

SCHOOL TO OPEN SEPTEMBER 6

The Kewaskum School will open on Tuesday, September 6th. The morning will be devoted to registration and the classes will start in the afternoon. An organization meeting of all faculty members will be held on the previous day.

There are three new members on the faculty. They are: Mr. Clifford Rose, who for the past eight years has been basket ball coach and mathematics instructor at the Montfort High School. His position here is a similar one. Miss Ruth Jordahl of Duluth, Minnesota will teach English and Music. She comes well prepared to teach instrumental music. Miss Olive Smith of Fond du Lac, will teach Latin and Citizenship in the high school and Language in the grades. Miss Smith is a Milwaukee Downer graduate and is well prepared to conduct chorus work.

All of the above teachers come to us with two or more years of experience as successful teachers. The complete faculty with departments is as follows:

- Miss Daley—Primary
- Miss Stephens—Intermediate
- Mrs. Muenk—Grammar Room
- Miss Smith—Language and Social Science
- Miss Browne—Commercial
- Miss Jordahl—English
- Mr. Rose—History and Mathematics
- Mr. Skaliskey—Science and Principal

The purchase of second hand books is encouraged as a means of reducing the cost of text books. There will be no change of texts in any of the high school subjects.

The work of the Kewaskum High School has received the wholehearted support of the State Department of Public Instruction and of the University of Wisconsin. Few schools of its size in the state have a better trained or a more experienced faculty. It is an excellent institution to which to send your boy or girl for a high school education. All indications point to a large Freshmen enrollment for the coming year.

ECLIPSE OF SUN AUGUST 31ST.

A period of just 100 precious seconds—not to be repeated again for 31 years! Observers in the United States and Canada should look carefully at the total eclipse of the sun on Wednesday, August 31st., for they will not see such and awe-inspiring spectacle again until July 20, 1963.

Still that's not as bad as it might be. Up to just a couple of weeks ago astronomers were saying that another total eclipse of the sun would not be visible in the United States and Canada again until Oct. 12, 1997, which is 65 years hence. The eclipse in this section of the United States will be 79 per cent of totality and the maximum time of its visibility will be at 2:29 p. m. Watch for it.

As everybody knows, an eclipse of the sun is caused by the moon getting between the earth and the sun. The moon casts a great cone shaped shadow on the earth. At the point of this shadow the eclipse is total; outside that comparatively narrow track it is only partial.

As the moon moves in front of the sun, the disc of sun disappears from view. First the sun is only partly overlapped, then completely. Two or three minutes before the eclipse becomes total, the moon's shadow comes sweeping over the landscape from the west with great swiftness. Suddenly the eclipse becomes total and the whole sky grows dark.

MISSION FESTIVAL AT DUNDEE AUGUST 28

The Trinity Lutheran church at Dundee will hold their annual Mission Festival on Sunday, August 28th. Morning services at 10:00 o'clock, afternoon services at 3 o'clock and evening services at 7:30. Dinner will be served at noon.

THE COST OF GOOD ROADS

The biggest item in the tax budget of most rural towns is the cost of building and maintaining unimproved roads. Practically all of the hard-surfaced roads which constitute our main motor highways are paid by states or counties with the towns contributing only a small percentage. But there is something worth thinking about in the report recently published by the New York State College of Agriculture, in the discovery that was made that 76 cents out of every dollar in town taxes goes to maintenance of ordinary dirt roads.

In the state of New York, and this is more or less true everywhere else, the typical town contains 28,800 acres, or about thirty-seven square miles. It has an average population of 1500 with 1500 taxable property assessed at $2,250,000 and its annual tax collection is about $16,500.

This was the average of seventy-one towns which were studied by the Agriculture College, and each of these towns had a net worth of about sixty five miles of dirt highways in addition to the hard-surfaced roads supplied by the state and county.

Five cents of the town tax dweller dollars in these towns are spent for poor relief, to which the county also contributes. Three cents of each dollar pays for the assessment and collection of taxes. Two cents more go for the administration of town affairs and two cents more for elections. Public health expenses tax seven and a half cents out of each tax dollar, and various other normal town expenses run up a total of twenty-four cents on the dollar of taxes. The remaining seventy-six cents out of each dollar collected goes for the upkeep of dirt roads. This is spent for local labor, for operating road machinery, grading and filling mud holes and the other necessary work to keep the dirt roads passable.

There can be no question of the value of good roads to the farmer as well as to the inhabitant of village. But we sometimes wonder whether all of the cost of trying to keep ordinary roads in such condition that automobiles can travel over them safely at high speed is a fair charge upon the taxpayers.

SEASONS LISTED ON UPLAND BIRDS

As a result of the action by the Wisconsin Conservation Commission at its August meeting, Wisconsin hunters this fall will be able to hunt more species of upland game in more counties than they have been able to for many years.

The Wisconsin Conservation Commission, in establishing upland game bird seasons for 1932, has considered each individual species in each county, and the seasons are based not only on the 1932 crop, but on the estimated crops for 1933 and 1934 in various counties.

The action of the commission is also taken with the full realization that the farmer is the local custodian of all game. Continued upland game bird shooting depends primarily on his efforts in providing food, cover, and enforcement. The commission urges all sportsmen to co-operate with farmers in every way that can make it worth the farmer's while to continue his interest in providing these essentials for game bird management. Most farmers who have at this time a surplus of game birds on their land, are willing that the surplus be hunted. And sportsmen are urged to play square with the farmer to continue his interest.

The open season for pheasant cocks which may be hunted, the counties in which they may be hunted, the time, and bag limits are the counties of: Green, Jefferson, Kenosha, Racine, Rock, Walworth, Washington, Waukesha and the towns of Albion, Christiansburg, Deerfield and Medina, in Dane county. Open season from October 1, at noon to sunset, October 3, 1932; shooting hours, with the exception of first day, to begin at 8 a. m. and to close at sunset. Daily bag limit, two birds. Possession limit, four birds.

SENATOR JOHN BLAINE TO SPEAK HERE FRIDAY, SEPT. 2

The first rally of the Progressive party will be held in this village on Friday afternoon, September 2nd, when Senator John Blaine will speak at two o'clock. No place has as yet been designated, but in all possibilities he will address the audience from the porch of the Republican House, corner of Fond du Lac Ave. and Main Street. The Senator will discuss the platform of the progressive platform and speak upon his own candidacy for the renomination as United States Senator on the Republican ticket at the coming primary election to be held September 20th. The citizens of the entire community are invited to hear the Senator.

The Salem Reformed Church band of Wayne under the direction of Rev. A. A. Graf, last Sunday participated in the program of the laying of the corner stone for the new Reformed church edifice at Campbellsport which is now under construction. The invocation was given by Rev. C. Hauser of Elmore and the address of the day delivered by Rev. H. C. Nott, President of the Milwaukee diocese. The program at the services was: Selection By the Band

4-H NEWS

A meeting of the Industrious Mitchell 4-H Club of Campbellsport, under the leadership of Miss Mary J. O'Brien, was held August 10. It was decided at the meeting to have an exhibit at the Fair. Reports were given by the various committees, after which outdoor games were enjoyed and refreshments served. The next club meeting will be held September 14.

FOND DU LAC COUNTY VALUES CUT APPROXIMATELY $5,000,000

Assessment valuations of Fond du Lac county for 1932 will be approximately $5,000,000 less than the valuations of 1931. Of this amount the assessment for the town of Auburn was reduced $238,801, the 1932 valuation being $1,832,190 compared to $2,071,000 for 1931. Town of Ashford's reduction is $109,655, the valuation being $2,048,540 as against $2,158,195 for 1931. The Town of Eden valuation for 1932 is $2,100,640 compared to $2,348,895 for 1931, a reduction of $248,255. Campbellsport this year will be benefited to the amount of $52,100. The 1931 valuation being $850,050 and for 1932 $797,950.

THREE AUTOS IN COLLISION

Early Tuesday morning at about 1 o'clock in the swamp two miles south of the village near the culvert on the south end, three automobiles figured in a collision which might have been more serious. The fog at the time of the collision was very heavy which perhaps was the direct cause of the accident, as it made traveling through the swamp very dangerous.

A truck belonging to the Cudahy Grain and Flour Co. of Cudahy, Wis., was parked practically completely on the highway facing north, while the driver was changing a tire, when a Nash sedan driven by John Rodzwell of Milwaukee happened along, going north, and on account of the dense fog was unable to see the parked car ahead of him until it was too late, and crashed into same. With Rodzwell were Dan Klappa, Al. Vicker and Frank Vicker, all of Milwaukee. They were enroute to Eau Claire, Wis., to attend the funeral of a relative. Klappa was the only one injured and received a deep gash on his forehead, which required four stitches.

While an argument was in progress in front of the parked truck between the drivers, Dr. E. F. Nolting of this village was returning home, and also on account of the dense fog was unable to see either the truck or sedan until it was too late and crashed into the Rodzwell sedan. The doctor suffered several bruises and a bad cut on his knee.

An automobile from the north soon after the accident arrived, stopped and took Dr. Nolting and Mr. Klappa to Kewaskum for medical attention, and to notify Deputy Sheriff Geo. F. Brandt, who in company with Harry Schaefer of the Schaefer Bros. Garage and Gessert Bros. went to the scene to clear away the wreckage. The sedan of Mr. Rodzwell was damaged beyond repairs, while the Buick Coupe of Dr. Nolting was damaged to such an extent that the cost of repairs will be considerable. The Rodzwell car was towed to Schaefer Bros. Garage and that of Dr. Nolting to Gessert Bros. The truck was damaged only slightly and was able to proceed with its own power after a few minor adjustments. After all the wreckage was cleared away Harry Schaefer took the four Milwaukee men to their homes with his auto.

DIRECTOR SCHUELKE CHANGES MIND

The Kewaskum baseball management on Wednesday received the following letter from Director Walter G. Schuelke of the Badger State League, under date of August 23rd.

"Dear Manager:—In conference with Mr. Wickert and Capt. Bartzan, a representative of Sheboygan Falls here Sunday, Mr. Wickert changed his story of the case at Sheboygan vs. Kewaskum. He informed me that he did not order the teams to play ball and that only one man scored on the play in question. I do not know the reason for this action and he did not offer any Sunday. He also dropped his position as umpire in the league to resume managerial duties in Milwaukee.

