as possible to 103 degrees. The thermometer bulb should be placed level with the top of the duck eggs. During the last ten days of the hatch the eggs can be sprinkled daily with water which is close to machine temperature. The eggs will usually begin to pip the 20th day and the machine should be closed. But if moisture appears lacking and the ducklings are having trouble in emerging, it may be best to open the machine and add moisture. If possible, you should obtain the incubator instructions for hatching ducklings in the type of machine you are using. The best results can be obtained by following any special instructions advised by the manufacturer.

Poultry Hints

The fact that the poultry industry can expand or contract rapidly with conditions makes it a stable one. Artificial light for poultry merely makes a normal condition during an abnormal time and is not a forcing process, if used with reasonable judgment. The careful division of pullets into laying units makes their management and feeding in laying flocks during the pullet year easier, more economical, and more exact. A poultry man who continuously selects his breeding hens from the late molting group in his flock, may expect a higher egg production during the late summer and early fall. Thoroughly repair, clean, and disinfect all laying houses before the pullets are confined to winter quarters. Many poultrymen find that night lighting of baby chicks increases the growth since the chicks eat and drink at night. Do not scale your squabs before picking for market. Learn to dry-pick, they have a much better appearance two or three days later than birds that were scaled before picking. Bacillary white diarrhea of chicks can be controlled by testing breeding hens and eliminating the germ carriers. Culling should be a continuous process, starting at the time chicks are received from the hatchery and extending over the entire laying period. Principal defects of eggs delivered to candling stations which materially affect their sales value are dirt, yellow yolks, murky whites, shrinkage, heat, looseness and poor shells. According to Canadian government reports, 34,986,508 eggs in Canada laid 278,006,532 dozen eggs in 1929, valued at $85,380,532. Chickens, like people, need salad greens in their menu, the preferred varieties for chickens being cabbage, kale, rape, alfalfa, and swiss chard. Where poultry constitutes the principal farm enterprise, a flock of at least 1,000 hens is essential. Small flock owners are out of luck during times of stress.

ACID STOMACH

EXCESS acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention. One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. Harmless, and tasteless, and yet its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, once you learn how quickly this method acts. Be sure to get the genuine. The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior toothpaste that safeguards against acid-mouth.

Beetle Largest Insect?

In wing expanse alone the moth Erebus agrippina, with a spread of 11 inches, is the largest insect known today. If size is to be gauged by bulk combined with body length, the beetle Macrodonia cervicornis, which ranges up to 6 inches in length, is perhaps the largest known.

COMFORT for COLICKY BABIES

... THROUGH CASTORIA'S GENTLE REGULATION

The best way to prevent colic, doctors say, is to avoid gas in stomach and bowels by keeping the entire intestinal tract open, free from waste. But remember this: a tiny baby's tender little organs cannot stand harsh treatment. They must be gently urged. This is just the time Castoria can help most. Castoria, you know, is made specially for babies and children. It is a pure vegetable preparation, perfectly harmless. It contains no harsh drugs, no narcotics. For years it has helped mothers through trying times with colicky babies and children suffering with digestive upsets, colds and fever. Keep genuine Castoria on hand, with the name:

CASTORIA CHILDREN CRY FOR IT

That's All "Joe, does your baby ever say cute things?" "We don't want her to say cute things. We want her to shut up." A Matter of Distance "What's your objection to hiking?" "I think they put the milestones too far apart."—Passing Show.

DAMAGE DONE BY INSECTS WAS HEAVY

A twenty year record for number and kinds of insect injury was set during the past summer according to E. L. Chambers, state entomologist of the department of agriculture and markets. The greatest injury was done by grass hoppers, army worms, cutworms and corn ear worms which occurred in epidemic numbers in many counties throughout Wisconsin and resulted in enormous losses to corn, small grain, hay, tobacco and other crops.

These enormous losses, Mr. Chambers says, were the result of a hot dry season favorable for insect development which followed a mild winter that allowed many insects to survive. A lack of natural insect parasites also allowed the pests to thrive and multiply.

Mr. Chambers warns that if weather conditions are again favorable during the coming winter and next spring, there is every reason to believe that 1932 will be another year of serious outbreaks of these insect pests, especially of grasshoppers.

Large numbers of overwintering grasshopper eggs are now present in light sand areas where large egg beds occur in waste land, along roadsides, in pastures and similar places. Most of them are where they will be undisturbed by the plow. Disking and harrowing ground, found infested with grasshopper egg pods after the first heavy frosts have killed off the grasshoppers, will bring these egg masses to the surface of the ground where they may be exposed to the drying action of the sun and wind or to the attacks of numerous animal enemies, such as birds, rodents, insect predators, etc. The unusually late fall has made it possible for the grasshoppers to continue laying eggs several weeks longer than normally, and consequently enormous numbers have been laid.

