The most brilliant array of features, exhibits, entertainment and track events ever assembled at a Washington county fair will be shown on the fair Fond du Lac on Saturday, where he grounds in West Bend on Friday, Saattended a meeting of the various turday and Sunday, Sept. 16, 17 and principals of the high schools in the 18. This year's fair is the seventy-fifth Tri-county association held in County annual of the Washington County Ag-Supt. M. J. Lowe's office, for the purricultural society, and the officers in pose of arranging the fall basebals charge have put forth extra-ordinary games, At this meeting Mr. Skaliskey efforts to make the diamond anniversary an outstanding event in Wash-Hornby, principal of the Oakfield igton county's history.

Friday, the opening day of the fair, will be devoted to the placing of exhibits and in doing the preliminary work connected with the huge undertaking. Speaking plainly, Washington county will be on display during the three days when its choicest crops from the farm, orchard and field, and club work activities, will be shown. The county, long known as a leader in dairying and in cattle, will again be represented by its leading breeders.

It is expected that the exhibition buildings will be taxed to their capacity, as many of the county exhibits shown at the recent state fair will again be on exhibition. These include the bee-keepers' booth, the 4-H club exhibits, school work in Washington county children, and hundreds of other exhibits, large and small, which will make the fair a veritable show place, and one, considering the quality of the exhibits, which will compare favorably with many of the outstanding fairs in the state this year.

Among the exhibits to attract attention at this year's fair is that of the Washington County Beekeepers' association, which took first place on its honey exhibit at the state fair, and that of the 4-H canning club which hington County, has been conducting won the blue ribbon at the state fair. his office for the last six years. ### WISCONSIN BEAGLE CLUB MEETS HERE OCT. 1-7

The tenth annual Field Trials of the Wisconsin Beagle Club has been set for October 1 to 7, and the sixth annual Specialty Show of the Club for October 2nd.

Officers of the club expect that the turnout for this year's trials and show will be the best and largest ever held by the club, President, Joseph Eberle is daily receiving entry applications in goodly numbers. Dogs will be entered from all parts of the United States. From the entries so far received, indications are that over 100 dogs will participate in the trials. It is the largest entry list in the history

The Judges for the Field Trials will e Gus. Larson o' Neenah and Gus. Ericson of Waukegan, Ill. J. E. Kiley of Canton, Ohio., will be Judge at the Show. All of these men are national known Judges in the Kennel world. The Field Trial program starts on Derby, followed by 13 inch A.A. Bitches: 13 inch A. A. Dogs, 15 inch Derby, 15 inch A. A. Bitches, 15 inch A. A. Dogs and Winner Stakes. Valuable cash prizes, cups and ribbons will be awarded the winners in each class.

This will be the third consecueive meeting held by the Club in Kewaskum, which alone speaks well for the citizens of Kewaskum and community. The club at their annual meeting this summer unanimously voted Kewaskum the meeting, because of the hospitally shown to the members in their previous visit to Kewaskum by the citizens of the community.

President, Joseph Eberle, is very much enthused of this meeting and asks that all give their 100 per cent co-operation towards making the meeting a repeated success. It is estimated that several hundred visitors

WALTER NEW YORK TRUMBULI

Any visitor to Greater New York should be amply repaid by a trip to The Children's museum, which is affilisted with the Brooklyn institute. They may it was visited by no less than 680-600 children in 1931. All those things concerning which youngsters are curious, the things which stir their imagination, are portrayed here, mostly in miniature. There is, for example, a miniature volcano and a miniature mine. The museum also goes in for educational games. Pictures from such magazines as the National Geographic are mounted and cut up into Jigsaw puzzles. When the child has assembled one of these, pride in the achievement usually induces the reading of the short explanation attached to the picture. There are long tables so that many children can do puzzles at the same time. This game not only teaches them a bit concerning places and things, but trains them to co-ordinate hands, eyes and brains.

Captain Dingle, who writes all those stories of the sea, lives in England. Re went ashore in some boat he owned, and lost not only the craft itself, but a large snake skin, which he had wrapped around the lower part of his mast. As he and John Oliver La Gorce had a common interest, in that both knew a lot concerning Andres Island, Captain Dingle wrote Doctor La Gorce frequently. One letter told of his loss and asked if anybody had any loose boa constrictor skins. It happened that on one of his many trips to distant places Doctor La Gorce had picked up that very article. He never had used it much as there didn't appear to be any real place for It around the house, and he didn't have a boat. But it was a swell snake skin and he shipped it to Captain

Having performed this kindly act, John La Gorce got to worrying a little. After all, he had been the possessor of that snake skin for several years and perhaps it was a bit rusty. He didn't want to become known as a man who would send a friend the second-hand epidermis of a serpent. Perhaps he should first have sent it to the cleaner and presser, or had it simonized. It got so on his mind that he wrote to several boa constrictor dealers in various parts of the world, told them his story and gave them Captain Dingle's address. Then he felt free to turn his attention to other matters. I ing room for a rather minor operation,

SHOWING VALUE OF

Difference in Saving and in Hoarding.