"In this event it was the duty of Mr. Wickert to order the teams to play ball as he informed me he did last Monday, as that is what I based my decision on. However, the case is changed and I must change my decision as the ball game was won by Sheboygan Falls 6 to 5.

"Kewaskum protest that the umpire can change the decision of the base umpire is correct. Mr. Wickert did not preform his sole duty of ordering the teams to play.—Very truly yours (signed) W. G. Schuelke, Athletic Director."

The Kewaskum ball club will not stop with this decision and will ask for a re-hearing, in as much as the following article appeared in the West Bend News of last Wednesday, namely: "The Sheboygan Falls-Kewaskum game at Sheboygan Falls on Aug. 14, first awarded to Kewaskum because of a forfeit has been awarded to Sheboygan Falls by Director G. Schuelke when the truth of the game was heard from Umpire Wickert. Sheboygan Falls was leading 6 to 5 at the time the dispute in the game arose, hence the change in the award." The Kewaskum ball club claim they are not story tellers or in the habit of making false statements and are prepared to prove their claim if Director Schuelke will grant them a fair and impartial hearing, which they are entitled to. The director we believe acted too hastily. Why did he fail to invite the Kewaskum management at the conference at West Bend last Sunday?

A TWO HEADED CALF

Dr. J. H. Klug of Random Lake reports the birth of a two headed calf on the Jos. Gattner farm in the town of Belgium. The animal was fully developed and normal in all other respects. It lived only five minutes. The head has been mounted and is on display at Random Lake.

West Bend at Mayville

Revenge is sweet. Beaten three times, the locals came back strong last Sunday and defeated Menomonee Falls on the local diamond in the final game of the season between these two teams by a decisive score of 8 to 2. By defeating the Falls aggregation the locals have administered defeats to every team in the league. They are holding a safe lead for third place and are only one and one-half games behind the leaders, West Bend and North Fond du Lac. The next two games, the one with North Fond du Lac on Sunday at North Fond du Lac, and on September 4th with West Bend at the latter place will tell the story as to whether or not Kewaskum will have a chance for the pennant. The boys are going out to win both of these games and the unforeseen might happen, that Kewaskum will be on the top of the list.

Sunday's game was one that was enjoyed by all fans, and one that was handled well by the umpires, who enforced the rule that there should be strict discipline. Umpire Uchisdes, made his first appearance on the local diamond and received many compliments. In the last half of the first inning, Amend, who was playing field for Menomonee Falls, was chased to the bench for disputing a decision, and was obliged to say "Amen" to his teammates for the remainder of the game.

Kohn was easily the fielding star of the day. He made four brilliant catches in right field. Wisniewski out-pitched his opponent throughout the entire game. He struck out thirteen and allowed only four hits, while Brown was touched for thirteen hits and struck out seven. Dallich carried off the batting honors with three hits out of five times to bat, while Schuster for the visitors secured 2 wallops out of three, one of which was good for an extra base.

The play by play of the scoring innings is as follows:
First, Menomonee Falls—Lemke the first man to bat drew a pass, was sacrificed to second on a perfect bunt to Wisniewski, taking third when Wentorf could not get back to third base in time. J. Adlam struck out, Lemke scored on a wild pitch. Willie singled. Rott grounded out Wisniewski to Dallich.—One hit, one run.

First, Kewaskum—Marr singled, Dallich got first on fielders choice as Marr was trapped between second and third. On the play Dallich took second. Amend disputed a decision and was ordered to the bench. Barron singled scoring Dallich. Wisniewski struck out.—Two hits, one run.

Fourth, Menomonee Falls—Wilke lined out to Dallich. Rott struck out. Schuster got a double to left field. Haas struck out, but Kral dropped third strike and threw wild to first, Schuster scoring on the play. Brown out, Nell to Dallich.—One hit, one run, one error for Kewaskum.

Sixth, Kewaskum—Dallich singled, Kral flied out to Wilke. Dahl copped Barron long hit to deep home run. Wisniewski singled, Dallich going to third, Nell safe at first when Wilke let a throw get pass him, Dallich tying the score, 2 and 2, Wisniewski taking third and Nell advanced to second. Wisniewski scored on a wild pitch, Nell going to third. Kohn singled scoring Nell. Wentorf grounded to J. Adlam forcing Kohn at second, Adlam to Lemke.—Three hits, three runs, one error for Menomonee Falls.

Seventh, Kewaskum—Trotter batted for Heberer, singled. Marr sacrificed Trotter taking second. Marr out Brown to Wilke. Dallich singled, Trotter scoring, Dallich stole second. Kral struck out, Barron singled scoring Dallich, on play Barron went to second. Wisniewski singled, Barron scored. Wisniewski going to second on play. Nell singled scoring Wisniewski, Nell stole second and third. Kohn looked at third strike.—Five hits and four runs.

Time Out—The Parade's Comin'—

GREAT MAN'S WIFE

By FANNIE HURST

THE story of the Simeses was in many respects the usual one of a man having gone on in worldliness and social achievement quite beyond the wife, who had stood still after marriage, as the saying goes.

At forty-one that same nearsighted, not highly personable young man had developed into one of the most successful literary men of his time.

While still a comparatively young man, Simes had become a sort of shrine. The achievement of this, scouted in the small world of sophisticates as the antics of a literary charlatan, was nonetheless one to impress a vast public.

There were, of course, people who said his somewhat plain wife was the power behind the throne, but then that is said practically of every public man with a plain wife.

How did Simes, superficially educated, superficially informed, superficially the thinker, the student, the man of letters, hold with a strange grip the interest, fascination and admiration of his public?

It was not this rather oblique lure which surprised Mary, she must have capitulated to it herself, in the days when he was a humble clerk. It was the stability of his success which never ceased to amaze and secretly to appall her.

There was one man knew it to be true. Johann Brody. Ten years after her marriage to Simes, Mary and Brody had met, drifting together almost immediately on an innate sympathy which had ripened their friend.

ship into something too profound and potentially dangerous to be discussed between them. Johann Brody, Simes' lawyer, was a love with Mary; with her plainness, her unattractive exterior, her drab look of blending against background, she had flashed bright as a flame into his life.

Two middle-aged, hungry spirits, fluttering as near together as they dared. Brody knew to what extent Mary had manufactured the success of Simes. It was the only intimate subject they ever permitted themselves to discuss together, and then only under pretense of legal affairs.

It was only when a crisis came however, that he permitted himself what approximated full statement of the boiling sentiments that had been pressing against his restraint for years.

The surprise lay in the fact that it had not come before. Years of hardening herself to the public display of Simes' philandering had not quite prepared Mary for the clap of thunder which came with his calm avowal to her one evening that the end of their relationship had come.

Simes was going to divorce her! The door to happiness and freedom, so long adamantly closed against her, was about to swing open.

Little wonder that as Mary faced Brody that evening following the avowal of Simes of his love for another woman and his intention to divorce her, the bonds of their mutual restraint broke simultaneously.

"I'm free now, Brody," she said simply. "It's been so long waiting." He took her in his arms, kissing the smooth, graying, patient-looking hair where it flowed black from her forehead.

"It's been a long wait, Mary. How strange it will be at our age, to really begin to live for the first time."

"My dearest dear," "You—my dearest dear."

"He doesn't know it, Mary. Fool. But the day he gives you up is the end of Simes."

"You mean . . ."

"Why darling—without you, he falls to pieces like a one-hoss shay—every bolt in his make-up has been you, Good-by Simes!"

Poor Brody, hammering the nails into the coffin of his own happiness. Strange, but with his words, the realization flooded Mary that all her life she would stand by to hold together the one-hoss shay.

People called her prideless—fool, idiot, parasite, for refusing to grant Simes his divorce.

Grimly, watching the years stalk by, and with them her chances for personal happiness, Mary also calls herself all those things.

But, grimly too, she realizes that in the public humiliation of her refusal to grant Simes his divorce, lies the secret of his alleged greatness.

Swiss Wise in Passing

Laws to Protect Fish. If there are still trout in the lakes and mountain streams of Switzerland, which have been fished for 600 years, we can preserve trout in the streams of this continent. The way to do it is to do it; and one of the means probably lies in not allowing anybody to cast line or gig into any stream for long periods of time.

Land of 61,963 Lakes. The Finnish Geographical society has reckoned the number of lakes in Finland at 61,963, suggesting that the government tourist agency is too modest in describing the country as "the land of a thousand lakes."

Land Where Rain Comes as Infrequent Visitor. Up beyond Mount Margaret, in western Australia, is the world's worst desert. On an average it rains once in seven years, but at the time of writing there has been no rain for eight years.

Tribute Where Due. The honor of having suggested the tribute of the "two minutes' silence" has been given to several people. Actually it belongs to a South African statesman—the late Sir Percy Fitzpatrick. The king acknowledged Sir Percy's suggestion in a letter sent to the statesman on one occasion, which read: "The king . . . ever gratefully remembers that the idea of the two minutes' pause on Armistice day was due to your initiation—a suggestion which was readily adopted and carried out with heartfelt sympathy throughout the empire."—London Times.

The Kitchen Cabinet

SOME GOOD THINGS EVERYBODY should like cheese and the old idea that it is hard to digest has been refuted long ago. A food of such concentration with very little or no waste should be constantly on the daily menu.

Hot Cheese Balls. Mix one cupful of grated cheese, one-half cupful of fine bread crumbs, one-quarter teaspoonful of worcestershire sauce and one beaten egg. Make into small balls, dip into egg and crumbs and fry in deep fat. Drain and serve very hot with salad.

Grape Juice Sherbet. Take one quart of grape juice, four tablespoonfuls of lemon juice, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of sugar, and one cupful of cream. Boil together one-half the grape juice and the sugar for two minutes. Cool, add the remaining juice, the lemon juice and salt. Freeze slowly until partly frozen, then add the cream. Stir well and finish freezing. Pack for several hours before serving.

Grape Juice Pudding. Take one-fourth of a cupful of quick cooking tapioca, one-half cupful of sugar, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one egg white, one cupful of grape juice, one tablespoonful of lemon juice and one and one-half cupfuls of water.

