Pan American Road Steps Nearer to Realization

May Ultimately Link Alaska With Argentina.

Washington .- The longest road project in the world-the Pan American highway-moved another step nearer to realization recently when congress appropriated $1,000,000 to enable the United States to co-operate with Latin American nations in surveying and constructing this new link between the Americas. The sum of $75,000 was also provided for a continuation of reconnaissance surveys in both Central and South America.

"I shouldn't have look down on sections of such a highway, used by mules, trucks and motor cars. How to connect these separate links, how to bridge the gaps formed now by mountains and jungles, is the problem to which many governments "I don't hate it now . . . Do you remember that I told you I had found in the Western hemisphere give increasing thought.

"Mexico, for one, is hard at work on her link. So swiftly has she pushed construction that the 800-mile stretch from Laredo, on the Rio Grande, to Mexico, D. F., has already been often traversed, and is to be officially opened as an all-weather road within a few months-to which function Secretary of State Hull has been invited.

Traffic to Mexico Grows.

"Incidentally, tourist traffic from the United States to Mexico has grown enormously in the past two years. In 1933 about 40,000 Americans visited Mexico. Traffic so far in 1934 is even neavier, and hotels are crowded. Formal opening of motor roads will vastly increase this.

"With a total length of some 12,000 miles from Alaska to Argentina, more than 4,500 miles, over a third of the proposed Inter-American highway, is now usable by motor cars in all weather, chiefly in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Panama. Some finished stretches are also in use in Alaska, Costa Rica, El Salvador, Guatemala, Colombia, Ecuador, and Brazil. Although most of the roads which could be joined to form South America's part of any such great highway are already passable in dry weather, only insignificant stretches are usable in wet weather.

"Because of our own trade interests

sources of needed raw materials, and markets for our manufactures, the United States is most immediately concerned with the opening of the motor road from our southern border to Panama. This section is, in fact, the key to early completion of the whole project.

"At the request of the State department, the United States bureau of public roads, aided by highway engineers of the Central American countries concerned, has made a reconnaissance survey of the route from here to Panama Of the 1,500 miles of highway through Central America, about 500 miles are open to all-weather traffic.

Needed Supplies for United States. "The survey points out that a road through Central America would penetrate regions that could supply the United States with such needed things as rice, cinnamon, camphor, quinine, rubber, copra, vegetable oils, gums, hemp, etc.

"In further study of trade advantages such a road to Panama would bring us, made in co-operation with the Department of Commerce, the United States bureau of public roads' report says: 'Though these countries, and the Caribbean region in general, have been regarded as high-productioncost areas, the cause of this is traceable primarily to lack of cheap transportation, and not to any inherent difficulties of resources, or man-power.

Hot Springs Girl

Hailed as Prodigy Hot Springs, Ark .- Hailed as one of the outstanding child prodigies of the age, Janet Grant, eight, of Hot Springs, has been invited to appear in recital in Washington by the International Art Forum.

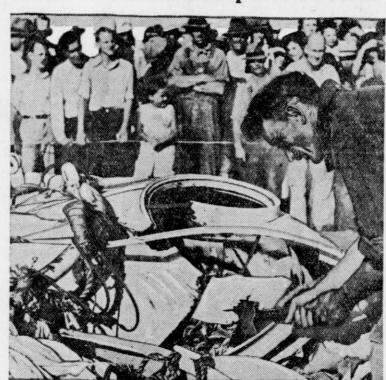

Janet spurns jazz, concentrating on the music of the masters. At four and one-half she played Beethoven. At five she mastered Bach's compositions.

She is a master of both violin and piano, performing on both with amazing technique. Despite her unusual feats in music, she is a normal, unspoiled child. She weighs 90 pounds, is active, healthy and is advanced in studies as far as the normal fifteen-year-old.

Adequate highways connecting with the present short water hauls will do much to remedy existing deficiencies. These apply chiefly to agriculture, which will doubtless dominate this region for centuries to come; yet they also pertain to lumbering, with vast hardwood forests thus far undeveloped, and to mining, with mineral resources still undetermined.' "With the funds recently made available by congress, a definite location survey of the road as far as Panama. and a reconnaissance survey of the section from Panama to Argentina, will be made. Such a survey through South America would be highly useful to each country traversed, as a guide to future road-building programs."

Is Now Turning Out Gold

Randsburg, Calif. - One of the world's richest silver mines now turning to gold! To have produced $16,-000,000 in silver in ten years, and now to develop gold ore that is running from $30 to $600 a ton, is a record belonging to only one mine in the United States. That is the Kelly silver mine in the famous Randsburg district.

says H. F. Royer, general manager. The mine was located in 1919 where for 25 years miners had tramped over rich outcropping silver ore in search for gold. On the first shipment of ore. the smelter company felt so doubtful about its value that they asked for a guarantee on the cost of smelting. That shipment of ore averaged from $300 to $500 a ton. Later from one shaft, 22 to 17 feet. the mine produced $300,000, which was the richest silver ore ever sent to the smelters. And this whole development has been made on the original $2,500 outside capital and out of the mine it-

DON'T OVERLOOK THE FINE PRINT IN THE CONTRACT

That few people, unversed in law and business, ever read all the text of a document which they sign and in exchange for which they pay money, has become a commonplace. They sign "on the dotted line" usually without knowing exactly what they are accepting. I. many cases the most vital clauses of these documents are in fine print, apparently immaterial by virtue of the comparative insignificance of their typography. It has been often said that shrewd salesmanship in financial transactions consists in keeping the customer from fully understanding all the stipulations and conditions of the instrument to which he sub-

