

KEWASKUM HIGH SCHOOL COLUMN

PRIMARY ROOM

The first and second grades are studying about the world. They will make a book about the world in connection with their work.

GRAMMAR ROOM

The Art class has completed an attractive group of vases. These vases were made of paper, peanut and olive jars and show how a little ingenuity can change these to attractive gifts.

The fifth grade class in arithmetic is taking a series of tests and review exercises in fractions and decimals. The resulting graphs are watched daily with interest.

The eighth grade agriculture class has completed farm sanitation. The seventh grade reading class is studying "The Legend of Sleepy Hollow."

INTERMEDIATE ROOM

Our Literary Society held its fifth meeting Friday. The program consisted of:

Flag Song by Singing by All
"De Sen" George Washington
..... Harold Manthel
"Future Lincoln" Alfred Holzman
"What Washington Would Think of Our New Improvements" Play by Third Grade

"Lincoln versus Washington" Debate Between teams of intermediate and grammar grades. Intermediate grade won. The judges were Mr. Skalsky, Linda Rosenbloom and Harold Marx.

The fifth grade has been studying and collecting pictures and clippings of Milwaukee.

Mary Kleinschay has brought an amaryllis to school.

Contest training with six entrants in each of the declamatory and oratorical contests is being started this week. Entrants in the extemporaneous contests will be selected later.

The seniors are completing their commencement plans and the Juniors are considering prom arrangements.

Township library books were selected by the Grade Teachers during the past week.

The boy scouts are working upon projects for a part of their scout activities. Among those completing their projects at their weekly meeting on Wednesday is Howard Schmidt, who constructed a three tube radio. Since most of the material used in the project was second-hand the cost to Howard is practically nothing. Milwaukee and Chicago stations can readily be received.

CAMPBELLSPORT WINS 29-15

On Friday, February 24, our high school basketball team was defeated at Campbellsport by a score of 29-15. It was Campbellsport's seventh successive victory.

The score would indicate that quite a margin of difference was evident between the two teams, this, however, was due to Campbellsport's deadly shooting, especially that of Mac Douglas who was playing left forward.

Our boys could not find the range on their shots until the last quarter of play when they scored more than half the total number of points.

LAST GAME TONIGHT, FRIDAY

This week Friday is the last game of the season, played on our own floor, when we meet Lomira. This should be a splendid game, one filled with excitement for the teams are evenly matched. On Lomira's floor we lost a 21-20 battle. Come out and see a real contest.

FIVE HAILED INTO JUSTICE COURT

Five of our young men were hailed in Justice of the Peace, Wm. S. Olin's court last Saturday afternoon charged with disorderly conduct and destroying property.

The offense was committed while the dance following the home talent play, "The Blue Flag" was in progress at the Kewaskum Opera House. Two of the boys pleaded guilty to the charge and were fined $5.00 and cost each. The total amount paid by one was $10.81 while the other was assessed $10.35. The three others implicated in the charge were dismissed after they questioned.

PASS AWAY IN DEATH

FUNERAL OF MRS. AUGUSTA MOKKENTHIN HELD SATURDAY

The funeral of Mrs. Augusta Molkenthin, who died at the home of her son, Herman, at New Prospect on Wednesday, February 22, 1933, at 8 a.m., was held Saturday afternoon at one o'clock from the son's residence with services at two o'clock in the St. John's Lutheran church, New Fane. Burial was made in the adjoining cemetery. Rev. C. J. Gutekunst officiated.

Mrs. Molkenthin was a pioneer resident of the town of Auburn. Death was due to old age. She was born on January 5, 1844 at Kl. Tarmen, Germany, and when 22 years of age came to America with her parents. She was married to Julius Molkenthin on Dec. 21 1866, who preceded her in death in 1920. She is survived by three children, Mrs. Louis Krewald of New Fane, Herman on the homestead and William of Milwaukee. There are six grandchildren.

IN MEMORY

Vas ist mein ganzes wesen
Von meiner Jugend an,
Als mich und Not gewesen
Solang ich denken kann.
Nun aber, wird mich Jesu herzen,
Meiner Augen Trost und Licht!
Alle Thraenen, all Schmerzen
Wischen von mein Angesicht.
Und mit groszem Jubelren
Mich zur Himmelfreud einfuehren.
Drum so hoeret alle her
Jesum lasz ich nimmermehr.

THE SURVIVING CHILDREN CARD OF THANKS

We, the undersigned, wish to express our sincere thanks to all neighbors, relatives and friends for the kind sympathy shown us in our late bereavement, death and burial of our beloved mother, Mrs. Augusta Molkenthin, to Rev. Gutekunst for his consoling words, to the choir, to the pall bearers, for the beautiful floral offering, to the undertaker Clem Reinders, to the grave diggers, and to all those who attended the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Molkenthin

FATHER OF MRS. JOHN VAN BLARCOM, SR., DIES

John O'Brien, Sr., 52, of Fond du Lac, died at his home last week Wednesday, February 22nd. Mr. O'Brien was a resident of Fond du Lac for over 70 years and was the community's first marshal. He was born on May 12, 1840, in Ireland, and came to this country when a youth. Besides being marshal of his community in the early days he also carried mail between Fond du Lac and Sheboygan and Fond du Lac and Slinger.

Mr. O'Brien, father of Mrs. John Van Blarcom, Sr., leaves besides Mrs. Van Blarcom the following children, John F., Charles and James E. of Fond du Lac, Joseph E. of Wauwatosa, Mrs. Robert Lingentler of Fond du Lac, Mrs. John Guell, Mrs. Anthony Hansen, and Mrs. James M. Schleicher of Chelais, Washington. He is also survived by 19 grandchildren and 9 great grandchildren.

The funeral was held on Saturday morning, February 25 from the Zachari funeral home at Fond du Lac with services in the St. Joseph's Catholic church, same city. Burial was made at Calvary cemetery near Fond du Lac.

JOHN C. SERWE, 68, PASSES AWAY

John C. Serwe, 68, a former resident of the town of Ashford died at his home in Milwaukee on Thursday, Feb. 23rd. He is survived by his widow and three children, Ben, and Mrs. Geo. Scherer of Nabob, and Mrs. H. Hacker of Granville, and a brother, Joseph Serwe, of Ashford.

The funeral was held Saturday, Feb. 25, from the home of his daughter, Mrs. George Scharrer, at Nabob, with services in the St. Mathias Catholic church, same town.

PAUL HAUSMANN BADLY INJURED

Paul Hausmann, son of Dr. and Mrs. Wm. Hausmann of West Bend, a student in the medical college of the University of Wisconsin, Madison, was severely injured last week Wednesday when the auto he was driving ran into a freight train in Allenton. He suffered a fractured lower jaw, concussion of the brain, and several lacerations.

NEW CARS STILL BEING BOUGHT

The depression did not stop the purchasing of new automobiles during January, although the number sold was less than a year ago. The total number of new cars registered in the state for January were 1139. In Washington county 10 new cars were registered, while in Dodge county there were 17 and in Fond du Lac county twenty.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Huberty and daughter, Geraldine, and Mrs. Emil Huberty of Plymouth visited Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Krueger. They were accompanied home by Mr. Emil Huberty, who had been visiting here for several days.

CREDITORS BUY LOCAL CREAMERY

At the administrators sale of the Well's Estate, last Saturday morning, the Kewaskum Creamery was sold to the creditors. Only one bid was made, which was accepted by the administrator subject to the approval of the probate court. It is expected that the approval of the court will be secured shortly.

As soon as the approval is secured, the creditors will meet and incorporate. Officers and a board of directors will at that meeting be elected.

There is no question that the new organization will be an asset, not only to the village, but to the farmers of this locality as well.

DEATH DECLARED ACCIDENTAL

The coroner's jury in an inquest to determine the death of LeRoy Wisker, son of Barton, Monday evening at Barton, returned the following verdict, "That the said LeRoy Wisker, deceased, came to his death on the 18 day of February, 1933, between 7:30 and 8 o'clock p.m., by reason of a fractured skull received as a result of an automobile accident on Highway 55 in the village of Barton. Said accident was caused by blinding headlights and negligent operation of an approaching automobile driven by a person unknown."

Miss Henrietta Baekhaus, daughter of Rural Carrier and Mrs. Herbert Baekhaus of this village, was one of the occupants of the automobile at the time of the accident. She sustained severe injuries but is getting along very nicely.

SENATOR DUFFY APPOINTS SECRETARIES

Before leaving for Washington, D. C. last week Saturday to commence his new duties as United States Senator from the State of Wisconsin, Senator F. Ryan Duffy announced the appointment of Herbert C. Schmidt of Milwaukee as his secretary, and John K. Kyle of Whitewater, as his assistant secretary.

Mr. Schmidt is 37 years, a graduate of Georgetown University law school, and a World War Veteran. He has had five years experience as claims examiner for the United States Veteran Bureau and seven years experience as secretary to members of Congress.

During the past few years he was secretary to Congressman William H. Stafford of Milwaukee. The latter was defeated for re-election in the last general election.

Mr. Kyle was heretofore secretary to Congressman Thomas R. Amle. He formerly was president of the Whitewater Commercial Club.

STOLEN SLOT MACHINES FOUND

The two stolen slot machines taken from the Simon Strachota general store at St. Killian last week Wednesday, were found in a damaged condition near the former Albert Bass farm in the southeastern part of the town of Kewaskum, on the Fillmore road east of the Louis Schaefer bridge the following day, Thursday.

The machines which were wrapped in burlap sacks, were first noticed by a Miss Mondlock, who attends the Roden school, while on her way home after the day's classes were over. She told her parents of the finding, who in turned immediately notified Geo. Kippenhan, deputy sheriff. Whatever change there was in the machines, was taken out by the burglars.

Some of the other articles taken in the robbery were found on the highway leading north of St. Killian. No further clues have been found. Mr. Strachota has offered a $50.00 reward for any information that might lead to the arrest and conviction of the burglars.

VILLAGE BOARD GRANTS TAX PAYMENT EXTENSION

Last week Friday evening extended the time for payment of real estate taxes in the village from February 28th until June 1st. To obtain the privilege of such an extension the taxpayer must make an application before March 15 to the village treasurer, swearing that he had been unable to make the payment before March 1. The amount of his taxes will, however, be reported to the county as delinquent and advertised for sale. If payment will be made before June 1, there will be no sale of his certificate nor will there be a penalty affixed, but the taxpayer will have to pay the cost of advertising.