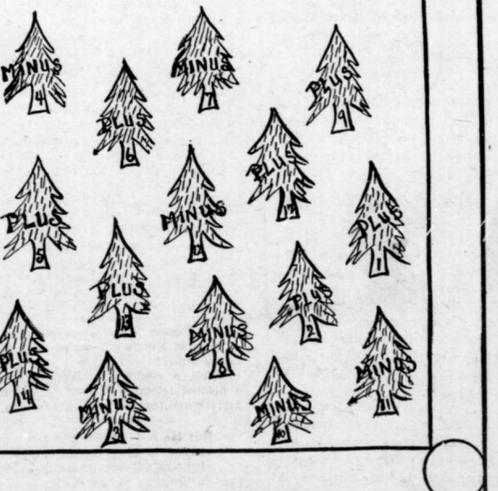

How It Started By JEAN NEWTON

"Rank and File" JUST as the military has not hesitated to borrow from everyday usage words and expressions which were particularly apt for their needs, so, business and politics have reciprocated by taking from the military words or groups of which, because of their aptness, suited their purposes.

Such a phrase is "rank and file," applied to members of no official standing in any organization. Ask any army drill master and he will tell you that in military phraseology, "rank and file" comprise soldiers of any grade below that of sergeant.

There is, of course, a right "file" and left "file"; man may march in single "file" or double "file." A single line of soldiers drawn up side by side is a "rank." So we have "front rank" and "rear rank."

Fun for All the Children Edited by DOROTHY EDMONDS

Four players are the most that can play this game. Implements of play are flat buttons or celluloid disks that can be snapped as in the popular game of Tiddly Winks. Each player starts from a corner circle. Each plays in turn. The object of the game is to obtain the highest plus score. Each must shoot first for the tree in the center of the board, marked minus twelve. Each starts with this handicap. Until each has successfully landed on this tree he cannot progress further.

When shooting for the other trees in order of their sequence if the implement of play lands well inside the surface of the tree he is shooting for, he may count the score written thereon. If it lands more than half way off the surface, the score does not count and he starts again his next turn from his last vantage point. It is the aim to avoid landing of course on the trees bearing a minus score, but if in shooting a player does land, even so that he is touching the edge of a minus tree, he must count the number indicated on his minus score. Each tree is played only once by each player, except the minus ones, and these count against the score as many times as they are touched.

And thou, son of man, take thee a sharp knife, take thee a barber's razor, and cause it to pass upon thine head and upon thy beard; then take the balances to weigh and divide the hair.

Thou shalt burn with fire a third part in the midst of the city, when the days of the siege are fulfilled; and thou shalt take a third part, and smite about it with a knife; and a third part thou shalt scatter to the winds; and I will draw out a sword after them.

Critics are saying members of the commission didn't know their Bible or they would have caught the point before approving the model. Defenders of the beard point out that while Ezekiel was undoubtedly ordered to shave, there is nothing in the Bible to show that he carried out this order. To which argument the "clean facers" reply that the Lord continued Ezekiel as his prophet for many years, and that if Ezekiel had disobeyed he would not have so continued.

Tea stains may be removed from china cups by washing them with vinegar and salt. Vinegar is also good for cleaning glass water bottles.

When pouring hot jelly, fruit or pickles into glass jars, stand the jar on a damp cloth and they will hardly ever crack.

If you should break a glass, globe or tumbler, you will find there are tiny bits you can't collect. Lay a small piece of woolen cloth over the fragments and gently pat it down until every bit of glass has stuck to cloth, then burn the cloth for safety.

Asked for Bonus and Got a Barge

The old barge which the War department gave to Henry Harris, jobless war veteran, after he wrote requesting a barge to shelter his wife and four children, is shown at the Bayonne (N. J.) beach, where Harris has remodeled it into a rookery houseboat and also manages to make a few dollars selling candy and hot dogs to the bathers. Harris' first request to the government for bonus cash was unanswered so he decided to ask for the barge.

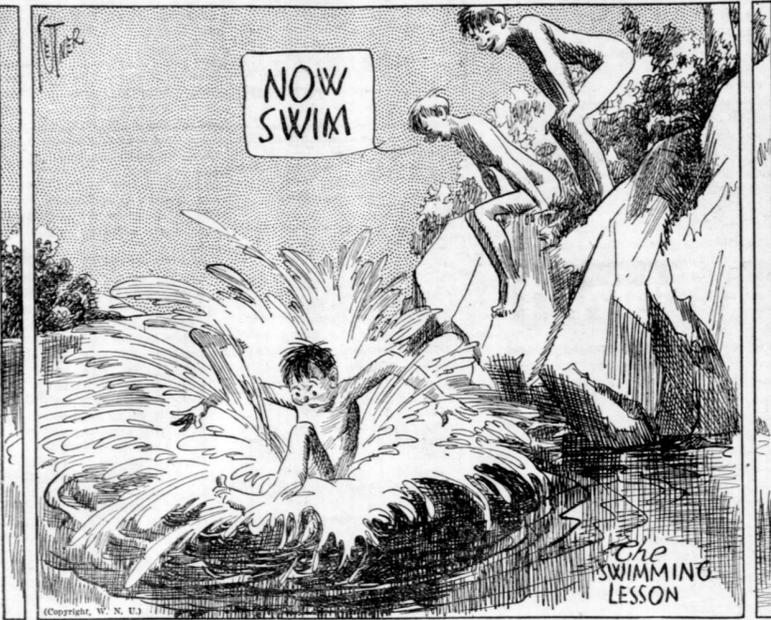

DISPUTE OVER BEARD OF PROPHET

Lincoln, Neb.—The whiskers of the prophet Ezekiel, who lived some 2,500 years ago, are holding up the finishing touches on the sculpture on Nebraska's new $10,000,000 state capitol. Ezekiel had whiskers at one time and the Lord ordered him to cut them off, giving minute instructions as to what disposition to make of the shearing. But the record does not register that Ezekiel followed the instructions of the Lord and now sculptural work on the tower of the capitol has been held up until the question of Ezekiel's beard is settled.

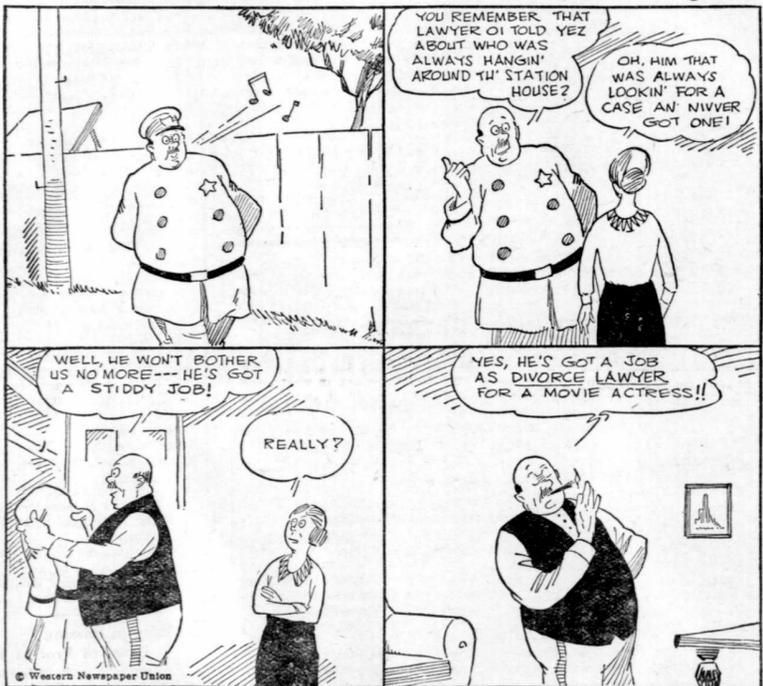

Eight figures are being cut on the outside of the base of the tower. Seven are completed. The eighth represents Ezekiel. And the figure has a long beard. That's where the trouble arises. A controversy has arisen similar to that which arose when the bronze statue of Abraham Lincoln was designed by Daniel Chester French for

NOTICE TO MOP SALESMAN

They were visiting friends one evening. Presently their three-year-old son became restless. The hostess, noticing this, gave him a soft rubber ball to play with. During the course of his play the ball rolled under theavenport, and the little fellow crawled in after it. Presently the hostess asked him if he saw the ball.

He replied, "No."

"Then why don't you come out?"

"I'm drawing pictures on the floor."

Sh-b-h!

A mother had just been telling her son some of the "facts of life" and when she finished she said, "Now, son, are there any questions you would like to ask? Anything at all, don't be afraid."

After a little heavy thinking, he replied, "Well, yes, there is something I've been wanting to know for a long time." Her heart failed her as she asked him what it was.

"Mother, just how do they make bricks?" —Parents' Magazine.

CUTTING REMARKS

Spool—"Did Mr. Scissors make any remarks?" Darning Cotton—"Yes, and very cutting ones."

His Purpose

One Sunday we took my little cousin, Armin, age four, to a restaurant to dinner. After the waitress brought the order, his mother asked him why he did not eat. Armin replied in a meek voice, "Mother, isn't this a restaurant?"

His mother answered, "Why, yes, of course."

"Well, then," said Armin, "I came here to rest." —Chicago Tribune.

The Under Dog

Fritz (running after doctor)—Doctor, you must come back to our house. The front door has fallen down.

Doctor—That has nothing to do with me. You must go to the carpenter.

Fritz—But daddy is underneath the door. —Lustige Koelner Zeitung, Cologne.

LACKS FINISH

Man at Right—I'm a self-made man. Man at Left—Don't brag, the job ain't completed yet.

Some Inducement

Visitor—And why do you want to be President when you grow up?

Tommy—So I won't hafta dig my bait when I go fishing.

Where He Spoiled It

"Rogers has an intelligent face. If he didn't say a word you'd know he was clever."

"Yes; but the trouble is he does."

Trying to Shift Attention

"Do you still trust the wisdom of the plain people?"

"Absolutely," answered Senator Sorghum. "But I haven't yet succeeded in getting the immense amount of mentality devoted to contract bridge to concentrate on my speeches."

"How is Morris getting on with his young wife?"

"Well, a month after the wedding a belated telegram of congratulations arrived and they refused to take it in."

But He Knows the Numbers

"I should think I have a good memory. I know all the telephone numbers in the town by heart."

"Impossible."

"Yes, they start at one and go to 9857, but I haven't the faintest idea to whom they belong."

All There Was to It

"I think this scenery is just heavenly."