While A. E. Bean, local barber in Livingston, Texas, may be duly appreciative as he considers the case of his great-grandmother and the $10 gold certificate she stored by intent or carelessness in a mattress back in 1873-and which has just come to light-he will find a fly in the ointment of satisfaction in its possession when he hears of another $10 bill and the sizable sum it has earned for itself back in New York.

The Texas certificate has been idle, as is proper in its mattress hiding place, and came out of its sixty-year slumber when the owner of the mattress decided the sleeping convenience needed re-covering. Going into retirement worth exactly $10, the bill comes back to activity with its value enlarged not one cent, unless its age and peculiar history makes it desired of collectors.

But this other $10 bill or its equivalent is considerably older and bears a more purposeful history. It has been at work and has enlarged its value. It represents the oldest savbeaches.-Boston Transcript. ings account in the history of Amer ica. The account was opened in the name of John S. Thorne in August, 1819, the depository being the New York Bank for Savings, which was established the same year and which, is still alive. This oldest savings account, there fore, has been adding to its own value through the accumulation of interest for 113 years. One year after the $10 deposit was made, another deposit of $5 was made. The account, which is now owned by a Brooklyn estate, has a withdrawal value of $3,141.03, or had that value on July 1, 1932, when the interest computation was last made. All of this, save the original deposit of $10 and the addition of $5 a year later, represents interest. The $10 bill and its younger account mate have been active every moment since they were turned over to the Bank of Savings the year the institution was opened. with William Bayard as its first president, to whose home Alexander Hamilton was removed after his fatal duel with Burr some years earlier.

Jugoslavia claims to have found the oldest married couple in the world. The husband is one hundred and seventeen, and the wife one hundred and fifteen, and they have been married 100 years. They are peasants and live in a village near Nish. Both still enjoy good health. More than 100 descendants took part in a festival held recently at the aged couple's farm to honor them.

REPAIR CRISIS COMING SOON

Avoidable Home Neglect Costs Millions; Save by Painting Now.

Home owners and others throughout the United States face an avoidable burden of $200,000,000 for repairs and replacements next spring, that can be prevented by adopting proper precautions this fall.

A crisis that has been approaching for several years will be reached this winter, and "a vigorous offensive program," to lessen its seriousness will be inaugurated at once, according to an announce ment by the Acme White Lead and Color Works, Detroit White Lead Works, W. W. Lawrence & Co., Lincoln Paint & Color Co., the Lowe Brothers Co., John Lucas & Co., Inc., the Martin-Senour Co., Peninsular Paint & Varnish Co., the Sherwin-Williams Co. Newspaper advertising in every part of the United States will be used to tell property owners of the danger from further delay in making needed repairs and replacements.

"Millions of dollars can be saved by giving buildings proper care this fall. They have been exposed to the elements three, four and five years, through neglect and postponement of needed work. Property and equipment cannot go longer lacking proper protection, without further serious injury.

"When a woman's home is saved from foreclosure by a coat of new paint which led to a renewal of the loan on the house, as has fust been reported from a small Middle Western town, it is easy to see that other benefits than just those of property protection can be derived, too, from adopting the correct safeguard methods.

"Prices of good paints are the lowest in fifteen years. Enough good, dependable paint to protect all the badly weathered surfaces on the average home can be bought with a set in motion keep the frost from few dollars. The general buying public has already begun responding to advance promotion through our distributing and retail channels. Encouraging orders from large key industries and railways are simply the forerunner of a pick-up through all the various industries. We are entering a paint market of huge proportions. We are moving with greater confidence than in many months."-Adv.

Can a baby thrive like that, if his mother's milk fails?

Millions of mothers nod a beaming "Yes!" For millions of mothers in America have had proof in their own homes that Eagle Brand builds wonderfully sturdy babies-babies that grow to be men and women of fine physique, outstanding

And recently, two famous baby specialists put Eagle Brand to one of the most searching tests that modern science has ever given a baby food. They fed fifty average infants on Eagle Brand* for a period of months, comparing results with other groups of babies similarly fed on other foods. They tested these babies' progress with the X-ray, with blood counts, with measuring, weighing, every modern check on growing structure, growing strength. And measured by every scientific test, the result was favorable to Eagle Brand. These Eagle Brand babies showed themselves superbly nourished-lacking in nothing that makes for future health and stamina. Eagle Brand* had proved itself equal in every way to the building of 100% babies!

