COUNTY VACCINATION PROGRAM IS PLANNED

Due to the fact that small-pox is reaching epidemic proportions in various sections of our state, plans are under way for a county-wide vaccination program.

Consent slips are being sent out to every school child in Washington county to be signed by the parent who wishes his child vaccinated.

There is money enough in the County fund to defray part of the expense of the treatment. The individual will pay for the remainder.

Parents are advised, also, to bring in children who are under school age. The exact time, date and place of the mission will be published later. Every school child will also be notified.

Further information may be received at the County Nurse's office.

TWO MILWAUKEEANS INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

The car driven by Edw. M. Kroenke of Milwaukee, was side-swiped by a hit-and-run driver on Highway 55, near Eden, last Sunday, and resulted in injury to two persons in the Kroenke car.

Mrs. Kroenke and Max Zylke, occupants of the Kroenke car were treated at the St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac. Mrs. Kroenke was but slightly hurt, but Mr. Zylke, an aged man, suffered fractures of his right elbow and left shoulder.

The accident resulted when the hit-and-run car pulled out in the rear of the Kroenke car to pass it. The machine sped away from the scene as Kroenke went into the ditch and tipped over. Traffic Officer Anton Rafenstein found a bent hub cap on the side of the highway at the scene of the accident. He telephoned cities south on Highway 55 requesting officers to pick up a light sedan with a missing hub cap. Apparently the driver avoided the highway, as no answer to the description was seen or heard of.

EXTRA!
Last night, Thursday, County Coroner Meyer Lynch conducted an inquest into the auto accident which resulted in the death of Ralph Heisler on Sunday morning, March 24, 1935, on Highway 33, three miles east of West Bend. After hearing all the testimony on the case the jury deliberated and brought in a verdict at about 11:45 as follows: "That the said deceased, Ralph Heisler, came to his death from injuries received on March 24, 1935, at about 1:30 o'clock a. m., in an automobile accident on State Highway No. 33, in the town of Trenton, Washington county, at about four (4) miles east of the city of West Bend, by a collision of the car driven west by the deceased, Ralph Heisler, and a car driven east by one Rudolph Eschelman. The jury found Rudolph Eschelman partially negligent by operating an automobile in the wrong lane of traffic and relieved him of all criminal negligence."

THE AMERICAN RED CROSS IS ASKING YOU TO AID

Housewives of Kewaskum are reminded of their duty to their less affluent neighbors who depend a great deal upon the ministry of the American Red Cross which furnishes them with usable clothing, bed clothes, articles of furniture and household equipment.

During their spring housecleaning work many women will run across articles of that nature which they no longer have use for, but which are still in serviceable condition. Instead of throwing it into the bonfire or the ashcan, take it to Mrs. E. L. Morgenroth, local Red Cross representative, or telephone her and she will send someone to call for the articles, or give them to the local Boy Scouts, who will see that the articles are safely delivered to her.

LOCAL DAIRY HERDS MAKE GOOD SHOWING

By a program of testing, culling, and feeding, Washington county dairy herds won distinction in 1934. In spite of an unfavorable year in which feed supplies have been generally limited, these herds made record herd averages. Among the number are some which averaged 400 pounds or more of butterfat for each cow in their herds last year. This is 200 pounds or more above the average production for dairy cows in the state.

According to word received from A. J. Cramer, of the Office of Farm Accounts and Dairy Records, herds in this county which made 400 pounds of butter fat or more last year are:

A registered Holstein herd of 12 cows owned by A. A. Wiedmeyer, which averaged 477 pounds of butterfat and 12936 pounds of milk.

A registered and graded Holstein herd of 7 cows owned by Christ Mayer, which averaged 436 pounds of butterfat and 12395 pounds of milk.

A graded Holstein herd of 11 cows owned by Ed. Gensman, which averaged 433 pounds of butterfat and 12645 pounds of milk.

A pure bred Holstein herd of 10 cows owned by Eugene Steusser, which averaged 481 pounds of butterfat and 11508 pounds of milk.

A pure bred Holstein herd of 9 cows owned by Harley Fredericksen, which averaged 401 pounds of butterfat and 11110 pounds of milk.

A pure bred Holstein herd of 16 cows owned by Herbert Lepsin, which averaged 401 pounds of butterfat and 11340 pounds of milk.

A graded Guernsey herd of 7 cows owned by Art Lichtenwalner, which averaged 421 pounds of butterfat and 8615 pounds of milk.