"Um, I don't know. Take away the mountains and the lake and it's just like anywhere else."

In Doubt

"Mrs. Bliggins says his youngest is the image of his father," remarked Miss Cayenne.

"What did you say?"

"Nothing. I didn't know whether to congratulate Mr. Bliggins or sympathize with the baby."

Had "Graduated"

George—Last night I met a girl who had never been kissed.

Bill—Impossible! I should like to meet her.

George—But she doesn't exist—now.

FAIR SEX LACKING SENSE OF HUMOR?

Charge Often Made, and as Often Hotly Denied.

A friend recently went on the quest of a new hat. Because of the size of her head, it was a difficult task, since the manufacture of hats for big heads seems to be negligible. At last she tried on a blue hat on the side of which was a white and a red rose. Seeing her reflection in the mirror she remarked to the clerk that the hat seemed a bit patriotic and perhaps she would have to carry a flag when she wore it. To which the maiden solemnly replied that she did not think she need do that!

An old lady of my acquaintance used to listen closely when jokes were told, and when the laughter had subsided would innocently ask, "What did he mean? Another friend confessed that it was often the day after that the point of a joke penetrated her consciousness. A young man, supposedly the wit of the party, was one evening asked in all seriousness to say something funny, which of course threw the laugh upon the unconscious shoulders of the speaker.

People who have the habit of boasting are unconsciously humorous to those who know that there is no excuse for their attitude. They are like young George Minafer in his reliance upon the magnificence of the Amberson family. His colossal egotism is refreshingly funny; but poor George got his "come-uppance" at last. Children often wonder why we laugh at their misuse of words too long for their little tongues and too intricate for their comprehension. They are only tiny counterparts of the once famous Mrs. Partington whose reputation rested upon her odd use of words. Her natural stupidity was emphasized by her trying to keep out the Atlantic ocean from her kitchen with a mop, on the occasion of a flood, according to Sid Smith. I think it was that gentleman who also said that it would require a surgical operation to get a joke into a Scotch understanding.

A contest was recently started by one of the magazines to determine whether women have a sense of humor. If you are a woman, you quickly rise against an implication that you are lacking in that most important asset of living, without which your mental tires would often go flat, with no relief in sight. Humor is a three-in-one lubricant; it removes the debris of the day's work, oils where friction occurs, and polishes the general outlook. It is like sunshine, driving away the darkness of failure, and giving a rosy hue to the atmosphere.

Irvin Cobb, in his "Trail of the Lonesome Laugh," says that he once knew a woman who could see a joke the first time she came across it, and who could carry the point in her mind, and keep it in its proper relation and proportion to the rest of the joke. But she lived a long time ago, and was put to death—a witch. They did not know what was the matter with her so they burned her at the stake. We do not mind Mr. Cobb's laughing at us since it is his business to make us laugh at him. As Jane Austen makes Mr. Bennett say, we live but to make sport for our neighbors, and to laugh at them in our turn.

Haste thee, Nymph, and bring with thee Jest and youthful Jollity, Quips and cranks and wanton wiles, Nods and becks and wreathed smiles Such as hang on Hebe's cheek, And love to live in dimple sleek; Sport that wrinkled Care derides, And Laughter, holding both his sides.

—Indianapolis News.

Unfortunate Chicks

At Altoona, Pa., two bantam chicks starved to death because they were unable to eat as a pigeon does—from the mouth of the mother. The bantam eggs were hatched by a pigeon along with a number of pigeon eggs. The mother pigeon accorded her mixed brood the same treatment, feeding all with her bill. The pigeons thrived, but the chicks, unable to take food from the bird's mouth, died.

The Modern Apple

Is the apple keeping step with the whimsies of Dame Fashion or has a North side grocer found a new alibi?

A housewife, seeking the good, old-fashioned Maiden Blush apple, questioned the pale, greenish hue of the skin, and looked vainly for a wee little blush—but nothing daunted, the grocer smilingly replied: "You know, madam, the modern maiden does not blush."

Rarest of Women

"So you enjoy showing your wife how to run the car?"

"Yes. It's the first time she ever admitted that I could teach her anything." —Exchange.

Mercolized Wax Keeps Skin Young

Get an ointment and use as directed. Fine particles of aged skin peel off with all defects such as pimples, liver spots, tan and freckles disappear. Skin is then soft and velvety. Your face looks years younger. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty of your skin. To remove wrinkles use one ounce Powder of Beards dissolved in one-half pint witch hazel. At drug stores.

Fact That Hurts

Insects, says an eminent entomologist, compete with man for the food supply of the world. But even that wouldn't bother us so much, if they didn't go and regard us as part of the food supply. —Boston Herald.

The Right Soap for Baby's Tender Skin

The Question Answered

Miss Gilder—Did you enjoy Naples?

Mrs. Newell—Naples? Naples? Oh, that's where Edward and I had our first quarrel.

Man Lost 26 Pounds Looks 100% Better

Feels Stronger Than Ever

Just to prove to any doubtful man or woman that Kruschen Salts is the SAFE way to reduce—let us take the letter of Mr. F. J. Fritz of Cincinnati, Ohio, recently received.

He writes: "I've tried extreme dieting, setting up exercises with very little results—but the results from Kruschen are almost incredible. In 3 months I reduced from 265 to 179 pounds and feel stronger than ever—no more wheezing or gasping for breath—friends say I look 100% better."

Bear in mind, you fat man, that these is danger in too much fat—try the safe way to reduce—one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning—cut down on fatty meats and sweets—one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle—get it at any drugstore in the world.

If a million mothers had something to tell you
WOULD YOU LISTEN ?

A MOTHER who has watched over her baby . . . day after day . . . thrilling to his every little gain . . . anxious about his smallest distress . . . Who can talk to you more understandingly than she? If a million such mothers could sit down with you now and tell you of their experience with a remarkable baby food—would you be interested?

Today, there are more than a million mothers who could tell you gladly, convincingly, of the wonderful things that Eagle Brand has done.

Year after year—by hundreds, by thousands—they write to The Borden Company, to tell their dramatic human stories. They tell of babies who grew and gained and flourished on Eagle Brand, with never a set-back. They tell of babies who have won blue ribbons and silver cups. They tell of babies—once failing, starving, because they could not digest other foods—brought back to full health by Eagle Brand.

And often, they tell of handsome, healthy grown-up sons and daughters raised on Eagle Brand, and now giving this food to their babies.

FREE—helpful baby book for you. If you cannot nurse your baby, try Eagle Brand. See feeding directions on label. Send for "Baby's Welfare," containing feeding instructions, general information on baby care. We will gladly send you physician a report of the recent scientific feeding test of Eagle Brand.

Of course you wouldn't! Yet you are taking a grave chance by sending your child to school with the strain of defective eyesight. A slow child may only have defective vision and defective vision is too great a handicap and makes a dull child. Children who see better, learn more. Be fair to your child, have their eyes examined now before school.

All Around WISCONSIN

Oshkosh—A milk inspector to enforce state health laws in the Oshkosh area is asked in a petition received by the city council from local dairy owners.

Madison—Arthur R. Hirst, for 17 years state highway engineer and a candidate for governor in 1924, died in a local hospital after an illness of five months. He was 51 years of age.

Waukesha—A bathing suit was the only personal property remaining to A. V. Weiser after his cottage on Lake Koshong burned to the ground. He was swimming in the lake when the fire broke out.

Madison—The attorney general's office has ruled that a town board may keep the polls open at the primary election longer than usual, but may not reduce the period of time during which the polls are open.

Neenah—All city employes, from the mayor down, have agreed to a voluntary 10 per cent wage reduction, effective immediately. The money saved will be turned into the city pool fund for relief during the winter.

Green Bay—A voluntary reduction of the wage scale of union bricklayers and plasterers has been ordered here, according to announcement of the local union headquarters. The scale was reduced from $1.25 to $1 per hour.

Portage—The auto accident which resulted in the death of Mrs. Elizabeth L. Cushing, philanthropist and local justice of the peace, has been made the basis of a $20,000 damage suit against Lauretta Quam, driver of the car.

Milwaukee—Judge A. J. Sutherland of Eau Claire was elected grand chancellor of the Wisconsin grand lodge, Knights of Pythias, at the close of the organization's convention here. Jane McClure of Racine was named grand chief of the Pythian Sisters.

Kenosha—One woman was killed and 50 other passengers injured when three coaches of the Skokie Valley Limited of the Chicago & North Shore railway were wrecked five miles south of here. The train was headed for Milwaukee. The dead woman is Mrs. E. W. Masden of Chicago.

Milwaukee—A petition bearing signatures of 30,000 persons demanding a $3,000,000 reduction in the 1923 city budget has been filed with the city clerk. Under the initiative and referendum law, the question must be submitted to a vote at the November election if the city council does not adopt the petition.

Beloit—Seven handbills held up the Second National Bank of Beloit Aug. 18 and escaped with $70,000 in cash after roughly handling customers and employes. Three girl employes were forced to carry the loot into the gang's car and ride three blocks on the running boards as the robbers made their getaway. Police tried to capture the robbers but the first officer to arrive was pounced on and held prisoner and the rest were held off with machine guns.

Madison—Wisconsin duck hunters will have an open season from October 1 to November 30 this year, twice as long as the 1921 season, which expired before the northern flight arrived, the conservation department has announced. The season will be open for wild ducks, geese, brant, coot, snipe, rails and gallinules every day except Wednesday, during the two-month period. Despite poor shooting in 1921, 321,090 ducks and 755 geese were killed by Wisconsin hunters.

Portage—All three of the men arrested in connection with the fatal shooting of Ole Hansen, proprietor of a resort near Wisconsin Dells, are now serving sentences of 14 to 25 years in Waupun prison. The trial of James Grippando of Chicago was transferred to Adams county, where a jury found him guilty after twenty hours of deliberation. John Paul White, 19, and George Harper both confessed to participation in the attempted robbery of the resort, but denied any part in the actual killing.

Madison—A loan of $3,000,000 to the state of Wisconsin for unemployment relief has been authorized by the Reconstruction Finance corporation at Washington, D. C. Two delegations from Wisconsin went to the national capital seeking a total loan of $4,414,856.28 to carry the state through the present calendar year. An itemized statement of the needs of the various counties in the state was furnished, but a study of these figures convinced the corporation that a loan of $3,000,000 would be sufficient.