A case has just come to light in a hearing in New York before a commissioner relative to certain mortgage certificates which contained a clause providing for an eighteen months' moratorium on interest. The officer of the corporation whose job it was to "get the money" was asked by counsel for the commissioner if in the course of the intensive selling campaign he had told his customers about this clause. The officer replied: "We didn't bring it up if they didn't ask." The counsel asked: "How could they ask about it if they didn't know it was there?" The witness replied: "We didn't throw it in their faces, but it's on the certificate." The counsel asked the witness if he could find the clause and read it, whereupon the officer of the company took the document, bent close to it, and then moved over to hold it under a lamp. With difficulty he found the clause, and read it haltingly with his eyes close to the paper.

Even when restrictive stipulations are printed in such documents in type of sufficient size to permit them to be read easily they are couched in such complicated terms that the average layman investor or purchaser cannot understand them. It would seem as though they were framed with the definite purpose of deception. At any rate, the fact stands that in many instances the vital portions of the contract which the buyer signs are obscure, either physically or textually or both. This is something that requires a "new deal" for the public protection. A code of practice in financial transactions of all kinds, based upon the principle of "the seller beware," rather than the buyer, is needed for the financial health of the people of this country. -Washington Star.

Endicott Rock Famous New England Landmark

Next to Plymouth Rock, the most interesting historical landmark in New England, is the famous Endicott Rock at The Weirs, N. H., which may be seen from passing trains. The rock is protected by a granite canopy and is connected with the shore by a short, iron bridge. The rock marks the northern limit chusetts Bay colony, about which there had been considerable dispute.

In 1652, Gov. John Endicott, by order of the general court, appointed a commission consisting of Simon Willard and Edward Johnson to settle forever this dispute. They took with them as surveyors, Jonathan of the Merrimac river. It was 43 de-Ince and John Sherman.

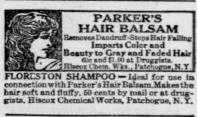

After an arduous journey through the wilderness and considerable exploration, they decided that this rock, at the point, marked the head water grees, 40 minutes and 12 seconds north latitude. Under the terms of the patent, the grant went three miles north of this point and running easterly it came out at Upper Clapboard island in Casco bay.

In crude letters the commissioners had inscribed on the rock the name of "John Endicott, Governor," with the initials of the commissioners and

Flattering Beret a First Choice

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

To BE smartly in fashion these aslant your carefully coiffed head a pert beret of either velvet, felt, or that which is very new, quilted taffeta

When you see the new berets you understand why the movement is spreading like wildfire throughout the length and breadth of all fashiondom. You could buy a dozen or more of these fascinating new berets and no two would be alike. If you are the type which looks best in big generous eye-shading lines just ask for the beret that answers this description for some of the newest models are as large and picturesque as a brimmed hat.

Pose a black velvet beret atop your "permanent" with the summer organdies and sheer prints you are loath to give up during the hot midseason days and you will realize a hundred per charm. And that new sheer woolen shirtwaist dress (or is it of the heavy tie silk which is equally as voguish) so you will be investing in a felt beret to wear with it which will give your outfit just the right dash of color. Be sure it sports a saucy feather of some sort or other. If it is color you are looking for to enliven your new fail ensemble or to cheer up the black sheer wool aftermoon dress which you have wisely inwested in for practical afternoon wear, you will find it in the swanky beret and scarf as pictured at the top to the left is this group. Multi-colored corded velvet (stripes are everywhere present in the fall style picture) is cut to form a geometric design for the beret. A jeweled clip attaches itself at the exact center front of this gay aigrette adds great elegance. little headpiece. The scarf is taffeta lined to give it that crisp up-and-going look.

The beret centered in the illustration has cunning ways about it. Of course it must be worn just so, to wield its magic sway. But trust modern youth to see to that. There is a little top section formed of grosgrain ribbon the frayed ends of which form a saucy topknot. The rest of this little flirtatious creation is of black felt which makes it just the hat to wear with tailored togs.

Among the millinery showings out for midsummer, the beret of black silk is an outstanding feature either quilted or stitched or as you like it best. Here is an attractive type (below to the left). It is developed of black grosgrain. The trim is black lacquered ribbon.

As important as is the beret, and it is tremendously so, it is not without cent returns in the way of chic and rivals in the field. Versatile types abound in the field chief among which are flattering tricornes and devastating little shepherdess shapes delightwhich you lately acquired in accord- fully feminine with fussy ribbons and ance with fashion's dictate for fall, of | flowers and feathers. Then there are course if you have not already done | the soft felt derbies with their Alpine feathers. Brims also flourish in the mode and they are very versatile.

The brim which turns up at one side to reveal the hair is a new note. Your attention is called to one of the newbrim types, shown at the top to the right. In the early fall models crepe is a factor and it is stitched crepe which fashions this dashing model. Note the gay feather follows the line of the brim, a gesture which is oft repeated in the newer modes.

An ultra chic woman's hat of black velvet concludes this group. It is of the beret family. At one side it rolls up with studied grace, dipping low at the other. The brush of simulated 6. Western Newspaper Union.

Pan American Road Steps Nearer to Realization

May Ultimately Link Alaska With Argentina.

