

Something NEW...
Worth a Trip to Town to See

The New McCORMICK-DEERING
1 1/2 to 2 1/2 h. p. ENGINE

THIS NEW COMPACT MODEL we offer you an all-star engine for all farm work. It has a variable power rating and is qualified to do its full share of work in each power class, spreading its great usefulness over a wide range of duty. It is a quality engine throughout... featuring high-tension Wico magneto, variable-speed throttle governor, suction feed, efficient air cleaner (extra), replaceable bearings, fully automatic lubrication, and enclosed operating parts. All parts are well guarded against rain, sleet, snow, and dust, making the McCormick-Deering an ideal engine for outdoor as well as indoor operation. Its small over-all dimensions and light weight enable you to place this engine in out-of-the-way corners and to transport it easily from job to job.

Bedtime Story for Children

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

DANNY SHAKES MORE THAN EVER

DANNY MEADOW MOUSE was trapped. He was trapped, but not caught, which sounds rather mixed and isn't at all. You see he was trapped because Billy Mink was waiting for him just outside the only doorway to that hollow log in which he was hiding. But he wasn't caught because the doorway was too small for Billy Mink to get through and Billy couldn't reach him, despite all his efforts.

"You'll Have to Come Out Some Time and I'm Going to Stay Right Here and Wait for You," Declared Billy Mink.

wait for you," declared Billy Mink. "You may just as well come out now as to keep me waiting, because you are going to be caught anyway and I am going to catch you."

Danny didn't say a word. He held his tongue, which was the wisest thing he could do. It usually is wise to hold one's tongue. But I suspect that it was fear more than wisdom which caused Danny to hold his tongue. You see, poor Danny was shaking all over with fear. He knew that for the time being he was safe, but he also felt sure that if Billy Mink kept his word and watched just outside that doorway he would either starve to death inside that hollow log or furnish Billy Mink a good meal. Danny couldn't decide which end would be the worst and the more he thought it over the more he shivered and shook. Either end was dreadful. The fact is Danny Meadow Mouse was so frightened that he wasn't using his usually lively wits at all. It never once entered his head that if Billy Mink waited long enough for him to starve, Billy would himself be likely to starve, and that is something Billy would be the very last person in the Great World to do. Billy is altogether too active to be patient.

But Danny was too frightened to think of this and so he crouched shivering and shaking, as miserable a Meadow Mouse as ever lived. "I ought to have remembered Billy Mink's wonderful nose and that if he once found my trail he would follow me straight here," thought Danny. "I ought to have waded in the water after crossing the Laughing Brook and so broken my trail. I ought to have found a hiding place with more than one entrance. I ought—but what's the use of thinking the things I ought to have done and didn't do? There isn't any. There isn't any at all."

That was quite true. When it is too late there seldom is any use in thinking of what should or should not have been done. But because there seemed to him nothing else to think about, Danny Meadow Mouse continued to think about his mistakes and to shiver and shake with fear. And outside Billy Mink grinned and licked his lips and tried to think of some way to make Danny Meadow Mouse come out of that hollow log.

QUESTION BOX

by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn:

There is a very rich man in our town who goes horse back riding every day, but he only wears one spur and swears that always on the foot which is on his right foot. Can you tell me why he only wears one spur and that one always on the right foot?

Yours truly,
E. QUINE.

Answer: He probably is an efficiency expert and figures if he can get the right side of the horse to start the left side will start, too.

Yours truly,
ANN GLOE SAXON.

Answer: He thinks the ocean is an angry because it has been crossed so often.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I don't know what to do, so am asking you to help me. I hate to see my husband intoxicated. I sit up for him every night and he always comes home drunk. Gee, how I hate to see him when he comes home! What can I do?

Sincerely,
POLLY ANNAH.

Answer: Don't sit up for him any more.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I am a woman thirty-four years of age and weigh 196 pounds. I want to reduce, so I went to a doctor who told me to take 20 rolls after breakfast. I started in today but after 1 ate 12 rolls I felt uncomfortable. Can you suggest some other recipe?

Yours sincerely,
IMA SITE.

Answer: Try twenty turn-overs.

MOTHER'S COOK BOOK

KITCHEN SHORT CUTS

THERE are so many culinary operations needlessly repeated day after day in numberless homes, making gravies, mixing pastry for pies, cheese sticks and tarts, all at different times, when one process would make all three.

One of the daily tasks in most homes at the dinner hour is the making of gravies. The French word roux covers the base or thickening of gravies. There is white roux and brown which is simply white flour browned.

A hurriedly made sauce or gravy is apt to be served undercooked. By preparing the roux beforehand and keeping a surplus on hand, time is saved. For the white roux melt one-half cup of shortening in a heavy frying pan, add three-fourths of a cup of flour and cook slowly, stirring constantly until it is thoroughly blended and well cooked. Remove from the fire and store in a cool place until needed.

For thickening soups, white sauce, creamed chicken or vegetables, use one to two tablespoons of the roux to each cup of liquid, according to the thickness desired. To make brown roux, use the same proportions of fat and flour, but stir and cook until thick, smooth and brown, using care not to scorch. This, too, may be stored and used as thickening for meat gravies, mushroom sauce, stews and highly seasoned dishes.

A french dressing much liked and one which will keep two weeks in the ice chest is prepared as follows: Chop one small southern onion, two table-spoons each of red and green pepper, one tablespoon each of celery and parsley, a teaspoon of sugar and salt and cayenne to taste, with the vinegar and oil in proportion of one to three or four. Add two tablespoons of the piquant french dressing to the mayonnaise when serving. Hard-cooked eggs may be added, but should not be put into the dressing until ready to use.

Contain 100 Fireplaces
The English houses of parliament contain about 100 fireplaces.