You see, Eagle Brand is wonderfully easy to digest-second only to mother's milk in easy digestibility. Every drop goes quickly into the making of bones and teeth, tissue and muscle, energy and strength. Eagle Brand is easily prepared-you merely add boiled water. See directions on the label. Eagle Brand is free from dangerous germs—safe for your baby. It keeps indefinitely in the can. And can be obtained at any grocer's.

COUNTY FAIR TIME

In almost every part of the United States this is in many respects the pleasantest season of the whole year or the folk who live on farms. The neavy work of the year is practically finished. In most sections the harvests have already been garnered. And while there is still a lot of crops yet to be brought in, there isn't anything more that the farmer can do to improve his year's production. He has a little time on his hands now for relaxation. So this is "county fair time" at least all over the North. The trotters and pacers are being groomed, and the sulkies overhauled, for the contests on the half-mile track. In spite of the automobile the horse is still the farmer's friend and pet.

How many hundreds of thousands of farm boys and girls are looking forward to their chances of winning ome of the innumerable 4-H Club prizes at the County Fair? It is these youngsters and their work to whom the nation looks for the continuous betterment of farm conditions and

The direct statement made by Mr. Kohler of Madison last week, when Seidl of Minnesota, spent Sunday afhe guaranteed that no one in this ternoon with John Pesch and family state would go hungry, if he is elected, was one of the striking points of the campaign. His statement, made before a crowd of 12,000 the largest rally at the state capitol assured the voters that Mr. Kohler would place the welfare of the state above politics

The headquarters at Milwaukee claim Mr. Kohler's plea for a return of honest government has struck a response in the farming and industrial districts, and that the voters in the industrial districts appear to feel that a business man at the helm, the firms that give employment will be on a more solid foundation. Mr. Kohler has offered no cureall for the farming ills. Industry and agriculture, he says must travel hand in hand toward a mutual return of normal times. One he says is dependent wheels will produce buyers for the Madison - Wisconsin hunters who failed to make out their 1931 game kill report to retain their right to a 1932 license will have another chance to do so, the conservation department has announced. A law passed by the 1931 legislature required that Wisconsin hunters must file a report of the kill before they can receive a 1932 hunting license. The penalty of refusal of a new license is held to apply only to persons who wilfully neglected or refused to file a report.

Madison - The state department of agriculture and markets will ask New York officials to modify an order baring from that state all dairy cattle not accompanied by a certificate declaring that they are from herds free from contagious abortion. The order is regarded as a serious blow to Wisconsin shippers. There are only 142 herds certified free of the disease in this state. In 1931 cattle shipped to New York state totaled 11,400 head, bringing state farmers approximately $650,000.

Portage-Sheriff Gilbert and Harold Gastrow, 15-year-old farm boy from near Lodi, traveled by airplane to Los Angeles, Calif., where young Gastrow identified Victor Dominic as a man that visited his father's farm in company with Frank Tylius on the day that Robert A. Wilson, Kenosha real estate operator, was murdered a few miles from there. Tylius committed suicide after confessing to the murder of Wilson and implicating Dominic and three other men, who are now held in the Columbia county jail.

Madison - Only eight convicts remained at the prison camp near Oregon while the state board of control investigated the cause of numerous escapes since June 16. After three prisoners escaped late in August, the remaining 46 were ordered back to Waupun. A total of 10 prisoners have escaped since June 16, while only two fled all other prison camps and farms in the state Kewaunee-An attempt to hijack a truckload of 350 gallons of alcohol on highwar 96 near here resulted in a gun battle that was waged until Sheriff Kassner and a deputy arrived on the scene. Several men in the attacking party escaped after firing a parting volley at the officers, but the driver of the truck, who gave the name of Peter Abraham, Green Bay, was taken into custody and held for federal authorities.

Cedarburg - A nationwide search was started for Mae Bruss, 11, and Paula Dunst, 14, after the girls disappeared from their homes here. The former is the adopted daughter of A. E. Bruss, president of the Citizens' bank at Germantown. It is suspected that the girls ran away with $1,000 in cash missing from funds of the bank. Last spring the Bruss girl ran away from home and was located in Chicago two days later.