Racine—Many truck farmers in the southern part of the state will lose their northern Illinois and Chicago markets as a result of an embargo ordered by Gov. L. L. Emmerson on Wisconsin vegetables and flowers because corn borers has been found in the town of Mount Pleasant, Racine county.

Madison—A total of 6,028 men have worked an average of 10 3/4 days each in 24 counties during the first four and a half months of the state conservation department's unemployment relief program.

Lancaster—Grant county's seventy-seventh annual fair displayed one of the largest exhibits it ever has had, the feature being the horse show. Horse breeding has revived in this county in a big way and 80 entries passed through the show ring.

Madison—Eleven purebred Jersey cows owned by Finn Brothers of Bridgeport, yielded an average of 43.07 pounds of butterfat, 7.135 pounds of milk, testing 6.07 per cent fat, during an official 305-day test just completed.

Milwaukee—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, democratic candidate for president, will speak in the Milwaukee Auditorium on Sept. 30.

Prairie du Chien—Le Roy Judd, 27, a lineman, was killed near here when a defective telephone pole broke, carrying him to the ground.

Berlin—The price paid for 4 per cent milk, per hundredweight, was raised to 10c on Aug. 17 by a local condensery, boosting it from 95c to $1.05.

Madison—Fire destroyed the central hangar and eight planes at Royal airport, Madison station of Northwest Airways, Inc., with loss estimated at $90,000.

La Crosse—Charles A. Leicht, 71, New Lisbon newspaper publisher and former sergeant in arms in the state senate, died here following a major operation.

Fond du Lac—Highway employes of this county have been instructed to remove all advertisements, political or otherwise, posted on public property along the roads.

Prairie du Chien—The Rev. John B. Theis, S. J., former president of Campion college here, died at a La Crosse hospital just two days after his seventy-fifth birthday.

Oconomowoc—Edward Koepfen, 16, one of the swimming contestants in the events of the centennial homecoming here, died just as he had finished one of the races. A heart attack is blamed.

Madison—Two co-operative houses for University of Wisconsin men, offering room and board for approximately $30 per month will be opened on the campus at the start of the 1922-23 term.

Madison—Reorganization of Wisconsin's court system will be attempted by the state bar association at the next session of the legislature, with several bills to be offered to carry the plan into effect.

Waukesha—Mrs. Theodora W. Youmans, 62, for many years prominent as a clubwoman and political leader in Wisconsin, died suddenly at her home here. She was a member of the state normal school board of regents from 1905 to 1915.

Madison—Arguments on the application of the Wisconsin Telephone company for an injunction to restrain the public service commission from carrying out an order for a 12 1/2 per cent reduction in rates have been postponed to Sept. 21.

La Crosse—George R. Howitt, Peewee, was elected commander of the Wisconsin department of the American Legion at the annual convention here. Janesville was chosen as the convention city for 1923. The use of federal troops to expel the so-called bonus expeditionary forces from Washington was condemned in a resolution.

Burlington—Three would-be robbers seeking to loot slot machines at the Lakeside hotel resort on Brown's lake were quickly routed when they encountered a deputy sheriff guarding the grounds with a sawed-off shotgun. The deputy peppered the robbers' car with slugs before they got away. The same resort was held up five weeks before.

Madison—Early in September the dispensation for Wisconsin's new Shrine temple, Zor temple, A. A. O. N. M. S., of Madison, will be presented to the Shrine here by Imperial Recorder James H. Price, lieutenant governor of Virginia. Zor temple will serve Shrines in northern, southern and western Wisconsin. A. C. Larson of Madison has been chosen as head of the new temple.

Wausau—A $10,000 suit charging false arrest is on file here against Sheriff Simon Schaumburger and Undersheriff Hugo Richter, Wausau, and W. E. Finnegan, Green Bay, deputy state fire marshal. Max Geldon, a farmer, the complainant, charges that he was held in jail 40 hours without charge before being arraigned in court and found not guilty of setting fire to his home to collect insurance.

Oshkosh—Riparian land owners in the Fox River valley renewed their ancient feud with private power interests here when they adopted a resolution asking the government to enforce the 1922 order that the flush boards be removed from the Menasha dam. The order would give the land owners the greatly desired 15-inch level over the crest of the Menasha dam. In 1923 the land owners and power interests agreed on such a 15-inch level, but it was nullified in 1921 when the government said a 21 1/4-inch level should be maintained. The land owners claim that the present level floods many acres of valuable land, destroys breeding grounds for game and in the spring is a hazard to the sewage systems of cities.

Manitowoc—After the common council had refused to pay for work done on unemployment relief projects in cash in place of giving the men orders calling for groceries and other necessities, the workers on two jobs were induced by pickets to go on strike. Police dispersed the agitators and city officials recruited new crews to replace the strikers.

Sheboygan—Edwin Koellmer, 51, Sheboygan county register of deeds for 21 years, died after an operation for appendicitis.

Milwaukee—Every candidate for state office, including assemblymen and senators, will be put on record for or against a proposal to eliminate taxes on small homes and farms valued at less than $5,000, according to an announcement by the taxation committee of the Wisconsin Building and Loan league.

Eau Claire—The first world's championship log rolling contest to be held in Eau Claire since 1914 was scheduled to take place on the Chippewa river Sept. 4.

FARMERS' STRIKES PUT INTO EFFECT

Iowa Roads Being Picketed; Wheat Held in Dakota.

Le Mars, Iowa—More intensive picketing and boycotts were reported as farmers in this section of Iowa attempted to enforce their edict against marketing of farm products during a thirty-day "strike" designed to raise prices.

From Kingsley came reports that 400 farmers had visited all produce dealers of that town and warned them not to open for business under penalty of having all their goods thrown into the street if they disobeyed.

At Sioux City hundreds of farmers and their wives improvised barriers with their automobiles drawn across the highways and effectively bottled part of the city against trucks bearing farm produce. Although dozens of trucks were stopped no violence had been reported.

Des Moines, Iowa—The farmers' boycotting movement in Iowa was discussed here by representatives of this and nearby states. The principal purpose of the gathering was to formulate plans for extending the holiday to all Middle West states, a move which officials consider necessary for the success of the strike.

Bismarck, N. D.—The North Dakota "strike" went into effect with supporters claiming thousands of farmers will begin holding their wheat until the price reaches $1 a bushel.

Although the effect of withholding grain from market was conjectured and viewed in some quarters as somewhat dubious of success, Dell N. Willis, Tolna, N. D., a grower and author of the plan, said the movement had gained headway in the two Dakotas, Montana, Minnesota, Washington, Oregon, Kansas, Idaho, Texas, Oklahoma and Nebraska.

Farmers have been asked to sign and adhere to resolutions setting the minimum price of wheat from the 1922 crop, having as its basis the Winnipeg price plus the 42-cent tariff, with the usual discount for lower grades.

Gov. George F. Shafer of North Dakota and Gov. J. E. Erickson of Montana, Willis said, have endorsed the plan, as have a number of chambers of commerce and commercial clubs.

Many Lives Are Lost in Great Texas Storm

Houston, Texas.—Thirty or more persons were dead, at least 50 were injured and property damage was estimated at many thousands of dollars in the wake of a tropical storm which buffeted south Texas.

The list of dead and injured slowly mounted as crippled communications were repaired and rescue workers moved into the stricken area, which centered roughly about this city with a radius of 75 or 100 miles.

Striking the Texas coast between Galveston and Freeport, 34 miles from Galveston, the storm raged for many hours, the wind attaining a velocity of about 70 miles an hour at Houston. From Galveston and Houston it moved north to Taylor before turning southwest.

Second Son Is Born to the Lindberghs

Englewood, N. J.—A son was born to Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh. Mother and infant were reported "doing well."

The child, the second son to be born to the Lindberghs, came into the world at the Morrow home here five months and sixteen days after the first baby was kidnapped from the Lindbergh home in Hopewell, N. J.

Colonel Lindbergh was reported to have been in high spirits, chucking when he telephoned the news to the press agencies in accordance with an agreement he made in exchange for no watch being kept on the gate.

Dry Allied Forces to Support Resident Hoover

Washington.—In spite of opposition to the Republican prohibition re-submission plan and President Hoover's interpretation of it, the executive committee of the dry allied forces will support Mr. Hoover's candidacy for re-election.

This was announced by Dr. Daniel A. Poling, chairman of the allied forces, which he claims is the largest of the dry organizations, with a membership of 1,500,000.

Nebraska Town Prepares Woodpile for Jobless

Red Cloud, Neb.—Considering last winter's calls for aid from the needy, Red Cloud is making hay while the sun shines. Solicitation of funds, food and clothing has started, and a city woodpile has been opened. A dollar a day is being allowed for work on the woodpile, and pay will be in groceries, instead of cash.

Kidnaped Deputy Freed

Carlsbad, N. M.—Chief Deputy Sheriff Joe Johnson, reported to have been slain after being kidnaped from a tourist camp near here, telephoned Sheriff Walter McDonald he had been released by his captors—two men and a woman—near San Antonio, Texas.

Forming New Irish Army

Dublin, Irish Free State.—A new "white" army is being formed in the Irish Free State with the announced purpose of maintaining law and order.

Locusts Eat Chinese Crops

Shanghai.—Dispatches from Anhwei province, which in the last year has suffered from flood, famine, banditry and cholera, said billions of locusts have appeared and devoured every crop.

Marshal Chang Resigns

Shanghai.—The resignation of Marshal Chang Hsuehliang, Manchurian war lord, has been accepted by the executive committee of the national government.

MRS. LINDBERGH

Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, wife of the famous aviator, became the mother of a baby boy at the Morrow home in Englewood, N. J. The child was born five months and sixteen days after their first baby was kidnapped.

PROFIT OF $1,000,000 FOR BIG GRAIN POOL

Farmers National Told of Its Achievements.

Chicago.—Achievements of the Farmers National Grain corporation—"farmer-owned—farmer controlled—co-operative"—and the footholdness of its opponents were principal subjects of discussion at the annual meeting of stockholders of the organization here.

It was reported to stockholders, incidentally, that net earnings in the fiscal year ended May 31 amounted to more than $1,000,000, after setting aside substantial sums for special operating reserves. Details of the income statement and the exact amount of earnings were not disclosed.