The resolution for the extension as passed by the village board reads as follows:

Whereas; Municipalities are authorized under Chapter of the laws of 1933, to extend the time for the payment of taxes on real estate assessed in the year 1932, to persons who are unable to pay such taxes.

Be it resolved, by an unanimous vote of the Village Board of the village of Kewaskum Wis., that the Village Treasurer be authorized to extend the time for the payment of the taxes on real estate for the year 1932 up to an including June 1, 1933 to persons who are unable to pay such taxes.

Be it further resolved, that taxpayers desiring to take advantage of any such extensions shall file an affidavit with the Treasurer to establish their right to such extension.

Adopted February 24, 1933.

Countersigned: S. N. Casper
Village Clerk

Resolution presented by Leo. C. Brauchle, Village Trustee.

MANY TAXES IN VILLAGE STILL TO BE COLLECTED

Village Treasurer, John Marx, on Thursday reported, that he has collected approximately $22,000 of the real estate taxes for 1932. The total amount of the tax roll is $27,300, which leaves to be collected over $5,000.

Mr. Marx stated that up to the present time only five persons made applications for an extension of time to June 1st. Although there are a large number of taxpayers that have as yet not paid their 1932 taxes, some of them, however, are expected to make payment before March 15th, the deadline for filing applications for an extension.

Last year eight taxpayers filed application for extensions.

CAUCUS CALL VILLAGE OF KEWASKUM

Notice is hereby given to the qualified electors of the village of Kewaskum, that a caucus for the purpose of nominating candidates for the various offices of said village will be held in the village hall in the village of Kewaskum, Wis., on Friday, March 17, between the hours of 7 and 8 o'clock in the afternoon. Nominations will be made by ballot, this to be furnished by the caucus committee. Every candidate for nomination is requested to make application to the undersigned committee to have his name placed on the ballot, this request to be made not later than Wednesday, March 15, at 6 p.m. Each application must be accompanied by a fee of $1.50, which fee will be used in securing ballots and to defray all other expenses of the caucus.

Dated March 1, 1933.

Lights of NEW YORK

New York is a city where, if you know anyone who has been away, you have to mention the fact.

I never shall forget something Will Irwin told me long ago. He had been in Europe for long months as a war correspondent before the United States was drawn into the conflict.

So I cannot expect the fact that I have been in the Middle West for a few days to make any great impression on the life of our city.

Pat McGill, the wrestler, and a very good one, happened to be on the same train on which I returned and showed me a picture of his three children.

SECRET OF HOT ROLLS IS BARED

Yeast Dough Must Have Plenty of Shortening.

By EDITH M. BARBER Hot rolls! How good that sounds, doesn't it? We mean yeast rolls, of course. In most households yeast cakes are used nowadays more for this purpose than they are for making the supply of bread.

There are, of course, certain fancy breads which are made at home. I myself, make up a rich sweet bread and use it buttered for tea and, as it gets older, for a delicious sweet toast.

Standard Rolls 1 cup milk 1 cake compressed yeast 4 tablespoons sugar 4 cups flour (about) 1 1/2 teaspoons salt 1 egg 4 tablespoons fat

Scald the milk and cool until lukewarm. Crumble the yeast into a mixing bowl and add the sugar. Add the lukewarm milk to the yeast mixture. Stir well and add about half of the flour which has been measured after sifting once. Then add the salt and the egg.

The new mask is described as covering only the face and the two sides of all pipes or filter boxes. Two large glass goggles cover the eyes and a circular tin filter can which is screwed into the mouthpiece filters the air that is breathed in.

HOW IT STARTED

"CAT'S-PAW" is a word we frequently hear in discussions of politics. To employ anyone as a cat's-paw is to get him to stand the light, something which is, as a rule, dangerous or degrading, and which one would hesitate to do himself.

The idea was borrowed from Aesop's fable of the monkey and the chestnuts. The monkey roasted some chestnuts and then thought too hot to touch. So the monkey caught a cat, and holding her fast, used one of her paws (a cat's-paw) to take the nuts out of the fire.

boil until it is double in bulk, keeping it at a lukewarm temperature. Form into rolls.

Clover Leaf Rolls Make small-sized rolls of dough by rolling pieces separately between the palms, place three rolls in each greased muffin cup, butter well, and let rise until double in bulk, then bake at 400 degrees for 18 to 20 minutes.

Cinnamon Rolls Spread the dough after it has risen into a thin sheet about one-fourth inch thick. Spread with one-fourth cupful butter, and sprinkle with one-half cupful brown sugar mixed with one teaspoonful cinnamon. Roll tightly like a jelly roll and cut in pieces one and a half inches wide. Place close together with the cut side down in a pan in which has been spread another one-fourth cupful of butter and one-half cupful of brown sugar sprinkled over the bottom. After they have risen until double in bulk bake them at 400 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. One-half cupful of pecan nuts may be added before rolling, and a few sprinkled on the bottom of each cup.

Father Leaves Estate to Settle Son's Debts

Milwaukee.—By the terms of his will, Ignatz Trzebiatowski, eighty-eight, left virtually his entire estate to the creditors of his son, Albert. The son, former editor of the "Polish Citizen," entrusted their savings, is serving a 20-year prison term for embezzling about $100,000.

Among small specific bequests the elder Trzebiatowski left money to pay funeral expenses of his imprisoned son.

Coming Out of Hibernation

frigerator for storing the dough after it has been mixed and allowed to rise. It can be covered, put away and taken out again to be shaped, allowed to rise and baked in the yeast mixer.

In making any kind of yeast mixture there are a few special points. Bread flour must be used; yeast must be fresh. Of course, yeast cakes will remain fresh in a refrigerator indefinitely. The water to which the yeast is added must be lukewarm. The dough must be kept warm while it is rising. I find a moist heat best for this, and I usually place it on a cake cooler over a pan of hot water and, of course, keep it covered. I like to bake rolls in a moderately hot oven as the crust is more tender. When loaves are baked it seems to make little difference whether the baking is started at a high heat or whether a moderate temperature is used throughout the baking. Bread or rolls are baked enough when they sound hollow when knocked at the bottom of the bread (not of the pan).

ture warfare," he explained. "These are an attack with artillery shells and with mine throwers. Gas bombs thrown from the air, chemicals sprayed from tanks and compressed gas blown over the lines with the help of the wind are all comparatively harmless since the most highly concentrated poisonous substances cannot be employed by them."

The new gas mask has been installed in apartment houses of many large cities for use by tenants, should a sudden gas attack from the air take place.

Marriage Days Matter

Every mother's daughter enters tiny hopes of being led to the altar some day by a young beau garcon. And most girls have their preference for certain days on which to be married, no matter how many times they venture on the sea of matrimony. Statisticians are now using this preference for marriage days as an argument for reform of the calendar.

They claim the present irregular calendar makes it difficult to collect statistics of marriages—due to the fact that people have their own pet days of the week for that event.

English Farmers Defy Collectors of Tithes

To defend themselves against seizure of stock following nonpayment of tithes, several hundred farmers in the Kent district of England have organized themselves into an army. They are working along war lines, and when three large trucks were sent recently to collect at ten farms the representatives of the law were routed without any of the 80 lots of tithes being kept on sight. A body of men is kept on hand to see that no tithes are taken from the farms where they are stationed, and the village square ready to listen to any farm when the signal, the firing of rockets, is given.—Montreal Herald.

Lady Blanche Farm A Romance of the Commonplace By Frances Parkinson Keyes

Copyright by Frances Parkinson Keyes WNU Service

SYNOPSIS Motoring through Vermont, Philip Starr, young Boston architect, meets, in unconventional fashion, Blanche Manning, girl of seventeen, with whom he is immediately enamored. In conversation, he learns something of her family history. It being a long distance to Burlington, Starr's destination, Blanche suggests, the village of Hamstead not boasting a hotel, that he come, for the night, a guest of her cousin, Mary Manning. Mary receives Philip with true Vermont hospitality, and she makes the acquaintance of her Starr finds Mary is acquainted with Gale Hamlin, noted Boston architect, in whose office Philip is employed. He informs her of his desire to win Blanche for his wife. She is sympathetic, and tells him of an old family superstition concerning the "Blanches" of the Manning family.

CHAPTER III Violet Manning was an extremely pretty woman with an infinite capacity for doing nothing. She had been the only child, much spoiled and petted, of a shopkeeper in White Water, the next village to Hamstead, who had stunted himself to give her "advantages." She was sent away to a boarding school, and acquired a veneer of culture, and a contempt for her parents, her neighbors, and her hometown, but not very much else. On her return to White Water, after she was "finished" at school, and had taken a three months' trip to Europe she might have been the belle of the countryside if she had only been as pleasant as she was pretty. But her would-be swains fell off, one by one, before the disdain of her manner; and it was with secret relief that, at the age of twenty-five, she accepted Martin Manning, and went to live on Lady Blanche farm. She was careful to convey the impression, to him and to everyone else, that she was doing him a great favor to marry him, and he at least, believed her. A sturdy couple from "out-back"—Horace, or as he was more frequently called, "Hod" Evans and his wife Myra—were installed in the big brick house as "help." And Violet lay in bed late in the morning, and sat in the north parlor—heretofore used only for weddings and funerals—embroidering centerpieces, and went to church on Sunday, dressed considerably better than anyone else in Hamstead. A woman with more brains would soon have been bored into activity by such an existence. But Violet was not bored. She was supremely satisfied at the easy and pleasant lines into which her life had fallen.