Reindeer at Last Reach End of Five-Year Trek

WHAT can happen in this great world in a period of five years? Among the great achievements we can list that of Andrew Bahr of Seattle. Five years ago he took an assignment to drive 3,000 reindeer across the Great Arctic circle. Bahr, although not a young man, took his great task at the instance of the king of England, through a commercial trading company, who believed it a good idea to provide meat for the Mackenzie district of Canada, where there was a scarcity of food. In 1929 a herd of 3,000 reindeer was turned over to this herder and for five years he has plodded 1,200 miles across the Arctic circle and has at last reached his goal. Camping for months waiting for a river to freeze over, weathering Arctic blizzards, camping for the breeding season and a thousand other obstacles have befriended this great hero, but he has delivered, not only his original herd, but an increase for the five years of over 10 per cent and incidentally there were two children born on the stormy passage, and are husky individuals. The Andrew Bahr feat will go down in history as one of the greatest feats of man.

THE BUTTERFLY

By ANNE CAMPBELL

I HAD been in the kitchen half the day, cleaning the cupboards, making the room fair. When hands are busy, hours fly away. And it was noon before I was aware.

Wearily before the open door I stood. Looking at my own patch of homely green. When I was joined in my brief solitude By a brown butterfly, with golden sheen.

I was transported on its gauzy wings Far from the sordid tasks of everyday. Intangible but high imaginings Captured my thoughts and bore me far away.

There was my early home, the open door, The locust tree, the garden rich in blooms; The sunlight on the whitely scrubbed pine floor, And heaven lending peace to little rooms.

From toil there is escape. The drab cocoon Of ordinary day cannot hold fast The thoughts that soar like butterflies in June, And find their way to God's blue lanes at last.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

AN UNEXPECTED DANGER

DANNY MEADOW MOUSE, swimming across the Smiling Pool to escape from Reddy Fox, was worried enough as he thought of how helpless he would be should Billy Mink or Snapper the big Snapping Turtle discover him before he reached the other bank. But Danny would have been still more worried had he known of a certain Big Pickeral, which you know is a kind of fish, who was making his home in the Smiling Pool.

Now the Big Pickeral lived very largely on the minnows and other little fish of the Smiling Pool, but he was always ready for anything else that might be good to eat. He had been some distance away from where Danny swam into the water, but he had heard the splash Danny made. It was different from the splashes made by the young frogs, and the Big Pickeral knew the difference. He would have been very glad to get one of the young frogs. In fact, he could have told what had become of a good many young frogs which had disappeared very mysteriously. But he had paid no attention to the splashes of the young frogs when they had dived into the water at the warning of Redwig the Blackbird. You see, he knew all about frogs, and he knew that they had dived right down to the bottom and hidden in the mud.

But this other splash interested him, and he began to move along in the direction of it. Now if he had hurried in the first place, this story might have had a very different ending. But the Big Pickeral had had a good breakfast, and he was only mildly interested so he swam rather slowly. Danny Meadow Mouse was almost across the Smiling Pool before the Big Pickeral saw him. When the Big Pickeral did see him he quite forgot that he had had a good breakfast. It was seldom that he had the chance to dine on a fat meadow mouse, and he could think of nothing in the world that would taste better.

If he had moved slowly before, now he shot forward like an arrow. Grandfather Frog saw him and tried to warn Danny, but Danny was already swimming as fast as he could, and all the warnings in the world couldn't have made him swim any faster. The Big Pickeral's great jaws, each of which had ever and ever so many sharp teeth, were actually opening to seize Danny, just as Danny's feet touched bottom. Just as Danny scrambled out on the bank, those great jaws closed with a wicked snap, almost on the end of Danny's funny, short tail.

There was a great splash, for the Big Pickeral had rushed so that he had almost stranded himself in the shallow water. For a minute Grandfather Frog couldn't see what had happened. Then he saw the Big Pickeral dart back into deep water, and with a sigh of relief saw Danny Meadow Mouse pop into one of the holes in the bank of the Smiling Pool.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

AU GRATIN DISHES

AU GRATIN signifies, in French, a dish baked with a coating of bread crumbs. Such dishes are particularly good to serve for luncheon, as they are easily prepared and quickly served. However, they may make a chief dish for dinner, or for a part of a company dinner. The main part of the dish, whether fish, meat or vegetable, is usually mixed with a white sauce. To these dishes one may add cheese, chopped hard-egg, peppers, red or green, mushrooms and parsley. When the food is all cooked, the buttered crumbs are used for a topping and the dish is simply heated for ten or fifteen minutes to brown the crumbs. When the food is used that needs longer cooking the crumbs are added ten minutes before removing from the oven.

Cabbage au Gratin.

