Kewaskum pulled up 100 per cent in the opening game of the Badger State League played on the home diamond when the Athletics shut out the Mayville Fire Fighters by a score of 4 to 0. Twice during the game, once in the sixth inning and again in the seventh, the fire fighters put the old fire engine into work, giving the locals a scare, and the fans a thrill, in their effort of attempting to bring some of their fire ladders out of the flames and safely across the home plate, but in each case Wisniewski proved to outgeneral the firemen and put out the fire before his opposing comrades could get their engine working satisfactory.

The day's festivities were started with President Val. Peters throwing the first ball over the plate, which according to Chief Umpire "Peachy" Bohman was a perfect strike. Wisniewski pitching was easily the feature of the day. He struck out 16 fire ladders, and allowed them to climb the ladder with only six scattered hits. He did exceptionally well in fielding his position, getting four assists, leaving only seven men to be taken care of by his team-mates. The Athletics, behind him, played errorless ball. Kral did very well behind the bat. Barron, last year's heavy slugger, was the only Athletic to go hitless.

Bill Harbeck, the promising young fielder of the league, who batted in lead-off position, won himself a good spot with the fans. He was the batting star of the game, connecting three times out of four trips to the plate. Two of his healthy clouts were good for two bases. The only inning the locals failed to get a hit was in the fifth.

Fuderer, for Mayville, although hit hard pitched a very good game keeping the twelve hits made off him well scattered. He allowed only one pass and struck out five. Genzmer, playing right field for the firemen, was the visitors' master at the bat, getting two hits out of four trips to the plate. Two bad errors one by Zimmerman, when he threw very wild over second, and another by Kahlow, at second, when he dropped an easy infield fly, caused two of the local runs in the fourth.

Following is the story, play by play, as to how the locals made their four runs:
Fourth Inning, Kewaskum—Elliott singled to left, went to second on Trotter's hard hit ball to Fuderer, who recovered in time to get Trotter at first. Marr struck out, Schaefer singled Elliott going to third, Kahlow dropped an easy infield fly to Kral, Elliott scored and Schaefer went to third. On a successful double steal by Kral and Schaefer, the latter scored. Wisniewski singled to right field, Kral scoring, Wisniewski going to second on the throw-in. Harbeck grounded to Kahlow to Hartwig—Three runs, two hits, two errors.

Eighth Inning, Kewaskum—Elliott doubled to right field and was out trying to stretch hit for three bases, Genzmer to Kahlow to Kiele. Trotter doubled to deep center, Marr singled, scoring Trotter, Schaefer drew a pass, Marr going to second, Kral grounded in front of the plate and was thrown out by Zimmerman to Hartwig, Schaefer going to third. Wisniewski flied out to Kahlow—One run, three hits.

FORMER KEWASKUM BANKER DIES

Harry E. Henry, 53, vice-president and cashier of the East Troy State Bank, East Troy, was found dead in his bed last week Friday morning, May 12th, by his son, John. Death was due to a heart stroke.

Mr. Henry was very well known in this community, being a resident of the village for seven years, during which time he was cashier of the Citizens State Bank of Kewaskum. Mr. Henry in company with his brother, Charles, and F. M. Schuler during August, 1904, organized the Citizens State Bank, which opened for business on September 12 of the same year. He assumed the position as the bank's cashier. Prior to this time he was connected with the Port Washington State Bank, and cashier of the First State Bank at West Bend.

Soon after the Henrys, Schuler, Wolfram and Hill interests in the then Citizens State Bank were sold to A. L. Rosenheimer of the Bank of Kewaskum, in December 1911, Mr. Henry became interested in the East Troy Bank, accepting the position as cashier. Since that time he conducted the affairs of said bank. He was a thirty-second degree mason.

The deceased is survived by his wife, Benita Bostwick, two children, Janice and John, one brother, Charles C. of Salt Lake City Utah, and one sister, Mary B. Curtis of San Anselmo, Calif.

The funeral was held from the family residence at East Troy on Monday afternoon, May 15, at two o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Otto E. Lay, L. P. Rosenheimer and Miss Edna Schmidt of this village were present at the last rites.

Services at St. John's Mission church next Sunday will be held at 7:30 a. m.

KEWASKUM DEFEATS WALDO 4-3
The Kewaskum high school made its seven straight victories on Wednesday afternoon by defeating Waldo in a close game by a score of 4 to 3. Several costly errors on the part of our players made it anybody's game until the final out in the 7th inning when Kewaskum was leading by one run. Marx, pitching for the locals, struck out 10 batters, compared to Sprangell, the Waldo pitcher, who struck out five. The locals also had a slight edge on the number of hits connecting safely, 8 times as compared to 5 hits for Waldo. Kohler and Schaefer both secured a double and a single, while Stenschke, Marx, Miller and Claus secured a single. Commendable mention can well be made of the excellent playing of Joseph Miller, who in the last inning safely singled which drove in the two needed runs to win the game. Klahn also deserves special mention for good work on the receiving end. Rinzel, Rosenheimers and Smith played creditably when the opposing team had runners on bases. A beautiful double play in the first inning was made by Smith who caught a line drive and assisted in catching a runner off second base. The score by innings follows:
Kewaskum ..... 0 1 0 0 1 0 2-4
Waldo ..... 0 1 1 0 1 0 0-3

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual. National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare.

Present Administration policy might be expressed thus: "Raise prices now and go to any possible length to do it." The inflation bill is result of this attitude. Presidential control of Congress, in spite of appearance of organized opposition, was easily great enough to carry it through. Its chief provisions are:

The President may arrange with the Federal Reserve banks and boards for the banks to purchase in the open market and hold up to $3,000,000,000 worth of government obligations, thus providing an identical amount of new credit.

If this is inadequate, the President may then direct issuance of currency up to $3,000,000,000 to retire government obligations; reduce the gold content of the dollar by 50 per cent or any smaller proportion; provide unlimited free coinage of silver at a ratio of 16 to 1; accept silver up to $200,000,000 in the payment of war debts in the next six months, valuing the silver up to 50 cents an ounce. With the approval of the President the Federal Reserve Board may declare the existence of an emergency, and increase or decrease reserve balances required to be held against deposits.

Of paramount interest, is influence reduction of gold content of the dollar would have on relations of debtor and creditor. Expert opinion places it as follows:

DEBTORS—Following the devaluation of the dollar, a man who had contracted to pay a certain number of dollars could tender the new dollars in satisfaction of the debt. Principal classes to be benefited in this respect would be those who had mortgaged homes and farms.

CREDITORS—Superficially, this class would lose under the changed basis, inasmuch as the new dollars would have less purchasing power than the old. However, this apparent injustice would be much offset by the fact that the loans were largely contracted at a time when the dollar was worth only about half of what it is worth at the moment.

FARMERS—Would benefit. Prices would rise, thus netting the farmer more dollars. On the other hand, the cost of what he purchased would rise as well, but probably not so rapidly.

MANUFACTURERS, WHOLESALERS, RETAILERS—The same condition obtains as in the case of the farmer. Prices of the goods they sell will go up—and so will the prices of the raw materials they buy. Concerns with large stocks of raw materials on hand, bought at present dollar values, will naturally benefit.