When she was a little over thirty, Martin, who still worshipped her blindly, died, leaving her with two small children, and enough money to live on comfortably, if simply. Every Sunday morning she went to church with Blanche and Paul at her side, her heavy black silk dress trailing down the aisle behind her. Every Sunday afternoon she went to the cemetery to place flowers on Martin's grave, taking the children. When the role of bereaved and sorrowing widow began to pall a little, and no one stepped forward to relieve her of it, Violet's laziness took refuge in that of the model housekeeper and devoted mother. Fortunately, with a contentment rare in New England, Myra and Hod stayed on; Myra ran the house to suit herself, Hod helped the hard-working and plodding Seth with the farm labor which Paul was supposed to be too delicate to perform, since an attack of scarlet fever, which had left him in a weakened condition, had given his mother the fixed idea that he had heart trouble. To be sure, Paul mowed the lawns and weeded the garden, but always under her careful supervision. He had been away to a near-by seminary to school, and drifted half way through a course at an agricultural college; but he was not a natural student, and the farm ran along "well enough" without his help. When for a very clear reason, he stated that he had decided not to finish his course, his mother did not try to force him to do so. More through lack of vital interest than through viciousness, he became dissipated. Violet excused him. There were some things, she said, that she couldn't, with modesty, discuss with him. Boys always sowed wild oats for a time, and then settled down and married some nice girl, just as Paul was going to settle down with and by and marry dear Mary. There was no use worrying or making a vulgar fuss over what was coming out all right in the end, anyway. And meanwhile Blanche was such a comfort! Blanche had also inherited her mother's good looks, and the discontent which the latter had felt in her youth, but there was "more Manning" to her, as Hamstead said.

At ten o'clock in the morning following Philip's unceremonious arrival at Lady Blanche farm, Violet was lying in bed with a new novel, still unopened, beside her, when there was a brisk, if gentle, knock at the door, and Mary walked in. "Oh, good morning, dear," said Violet pleasantly, arousing herself. "I've been wondering why you didn't come over. Just take that breakfast tray downstairs, will you? Myra's getting ready to go to church, and seems to have forgotten it.—No, I thought it was raining too hard to attempt going myself. You know how easily I take cold."

"I'm sorry I couldn't get over earlier," said Mary, returning from her trip to the kitchen with the tray. "I hope you'll feel much better by noon to come over to dinner and meet Mr. Starr."

"Oh, my dear, I couldn't. I don't even feel equal to the effort of walking over to the bureau to comb my hair.—Why, yes, if you feel like doing it—don't pull it.—So he didn't leave this morning?"

"No," answered Mary, brushing out the long soft curls to their full length, "it was raining so dreadfully hard that it didn't seem best for him to attempt it. He's been sick, as I told you last night. He's telephoned his friends in Burlington not to expect him just yet. Well, he'll be disappointed not to see you, he's so crazy over everything in that beautiful. I think he really ought to have been an artist, not 'on the side' as he says, but for his real profession, instead of being an architect. But of course there isn't usually as much money in it. He's with Davis and Hamlin—"

"Gale Hamlin?"

"Yes. He told me after I went home last night. It makes me feel as if we knew him quite well already."

At this moment, the conversation, which was becoming extremely interesting to Violet, was interrupted by the appearance of Miss Jane Manning, who entered somewhat brusquely, and

CHAPTER IV The dinner which Mary stayed home from church to cook, was not an entire success, either in her eyes or in the eyes of anyone else who attended it, with the possible exception of Blanche and Philip.

READING OF TODAY AND THE LONG AGO

Forgotten Tales Are Recalled to Memory.

It is curious how long-forgotten things come floating into the mind from nowhere. Once there was a story in a popular magazine written on the installment plan. The same story was given each month, as it might have been told by some well-known writer such as Howells or James, but the name of the author was withheld until after the tenth number when the list of authors was given, and you could compare it with your own guesses. I believe that I was not absolutely sure of many of them except the one by Henry James, whose long, precise and sometimes involved sentences were not to be disguised. As an exercise in the recognition of differing styles among story writers, it was interesting.

Few children of today have ever heard of the "Prudy Parlin" and "Dottie Dimple" series by Sophie May. But we knew them all by heart and could tell you how they put Prudy in a great hogshed when she was naughty; how she scared them all by climbing to the top of the house on a painter's ladder, in search of heaven; how she followed sister Susie to school, and amused herself by trying to see if her knitting needle would come out the other side if pushed through her seat-mate's ear. There were many stories about these little folk of Portland, Maine, and we read them over and over. I have heard many objections to stories in series, probably because they go beyond the period of childhood and approach courtship and marriage, but the Prudy books committed no such indiscretion.

Of course we read "The Wide World" and "Queechy" after we had finished weeping over the Elsie Dinsmore books (which were legion). "An Old-Fashioned Girl" was quite as pleasing to me as "Little Women," though not so often read. In the Sunday school library we found the Pansy books, "The Five Little Peppers," "Sara Crewe" and "Little Lord Fauntleroy."

One of the enthusiasms of my youth was "The Princess of Thule," by William Black, who wrote many other novels, among them "The Strange Adventures of a Phaeton" (some one asked the other day, what was a phaeton). I have lately renewed my acquaintance with his "Judith Shakespeare," which is a good portrayal of the environment of the poet. Akin to the "Princess of Thule" was "Thelma," by Marie Corelli, the scenes being laid in the Far North, the first in Scotland and the last in the Land of the Midnight Sun.

"Peg Woffington," by Charles Reade, was the story of an eighteenth century actress, a friend of David Garrick. I do not recall the story, but might ask a certain reading one who makes a point of reading once a year the novels of Charles Reade and Anthony Trollope. I think he regards the Barsetshire people as personal friends, especially those of the little house at Alington. In my youth detective stories were associated in my unsophisticated mind with small boys behind barns glouting over yellow-backed paper books, my own harmless favorites requiring no such secrecy. At school, we were obliged to read the "Gold Bug" and the "Murders of the Rue Morgue," as being the pioneers of the current detective novel. Not being detectively inclined, I did not like them, though it was heresy to say so, and later I could not see why anyone should want to narrow up her soul, and freeze her young blood by poring over the "Moonstone," by Wilkie Collins. We domestic ones were called the "Last Days of Pompeii," "Lorna Doone," "John Halifax, Gentleman," "Jane Eyre" and many others, including "Molly Bawn," "Red as the Rose is She," "St. Elmo," and the like. Frivolous they might have been, but harmless compared to some of the stories read by girls of today.—M. O. W., in the Indianapolis News.

THEY HAVE FOUND A 3-MINUTE WAY TO RELIEVE SORE THROAT

All Pain And Soreness Eased In Few Minutes This Simple Way

Proves Only Medicine Helps A Sore Throat

Modern medical science now throws an entirely new light on sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes. Results are among the most extraordinary in medical science. On doctors' advice, millions are following this way... discarding old-time "washes" and "antiseptics." For it has been found that only medicine can help a sore throat.

Simple To Do. All you do is crush and dissolve three BAYER Aspirin Tablets in half a glass of water. Gargle with it twice—as pictured above. If you have any indication of a cold—before gargling take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a full glass of water. This is to combat any signs of cold that have gone into your system. Keep on taking if cold has a "hold." For Genuine Bayer Aspirin will not harm you. Your doctor will tell you, it does not depress the heart. Get a box of 12 or a bottle of 24 or 100 at any drug store.

We take this occasion to extend our compliments to Franklin D. Roosevelt, the new President of the United States and to wish him the greatest possible measure of success in his effort to lead the nation out of the slough of despond.

It is a Herculean task which Mr. Roosevelt and the new Congress face. There has not been, in recent times at least, such an opportunity as lies before the new Administration, at the same time, no new administration has come into the control of our Government since Lincoln's time, which was confronted with such perils.

We give President Roosevelt and his advisers credit for the highest motives of patriotism. We think no one can deny that Mr. Roosevelt's record of public service, beginning with the Legislature of the State of New York, as Assistant Secretary of the Navy during the Great War, and as Governor of New York for the past four years, has been a record of forward looking, aggressive and intelligent effort for the common goods.

But the situation which confronts the new administration is one filled with pitfalls and uncertainties. We think that the nation at large realizes, as it never has realized before, that our desperate situation in America is on all fours with the economic distress which is felt in every quarter of the globe. We do not believe, and we do not think that Mr. Roosevelt believes, that the United States, in this critical juncture, can lift itself by its own bootstraps, and one of the great uncertainties is how far the nations of Europe will go in co-operating, along lines which our nation can accept, toward bringing about an economic readjustment in a world-wide scope.

That is not to imply that there are not many serious phases of our domestic situation which cannot be remedied by intelligent and courageous action at Washington. It seems certain that, in the beginning of his Administration at any rate, our new President will have the whole-hearted and effective support of our new Senate and House of Representatives, and that sort of team-work ought to result in speedy action, so far as legislation can be of benefit.

We believe there is a very general desire to give to the new President the freest possible hand and to clothe him with authority beyond which has been bestowed upon any Executive except in war time in the sincere hope that he will then be able to act swiftly and effectively.

Vice-President John N. Garner

Vice-President John N. Garner of Texas, president of the Senate in the Roosevelt administration, is expected to play an important part as contact man between the White House and the legislative halls of the capitol while the party is getting organized for important legislation promised during the next year.

Helpful Hints for Homemaker

By Bernice Perschbacher

After cleaning the bath tub well with ordinary cleanser, take a clean cloth and dampen it with kerosene and wipe over the enamel, rinsing after with clear water. Your tub will literally beam at you. Kerosene often removes disagreeable stains, but much rubbing is required. It will not roughen your enamel, but keep it smooth and shiny.

To clean nickel on stoves which has become discolored from rust and fumes, polish it with fine sandpaper and then wash well in hot soap suds. Wipe dry and apply furniture polish. Rub well.

If your whipping cream refuses to whip, even though it is thoroughly chilled, the answer may be that the cream is too fresh. Lactid acid is what thickens the cream and this acid is produced as the cream ages. The addition of one-half teaspoon of lactid acid (commercial) to each two cups of cream will do the same thing that is accomplished by 12 to 24 hours standing.

Egg shells placed in the tea kettle prevent the usual lime formation.

Soak the new broom for five minutes in boiling water before it is used. The broom will then last longer as the bristles are toughened.

If a teaspoon of bluing is added to the water in which glasses are to be washed they will sparkle when dried and polished.

The leaves of head lettuce will separate nicely if you cut out the core and let cold water run into the hole.

Place candles in the refrigerator, or a cold place, several hours before using. This prevents the candles from dripping.

Dip fish in milk instead of egg before rolling in bread or cracker crumbs. The fish will taste better.

When growing ivy in water put a teaspoon of liquid plant food to each quart of water used and just let it alone, as no changing of water is required when it contains the liquid plant food. From time to time, as the water evaporates, add more of the liquid plant food in proportion to the water added. This liquid plant food can also be added to water in which fresh cut flowers are put. It keeps them longer and no fussing with changing water is necessary.