Walter I. Beam, vice president and treasurer, in his report of financial operations, emphasized two developments. These were funding of the corporation's $16,000,000 debt to the federal farm board, making it payable over a period of ten years, and the adoption and development of the policy under which the national organization becomes the single marketing medium of its regional stockholders.

Those who seek to alienate farmers from the co-operative marketing program to which they have devoted themselves for more than a quarter century "undertake a fool's task," C. E. Huff, president of Farmers National, charged.

Preceding the statement was a prediction of ultimate victory for the corporation in its demand for full trading privileges of the Chicago Board of Trade and Clearing corporation. Mr. Huff said the "attitude of defiance against law and authority on the part of the Chicago Board of Trade probably marks the final stand of private traders against the growing strength and importance of farmer-owned co-operatives."

Escaped Convicts Hunted by Oklahoma Officers

Granite, Okla.—Terrorizing citizens as they scattered to elude pursuing guards, most of the 23 convicts who escaped from the state's reformatory here in the absence of their woman warden are still at large.

A stabbing, several kidnappings and an attempted attack upon a seventeen year old girl were attributed to the prisoners who duped a sergeant and fled from the reformatory. Four men, all sentenced to long terms for robbery, were recaptured in the search ordered by Mrs. George A. Waters, the warden.

Gen. Hagood to Command Army in the Northwest

Omaha, Neb.—Word was received from the War department at Seventh corps area headquarters here that President Hoover has chosen Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood, Seventh corps commander, to command the Fourth army, one of four units into which the regular army, National Guards and reserves are being organized.

Ileana Has a Baby Son

Vienna.—The first baby born to a Hapsburg in Vienna since the overthrow of the Hapsburg regime arrived at Moedling Villa, the son of Princess Ileana of Rumania and the Archduke Anton. Both mother and baby were doing nicely.

Earthquake in Greece

Athens.—A violent earthquake rocked central Greece. A number of houses collapsed, but no casualties were reported.

Frances Starr Weds Banker

New York.—Frances Starr, the actress, was married at her apartments in the Savoy-Flora to Robert Golden Donaldson, former president of the Commercial National bank of Washington, D. C.

Seton Hill Professor Dies

Greensburg, Pa.—Dr. Frank W. Bennett, fifty-three, professor of comparative languages at Seton Hill college, Greensburg, died while visiting his mother in Peoria, Ill.

Trampled to Death by Bull

Poughkeepsie, N. Y.—A four-year-old Jersey bull trampled his owner, Irving Rikert, seventy, to death on a farm near Schuylville.

FOOD TRADERS SEE BRISKER BUSINESS

Better Buying Reported to Their Convention.

Chicago.—Confident that a better season for their business is dawning, members of the National Food Distributors' and American Bakers' association came from all sections of the country to attend the fifth annual convention of their organization in the Hotel Sherman.

The reason for the pickup in confidence was explained by L. J. Shumaker of Philadelphia, president of the association.

"Retailers are buying better than they did a year ago," he said. "This seems to be largely because their stocks are so low. As a result, wholesalers and manufacturers of food will have to employ more men during the coming months to take care of the retail demand."

In some communities, Mr. Shumaker declared, increased employment has brought increased retail sales of foods. "On a national basis retail food sales have not increased materially, but they are on the up grade," the leader of the wholesale distributors continued. "The retail pickup, of course, will depend upon employment."

Mr. Shumaker stressed the point that the retail stores, which formerly were overstocked and therefore bought little from wholesalers, now are, if anything, understocked.

"We look for the fall to bring back a normal flow of distribution of food, not a boom, but a healthy flow," he said.

Fifty representatives of the meat industry in Chicago and the Middle West met to consider scientific and technical problems and were informed that meat consumption in America was on the increase.

The Institute of Meat Packers announced Americans ate 152,000,000 pounds more of pork and 13,000,000 more of lamb the first six months of 1922 than they did in the same period last year. Use of beef dropped slightly. The figures were for federally inspected meat.

Two Passengers Die in Leaps From a Liner

New York.—The disappearance of two passengers, both of whom were listed as suicides, was reported by the liner California, which arrived from San Francisco.

The first to disappear was Ernest Boulter, a landscape gardener of Pasadena, Calif., who jumped overboard August 3. The second was William Kerr Scott, formerly a representative of the Royal Indemnity company at Portland, Ore., who also is believed to have jumped overboard. Boulter was accompanied by his wife and twenty-three-year-old daughter, Isabel. According to ship's reports, he was suffering from "delusions."

Man, Wife, Other Man Found Shot to Death

Sedalia, Colo.—Two youths on an outing near here came upon the bodies of two men and a woman at the Wellsville Hot Springs resort. All three had been shot to death. Authorities said the deaths apparently were caused by murder and suicide.

The dead are John Lehr, fifty-two, his wife, Daisy, thirty-two, and W. E. Sampson, fifty-three, of Denver. It is believed that jealousy of Lehr over attentions paid his wife by Sampson caused the tragedy. One note signed by the Lehrs said: "Sampson is dead and we soon will be. He will never break up another home."

Ten-Day Holiday On to Keep Bank Open

Green Bay, Wis.—Mayor John V. Diener issued a proclamation declaring a ten-day holiday in Green Bay to prevent the closing of the Farmers' Exchange bank.

C. L. Pittman, chief examiner for the state department of banking, was here to direct reorganization of the bank. The bank's last statement showed deposits of approximately $1,200,000.

Gillette, Razor Magnate, Leaves Million to Widow

Los Angeles.—The will of the late King C. Gillette, safety razor magnate, disposing of an estate valued in excess of $1,000,000 in stocks, bonds, and realty, was admitted to probate. The widow, Alanta E. Gillette, is sole beneficiary.

Governor's Son Passes Flying Tests Plane Pilot

Cleveland.—Robert White, nineteen, son of Gov. George White, qualified for a private pilot's license by passing the necessary flying tests at Cleveland airport.

Bank Robber Identified

Fort Scott, Kan.—Harvey Bailey, on trial for bank robbery here, was identified as the leader of the gang that robbed the Lincoln, Neb., Bank and Trust company of $2,000,000 September 17, 1920.

Heads Jewish Conference

Geneva.—Bernard Deutsch, New York attorney, president of the American Jewish conference, was elected president of the First International Jewish Conference in session here.

Knoxville Times in Receivership

Knoxville, Tenn.—The Knoxville Times, Republican morning newspaper, which began publication here last February has been ordered into receivership. Inability to collect stock subscriptions was the cause of insolvency.

Satin Trims Smart "First" Frocks

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

SATINS are coming. In fact they are here. We say satin in the plural because there are so many varieties. The list includes dull satins, lustrous satins and the most talked of is reversible satin which has a deeply puffed rough surface on one side with a dull crepe back. This is featured not only in pale shades for evening but in black and dark colors.

There is scarcely a cable or letter or buyer returning from Paris that does not quote these satins. However, one really cannot sense the satin movement now on, from the testimony of others. The revelation comes as to how really new and out-of-the-ordinary satins can look when you actually see their novel weaves, their unusual colors and in their very ingenious ways in which designers are employing them.

At the immediate moment satin is playing the part of trimming in a manner to hold the attention of the world of fashion. There is nothing smarter being shown in the way of a "first" frock for midseason or early fall than the dress with a satin yoke, the satin extending into the sleeves and repeated, perhaps, in the belt. The unique thing about these satin-trimmed gowns is that the satin is almost without exception confined to the bodice, seldom if ever appearing on the skirt. The frock worn by the young woman to the right in the picture illustrates the idea.

Black satin with sheer woolen is considered good style. The dress sketched in the oval is typical. However there is a selection of conservative street colors being shown which are most beguiling, the most outstanding among which are tete de negre, very dark wine red and bottle green. Most of these satins in the new colors and black are made reversible, the dull crepe side being employed for the body of the dress and the satin surfaced for the trimming.

The model to the right is carried out in this manner. The satin side of the rough, heavy silk crepe forms the loosely draped collar and diagonal band trimming on the sleeves. Please to take note of the swanky black kid sandals this youthful member of the smart set is wearing. They have a dainty piping of white with decorative insets of white.

As to the other dress it is voguishly colorful, flaunting as it does the very new combination of beige with wine red. You will agree that this is a perfect dress for first autumn days. The surplus collar emphasizes the trend to diagonals which is so characteristic of the newer styles. The handsome olive green of which it is made has an intriguing satiny sheen.

Because satin is being so definitely featured as a trimming at the present moment does not mean that it is not being used for the dress entire. Up-to-the-moment evening modes stress the all white satin gown trimmed in snowy ostrich.

MIDSUMMER VOGUE

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

It is difficult to conceive of anything more charming for midsummer wear than this dainty frock of white organdy which is so delightfully cool looking and which is so artfully patterned with delicate duren embroidery. The simple jumper bodice is beautifully worked about its edges with cut-out embroidery which gives it an exclusive air of fine workmanship. The leghorn hat tells a story of wide brims such as are gracing the most fashionable garden-party scenes and formal summer fete.

Classic Sports Frocks

For hot days in the country the designers' universal offering is the sleeveless sports frock of cotton pique, shantung or silk pique in colors as varied as a box of bonbons. Powder blue, daffodil yellow, water green, shell pink and saffron are included in the selections.

Figure Coats

Sometimes the jacket or coat is figured, the dress beneath it is plain. That's a reversal of the usual fashion that is both decorative and amusing.

What Women Want to Know About Fashions

Rainbow sweaters are the newest thing in sports wear. Starched lawn or handkerchief linen will be worn as collars and cuffs this fall.

This season's styles permit any woman to be as picturesque as she likes.

Purple promises to be one of the smartest colors for the late summer and early fall.

A small black-and-white check is very smart in new sports suits. No summer wardrobe is considered complete unless it includes a number of candy-stripe frocks.

Crow blue is one of the newest colors in Paris. It is a very dark blue with a slightly purplish cast.

The woollens—those used for dresses and very lightweight suits—are so sheer as to be almost transparent.

With his tump-line Jim lashed the two guns to a provision bag, swung it to his back, adjusted the head-strap over his forehead, and piled on the rest of their outfit, while Smoke thrashed off through the "bush" after snow-shoe rabbits. For a half mile the trail held to the high land back from the river, then turned toward the water. Bent under his heavy load, Jim followed the moving legs of Omar under the peterboro. From the slowly increasing clamor of the rapids, Jim judged that they were nearing the end of the carry and approaching the river, but his sweat-blinded eyes did not lift from the moccasins of the man in front.