WAGE-EARNERS—The man with the fixed income will receive dollars which buy him less. How much hardship this will create is dependent upon the rapidity or the slowness with which wages rise.

UNEMPLOYED—This class will doubtless be benefited most, inasmuch as industrial operations will increase, new markets, foreign and domestic, will be found and there will be greater demands made on our producing units.

Business Always Looks Dark to He Who Waits

Easy chairs went out of style almost two years ago. Getting business today requires action. Business staffs are too small and the business man does not have hours enough to personally go out after every piece of business to be had—through hustling. That is where the printed word works most effectively for him. And the cost of selling is so much less—upon strained budgets. Printing prices in our shop are also down, but there's no let down in the quality of the work. Prompt service too. We are geared for speed. No waiting here.

With the Wisconsin Legislature

A budget of state expenditures for the 1933-35 biennium, drastically reduced from previous budgets, was approved by Gov. Schmedeman.

In a 4,000 word message to the legislature the governor announced he had vetoed 12 items in the budget bill passed by the legislature.

The bill after this partial veto appropriated $41,955,636 for the two fiscal years starting July 1, 1933, but this amount will be reduced by the emergency board which was empowered to cut any appropriations as much as 25 per cent.

In vetoing the 12 items, the governor increased total appropriations $100,215 above those provided in the bill as he received it from the legislature. His veto automatically sets the appropriation for these items at the figure provided in the last biennial budget. He is expected to request the emergency board to fix new and reduced figures for these items.

The bill as approved by the governor appropriated approximately $15,000,000 less than was appropriated for the 1931-33 biennium.

By a vote of 65 to 0 the house passed the Leary bill extending the effective date of the unemployment insurance law until business recovery is well under way in Wisconsin. The industrial commission is authorized to order the law into effect if it determines that the number of employes has for three months been 50 per cent greater than for December, 1932.

The bill also contains a provision that the compulsory features of the law will not be enforced if the commission finds that employers of 130,000 persons have instituted voluntary plans within 20 days after the commission's finding of fact.

A bill to permit mortgage foreclosure sales to be held on the premises rather than at the courthouse was passed by the assembly. Under its terms the court, if it finds good cause, may order the sale held on the premises.

Since the adjournment of the legislature at noon of June 10 was asked in a resolution introduced in the assembly by Assemblyman Murray, Milwaukee.

The resolution called attention to the governor's request for a "conspicuously short session," voiced in his opening message and pointed out that most of the major legislation asked by the governor had been enacted.

The governor's program had been carried out, the resolution stated, with respect to the budget, banking and mortgage foreclosure laws, extension of garnishment exemptions to farmers, strengthening of the law permitting the public service commission to charge investigating costs to utilities, and ratification of repeal of the 18th amendment.

The assembly passed the McEachin bill taking away from the secretary of state the duty of issuing automobile licenses and turning the job over to the county clerk. The vote was 51 to 25.

The fate of the measure is now in the hands of the senate. If it becomes a law, it will abolish the auto licensing division of the secretary of state's department which is now located in Madison and employs several hundred persons.

The bill makes no change in the present license scale, but permits the counties to retain 50 cents from every fee to defray the expenses of administration.

Sen. E. F. Brunette, Green Bay, offered another bill to make Wisconsin people eat cheese. He offered a measure that provides that hotels and restaurants must furnish customers at each meal at least a third of an ounce of butter and a "helping of cheese." The bill also provides that on petition of the parents of a third of the children in any school, school authorities must supply each child daily at least a half pint of milk.

By a vote of 64 to 14, the assembly killed the Conway bill which would have prohibited the employment of married women in public service if their husbands earn as much as $1,200 a year.

The assembly passed the Krueger-Becker bill removing the requirement that all brick cheese shall contain not more than 42 per cent moisture content. The vote was 91 to 1.

To remove what he termed an "unfair burden" from many families, Gov. Schmedeman signed the Cashman bill prohibiting municipally-owned utilities from placing unpaid service charges, except for water, on the tax rolls.

Kaukauna—The council has ordered unemployed men receiving aid to report for work under the mayor's scrip plan if they wish to continue eating. Unemployed men without children will be refused aid, and those with children will be taken into court and prosecuted if they refuse to accept work offered them. All receiving aid must plant gardens.

KIDNAPERS NABBED WITH THEIR VICTIM

Officers, Informed of Plot, Capture Two.

Freeport, Ill.—A fantastic story of how a fifty-four-year-old wealthy local manufacturing company executive allowed himself to be kidnaped for $25,000 ransom was unfolded as the victim was safe at home again and his two alleged abductors were in jail.

The man, William Trevillian, vice president of the W. T. Hawleigh company, was found by United States agents from Chicago late at night bound and gagged in a cabin near Durand, Ill., a few hours after being seized by two men as he left his office for the day. Two men in the cabin with him were arrested as the kidnapers. They were:

William Stubbe, twenty-seven, Rock Grove, Ill., and reported to be formerly of Monroe, Wis., and La Verne Moore, twenty-one, Freeport, upon whom officers said they found the ransom note threatening "hot irons on his hide" if the $25,000 was not forthcoming.

The story of the kidnaping was one in which the law officers had been completely informed beforehand of the kidnap plans and followed their development, Sheriff C. J. Weller of La Salle, Ill., said.

The informants were "Red" and "Jack" Schultz, brothers and former undercover men for Sheriff Weller. Stubbe, married, and the father of two children, according to the plans revealed by the sheriff, was to receive $2,000 for providing the hideout, and Moore was to get $8,000 as his share in raising the ransom. The balance of $15,000 was to be divided between the two La Salle aids.

With the Trevillian kidnaping successfully consummated the sheriff said the gang then planned to seize W. T. Rawleigh, head of the company and a relative of Trevillian by marriage.

The stake for his return was to be boosted to $100,000.

Provincetown, Mass.—Held in $100,000 bail each, Kenneth and Cyril Buck of Harvorthport were taken back to the Barnstable jail to await trial for kidnaping ten-year-old Peggy McMath. Kenneth Buck is charged with the actual kidnaping and his brother with extortion. Ransom of $50,000 was paid but recovered, after the girl had been returned.

One by one the delegates, 26 men and five women, went to the rostrum and signed the resolution of ratification amid wild applause. The resolution was transmitted forthwith to the secretary of state of the United States, there to join similar documents from Michigan and Wisconsin.

SECURITIES BILL IS PASSED BY SENATE

Change Protects Investors in Foreign Paper.

Washington.—The administration's legislative program was once more decisively advanced when the senate, without a roll call, passed the Fletcher bill for the furnishing of information in regard to investment securities and the supervision of traffic in such securities in interstate commerce.

The bill was passed with little debate and after consideration of only one hour and a quarter. The discussion of the bill in the senate was even more brief than that in the house, which passed the bill without a roll call, after a five-hour discussion.

The senate bill was given the house bill's title. The program provides for disclosures of all essential facts concerning security issues to the federal trade commission through which the information would be of a public character and available to investors.