If the telephone rings just as you are about to take a cake from the oven and the bottom becomes over-browned don't scrape it with a knife, but use your grater and the repairs will be undetected.

If gravy or white sauce is whipped with a wire egg beater before it has begun to thicken it will not lump. If the lumps have already begun to form, hurry to cut them with the whip. It is much more effective than trying to mash them with a spoon.

Perfume stains may be removed from linen bureau scarfs by the application of peroxide or hydrogen.

When polishing the floors make a thick pad of felt or velvet and fasten it over an old worn broom. This makes an excellent polisher and saves the trouble of kneeling on the floor.

MOTHERS IMPORTANT

Mother should see that the whole family take a thorough, purifying system cleansing laxative this Spring. NOW IS THE TIME. The family will be healthier, happier, and get along better if the blood is given a thorough purifying the stomach and bowels cleaned out, and the germs of winter accumulated in the system driven away. HOLLISTER'S ROCKY MOUNTAIN TEA is one of the very best and surest spring medicines to take. Try it and see the difference in the whole family. Their color will be better, they'll eat better, sleep better and be well and happy.—Otto Graf.

Dated March 1st, 1933. By Order of the Court. F. W. BUCKLIN, County Judge

The bacteria ordinarily found in milk are small plants that in themselves are not harmful to health. Their numbers must be controlled to prevent undesirable changes in the milk. This can be done by quickly cooling the milk and keeping it cool until consumed.

With the Wisconsin Legislature

Madison—State employees may be forced to wait for their pay for several weeks because of the state's lack of ready cash, according to reports here.

Superior—County tax certificates will not be sold by Douglas county for the next three years, it was decided at a recent meeting of the county board.

Madison—A mysterious intruder slugged Earl Evans, steward at the Eagle hall here, and escaped with a vacuum cleaner and $75 from the cash register.

Merrill—C. H. Rawlinson, United States marshal, Madison, and Deputy Edward Miller padlocked 11 "soft drink" parlors here. They are to be closed for one year.

Wisconsin Memorial hospital at Mendota will be retained. It was announced here following the signing of a new contract between state and federal officials for the treatment of veterans.

Elkhorn—M. B. Sherman and Charles Venard—Richard Center were held here under $1,500 bond on charges of receiving stolen property which Venard allegedly accepted in payment of a debt.

Janesville—J. F. Carle, 84, past state commander of the G. A. R. and past grand chaplain of the Odd Fellows, emeritus of the organization, died here. He recently suffered a stroke of paralysis.

Madison—Engineering students at the University of Wisconsin are protesting what they believe discrimination on the part of liberal arts students in recent senior class appointments.

Milwaukee—Miss Lucille Pollen, 19, who had planned to hitch hike from Monroe, La., to her home in Stevens Point in time for Christmas, continued her journey after spending a night here.

Beloit—A resolution ordering City Manager Palmer Hamilton to make an investigation of the cost of installing a complete municipal street lighting plant was unanimously passed by the common council.

Madison—Federal agents uncovered a Madison speakeasy where the customers were served in individual copper mugs bearing their names—the fashion of nameplate shaving mugs in the old time barber shop.

River Falls—P. W. Ramer, 74, who for 16 years was on the board of regents of the state teachers' colleges, died here after a stroke of apoplexy. He was president of the board for three years before he retired in 1929.

Fond du Lac—Plans to deputize unemployed for duty as traffic policemen at all intersections near schools are being made by Chief James Silgen. The relief commission will supply the names of men considered capable of directing traffic.

Madison—The public service commission has denied the request of about 60 farmers near Eau Claire that the cases involving the rural rates of the Northern States Power Co. be reopened. The commission issued an interim order in January reducing the service charge to rural customers by 50 cents a month, but the farmers sought an additional $1.50 per month reduction.

Madison—Preliminary surveys of income tax returns for 1932 show that incomes can be expected to yield much less in tax revenues than in the preceding year of 1931, with which the comparison is being made. On the first 1,000 returns surveyed incomes of corporations are 49 per cent less in 1932 than in 1931. Individual incomes show a shrinkage of 30 per cent on the ones so far surveyed.

Madison—The state tax commission notified Gov. Schmedeman that any additional revenues to be raised from income taxes will have to come from individuals and not corporations because Wisconsin firms generally went deeply into the red in 1932. The commission estimated that individual incomes for last year were about 13 per cent less than in 1931 and 15 per cent less than 1930 while corporation income, except in a few isolated cases entirely disappeared.

Madison—Truce was declared in the Wisconsin milk strike when the farm organization committee report was adopted at a mass meeting in Madison on Tuesday for an armistice until May 1 to give the national administration a fair chance to pass agricultural relief measures. Pending the outcome of the petition for legislative relief the farm organizations will take a referendum vote among their members to determine if farmers are willing to go on a "holiday" and withhold all farm commodities from the market until producers are assured cost of production plus a fair profit.

Madison—A hen owned by W. L. Mathews, Burlington, set the highest record in record of performance competition during 1932, with 208 eggs averaging 25 ounces to the dozen, the department of agriculture and markets announced. A hen owned by Swansen brothers, Washburn, laid 301 eggs averaging 24 ounces per dozen.

Paris—Despite a plea by Premier Eduard Daladier, the senate refused in principle the government's request for a large reduction in military expenditures.

Madison—A shipment of 60,000 pounds of rice to the county outdoor relief department was ordered seized by the federal department of agriculture on the claim that it was adulterated. None of the rice had been distributed to families getting county relief.

Waukesha—Elected officials won their court fight in voting a 35 per cent salary cut voted by the county board when Circuit Court Judge Van Pelt issued a writ ordering that they be paid in full.

PRESIDENT URGES LAWS FOR RELIEF

Message Denounces Domestic Allotment Measure.

Washington.—President Hoover addressed his final appeal to congress for the enactment of a comprehensive reconstruction program in a message launching an administration drive to push through eight items of pending legislation in the closing days of the session.

The program advocated by the President covered a wide variety of subjects, among which were legislation to carry out the full objectives of the bankruptcy relief proposals of the administration and to end publicity on the loans of the Reconstruction Finance corporation. For the corporation the President urged an increase in the amount of funds available to it for relief loans to states and municipalities.

Of foremost importance in the message were the President's denunciation of the domestic allotment form of farm relief, sponsored by support of the Glass banking bill, now held up in the house committee on banking and currency. In place of the domestic allotment bill Mr. Hoover urged legislation along the lines of the proposal of Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, for federal leasing of marginal farm lands to reduce production.

The other items in the President's program included ratification of the St. Lawrence treaty to provide a waterway entrance to the Great Lakes and to give employment on construction; commencement of an inquiry by congress with a view to expansion of the home loan discount banks into a general mortgage discount system, and adoption of a resolution to give the President authority to declare arms embargoes in the interest of promoting peace.

Cordell Hull, who is to be secretary of state in the Roosevelt cabinet, is senator from Tennessee and is considered one of the strongest leaders in the Democratic party.

VIOLENCE BY MILK STRIKERS IS CHECKED

Authorities in Wisconsin Are Ready to Use Force.

Milwaukee.—Arrests on rioting charges were threatened by authorities of several communities in an effort to halt further violence in the Wisconsin Co-operative Milk Pool's strike for a price of $1.40 a hundred pounds for fluid milk.

Aroused by complaints of assaults on truck drivers, destruction of thousands of gallons of milk and threats of bombings, officials of at least ten counties said they were prepared to preserve order with force if necessary.

Waukesha county authorities, who set an example by arresting five men on rioting and assault charges after, it is alleged, they had manhandled a truck driver, joined with officials of Outagamie, Milwaukee, Waupaca, Brown, Walworth, Shawano, Dodge, Winnebago and Fond du Lac counties in warning that the strikers were exceeding the limits of "peaceful persuasion."

After groups of pickets broke into factories at Dardoy, Little Chicago and Duntas in Outagamie county and poured kerosene and oil into large vats of milk and cream, Sheriff Martin Verhagen toured the picket camps and warned that any similar occurrence would bring speedy retaliation.

He sent twenty-five armed deputies to the Winnebago county line to escort truckloads of milk to Appleton. In Milwaukee, Waukesha, Walworth and other counties in the strike zone similar precautions were taken.

State officials at Madison, while denying that the calling out of the militia was being considered, estimated that 500 additional men had been deputized to keep order.

Several thousand farmers in a meeting at Madison voted a truce in the milk strike until May 1 at least and ordered the withdrawal of pickets.

ROOSEVELT CABINET

Washington.—Unofficially but authoritatively the make-up of Franklin D. Roosevelt's cabinet is given thus:

STATE—Cordell Hull of Tennessee.

TREASURY—William H. Woodin of Pennsylvania and New York.

WAR—George H. Dern of Utah.

JUSTICE—Thomas J. Walsh of Montana.

POST OFFICE—James A. Farley of New York.

NAVY—Claude A. Swanson of Virginia.

INTERIOR—Harold Ickes of Illinois.

AGRICULTURE—Henry A. Wallace of Iowa.

COMMERCE—Daniel C. Roper of South Carolina.

LABOR—Miss Frances Perkins of New York.

U. S. Takes Step to Cut Farm Production

Washington.—The federal government has taken its first definite action to curtail agricultural production.

New regulations issued by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde governing crop production loans, require farmers who obtain such loans to reduce by 30 per cent their acreage planted in cash crops.

Farmers this year have $90,000,000 of Reconstruction Finance corporation funds upon which to draw for production loans. No individual may borrow more than $300. Anyone in arrears on two or more loans is limited to $100.

Average reduction will not be required of farmers who, in 1932, planted no more than eight acres of cotton; no more than eight acres of tobacco; forty acres of wheat; twenty acres of corn, two and a half acres of truck crops; twelve acres of sugar beets; eight acres of potatoes, 30 acres of rice, or eight acres of peanuts.

The interest rate on the loans is 5 1/2 per cent. Notes are due October 31, this year.

A person desiring to make a loan must agree to plant a garden for home use and sufficient acreage of feed crops to supply live stock food.

$300,000,000 Relief Measure Is Passed

Washington.—Despite the attack of Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, the senate passed the La Follette-Costigan unemployment relief measure setting aside $300,000,000 of R. F. C. funds for loans to states to cope with relief problems. The vote was 53 to 19.