Suddenly, the legs of Omar came to a halt. Curious, Jim raised his head banded by the tump-line, but the canoe on Omar's broad back blocking the trail, alone met his blurred eyes. Then, to his startled ears came Omar's hoarse whisper: "De gun! Quick!"

"What is it? Game ahead?" Jim wondered, as he slipped off the head-strap. As his load slid to the ground he wiped the sweat from his eyes and squinted past Omar toward the river. With a bound his heart started drumming against his ribs. There, twenty yards up the trail, leaning at the waiting Omar, stiff as a spruce under the canoe, stood Paul Paradis.

"Trapped!" muttered Jim, working desperately to free the rifles from the knotted tump-line which bound them to the pack.

Again came Omar's whispered warning: "De gun! Tak' ta de bush! Queek!" followed by the Jeer of Paradis: "So you have come to visset me?"

With his gun almost free, Jim heard a movement in the bush, and looked up to see two Indians hurl themselves at the man waiting, legs braced, under the canoe.

As they came headlong on, with a lance of his great shoulders, Omar pivoted and swung the heavy peterboro crashing into their heads, at the same time slipping his tump-line and avoiding the falling boat. Then with a roar the enraged half-breed met the rush of a third man and, lifting him above his head in his vise-like grip, flung the writhing body to the trail. Leaping over the stunned Indian, he made for the surprised Paradis.

Dodging into the brush to escape the charging Omar, Paradis shouted: "No knives!" as two Ojibwas captured into the half-breed from the rear, bringing him to his knees.

But they were fighting to take alive a man whose strength was a byword from God's lake to the Barren Grounds, and, as he tripped and fell with two clawing Indians on his back, legs twined around his, Omar snarled: "I tak' you, too, Parades!"

When Omar clubbed his first assailants with his swinging canoe, Jim, with his hands on his lashed gun, was hurled to his face by the impact of two heavy bodies. As he fell the realization that all he had worked for—all he loved—hung on the next few seconds, flashed through his consciousness.

They had not knifed him! Thought they could take him and Omar with their bare hands, did they?

The old fury he had known in many a trench fight overseas returned as Jim fought the men on his back who sought to pin him to the ground. A desperate heave and he twisted and thrashed in their clinging arms until he reached his knees. A wrench, and he had a hand free, as they fell to the trail—a heap of straining, panting men. Chin clamped on chest to chest, their clawing fingers seeking his throat, again and again Jim hunched his fist over the shoulder into the jaw of the man who faced him, then by sheer strength bent back the head, until, with a groan, he fainted.

Desperate with the knowledge of the white man's superior strength, the remaining Ojibwa clung like a cat, with arms and legs, to Stuart's back, but wrenching himself from his grip, Jim beat him to the ground. On his knees, the hands of the dazed Indian fumbled with something on the trail, as Jim rose panting to his feet. Then, with a blind lunge he lurched forward with Stuart's recovered knife, to meet the crash of a swinging fist which crumpled him in a heap.

Omar! Picking up the knife, Jim hurried ahead to aid his friend. As he approached, from the limp bodies of two men rose a pair of massive bleeding shoulders, from which a shirt hung in tatters. His heart checked as the sun flashed from a knife blade and a crouching figure left the brush to run at the square bulk of Omar's back.

"Behind you, Omar!" warned the running Stuart. At the words, Omar leaped far to the side and turned to face the danger. But the courage of Paul Paradis was not equal to meeting the black fury of the unarmed half-breed, and he dodged into the spruce and disappeared toward the river. "We get de gun!" panted Omar, "dere are more of dem!" Tearing their rifles from their lashings, Jim and Omar followed Paradis. As they ran, from the direction of the stream sounded the yelp of Smoke. "He's struck 'em! Hurry up or they'll get 'em!" cried Jim, increasing his speed.

Again above the distant drum-beat of the rapids lifted the airy yelp of Smoke. Then two rifle shots drove Jim headlong, his heart cold with fear for his dog. At last the panting runners reached the river. But neither dog nor the canoe of Paradis was in sight.

FROM THE BEGINNING

At his fur post, Sunset House, in the Canadian north, Jim Stuart, trader in charge, with his headman, Omar, rescues Aurora LeBlond, daughter of Stuart's rival in the fur business, from an overturned canoe in the lake. In a spirit of fun, she and Jim arrange to exchange notes on a certain island. Paradis, with Paradis his half-breed lieutenant, the island to see if Aurora has left the promised note, Jim is ambushed by Paradis and forced to travel toward the LeBlond post. On the way he overtures the boat, leaving showing, allows him, at his request, one year to "make good." Paradis bribes an Indian to ambush Jim and Omar. The attempt fails, and Jim takes the Indians to acknowledge their mutual love, though Aurora is returning to Winnipeg, and Jim refused to trade their furs with him. He finds that Paradis has enlisted and persistently tries to discourage them from trading with Stuart. Esau, half-breed partisan of Stuart, leaves on a mysterious journey which they hope will result in the overthrow of Jingwak.

Smoke. Then two rifle shots drove Jim headlong, his heart cold with fear for his dog. At last the panting runners reached the river. But neither dog nor the canoe of Paradis was in sight.

"Smoke!" Jim called. "Here Smoke!" There was no answering yelp. Omar, closer to the water, suddenly dropped to a knee and fired down not at the water, but at the water, joining him, Jim looked to see, far below, a canoe paddled by two crouching men. Again and again the two took careful aim and fired at the distant craft, but the range was great, and the riflemen panting from exertion. At last the canoe turned a bend.

Back and forth through the thick bush near the landing Jim searched, calling the dog he loved—hoping, if he were alive, that the hurt animal would answer with a whine. But Smoke did not answer. The two friends widened their hunt, thinking the wounded husky might have crawled off somewhere to die. Finally Jim was forced to the conclusion that the dog had been shot in the water and carried down stream.

Poor Smoke! Sick at heart, Stuart bathed his grimy face and arms at the shore as his thoughts went back three years to the puppyhood of the friend he had lost. From the time when, a fluffy ball of fur, Jim had brought him south from the bay to God's lake, man and dog had known no separation; together they had faced the drive of the blizzards and the slant of the spring rains; shared the hardships of the white trails of the long snows and the summer white waters. Two great tears ran down the bronzed face of the man who knelt by the river, for the stant eyes of his dog would never again shine with idolatry as his deep throat rumbled at Jim's caress; his plume of a tail beat frantically to Jim's call as he yelped in answer.

"Good-by, Smoke!" sobbed the man, turning his face twisted with grief from the sober eyes of his friend. "I loved every black hair on you. Jim will never forget! Good-by, Smoke!"

"Well you wanted to meet him again and you had your wish," said Jim, as they filled the magazines of their rifles and started back for the canoe. "Now did LeBlond lie to us and send him here to hide, or is Paradis disobeying orders? I wish I knew."

The muscles ridged on Omar's clamped jaws as he scowled his disappointment. "Eef he onlee jump me wid dose oders," he sighed. Then his hand slid back to the empty sheath on his sash. "Dey got my knife w'en dey hit me from behind. Dey get your knife, too? You have much trouble wid dem?"

"They got mine, too, but I picked it up," Jim smiled at Omar's matter of fact reference to his struggle to free himself of the two Ojibwas. "We must wash these scratches, Omar," he went on, examining the bulging shoulders protruding through the ripped shirt of his friend. "They clawed you like a lynx."

Omar's marked face wrinkled in perplexity. "W'y you tink dat Parades try to tak' us wid hees hand? Ver' strange ting!"

"I don't know. Maybe he wanted to keep us in a cage to show us to the Indians up here," laughed Jim. "One thing's certain; if he caught us we'd have never seen home again. But that was a clever trick of yours—clubbing them with the boat, you old wolverine. These young bucks of Paradis won't forget the trimming you gave them. There were three or four decorating the trail when I got loose and started to help you. How they'd laugh at God's lake at these people trying to take Omar Boisvert with their hands!"

Omar's mouth widened across his square face. "These young fellers on de Sturgeon keep dere hand off Omar Boisvert, ah-hah," laughed the swart son of Anak. "Dey got sore neck all right."

"D'you suppose they've come to, and are waiting for us with guns to come back for the boat?"

Omar shook his head. "We go an see. I tink dey got dere fill for today. Paradis run; dey run. He want to take us alive, he not dere geeve dem de gun."

"You didn't kill any of 'em—break any necks—with those bear traps of yours?"

Omar thoughtfully scratched his head. "Wan, mebbe. I twist hees neck ver' hard." Then the narrow eyes of the half-breed suddenly clouded. "Esau!" he gasped. "Dey know we come; by gar, dey get Esau!"

The canoe of the old Indian, a day ahead of them on the river, must have run into the party of Paradis. "He told me he would travel only at night."

The deep chest of the half-breed lifted in a heavy sigh. "Without Esau we are no good," he said, as they started back to the canoe.

"He may have missed them. There's nothing to do but keep on."

Cautiously, deep in the bush on either side of the portage trail, the two men approached their canoe. As Omar had said, it was unlikely that Paradis had allowed his men to carry rifles to the ambush, for in their excitement the Indians would have used them, and for some subtle reason he wanted to take Omar and Jim unhurt. Nevertheless, the two men stalked their canoe as if sure that trouble started back to the canoe. The Ojibwas, recovered from their rough handling, had disappeared, leaving the canoe has disappeared, with Omar's knife, lying on the trail, untouched.

"Dey were scare' we come back wid our gun and dey make for dere canoe." "Yes, they must have had another boat downstream."

POULTRY

THREE GOOD RULES FOR QUALITY EGGS

Keep Them Clean, Cool, and Gather Often.

By R. E. CRAY, Specialist in Poultry, Ohio State University—WNU Service.

Producing quality summer eggs is not difficult when three simple rules are followed. Eggs should be kept clean, gathered three times a day, and stored in a cool place until ready to ship.

By storing eggs in a cool place as soon as they are gathered, it is fairly easy to keep the size of the air cell to a minimum. This checks evaporation through the shell and helps insure a small percentage of stale eggs.