Before passing the bill, the senate added an important amendment by Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican of California, to set up a corporation to protect the interests of owners of foreign securities. These security owners have invested billions of dollars in governmental and private foreign securities and the purpose of the Johnson amendment, he said, was to do something constructive to "protect them and salvage whatever is possible."

The broad program for reviving business through $3,000,000 for public construction and federal co-operation on industrial regulation, was completed by administration advisors and submitted to President Roosevelt.

Farm Relief Bill With Inflation Now Is Law

Washington.—Involving not only farm relief and refinancing of farm mortgages but also currency inflation, the long-discussed agricultural marketing measure with its amendments was given final approval by the senate.

In approving the bill the senate bade defiance to the pressure from the National Farmers' union and its president, John A. Simpson of Oklahoma, and also the legions of the farm holiday movement and knocked out the cost of production amendment. The senate turned down the cost of production plan, known as the Norris-Simpson amendment, after the house by an overwhelming vote refused to accept it.

FORCED TO KILL FATHER'S SLAYER

Bizarre Tragedy on Farm in Northern Illinois.

Elgin, Ill.—The dramatic details of how a seventeen-year-old girl was forced to act as the executioner of her father's slayer, after her own life had been spared by the failure of a shotgun to respond to the trigger, were revealed here.

The girl, for whose act a coroner's jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide, is Loretta Schmitz. Her victim was Oliver Day, age forty-eight, slayer of her father, John Schmitz, age fifty-six, a farmer.

The brief reign of terror took place in the Schmitz home when Day, believed crazed by liquor, dashed into the bedroom of Mr. and Mrs. Schmitz, for whom he had worked for fifteen years as a farm employee. He was armed with a shotgun and said he intended to kill them all.

As Schmitz, clerk of Plao Center township and president of the school board, leaped from bed and struggled with the man, Day shot him fatally through the neck.

Day then ran to Loretta's room as Mrs. Schmitz fled to the nearby home of a married daughter to summon help.

The girl said she was forced to get on the bed while Day pointed the gun at her. As she waited with her face covered for the shot that would send her into eternity, she said she heard the trigger click, but nothing happened.

Then Day thrust the weapon into her hands and commanded her to kill him and then use it on herself.

"You kill me or I'll kill you!" she said he commanded. She pulled the trigger and once again it did not work. Then Day told her to release the safety catch on the gun and she did and fired. The man fell mortally wounded.

Ever in the Style Picture Is Velvet

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WITH a growing appreciation of what the art of good dressing really means, women who "know" will consider none other than the hat, the gown, the accessories which "do something for you" more than serving merely as wearing apparel.

When it comes to a fabric which performs miracles in the way of doing something flattering for you, such as softening harsh lines, accentuating charms, while it minimizes defects until it takes years from one's appearance, it is generally conceded that velvet has no peer. Which readily explains why designers of this day and age are seeing to it that velvet be kept in the style picture the whole year round.

Paris adores velvet as a summer item. In creating the newer costumes the best couturiers seldom lose an opportunity to complement sheer and summery frocks with the most ravishing and colorful little velvet jackets or capes one may ever hope to see. If not a cunning wrap, then bows, girdles and furberules of velvet play an effective contrast to the dainty organdies, chiffons and such which fashions milady's wardrobe for the coming months.

The lovely models in the illustration convey some little idea of the perfectly charming things leading French designers are doing with velvet. The three wraps are Paton creations. The dotted frock is a Maggie Rouff model. Note the new short front of its skirt.

SMARTLY TAILORED

The casual tailored suit, shown to the right, with its swagger topcoat, chic-tied shoes and cavalier bag, is characteristic of the latest mode for about-town and travel wear. The hat is of straw with an organdie bow and band, and the blouse is of striped shirting silk. Remove the topcoat of this handsomely tailored three-piece and there is disclosed a clever jacket with the intruder over the top.

The man gave his name as Clarence Roberts, seventeen, of Johnson City, Tenn.

May 9, 1933

A great thing has occurred amongst us. We have made a complete turn-around, and at last America's face is toward the future.

Three years---1929 to 1932---we Americans looked backward. All our old financial and political machinery was geared to pull us out of the depression by the same door through which we entered. We thought it simply a case of going back the way we came. It failed. We now realize that the way out is forward---through it.

Thanks for that belongs to President Roosevelt. Inauguration Day he turned the Ship of State around. Having observed the failure of sincere efforts to haul us back the way we came, he designed a new method---new political and financial machinery---to pull us out the way we are going---forward. He is clearing international obstacles out of the way; he does not stand in awe of tariffs. The people begin to feel that he does not take advice from the "interests"; that he has courage and loyalty to work for one supreme interest only---the welfare of the American people. That is a big achievement for two months in office.

And now we all look to what is coming; we grow less and less concerned with what is behind. We are looking for a hand-hold on the haul rope. Every man wants to do what he can, and all he can.

The best thing I can do for the Country is to create industry by building good motor cars. If I knew anything better to do, I would do it. Industry must be my contribution. Motor cars must face ahead to the future, like everything else. They are so much a part of the Nation's daily life that if they lag behind they hold the Country back.

FARM AND HOME LINES
Contrary to current opinion there is no overproduction of farm products. The fact still remains that in the aggregate there are no more farm products than are necessary to take care of world needs, if consumption were maintained at a normal level.
The rapidity with which personal and public adjustments are made depends upon reliable information. If this generation can't solve its problems, the next one will. The hope for recovery lies, not in a modern Moses but in a well informed people of both this and the next generation.
Farm prices must be stabilized. They should not be subject to the extreme and violent fluctuations that are at one moment piling up stupendous profits for the shrewd and daring speculator and at the next sweeping them all away, and carrying with them the substantial farmer, businessman, and home owner to bankruptcy and ruin.
"Ghost" Only Rabbit
Pupils of the school of Bunessan, Scotland, were recently thrown into a panic by the sudden appearance at the side of the blackboard of what they took to be a fluttering apparition in white. They ran home and told of the appearance of either a ghost or an angel. Parents investigated and found that a very large white hare had gotten into the schoolhouse and had been seen to jump from behind the blackboard.

The 1930 Census shows that Wisconsin farmers spent that year over $31,000,000 for purchased feed. This is equal to one-sixth of the total Wisconsin farm income for 1932. When so large a portion of the returns from the farm go to the purchase of feeds that might be grown on the farm, it would appear that there still is something left to be done.

The farmer has attempted to follow his products through to the market by organization of cooperatives. In this attempt he has succeeded only when he has actually controlled his own business. The small local cooperatives are outstanding examples of this success. For the most part, these still remain unshaken and afford solid foundation stones upon which larger cooperatives can and will be rebuilt.

NORTH FOND DU LAC HERE SUNDAY, MAY 21ST

Next Sunday's ball game should be a real thriller for local fans, when the North Fond du Lac Tigers, pennant winners of last year, will invade Kewaskum for their first appearance of the season. The Tigers are coming to Kewaskum with the same intentions as last year, that is to cop the majority of the games, but the Athletics intend to stop their roaring, so a very good and interesting game can be expected. Last year the Tigers were the reason why Kewaskum did not win the pennant, they having defeated the locals three out of the four game series. Manager Du Frane of the Tigers promises that his team will again be a contender for first place, but Manager Dreher says "not this year". Wonder why? Come to the game Sunday and be convinced of Dreher's statement. Several new faces will be seen in the Tiger lineup.