The measure, which was introduced by Senator Wagner, Democrat, New York, carries a provision that would authorize the R. F. C. to make loans to states and municipalities for construction projects "if useful in the public interest."

Chinese and Japanese Fight in Jehol Province

Peiping, China.—The Japanese push into snow-covered Jehol from Manchuria met with fierce resistance at Nantung, according to reports from Gen. T'ung Fu-ling, Chinese commander at Chaoyang. Three hundred Japanese and 300 Chinese were killed in the engagement, the message said.

About 4,000 Japanese troops participated in the attack, which was preceded by an intensive bombing from the air.

Ailing War Veteran Kills Self at Police Station

Los Angeles.—Dwight R. Brooks, thirty-eight, World War veteran who had been taking treatments at the Sawtelle National Soldiers' hospital, drove to the Glendale (Calif.) police station, stopped his car in front of the station, and shot himself to death. He leaves a widow and two children. He had recently become despondent.

Farm Sells at Good Profit

Effingham, Ill.—A profit of $440 in the buying and selling of a 44-acre farm in Jackson township, Effingham county, was reported by Albert Schoenhoff of Teutopolis. Schoenhoff bought the farm six weeks ago and has just resold it.

Scratch Fatal to Athlete

Van Nuys, Calif.—James E. Garner, Jr., fourteen, died from blood poisoning physicians said resulted from a scratch by a wire from a fence during a school basketball game.

Six Die in Egyptian Fire

Cairo, Egypt.—Six women lost their lives and a number of men, women and children were seriously injured in a fire in the village of Siricos in lower Egypt. One hundred and eight dwellings were burned.

Hundred See Three Boys Drown

New York.—Three of four boys who plunged through thawing ice on the Bronx river were drowned while hundreds of men, women and children looked on helplessly. The fourth boy clung to the ice until dragged out.

ZANGARA IS GIVEN 80 YEARS IN PRISON

Tells Court How He Determined to Kill Roosevelt.

Miami, Fla.—Joseph Zangara was sentenced to 80 years in prison for his attack February 15 on President-Elect Roosevelt, Miss Margaret Kreis of Newark, N. J., Russell Caldwell of Coconut Grove, Fla., and William Sinnott, New York policeman.

He was sentenced by Judge E. C. Collins to 20 years on each of the four charges which were attempts to murder, getting the maximum sentence in each case.

Zangara may yet be tried for murder. His pleas did not cover the cases of Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago and Mrs. Joe H. Hill of Miami, who are in a hospital here.

After the sentence was pronounced Zangara said, "Judge, how much you give me?" Zangara held up his fingers—eight of them.

"Yes," said the judge.

"Oh, Judge, don't be stingy. Four time 20 is 80. Give me 100 years."

He laughed as he was hastily led from the court by two deputies.

Zangara was sentenced after he pleaded guilty to the four charges.

Taking the stand to relate how he conceived the idea to kill the President-Elect, Zangara told the court: "I suffer all time from my stomach. I do not like the way capitalists take all money. When I read in paper the President come here, I decide to kill him."

The assassin, however, said he did not wish to shoot Mayor Cermak and the others.

Zangara told the judge that he is thirty-three years of age, a native of Italy and has been in the United States nearly ten years. He said he had never been in jail before.

New York.—President-Elect Roosevelt paid tribute to the woman who courageously seized the pistol hand of the gunman who tried to kill him in Miami.

In a letter to Mrs. W. F. Cross, heroine of that exciting night, Mr. Roosevelt expressed his appreciation of her bravery.

The President-Elect also issued a public statement acknowledging the thousands of telegrams and messages he has received from people in all parts of the world expressing their thankfulness that he had been spared from death.

Iowa Coal Miners Reject Proposed Wage Reduction

Des Moines.—Iowa miners rejecting the United Mine Workers of Iowa have rejected by a 2 to 1 vote a proposed wage scale reduction amounting to $1.10 a day and 23 cents a ton on tonnage rates. The proposal will now be referred back to the joint wage scale committee representing the miners and the Iowa Coal Operators' association where a new agreement may be reached. The present agreement expires April 1.

Detroit Banks Open Under Restrictions

Detroit.—Michigan's banks opened for restricted business, some of them for the first time since Gov. William A. Comstock's emergency closing order.

Most Detroit bankers were awaiting clarification of Governor Comstock's second proclamation, under which he set forth rules for limited operations.

Patrick McGovern, Big Subway Contractor, Dies

New York.—Patrick McGovern, who started with a pick and shovel as an Irish immigrant, and who received the largest subway contract ever awarded by New York city, died suddenly at his Great Neck (L. I.) home. Death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage.

Spanish Steamer Founders; All of Crew Save One Lost

London.—A Spanish ship, the Loyola from Cijon, Spain, said the Spanish steamer Pena Castillo had foundered near the Spanish port of Luarca, all members of the crew save one having been lost.

Autoist's Body Recovered

Niles, Mich.—The body of Jacob L. Colip was taken from the St. Joseph river here. He drove off a street Christmas eve.

American Duchess Dies

Paris.—The Dowager Duchesse de Rochefoucauld, sixty-seven, daughter of the late Senator Mitchell of Oregon, died here.

University Chief Quits

Bismarck, N. D.—Resignation of President Thomas F. Kane of the University of North Dakota was announced.

Kidnapers Are Sentenced

Carlyle, Ill.—Pleading guilty to kidnaping and robbery, Edgar Mendall and Caughan Holman, both of East St. Louis, were sentenced in Circuit court here to serve one year to life in the penitentiary.

Gunman Is Killed

Boston.—Quicker than two gunmen on "the draw," Michael Santanello, East Boston provision store proprietor, killed one and seriously wounded the other when they attempted to rob him.

Crop Bill Passes

Bismarck, N. D.—A resolution to petition congress to permit the use of crop production funds for buying December wheat in the open market passed the North Dakota senate and was sent to the house.

Holiday for Minnesota Banks

Stillwater, Minn.—A ten-day banking holiday was declared by Mayor Peter C. Lund for Cosmopolitan State bank with deposits of about $475,000, and Farmers and Merchants' State bank with deposits of about $875,000.

Brims and Eyes Play Hide and Seek

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHAT fun brims and eyes will be having this season playing hide-and-seek with each other! You see, it is this way, fashion insists that brims take a most thrilling dip-over-one-eye slant, and what happens?—see for yourself in the picture where most of the brims pose at such a perilous angle they almost, if not quite, obliterate the right eye. Which is exactly the way the new hats are supposed to be worn. So get before your mirror and practice, for much of the success of the new hats depends on the "tricky" wearing thereof.

Not that the new hats are in any way lacking in comeliness within themselves. No, indeed! On the contrary the bewitching chapeaux which are knocking by the thousands just now are about as fascinating a lot of millinery as ever joined in a midseason and spring style parade. It is not only the jauntyness of their pose that enthral us but there is that appeal of their femininity in their ribbons, their flowers (yes, flower trims are "in"), their airy straws and their dainty fabrics which make them irresistible.

There's no mistake about it, intensely interesting times are now going on in the realm of millinery. One of them is the revival of taffeta as a medium for hats to wear now and hats to wear when springtime gladdens the earth. One of the dramatic plays which milliners are making with taffeta is to stitch it intricately and delectably. The "derby" of pale blue stitched with d'orange taffeta shown at the top of the left in this group is a striking example of this. It is pulled down over one eye rakishly, as racy as even the youngest deb could desire. The next hat (centered at the top) is also of taffeta—navy blue moire taffeta, with melon crown and flaring brim which laps over at the front in a most flattering manner. The tulle-tone cluster of velvet flowers placed to the fore is its only decoration. The eye, you will observe, is entirely obscured.

The flat crowns for the most part are new lows. For the model to the right at the top is a representative type. Small wreaths of velvet flowers encircle the crown. Velvet flowers of other in multi-color or in solid tone adorn fabric and straw hats alike this season.

Again, in the instance of the hat worn by the prima-frocked lady, the brim quite conceals the right eye. The interesting thing about the charming outfit is its trimming touches of tulle, as expressed in the wreath of flowers which enhance the hat and as they appear in the belt and buckle. Deepers are keen about adding a dash of velvet to the new costumes, so much so, they are beautifying the new gowns, crepes and crepes and materials weaves with most intriguing novelties including velvet scarves, gloves, bowties and all sorts of enchanting details.

Three outstanding trends are presented in the smaller sketches here. The high-built turban reflecting classic influence as shown to the left is a favorite in Paris. The plaid tulle bow at the neck also conveys an important message. The fell fellow is a striking example of this. It is pulled down over one eye rakishly, as racy as even the youngest deb could desire. The next hat (centered at the top) is also of taffeta—navy blue moire taf-

CAPES AND CHECKS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Here's two important hints in regard to the new spring coats—capes and checks. Most every coat has its cape, for capes have gone on parade for spring. Capes that come off and capes that don't, capes that are furless and capes that are fur-trimmed, they each and all grace the season's smartest coats. Then as to the popularity of checks, it matters not whether the cloaking material be of fine sheer woolen of sturdiest weave or of gray and white silk, as is the material which fashions the model pictured, it is almost sure to be checked, for checked fabrics are the rage for spring. You'd love the material in this coat. It is a sort of soft heavy flannel mixture which you are sure to like better every time you wear it. The gray fox bordering satisfies the eye with a delectable color blend.

WOMEN NOW PREFER DOUBLE-DUTY DRESS

Two dresses have always been better than one, but now women prefer, above all, the single dress that is really two. Transformable clothes—originally an experiment to test out the possibility of thrifty fashions—have become big successes.

The fine feature of the transformable clothes is the fact that there is hardly an evidence of their double-duty background.

Time was when a transformative dress showed its taking apart qualities at first glance; nowadays hardly a dress goes by in any fashion parade that doesn't look as if it might be taken apart and transformed—be it the dress which has this as its purpose is not set apart from others in any way.

Designers Making Much of All-Beige Costumes

Designers are making much of the all-beige costume as an advance spring fashion. Introduced in mid-winter the first beiges planned for 1933 were of a darker tint than usual. Most of them had a greenish cast, or were crossed between beiges and grays.