The corn earworm, on the other hand, while widespread and in many sections doing untold injury may not be serious another year, Mr. Chambers advises. The corn ear worms do not very often survive our winters and the infestation must come from states to the south from which the moths fly. If the season is not so favorable for a northern flight another year, the infestation will be less.

Rabbit hunting season opened last Sunday, November 1st. Licenses this year are accompanied by game report blanks which must be filed with the conservation commission by February 1st, 1932, showing the number of all kinds of game shot during the season. Hunters failing to make the report can not secure licenses next year the law provides. Buttons, usually given out to be worn on the cap or coat to show a license has been secured, will not be distributed this year, the conservation commission announced.

Highest Paid Short Fiction Writer

FANNIE HURST is the highest paid short story writer in the world today. There's a good reason for that. She knows human nature and under the magic of her touch, the people about whom she writes become real people, not mere literary creations. The plots of her stories are based on incidents from real life as it is lived every day by the common people.

Such are the stories which are appearing in this newspaper. Be sure to read them and talk to your friends about them, for they like interesting stories, too. And Fannie Hurst's stories are interesting stories.

McCormick-Deering MILKER in Our Store Now

AMONG the remarkable features of the new McCormick-Deering Milker, assuring the highest efficiency, are:

- Simplicity of design and operation.
- Every part easily accessible for washing and cleaning.
- Patented vacuum pump with replaceable cylinder.
- Vacuum tank of entirely new principle of design.
- Positive, fully enclosed, no-oil, no-spring pulsator (operates efficiently regardless of temperature).
- Positive vacuum regulator and vacuum gauge.
- Anti-freeze stall cocks.
- Two-piece, easily-cleaned, teat-cup assembly of the right size, shape, and weight for efficient, rapid milking.
- One-piece sanitary pail cover.
- High-grade rubber parts.
- Rust-resisting aluminum pail.
- Engine or motor drive.

The fully enclosed, no-oil, no-spring pulsator is positive in action and operates successfully regardless of climatic conditions.

The McCormick-Deering two-piece teat-cup assembly consists of a high-grade flexible rubber liner and metal shell. Note how easy the teat cup is taken apart, which makes it sanitary and easy to wash.

EDUCATIONAL FARM MEETING

On November 25th, at 7:30 P. M., at the Opera House, Kewaskum, a cordial invitation is extended by L. Rosenheimer, to all to attend an educational farm meeting to assist the farmer in better understanding of care in lubrication. Valuable prizes will be given free to lucky winners. Lunch will be served and moving pictures will be a feature of entertainment. A very interesting comedy film will also be given. All are cordially invited.

Aid for War Veterans

More than 430,000 ex-service men and their families were aided through 3,008 Red Cross Chapters and the national organization during the year ending June 30, 1931. Dependent families were cared for, veterans' claims were filed, hospitalization obtained and many other services given. Part of each contribution during the American Red Cross annual roll call, Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Day, goes toward supporting this vital work for veterans of the World War and other wars in which the United States has engaged.

Books for the Blind

Through American Red Cross Chapters, 3,827 volumes of novels, class books and others, transcribed into braille for blind readers, have been added to libraries, in the past year. These books are to be obtained through the Library of Congress and city libraries. This activity, carried on by a great number of devoted women volunteers in Red Cross Chapters, had its inception in preparing books for war blinded.

Emergency Took Him Out

During her first week of school little Mary came home saying her teacher had told the class the story of Joseph and his coat. In repeating the story, Mary exclaimed: "Joseph's brothers put him down in a deep well and went away and left him and the 'emergency' came along and took him out of the well."

Events in the Lives of Little Men

Neal's Mother Has Right Idea

Within a few months there will be no more feverish, bilious, headachy, constipated, pale and puny children. That prophecy would surely come true if every mother could see for herself how quickly, easily, and harmlessly the bowels of babies and children are cleansed, regulated, given tone and strength by a product which has proved its merit and reliability to do what is claimed for it to millions of mothers in over fifty years of steadily increasing use.

As mothers find out from using it how children respond to the gentle influence of California Fig Syrup by growing stronger, sturdier and more active daily they simply have to tell other mothers about it. That's one of the reasons for its overwhelming sales of over four million bottles a year.

A Western mother, Mrs. Neal M. Todd, 1701 West 27th St., Oklahoma City, Okla., says: "When my son, Neal, was three years old he began having constipation. I decided to give him California Fig Syrup and in a few days he was all right and looked fine again. This pleased me so much that I have used Fig Syrup ever since for all his colds or little upset spells. It always stops his trouble quick, strengthens him, makes him eat."

Always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name and see that the carton bears the word "California." Then you'll get the genuine.

Never Happened Before

The Smiths had had their car for quite a while and had never had any trouble. One night fate was against them.