Cook cabbage eight minutes in boiling water, drain, chop in small pieces and sprinkle with salt and pepper, cover with a rich white sauce, stirring lightly with a fork to mix well. Turn into a baking dish and cover with buttered crumbs over a light layer of cheese. When the crumbs are brown the dish is ready to serve.

Summer squash, potatoes, carrots, eggplant, in fact, almost any vegetable is most attractive served in that manner. The nice thing about such dishes is they may be leftovers from the dinner of the day before. Soak a three-pound haddock in warm water or milk to cover, for an hour. Bake in a moderate oven for thirty minutes to separate the flakes; these should be two cups; cook one tablespoon of chopped onion in one-fourth

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

"HOME"

"WHAT do you suppose my twelve-year-old boy said to me this evening, as we left?" complained a woman at an evening gathering recently.

"Mother! Are you going out again? Oh gee, you go out every night!" "He has to go to bed soon after we leave anyway," she added. "Now what do you suppose he wanted?" Gropingly, this woman had a feeling of guilt, though she knew not why. It developed that what the boy "wanted" was to play ping pong (he is an only child) before going to bed, as he had recently realized his dream of owning a ping-pong table.

But as that woman spoke I thought I could sense something else her boy wanted. It took me back to my own childhood, and I saw myself coming home every afternoon from school. It brought back the feeling of terrible emptiness of those rare times when, returning in the afternoon, I found my mother out.

They were unusual occasions those, but I remember how strangely devastating. At such times, home didn't seem home at all. Something, in fact very much, was wrong—and stayed wrong, in some indescribable way, until the house became alive again with my mother's presence.

Of course the habits and traditions of the boy in question were different from those of my own childhood. He was not accustomed to a constant awareness of his mother's presence at home, and therefore did not miss it—consciously, specifically. But I believe that fundamentally the yearning was the same—a yearning for the background of the living presence that made the house really "home."

WHY SHOP-TALK IS SO POPULAR

Makes for Forgetfulness of One's Self.

One of the last arts to mature in a young society is the art of conversation. At its best, conversation is a kind of impromptu orchestra, each player improvising in perfect harmony, time and tune, tossing the theme from instrument to instrument, changing, discarded or resumed at the caprice of the players. This of course presupposes that the subject of the conversation be impersonal, that it be free to range pretty much over the whole field of human experience. Such conversation is first met with in the form of shop-talk and the reason shop-talk among people of the same interests or profession (in which is included school studies) is so popular may be that here, perhaps for the first time, we learn how delightful it can be to exercise our minds in company with others to the total exclusion and forgetfulness of our tressome selves. That is why students talk so eagerly about their school tasks, why business and professional people so madly discuss the minutiae of their trades; why artists, musicians and scholars persecute the public with their passionate dissertations. But there is a stage beyond this, where human interests are broad enough and deep enough to embrace everybody, where the whole of experience is the subject.

"Clever but indiscriminating," "undiscriminating because the past is not alive to them," "Highbrow? Anything rather than that!"—this is a good-natured appraisal of how our sophisticated New Yorkers make it appear to Europeans. The objection to them is that they do not know enough, either about the past or their own country. But the condition is temporary. A passion for learning has sprung up in our land since the war which, given time, should turn out a crop of men and women able to interpret America to Europe as it really is, and not as a glorified Wisconsin. After the fire of the World War, after the whirlwind of the Jazz decade, after the earthquake of the economic depression cometh the still small voice of the spirit.—"Uncle Dudley," in the Boston Globe.

Would Seem This Horse Used His "Think Tank"

On the farm we once had a horse that developed the habit of getting out of the stable unassisted. After having been tied securely to the manger with a halter strap and with the stable door latched, he would free himself, and later we would find him prowling about the yard with the halter strap dangling loose from the halter. This occurred several times. One day I decided to find out how he accomplished this feat. Concealing myself in the stable I watched long and patiently, but to no avail. He was a sly old rogue and never attempted to free himself while I was there, probably having sensed my presence in the stable.

I tried again. This time I stealthily approached the stable from the outside and peered through a crack. We usually tied the halter strap in a half bow-knot, leaving the end of the strap hanging loose. Before long I saw the horse seize the end of the strap with his teeth and pull out the loop. Thus free, he walked around to the stable door where he fumbled with the latch until he slid it back, then walked out. Unknown to us he had probably watched us tie and untie the strap many times as well as latch and unlatch the door. And while such things as knots and latches present no problem to the human mind, they are so decidedly outside the province of a horse's mind, that it seemed a bit of clever equestrian thinking on his part to be able to extricate himself unassisted.—R. G. Sebring in "Our Dumb Animals."