Washington .- The longest road project in the world-the Pan American highway-moved another step nearer to realization recently when congress appropriated $1,000,000 to enable the United States to co-operate with Latin American nations in surveying and constructing this new link between the Americas. The sum of $75,000 was also provided for a continuation of reconnaissance surveys in both Central and South America.

"Caravans were trading over the ancient 'Silk Routes' between Asia and the Danube long before Europe ever heard of America. But despite amazing growth of transport in the Western world, to this day no wheel has ever rolled from North to South Americanot even from the Rio Grande to Panama," says a National Geographic society bulletin.

"Yet for years men have dreamed of a great Inter-American highway which might connect Alaska with Argentina. Links of such a royal road already exist. Even over many regions nestled close beside him. Her hand in Latin America air passengers can look down on sections of such a highway, used by mules, trucks and motor cars. How to connect these separate links, how to bridge the gaps formed now by mountains and jungles, is the problem to which many governments in the Western hemisphere give increasing thought.

"Mexico, for one, is hard at work on her link. So swiftly has she pushed construction that the 800-mile stretch from Laredo, on the Rio Grande, to Mexico, D. F., has already been often traversed, and is to be officially opened as an all-weather road within a few months-to which function Secretary of State Hull has been invited.

Traffic to Mexico Grows.

"Incidentally, tourist traffic from the United States to Mexico has grown enormously in the past two years. In 1933 about 40,000 Americans visited Mexico. Traffic so far in 1934 is even heavier, and hotels are crowded. Formal opening of motor roads will vasty increase this,

"With a total length of some 12,000 miles from Alaska to Argentina, more than 4,500 miles, over a third of the proposed Inter-American highway, is now usable by motor cars in all weather, chiefly in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Panama. Some finished stretches are also in use in Alaska, Costa Rica, El Salvador. Guatemala, Colombia, Ecuador, and Brazil. Although most of the roads which could be joined to form South America's part of any such great highway are already passable in dry weather, only insignificant stretches are usable in wet weather.

"Because of our own trade interests

sources of needed raw materials, and markets for our manufactures, the United States is most immediately concerned with the opening of the motor road from our southern border to Panama. This section is, in fact, the key to early completion of the whole project.

"At the request of the State department, the United States bureau of public roads, aided by highway engineers of the Central American countries concerned, has made a reconnaissance survey of the route from here to Panama. Of the 1,500 miles of highway through Central America, about 500 miles are open to all-weather traffic Needed Supplies for United States. "The survey points out that a road through Central America would penetrate regions that could supply the United States with such needed things as rice, cinnamon, camphor, quinine, rubber, copra, vegetable oils, gums, hemp, etc.

"In further study of trade advantages such a road to Panama would bring us, made in co-operation with the Department of Commerce, the United States bureau of public roads' report says: 'Though these countries, and the Caribbean region in general, have been regarded as high-productioncost areas, the cause of this is traceable primarily to lack of cheap transportation, and not to any inherent difficulties of resources, or man-power. to future road-building programs."

Hot Springs Girl

Hailed as Prodigy Hot Springs, Ark .- Hailed as one of the outstanding child prodigies of the age, Janet Grant, eight, of Hot Springs, has been invited to appear in recital in Washington by the International Art Forum.

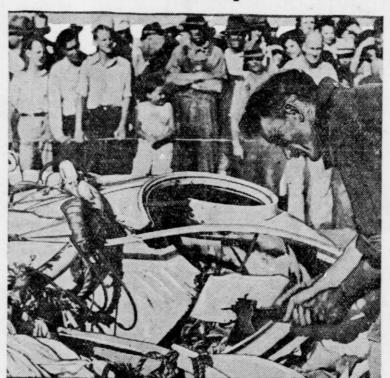

Janet spurns jazz, concentrating on the music of the masters. At four and one-half she played Beethoven. At five she mastered Bach's compositions.

She is a master of both violin and piano, performing on both with amazing technique. Despite her unusual feats in music, she is a normal, unspoiled child. She weighs 90 pounds, is active, healthy and is advanced in studies as far as the normal fifteen-year-old.

Adequate highways connecting with the present short water hauls will do much to remedy existing deficiencies. These apply chiefly to agriculture, which will doubtless dominate this region for centuries to come; yet they also pertain to lumbering, with vast hardwood forests thus far undeveloped, and to mining, with mineral re sources still undetermined.'

"With the funds recently made available by congress, a definite location survey of the road as far as Panama, and a reconnaissance survey of the section from Panama to Argentina. will be made. Such a survey through South America would be highly useful to each country traversed, as a guide

Testaments. As a student of the Newton Theological institution in 1873, Doctor Woodward began reading the Bible. A friend told him biblical passages could be easily memorized if one read them over 25 times.

Although he had little success in committing the Scriptures to memory, he became so interested in the Bible he has continued reading it since that

By 1925 he had read it 40 times, and remembering that by 1934 he would complete his fiftieth year as a Mason, he decided to make his readings of the Scriptures correspond.

Although he reads leisurely, as a rule, he once finished the Bible in 18 days, devoting as many as 12 hours a day to it.

He regards the Bible as the word of God, literally true throughout. In his own words: "Too many people now, and especially in New York city. read the Bible solely to disprove its truths. If there were fewer hypocrites in the Christian church, there would be less talk about the inaccuracies of the Bible."