"It's a blowout," said Mr. Smith. "It can't be," insisted Mrs. Smith. "We never have had one."

Stop the Pain.

The hurt of a burn or a cut stops when Cole's Carbolic is applied. It soothes quickly without scars, and costs 50c by all druggists, or send 30c to J. W. Cole Co., Rockford, Ill.—Adv.

Doorstep Diplomacy

"Are you a bill collector?"

"Just want a debt parley with your husband, thass all."

In This Modern Day

"Dining in a restaurant? Where is your wife?"

TELLS OF ORIGIN OF ENGLISH NAMES

Many Simply Indication of Residence.

"John ate children" is found written in an old parish register in a church in the English county of Huntingdonshire. Following it is "Richard ate Forty"; and a bit further on "Thomas ate Hell." The first two entries might suggest cannibalism. But a British museum expert whose specialty is the origin of English names explains that John and Richard were probably quite inoffensive persons. In olden days in England, he says, "ate" meant simply "at" or "of." Spelling was apt to vary with each parish clerk and much corruption crept in. Thus "John ate children" signified simply "John of Chiltern." "Richard ate Forty" stood for "Richard at, or of, Ford." To find him you asked for Richard at the ford. And "Thomas ate Hell" referred to "Thomas at the hill."

"Our forenames are generally much older than our surnames," the expert remarked. "When populations were thin and scattered—the Domesday book accounts for only some 283,000 people in all of England that was surveyed—it sufficed to indicate John by his place of residence, or as John the son of Richard, or very often as John the servant of his named master; often, too, as John the smith, distinguished by his trade, from which comes the commonest of all names, John Smith.

"In medieval and Tudor England," he went on, "life was much shorter than today; accordingly the chance of rearing a large family to maturity was slender. For this reason many a father gave his own forename to two of his offspring, hoping that thereby it might survive to be carried on by one or the other.

"A great number of the proudest names borne in England today have their origin in nicknames perpetuating abnormality in some remote ancestor. And around others grew such unpleasant associations that a change was sought. It was, for instance, a certain Mr. Bugz who became the first Norfolk Howard."

In the Puritan days in England many of the more fanatical people assumed religious texts and mottoes as Christian names, and these names were attached to their surnames. The classic example of this kind of name is Praise-God Barebones.—New York Times.

"FATIGUE?"
I just postpone it!"

"No, I don't have 'nerves.' You can't have them, and hold this sort of position. My head used to throb around three o'clock, and certain days, of course, were worse than others.

"Then I learned to rely on Bayer Aspirin."

The sure cure for any headache is rest. But sometimes we must postpone it. That's when Bayer Aspirin saves the day. Two tablets, and the nagging pain is gone until you are home. And once you are comfortable, the pain seldom returns!

Keep Bayer Aspirin handy. Don't put it away, or put off taking it. Fighting a headache to finish the day may be heroic, but it is also a little foolish. So is day may be heroic, but it is also a little foolish. So is day may be heroic, but it is also a little foolish. So is day may be heroic, but it is also a little foolish.

The only caution to be observed is when you are buying aspirin. Bayer is genuine. Tablets with the Bayer cross are safe.

WARNS AGAINST SCHEME OF BROILER PRODUCTION

Warning against another scheme of broiler production is again issued by the department of agriculture and markets regarding the operations of a company known as the American Poultry Products Company. The company has previously operated under the names of the Rural Service Corporation and the Cloverleaf Products Company and after unsuccessful attempts near Madison and Milwaukee has now changed its scene of operations to the Green Bay region.

According to the official statement, the venture involves the purchase of broiler production equipment at a price far in excess of its actual value. The excess is represented as payment for so-called service which the company is supposed to render in production of broilers and marketing of broilers at prices far above those obtainable in the open market.

During investigations made numerous purchasers of equipment, former salesmen of the company, and a representative of the company testified under oath. It was shown that salesmen had used glowing sales talk under instructions from the company. Several former salesmen declared that they were satisfied that the character of the enterprise in which they had unknowingly taken part was fraudulent and explained that they had severed connections with the broiler company for that reason.

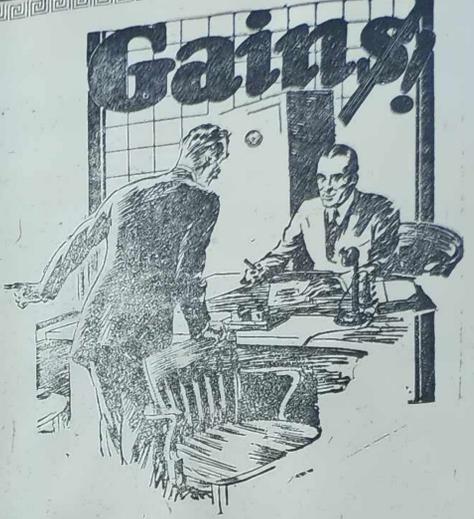

TUNE IN ON STATION WTMJ ON NOVEMBER 10TH

"Car owners in Kewaskum are urged to tune in their radios November 10, on Station WTMJ for a weekly prize contest announcement that is certain to interest everyone who operates a car," declares A. A. Perschbacher, Goodyear tire dealer located at Kewaskum.