Tax Racket in China Warlords of the province of Szechwan, in China, found when they discussed ways and means of filling their empty treasure chests that there was nothing left on which to impose new duties. Then one of them had a brainwave—why not a "friendship" tax? Now all civilians have been ordered to pay a new levy which will guarantee the friendship of the soldiery. They have been warned that if the "good feeling" tax is not paid cheerfully and promptly, "immunity from the enmity of the army cannot be promised."

Americans to Restore Mayan City of Copan

The ancient Mayan city of Copan, in western Honduras near the Guatemala border, will be restored to its former splendor, as far as architecture goes, in the near future. Work will begin at once, it was announced by Julius G. Lay, retiring United States minister to Honduras. The restoration will be made by the Carnegie Institution of Washington, cooperating with the government of Honduras.

Copan was one of the largest and most ancient cities of the Mayas, whose civilization was among the finest developed on the American continent before the coming of Columbus. It was a great center of American culture in the early years of the Christian era in the Old world. In it was found the famous astronomical stone which revealed that the Mayas had as great a knowledge of astronomy as any people in existence at that time. The city was abandoned to the jungle about 1,000 years ago, and lies well off the beaten track. Until about a year ago to reach it required a journey of two weeks by mule over the mountains. Now it is two hours by plane from Tegucigalpa.—Literary Digest.

COMPLETE LINES OF TRUCK TIRES FOR EVERY TRUCKING SERVICE AT LOWEST PRICES—GIVING LONG MILEAGE AND GREATEST ECONOMY

FIRESTONE pioneered the ship-by-truck movement in 1918, and ever since has consistently led in anticipating every requirement in the design and construction of truck and bus tires for every transportation condition. To accomplish this, Firestone has consistently followed the fundamental principle of its founder and active head, Harvey S. Firestone, "Always to find the way to build tires better than anyone else."

While there are many reasons why Firestone Tires are safer and more economical, there are two reasons that stand out above all others. One is Gum-Dipping; and the other is two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread.

By Gum-Dipping, every strand in every cord is soaked in liquid rubber, preventing friction—adding extra strength and long mileage. By having two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords placed between the tread and cord body, it is practical to use a tread with higher, more rugged shoulders and a deeper non-skid with flatter contour.

All this provides more rubber on the road, giving longer wear, greater traction and quicker stops. These two extra construction features are patented and used only in Firestone Tires. Take a forward step in maintaining schedules and reducing operating costs. Call on the Firestone Service Store or Firestone Service Dealer today.

Below the tires are the Firestone logos and descriptions: GROUND GRIP TYPE, OLDFIELD TYPE, and SENTINEL TYPE.

With Our Neighbors

Items of Interest Taken From Our Exchanges Which May Prove of Value to Our Readers

CITY PROPOSES PROJECTS

Cedarburg—With the passage of the four billion dollar work-relief bill virtually assured by Congress, three projects in this city may become a reality. Some months ago cities were asked to outline projects which would be helpful and useful under the work-relief plan Cedarburg submitted three major ones, as follows:

1. A high school gymnasium.
2. Eliminating crowns on all city streets.
3. Concrete basement and floor for engine house.

FREAK CHICK BORN

Lemira—A freak chicken hatched about 20 days ago at the White Belle Poultry farm here. It is creating considerable excitement in the chicken world. The freak chick is a White Leg, horn pullet and has three legs, two to the side and an extra one on the third leg. The third leg on the chick is grown directly out of the end of the spine and while not developing quite as fast as the other legs, is normal in every other way. It is hoped that the chicken will reach maturity as the hen may be capable of laying two eggs at one time.

SUFFERS BROKEN NECK

Hartford—Alex Wiedmeyer, young Nemo farmer, and his father-in-law, Peter Callen, of this city, were victims of an automobile collision late Sunday evening, March 24 in which the former sustained a broken neck and the latter various cuts and bruises. The accident happened on Highway 41, one and a half miles south of Addison Center when a truck coming from the north and traveling upon the wrong side of the road hit the car. Two other occupants of the car, Wiedmeyer's wife and hired man, Louis Kuebler were unharmed. Wiedmeyer, with a broken neck and badly hurt left eye did not regain consciousness the night and day following the accident.

FISHERMEN FINED

West Bend—Two hundred dollars fine or nine months in the county jail is the sentence imposed upon Ernst Wingerder and Leo Fless, both of the town of Richfield, for gill net fishing in Little Pines lake in that township last Saturday evening March 23. Due to the heavy fine that goes with gill net fishing the case was handled by Justice of the Peace Hayden on Monday noon, and the young men immediately pleaded guilty when brought before Judge Davison in circuit court. The catching of the illegal fishermen was due to the hard work of our game warden, R. J. Lake, who spent many hours on Saturday night writing for the culprits.