The current popularity in beiges leans toward lighter, paler shades. Many of the beige costumes shown at the better dressmakers are actually a deep, cream color, or lean toward pale yellow. One of the favorites is a very light beige that approximates the most delicate tones in baby's feet furs.

Black Chiffon Is Being Revived for Evening Wear

Black chiffon, an old favorite evening fashion, is being revived. Smart women, tired of bright crepe and black satins, are taking to a fashion that has always had its seasons of success, and are adapting it to 1933 silhouettes.

Many of the newest evening dresses appearing at fashionable theater openings are either entirely of black chiffon, or are of chiffon combined with lace or with satin.

Advance Tips on Fashions for Spring Wear

Scarf print silks are the wanted kind. Call is for taffeta street frocks in youthful models. Giant size bows of taffeta, especially white or plaid, are worn. For the formal afternoon gown, or in informal dinner gown, you may choose open work sandals, which show a clever combination of satin and velvet.

Designers are making the frock of blouse entire of shirred chiffon. Pastel shades of great delicacy are a feature of the new sheer woollen which are used for dresses to wear under dark coats. After all there is nothing like a black wool frock for general all around wear and it has few equals in chic. It happens to be one of the new soft styles with touches of astrakhan embroidery.

CAP AND BELLS

The Fable of Her Folks and His Folks

By GEORGE ADE

ONCE there was a man who had a wife and each of them had, as might have been feared, Relatives. The Man lived in a coming-Along Town and had an Income and knew how to put up a Front. He had made himself a Personage not to be sneezed at.

The Missus knew how to Superintend a Home and regulate the two Olive Branches and wear Clothes and talk at Club Meetings, so that she could have been designated, without Exaggeration, as Some Pinkins.

Now, because Ralph and Jessie had both qualified for the Majors and were battling above 300 the Kin on both sides of the Fence paid them some Attention, often dropping in at the House to spend a few minutes and then hanging around for two or three days.

It is a well-known Fact that when a Person gets married nowadays and later finds out that he has married Only One, it is almost a Miracle. If we were to omit from the Social Register the Names of those who become Important by reason of Somebody Else, there would be many vacant Pages.

Ralph didn't like his Services on her Family and she would have preferred to spare his Feelings and not dig any Dirt regarding his low-down Connections, but sometimes Forbearance ceases to be convenient.

Passing the Icy Stare

It was at Breakfast and Ralph just happened to ask, in a nice Way, if her Brother Lem, who was visiting them, had come up for Air.

Lem had recently severed all connections with one of our leading Universities. He had been in such a Hurry to get an Education that he had not waited to take his Degree but had boarded a Train after learning practically all that there was to be learned, the Faculty concurring heartily.

Several of the learned Professors were hiding for his Services and in the meantime he was boarding with Sister because she set an awful good Table and the Rate was Nothing per week and he liked the large Guest Chamber and the kind of Cigarettes that Ralph smoked.

Hubby precipitated the Armageddon by expressing Regret that he was compelled to hurry away to his Office, knowing, as he did, that it would be Etiquette for him to stick around until about 11:30 G. M. so as to take Breakfast with the Honored Guest.

"If my Brother's Presence in this House is distasteful to you, I shall ask him to leave," said Jessie, bestowing a frigid look on the Brute.

"Not all," he replied. "It wouldn't seem like Home without him. Only, I am wondering if, when you accepted me, you were influenced by the Fact that practically Everything I wear will fit your Brother and often does."

"Lem is a Dear Boy," said Jessie, with a tinge of Feeling. "It is a Pleasure to have Some One around this House who does not put in all of his Time hanging Crepe. And while you are panning my Kid Brother don't forget that I had your Sister on my Hands for Six Weeks up in the Country last Summer and I'll tell the squint-eyed World it was Some Contract. I am not saying that Rowena is shy any Buttons or should be locked up, or anything like that, but I do know that anyone who goes bloozy on Spirituality and wants to turn down the Lights and pull a Seance every few Minutes is no Playmate for Yours Truly."

Homeless Skeleton With a Waist Line. "Speaking of Sisters," said Ralph, pouring a third Cup of Coffee. "It is about time for Mirabelle to check in and give us a lot of trade. I long to have her tell me how she enjoys Concerts and the Opera. The mere Fact that she does not know the Difference between The Meistersinger and the Marx Brothers does not seem to cramp her Eloquence at all. I never have met Any One who could talk, at such great Length, on Topics of which she is totally in the Dark."

"Let us have an Understanding," said Jessie, planting her Elbows on the Table. "If this is to be a Battle to a Finish, and we are going to permit hitting in the Clinches, I will call attention to the Fact that you have an Uncle Robert, from the West, who came as near as anyone could to making a Dump of our supposedly respectable Home. When I married you, Uncle was not in the Contract at all. He is, I take it, your Family Skeleton, although it is hard to think of a Skeleton weighing 220 Pounds. When the Saloons closed up he was left practically homeless. I like your Uncle Bob and will always try to make things pleasant for him but I think it is only fair that you should notify me when he is coming, so that I can have a lot of Sawdust on the Floor."

"My uncle Robert comes of a fine

LIMITED OPPORTUNITIES

"Charley," said young Mrs. Torkins, "it must be dreadfully unsuitable to be a member of the French cabinet."

"The members are not selected for social reasons."

"I know it. But, as a rule, I don't believe they hold office long enough to learn how to pronounce one another's names."

AN ACROBAT

"You say he's crooked?" "Crooked! Why, he'd make a lead pencil look like a corkscrew."

Just as Good

A water pipe in the bathroom had burst, and the head of the house was doing his best to stem the flowing tide with his hands, pending the arrival of a plumber.

Suddenly his son burst into the bathroom and said excitedly: "You can take your hands off the leak now, dad!"

"Thank heaven," exclaimed the father. "Is the plumber here at last?" "No," was the reply, "but the house is afire."

Interest Secure

"I don't believe Josh is interested in the dear old home," remarked Farmer Cornstossel sadly.

"Yes, he is," replied Josh's mother. "and he's going to keep on being interested regardless of pleasures and palaces, so long as the old home is the only place where three meals per day are absolutely reliable."

Not Without Ambition

A tough looking fust stopped a gentleman and tried to make a touch. "Can't you get into any business that is more profitable than this?" the gentleman asked.

"I'd like to open a bank if I could only get the tools," was the answer.—Boston Transcript.

Subjunctive Mood

Employer—Jimson, you're a swindler. I gave you a day off yesterday to bury your mother-in-law, and today I met her on the street. Jimson—Excuse me. I didn't say she was dead. I only said I would like to go to her funeral.

NOT EVEN OVAL

Hungry Diner—Walter, will the riddle cakes be long? Walter—No sir, round.

old New England Family," said Ralph "His Progenitors were riding in Carriages when your Ancestors were coming across in the Steerage and living on Garlic. I will admit that he is the Custodian of a very tidy Thirst but, at least, when he drops in at the Office he is not going to try to sell me anything. If I were to choose, I believe I might prefer Relatives who were convivial to those who were On the Make?"

"What do you mean, 'on the make,'" demanded Jessie, a dangerous Look coming into her Eyes. "Are you referring to my Father letting you in on that Florida Deal?"

"It's Different Away From Home. I'll permit you to get away with that 'letting in' Stuff, if you say it without Laughing. I don't object to your Dad having lovely Dreams, but why should I be selected for the Honor of financing them?"

"That Deal he put you in on will make all of you rich in time. He says so. At least it won't be any more of a Flop than financing your Aunt Emma's Farm. Anyone who backs Aunt Emma as a Farm Manager is certainly due to have the Old Head examined."

By the time the Breakfast got good and cold, a Stranger might have figured that a Divorce was impending but here is what really happened.

Along in the afternoon the one Woman to whom Jessie could unfold herself, viz. Mrs. Flitter, came in for a Shot of Orange Pekoe and got the whole Yarn.

"My husband is as smart as they turn them out and he is Self-Made," she explained. "I don't blame him for objecting to Lem coming here and sponging for Weeks at a time. The lazy Hulk ought to be doing something for himself. He certainly called the Turn on Mirabelle, too. She has listened to a couple of Lectures and now she's got so much Culture it makes her stoop-shouldered to carry it around. As for Pa, he has some Good Points but I don't believe he has any more business sense than a Rab-bit. His idea of being an important Figure in the World of Speculative Finance is to borrow a lot of Money from Ralph. How true it is that you can order almost anything at a Store but you have to take your Relatives as you find them."

Almost at the same Hour there was a Meeting at the Club and Ralph was giving the Low Down and Inside to Walter Tillinghast.

"I've got the Best Little Woman in the World," said Ralph, "and I can't blame her for being put out by some of the Things that happened to grow on our Family Tree. For instance, there's Rowena. She's gone plumb dippy on Psychic Phenomena. I don't know of anything I wouldn't rather have around the House than Psychic Phenomena. What's more, Jessie is dead right about Aunt Emma. If I had all the Coin I ever slipped to that Old Girl it would make a pretty penny. As for Uncle Bob, he really should be compelled to live in the Garage. Anything as woolly as he is should not be permitted in a Refined Home. I'm afraid my People have got on Jessie's Nerves lately. Without making any Explanations, I think I'll send her some Flowers."

At the Dinner Hour they were still cool and distant but she did quite a bit of Cooling around Brother Lem.

Early "Samplers" The earliest mention of a sampler so far found is in 1502, when Elizabeth of York paid 8 pence for a set of linen cloth to make one. A sampler is referred to by John Skelton, the poet, about the same time. Originally samplers were intended for practical purposes; needlework and embroidery were practically the only relaxation of women at that time and samplers were made for "handkerchiefs, tablecloths, sheets, towels, napkins and pillow bearers." The earliest American sampler was that of Loara Standish. The next reported was that of Mary Hollingsworth of Salem, which was probably made about 1665. Sarah Lord made one in 1668.

Paraguay Paraguay is one of the two inland countries of South America, having an area of about 97,700 square miles. Excellent grazing land is abundant and pastoral industries have advanced greatly in recent years. The chief exports are hides, yerba mate (Paraguay tea) oranges, tobacco, timber, meat, cattle and tannin extract. The chief imports are textiles, provisions, hardware and fancy goods. There are less than 300 miles of railways. Principal cities are Asuncion, the capital and chief river port; Villa Rica, the center of tobacco growing; Villa Concepcion, a trading center of the Paraguayan river.

