KEWASKUM HIGH SCHOOL COLUMN

Report cards were issued to all graded pupils on Tuesday and to high school pupils on Wednesday. These are to be signed by the parents and returned to the school as soon as possible. The marks on these cards is the school's main way of telling the parents of the quality of work the pupil is doing. Good work should merit praise, and inferior work can largely be eliminated by the cooperation of home and school.

The Girl Scout Committee met in the Grammar Room last Thursday afternoon to arrange the year's program. Mrs. Elwyn Romaine resigned as committee member and Mrs. Fred Buss was appointed in her place. Mrs. Muenk will continue as Scout Captain and Miss Smith will act as Lieutenant.

The High School Music Department is daily rehearsing for the operetta which will be presented November 11 and 12. "Chonita," a colorful gypsy romance, is based on the musical themes of Franz Liszt, the German composer and master pianist. The story takes place in Hungary about the year 1880.

Chonita is a lovely gypsy princess who discovers on her eighteenth birthday that she Stefan, a minstrel of her tribe, are in love. They are eager to be married at once but because of a promise made by her father to his wife on her deathbed, this is impossible. Chonita's mother, a white woman, insisted that her daughter go to live with her relatives when she became eight years old.

Chonita reluctantly consents to do this and with her comical old nurse, Dava, finally goes to Budapest to stay with the noble Stanesco family. Her experiences in the social world, her love affair with the sophisticated Konrad Stanesco, and finally the reuniting of the real lovers make the story a fascinating one.

The solos are beautiful and the chorus numbers sung by members of the entire gypsy tribe around the camp fire are very picturesque. There are also several colorful gypsy dances.

The whole production, with its cast of over fifty people is one which will appeal to everyone in the community, young as well as old. Remember the dates, Friday and Saturday evenings, November 11 and 12. An advance sale of tickets by the student body will be launched in a few days.

C. & N. W. R'Y ASK TO CLOSE CROSSING

The officials of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad Company have asked the Village Board for permission to close the railroad crossing at the Kewaskum Creamery, which request was received in a communication addressed to village clerk S. N. Casper, which reads as follows:

Dear Sir:—To eliminate so far as possible the recurrence of an accident such as happened at the First Street crossing in the Village of Kewaskum, Wisconsin, on the evening of March 12th, 1932, we suggest that this crossing be discontinued; the planking over all tracks taken up, and a barricade fence placed across the roadway both east and west of our tracks.

We know from actual observation and statistics that we have gathered, that the traffic over this crossing is very light, and too because of the conditions of approach to this crossing, both from the east and from the west, vision of vehicle drivers of approaching trains is somewhat obscured by these conditions and which we cannot very well change.

We therefore respectfully ask the sanction of your Village Board to permit us to remove this crossing and establish the barricades indicated. If this permission can be granted, we will agree to have installed at the Second Street crossing, i.e. the next one north of the First Street crossing, in the spring of 1933, two wigwag signals, and this arrangement will provide double wigwag protection at both the Main Street and Second Street crossings.

I shall personally be grateful to you if you will submit our request to the Village Board and let me know as early as possible what the decision in this request is.

If desired, I can arrange to be present at any meeting where discussion of this matter may be necessary, but I doubt if I can give you more information concerning the conditions than you and your Village Body already has. Yours truly, C. E. Sainsbury, Asst. Supt.

Mr. Casper submitted the letter to the Village Board at their last meeting, but no final action was taken. The matter was referred to the Chamber of Commerce at their meeting Monday evening. After considerable discussion it was suggested that Village Clerk S. N. Casper write Mr. Sainsbury and ask him to have plans and specification of their proposition drawn by their engineer, and present same at the next meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on Monday evening, November 21st.

FISH FRY

WOMAN'S CLUB ENTERTAINS TEACHERS

At the Republican House last Saturday afternoon after the business meeting from 3 to 4 o'clock, the Women's Club held their annual reception for the teachers. The teachers were welcomed by President Mrs. Otto E. Lay with a short address. This was followed by Miss Evelyn Walters of West Bend, who read a one act play entitled "The Lady of the Portrait." Mr. Rose, assistant principal, rendered several lovely vocal selections.

The guests present were the entire teaching faculty, Rev and Mrs. Richard M. A. Gadow, Mrs. Corrine Oppenorth and Mr and Mrs. John Porter. Rev. Gadow, Mr. E. E. Skalsky and Mr. Porter responded with toasts when called upon. The hostesses of the afternoon were Mrs. Wm. Schultz and Mrs. H. J. Lay.

TEACHERS TAKE VOLUNTARY CUT

The teachers of the local high school at a recent faculty meeting agreed to accept a voluntary cut in wages effective which dates back to the beginning of the school year. This action was taken upon their own initiative after due consideration was given to the present conditions, realizing that no improvement was had since they signed new contracts early last spring. Feeling that economy should start in the school, they will do their bit as follows: Prin. E. E. Skalsky takes a $11.00 per month cut, while Miss Margaret Brown, Miss Catherine Stevens, Miss Viola Daly and Mrs. Olga Muenk, each take a $5.00 month reduction Chas. Schaefer, the janitor, reduced $8.88 per month.

Three teachers, Mr. Clifford Rose, Miss Olive Smith and Miss Ruth Jordan are not included in this wage reduction of their wages are already in accordance with the economy program adopted. The news of the voluntary reduction came as a great surprise to the officers of the school board. The teachers are to be complimented upon the action they so generously took.