PLAN HOMECOMING

Campbellsport—Preparations are under way for a big Home Coming celebration and J-Hilfest on to take place in Campbellsport on Saturday and Sunday, June 29th and 30th of this year. There will be the arrival and welcoming of guests and former residents on Saturday, followed by games, contests and an afternoon and evening band concert on Sunday morning. A parade will take place and in the afternoon a tug-of-war between Ashford and Eden and Auburn and Osceola, following which the two winners will tug for the championship. The girl who sells the most tickets will be crowned "Queen of the Homecoming." Ed. M. Bauer is general chairman.

SHOT KILLS YOUNG MAN

West Bend—Elroy Poehlman 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Poehlman who reside a quarter of a mile east of Dheinsville in the town of German- town, was instantly killed at about 11:15 a. m. Thursday, Mar. 21, when a small .22 calibre rifle he was handling in his room in the Poehlman residence accidentally discharged. The bullet passed through the youth's head and came out of the back of his brain, just above the left ear. It is thought by members of the family that Elroy's inexperience in the use of firearms led to the accident. The shooting came about when Elroy quit work in the barn and left for the house with the intention, it is believed of getting the rifle to rid the premises of an obnoxious squirrel.

It has been demonstrated through Wisconsin D.H.L.A. work that cows ought to be selected for high production and fed for economical production. Economy in feeding consists in allowing a ration suited to the needs and capacity of cows. The average Wisconsin D.H.L.A. cow produces 2477 pounds more milk and 113 pounds more butterfat than the average Wisconsin cow.

Last Sunday afternoon at about 4 o'clock the alarm of fire was sounded by the tooting of the malt house whistle and within a few moments the fire apparatus was on its way to the malt house as fast as the firemen and other citizens could have it; when they arrived there they found that Simon Hoerig's barn on the corner of Fond du Lac avenue and Malt House street was in flames. The fire had gained such headway that no effort was made to save the barn building, but a strong stream of water which was supplied from the malt house was kept on the Hoerig saloon building, located only about ten feet away, and was in great danger for awhile, everybody believing that it would be destroyed.

The mail carrier from Campbellsport met with an accident here last week. The horse became unruly and upset the wagon, throwing the carrier out, whereby he received a slight cut on his head. He managed to hold the horse and avoided a runaway.—Wayne Correspondent.

Anglo-German Conversations Disappointing, Simon Reports; Hitler's Demands Include Return of Colonies, Air and Naval Parity, and Minimum Army of 500,000.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD, Western Newspaper Union.

FOREIGN SECRETARY SIMON returned to England from his historic talks with Chancellor Hitler, and reported to the cabinet that Germany is seeking return of the colonies she lost in the war and a greatly increased navy.

Simon

Hitler made a bold play for Anglo-German understanding, declaring both nations should unite to defend western civilization against Communism and the colored races.

First—Germany must have an army with a minimum of 36 divisions—500,000 men—as decreed.

Second—Germany wants parity in the air with Britain. Hitler admitted that Germany now possesses equality with Britain.

Third—Hitler wants a navy equal to one-third of the British fleet, which is tantamount to 400,000 tons.

Fourth—Germany wants return of her former colonies.

Fifth—Hitler refused to have anything to do with an eastern pact, though he is willing to enter nonaggression pacts with Germany's neighbors.

Sixth—Hitler is prepared to sign a pact of noninterference in the affairs of Austria, but only if it means noninterference by all powers.

In Berlin demonstrators howled their resentment at death sentences imposed by Lithuania on four Nazis, and only stout police resistance kept the mob from the Lithuanian delegation itself.

As Capt. Anthony Eden, British arms expert, begins his conferences with Soviet officials, observers believe the Russians will marshal every resource to convince Eden that the only safe course for the rest of the world is to induce sufficient pressure on Germany to bring her to accept the eastern security pact.

According to a Rome paper that usually speaks with authority, there will soon be held an Anglo-Franco-Italian conference to discuss the re-armament of Austria, Bulgaria, and Hungary.

CONSIDERABLY mutilated, the administration's $4,880,000,000 work relief bill finally got through the senate by a vote of 68 to 16, and was returned to the house later, to be adjusted in conference.

REPLACEMENT of the AAA's system of crop control is seen as a future potentiality of a new organization established at the Department of Agriculture under Rexford G. Tugwell.