Among his varied achievements. Doctor Woodward looks with pride on his degree as doctor of osteopathy, his law studies, his editorship of the Charleston News, and his 60 articles for the Encyclopedia Americana.

DON'T OVERLOOK THE FINE PRINT IN THE CONTRACT

That few people, unversed in law and business, ever read all the text of a document which they sign and in exchange for which they pay money, has become a commonplace. They sign "on the dotted line" usually without knowing exactly what they are accepting. I. many cases the most vital clauses of these documents are in fine print, apparently immaterial by virtue of the comparative insignificance of their typography. It has been often said that shrewd salesmanship in financial transactions consists in keeping the customer from fully understanding all the stipulations and conditions of the instrument to which he subscribes.

A case has just come to light in a hearing in New York before a commissioner relative to certain mortgage certificates which contained a clause providing for an eighteen months' moratorium on interest. The officer of the corporation whose job it was to "get the money" was asked by counsel for the commissioner if in the course of the intensive selling campaign he had told his customers about this clause. The officer replied: "We didn't bring it up if they didn't ask." The counsel asked: "How could they ask about it if they didn't know it was there?" The witness replied: "We didn't throw it in their faces, but it's on the certificate." The counsel asked the witness if he could find the clause and read it, whereupon the officer of the company took the document, bent close to it, and then moved over to hold it under a lamp. With difficulty he found the clause, and read it haltingly with his eyes close to the paper. Even when restrictive stipulations are printed in such documents in type of sufficient size to permit them to be read easily they are couched in such complicated terms that the average layman investor or purchaser cannot understand them. It would seem as though they were framed with the definite purpose of deception. At any rate, the fact stands that in many instances the vital portions of the contract which the buyer signs are obscure, either physically or textually or both. This is something that requires a "new deal" for the public protection. A code of practice in financial transactions of all kinds, based upon the principle of "the seller beware," rather than the buyer, is needed for the financial health of the people of this country. -Washington Star.

Endicott Rock Famous New England Landmark

Next to Plymouth Rock, the most interesting historical landmark in New England, is the famous Endicott Rock at The Weirs, N. H., which may be seen from passing trains. The rock is protected by a granite canopy and is connected with the shore by short, iron bridge. The rock marks the northern limit of the pasture grant of the Massathere had been considerable dispute. In 1652, Gov. John Endicott, by order of the general court, appointed a commission consisting of Simon Willard and Edward Johnson to settle forever this dispute. They took with them as surveyors, Jonathan of the Merrimac river. It was 43 de-

Ince and John Sherman. After an arduous journey through the wilderness and considerable exploration, they decided that this rock. at the point, marked the head water grees, 40 minutes and 12 seconds north latitude. Under the terms of the patent, the grant went three miles north of this point and running easterly it came out at Upper Clapboard island in Casco bay. In crude letters the commissioners had inscribed on the rock the name of "John Endicott, Governor," with the initials of the commissioners and surveyors.

West Bend News-The biggesst summer sausage in the world was won by Sheriff Joe Kirsch of Washington county at the St. Boniface church picnic in Goldendale last Sunday. The giant sau. sage measured 51/2 feet in length and 5 inches in diameter. It was made by the Harry Ziemer company, Milwaukee sausage manufacturers, and was donated to the church by Walterlin brothers, Germantown butchers, If Sheriff and Mrs. Kirsch can eat onehalf pound of summer sausage daily from now on they would still have a hunk of it left for their Thanksgiving

Hartford Times-Press-John W. Gehl secretary of the Gehl Bros. Mfg. Co., of Justin Engels, Leo Twohig and Robert West Bend, narrowly escaped a serious injury recently when his car left Highway 55 three miles south of West Bend, plunged into a ditch and against a telephone pole, A sudden gust of wind blew Mr. Gehl's hat to the floor, and as he stooped to pick it up, he lost control of his car, so that it ran off the highway into a ditch, and broke off a telephone pole. Fortunately he escaped with minor bruises and cuts to his hand. Mr. Gehl was returning from Pewaukee where he had been in attendance upon a meeting of the trustees of the Oaks Sanatorium,

The true measure of a bank's value is its usefulness. It must provide a range of services to meet the needs of customers and community: it must offer complete facilities for the convenience of depositors; it must be prepared to act as a source of reliable information on matters of business and finance; it must be in a position to extend credit for legitimate purposes; and, last but not least, it must provide absolute safety for depositors' funds at all times.

USEFULNESS!

Over 5000 people in this territory (with total deposits of over $900,000.00) have judged this bank by its usefulness and selected it as their financial headquarters. May we serve you. too?

Eugene Black to "Sell" New Deal to the Banks-President Warns Against Food Profiteering-Cotton Textile Strike Voted.

> By EDWARD W. PICKARD by Western Newspaper Union.

EUGENE R. BLACK has resigned as governor of the federal reserve board, and President Roosevelt has given him a new position-contact officer between the banks for recovery. He returns to his former Eugene R. position of governor Black of the Atlanta Federal Reserve bank which he left in May. 1933, to assume the direction of the whole reserve system. Mr. Black himself said his new assignment is "to muster the strength of our financial institutions behind recovery in America." Some observers in Washington thought the move indicated that the administration was going to make another attempt to thaw out the vast sums in commercial credits that are lying idle in the banks. "You can do much good." President Roosevelt wrote Black in accepting his resignation, "by presenting the recov ery program to the country's reserve banks, commercial banks and other financial institutions, by acquainting them with the successive steps taken by the administration which have resulted in the present prosperous condition of these institutions and which make possible their co-operation with the administration in its program of complete business rehabilitation.