It was not until 1927 that the Wisconsin state legislature passed a law requiring that all cans of lye for household use be labeled "poison", and that two antidotes for it be printed on the can. Before that time, there was nothing to caution mothers to be careful in using lye in the home.

MOVING FOXES

It's moving time of Ozaukee County's Fox farms, the largest ranches in the United States. About 24,000 foxes on these ranches are being moved now to their winter quarters in Northern Wisconsin and Michigan. They will be turned loose into more natural surroundings so their fur may be conditioned for pelting in December. The last of the foxes will be removed by the end of this week, it has been estimated. Most of the foxes are pups, born this year, that will mature to full growth in a few months. Among the lot are many discarded breeding pairs. The animals are being shipped in crates and hauled by large trucks. —The Cedarburg News.

Mr. Gehl has a host of friends in this part of the county who join in extending congratulations. He was a Captain in the World War and now Colonel in the Wisconsin National Guard. Only recently he was awarded the purple heart decoration for military heroism.

Mr. Gehl is the third Hartford man to become United States District Attorney in the Wisconsin Eastern District. Former attorneys from Hartford holding the position were H. K. Butterfield and H. A. Sawyer. It is a recess appointment.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HOLD MONTHLY MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Kewaskum Chamber of Commerce was held in the room above the former Farmers & Merchants State Bank Monday evening with a large representation of the membership present.

Among some of the business transacted was relative to asking the railroad company to make Kewaskum a flag stop for north bound train due in the village about six o'clock in the evening, and instead of the train due here at 9:30 p.m., stopping only when passengers wish to get off, that it make a regular stop here every night. A committee consisting of Byron H. Rosenheimer, Otto E. Lay and Theo. Schmidt was appointed to draw up and circulate a petition requesting the changes.

Another question taken up is for the enjoyment of the skating sports, the establishing of an outdoor skating rink during the winter months. The suggestion made was well received and a committee was appointed to investigate further as to what can be done to bring about such a rink. The president appointed on this committee, Dr. Leo Brauchle, Lester Dreher and Ed. E. Miller

CHILDREN TO BE VACCINATED

Three years ago 270 children were vaccinated against diphtheria through the schools. There are still many more children who have not had the opportunity to have this protection. Many parents of very young children are asking if their children may have toxin-antitoxin this year. The County Health Department, therefore announces that toxin-antitoxin (diphtheria vaccinations) will be given by local physicians at the following places to any child from six months of age through 12 years. The younger the child the more important it is that he should have toxin-antitoxin.

The centers where T. A. T. will be given are as follows:

Oct. 25—Kewaskum High School at 8:45 a.m.
Oct. 25—West Bend Grade School at 9:45 a.m.
Oct. 25—Newburg Public School at 11:00 a.m.
Oct. 26—Jackson Graded School at 8:45 a.m.
Oct. 26—Germantown Graded School at 9:45 a.m.
Oct. 26—Slinger High School at 10:45 a.m.
Oct. 27—Allenton Parochial School at 8:45 a.m.
Oct. 27—Hartford City Hall at 10:00

Children are requested to be at the centers promptly.

The expense of the treatments will be borne jointly by Washington County and the parents. The parents will contribute 50c per child. This will include the three injections of T. A. T. that are given at weekly intervals and the Schick test which will be given six months to one year later.

Last year 54 children died in Wisconsin of diphtheria and at least 20 times as many more had the disease. Why had these children not been given T. A. T.? In infant cases the fathers and mothers just put off having it done. Putting off where diphtheria is always considered dangerous. In 64 cases in Wisconsin it was tragic. Don't put off vaccination another day. Come to one of the centers listed above and have the satisfaction of knowing that you have done your part in protecting your children against diphtheria.

FARM WAGES LOWER

Wisconsin farmers are employing fewer hired men and paying the lowest wages in years. Recent returns from crop reporters of the Wisconsin crop reporting service indicate that men hired by the month with board are receiving $19.25 per month. This wage is $1.25 lower than the going rate last July and is $8.75 below the wage paid a year ago.

Other types of farm wages have taken similar reductions. Workers hired by the month without board are receiving $30.00. Men hired by the day are receiving one dollar if board is included, or $1.45 without board.

Farm wage rates in Wisconsin are now 28 per cent below the pre war level and about 31 per cent below last year's mark. On October 1, the demand for farm labor was reported as being 63 per cent of normal while supply was 125 per cent of normal. The number of men hired on the farms of the state while lower than formerly is not declining nearly as rapidly as the wages being paid. With the widespread unemployment farm workers have few alternative opportunities and hence they remain mostly on farms even though the wages are the lowest in a generation.

MAYVILLE VISITED BY DRY AGENTS

Last week Thursday night sixteen federal prohibition officers were unpleasant visitors at Mayville. It is reported that they raided a large alcohol distillery, an old plant on the outskirts of Mayville, and was in operation only three weeks. Three men, all strangers to the community were arrested.

The report also states that several saloons in Mayville were sealed the same evening by dry agents.

Something New in the Way of Freighters

Just what the name implies is the steamship Seatrain, New York, as it was christened and launched at Chester, Pa. The vessel will carry loaded freight cars between New York and New Orleans and Havana. It is the first freight steamer built in this country since the war. The Seatrain has four decks, with each accommodating a quarter of a mile of tracks. A crane transfers the cars from deck to pier. Transfer of a full cargo takes 20 hours or one-sixth the time required to unload an ordinary freighter of the same amount of cargo.