HOUSE leaders are rushing action on the national defense program. Bills designed to strengthen the national defense are being rushed through the legislative hopper.

One of the efforts to specify the use of part of the huge work fund was given the approval of the flood control committee of the house. It is a bill to earmark $900,000,000 of the money for flood projects in all parts of the country, and under it about 400 projects which have been recommended by army engineers would be started.

HERBERT HOOVER suddenly projected himself into the political picture, and set wagging the tongues of countless politicians and observers. In a letter addressed to the California Republican assembly, meeting in Sacramento, the former President spoke his mind with utmost freedom concerning the doings of the Roosevelt administration whose theories, he asserted, "are no longer a propaganda mill; they are self-exposed."

JAPAN steps out of the League of Nations and flanked by her single avowed ally, Manchukuo, she faces the world as the self-chosen preserver of peace in the Orient.

MUSSOLINI'S answer to the latest note on the Abyssinian situation postpones approval of the proposal that differences be decided by an international commission on conciliations at least until the futility of direct negotiations has been proved.

MOVING swiftly, Marshal Josef Pilsudski inaugurated a virtual Fascist dictatorship over Poland. A new constitution drafted on semi-Fascist lines was adopted and the cabinet headed by Premier Kozlowski stripped of its power.

PAY of railroad union men has been restored to the 1931 level, with a return of the last 5 per cent of a 10 per cent cut in 1932. The increase amounts to approximately $80,000,000. The restoration is in line with an agreement reached a year ago when the unions negotiated for a gradual restoration of the old wage scale.

HOUSE leaders are rushing action on the national defense program. Bills designed to strengthen the national defense are being rushed through the legislative hopper.

FEDERAL expenditures are soaring faster than ever before in peace time history. The end of the first nine months of the fiscal year disclosed expenditures of more than $3,000,000,000. Revenue meanwhile has amounted to only $2,527,000,000, or a little more than half of what was spent.

Washington Digest

National Topics Interpreted by William Bruckart, Washington, D. C.

Washington—The President has placed Donald R. Richberg, his closest adviser in the job as head of the National Recovery Administration. Mr. Richberg will be chairman of the National Industrial Recovery board which has now been enlarged to the number of seven, and it is proposed that this group, divided between labor and capital representation, will guide the policies and programs as well as the enforcement of NRA.

It will be remembered that the formation of the board formed by the South Carolina Bill was announced by Mr. Stephenson, being a statement about politics than an announcement unequivocally that the bill was going to be passed on a political basis. He created a new and finally found himself a member of the board.

Indeed, color is lent to this suggestion by the fact that Mr. Roosevelt has taken little direct interest in promoting legislation extending the life of NRA. Thus far he has said that he desired to have the extension granted, but he has not turned on the steam as he is equipped to do, and as he has done for bills that were personal hobbies with him.

While we are discussing legislation, it may be well to consider what is being done about the program of extending credit to home owners in cities and towns through the machinery of the home loan board.

As the legislation increasing the lending power of the Home Owners Loan corporation has progressed, however, I have taken occasion to consider the operations of the corporation in its wholly government-owned form. I can learn it stands as the finest illustration of what can be done in the way of mechanical machines that I have seen in the score of years in the National Recovery Administration.

Hawaii Seeks Admission to Sisterhood of States

By WILLIAM C. UTLEY

Now just what would you do with another star in the American flag? Forty-eight is a nice, even number, all full of multiples; 48 white stars look mighty pleasing and regular, placed on their field of blue in a rectangle of six rows down and eight across, as you find them on Old Glory today.

The islands have little mineral wealth, so the principal industry is agriculture. The sugar crop is annually worth more than $75,000,000 and the pineapples $35,000,000.

Civilization has developed to a high degree. Steam railroads run on regular schedules on all the eight islands. There are street cars in Honolulu. Schools are excellent; in fact, it is in Hawaiian schools that early California settlers sent their children to be educated. Education is compulsory. The University of Hawaii compares with many on the mainland.

Hawaii and Texas are the only parts of the United States that have come into the Union by annexation. No purchase or conquest was involved. Hawaii's people are of the feeling today that their territory has grown to a point which justifies its statehood; Americans in the states are perhaps inclined to feel the islands so remote from them that they care little.

Yet a woman has flown from Hawaii to California in only a few hours; there is even now regular air mail service between the states and the islands.