The game will start at 2:30 o'clock sharp. A large crowd should be on hand to see this great game. The Athletics are promising fast ball and they deserve your patronage. Let us all get the baseball spirit and back the team with a 100 per cent support. The admission price this year has been reduced to 25 cents.

Weekly News Letter From Washington

By Michael K. Reilly, M. C.

Friday the House passed the Appropriation Bill for the Executive Office and the Sundry independent bureaus, boards, commissions, and offices for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1934. This Appropriation Bill ordinarily constitutes the largest charge in the United States Treasury of all appropriations, but this year because of the Economy Program, the billion dollar appropriation carried at the last session of Congress, which was vetoed by President Hoover, it reduced more than four hundred million dollars.

Outside of the appropriations for the running of the President's office this bill provides for the expenditures of some twenty-seven independent boards bureaus and commissions of the Government.

The Farm Relief Bill mentioned in my letter of last week got out of the conference this week and is now with the President. This Farm Bill really made up of several bills breaks legislative highways never travelled by our Country before and is designed to help the agricultural situation as to farm prices; to relieve the farm mortgage situation, and to provide under Presidential authority, such an expansion of currency as may be necessary to carry out the Administration's Program for doing something to raise commodity prices.

Public opinion the last year has been swinging towards the view that one reason why our depression is continuing is, not only because of the low prices of farm products, but also the prices of almost everything for sale in the industrial world, and that if we are ever going to get back onto the high ground of prosperity the price levels must be raised.

In my last letter I spoke about the currency expansion feature of the Farm Bill. In this letter I will try and tell something about the Farm Bill proper. Under the farm section of this bill the President and his Secretary of Agriculture are given permissible power to use a variety of plans to bring farm commodity prices up to the 1909-14 average. They may pay bounties to farmers, or rent the lands of farmers kept out of cultivation. This particular phase of the Farm Bill deals with wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco, rice, hogs and dairy products.

The bill provides that in accomplishing the purposes of the law taxes may be imposed on millers, canners, packers, and other processors, for instance, (a processor is an individual, corporation, or partnership that prepares a product for the consumer, such as a miller); to raise funds to pay the expense of operating the law and etc.

The tax levied on the processors of these enumerated articles above the cost of the operation of the law is to be returned to the farmers who have agreed to curtail their production. This processors tax is supposed to have some relation to the price that the farmer should receive for his products. The policy of this bill is that one the price of farm products on the basis low today is because our agricultural plant, so to speak, is producing a larger output than required for home consumption, and exports to other countries.

The farm Bill as passed in the Senate granted to the Secretary of Agriculture permissible authority to fix the price of farm products on the basis of a reasonable profit to the farmers. This provision of the Senate Bill was strenuously opposed by the Secretary of Agriculture as unworkable, because he said it was absolutely impossible for his Department to fix the price of farm products on the basis of a reasonable profit.

Personally the writer is favorable to the price fixing theory, and would it finally become a law for the reason that if we are going to fix the prices of farm products as the National policy, the easiest and best way in the judgement of the writer is for the Agriculture Department, or some other Board to declare and announce by law after an investigation, a minimum price that the farmer should receive for his products, and he has serious doubts as to the work-ability of the farm relief provisions which the bill as finally agreed by the House and the Senate contains, but the House was up against this proposition; the Secretary of Agriculture who was to administer the law said he was opposed to the reasonable profit price fixing provision of the bill, and if the provision was left in the bill he would never put it in operation.

The Bill as passed contained another program for the relief of Agriculture with which the Secretary of Agriculture is in sympathy. It appeared to the writer that the best way to test out these programs for Farm Relief would be to take one at a time and to try first the program with which the Executive Officer was in sympathy.

Again if the two plans for farm relief were left in the bill, it would undoubtedly divide the efforts of the Secretary of Agriculture, and an unfair trial of both methods of law stands now the Secretary of Agriculture can have no excuse for another plan with which he is in sympathy.

The farm mortgage section of the bill is designed to relieve the mortgage situation in certain sections of the country, particularly in the Middle West, not only the fact that only forty-three per cent of the farms of the country have mortgages, a large percentage of mortgages are on land in the West; States in which the heights during the flood were so high that the land was almost submerged to the prosperous period, prior to 1929. This bill provides that the Land Banks may issue the dollars in bonds, the interest is guaranteed by the Government. These bonds can be used to farm mortgages by exchanging the mortgages for bonds. When the mortgages are exchanged for bonds, the mortgages are issued at a four and one-half per cent rate.

This Bill also authorizes the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to advance two hundred million dollars in direct loans to farmers.

Under the exchange bond feature of the bill a farmer with a loan of fifty per cent of the value of his land and twenty per cent of the value of the buildings on the land, but not to exceed eighty per cent of the normal value of his land, the direct loan provision of the bill will get seventy-five per cent of the normal value of his farm.

This eighty or seventy-five per cent limit must cover all the mortgages that are a lien on his farm. In the case of exchange of mortgages there will generally be a scaling down of the mortgage.

This Farm Bill as it now stands President had the backing and support of practically all the organizations of the country. It proved to be unworkable and simply eliminate another plan of relief.

During Mr. Hoover's Administration Congress tried through the Board Act to accomplish the results but failure resulted from such legislation. Now another plan is to be tried, the relief of agriculture.

The bill recently passed by the House for the aid of the farmer is still in the Senate. It is no telling at this writing if its provisions will finally be said that the bill is the lines of the Farm Relief Bill.

During the past week the spent most of its time in conference reports and also discussion of the Revenue Bill passed by the House, the taxing of gasoline, electricity and also to reduction of the rates.

President Roosevelt's talk on last Sunday evening was able for at least one important reason, and that is, that it was in the history of our country. President of the United States announced the doctrine that the Government of the United States to perform in the way of commodity prices.

Heretofore the policy has let industrial depression take course, but the new doctrine the Government can do, and something to help relieve the depression, through Government action, which will stay falling prices if possible bring about a price level that the country is before the beginning of the week were: Captain and Woodward, Saukville, Wis.

Economic Highlights

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Table, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual.

Never has Washington news so dominated the news picture as a whole. For a long succession of weeks, the Administration's viewpoint and activities have been almost the sole source of "headlines" of national interest.

As this is written, the two most spectacular developments are Mr. Roosevelt's moves toward controlled inflation, and his request for a bill which would give him the power to institute vast building works program was brought to the President by a special cabinet committee and was tentatively approved at once.

Inflation — in theory and practice — is still the most dramatic news of the moment. As was observed in this column last week, the President's proposal to issue $3,000,000,000 of new currency, and change the gold backing of the dollar at will, brought out in Congress the first organized minority opposition to his program.

The prospect for railroad freight traffic is believed to be improved, especially on the Pacific Coast. Carloadings have apparently come close to the lowest possible point, and should start a rise in the near future.