The KITCHEN CABINET

Simple Sauces It has been well said that hunger is the best sauce, but any feast is enhanced by a mental sauce which is wit. Brillat-Savarin, who will be remembered as a great wit and as a great epicure, paid his respects to the English by saying they were a nation of a hundred religions but only one sauce. The Frenchman believes in the value of good sauces and dresses his dishes with appetizing ones. Our American cooks delight in learning some of those Gallic creations by which they may transform plain food into something seemingly out of the ordinary. The French chef keeps three kinds of roux on hand, ready for sauces. These are brown, a pale cream color and a white. They are flour and butter cooked together in various stages. The white sauce is only cooked with the butter long enough to mix well, then the stock, milk or whatever liquid is used is added. With eight ounces of butter and nine ounces of flour the foundation is prepared. For a cream, or that which we call a white or cream sauce, take two tablespoonfuls of the roux and mix with a cupful of milk, a tablespoonful each of finely chopped parsley, shallots and chives. Cook fifteen minutes, pass through a colander and add a lump of butter, more chopped parsley and salt and pepper. Mix well with a wooden spoon and it is ready for the table. Sauce Piquante—Cut two onions into slices, one carrot and two shallots, put into a saucepan with a tablespoonful of butter. While heating add a sprig of thyme, a tablespoonful of parsley minced, a bayleaf and two or three cloves. When the onions are a golden brown add a tablespoonful of flour, a little plain stock and a tablespoonful of vinegar. Boil up, pass through a sieve and season with salt and pepper.

Eagle Drops "Bombs" to Scare Prey in Hiding

Cheyenne, Wyo.—Tales of an eagle which dropped bombs to scare its prey from bushes were brought to Cheyenne recently by Adolph Hamm, of the Wyoming District Biological survey. The story was related to Hamm by a rancher living south of Rock Springs, who said he saw the "bomber" in action. The eagle, according to the rancher, first was seen pursuing a sage hen. The hen scurried into a narrow gulch and concealed herself in a clump of bushes. The eagle hovered over the gully for a time, then flew to a rocky ledge near the gulch and seized a large stone in its talons. Carrying the rock, the bird flew over the spot where the hen had disappeared and dropped the "bomb." Wheeling in the air, the eagle swooped over the bushes, evidently expecting the hen to run into the open. The hen, however, apparently was familiar with such tactics, be-

TWO teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar and one scant teaspoonful of saleratus are equal to three teaspoonfuls of baking powder. If every pot, kettle or utensil used in the cooking of food is washed as soon as emptied, and while still hot, half the labor will be saved. Always keep bottles containing poison under lock and key or label them plainly and keep them out of the children's reach.

Doctors Discover Two Hearts in Man

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Edward Reynolds of Wilkesburg on several occasions mystified physicians and surgeons who were treating him for slight ailments when they were unable to locate the most important organ in his body. Reynolds was given a medical examination at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company plant. The examining surgeons could not locate his heart beat. They were absolutely sure there must be a heart beat, or else— The examining medics were almost incredulous when X-rays showed two hearts, one on each side. The one on his left was smaller than his right side organ, which had the stronger beat, but a first class active blood pumper just the same.

Lights of New York

Charles Francis Coe and I recalled the old story of the man who decided to take a grandfather's clock to be repaired, lugged it out of the house and stood looking for a taxi. He was approached by a drunk who asked solemnly: "Shay, did you ever try a wrist watch?" Then Mr. Coe told me of an inebriate followed by Leon Errol, who used to trail any interesting looking licker hound for blocks, because he was studying for the part of a drunk in a Broadway show. The man zigzagged along until he came to one of those mammoth and gilded wooden feet which advertise a foot remedy. The drunk was fascinated by it. Finally, he playfully touched with his finger one of the giant wooden toes. "Zish little pig," he recited joyfully, "went to market."

When the late Jack Donohue and Earl Benham used to troop with Raymond Hitchcock, they were playing one night in the Tulsa (Okla.) theater, which oil built, but which was electrically lighted. On this particular occasion, some wires got crossed, or something happened at the power house. Anyhow, the performers suddenly were left in darkness. There was no desire to give the customers their money back, so Hitchcock announced that while the trouble was being rectified the actors would give an impromptu performance by the farthest beams candles could be induced to throw. As each one did a song or dance, the others grouped themselves on the stage. Finally Raymond Hitchcock announced that he had a horn in his dressing room, and that he would get it and play a piece on it. Sure enough, he stepped into the off stage gloom and in a moment returned with

THE BOY WHO WAITED

(Continued From Last Week.) Synopsis: Jimmy Norton and four friends had returned from a picnic just in time to see a little girl struck by a car. The man did not stop. Jimmy insisted upon waiting with her until help came. The other boys disappeared, afraid they would be suspected. This was apparently just what was to happen. Jimmy is found beside the little girl. "When did this happen, kid? How did you do it? Steer into her?" "I didn't do it, mister, a car came around the corner like this and gee, just like lightning, struck her down. I saw it and came over." "No one will believe that, my boy," said the officer. A policeman passed just then and the man hailed him. "Trouble over here," he said. The policeman looked very grave as he looked at the little girl and the boy. The little girl was just beginning to regain her consciousness, and stirred, but then she lapsed again. "We'll take her to the doctor's, and then I'll take this boy along with me to hold him until we hear more about this." Jimmy could scarcely believe his ears. It was just exactly as the other boys had said. Jimmy was in a daze. He couldn't believe that they would not listen to his story. Well, surely the little girl's father would. Yes, when he came everything would be all right. But late that night, Jimmy learned that the little girl apparently didn't have any father. His own father came instead and hearing the tale as told by the policeman and the man who had come to Jimmy's aid first, he too seemed