"I am pleased to think that your position as governor of the Federal Reserve bank at Atlanta will give you opportunity to undertake this work and that that bank, together with the federal reserve board, will co-operate with you in its performance."

Among those mentioned as likely to succeed Black as governor of the fed eral reserve board was Marriner S. Eccles, Utah banker, who is now a special assistant to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau. He is close to Rexford Guy Tugwell.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT, it turns out, is not at all dismayed by the catastrophic drouth that has afflicted a large part of the country. To the White House correspondents he indicated his belief that the drouth was in a way a blessing, in that it was wiping out farm surpluses two years sooner than could have been done by the Wallace crop reduction plan. He explenty of food for all, and made it clear that the administration would not stand for any profiteering in food prices or grain speculation to the detriment of the farmer and the public. "Chiselers," it was promised, will be promptly and severely punished.

The federal grain futures administration directed by J. M. Mehl, it was revealed, is watching grain trading closely. The first evidence of manipulation will bring punitive action.

The consumers council of the AAA under Dr. Frederic C. Howe, is charting food prices. Housewives will be warned of any increase out of line with market supplies.

Secretary Wallace has admitted that there will necessarily be increases in food prices, and figures released by his department show they are already beginning to go higher. A gradual increase until next summer is expected.

WHILE Harry Hopkins, federal relief administrator, is vacationing in Europe, his place is taken by Aubrey Williams, his assistant. Mr. Williams has been in conference with the President, laying out the plans for drouth relief and the corservation of food supplies. Among the first things the relief administration will do is to buy up hay and fruit that otherwise might go to waste. Hay on public lands also will be cut and baled. The Williams complete program was being formulated by Mr. Williams and Secretary Wallace. It was expected this would include expenditure of $350,000,000 left in the special drouth appropriation, and distribution of food and clothing to the needy by the surplus relief corporation. Aid for live stock is to be provided.

Mr. Roosevelt is determined that the relief administration shall be kept clear of politics. At his suggestion telegrams were sent to relief directors and workers everywhere telling them to keep out of partisan politics and to resign if they wish to run for office.

One of the plans that is being worked out by Mr. Williams is the mobilization of 40,000 unemployed school teachers next winter in a campaign against illiteracy and to fit the workless for jobs when prosperity returns. The program includes vocational training, vocational rehabilitation, general adult education and nursery schools.

WHEN the NRA is reorganized and put under control of a commission-a change that is soon due-Gen. Hugh S. Johnson may still be in the picture, despite the belief that he would retire completely. He told something of the plans for the shakeup, and at the same time said: "If the President wants me to stay, I might serve as chairman of the board. provided it did not take all of my

Johnson said he expected the whole reorganization of the NRA to be completed within the next 60 or 90 days. The first step, he said, will be the formal submission of plans to the President. Congress will be asked next winter to enact the revised NRA setup as a permanent government control over industry, Johnson disclosed. It will be the New Deal for business which President Roosevelt will try to fix on the country for all time.

This "permanent" NRA, as sketched by Johnson, would consist of a general governing board, a single administrative officer to carry out the board's dictates, and a long string of government representatives sitting on code authorities as umpires in disputes between employers and workers and between industry and the public. Broadly speaking, the NRA might retreat and allow business greater freedom.

UNLESS President Roosevelt can prevent it, about half a million workers in the cotton textile industry will be on strike on or about September 1, because they are utterly dissatisfied with their NRA code. The convention of the United Textile Workers of America in New York voted mandatory instructions to the union's executive council to call this general strike, and if it goes into effect it may later spread to other branches of the industry, involving an additional 250,000. Leaders in the strike movement are Norman Thomas, former Socialist candidate for President, and the younger element in the

The specific aim will be to obtain reopening of the textile code and its revision along lines demanded by the union. Demands will be made for the 30-hour week with 40-hour pay. elimination of the stretch-out system with corresponding readjustment of machine loads, and a universal system of collective bargaining on the basis of free choice of representatives by the Support of the strike by the American Federation of Labor was promised by George Goode, who appeared before the convention as a representative of President William Green of the A. F. of L. Goode expressed the hope. however, that timely intervention by President Roosevelt may avert the strike and give the workers the relief they are demanding.

DRIMARY elections in several states brought about interesting results. In Nebraska Representative E. R.

Burke of Omaha, advocate of the New Deal, won the Democratic nomination for senator, defeating Gov. Charles W. Bryan by an astonishing plurality of more than 66 .-000. The Republicans nominated Robert G. Simmons, It was predicted by friends of Senator Norris, radical Republican, that the progressive Re-E. R. Burke publicans would support Burke, for Simmons, a member of congress, has been attacking the NRA and the AAA. Ohioans are given their choice be tween two veteran politicians in the race for the senate. A. V. Donahey, three times governor of the state was made the nominee of the Democrats. running far ahead of Gov. George White and Charles O. West. The last named was the choice of the national administration but he made a poor showing. Senator Simeon D. Fess, one of the most vociferous opponents of the Roosevelt programs, easily won renomination by the Republicans. For governor the Democrats nominated Martin L. Davey, the "tree doctor," and the Republicans put up Clarence

J Brown. Gov. J. M. Futrell of Arkansas was renominated, as were all but two of the state's congressmen who sought re-election. Democrats of Idaho are so well satisfied with Gov. Ben C. Ross, former cowboy, that they renominated him for a third term. The Republican nominee there is Frank L. Stephan.