Madison - University of Wisconsin officials are fearful of a substantial decrease in attendance for the school year of 1932-'33. It is believed that any appreciable drop will increase the difficulty of getting a substantial appropriation out of the legislature. Registrar Frank Holt has announced that he anticipates a decrease in the enrollment as a result of the depression, both in new students and in out of the state students. Tuition for the latter remains at $121.50 a semester.

Marshfield-About 8,000 Wisconsin farmers and dairymen attending a mass meeting here voted for a state organization of the Farmers' National Holiday association. Officers chosen for the Wisconsin branch are: Arnold Gilberts, Dunn county, president; Kenneth W. Hones, Dunn county, vicepresident. Fritz Schultheiss, Barron county, secretary-treasurer. It is proposed to muster recruits and organize all of the 71 counties in the state before making any attempt to withhold deliveries of produce to the markets.

Springfield, Ill.—The Peabody Coal company, one of the largest operators of coal mines in the state, has no intention, according to its president. Stuyvesant Peabody, of negotiating a wage contract with the recently formed Progressive Miners of America.

The new union, formed of locals formerly allied with the United Mine Workers of America, has drafted its constitution and prepared contract blanks for operators. Its policy and executive committees, meeting at Gillespie, planned further efforts to make their protest against the reduced wage scale, the cause of the formation of the new union, effective. At the very same time nearly all of the Young Men were out at the Practice. Most of them were haggard with Anxiety and the Brows were furrowed like Wash Boards. To add to the Horror of the Situation, on that very day it was suggested to the Faculty by Prof. Philo Guthrie, of the Department of Umpscicology, that certain Local Rules should be enforced, so as to rob the Sport of all Roughness, Bloodshed and Assault with Intent to Mur-

The Suggestions embodied in the Resolution presented by Prof. Guthrie are given in Detail herewith as they are to be submitted to the Intercollegiate Association next Summer with a very powerful Backing from the Pacifist Element.

Nursery Football. The first of the Guthrie Rules is that no Student shall be permitted to play on the Team unless he has studled so hard that he will be too weak to hurt any one. Also, each Contestant is required to wear his Horn-Rim Glasses, because, in nearly every State, it is a double Offense to soak a man wearing Spectacles. If the Members of the Opposing Team adopt Brutal Tactics they can be arrested by Constables and taken before a Justice of the Peace and, while they are absent, the Home Team can score at Will and Put the Game on Ice.

To avoid all the scrambling and piling up, which so often results in Bruises and Injuries, it is proposed by Dr. Guthrie that, at the Opening of Play, the Umpire shall think of a Number between 1 and 50 and each of the Captains shall guess at the Number and the one who makes the better Guess shall be permitted to move the Ball 10 Yards into the Opposing Territory, and carefully place it on the Ground without Interference,

After that, each Team shall designate a Player to step forward and answer certain Questions regarding the League of Nations, these Questions to be previously prepared by a Joint Committee of Instructors, representing the two schools. The Side giving the more lucid and satisfactory Replies shall be permitted to execute a Forward Pass of 20 Yards after the opposing Team nas retired to the Side-Lines,

Once more the Elevens line up in the usual Formation and each Captain shall count off his Men, using the familiar Verse:

Onery, Owery, ickery Ann! Phileson, Pholeson, Nicholas John! Queevy, Quay, English navy,

Stinklum, Stanklum, I-O-U Buck! The Player who is pointed out on the Word "Buck" shall then be known as "It" and he shall face the Player similarly selected by the Opposing Team and try to stump him both in Greek and Calculus. It shall be the Duty of the Referee to name the Winner in this Scholarship Contest. If the Team given the Award already has the Ball then the Player known as "It" shall be permitted to plant the Ball back of the Goal for a Touch Down. If the opposing Team holds the Ball then the Winner is given the Ball and the other Team is penalized 30 yards.

Taking the Kick Out of the Game. In order to vary the Tactics and retain some of the former Excitement, the next Play shall be known as the "Tag Play." The Captain of the Team holding the Ball shall order it given to the Player who did not miss one Recitation during the preceding Semester. He will be given an Open Field and Permitted to run with the Ball, but if any opposing Player overtakes him and slaps him on the Back and says, "Tag," he will lose the Ball unless he has his Fingers crossed at the time. If he has failed to cross his Fingers, the Whole Thing counts just the same as an Off-Side Play and he can retain the Ball only by answering three Psychology Questions which may be propounded by any of the opposing Players.

If any Player uses hard Language or actually takes hold of any opposing Player he shall be retired and put into a Compartment on the Side-Lines known as the "Pone Yard" and kept there until the Captain of his Team answers 5 Questions in Chemistry, without laughing.