Automobile business is improving.

Seasonal influences, better business conditions, release of funds from closed banks, inflation prospects, with rising security and commodity values are the factors back of the improvement.

MEAT PACKING — Profits, which evaporated almost completely last summer for this industry, are appearing again.

OIL—Gasoline stocks declining slightly.

STEEL—Possibility of a sharp upturn in finished steel prices perhaps $6.00 or more per ton, is being discussed.

MAKES PLEA IN SIGNING FARM RELIEF BILL

President's Statement May Result in Strike Postponement

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A plea that all persons having financial claims upon farmers refrain from foreclosure proceedings until the new farm relief act can become effective was made Monday by President Roosevelt as he signed the unprecedented currency and agricultural measure.

The president appealed for patience on the part of all mortgage creditors.

His statement, issued as he signed the momentous document which combines currency inflation authorization as well as a revolutionary program for aid to the farmers, was considered a direct answer to those who have appealed for a farm mortgage moratorium during the present farm crisis.

The bill becomes effective immediately.

Mr. Roosevelt said that the mortgage refinancing section of the act could not become effective instantly, however, since it needed considerable work.

Is Public Duty
"I urge upon mortgage creditors, therefore," he said, "until further opportunity has been given to make effective provisions of the farm relief act, that they abstain from bringing foreclosure proceedings and making any effort to dispossess farmers who are in debt to them."

"This," the president concluded, "is in line both with public duty and private interest."

The following statement was issued by the president as he affixed his signature to the bill:

"I have just signed the farm relief bill which includes the refinancing of farm debts.

"The act extends relief not only to farm borrowers but to mortgage creditors as well.

"Holders of farm mortgages will have the privilege of exchanging them for federal land bank bonds, the interest payments upon which are to be guaranteed by the treasury of the United States.

"Farmers whose mortgages are to be exchanged for these bonds will reap the benefit of lower interest rates and more liberal terms of payment.

"It is to the interest of all the people of the United States that the benefits of this act should be extended to all who are in need of them, and that they should be derived of them through ignorance or precipitous action.

"For this reason, I appeal particularly to mortgage creditors and all others who have money claims against farmers. Every effort will be made to administer the act promptly, considerately and justly.

"All preparations that could be made in advance by officers of the federal land bank system have been made. However, applications cannot be acted upon until the time for examination, appraisal and perfection of records will be necessary.

"I urge upon mortgage creditors, therefore, until further opportunity has been given, to make effective the provisions of the mortgage refinancing section of the farm relief act, that they abstain from bringing foreclosure proceedings and making any effort to dispossess farmers who are in debt to them. I invite their cooperation with the officers of the land banks, the agents of the farm loan commissioner and their former debtors to effect agreements which will make foreclosures unnecessary.

"This is in line both with public duty and private interest."

The president's signature to the bill brought to enactment a measure which was one of the key parts of the administration's emergency program.

Cooking to Conserve Food Value

Protein, minerals, vitamins—these are the chief food values contributed by eggs to the diet. Egg yolk is rich in iron. It also contains phosphorus and calcium, and is a good source of vitamins A, D, and G. Some vitamin B and vitamin E are also present. Among protein foods, eggs are in a class with meat and milk. So the first point in cooking eggs to conserve food values, says the Bureau of Home Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, is to consider the effect of heat on their protein. Intense heat quickly sets the protein of the egg and makes it hard and leathery. Moderate heat gradually coagulates the protein but leaves it tender and soft.

For soft-cooked eggs, place the eggs in cold water, preferably with a rack in the saucepan to keep the eggs from direct contact with the heat. Heat the water gradually to simmering, but do not let it boil. Remove the pan from the fire when the water simmers, cover, and let stand for a few minutes, depending on how well cooked you wish your eggs. To hard cook eggs so that the whites are tender and the shells do not crack, put the eggs in cold water, bring them slowly to the simmering point, and keep them at this moderate temperature for about half an hour.

To poach an egg break it into boiling salted water deep enough to cover, remove the pan from the fire, cover, and in about 5 minutes the egg will be ready to lift out on a perforated spoon. A properly poached egg has a tender white, set firm enough to stand up well around the yolk.

Cook scrambled eggs in a double boiler. In baking eggs or a custard put the dish in a pan of water and have the oven heat moderate (350 degrees F.). To get maximum food value always apply this principle of moderate heat in cooking eggs.

Home Bread-Making

QUESTION: Why does bread sometimes have heavy streaks through it?
ANSWER: Heavy streaks through the dough may be caused by a dry crust forming on the dough during the first or second rising. This can be avoided if the top of the dough is greased lightly, or if the bowl containing the dough is covered with a towel that has been wrung out of warm water. If the top of the loaf dries during the last rising period, there will be a heavy, compact layer formed just below the crust. Brushing the top of the loaf with a very small amount of warm water will help to prevent this.

Insufficient time for fermentation may cause heavy streaks in the bread. So will kneading in layers of flour when the bread is made into loaves.

As the loaf is usually due to the fact that the bread pans were set on something cold while the loaves were rising, so that the dough in the bottom of the pan hardly raised at all. The bread pan should be placed on something slightly warmer than room temperature.

READING OF WARRANT HALTS HICCUGHS

CHICAGO—One way to end a case of hiccoughs, James Fitzgerald, 78, believes, is to hear police read an arrest warrant.

Fitzgerald had been hiccoughing more than a week. Last night officers came to his bedside and read a warrant signed by Miss Anna Gonda, 38, accusing him of being the father of the child she expects to be born soon.

As Fitzgerald, married 53 years and father of seven children, heard the charges, the hiccoughs disappeared.

Miss Gonda told police she formerly was a maid in the Fitzgerald home.

The modern haven of love is bounded on the south by a kitchenette, on the north by a delicatessen store, on the east by a can opener, and on the west by Reno.

Judge—And why do you think I should be lenient with you?
Is this your first offense?
Prisoner—No, your honor; but it's my lawyer's first case.

Gives U. S. His Pants

Pants or no pants, orders are being issued, says P. M. Long, who has been a resident of the National Military Home at Dayton, O. As inmates are discharged from such institutions under the president's emergency act, they are required to turn in whatever clothing the government has given them. Above, Long is departing in his undies because he complied with the letter of the law.

For soft-cooked eggs, place the eggs in cold water, preferably with a rack in the saucepan to keep the eggs from direct contact with the heat. Heat the water gradually to simmering, but do not let it boil. Remove the pan from the fire when the water simmers, cover, and let stand for a few minutes, depending on how well cooked you wish your eggs. To hard cook eggs so that the whites are tender and the shells do not crack, put the eggs in cold water, bring them slowly to the simmering point, and keep them at this moderate temperature for about half an hour.

To poach an egg break it into boiling salted water deep enough to cover, remove the pan from the fire, cover, and in about 5 minutes the egg will be ready to lift out on a perforated spoon. A properly poached egg has a tender white, set firm enough to stand up well around the yolk.

Cook scrambled eggs in a double boiler. In baking eggs or a custard put the dish in a pan of water and have the oven heat moderate (350 degrees F.). To get maximum food value always apply this principle of moderate heat in cooking eggs.