Looking over these primary results and considering the prospects all over the country, Democratic leaders in Washington predicted their party would gain six senate seats. Republican campaign managers said the G. O. P. will hold its own. As for the house, the Democrats admit they will lose at least twenty-five seats, and their opponents claim the Republican gain will be between fifty and seventy-five seats.

Senator Hastings of Delaware, Republican, thinks the New Deal took some hard knocks in the primaries. He also called attention to the fact that in West Virginia the Democrats beat Clem Shaver, one-time chairman of the Democratic national committee, to nominate Rush Holt, who if elected would be too young under the Constitution to take a seat in the senate. He added Farley backed Shaver.

R ELATIONS between Russia and Japan have been further strained by the arrest of 17 Soviet subjects, all officials and employees of the Chinese Eastern railway, by Manchukuo authorities. They are accused of plotting against Manchukuo and Japan and of being in collusion with bandits in recent attacks on the railway. The Russian consul general at Harbin vainly demanded the release of the prisoners. In Moscow the arrests gave rise to rumors that Japan was preparing to declare military law and take over the railway, the sale of which has long been a subject of fruitless negotiation. Tokio dispatches quoted a foreign office spokesman as saving the government was considering sending a general warning to Moscow.

WITH the sanction of the American Federation of Labor a strike was called in the plants of the Aluminum Company of America, which is controlled by Andrew W. Mellon, former secretary of the treasury, and his family. Six of the plants, at New Kensington, Arnold and Logan's Ferry, Pa., Alcoa, Tenn.; East St. Louis, Ill., and Massena, N. Y., were closed, and those at Fairfield, Conn., and Baden, N. C., were about to shut down. The company normally employs about 15,000 persons. Proposals offered by the workers' representatives late in July were flatly rejected by the company. Company and union officials each attached different interpretations to the proposals. Roy A. Hunt, president of the aluminum corporation, insisted his concern would never consent to the "closed shop" request of the employees. Labor officials denied they had asked for a "closed shop." William Green, president of the A. F. of L., asserted the strike call went out only after workers failed to obtain the right of "collective bargaining" by peaceful means.

Washington.—The administration at | sarily then the wage earner white collar worker | last has taken advantage of the authority given the Chief Executive by Silver congress in the silver purchase law crease the prices.

Problem and has "nationalized" silver. It has placed itself in the position where it becomes virtually the sole purchaser of silver in the United States and from which position it controls, by license, the release of silver stocks for use in industry and the arts.

Mystery still surrounds the promulgation of the nationalization order. Secretary Morgenthau at the treasury has continued to hold the reasons therefor within his own breast and the result is that a thousand and one interpretations have been placed on the action. The action, like so many having to do with the currency, has proved disconcerting, first because of the secrecy surrounding it and secondcertainty in many lines of commercial endeavor.

That it is inflationary in character there can be no doubt. The extent, however, is another matter and one Milwaukee-Capt. Arnold T. Hensler, about which experts disagree. The best opinion I have been able to obtain-it amounts to a consensus of authorities in whom I have faith-The danger, so I am informed, lies. therefore, not in the purchase of silver and the issuing of silver certificates but in the potentialities of the movement. There can be no doubt that once the silver movement gets thoroughly underway that it is only a dry siege of two months ago. A sur-short step, easily taken, to the use of printing presses and flat money.

It will be recalled that Mr Roose velt said in his inaugural address that he would support an "adequate and sound currency." In the opinion of many observers if he goes no further than the recent silver order he can still find justification for repeating his inaugural declaration. But the point is and the question that is most frequently asked is can he stop at this

Obviously the devaluation of the dollar taken about this time last year has proved inadequate to Hope to accomplish price in-Boost Prices creases to the 1926 level - a promise which Mr. Roosevelt frequently made during his campaign. His advisors admit with some freedom that the gold reduction program has not forced the anticipated price boost. This being true, it is only natural as many observers hold that the move regarding silver is intended to supplement the action which cut the gold content of the dollar from one hundred cents to slightly below sixty cents. Whether this further change in the monetary structure will accomplish the desired price level, of course remains to be seen. Administration leaders are hopewas carried off just before the agents ful. Old-time sound money men and the conservative thought of the country are distressed.

In some quarters I hear a discussion of the silver action which places the possible interpretation upon it that it is nothing more than a confiscation of commercial stocks of bar silver at a price arbitrarily fixed by the government. Among this school of thought some hold to the opinion in addition that the step is not particularly significant.

Fellow observers, I believe, pretty generally have accepted the silver nationalization as having been partly due to the serious agitation for inflation about which I reported several weeks ago. It is easy to understand how this would come about and why the date of August 9 was selected for promulgation of the new order. Out through the drouth stricken areas and in industrial sections where employment is seasonal, summer doldrums of the first order are existent. Discontent along with distress always has and probably always will breed radicalism, The inflation agitation now surely can e said to be fostered mainly by the left wing and the more radical of the politicians. Would it not then be only hatural that, having the power accorded him under the silver act, Mr Roosevelt should seek to alleviate this condition by utilizing the discretionary authority for acquisition of silver?

The toys are disinfected by CWA workers and the aim is to provide playthings which are necessary for normal development.