To avoid Confusion, it will be assumed that each Touch Down is followed by a successful Kick for Goal. Upon resuming Play after a Touch Down all of the Players, except the two Full-Backs, shall join Hands in a Circle and the two Full-Backs shall be blindfolded and put into the Center. While the Players are singing "London Bridge is falling down," the Fuil-Back whose Team has been scored against must catch the Full-Back of the other Team and call him by his First Name within 30 seconds, in which Case his Team will be given the Ball in the Center of the Field. Otherwise, the Ball goes to the Opposing Team on their own 20-Yard

And so on. All Spectators will be required to remain absolutely Quiet during the Mental Tests.

It must be explained that the Guthrie Revised Rules are still in the Rough, but it will be seen that they are going to debrutalize a very rough Sport as soon as they are approved by all of the Athletic Associations.

Polynesia was probably the last habitable area to be occupied. The Polynesians, although of similar features, language, customs, religion and traditions, are not a pure race. They are supposed to be mainly of Aryan origin, with infusions of other bloods, and to have come from Asia by way of the Malay peninsula and Java, and thence from island to island by various routes in their migration eastward, northward and southward and to have reached Hawaii, probably from Samoa, about A. D. 500.

Reading Speed

Six words per second, or about four and one-half hours for a standard size book, is good average reading speed, and most people can aspire to reach this seemingly extraordinary rapidity, It is the brain, not the eye, which determines the speed of reading. The eye cannot move steadily, but must move in a series of jerks, with pauses between. These pauses are needed to see the printed page clearly, but still more to give time for the meaning to be grasped.

FROM THE BEGINNING

Jim Stuart, fur trader, with his headman, Omar, rescues Aurore LeBlond, daughter of Stuart's rival in business, from an overturned cance in the lake. She proves a charming panion, and Stuart is naturally attracted.

Jim's superior, Andrew Christie, displeased at Stuart's trade showing, allows him, at his request, one year to "make good." Paradis bribes an Indian to ambush Jim and Omar. The attempt fails, and Jim takes the Indian to LeBlond. After hearing the story, LeBlond discharges Paradis. Jim and Aurore acknowledge their mutual love, though Aurore is re-turning to Winnipeg, and Jim has planned a cance trip to make a personal appeal to the Indians, who have persistently refused to trade their furs with him. He finds that Paradis has enlisted their superstition to discourage them from trading with Stuart. Paradis' men ambush Jim and Omar again, but they are not harmed. Esau, half-breed par-tisan of Stuart, leaves on a journey which they hope will result in the overthrow of "Jingwak," Indian "medicine man" in the pay of Paradis. Camping for the night, the trader and Omar roll their blankets in the shape of men sleep-ing beside the fire, and hide nearby. Indians attempt to knife the men supposedly in the blankets. Jim and his friend attack and kill them. Jim successfully treats the infected arm of Jinaw's squaw, thereby gaining a friend. They set out to find their ally, Esau. On his way down the river Esau frustrates attempts to stop or kill him. Cornered by enemies, the veteran canoeman successfully runs the Windigo rapids, a feat believed to be impossible.

-14-"How did he do it?" cried Jim, elated with the good news. "Now where are Paradis and Jingwak?"

"Paradis returned and the families of four of those who went with him are asking for their sons. But he will not speak."

"But Jingwak, what does he say? Is he afraid of this medicine man who ran the rapids to reach him?" "He tells them that his magic will destroy the stranger." "Did you see your son?"

"Yes. He said that Paradis and two others saw this shaman drive two men with their canoe into the rapids, but Paradis has closed their lips. Two more, who hunted for the white trader on the lake, have not returned."

"Umh!" Omar grunted. "He weel wait long tam for dem."

Far into the night the three discussed the situation. Omar wished to go in search of Esau at once, but Jinaw objected.

"There is now fear in the camp of Paradis. The young men are worried about this strange shaman from the west. Let me go again to the fishing camps and talk to the people. The time is not yet right for you to show yourselves to the Ojibwas."

"But we must find Esau. He may needs us." urged Jim.

"I will find him and return in two sleeps to this place," said the old man, as he stepped into his canoe.

Chafing under the lack of action imposed upon them by the old Indian, Jim and Omar spent two more days in hiding.

On the second night Jinaw returned, and the news he brought quickened the blood in the veins of the two who listened. Jinaw told them that some of the older Indians had demanded that Jingwak prove his superiority over the stranger whose magic canoe had been seen on the lake. And so, word had gone out to the people of the Sturgeon lakes that the shaman, Jingwak, would erect his medicine lodge at the Great Medicine Stone, and prove his magic stronger than that of the sorcerer who had come among them only to hide. "Esau's smoked him out! Good old Esau! Here's his chance!" cried Jim. "But what under heaven is he going to do, Omar?" "We go and see," grunted the halfbreed.