Home Bread-Making

by MISS CHARLOTTE CLARK
Home Economics Extension
University of Wisconsin

QUESTION: Why does bread sometimes have heavy streaks through it?
ANSWER: Heavy streaks through the dough may be caused by a dry crust forming on the dough during the first or second rising. This can be avoided if the top of the dough is greased lightly, or if the bowl containing the dough is covered with a towel that has been wrung out of warm water. If the top of the loaf dries during the last rising period, there will be a heavy, compact layer formed just below the crust. Brushing the top of the loaf with a very small amount of warm water will help to prevent this.

Insufficient time for fermentation may cause heavy streaks in the bread. So will kneading in layers of flour when the bread is made into loaves.

As the loaf is usually due to the fact that the bread pans were set on something cold while the loaves were rising, so that the dough in the bottom of the pan hardly raised at all. The bread pan should be placed on something slightly warmer than room temperature.

READING OF WARRANT HALTS HICCUGHS

CHICAGO—One way to end a case of hiccoughs, James Fitzgerald, 78, believes, is to hear police read an arrest warrant.

Fitzgerald had been hiccoughing more than a week. Last night officers came to his bedside and read a warrant signed by Miss Anna Gonda, 38, accusing him of being the father of the child she expects to be born soon.

As Fitzgerald, married 53 years and father of seven children, heard the charges, the hiccoughs disappeared.

Miss Gonda told police she formerly was a maid in the Fitzgerald home.

The modern haven of love is bounded on the south by a kitchenette, on the north by a delicatessen store, on the east by a can opener, and on the west by Reno.

Judge—And why do you think I should be lenient with you?
Is this your first offense?
Prisoner—No, your honor; but it's my lawyer's first case.

Suicides Increase Throughout Germany

BERLIN—A wave of suicides that began in Germany shortly after the Nazis came into power reached a crest over the week-end when six prominent persons ended their lives.

Ernest Oberhofen, former right hand man of Alfred Hugenberg, leader of the Nationalist party, which shares the government with the Nazis, shot himself with a pistol. He recently resigned from his party, and his action was attributed to a nervous breakdown following newspaper charges that he had attempted to overthrow Hugenberg's leadership.

Dr. Von Bruck, 45, former burgomaster of Leer in northwest Germany, killed himself after charges of irregularities in his office.

Ernest and Lima Katz were found dead in their gas-filled apartment. Franz Katz was the daughter of Phillip Scheidemann, first chancellor of the German republic, who resigned in 1919 because Germany signed the Versailles treaty.

The Katzes were believed to have entered into a suicide compact because of political attacks of Scheidemann.

The other victims were Nelly Neppach, former German tennis champion, and the wife of an architect whose name was not revealed.

Mrs. Hastings defeated Mrs. W. R. McCabe, Superior, and succeeded Mrs. W. J. Hubbard, Milwaukee. Other officers elected were: Chairman, Mrs. G. E. Harbeck, Milwaukee; first vice-president, Mrs. Emma Brookmire, Marinette; secretary, C. E. Hulten, Sheboygan; treasurer, Mrs. M. W. Smith, Sparta; historian, and the following vice presidents, Mrs. Fern E. Green, Bay View; Harry H. Fetter, Antigo; E. G. Doudna, Madison; Mrs. George Cook, Menasha; and Miss Mary Brady, Milwaukee.

John Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction, told delegates and guests at a banquet last night that the school system is the "best promoter of business and wealth in the world."

"You will find that countries with good school systems have 80 per cent of the world's business," he said. "Revolutions occur less frequently in countries with good educational systems, he added."

Callahan said property taxes are becoming worn out as a method of supporting government. He urged increased use of income taxes and repeal of excise taxes.

The congress resolved to petition the Federal Radio commission and broadcasting chains for supervision or censorship of "planned radio programs of an excessively exciting and harmful nature with consequent physical, mental and moral reactions" among children.

BERRY CRATES ARE IMPROVED BY INVENTION

Changes Devised by Black River Falls Man Win Approval

Ben K. Konkol of Black River Falls, who is manager of the Jackson Box company plant at Black River Falls, has invented a new 16-quart berry crate which is an improvement over the common crates used for many years, and has two patents pending.

Crushing Prevented
One improvement is the providing of divider strips between the two layers of boxes, protecting the fruit in the lower boxes from being crushed by the upper ones. Slots in the ends in the partitions hold the strips. The other improvement is a slit in each end of the crates to furnish ventilation so that when many crates are piled together there still will be a circulation of air through them.

This feature is particularly valuable where the berries are placed in cold storage as they can be cooled easier and more quickly.

Large Orders Received
Berry growers' associations have recognized the value of Mr. Konkol's invention and so many orders for the new crates have been received that further equipment has been added at the Jackson plant, where they are being manufactured. Present orders total 40,000 crates and 640,000 boxes and it will be necessary to run that department with day and night shifts from now until July 1 to take care of the orders.

Mild Winter Helps Many Insect Pests

Many of the important insect pests hibernated successfully this winter, according to the spring surveys of the Bureau of Entomology, United States Department of Agriculture. Temperatures were not low enough over most of the country to destroy insects in large numbers, and where it was extremely cold a thick blanket of snow protected their winter quarters.

Grasshopper eggs came through the winter in excellent condition; the Mexican bean beetle in the Ohio River Valley showed a high survival; the Hessian fly and the chinch bug wintered successfully in the Middle West; and the tobacco flea beetle in North Carolina passed the cold months in good shape. The codling moth in the East Central States and in Missouri and the sugarcane borer in Louisiana, however, suffered a high mortality from extreme or unseasonable cold.

Summer activities of insect pests, entomologists point out, are affected far less by winter kill than by conditions at the time of emerging from hibernation and during the growing season. If, for example, the weather is warm and bright when young grasshoppers begin to hop, even a depleted army soon grows strong enough to do much damage. And if, on the other hand, the weather is cold and rainy, the young hoppers may be killed off in vast numbers, as happened in the spring of 1932 over much of the threatened area in the West. The codling moth soon overcomes any reduction in numbers due to low winter temperatures if favorable weather prevails during its egg-laying period.

Weather unfavorable to insect development but favorable to parasites and disease that attack the pests materially reduces the insect hordes the farmer must combat each season.

There is always success for the merchant who meets the situation, revises his plans to meet conditions, who offers honest values at fair prices and who uses newspaper space to tell his patrons about the store and his merchandise.

The following sign was noted by a friend of this column, in a hardware store at Reidsville, N. Carolina:

"God helps those who help themselves, but God help those who are caught helping themselves around here."

INSULL PLANNING GREEK ENTERPRISE

ATHENS, Greece—Samuel Insull, former Chicago utility magnate, now a fugitive from justice, planned a business come-back today.

With a party of British experts he expected to leave for Macedonia to inspect lignite mines. He hoped to establish a power plant to electrify Port Salonika.

Insull is in Greece to avoid extradition to Chicago where indictments growing out of the collapse of his utility empire stand against him.