Careful explanation is given of the uses of the toy, and age and capabilities are considered in issuing the playthings. In other words, Santa Claus is being made an every-day friend of slum children instead of a ence a year visitor with a Christmas grabbag. For outdoor play there are scooters, roller skates, sidewalk bicycles, express wagons, doll carriages, velocipedes, kiddie cars, balls, bats, rubber horseshoes and all sorts of games. Construction sets, blackboards, sewing materials, dolls, trains, carpentry sets, chemistry sets, toys that reproduce industrial and housekeeping tasks, picture books, handicraft sets and building blocks are also provided for underprivileged children. . . .

"By interesting the youngsters in constructive play in their homes, we give them real educational training," said Mrs. Rose Schwartz, director of the toy library. "When they are busy with these absorbing tasks they lose interest in play with the street gangs and they escape the delinquent influences that are always awaiting the bored and idle. The desire to play is fundamental in every child. It is as important to his spiritual welfare as food is to his body. If a child is de prived of his proper play facilities, his development is stunted. Playgrounds have already provided the slum child with an outlet for his energy that is better than the streets. But social service has neglected the child's home life. We could not possibly collect enough toys to let children keep them all. So we have compromised with the lending library idea, which we hope will serve as a model tritious of fats. for other centers throughout the coun-

They took his watch and wallet and disappeared. That was bad enough. But the driver immediately demanded his fare and when it was not forthcoming, beat up the passenger!

A patrolman finally arrived and the passenger told his story. The driver denied it, saying that the trouble had been caused because the passenger had refused to pay his fare. The officer took the driver's word and lugged the young man off to a police station where he was held for two days before his brother-in-law finally found him. The matter is not yet ended, however. The brother-in-law is a member of a prominent law firm, so an investigation is in progress.

Since the taxicabs have been under the control of the police, the gyps and crooks have been greatly reduced in numbers. In fact, in the years I've been riding around New York in taxis, I've had just one untoward experience. One night, the fare was 86 cents. handed the driver a bill and told him to keep the change. Three Rivers, Mich .- For the information of those who are planning an active summer in the open, Charlie Savery, chief auditor at the tin shop, tells the best way to rob a bumble bee's nest. Charlie says to take a common stone cider jug and set it on a slant near the nest and poke up the nest with a stick. When the bees come buzzing out they will aim for the first dark spot they see, which will be the hole in the jug. After they get inside all you have to do is to plug the jug with a corncob or something and go ahead and rob the nest when you get through. Charles says, you are ahead the honey and a jugful of bumblebees. Then you can eat the honey and wonder what to do with the jug.

POULTRY

MANGELS ARE GOOD WINTER HEN FEED

Beet Family Crop That Will Be Great Help.

By Lee A. Somers, Horticultural Specialist, University of Illinois.-WNU Service. Green succulent feed, which would be greatly relished by chickens during the winter months, can be easily and cheaply produced by devoting a small portion of the farm garden to mangel-wurzels.

Although succulent feed may not be classed as an essential in poultry pro duction, many farmers have found that such a winter supplement adds variety to the ration, and by whetting the birds' appetites, indirectly encourages greater egg production. Mangels will supply this winter succulence quite satisfactorily. They are easily grown, yield tremendously and may be stored with little inconvenience.

Mangels belong to the beet family and should be raised in the same manner as the fall beet crop. The seed may be sown late, dropping the seeds at the rate of six to eight to the foot. Later the plants should be thinned out to from eight to twelve inches apart. Generally, there are neither insect nor disease enemies serious enough to demand consideration.

The roots of mangels do not make much growth until the cool weather of late September and October, when they begin to expand and increase to surprising length. An individual root often weighs from five to eight pounds, while yields of 12 to 20 tons to the acre are common. A 100-foot row will usually supply enough mangels for a flock of 50 chickens during an entire

Current Turkey Models

Are Bigger and Heavier Shifting of styles in turkeys is under way, according to L. E. Cline of the Nevada agricultural extension service. who recently finished a study of the present market for the holiday birds. The 1934 model will be bigger and heavier, Mr. Cline says, reflecting a consumer demand for a different type of bird which has been increasing since last Christmas.

The shift is a return to the turkey in greatest demand some time ago, the extension man says, and may be an indication of better economic conditions. In recent years the smaller birds have brought the best prices. Demands from restaurants and cabarets for larger breast meat has been an important factor in the change in consumer requirements.

A premium of one or more cents a pound is now being paid for the heavier turkeys, while for the last two or three years the price was that amount under the sum paid for lighter birds. This condition always shows a decidedly healthy tone of the market, tack an ordinary dress shield by the and if it prevails through the coming marketing season, as indications point, there will be a distinct advantage to the turkey producer.

Formerly, there were three varieties of Rhode Island Red fowls-the rosecomb, the single-comb, and the peacomb varieties. Those who developed the rose-comb variety clung tenaciously to breed and developed a fowl of true type having the color described for the breed and a comb like that of the Wyandotte. The quality attained in the rose-comb variety attracted the attention of those partial to low-set combs; the result was that the peacomb variety gained no further recognition. Fanciers adopted either the single-comb or the rose-comb variety.