CHAPTER IX

For two days canoes from the four winds had passed the hiding place of Jim and Omar, on their way to the medicine making beside the mammoth boulder, known as the Great Medicine Stone.

As he sat watching the moving canoes through his binoculars, Jim wondered how, in the face of the odds which confronted him, the little old man hoped to outwit the sorcerer. What could he contrive before these gaping red men to make the fakir. Jingwak, a laughing stock in the eyes of his own people?

And in Omar Jim found no com-

Further than that Omar would not "What is he holding so closely behind those stiff lips of his?" Jim ruminated. "He certainly has some idea about what Esau will do."

When the twilight died and 'ae lake lay muffled in shadow, Jim and Omar slipped their canoe into the water and started for the island. A few hours, now, would tell the tale. Jim wondered if this was the end. In the mad hope of saving Sunset House, he had put aside his love for the girl who had begged him to stay. And now, on the desperate chance of Esau winning over the Indians by some sleight of hand, some artifice of the conjuror, learned from his father, they were giving Paradis odds of ten to one in a knife fight in the dark.

At last, off the shore where the expectant Ojibwas were gathered before the fire, the peterboro drifted in the murk. A short distance from the are, dimly outlined in the shadows at the foot of the Medicine Stone, stood a small cylindrical tipi of caribou hide, ornamented with the grotesque shapes of serpents and animals. It "Can you make out Paradis?" replied Jim. "Paradees keep een de dark until Eef eet work, we have to fight for Esau." Presently, the rattle of shells, mingled with the beat of the medicine drum, drifted from the tent. The low hum of the squatted audience died. The sorcerer had begun his invocation of the spirits. At the fire swart faces turned gray with dread. Suddenly, out of the hush, lifted a voice as from the grave. A spirit was speaking. "The stranger from the land where the sun sleeps is no shaman. He came from the trader at the House of the Setting Sun, the home of devils. "Where is this conjuror," asked the sepulchral voice, "who tells the Ojibwas his magic is stronger than that of Jingwak, my brother? He is not here! him?" He fears the wrath of Jingwak, the great shaman." Jim's muscles stiffened. The moment had come. It was time to strike -but where was Esau?

"He's not here!" whispered Jim. 'We'd better work toward the canoe." But the man at his side, whose fingers clamped on the horn handle of a knife as he peered at the medicine lodge, stood motionless.

"The stranger has the heart of a rabbit. His mouth is full of lies. He hides from the magic of Jingwak!" With a glance at the spellbound Indians, Jim took Omar's arm. "Come on! They'll go crazy in a minute! We'll be cut off from the canoe!" Then the iron fingers of Omar dug into Jim's arm as he muttered,

"Look!" Beside the medicine lodge stood an apparition. From the nodding head. above a chalk-white mask with eve holes and a grimacing mouth, rose the antlers of a caribou. On the skin-clad body writhed painted snakes. At the sash hung the medicine bag and shell rattle of a conjuror.

A suppressed "Ah!" swept the startled Ojibwas. "The shaman! The shaman!"

There was a pause. Wide eyed, the electrified Indians waited for the funereal voice from the mask. "I have come, oh Jingwak! Otchig, the shaman from God's lake who fears not your magic, is here!" But from the tipi of Jingwak came no sound. "Come forth, oh magician with the split tongue! Otchig, the shaman from God's lake, laughs at your medicine!" Still the lodge of Jingwak gave no answer. From the squatted Olibwas rose murmurs of surprise. Why did not Jingwak speak? Suddenly, in the gloom across the fire, sounded heated words. Jim's eyes turned from the horned shape by the medicine lodge. An inflamed

There was a movement in the medicine lodge. The door flap was thrust aside and the conjuror crawled slowly out. As he rose, the rat-like eyes in the painted face, avoiding the mask of Otchig, shifted furtively from side to side.

"He's quit! Esau's got him! We'd better work around behind to hold 'em off, if they rush!" breathed Jim. "No, de Indian believe Esau-wait!

I tak' care of Paradees!" "Look, men of the Sturgeon, on the great Wabeno!" jeered the voice from the chalk-white mask, as Jingwak's hunted eyes fell before the rows of fire-lit faces. "His friend, the spirit, asks me for magic! Behold the medicine of Otchig!"

With an ear-torturing scream, he stiffened his arms and sliced the air, downward, to his side.