Age of the Earth A formula, based on measurements of the constant disintegration of radio active elements, shows the earth to be at least 1,852,000,000 years old, according to a professor of the Yale Physics department. An astronomer of Yale university estimates 3,000,000,000 years as the earth's age.

Constant Changes Made in "Word Laboratories" It is because of precious souvenirs of language that every one experiences the real difference between "book talk" and "real talk," between the words used in conversation and those used in writing.

Every one knows that scarcely any one writes as he talks. Every one uses colloquial expressions and constructions in conversation which he by no means would use in a letter or article, or at least in only the most informal and intimate letters.

This gap, as it were; this "strange interlude" between speech as spoken ordinarily and as written is the place where language experimentation goes on.

Our business world is one of the busiest experimental word laboratories in the world. New products demand new names. Old products need new words to call renewed attention to them. If this process occasionally irritates the person sensitive to words, it is no more than he ought to expect. In a chemical laboratory he would not foam at the mouth because some test tube or other gave off noxious fumes before the distilled product was ready. One should feel the same way about new words and expressions, solely for his own peace of mind. Out of these new coinages a few will find their way into the dictionaries. One popular advertising word, for instance, is not in the dictionaries of a few years ago, but we understand that it is in the latest editions.

It should be realized by those who are not sympathetic to any but the words and expressions with which they are familiar that by these strange words—or so they seem to them—the language grows and keeps its vigor.—Washington Star.

Origin of Name "Michigan" The name "Michigan" is the Algonquin Indian word for "great lake" and was first applied to Lake Michigan. The name for the lake appears on old maps as far back as 1688, though on some of these maps the lake is called "Lake Illinois or Michigan."

WHEN SEASONS BEGIN

The dates of the equinoxes—that is, the dates of the sun's crossing of the equator—are approximately March 21 and September 22. The dates of the solstices—when the sun is farthest, north or south, from the equator—are approximately June 21 and December 21. These positions of the sun are considered to mark the boundaries between the seasons. The time varies a little from year to year, and the season may begin a day earlier or later than the dates given. This year spring begins March 20 at 8:43 a. m., eastern standard time. Summer will begin at 4:12 p. m., June 21; autumn at 7:51 p. m., September 23; and winter at 1:58 p. m., December 22.

To improve Any child's APPETITE

A sluggish appetite means a sluggish colon. Correct this condition called stasis, and see how quickly a listless, drooping boy or girl begins to eat—and gain! The only "medicine" such children need is pure, unadulterated fig syrup.

California syrup of figs is doing wonderful things for ailing, sickly children all over the United States.

If your baby, boy or girl, is bilious—pale-faced and dull-eyed from constipation—breath bad mornings, tongue coated all the time—don't give cathartics that weaken twenty feet of bowels! Instead, a little syrup of figs that doesn't disturb either stomach or bowels, but does act on the lower colon—where the trouble lies.

Nature never has made a finer laxative for children; they all love the wholesome, fruity flavor of the real California syrup of figs. It's purely vegetable, but every druggist has it all bottled, with directions. Begin with it at once. Your child will soon be eating better and feeling better. Keep on with the syrup of figs a few days and see amazing improvement in appetite, color, weight, and spirits.

Children who get syrup of figs, now and then, keep well and avoid colds.

NOTICE: The bottlers of California Syrup of Figs respectfully warn mothers that the promises made here apply only to the genuine product in bottles plainly marked CALIFORNIA.

But They All Know A pretty woman is prettier if she doesn't know you're thinking she's pretty.—Exchange.

Stomach and Blood

DON'T be that worst pest of all—the chronic sufferer from colds who passes germs on to friends or family. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery builds up the stomach and the blood so that the entire system feels the beneficial effect. Your skin clears up, your appetite increases, you feel more peppy than you have felt in years. Read this: "My mother always gave us Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery as a blood and stomach medicine, said Chas. Van Sickle of 821 LaCrosse St., LaCrosse, Wis. 'I think it is the best medicine, especially in springtime to build up and improve the blood, it also regulates the liver and is good for a weak stomach.'"

Special Subscription Offer

As announced recently and due to the fact that times are pretty hard during this period of depression, we are offering the Kewaskum Statesman for fifteen months for $2.00, the regular price of the STATESMAN for one year. In other words, come in now, enroll your name, pay the regular subscription rate of $2.00 and we will send you the paper for fifteen months for that sum. This practically makes the subscription rate $1.50 for the first year to new subscribers.

Furthermore, in order to be fair with the old subscribers, who, between now and January 1st, 1934, come in and pay their subscription one full year in advance, we will likewise give them three months' subscription free, making the rate, likewise to renewals, $1.50 per year. You must pay the regular rate of $2.00 and upon doing so, get the paper for fifteen months—regular year for $2.00 and the extra three months free.

Upon renewals, the subscriber, in order to benefit from this concession, must pay up all arrears and one year in advance. If you are already paid in advance, by paying an extra $2.00 between now and January 1st, 1934, you too, will be given the same offer—namely: receive an additional three months' subscription free.

Owing to the fact that old man depression has hit this country a terrific body blow, and everyone is trying to reduce expenses, this offer should appeal to the majority of the people of this vicinity. A vast number of readers feel that they cannot afford to keep the home paper at the former price. By taking advantage of this offer now, you get the STATESMAN for fifteen months for $2.00, where formerly you paid the same amount for twelve months. You cannot afford to be without your Home Paper at this amazing offer.

ADVERTISERS ALSO BENEFIT

We also desire to bring our advertising space charge within the reach of each and every one of our business houses in this village and outlying community, and have decided to reduce our advertising rates, so that all may well afford to advertise and at no great outlay of expense.

From now on until January 1st 1934, our foreign advertising rate for display advertising will be 25 cents per column inch, less 15% and 2% to authorized advertising agencies; 20 cents per inch to transient advertisers; and 15 cents per inch to local business firms and industries; classified ads 1 cent per word per issue; reader ads 5 cents per line per issue.

FARM AND HOME LINES

The lawn is the foreground of the home grounds picture. Have it large enough to give privacy and expanse but not so large that mowing will be a burden. Keep the lawn free from lower beds, curious stones, so-called rock gardens, or improperly located plans which detract from the picture. Landscape authorities recommend.
 Many new crops, found suitable to other sections of the country, may be a failure in Wisconsin. The agriculture experiment stations are continuously making tests of new varieties of crops to determine whether or not they are good crops for Wisconsin. A letter addressed to the county agent or the experiment station will bring the latest information about any of these new crops.

Prize Winning Story By Local Young Lady

(By Miss Mildred Stoffel)

That meant that no one had been there—nor touched a thing—since their departure. Perhaps most people would not think it was such a desirable house, this shabby two-room cottage, but to them it was home.

This home recalled to them memories of happiness, struggle, and worry.

In a short time, a fire could be heard crackling in the fireplace, and the kettle was singing on the little wood stove in the corner which was used as a kitchen.

Nancy began unpacking her basket proudly.

"Bacon," she said. "Every day when I worked in the kitchen, I took a bit of bacon and hid it in my apron pocket. Then I never ate my share at the table. So it's not stealing." Then she showed a dozen or more potatoes to John. "I did the same with them. I haven't eaten bread for a week, so this loaf and this pat of butter makes up for that. I took this cup of tea, but surely they would forgive me for taking that."

"After everything was unpacked, and they had warmed themselves up a bit, Nancy could be seen working in the kitchen.

"I'll make us a cup of tea this minute, John to warm us," remarked Nancy.

"The food must be kept until tomorrow, otherwise we might have to starve," said John sorrowfully.

Nancy noticed John's fear of lack of food exclaimed, "Let's not think of that, to spoil our happiness. There is always some way to secure food, and if we must go begging for it."

"That woman," John muttered to himself. "There never was one to equal her in the world."

"John, what are you hiding in that newspaper?" asked Nancy.

"A fine holly wreath," replied John.

"Well, what made you bring that wreath? Where did you get it from?" questioned the inquisitive Nancy.

"There were a stack of them in the hall, waiting to be hung up for the approaching Christmas holidays. So I just lifted the top one off, since there'll be no ward for us to be celebrating in, this Christmas. I thought it would help to brighten up this cottage and bring about more of a Christmas spirit," exclaimed John.

His mind was now in an anxious state of condition regarding the future.

"If not a ward, what then, Nancy? Would they be putting us in the County Jail? Is it a felony to run away from the home?" asked John.

"Felony nothing," John. That means stealing," answered Nancy.

"Didn't we take this food?"

"Didn't we keep it out of our own mouths for nearly two weeks, so that we could carry it away in a basket?" remonstrated Nancy.

She had spread a little red and white checked cloth on the table near the fire.

"Here John, drink this tea and stop fretting. I don't imagine this tea is as strong as what we got at the home," remarked Nancy.

"Strong! It's grand." He gasped as he gulped it down. "It's strong enough for any king or queen."

"There was some tobacco left in the old blue jar, John, so you can smoke awhile, before you go to bed," said Nancy.

"Oh, if you only had remembered to bring your mouth organ, and I could sing some old familiar tunes to the playing of the mouth organ," exclaimed Nancy.

"I did that," said John. "I enjoy playing that too much, to forget bringing that along."

When he pulled it out of his pocket, a little tissue—wrapped package came out with it. Like a fumbling schoolboy, he handed this tissue—wrapped package to his wife, Nancy.

"That new 'member of the Board,' Miss A ---. What's her name, asked me a while ago what I wanted for Christmas. As I told her a bottle of scent-perfume. It was breaking my heart to have nothing for you. Yesterday, she brought it to me all wrapped up like this," explained John.

"I see through your tricks," said Miss A ---, said she. "You've a sweet heart."

"And so I have," I replied—"Nancy." Nancy shook her head. Her large bright eyes shone as she looked at him. Then, "She's a grand generous woman," exclaimed Nancy. After a pause, she added, "I have nothing for you this year, John. Nothing but all my love."

"A king on his throne couldn't be getting more," replied John sweetly.

"Sit down, and drink the rest of your tea, Nancy, and I'll play you a bit of a tune before we go to bed. If I get right, you'll be up at the break of day, cleaning this cottage," laughed John.

She slipped her hot tea, rocking back and forth in her own comfortable chair, where she had not sat for the last seven years.