A DAILY BREAD PUZZLE

The twenty-one letters around the border spell the words that make up a saying about bread. To get at this you must begin with one of the letters, which you will have to discover and then read to the right, going around the border twice and skipping every other letter. To believe it was the truth. "I don't know what will become of you, my boy," he said. "The little girl may die and then goodness knows what will happen." Jimmy's mother didn't believe the story. She believed her boy, for she had never known Jimmy to tell an untruth. They kept Jimmy locked up, not in jail, but in custody at his father's house and there was an air of great mystery and sadness hanging over everything for days. The little girl did not seem to recover. If only she would. Then about a week later, a turn in the situation came that was entirely unexpected. A man came into town and asked to be hown to the police station. When he was directed, he went there at once. He was in a large car, and seemed to have an immense amount of wealth. "It was my car that struck a little girl here in this town about a week ago. I want to see about paying damages," he said to the chief of police there. "So—the kid's story was right then. It was a car that struck her. We have him all but locked up, thinking he did it with his bicycle. Well, I'll be—, You'll have to be locked up now yourself." "It was not I who was driving the car. I was not in it. Had I been I would most certainly have stopped. It was my driver. He was afraid to stop, I guess, anyway the thing has been on his mind for days, and I finally squeezed the truth out of him. I want to pay for everything. And how did that boy get into the story?" The chief of police related the tale then as the boy had first told it, how the other boys had gone off and he hadn't wanted to and all the rest. When the man had heard it, he brushed a tear away from his eyes as he thought of how the boy had suffered innocently all this long past week. Just then word came in that the little girl was getting along nicely, would not die, would in fact be out and around again in a few days. And the man who came into town to pay damages paid considerably more than that. He insisted upon meeting Jimmy, and he insisted just as hard upon giving Jimmy a present to reward his unselfishness. Even Jimmy didn't know what that reward was until after the man had gone and looking in his hand he saw there a little roll of one hundred dollar bills, ten of them. Jimmy's anxiety had certainly been well converted from pain into happiness, and he was the much envied boy for many months after that.

Come Home, All Is Forgiven

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON "Abingdon Law" "HANG a man first and try him afterwards" would be a first rate interpretation of the expression "Abingdon Law," an expression which we do not encounter so frequently nowadays as formerly. The phrase "Abingdon Law" is of English derivation. It is said to have been inspired by the practice of a certain notorious Major Brown of

Medical Use for Radio Waves

New York.—If you are truly modern, you will cure your ills by radio instead of resorting to old-fashioned castor oil and liniment. A newly-discovered medical use for radio was discussed by physicians and scientists in a symposium on fever therapy at the American Congress of Physical Therapy here. Of course, it is a special kind of radio, a sort of broadcasting station set up, with condenser plates instead of aerials to concentrate the waves in energy for the patient. It is used to produce artificial fever in the patient, and fever has long been considered beneficial in treatment of general paralysis, arthritis, paresis and other ills. Dr. William Bierman, of the Beth Israel and Sydenham hospitals, New York, explained the radio-fer treatment.

The patient rests upon a canvas stretched between the two condenser plates, but not in contact with them. To prevent loss of heat the body, all but the head, is covered with a hood. "The plates form part of an oscillating circuit, with the oscillations produced by the use of radio tubes and other equipment. A high-frequency electric field of high intensity is produced between the two plates, and the patient lies in that field." Flares of ultra-violet light—a new kind of health "pill"—can be set off inside the human body by a radiation discovery of the University of Pennsylvania. The flares are chemicals, injected into the body by hypodermic needle. They are in some ways startlingly like the colored light flares of fireworks. Also like fireworks the chemical flares have to be set off. These human flares are lit by a beam of X-rays. Unlike fireworks they do not keep on blazing automatically, but only as long as the X-rays are turned upon them. The discovery of the chemicals is credited to Dr. A. J. Allen, physicist of the cancer research laboratories of the university. They were developed during cancer research by Dr. Ellice McDonald, director of the laboratories. "This research," Doctor McDonald stated, "gives great hope of finding a range of radiation destructive to the cancer cell and of increasing and extending the powers of X-rays in the treatment of cancer." Good behavior is peace of mind.

Jed Hopkins says YOUR GRAIN ELEVATOR MAN KNOWS SOMETHING ABOUT BREAD BAKING

An Interview with Bill Higgins Which Only Goes to Show That You Can't Make a Success of a Business Unless You Know Something About It

WELL, folks, you know, it's a funny thing but sometimes when I gits to goin' aroun' askin' questions from folks, I finds out some things that I'd oughta a knowed before, but I just kinda missed scin' the meanin'. But I juss everybody's like that more or less. Now yu take th' other day when I had orders to go over to Bill Higgins elevator an' git a certain brand of flour. Bill sells flour 'n feeds 'n fools around with such things. So I sez to Bill, I sez, "Bill, how come yu sell flour? I allus thought a man wuz supposed to know what things wuz good fer an' I wuz just figurin' bakin' bread 'n cakes 'n such ter be kinda out of your line."

Jed Hopkins, The Philosopher Who Never Went To College

"Well Jed," says Bill, "I'll tell yu, now I don't know so much about bakin' bread an' such but lemme tell yu that my wife knows how to bake—an' I'm a right fair judge of th' results. But," continues Bill, "yu wuz just sent over t' me to git some of th' Gold Medal. "Kitchen-tested" flour that I sell. Now yu figger it out. E'yu suppose yu'd be sent here to git it if it weren't juss th' ticket? 'Course not! 'N lemme tell yu, Jed, yu ain't th' only one what hez his orders to git it. Yu see, the womenfolk hereabout 're pretty much up on bakin' an' they know what works th' best. That's why I'm a bakin' expert, too. I'm juss expert nuff t' know that th' flour all th' womenfolk in these parts has t' have is th' flour that bakes th' best. An' th' one I'm agoin' to sell."