"Without blood I have taken his ears!" announced the voice from the mask. "Go to him and behold the magic of Otchig."

The desperate Jingwak turned to escape in the blackness of the spruce, but Jinaw and two Ojibwas were on him and dragged the panic-stricken sorcerer back to the fire. Pushing aside the long hair which hung to his shoulders, the Rattlesnake exposed the sides of Jingwak's head to the view of the astonished Ojibwas. The ears had been removed close to the skull! For a hushed interval the awed Ojibwas gaped in wonder at this proof of Otchig's magic. Then with a roar there was a rush for the imposter who had deceived them with his boasting. But the terrified Jingwak wrenched free of the arms that held him and disappeared in the blackness.

At the same time Jim and Omar cut back to the shore to head off Paradis, but he had foreseen defeat and his canoe had lost itself in the shadows. Furious at having the man who had hunted them slip through their fingers, Jim and Omar returned to the fire. Then Jinaw shouted for silence, while the triumphant Esau gathered the fruits of his victory. The last doubter was convinced. He had won!

Eagerly the mercurial red men waited while the great shaman, Otchig, removed his costume. Then Esau addressed them. Going back to God's lake, he told of the respect for fair dealing in which the Indians had held the elder Stuart and his son. The devil story of Jingwak, the liar, which had kept the hunters from the post, was the invention of Paradis, to hold the fur trade. Jingwak and the Frenchman they would never see again. #### CHAPTER X

Hard as they had raced the coming winter south through the Pipestone lakes, long since deserted by the Indians, the men from Sunset House found that the moccasin telegraph had been even more swift. For one day as they followed the inlet of the last of the chain, they overtook a canoe. Anxious to speed the news of Jingwak's downfall. Omar ran the peterboro alongside the traveling birch bark. At his mention of the defeat of the sorcerer and his friend Paradis. the men in the boat nodded in affirmation. "Otchig, the great shaman from God's lake took his ears," said the older Indian. "Jingwak is a liar. He has left the country."

"Otchig now lives at the Lake of the Sand Beaches," announced Omar. "Do the Ojibwas believe he lives with devils?"

The Indian shook his head. "It was the lie of Jingwak and Paradis, the trader. In the Little Moon of the Spirit I and my sons will journey to the House of the Sunset with our furs."

When the peterboro had passed from earshot of the other craft, Omar asked his friends: "How dey hear dat so soon?" "A canoe must have started for the Pipestones that night. Why didn't you tell them that Esau was the great shaman, Otchig?" demanded Jim. Omar frowned at the lack of astuteness in his chief. "Dey breeng dat fur to us Creesmas to have a look at de nodded in approval, Then, between the Pipestones and home, the first battalions of the geese, fleeing the freezing winds, filled the nights with their clamor, and hard on their heels came the snow. Each morning breaking a path with their noles through the heavier film of ice of the deadwaters, riding the thinner sheets with a pounding bow, the vovageurs raced the winter south.

At last, one windy October day, when swirls of fine snow beat round the buildings of Sunset House, and the black lake churned into winddriven foam, three white shapes, driving paddles sheathed with ice, brought the canoe in to the beach. (TO BE CONTINUED.

POULTRY · FACTS ·

NO GREAT PROFIT IN RAISING CAPONS

Inadvisable to Rear Chicks for Meat Alone.

Claims for rapid and great increase in weight after caponizing cockerels are disputed by experiment stations that have investigated them. A bulletin from the Cornell experiment station quotes the Maryland State College of Agriculture as having found that the rate of growth of cockerels and capons compared very closely up to the time of the maturity of the cockerels, the cockerels being slightly more efficient in the use of food. After maturity was reached, this relation was reversed, the capons becoming slightly more efficient. The same results were obtained at Cornell. The Illinois station found that up to 46 weeks there was little difference in the growing of capons and cockerels.

The Cornell statement with regard to this continues with the cautionary paragraph. "Apparently the extravagant claims have not been founded upon facts. . . . Under most New York state conditions it is not advisable to attempt to raise capons for the New York wholesale market. . . However, in localities where a special trade can be built up and premium prices obtained it may be profitable to produce them. . . . A plump, juicy capon cannot be excelled by any poultry for fine table quality, and doubtless many poultrymen continue to produce them primarily for home use." This seems to correspond with the opinions of numerous poultry keepers who have tried producing capons for the wholesale markets and have found that feed costs have been too great to permit any great profit in the raising of fowls for meat alone.-Rural New-Yorker.