Hawaiians point out that their population is double that of Texas when Texas entered the Union; the states are apt to retort that some two-thirds of Hawaii's population is not of the white race, that one-third of it is of Japanese descent.

hood was of little consequence to Hawaiians until the Jones-Costigan bill made them feel that they were being subjected to the whim and will of congress. Champions of statehood see the increasing of the Cuban sugar quota at Hawaii's expense much as a Milwaukeean might see a similar law restricting enormously the production of cheese in Wisconsin so that American purchases of Holland cheese could be increased. Hawaii wants statehood for the protection of her agricultural interests, in which hundreds of millions of dollars are invested.

Race Problem Misunderstood. Hawaiian citizens claim that mainlanders misunderstand her problem of race. Hawaii, they say, is not, as many persons in continental United States believe, over-run with alien orientals who are nonassimilable into western culture and modes of thought, and who would, in the event of statehood, control the politics and government through a tendency to vote according to racial blocs.

There is fear sometimes expressed that in the event of war, the Americans of alien descent in Hawaii would constitute an anti-American group in an American community. Logically, the Hawaiians claim, this criticism would hold as true of Hawaii the territory as of Hawaii the state. There are more persons of Japanese descent than any other; Americans and other whites, Hawaiians and part-Hawaiians are about equal to each other in number. There is also a large number of Filipinos.

Delegate King answered the racial argument in a recent address as follows:

"To those who are concerned about our racial set-up, let me say that no unprejudiced person doubts for a moment the loyalty of our citizens of

PATTERN 2159

In spite of its very definite air of chic, this is the sort of dress that an experienced seamstress can run up in an hour or so—and even a beginner really should take no longer than a day to finish it. Just to show you how very simple it is, we've given you a little sketch of how the frock will look before you sew up the side seams. See—there are only four pieces to the whole body of the dress, and the sleeves and shoulders are cut in one, which does away with the setting-in of sleeves! Make it of any pretty inexpensive cotton material—use gay buttons—you'll be sure to pat yourself on the back when you see the result!

Pattern 2159 is available in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46. Size 16 takes 3 1/2 yards 36 inch fabric. Illustrated with step-by-step sewing instructions included. Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. "Look at the pear tree, Gail!"

"Doesn't it just take your breath away?" They shut the door and went upstairs. Gail saying of the unmade beds, "Let's flap 'em."

Edith's face clouded a little. She hated compromise and slovenliness; she hated the hard conditions of her life that made some truces with them necessary. The clock on the landing struck once, for the half hour after eight; she was due at the department store, and Gail at the library, at nine.

"We'll have to," she conceded briefly, sighing. "I'll bet you they flap 'em in the most expensive hotels!" Gail stated dauntlessly.

"I shouldn't have worn my office dress to breakfast," the older sister observed, glancing at her cuffs. She got a bottle of some cleaning extract, and began to dabble at spots.

"Egg!" she said disgustedly. Her glance approved of Edith. "That looks better on you than it ever did on Mary Tevis," she observed.

Edith studied herself in the mirror dispassionately. "I never would have gotten it," she said. "I don't like dots. But it certainly has come in usefully."

"The worst of Mary Tevis is, she'll give you a bunch of things one time, and then forget you for seven years!" Gail, having made herself comparatively presentable, said briskly, "Now, when I'm rich, I shall have a list of girls—D-n such a shoe lace!"

"ABigail, you ought not to say that. You'll get Ariel saying it." Gail mended her lace, looked up with a flushed face.

"Didn't you think Ariel was beautiful at breakfast, Edie?" "Oh, yes, she really is."

"Do you think—this may all be my imagination—but do you think she's interested in boys, already?"

Their eyes flashed together consciously. "Oh, yes, I know she is!" Edith answered unhesitatingly.

"She's only seventeen!" "Well," said Edith, who combined a recluse's sensitiveness and temperament with an occasional flash of daring. "I was fond of the boys at sixteen."

Edith, pretty as she was, had never had a beau, and Gail knew it. But it was the unwritten law of sisterhood not to say so.

Gail merely said perfunctorily, "Oh, well, yes, so was I! But, Edith, there seems to be something—different, in the way Ariel is."

The younger sister's quick keen gaze was lifted; Edith's serious look met Gail's consciously.

"Secretive," she offered. "Well! Well, yes," Gail answered on a nervous laugh.

"Ariel will get married before either one of us, because we happen to be a little more particular!" Edith pronounced, with her little air of old-maidish snobbery. When Edith said things like that it vaguely irritated Gail.

She left Edith at Montalvo boulevard, and turned up the Calle to the Plaza, where the library stood.

"Heavenly day!" Gail said to Francis Wilcox, the librarian.

"I wish she wouldn't talk that way!" Gail thought, suddenly hot, irritable, and discouraged.