So I gets m' flour and goes on along home. An' I couldn't help but think that Bill wuz right. Becuz if most of th' womenfolk wanted one kind of flour had enough, then like Bill says, "warren't no use to hold back on 'em. An' seein' how Bill's bin at it fer thirty year or more, I guess he oughta know by this time what kinda flour's most in demand roum' these parts. Guess th' moral is thet t' be successful yu don't only have t' know what th' public wants in yore own line of business, but yu have t' figger out and give 'em what they're gonna like th' best. American Fairies Known to Indian Mythology

This is no fairy tale although it is about fairies—a purely American species of fairies. A bulletin just issued by the Smithsonian Institution warns us to watch out for Iksareyavs—especially if they happen to be Kitaxrihars. These are ever-present fairies in the mythology of the Karuk Indians of northern California. They are still feared and revered in the Karuk annual ceremonies. The Iksareyavs, the bulletin points out, were the old-time people who were in America before the Indians came and who turned into animals, plants, rocks, mountains, plots of ground, parts of houses, dances and abstractions from the Karuks came. A simple Iksareyav, the Karuks believe, is harmless, but the Kitaxrihars are a special class which were savage and were petrified into various rocks.—Pathfinder Magazine.

Neal's Mother Has Right Idea

Within a few months there will be no more feverish, bilious, headachy, constipated, pale and puny children. That prophecy would surely come true if every mother could see for herself how quickly, easily, and harmlessly the bowels of babies and children are cleansed, regulated, given tone and strength by a product which has proved its merit and reliability to do what is claimed for it to millions of mothers in over fifty years of steadily increasing use.

As mothers find out from using it how children respond to the gentle influence of California Fig Syrup by growing stronger, sturdier and more active daily they simply have to tell other mothers about it. That's one of the reasons for its overwhelming sales of over four million bottles a year.

A Western mother, Mrs. Neal M. Todd, 2701 West 27th St., Oklahoma City, Okla., says: "When my son, Neal, was three years old he began having constipation. I decided to give him California Fig Syrup and in a few days he was all right and looked fine again. This pleased me so much that I have used Fig Syrup ever since for all his colds or little upset spells. It always stops his trouble quick, strengthens him, makes him eat."

Always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name and see that the carton bears the word "California." Then you'll get the genuine.

"Evil Eye" Superstition Proved to Have Basis

The evil eye, glorified symbol in superstition and magic, finds scientific credence. The human eye emanates a peculiar radiation, similar in quality to ultraviolet rays and of a strength sufficient to effect several disturbances, as for example, in yeast cells.

Dr. Otto Rahn, professor of bacteriology at Cornell university, carries further his researches and says that many parts of the body emit radiations—the finger tips, the tip of the nose. Human radiation is generally destructive, that of the plants is not. The intensity of the radiation emitted varies with individuals.

While eyes may kill yeast cells with the piercing intensity of their radiations, they are not needed at all to see with, if an invention of the Viennese Joseph Gartner means anything. Vision, says Herr Gartner, is caused by "bi-polar equalization of organic electrical tension." We do not actually see with our eyes. They are nothing but electric cells activated by differences in light intensity.

Herr Gartner constructed an apparatus which charges highly the electrical field of the body. He claims that, with the aid of the apparatus he can read a newspaper, and in public demonstrations has caused blind subjects to distinguish differences in light intensity.—Modern Thinker.

Fought to the Death

A battle to death between two strange combatants was revealed near Longmont, Colo., when the bodies of a porcupine and a rattlesnake were found in South St. Vrain canyon. The victims were lying only a few feet apart when discovered. Apparently the poison fangs of the snake had sunk into the porcupine just as quills had reached a vital part of the reptile.

INSULL ARRESTED AND THEN FREED

Greek Officials Decided He Couldn't Be Held.

Athens.—Samuel Insull, indicted at Chicago for embezzlement and larceny in the collapse of his financial empire, was formally placed under arrest here by request of the United States government.

It was the first move in the government's fight to extradite him and return him to the United States.

After being detained over night in a comfortable room in the prison building, Insull was freed from police detention and given his unconditional liberty. He cannot, however, leave the country without further passport visa.

This action was taken notwithstanding the request of the United States consulate that he be held pending extradition, when the Greek officials decided there was no legal ground for holding him longer since the documents of ratification of the recently negotiated extradition treaty between Greece and the United States have not been exchanged.

The order for Mr. Insull's release was given by Minister of the Interior, Bagopoulou after he had conferred with Prime Minister Venizelos. The public prosecutor also studied the case and decided that no legal grounds for holding Insull existed.

It was understood that application for extradition would have to be made by American authorities in the usual way.

This would mean that, unless he should agree to return to the United States without objection, Mr. Insull's rights would be passed on by the Greek courts which would determine whether the new treaty, in the absence of the exchange of instruments of ratification, is effective.

Insull is reported to have told the police that he was willing to return to Chicago "after the election" to answer to grand jury indictments.

BROOKLYN HOUSEWIFE TAKES FATAL "RIDE"

Mother of Five Is Murdered With a Dagger.

New York.—The ride murder of a housewife, slain mysteriously with a red-handled dagger, puzzled Brooklyn authorities.