Vitamins That Affect

Food Value of the Egg Eggs from chickens fed a ration full of vitamins A and D are better food than eggs from chickens fed rations less rich in these vitamins, Recent experiments in Ohio indicate most spectacularly throughout knit- that the amount of vitamin A and D supplied to the bird is directly reflected in the vitamin content of the eggs produced. Thus, in feeding his hens to maintain their health, the poultryman is feeding for eggs of better quality and more worth.

A ration for hens rich in vitamins would contain yellow corn, alfalfa leaf meal, or a high grade cod liver oil. Vitamin D prevents rickets and assists with the building of bone. Vitamin A builds resistance to diseases

Poultry Outlook

The summary of the program for writers." poultry as outlined in the "Agricultural Outlook for 1932," and published by Iowa State college, is, in our judgment, sound advice.

"Most farmers with general flocks adapted to both meat and egg production might well hold their production plans to about the same volume as last year and put further emphasis on proper feeding, careful flock management and selling on a graded basis. Graded selling of eggs becomes increasingly important with the marked expansion in the competition between frozen eggs and the lower grades of cold storage eggs."-Wallace's Farmer.

Separate Ducks and Hens Ducks, chickens and turkeys have quite different habits and requirements: therefore they should be kept separate in order to be profitable and healthy. If ducks and chickens are confined to the same run it will soon be found that the webbed feet of the ducks treading on the droppings will make the run very insanitary for the fowls, and any contagious disease breaking out would be quickly communicated to the entire flock.

Turkeys must be provided with space for exercise, and fresh air and should be kept in a fairly cold, dry atmosphere.

Moist Ration Best

Mixing a part of the dry mash with milk until it is moistened to a crumbly state greatly increases the palatability of the poultry ration. Experiments with flocks of the same breed kept under exactly the same conditions and fed the same rations, except that a part of the ration was fed wet in one case and in the other case all of production during the year of 24 eggs per bird, a matter no poultry raiser can afford to overlook.

When to Start Culling

Culling should begin when the eggs are selected for incubation and conout. Only strong, vigorous, healthy chicks should be placed in the brooding pens. Pullets put into winter quarters should be carefully selected as to factors bearing on their usefulness, and throughout the laying year, hens that developed physical weakness, or are late, or irregular, producers should be removed.

PAID ADVERTISEMENT - Authorized, written, published and paid PAID ADVERTISEMENT — Authorized, written, published and paid for, the sum of $3.50 by L. M. Corrigan, Cedarburg, on behalf of Walter D. Corrigan, Sr., R. F. D. No. 2, Cedarburg, for Representative in Congress for the Sixth District of Wisconsin.

WALTER D. CORRIGAN

Progressive Candidate for CONGRESS on Republican Ballot SEPTEMBER 20th

1. Has resided on a farm in this District for seven years. The opposition objects to his candidacy because he "sleeps in Ozaukee County." The fact is, he never "sleeps on the job" of promoting the public welfare. His interests are largely in this District.

2. Personal counsel for the late Senator La Follette in the famous libel cases growing out of the World War. He forced retractions by newspapers admitting that Senator La Follette had been deeply wronged by their false publi-

WALTER D. CORRIGAN, SR. 3. Special counsel for Wisconsin in the famous water power cases and cases upholding constitutionality of the Anti-Pass Law, and constitutionality of Corrupt Practices Act. Has been counsel for many injured persons in securing large damages from corpora-tions, as high as $40,000.00 in some cases.

4. His law practice is in large part in behalf of individuals, but his great abilities as a trial lawyer have been so recognized by political adversaries that he has even been employed occasionally to try private cases for corporations. He is under no retainers by which financial interests can direct or affect his position on public questions. 5. Endorsed by Organized Labor. Endorsed by Farmers. Endorsed by Senators La Foliette and Blaine, and by Governor La Foliette, and by the Progressive Conference of this District by unanimous vote.

6. A member of the faculty of the Law School of Marquette University for several years.

7. Has appeared before committees as legislative counsel, but never adverse to the public welfare. Has helped frame legislation on many subjects in the public interest, 8. Has the ability and experience to immediately make him a leader in the halls of Congress. Has no experience as a sitter but much experience as a fighter for justice and a square deal.

9. Favors Farm Relief legislation. Favors Repeal of 18th Amendment and Modification of Volstead Act. Favors economies in government. Favors St. Lawrence Waterway. Favors immediate payment of Soldiers' Bonus as a national debt. Opposes special privileges. Opposes Sales Tax, and insists that taxation to meet the real needs of government should be according to ability to pay. Opposes cancellation of the debts of France and England due United States.

10. Truly "A Big Man for A Big Job."