"Over a nationwide hookup of 54 stations in the NBC network through WEAF, the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co. of Akron, whose tires I have sold for 20 years, is putting on a splendid radio program each Tuesday evening at 7:30 P. M., and each Saturday night at 8:00 o'clock featuring John Philip Sousa and his band, Arthur Pryor and his band, the famous Melton, James, Dewey and Glenn quartet and a complete concert-dance orchestra," said Mr. Perschbacher.

"The contest is an added feature, and I hope that everybody in the city will listen for the announcement which will be made every night starting November 10."

National attention was created by the first broadcast in the Goodyear bi-weekly radio program with the commissioning ceremony of the airship U. S. S. Akron by the Navy at Lakehurst, N. J. Goodyear-Zeppelin Corp., a subsidiary of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., designed and built this new air cruiser, Mr. Perschbacher said.

QUALITY SPEAKS!

The good merchant—the good product—the good service—make the real gains!

The policy of the good business man is to be consistent in quality throughout his business.

Making new contacts—opening new channels—is part of your business—a part where first impressions count. Good printing consistent in quality with your product will convey the impression of high quality as a characteristic of your business.

A leaflet—booklet—letter-head—broadside will produce results in proportion to its quality. Poor printing—poor results; quality printing—gain!

Champion Milkmaid

Mary Polam, Campbell, Cal., filled pails with 132.6 pounds of milk in 27 minutes at the National Dairy Show.

EGGS LIKE MILK NOW SELL BY TEST

The new egg grading system which recently went into effect, although sometimes misunderstood, is really simple in its purpose as well as in its application, states J. B. Hayes of the Wisconsin college of agriculture.

First of all, the grades apply only when the producer sells the eggs to the first receiver, as the grocer or producer buyer, who in turn resells them. They do not apply when the producer sells direct to the consumer as in house to house sales, to hotels, or to restaurants.

The new grading system requires that the first receiver buy the eggs according to their grade and pay for them on the basis of quality. This, Hayes explains, is the same system by which Wisconsin dairymen sell their milk and cream, which is by both weight and test. The old way of buying eggs by the dozen without regard to quality or grade is the same as buying milk by the 100 pounds without regard to its test. In the past, he states, the producer of high quality eggs received no more per dozen than the producer of poor quality eggs.

In the second place, the cost of candling and grading is very small, Hayes finds. Many points report a cost of less than one-half cent a dozen, while in one instance a cost of but ten cents a case was reported for this work.

As a practical illustration of the way the grading system works, Hayes refers to the farmer delivering eggs to the grocer. As the first receiver, the grocer must candle and grade the eggs and pay for them according to grade. Eggs running 24 ounces to the dozen which are clean shelled and fresh, would grade as "firsts"; pullet eggs of the same quality but running 21 ounces to the dozen would grade as "bullet firsts"; while eggs that would not fit into either of these two upper classes, either on account of size or quality, would be classed as "underrades."

Up-to-the-Minute and Practical

Every woman wishes to be as well-dressed as possible without spending too much time or money on her clothes. That is why so many women in this community turn first to the page in this newspaper which contains the illustrated fashion articles by Miss Cherie Nicholas.

For Miss Nicholas is an authority on fashions—not the freak models and the extreme styles, but the fashions in dress which the modern woman demands, those which are up-to-the-minute and at the same time economical and practical.

Be sure to look for these articles in each issue of this newspaper and then tell your women friends about them. They will be glad to know how they, too, can wear clothes which carry the message of the well-dressed woman.

Chief Justice Hughes In Tribute to Red Cross

One of the finest tributes ever paid the American Red Cross and its membership was that by Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, of the United States Supreme Court, on the occasion of the fiftieth birthday anniversary of the organization on May 21 of this year. Mr. Hughes said: "The American Red Cross represents the united voluntary effort of the American people in the ministry of mercy. It is the finest and most effective expression of the American heart. It knows no partisanship. In the perfection of its cooperation, there is no blemish of distinctions by reason of race or creed or political philosophy.

"However we may differ in all things else, in the activities of the Red Cross we are a united people. None of our boasted industrial enterprises surpasses it in efficiency. It moves with the precision and the discipline of an army to achieve the noblest of human aims.

"The American Red Cross is not only first in war but first in peace. The American people rely upon its ministrations in every great catastrophe. It has given its aid in over one thousand disasters. When, as we hope, war will be no more, still the Red Cross, in the countless activities of relief and rehabilitation, will continue to function as the organized compassion of our country."