Mrs. Gemma Pignataro, thirty-six-year-old mother of five children, was killed some time after she set out to care for a neighbor's sick child.

Her body was found in an automobile that had smashed against a tree at Dyker heights. At her feet lay the knife that had severed her jugular vein.

Detectives questioned her husband and two other men, one of them the owner of the wrecked car. All denied knowledge of the killing. Delving into the woman's history, the police obtained information that led them to suspect gangsters.

The detectives said she had a broth-er, Louis Ribis, who was right-hand man for the late Frankie Ulan, Brooklyn gang chief and one-time ally of Al Capone. This brother was murdered ten years ago in New Jersey. The dead woman's husband, Florio, was wounded in 1914 by an unidentified foe. He recovered.

Scratched hands indicated that Mrs. Pignataro struggled against death. The police believe that in the struggle the killers lost control of the car, which hit a tree. Two men were seen to flee from it after the crash.

Russian Reds Expel Score as "Traitors"

Moscow.—The central committee of the Communist party expelled twenty of its members, some of them prominent leaders of the Soviet regime, since the days of the revolution, on a charge of having organized a counter-revolutionary movement advocating dissolution of the collective and state farms.

The group included Gregory Zinoviev, former head of the committee, and Leo Kamenev, brother-in-law of Leon Trotsky, military leader of the revolution, who is now in exile in Turkey.

Other members of the group were former followers of Trotsky and members of the right wing of the party. They were charged with circulating anti-party literature opposing the present policy of collectivization.

KIDNAPERS SEIZE BANKER AND WIFE

Bold Plan to Obtain Ransom Is Foiled.

Chicago.—Norman B. Collins, president of two Chicago banks, who was kidnaped near his home in Wilmette and held for $5,000 ransom, was released by his captors on the North-west side. He is thirty-nine years old and head of the Security State and Second Security State banks, both on Milwaukee avenue.

No ransom was paid for his release, although the kidnapers gave explicit directions as to the manner in which the money was to be turned over to them. Any effort on their part to collect it would probably have been met with machine gun fire, for police had laid a careful trap for their arrest on the basis of the instructions in the abductors' note.

Collins, somewhat nervous and hungry, but otherwise none the worse for his 11 hours of captivity, said that he left his home in Wilmette in the family car with his wife, Alice, bound for the North Western railroad station. At Seventh street and Lake avenue, he said, three men in a "wreck of a car" forced them to the curb, and ordered him and his wife into their car. There they taped their eyes with adhesive. Then one got out and drove Collins' car behind.

"Up to this time I thought the men were robbers," said Mr. Collins. "On the way they said they were kidnapers and wanted $100,000. Not having any money on me, or any immediately available, much less the amount they asked, I told them their demand was impossible. They scaled down their demands finally to $5,000. I told them to allow my wife to see James R. Forgan, Jr., vice president of the First National bank, and they agreed. They let her go."

Mrs. Collins was driven, still blindfolded, to her car about six miles from Wilmette and released. She notified the authorities.

Alexander Jamies, chief investigator for the Secret Six, was notified. He laid the trap. Detective Louis Nichols dressed in Mrs. Collins' clothes and started out in her car. Crouched in the rear were Lieut. Leo Carr and Sgt. William Knowles. They reached the designated intersection and for two hours circled the square mile. Three blocks behind, in another car, rode Jamie, Mrs. Collins, and Mr. Forgan. The trap proved unnecessary.

Comes the Bride in Lovely Velvet

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

ACCORDING to fashion's prediction it's to be "all velvet" for many a lovely autumn bride. The glory of velvet will also be reflected in the realm of the bridesmaid, in that this picturesque individual is to wear most ravishing headgear (brimmed or brimless) together with little jackets and other such fantasies as neck ruffles, girdles, bows and muffs made all of velvet in its delectable colors as fancy can picture.

The whereof of this fair for velvet for the smart bridal cortege is easily accounted for in that the call of the new modes is for the most beautiful and luxurious fabrics that it is possible for human ingenuity to devise. Naturally fashion turns to velvet as the exponent of all that is coveted in the way of sumptuous weaves for, we ask you, was there ever a material which so perfectly interprets the desired note of elegance as velvet?

One of the charms of velvet as a medium for the wedding gown is that it shows handsomest when it is styled with utmost simplicity. The wedding gowns pictured bear out this statement. The classic simplicity of these models instantly makes its appeal to discriminating taste.

A very interesting feature about these gowns is that an entirely different type of velvet is employed in the making of each. The exquisite evenness to the left in the picture declares in favor of the new dull-surfaced white velvet. The suppleness and draping qualities of the velvet yield graciously to the soft puff treatment of the sleeves and at the neck of the directoire bodice. The cap is trimmed with petals made of the same dull velvet.

Shown to the right is a bride who chooses white transparent velvet for her gown in a simple princess line unadorned—enhancing her own loveliness by the luster and quality of the fabric. The wide-at-the-shoulder sleeves and the high neckline are details to be noted. She carries a little prayer book instead of a bouquet.

Speaking of velvet-hatted bridesmaids, an early this-season wedding scene took on glowing autumnal colorings in that the attendants wore, captivating little hats made of ruddy brown velvet. Their frocks were of yellow crepe topped with short taffeta jackets in nasturtium shades. The bouquets of dahlias which each carried were in the superb golden and bronze and deep red tones for which they are noted.