One of the most interesting of quilt patterns is this "Swastika!" A symbol of "good luck" dating back to antiquity, its form was first used for ornamental fret designs on early Grecian architecture, and those Greeks had a word for it! They called it "Elyfot." Colonial America, borrowing many of its architectural forms from foreign lands, incorporated among others the "Elyfot fret," and used it extensively for decoration on mantels, eaves and staircases.

However, with the shifting of our pioneer population, the original technical term was lost, and it became commonly known as "Elyfot," which incidentally, the older name by which the "Swastika" pattern was known.

Quilts of the "Swastika" pattern were always extremely popular for boys' beds. The symbol appeals to a youngster, with his natural love for codes, secrets and cryptic figures. The quilt is generally pieced in red and white and is set together without any intervening bands or squares of solid color. Because of the effect produced when completed, this pattern was often referred to as the "Devil's Puzzle."

Alternate blocks of white may be used in piecing this quilt. Material required for a "Swastika" quilt will amount to 5 1/2 yards of white, 3 1/2 yards of a color, and allow 1/4 yard for a border.

There should be 45 pieced blocks and 45 plain squares, finished off with a 5 inch border on all sides.

WATCH OUT FOR TRIVIAL WOUNDS WHILE FISHING

Slight Mishaps Often Lead to Serious Consequences

Trivial wounds and trivial injuries, which often happen while hunting and fishing, cause as many deaths as some of the more serious accidents. A scratch of a fishhook caused a girl's death recently. The abrasion of the skin which came from a rusty nail in a rowboat resulted in a most dangerous wound.

"Every vacation brings an appalling list of casualties and some fatalities which can be diminished mainly by following the maxim of prevention," declares the Educational Committee of the State Medical Society today.

There were 25 deaths from lockjaw reported to the State Board of Health in Wisconsin in the past year. In the past five years there have been 114 deaths, an average of 22.8 a year. Most of these lockjaw cases could have been prevented, in the opinion of the State Medical Society, if proper precautions had been taken.

Get Prompt Attention
"After accidents have happened, the serious ones will receive prompt attention and need no further mention at this time," continued the bulletin. "It is the slight wounds, so-called trivial injuries, that are often neglected. Gunshot shells contain wadding made of horse hair and therefore wounds made from gunshot shells are liable to contain tetanus germs. The germ of lockjaw finds favorable condition for growth in gunshot wounds no matter how slight they seem. Lockjaw may not infect itself until after ten or more days when treatment is a serious problem and the outlook grave. Prompt, competent medical attention at the time of the injury will prevent serious developments. A life may depend on the immediate decision as to whether or not antitetanus serum should be given to prevent development of lockjaw."

"Lacerated wounds, scratches from bushes, thorns, trees, wires, notably barb wire fence, leave open surfaces for the absorption of infection with possible resultant blood poisoning. Such abrasions should be cleaned and then protected from contamination by clean dressings."

BAN OVER 1,000 JEWISH LAWYERS

BERLIN—After revising fundamental law to conform with Nazi principles, the government proceeded today to define persons eligible for membership in the legal profession.

Henceforth 2,058 Jewish lawyers will be permitted to practice in the Prussian courts. Before the Nazis came into power, Jewish lawyers numbered 3,151. The order disbanded 118 German lawyers who are known Communists.

The ministry of justice approved a revision of the inheritance law providing for a return to the ancient Germanic system of fiefdoms.

For peasant land holdings above a fixed minimum, only the eldest son will be entitled to inherit land. The law has the effect of making peasant land holdings indivisible.

The law, which becomes effective Monday, provides that if a farmer marries a woman of a foreign race (Jewish) his holdings will not be inheritable. The law does not apply to any other sort of landed property such as large estates.

FLIRTING WITH DEATH

It is an amazing fact that the appalling number of deaths which result from sheer carelessness make no great impression upon the average person. This is especially true with respect to drivers of automobiles.

Persons who are ordinarily careful in protecting their health, and property often throw discretion to the winds the moment they grasp the wheel of a motor car and flirt with death through failing to observe the most elementary principles of safety.

They will take a chance at a grade crossing, speed wild round a blind curve, pass other cars under dangerous conditions, and do other foolish things which menace life and limb—seemingly oblivious of the fact that one slight mistake of judgment may prove fatal to them or to those who happen to be passengers in their cars.

The joyraker is equally reckless, taking the chance of being run down for the sake of saving a

ROOSEVELT NOT TO SEEK DEBT AUTHORITY

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The president's decision not to seek authority to revise the debts was gratefully received by congressional leaders who had been dismayed at the prospect of a knock-down and drag-out fight on the issue. Anti-revisionists had been quietly preparing for a last-ditch battle and with good prospects of success.

The situation had been regarded as particularly dangerous in the house where a substantial majority of both republicans and democrats campaigned on a "no debt compromise" platform.

Recently, worried leaders at a series of conferences agreed to place the situation squarely before the president and advise him that he was courting certain defeat if he injected the debt issue into the present congress. Influential members of the cabinet word to the president's advisors.

Can Continue

The administration can continue negotiations with Europe regarding the debts, but it can make no commitments in advance. When and if new settlements are agreed to, they will remain subject to the approval of congress.

Under this procedure, the debts are pushed further out of the London economic conference picture. Secretary of State Hull already has made known that the debt issue would be barred from the conference, but said negotiations regarding them might be carried on simultaneously with the conference. Europe now apparently must meet the United States more and more on a tariff and currency ground.

Prospective trade agreements and President Roosevelt's power to lower the value of the dollar will stand out as the chief American bargaining-points.

Congress, its leaders believe, is willing and ready to grant the administration authority to conduct the conference on a trade barrier basis. President Roosevelt soon will submit a request for tariff revision power, and speedy and favorable action is anticipated. A republican threat to "talk to death" any resolution giving the president power to effect trade agreements was largely discounted.

Ohio Students Start Beer Reform Movement

COLUMBUS, O.—With the return of letters from the movement similar in purpose to the Holiness League, which was organized at Ohio State university two years ago, and developed on the campus. Headed by Lewis C. Warden, a junior in the Arts college and pastor of the Newark Methodist church, the club will be known as the Student Betterment Association, and members will voice disapproval of co-ed drinking 3.2 per cent beer and smoking, and operation of various campus organizations.

Committees are to be appointed to investigate the beer situation, smoking among co-eds, actions of numerous publications and the Women's Self Government Association two years ago to abolish smoking.

The Holiness league was organized two years ago to abolish smoking, drinking, bobbed hair, dancing and "petting."

If all seasons were like 1932 there would be no reason to consider fertilizers for potatoes. Experience has shown, however, that in normal years growers in the more favorable sections of the state can often increase their net returns considerably by the use of the right kind of fertilizers. Careful tests with fertilizers for potatoes have been conducted at the branches of the University of Wisconsin located at Spooner and Ashland branch stations, and also on several commercial potato farms in northern Wisconsin counties where potato growing is an important industry.

In these tests double strength fertilizers have continued to give a good account when compared with common mixtures. At Spooner 250 pounds per acre of 6-20-20 mixture increased the crop on a field which had received 7.5 tons of manure per acre gave a yield of 200.5 bushels in the dry season of 1932. The yield was nearly identical, 198.8 bushels, when 500 pounds per acre of a 3-10-10 mixture was used. In another trial 400 pounds per acre of 6-24-24 was found to give almost exactly the same yield as 800 pounds of 3-12-12.