Types of Geese

In a choice of geese, most prefer one of the heavy breeds, such as the Toulouse, Embden, or African. Standard weights for the noble Toulouse, largest of all, are: Adult gander, 26 pounds; adult goose, 20; young gander, 20; young goose, 16 pounds. Other standard breeds, according to an authority in the Wisconsin Agriculturist, are the Chinese, Canadian and Egyptian, none of them so popular as the big gray Toulouse.

Hot Weather, Smaller Eggs The old hens need care as well as the young stock. When the temperatures go up the egg size usually goes down. Therefore, in order to keep the egg size as good as you can you should see to it that the laying house is comfortable. Be sure it is clean, that there is plenty of ventilation. Open the ventilators so the hot air which rises can be taken out of the house. Provide shade for the hens and plenty of fresh water, as most of the egg is water.

Heat Affects Eggs

A $15,000,000-a-year loss, due to the partial hatching of fertile eggs, is sustained by poultry raisers in this country. The rooster makes the eggs fertile. The fertile eggs develop a blood ring. Moral: Retire the rooster. He does not help the hens to lay. He merely fertilizes the germ of the egg. Summer heat has the same effect on fertile eggs as a setting hen or an incubator. Gather the eggs twice a day and get them to a cool place so the heat won't get in its work.

Feeding Research The cost of feeding can be reduced somewhat by omitting some of the more expensive protein concentrates. Dried milk is an excellent food, but its value is not twice that of good meat and bone scraps. Soybean oil meal has proved superior to other vegetable protein concentrates and linseed meal was of the least value. When available, soybean oil meal can be used to replace one-third to one-half of the meat and bone scraps in the laying ration .- Hoard's Dairyman,

Cultivate Poise, to Cheat Nerves

Master of "Standability" Has Big Advantage in Every Way.

A nervous woman visiting schools in a large city was observing an English lesson of a first year high school class. She felt "dizzy" and "exhausted."

"How that teacher can stand the strain of trying to give something to thirty wandering attentions that don't want to take it, is more than I can see," she said. "And that class vas no exception!" She proceeded to describe it.

As in many modern schools, there was no rule against the pupils talking. And all the time that the teacher read aloud, there was "a continuous buzz of comment and conversation among the children, not all of whom were listening, so that at times the woman actually had to shout to be heard.

"Imagine the nervous strain of trying to teach against such odds! Freedom and relaxation on the part of the teacher to get and hold attention which he should have been able to take for granted. In that teacher's place I should have a complete nervous breakdown in three

I was familiar with the phenomenon this woman described, a prominent woman writer remarks. I had seen teachers trying to give to a large group, some o. whom were indifferent about receiving and profiting by what was offered them. I had observed such teachers apparently good-naturedly working against and over a buzz. And I knew the "good nature" to be only apparent, a manifestation of poise and self-control whose source was the knowledge that more could be accomplished by ignoring interruptions than by stopping to reproach and remonstrate and punish. I knew those teachers to be trying a positive method of giving to those boys and girls rather than the negative one of continuous correction and punishment. And I knew they did not have nervous breakdowns-because they had schooled themselves to the situation with which they had to contend. They had cultivated "standability" in circumstances that could not be entirely perfected.

"It is not right," you might say, that that added burden should be placed upon a teacher-and I should agree with you. But the point that I think worth something to my readers is that trick of cheating nervous breakdowns by schooling oneself-in standability!

Waters of Indian Ocean Over Man's Birthplace?

"It is now generally admitted," says Dr. Alexander Winchell in Pre-Adamits, "that man's birthplace was in a region covered at present by the waters of the Indian ocean." Some years ago Sir John Murray bequeathed $100,000 to equip an expedition to locate the boundaries of this lost land, writes Ransome Sutton in the Los Angeles Times. Last summer his trustees borrowed a trawler, the Mabahiiss, from the Egyptian government, and made echo-soundings between India and South America. According to Prof. Stanley Gardiner, secretary of the expedition, the findings confirm the belief that Lemuria (a part of ancient Gondwana Land, which overlapped India, South Africa and Brazil) existed until quite recently-up into the Age of Mammals: Madagascar, the Saychelles islands and other archipelagoes were its highlands; on them all one finds the same plant and animal organisms, which is good evidence that the islands were once connected by land.

p-to-the-Minute and Practical

Every woman wishes to be as well-dressed as possible without spending too much time or money on her clothes. That is why so many women in this community turn first to the page in this newspaper which contains the illustrated fashion articles by Miss Cherie Nicholas, For Miss Nicholas is an authority on fashions - not the freak models and the extreme styles, but the fashions in dress which the modern woman demands, those which are up-to-theminute and at the same time

> Be sure to look for these articles in each issue of this newspaper and then tell your women friends about them. They will be glad to know how they, too, can wear clothes which carry the mes-

> A major issue of the time is state of government finances. The tax problem which has always been with us, has grown amazingly during the last few years. Depression, which increased the need for relief expenditures of one kind and another, intensified it.

> Latest forecasts point to a steady rise in government spending during the current fiscal year. When the last fiscal year came to an end on July 31, the deficit amounted to $4.000.000,000. It is ticipate that expenses for the current year will amount to about $10,000,000, 000. On the basis of estimates income that means that we will have a federa deficit of around $6.000,000,000 when this fiscal year comes to a close.

> One of the things that has thrown Administration figuring out of line is the drought, A total of $525,000,000 is now available for relief, but many believe that it is not sufficient. It is felt that the Government will have to appropriate still more money, to help drought sufferers, and some are of the opinion that at least $800,000,000 will