As to the members of the smart set who witnessed the ceremony, they flaunted velvet on their heads, about their necks and on their hands which is literally true, for the majority wore velvet hats, for as every woman knows when it comes to dressy millinery, velvet is ever first choice. Some of these chapeaux were quite wide-brimmed, for the large velvet hat which Bruyere launched at the beginning of the season has met with flattering success. Perhaps the most striking effects were the ensembles of beret box-pleated neck ruche, pocketbook and gloves all of velvet.

The new velvet gloves must be seen to be appreciated. They are really charming. Of course they must be worn at the right time and with the right costume.

COLORFUL HATS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Fashion is having its fling at color via clever little chapeaux such as these. Each is an Agnes model. The skull cap at the top is in bright red, stitched all over in rows as close as the machine can work them. The flower-like ornament is also stitched with a frill to give it a finish. The other hat is in a beautiful sapphire blue. The adorable white lapin wrap has a velvet scarf which shows a charming arrangement about the neckline of the coat. The frock is also in sapphire blue. Both of these hats are unmistakably youthful. They are smart and utterly devastating and, according to the latest mode, they are velvet.

SILHOUETTE PLAYS PART IN DRESSING

Take your choice. Your evening silhouette this fall and winter will make you look either like a floor lamp or a pencil.

Broad and lace dresses usually follow the lampshade silhouette with huge sleeves, full and loose to the wrist, or to the middle of the lower arm, or sleeves puffed above the elbow. Some sleeves are stiffened with horsehair.

The pencil silhouette is achieved with skin-tight costumes, designed with straight lines marked by a slight flare at the bottom. Usually these models have a draped bodice and covered shoulders.

For daytime, a leading American designer says all skirts in dresses are cut with a straight back and bias front. Skirt lengths are generally wrap-around. Skirt lengths are about eight to ten inches from the floor. The wide shoulder line and bloused back distinguishes the waist of daytime frocks.

Fashionable Interested in Sleeves and Gloves

Those new sleeve lengths that Chanel is showing in her winter collection are causing quite a lot of varied comment. They are impressive for the first sight of them makes a phrase something like this pop into your mind, "Just a minute till I rise out this pair of hose and I'll be with you!" For you feel sure that the mannequin has just shoved her long sleeves up her arm to a couple of inches above the wrist to keep the cuffs from getting wet, and forgot to pull them down again!

But they do have their virtues. Gloves, on occasion, come up to meet them and their being different like that gives us all something to talk about.

Straighter Skirts

Skirts this fall are to be definitely straighter for daytime; many of the skirts for evening show fullness, gathered, or plaited, both front and back.

What Women Want to Know About Fashions

Raspberry red, rufum brown, beet-root, rustic green and military blue are colors of note.

A novelty plush imitating lamb made a white capelet and ruff worn with a black velvet gown at the Paris openings.

Pure angoras are hand-fashioned, one model after Schiaparelli in a soft gray angora favoring a twisted scarf collar of bright red knit.

Fox and astrakhan are the leading coat trimmings.

Many unusual contrasts in color are shown, or two near shades are combined.

Bead trimmings register in evening styles and in some formal afternoon frocks.

Metal touches, as trimming, or woven in fabrics, are emphasized in fall fashions.

HOOVER-CURTISS CAMPAIGN IS WAGED IN WISCONSIN

The Hoover-Curtiss campaign in Wisconsin took on added impetus this week, with scores of nationally prominent women and men speakers assigned to every congressional district in the state by the Republican national committee.

No village was too small and no attendance too light for the orators who have been accustomed to addressing large gatherings in metropolitan cities. Meetings were held in village halls, theaters, private homes and even on street corners, although the chill of an early winter was anything but conducive to making for comfort listening to political talks in the out-of-doors.

The week also saw the organization of scores of separate Hoover clubs, with the personnel enlisted from the various trade, industrial and professional groups. Aviators, accountants, engineers, architects, motor truck manufacturers, coal dealers, traveling men, physicians, lumbermen, farmers, dairymen and dozen of other groups formed clubs for the express purpose of advancing the candidacy of President Hoover for re-election.

Young voters—those between the ages of 21 and 36—were being enlisted in the Young Republican organization. John A. Dunlap, of Milwaukee, and Miss Inez Olson, of Siren, were named chairmen, respectively, of the men's and women's divisions of the Young Republican unit, which will be a permanent organization after the November election.

In the opinion of John E. Fitzgibbon, director of the Wisconsin Hoover-Curtiss committee, the formation of individual groups, in which hundreds of thousands of workers are represented and who are active on behalf of President Hoover, shows conclusively that the trade, industrial and professional units have confidence in the Republican administration and its ability to effect the revival of business and industry.

Women voters of the state are also taking a more active interest this year than ever before in promoting the cause of the Republican Administration, according to Mrs. Harry E. Thomas, Republican national committee woman and director of the women's division of the campaign. Large audiences of women are turning out in cities and villages to hear women lecturers discuss issues in the campaign and special groups are being organized to "listen in" on broadcasts sponsored by the Republican national committee several times a week over nationwide hookups.

The high light among this week's talks was that given in Madison last Monday night by Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior.

For Monday of next week, October 24 the state committee has secured Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut for an address in Milwaukee. The Senator's speech will be broadcast.

THERE IS NO MAGIC

If we knew a magic formula which would change everything over night and put the people of the United States back where we were in the beginning of 1929, we are not sure that we should use it. We doubt whether it would be either wise or kind to confirm the belief, which apparently prevails among many folk who ought to know better, that politicians possess some sort of magician's wand the waving of which would restore prosperity, put the price of farm products, start every factory off on fuel production, pay off every debtor's debts and send the prices of stocks up to new heights.