Big Sporting Event

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—A wrestling card loaded with former champions and names which are by-words to fans throughout the country will be put on at the Auditorium May 24. The talent is such that the program without question will go down as the greatest thing ever attempted in this state.

Headlining the program will be the duel between Gus Sonnenberg and the man from whom he won the title five years ago, Strangler Lewis. This is a match which was sought by promoters in the big grappling centers—New York, Boston and Los Angeles. Only by offering guarantees, with percentage privileges, far above the previous high, did Promoter Paul Paloski succeed in bringing it here.

Right down through the last preliminary, it will be an expensive show, but the gamble was taken because fans throughout the state have gone heavily for big time grappling entertainment in the past. Practically every man on the card is a windup performer in his own right.

Nick Lutze and Sammy Stein, New York Giants pro football star hold No. 2 position in the cast, but not in the hearts of the fans. They're favorites with a capital "F" by reason of sensational performances here in the past.

Dick Shikat, once recognized as champion by the Pennsylvania commission, is paired with Smiling Steve Savage in another sizzler, while Buckets Goldenberg, still after more experience before tackling Sonnenberg in a finish match, goes to the mat with Pat McGill, rough Omaha Irishman. McGill two years ago put on a slam bang battle with Don George here, and may prove Goldenberg's undoing. Back from the Eastern wars after a long absence, Karl Zbysko and Benny Ginsburg, Jewish star, round out the program.

That's a card which should satisfy the most exacting and learned wrestling fans.

PLAN ATTACK ON DEPRESSION

Final Blows to Be Made Shortly

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Summarizing the conferences with foreign envoys during the last three weeks, Secretary of State Hull said today that they had greatly accentuated the chances of a final attack on the depression at the world economic conference.

The secretary said the talks had shed light on the objects and purposes of the conference and had promoted a better understanding of the problems to arise in London.

As a result of this preparation, Hull anticipated that the primary objects of the conference might be attained within two months. In this statement he showed himself more optimistic than some of his advisors who have privately predicted that four or five months might be required for the London meeting.

Hull declined to discuss his talks with foreign statesmen in detail, confining himself to generalizations.

He said the American delegation to London probably would sail from New York May 31 aboard the steamer President Roosevelt. The personnel of the delegation, he added, has not been decided upon definitely. From other sources, however, it was understood that Hull himself will be chairman.

Having nearly concluded the series of preparatory economic talks with the major powers, Hull expects to begin next week a series of conferences with the resident envoys of the smaller nations. Virtually every country in the world has been invited to exchange views with the United States on the work of the London conference.

PRICE OF MILK RAISED IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO—The price of milk was raised from nine to 10 cents a quart in Chicago Monday, but the increase was not a result of the milk strike in progress in Wisconsin.

The price increase was ordered by the Chicago Milk council, which controls approximately 95 per cent of milk used in the city. Announcement of the increase followed a communication from Secretary of Agriculture Wallace assuring that the new price would be satisfactory.

The milk supply in the metropolitan area has not been affected by the Wisconsin strike, dairymen said. They did not anticipate a shortage here unless the embargo spreads to a greater area than it now covers.

Odd Fish Story Was True

TILLAMOOK, Ore.—Here's a Paul Bunyan yarn told by Jack Moors, who swears it is true. Using clam neck for bait, Moors hooked a 12-inch kelpie. As he hauled it near the surface, a two-foot ling cod snapped at the kelpie, swallowing it. Before he could land his double catch, a four-foot ling cod swallowed about half the length of his smaller brother. A bystander helped him gaff the triple-header. The largest fish weighed 55 pounds and was put on display in a downtown window as proof of his fish story.

ADJUST STATE BANK SCRIP SITUATION

MADISON, Wis.—Clearing of state scrip between banks that issued it and those that did not start today with the supervision Monday with the purpose of stimulating its circulation and aiding banking and business facilities.

Banks which did not issue the scrip but accepted it from patrons reported today to the state clearing house the amounts they held. The state will require issuing banks to take up this scrip on a pro-rata basis in proportion to the amount of scrip they have outstanding.

The banking department is very happy with the spontaneous acceptance and approval of the plan by issuing banks," stated Banking Commissioner Arthur C. Kingston, announcing the first of scheduled monthly clearing activities by the state. "Likewise the spirit of co-operation evidenced by the other banks throughout the state is very gratifying. The members of the banking review board are convinced that this co-operation will materially increase the business activity of every banking community in the state." Thomas Herred, deputy banking commissioner in charge of the scrip bureau here, explained that $250,000 of the scrip has been issued through Wisconsin banks.

DEATH COMES TO TORRENCE

Actor Succumbs Following Operation

NEW YORK, May 15—Ernest Torrence, veteran character actor, died at Lenox Hill hospital Monday from complications following an abdominal operation.

He became ill several weeks ago as he was about to board a ship for a European vacation, and was removed to the hospital on a stretcher.

Torrence was considered one of Hollywood's most versatile actors. He could enact the role of the most malevolent of villains with the same finesse as that of a kindly patriarch.

Tall, loose jointed, big eyed, he was one of the most popular members of the film colony.

Oddly, Torrence began his career as a concert pianist in Edinburgh, Scotland, where he was born. He was educated at private and public schools and at the Edinburgh Academy of Music, the conservatorium at Stuttgart, Germany and the Royal Academy of Music in London.

Despite his skill at the piano his friends urged him to study voice and eventually he did. He started singing professionally in 1900 and was awarded the Royal Academy of Music medal for operatic work.

The next year he became the leading baritone of the Savoy Opera company of London.

Lured by offers of lucrative contracts, Torrence went into musical comedy. He came to the United States and became interested in motion pictures. Because of his stature—he was six feet four—and shaggy overhanging eyebrows, producers and directors classified him as a "dirty dog heavy." This confinement to one type of role made him unhappy until Jesse L. Lasky heard of his ambition to be a character actor. Among his film successes were "The Covered Wagon," "Ruggles of Red Gap," "North of 36," "Peter Pan," "King of Kings" and "Mantrap." Recently he completed work in "I Cover the Waterfront."

He leaves a wife and a 26-year-old son, Ernest Torrence, Jr.

For home owners who plan to renovate their lawns this year instead of making a new lawn, the United States Department of Agriculture says the four main considerations are fertilizing, top dressing, mowing, and watering. If a lawn is reasonably clear of weeds and has at least half a stand of fairly evenly distributed grass, renovation is worthwhile.

For fertilizer, the Department recommends sheep or poultry manure, commercial fertilizer known as "complete" fertilizer that is high in nitrogen such as 6-8-4, or plain nitrate of soda of sulphate of ammonia. Complete fertilizer is recommended particularly if phosphate and potash have not been applied in the past year. Lawns require much nitrogen during the growing season and can be pushed then, but it is not advisable to do much fertilizing in the hot summer months. Fertilizer is best applied by mixing it with water.