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes
By JEAN NEWTON
THE ANSWER IS IN KNOWING PEOPLE BETTER
"WHY can't people really be what they seem at first sight?" So asks a reader, who, I gather, is one of our younger friends. "You meet people," she writes, "who seem perfectly charming. You feel you have much in common with them and would like to know them better. Then you get to know them. You invite them to your house perhaps, or you visit at theirs. They still seem charming. Then you get to know them better. And then you begin to discover their faults. And the woman turns out to be a cat, or perhaps just jealous because your husband is nicer to you than hers is to her. Or it develops that they are the kind who cultivate people to 'use' them. Perhaps he sells insurance—or stocks. "Or you may discover that they brag; or are curious; or greedy; or not sincere. "Why, oh why do people have to disillusion you just when you are beginning to like them awfully? And what's the answer—is it to drop friends who disappoint you for others who are sure to do the same thing when you know them better?" Again I say our reader must be young. Because only the young expect perfection of anyone. And she is so patently one of those spirited souls who likes so terribly when they do like, that they expect far too much. And the answer? The answer is not to drop these people who have developed faults. No, indeed. The answer is to know them better. For when you know them better you are very likely to learn to understand their faults, and they are very likely to reveal new virtues and fitnesses and charms which will counterbalance those faults. © Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

Smart Daytime Fashions of Lace

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A LACE epidemic is raging throughout the realm of fashion. You couldn't escape wearing lace if you would and you wouldn't if you could, not after you have seen the charming, smart and flattering apparel designers are creating of lace this season.

The idea of lace used in a fabric way has been welcomed by designers as a new avenue of expression for their talents. The outstanding gesture of the moment is the shirtwaist dress which is tailored of fabriclike lace. It is smart in navy and other dark colors and it is adorable in the new pastels. We predict that the new season will not be far spent ere the majority of us will be going about in these flattering lace shirtwaist fashions. For a summer of travel and week-end visits a lace shirtwaist is ideal, for it packs without creasing or wrinkling and it looks smart wherever one goes in the daytime.

Lace has been shown in beautiful striking creations at every Paris collection this season and our own American designers are equally as enthusiastic and exciting in their use of it. While lace is fashionable for every hour of the twenty-four, the big news about lace is its acceptance as a medium for practical daytime clothes.

One of the most distinctive daytime lace costumes of the Paris season is shown to the right in the illustration. It is a Martial et Armand creation in answer to the call for an ensemble that would be appropriate for the races without having to resort to a formal full-length gown. A beautiful pattern of erud in cotton lace was selected to pose over; black silk. Both the dress and jacket are made of this combination of black all-silk crepe and lace. The black crepe is used also for the belt which ties like a sash.

While the all-lace theme is vastly important, it is not any more so than is that of lace used in a trimming way. Lace edgings and trimmings cannot be left out even in tailored things. For instance Dikusha tailors a blouse (pictured to the left) of navy blue linen using narrow white val lace on the sleeves and the cuffs and in rows up and down the front. In fact, all of the French designers are making voluminous use of val lace for trimming this season.

Speaking of lace sports fashions, you will be wanting one of the new jacket-wraps made of cotton lace in the color you like best. They are to be worn over your linen and pique frocks this summer.

GRAY IS MODISH

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Among best dressed followers of fashion gray is proving a favorite. Gray woollens fashioned into coats, suits and tailored street dresses make special appeal. The gray woollen dress here pictured is typical of the sort of costumes worn by the smart set.

The stunning cape is lined with red woolen and is detachable, in that it buttons on to the sleeves.

Smart Sport Suits
Little tailored jackets with detail of pleats and fullness at the back in men's suiting, flannel or gabardine worn with odd skirts will constitute smart sports suits this spring.

Wrist Ruffles
Wrist ruffles are flaunting their graceful folds on some of the new and dressier blouses. They usually occur with jabots or ruffled collars.

Suggestions Gathered in Style Centers

The vogue for nautical design is reflected in costume jewelry. Evening suits continue to be spotlighted in the sartorial scene. Mutton-leg sleeves for evening dresses are being shown in Paris. Flower trimmings for both afternoon and evening costumes is accentuated. The sheerest possible black hose are suggested for evening wear with black or very dark shades.

Capelets for evening are numerous and tremendously varied. The two-color note has been taken up by milliners and hatters. Small waists are coming back into favor, aided by the new corsets. The veil flutters in all directions from the newest millinery creations. Although it's a big year for tweeds, the newest note is smooth-surface woollens.

Thankless Jobs Given to Women

Sex Over-Willing to Such Positions, We Think.

"Did you see this job that the mayor of a South American city gave to a woman? It was too tough for her. It's about time for women to get the fact that there are women who can do better than the men. Peculiarly feminine quality women better than men cope with certain types of work. Comment made by a woman, to whose attention this job was called, is not altogether surprising to her sex. She remarks: 'It would be nice to be in the territory of the woman who is the mayor of the city because of her ability to do her work which men find difficult. But it strikes me as more likely that no man could do the job.'"

Judging by the news which speaks of the various jobs which the mayor has assigned, it is not surprising that the mayor of Calera is one of the most thankless jobs. Women are given the most thankless jobs, and given as the motto to the frame. "And it seems that there's very little in the some exceptions, of course, first thing that men want to do, because men have the support. But women are taking jobs with nothing but just for some silly idea they can do some good."

"And, last but not least, the mayor of Calera, it is a job without much action or glory. The work is dramatic qualities than the self-effacement and patience most any wife and mother of an expert along those lines. "No, dear reader, happy at all times to give a woman's hats, my guess is that it's not because the man of that little city were the incompetent to hold their jobs that it was given to a woman because no man wanted to do why she's the man for the job." © Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.