She felt more weary and discouraged as she went on her way. The long afternoon in the library dragged. She felt bored. A sense of injustice oppressed her. Twenty-three—and she might just as well have been fifty-three.

Worship the Buffalo

Experienced and hardened world travelers not infrequently giggle themselves into a state of hysterics when they get around to visiting the Todas of India, says the Detroit News. In cone-shaped temples the Todas bow down and worship the buffalo. The notion that the buffalo is sacred is only one of their many ideas. Among the Todas woman occupies a very inferior position among meeting men greets him by touching his feet with her forehead. On the other hand, for several brothers to share the same woman.

Nitroglycerin

Nitroglycerin is a highly powerful explosive. It probably would shatter the breech of the gun before the bullet could move out of the barrel. In addition, nitroglycerin is too sensitive to stand ordinary handling, as it is detonated by very slight shocks.

this bill increases American purchase of sugar from Cuba at the expense of Hawaii. The law could hardly have been passed were Hawaii a state.

With virtually every inhabitant of the Pacific paradise cheering for him, Samuel Wilder King, the island delegate to congress, has introduced a bill in the present session petitioning that body of very busy ladies and gentlemen to let the people of Hawaii organize a state government.

An Interesting State

And what an interesting state Hawaii would be! It would be the only state where pineapple is one of the principal products; the only state with an active volcano; the only state with its own, distinctive native race of people, and the only state inaccessible by railroad or motor car. It boasts some of the most beautiful resorts in the whole world; and it has a leper colony. Its government and customs are as American as a model-T Ford; and more than a third of its population is of Japanese descent. Land of the hula-hula and the ukelele, Hawaii boasts also some fine schools and great industries.

The islands, which stretch out for nearly 400 miles, 2,100 miles southwest of San Francisco, were discovered in 1555 by a sailor named Juan Gaetano. They were promptly forgotten, but were rediscovered by Capt. James Cook in 1778.

The Hawaiian Islands first became united under one strong, central government in 1795, when the native King Kamehameha conquered Maui and Oahu. John Jacob Astor visited the islands in the interest of trade in 1811, and France, England and the United States traded considerably with the people of the islands during the following years. The predominating influence since that time has always been American.

The last remains of the monarchy were completely overthrown in 1893, and the Hawaiians set up a provincial government with S. B. Dole as governor. Dole negotiated an annexation treaty with President Harrison, but the treaty was later withdrawn by President Cleveland. It was finally admitted by McKinley in 1898, and in 1900 a territorial government was set up with Dole as governor. The present governor is Joseph B. Poindexter, appointed by the President.

Centralization has been the trend of Hawaiian government all along. In the present session of the territorial legislature serious consideration is being given the proposal for consolidation of the two legislative houses.

Hawaiians are proud of their climate; it is said that no temperature has ever been recorded below 56 or about 88 in Honolulu. Even prouder are the Hawaiians of their patriotism. During the World War, Hawaii exceeded its quota on every Liberty and Victory loan. Enlistments were so heavy that the territory was exempted from the first draft.

Delay in realizing the dream of statehood was of little consequence to Hawaiians until the Jones-Costigan bill made them feel that they were being subjected to the whim and will of congress. Champions of statehood see the increasing of the Cuban sugar quota at Hawaii's expense much as a Milwaukeean might see a similar law restricting enormously the production of cheese in Wisconsin so that American purchases of Holland cheese could be increased. Hawaii wants statehood for the protection of her agricultural interests, in which hundreds of millions of dollars are invested.

Alsation Wolf Dog Does Not Welcome Strangers

The Alsation Wolf Dog, whose breeding is considered to approximate to that of the Eskimo dog, has been subjected to much exaggerated criticism, writes an authority in Answer's Magazine. Because he is a super-guard, he has been called savage; because he has no friendliness for strangers, he has been dubbed treacherous. Yet an unshakable sense of duty when on guard and a suspicion of strangers are surely the first duties of a dog in relation to his master. If you desire an animal that will wag his tail at all comers, avoid the Alsation! But for intelligence, strength, vigilance, reliability in an allotted task, the wolf-guard dog is hard to beat. Wolf-dog crosses occurred centuries ago; but it was not until 1887 that the systematic crossing of wolves and dogs resulted in a new breed of German shepherd. Lady Kitty Ritson, than whom there is no better authority, is definite that since that year there has been no new introduction of wolf blood into this breed, either here or abroad; and this view may be accepted as conclusive. Apart from his strongly individualistic mentality, the Alsation's most striking characteristic is his long loping gait.

Another Reminder

Jud Tunkins says lives of great men all remind us that politics can make a man more ridiculous than sublime.