Looking back, we are not at all sure that the orgy of reckless spending which came to an abrupt end three years ago was a good thing either for the nation as a whole or for the individuals who took part in it. It was for many, too close to getting something for nothing; and those who did not get unheard-of returns for their contributions in labor or commodities were beginning to be infected with the idea that they, too, were entitled to more than they paid for.

We do not believe that any sound and permanent prosperity can be built on any basis but the old-fashioned recipe of hard work and thrift. We have no confidence that there is anything politicians can do, whatever their party labels, that will take the place of economy and industry, render work unnecessary or put money into one pocket without taking it out of the other.

All that politics and government can do is undertake, so far as selfish and self-seeking human nature will permit, to smooth out the inequalities and cure the defects in our economic structure which have grown up out of custom and ignorance, and which tend to put too heavy a burden upon some and too light a responsibility.

ISSUES SHIFTING IN CAMPAIGN

Issues in the present campaign are shifting. It was declared by Congressman M. K. Reilly at Democratic rallies Friday night at Sherwood and St. John, Calumet county villages. He said the arguments used against Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt earlier in the campaign now "have been put in cold storage."

Immediately after the two national conventions had been met and selected candidates for the Presidency, the congressman said, the New York governor was denounced as a "pussy-footer, a tool of Tammany and a radical who could not be trusted in the office of President. But of late, he added, none of these charges have been heard from the platform or included in press comment.

"The handling of the Mayor Walker hearing" the congressman said, "set at rest forever the propaganda that Governor Roosevelt was a tool of or afraid of Tammany or that he was a pussy-footer. Seldom, if ever, has a governor had such an opportunity to display courage, talent and ability as Governor Roosevelt had during the hearing of the charges for the removal of Mayor Walker from office."

"Any person who attentively followed the proceedings on the Mayor Walker removal charges held at Albany can come to but one conclusion and that is that Gov. Roosevelt is a man of courage, of great ability and in no sense a pussy-footer. Threats of revolt of Tammany did not make him deviate one iota from his determination to go to the bottom of the charges filed against Mayor Walker and act fearlessly and fairly, without any regard to the political consequences that his decision in that celebrated hearing might have upon his Presidential fortunes.

"Gov. Roosevelt has been the chief executive for four years of the State of New York and there has not as yet been given to the public during this campaign information as to any single act of Franklin D. Roosevelt as governor of New York that would indicate that he is a radical.

Of course, every public man who proposes something new always is considered more or less of a radical by those who believe in the old. We are living in a day and age when the old is continually giving way to the new, and the radical of today often becomes the conservative of tomorrow.

"Certainly Mr. Roosevelt's views as expressed in his Western speeches of our citizens who do not want any change and who are afraid to break new ground. He preaches the doctrine that our natural resources should be preserved for the use of all the people, that the exploiting of high finance should and must be stopped, and that agriculture should be given equal opportunity with industry.

"While the people have a right to differ with the views expressed by Gov. Roosevelt upon the many subjects that he has discussed since his nomination, no one can claim that he is a man without views in important problems now up for solution in our country or that he lacks the courage to express those views.

"Gov. Roosevelt may be a radical but he is preaching the kind of radicalism that we will have to adopt in our country if we are going to withstand the pressure to go farther, much farther, along the highway of a total destruction of our economic and political ideas—Fond du Lac Commonwealth.

Congressman Reilly is seeking reelection to Congress in the new sixth congressional district comprising the counties of Washington, Fond du Lac, Ozaukee, Sheboygan, Calumet and Winnebago on the Democratic ticket.

SOIL CLINICS FOR WASHINGTON COUNTY

There will be a series of soil clinics in Washington County the week of November first. According to the County Agent, E. D. Byrne, there is a great increase in the demand on the part of the farmer for increased service in soil testing and these soil testing meetings are being held with the object of giving more help in soils work.

C. J. Chapman, of the Soils Department of the College of Agriculture, will be present with soil testing equipment at the clinics, which will be scheduled at various parts of the county where it will be convenient for farmers to bring their samples. Actual soil testing will be done. It is important that county farmers who are interested in the soil building program for their farms, should have complete and accurate information on their various fields, and a knowledge of actual conditions on their farms before attempting a permanent building program. It is of great importance to know that if any commercial elements are purchased that they be the right ones for each particular condition.

Farmers who are interested in this work can obtain sample sacks and directions for taking soil samples by applying at the County Agent's office at West Bend.

For the last several years Wisconsin has produced from 12,600 to 15,000 colts a year, yet has found it necessary to ship in from other states, from 20,000 to 25,000 work horses a year, reports show.

Small Town and Country Poll Differs With the Digest and Hearst

The nation-wide Presidential poll by some 2,000 weekly newspapers of which THE STATESMAN is one, discloses the result that when the last ballot has been cast for Hoover or Roosevelt on November 8th, the small town and country America vote is going to be a big factor in the final count.

Returns from sixteen states in this weekly newspaper poll shows Roosevelt leading Hoover in popular vote by almost exactly the same percentage as prevails in other straw-vote polls conducted in cities and large population centers, but the weekly poll brings out the fact that the country vote differs drastically with city vote in certain states.

Both the Literary Digest poll and the Hearst newspapers poll show Mr. Roosevelt leading in Illinois. The weekly newspaper poll shows Hoover sentiment running strong in small towns there, leading by more than 3 to 1.

Returns from sixteen states have been received at Publishers Autocast Service offices in New York, the national headquarters for the Weekly Newspaper's poll.
