Spreader Features an
ALL-STEEL Box

The new McCormick-Deering No. 4-A all-steel spreader is convenient, low to the ground, simple, and compact. It features a galvanized, rust-resisting, copperized, non-warping, heavy-gauge steel box of 60 to 70-bushel capacity. Eight roller bearings and Zerk lubrication, combined with perfect alignment of all parts, make this new all-steel spreader unusually light in draft. Two horses can haul capacity loads in it all day long.

Five spreading speeds are provided, permitting the use of just the right amount of manure at all times. The manure is torn and shredded by a saw-tooth upper beater, a spike-tooth lower beater, and a wide-spread spiral before it is spread in an even layer over the soil. A special end-gate can be provided for use when liquid manure is to be handled. A brake is available as special equipment. Also, there is a lime-spreading attachment which changes the No. 4-A into an efficient lime spreader.

See this new all-steel spreader at our store at your first opportunity.

The size and shape as well as the color of the egg shell that a hen will lay is determined by heredity, poultry authorities assert. Care in the selection of eggs for hatching purposes is therefore considered very important as it tends to determine the characteristics of the future flock.

THIS WEEK IN WASHINGTON

BY MICHAEL K. REILLY: M. C.

There has been a whole lot of talk in the past few years about high finance in this country. It has generally been believed that Henry Ford's industrial organization has shown the greatest profits to investors. However, for the past few weeks the Senate Committee has been investigating the working of the master minds of American finance, in the up-building of our airplane industry. This investigating discloses the fact that not until after the World War did our American financial leaders strike their real pace. Under the guidance of these financial geniuses, it appears, that a $40.00 invested in the stock of an airplane engine company in a couple of years, brought the investor a return of $6,000,000.00. A friend of the writer's, a great many years ago, invested a couple of thousand dollars in Henry Ford's enterprise, to find himself a few years later, the possessor of $2,200,000, a big achievement at that time, but rather under-sized, compared with the financial achievements in the hey-days of our prosperity, when millionaires were made over night.

As predicted in my letter of last week, the House on last Saturday passed by an over-whelming vote, a bill to put into effect the President's new Monetary Program.

The present week the House has been at work on appropriation bills: The Navy Appropriation bill carrying expenditures in the sum of $248,000,000 and the Post Office Appropriation bill providing for the expenditure of $820,000,000 was passed.

The Post Office Department is supposed to be self-supporting, except in the years since the panic when the business of the Post Office has greatly fallen off. Our Postal Department has a certain overhead, and in 1929 it had an overhead required to handle the greatest mail business this country ever had, and the results have been that since the slowing down of industry the overhead of Uncle Sam, except the cutting of salaries made in the Economy Bill in 1932 the Post Office Department showed a net revenue loss of $152,000,000 and for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1932, the net loss was only $50,000,000. I speak of the net loss, because the Post Office Department is given credit for certain expenditures made by the Government, but which are not strictly along postal lines, for instance the $15,000,000 bonus to the air-mail paid last year is properly charged up to national defense. It is a postal subsidy but a subsidy that would never be paid by the Government, were it not for the fact that the Government is vitally interested in the development and perfecting of our air fleets. Again, we pay several million dollars for subsidies to vessels carrying foreign mail; this expenditure is made not for the benefit of the Post Office Department, but for the general welfare of the country, the commercial welfare of the country, in aiding the building and maintaining of our merchant marines. It is generally conceded that if a country has a great merchant marine, it is in a better position to compete for foreign trade, and if there is one desirable improvement needed today, it is an improvement in our foreign trade.

SUPPORT THE CWA

The country was shocked when Harry Hopkins, head of the Civil Works Administration, announced that, beginning in February, half a million men a week would have to be dropped from the CWA payrolls unless Congress came promptly to the rescue with another appropriation for this purpose of $350,000,000 or more.

This is one form of relief work which meets the approval of practically everybody. It is not a "dole" in the sense that men are given money for nothing. It does not put a premium on laziness, nor breed the habit of mendacity. That is the great danger in the usual methods of taking care of the unfortunate and unemployed. In a high proportion of instances the man who finds that he can get by without work becomes more and more reluctant to do any work at all. The Civil Works Administration plan is far sounder. Even if it is "made" work, it is nevertheless work which must be done somehow, sometime, which those who receive CWA funds are called upon to give in return for support.

No catastrophe could be worse for the nation than the creation of a new army of bums and tramps. There were signs a few months ago of a general break-down of the morale of huge numbers of men and women, who were ready to throw up their hands and make no further effort to help themselves. That crisis, we believe, is past. Many have been put back to work in industry and more are being taken back every week. But there is still a great slack of unemployment to be taken up before re-employment will be 100 per cent, and the CWA plan is the only system we know of which preserves, instead of destroying, the morale of its beneficiaries.

We hope that Congress will act speedily in the emergency and that Mr. Hopkins and the regional administrators under his direction will not have to drop a single person from the CWA payrolls, but instead will be enabled to put everybody on who can qualify.

DUFFY ASKS CHANGE IN FEDERAL CORN—HOG RULE

According to a Washington dispatch Senator F. Ryan Duffy, Democrat from Fond du Lac, on Tuesday asked Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to amend the corn hog adjustment plans so that farmers raising less than three litters of pigs could share in its benefits. The senator stated that the present ruling, barring those raising less than that number, was imposing hardships on Wisconsin farmers.