"When John began to play on his lute organ, she took up the tunes with her trembling voice. As he continued singing her tones became fainter and she began to pause longer af-

SPECIAL LENTEN RULES GIVEN FOR RELIEF GROUPS

Families receiving aid from relief agencies will be governed by special rules on abstinence during the Lenten season, according to regulations prepared by the Most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch, archbishop of Milwaukee read by pastors in Catholic churches last Sunday.

General rules on fasting, methods of fasting, exemptions, rules on abstinence, duties and instructions on Easter duties were given in the archbishop's letter to pastors. They are:

REGULATION FOR FASTING

Between the ages of 21, completed, and 59, completed, all Catholics are obliged under the pain of grave sin to fast on all days of Lent except Sundays.

The Lenten fast began Ash Wednesday, March 1, and ends at noon on Holy Saturday, April 15.

METHODS OF FASTING

Only one full or principal meal a day is allowed.

This principal meal may be taken either at noon or in the evening but never before noon.

Meat may be eaten at the principal meal on all days except Wednesdays and Fridays and the Saturday of Ember week.

Meat and fish may be eaten at the same meal. Whenever meat is allowed, in the morning a cup of coffee, tea or thin chocolate with a piece of bread, not exceeding two ounces is allowed.

A lunch or collation, not exceeding the fourth part of an ordinary meal, or eight ounces of food, may be taken in the evening, if the principal meal is taken at noon; or at noon, if the principal meal is taken in the evening.

Milk, butter, eggs and cheese are allowed on all fast days at the principal meal and at the lunch.

Lard, suet and the drippings of animal fat are allowed in the preparation of food when meat is not allowed.

EXEMPTIONS NOTED

The following are exempted from fasting:

The sick and infirm, convalescent and mothers in delicate condition.

Those who do really hard work to the extent that fasting would impair their health or their efficiency.

The poor, who are not able to procure regularly for themselves and their families food in nutritive quality and amount sufficient for a daily full meal, a Lenten breakfast and Lenten lunch.

Those, who for good and valid reasons, are dispensed by their pastor or confessors.

RULES ON ABSTINENCE

In Catholic discipline to abstain means not to eat meat.

All Catholics who have reached their seventh year are obliged to abstain on all Fridays of the year, on Wednesday during Lent, on Wednesdays and Saturdays during Ember week, on Holy Saturday until noon and on the vigil of Christmas, Pentecost and the Assumption and All Saints.

EXCEPTIONS LISTED

Except during the sacred season of Lent when a Sunday or Holy day of obligation falls on a day of abstinence, the law of abstinence ceases.

All persons for whom in the opinion of a reputable physician the daily use of meat is necessary are exempted from the law of abstinence.

The poor who are not able to procure proper diet substitutes for meat, or who are dependent for food on relief agencies not sufficiently providing such substitutes.

By virtue of a special faculty granted by the Holy See to the bishops of the United States, we hereby grant permission to working men and their families to eat meat once a day at the principal meal on days of fast and abstinence, except on Fridays, Ash Wednesday, the forenoon of Saturday of Holy week and the vigil of Christmas.

All Catholics who have reached the age of reason are obliged, under the pain of grave sin, to receive Holy Communion during the Easter season. By special favor of the Holy See the Easter season in the United States extends from the first Sunday of Lent until Trinity Sunday, inclusive.

SHEBOYGAN PRESS OFFICIAL STATE PAPER

The Senate on Tuesday concurred in the Fox bill of the Assembly naming the Sheboygan Press as the official state paper. The bill was immediately sent to Governor Schmedeman, who will sign it.

Chas. E. Broughton, Democratic National Committeeman of the State of Wisconsin, is publisher of the Press. During the past few years the Capitol Times at Madison was the recognized official state paper.

er each word. The last notes trailed away. The chair rocked slower, and slower. Nancy now had her head back on the chair and had fallen asleep.

Weekly News Letter From Washington

By Michael K. Reilly, M. C.

According to predictions in my last letter the joint resolution passed by the Senate for the repeal of the 18th Amendment passed the house with 2-9 for and 121 against, giving a majority of 16 for the resolution over the two-thirds vote required.

The resolution has already been certified to the Governors of the forty-eight States in the Union, and it is expected that the legislatures now in session, or shortly to come in session, which numbers, about forty-one, of the total forty-eight States, will provide legislative plans for the calling of State conventions to ratify or disapprove the amendment.

The house during the past week approved the bill granting to the next President of the United States, what is called, autocratic powers, in the way of re-organizing bureaus, boards and departments of the National Government.

There was but little opposition in the House to the passage of this resolution, the general feeling appears, to be on both sides of the aisles, that there is to be any re-organization of the National Government, resulting in efficiency and economy, it will have to be done as a result of an executive order.

It is an easy matter to add bureaus and boards and to add a personnel to the governmental payroll, but it is a difficult task to abolish bureaus and to disconnect from the payroll persons, who have enjoyed the privilege of working for Uncle Sam.

Everytime Congress attempts to eliminate a bureau or to curtail in any way governmental expenditures an army of sympathizers with those who are to be let out swoop down on Congress and simply paralyze every economic program.

President-elect Roosevelt has had his Representative Swager Shirley, a former member of Congress from Kentucky, investigating the matter of reducing governmental expenditures for the past two months, and the President-elect, will have when he takes office, a survey of governmental Washington before him, that will enable him to accomplish what everybody hopes will be accomplished during his administration, and that is substantial reduction of governmental expenditures.

Last Saturday evening, the President and Mrs. Hoover held their second last reception for the benefit of both Houses of Congress. This reception was larger than the usual reception, because for the first time in several years, the House and Senate were combined in the same reception. Formerly the Chief Executive and his wife were in the habit of holding separate receptions for the House and the Senate.

The social program of the White House was somewhat curtailed this season, because of the death of ex-President Coolidge, which resulted in a thirty-day social moratorium.

The social life of the new administration will be a rather one-sided affair, for the reason that the Garners are not socially minded. The Vice-President-elect and his wife are very much averse to joining in with the social activities of the Capital.

The fact of the matter is during the thirty years that the Garners have been in Washington, they have accepted very few social engagements, and there is no indication that they are going to change their lines, or living during the time that the present Speaker of the House may be privileged to serve as Vice-President of the United States.

The fourth of March every four years, and sometimes every eight years is a moving day as far as the White House is concerned.

Of course, the Government of the United States furnishes the White House from top to bottom, so to speak, and provides the necessary funds for conducting the social and housekeeping activities of the Executive Mansion. However, sometimes the Presidential occupants of the White House have either not been satisfied with the furnishings furnished by the Government, or have had a great deal of furniture on hand of their own.

The Hoover's brought much furniture with them when they moved into the White House, and of course, with the accumulation of documents and etc., they are having quite a time in packing their personal belongings.

The Coolidges brought to the White House with them to the little packing to do when they left.

The Wilson's came to the White House just like guests would go to a Hotel. In fact most of the Presidents of the United States lived in the White House, as they would in a hotel and had but little trouble in moving when their terms of office was ending.

The Cleveland's were the only occupants of the White House who ever moved out and then moved in four years later, because Cleveland was the only President who was able to come back, so to speak.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was the White House last week for the purpose of looking over and getting a line on her new home. It is customary for the retiring mistress of the White House to invite her successor to the President's home, prior to her entering upon the duties of her office, that establishment, in order that she may familiarize herself with the National Capital's residence, prior to the President and his wife.

Frequently the President-elect and his wife are guests at the White House prior to the inauguration, but there is nothing to indicate at the present time that the Roosevelts will be over-night guests at the White House prior to March 4th.

The Hoover's were such guests of the Coolidge's before Mr. Hoover was charged as President.

One more week remains of the present session of Congress. Both Houses are rushing to complete their work, particularly as regards the passing of appropriation bills.

A great many important measures pending on the calendars of both Houses will be left for final consideration at the next session of Congress.

Many of the newly elected Congressmen have already come to Washington to get their bearings. It is doubtful if there has ever been a new Congress particularly as far as the House is concerned, which will have as many new faces as will appear in the next House of Representatives. Something like 160 new representatives of the people, Republicans and Democrats will take their seats as members of the House of Representatives for the first time in the 73rd Congress.

Many of the important committees of the House have only one or two Republican members left on them. While the like committees have and of a comparatively few Democratic vacancies.

The large Democratic majority will make necessary the re-arranging of the proportionate representation of both parties on committees, with the size of the committees will not be changed, the Democratic majority will be about three more than on the present committees of the House.

As a result of the large increase in the Democratic membership of the House, the number of Democrats who will have positions on one or more committees will decrease, while the number of Republicans who will be privileged to be members of one or more committees will be largely increased.

Visitors to the office during the past week were: Mr. and Mrs. R. Zinke, Mrs. A. R. Zinke and Mr. W. F. Zinke, all of whom were from Fond du Lac.

MANY PEOPLE ATTEND FARM SHOW

Around 954 people attended the series of one day farm meetings in Fond du Lac county held last week by S. J. Durat, county agent, and J. B. Hayes, Madison, these meetings were held at Rosendale Mt. Calvary, Campbellsport and Van Dyne. The interest and attendance was greater than a year ago at most of the meetings.

J. B. Hayes discussed various poultry diseases and their control, and methods of handling and feeding farm poultry flock.

Mr. Murat discussed various topics of interest. He warned farmers not to send for seed from out of state concerns, State laws protect the farmer when he purchases seed from dealers in this state, but the farmer has practically no protection when he buys seed from out of state concerns. Some samples of seed purchased from seed houses in other states last year, when tested by the State Seed Laboratory, showed very heavy infestation with noxious weed seeds. High quality seed is always the cheapest when buying seeds. Beware of cheap seed offered by some out of state concerns.

Mr. Murat also discussed the use of different disinfectants. He stated that any high grade lye has proved to be one of the best disinfectants now available. One 13 ounce can of lye, mixed with 15 gallons of water, is a very good disinfectant for use in disinfecting barns, poultry and hog houses. It is also a very cheap disinfectant to use.

Mr. Murat further discussed the use of iodine in rations for some of the common livestock diseases. He also discussed various crops that could be seeded for pasture and emergency pastures.

Out-of-state seed dealers are not under state control and may ship inferior, misbranded seed to Wisconsin farmers.