Clean eggs may be produced by providing one nest for every five hens, by covering the perches with wire, and by confining the birds to the laying house until the majority of the eggs are gathered. Eggs can also be soiled if the hands of the attendant are wet or damp and soiled.

Still another practice, which is one of the most important from the standpoint of producing quality eggs, is the practice of gathering eggs at least two or three times a day. This helps to keep the eggs clean and cool. Experience shows that farmers gathering eggs even five or six times a day are well repaid if they market their produce on a graded basis.

Broilers Fattened Well on Cereal Ration Alone

A test was carried on at the poultry division, Central experimental farm, Ottawa, Canada, comparing two rations, one of which contained meat meal and the other cereal feeds only, for fattening broilers. Equal parts of ground wheat, ground oats and ground barley made up the cereal ration with the addition of 10 per cent of meat meal to the other. Both were fed three times daily, using sour skim-milk as a mixer and mixing each feed one feeding in advance. Two lots of chickens seven weeks of age were used. Thirty-seven birds were in one and thirty-six in the other group. These birds were banded and weighed individually in grams at the beginning, at the end of the first week and at the end of the experiment (fourteen days). The average gain for the two lots was practically identical, the difference being only one-tenth of an ounce per bird.

Double Incubator Service

Double service from brooding equipment netted Mrs. Eli Briner, Oskaloosa, an extra $50 last season, says the Kansas Farmer. Baby chicks were brooded until May 23, and then moved out. After these quarters were carefully disinfected, 61 little turkeys were moved into them. The poulters were hatched right after May 23, just 61 of them. Six smothered, two died from unknown causes and 53 were matured. On November 19 the birds averaged 15 pounds, with a total expense shown at $2 a bird on the books. Sudan and wheat made up the green feed and a mash recommended by the agricultural college was fed. Black head and other turkey troubles were eliminated through the use of a sanitary half-screen runway. Net profit for the operation amounted to $1.03 to the bird.

Fighting Lice and Mites

For the eradication of lice and mites, keep your poultry house clean, keep fresh litter in nests, and paint the roosts with nicotine sulphate, advises a writer in the Southern Agriculturist. If hens are used for setting, mites will be sure to come, but if you will put 5 or 6 drops of nicotine sulphate in a few places on the straw around the hen in the nest, within four days mites will be gone. If mites are on the floor, put nicotine sulphate on straw in several places. Repeat process when necessary. I have found this practice to be a great labor-saver, as I have raised more chickens this year than I have ever raised, and I did not have to spray the house or dip my hens. You can get nicotine sulphate at seed houses or drug stores.

Watch Hen's Production

That there is a tremendous difference in egg-laying ability has been demonstrated in Ohio by the record of performance flock owners who trap their birds. They find some individuals lay nearly every day, while others lay only every other or every third day, all under identical conditions. For a year's laying some few lay over 300 eggs and others less than a hundred. There is most assuredly a difference in chickens—Ohio Farmer.

Poultry Notes

Charcoal made from hardwood is quite suitable for poultry.

Pullets will not develop into healthy, vigorous birds if their vitality is sapped by overheating and crowding during the night.

The use of dry peat for scratching litter is becoming more general among poultrymen everywhere. When mixed with the hen's droppings this makes a splendid soil dressing.

Chicks hatched from hens laying small eggs will not produce eggs that top the market.

Young hens also lay about one-third more eggs the first year than in the second year.

The largest percentage of under-grade eggs is made up of the class known as "dirty eggs." The common causes for dirty eggs are as follows: a dirty nest, dirty litter in the poultry house, dirty containers, lack of scientific nests.

NEW YORK HISTORY FROM EARLY DAYS

Museum Groups Vividly Recall the Past.

Among the tattered letters, odd maps and prints, time-darkened portraits and other fragmentary memorabilia which line the walls of the new Museum of the City of New York there runs the series of model groups in which Dwight Franklin and Ned J. Burns have recaptured the long past of the greatest city of the world. They are delicate little panoramas, beautifully constructed and finely modeled and breathing a sudden life and vitality into the dead relics about them as they repeat the veritable scenes amid which those old letters passed or those quaint dresses were worn. Peter Stuyvesant's sword looks simply like something in a museum until near it one sees the governor himself, fully as vivid as life (if only about one-tenth as large), storming over Colonel Cartwright's demand for surrender while the Seventeenth century sunshine lies placidly upon the ramparts of New Amsterdam fort outside the door.

Well, the fort has lain buried for many years somewhere beneath the foundations of lower Broadway; Peter Stuyvesant is as dead as a doornail, and so is the pleasant, bucolic life of the little outpost of Dutch empire which once occupied what was once the tip of Manhattan. In the model those times are as alive as last night's supper club. So are the pleasant blue waters and wooded slopes of the East river (so much pleasanter than today) as they are

Deer's Appetite

At least one acre of the best forest browse or greenery is needed during the growing season to support a single deer, while during the winter a much larger area of sparser browse is required, according to Drs. E. B. Forbes and L. O. Overholts of Pennsylvania State college. Doctors Forbes and Overholts reached this conclusion after they had made a careful study of four deer that were confined in a woodland enclosure of 4.87 acres from one spring through the following autumn.

Cavern to Be State Park

An old cavern, not yet fully explored, but used by the Indians for many years as a hiding place, is to be made a state park northwest of San Antonio, Texas. It is beneath 500 acres of Burnett county land near Highway 66. Hundreds of arrowheads have been found in the cavern.

MAN-MADE LIGHTNING

Many readers will remember the 1/2 million volt blaze of man-made lightning produced by Oscar Werwath, President of the Milwaukee School of Engineering, at a public demonstration here a few months ago. The tremendous power of electricity is being further controlled and harnessed each day.

These forces are performing daily greater "miracles" in industry—in the fast growing fields of Refrigeration, Television, Radio, Air Conditioning and other New Fields.

Ambitious Men are wanted to prepare for future advancement—under the guidance of instructors backed by 29 years of successful teaching. Thousands of graduates employed the world over give ample proof of the success of the School of Engineering Unit System of training. You advance according to your ability.

You study electricity right from the start. In one year you can get Commercial Electrical Engineering training. Electrical Engineering, B. S. Degree in 3 years! Also 3 and 6 months' Intensive Courses.

Kewaskum . . . 100 003 40x—8 13 1

Two-base hits, Marr, Schuster; stolen bases, Nell 2, Dallich; struck out, by Brown 7, by Wisniewski 13; base on balls, off Wisniewski 1; passed balls, Kral 1; Wild pitch, Brown 1, Wisniewski 1; left on bases, Menomonee Falls 3, Kewaskum 6. Umpires, Udische and Muckerheide.

HIGH LIGHTS

The visitors went out one, two, three order in every inning but three.

Marr made a beautiful stop of Lemke's grounder in the eighth, but the latter beat the throw to first base.

Wisniewski was a puzzle for Dahl and J. Adlam, each striking out three times.

Harbeck came close to beating out a grounder along third base line when he batted for Wentorf in the eighth.

The attendance was the smallest of the year, which accounts for that approximately only ten visiting fans present. Quite a contrast as to the number of fans representing Kewaskum at both games played at Menomonee Falls.

Lester Dreher, who captained the locals at the Sheboygan Falls game the previous Sunday enjoyed the game from the side lines, but the old enthusiasm had him nervous, missing a good opportunity of increasing his batting average.

The tug-of-war for possession of batted ball in front of plate by Schuster in the fourth between Wisniewski and Kral was won by Wisniewski and Schuster was given a hit.

WEST BEND 7 NORTH FONDU 3

Once more the race for the pennant in the Badger State League went into a deadlock, when West Bend on their own grounds last Sunday defeated the North Fond du Lac Tigers. Ingram for the Benders struck out 4 men and allowed six hits, while Habel, for the Tigers struck out eight and allowed eleven hits. Ingram pitched a very good game, keeping the hits made off him well scattered. The support of his team mates greatly aided in winning the ball game. The Tigers were without Pommerville, who has been doing excellent work behind the bat. He recently left for West Virginia, where he is employed at his trade, a plumber. Saft and Leu for the Tigers were the only ones able to solve Chas. Ingram, getting three hits apiece. The score by innings:
North Fondy . . . 000 000 102—3 6 4
West Bend . . . 100 204 00x—7 11 2

INDIANS IN CASCADE 3

The Indians journeyed to Cascade Sunday and kept up their winning streak by defeating the team of that village in a very exciting and close game by a score of 4 to 3. Marx for the Indians struck out seventeen and allowed only two hits, while Scimnic for Cascade struck out nine and was touched for eight hits. In the first half of the ninth the Indians were trailing 3 to 2, when Stenschke doubled, Jolff Louis Schaefer beat out a slow roller and Marx doubled scoring Stenschke and Schaefer. In Cascade's half Marx retired the side by striking out three men.

INDIANS PLAY SHEBOYGAN

Manager McLaughlin has secured a strong team from Sheboygan who will cross bats with the Indians on the local diamond Sunday. The Indians are determined to keep up their winning streak.

CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY CLERK

Mart W. Monroe, well known Washington county and town of Erin man, is one of those from this vicinity who has thrown his hat into the political ring, and who is running for nomination of the Democratic ticket for the office of county clerk. Mr. Monroe is a large land owner and taxpayer in the town of Erin and has held the office of clerk of the town of Erin for twenty years. He is familiar with the duties of the office thru his association with the town and is well posted on all county affairs. His work on the town board while in office was of such quality that he was returned to the office year after year by the voters of the town. Mr. Monroe is now out meeting his many friends and making known to them his intentions of running for office. Known as a man of scrupulous principles, a very loyal friend, a citizen of understanding and many years of experience gained in his clerkship Mr. Monroe goes to the voters with the stamp of approval of many hundreds.

Authorized and Paid for by Mart W. Monroe, Hartford, Wis., R. 5.

There May Be a Difference of Opinion on Some Subjects!

Some people believe this way and some people that way, but all will admit that selling an idea is usually more difficult than selling a commodity—and especially is it easier in selling the commodity, if advantage is taken of the modern, the economical and the quickest method. That method is in the use of advertising space in the Kewaskum Statesman. Whether you are a merchant or a citizen, when you want to buy or sell, trade or lease, rent or find a commodity, read and use the advertising columns and let people know of your needs or offerings.
