SYNOPSIS

The luck that brought the Boston Lawrences to California at the begin-ning of the gold rush has deserted the present generation. From a 4,000-acre small farm, and the old family home in Clippersville. Phil, now twenty-five, has gone into the iron works, Gail to the public library and Edith to the book department of Clippersville's largest store. Sam is in school, and seven-teen-year-old Ariel is becoming a problem. Phil is fascinated by "that terri-ble" Lily Cass, whose husband has deserted her. Young Van Murchison, scion of a wealthy family, returns from Yale, and Gail has visions, through marriage with him, of the turning of the Lawrence luck. Dick Stebbins, Phil's best friend, has the run of the house. Ariel is sneaking out of the house at night for joy rides. Phil suggests, to his sisters" consternation, that they invite Lily Cass to the house. Gail goes with Van for a week-end with the Chipps, his uncle and aunt. She is received coldly by Mrs. Chipps and her guests. At a roadhouse Gail sees a raccoon-coated man helping Ariel into a roadster. Ariel admits she was at the night, and displays no replace, at night, and displays no re-morse. Gail is gloomy as she considers the family's outlook.

Best of all had been the morning after a dance, when, waking in the big hotel on the hilltop, Gail had breakfasted in pajamas—the silk pajamas Edith had won when she won the Hope Chest at the Catholic fair

After breakfast the party had split and scattered, Gail going off with Van in the roadster.

They had gone to the Cliff house and apostrophized the seals that were barking harshly on the rocks behind the drifts of fog; they had had tintypes taken on the board walk, and had tried all the swings and chutes. They had come downtown again and lunched on a roof above old Chinatown; hearing the cars honking in the streets below and the fishmen crying their wares. They had bought ginger and li-chee nuts, had lingered long at the theater doorway, studying the cheap little photographs, bursting into fresh laughter as they pretended to translate the hieroglyphics to one an-

An idiot-yes, but Van was a most lovable idiot, the ideal idiot with whom to spend a silly day like this, when one's senses were still dreamy and dulled with the excitement of a gala night, and when one had him to oneself-not showing off, not given any chance to be drawn away, innocently to hurt one's feelings This day in Chinatown was one to be marked with a white stone for Gail.

At four they had known they must two hours to drive to Clippersville; Gail had not dared prolong the fun too far. Van had landed her safely at her own gate at six o'clock, and she had gone into the dim old brooding house, that was close and dark tonight, with a sudden realization of the limitations of the place-the stupidness of home.

"I've had the best time I ever had in my life!" she could tell them over and over again, exhausted by sheer felicity. She told them the jokes, the situations, the events, in an inconsequential jumble. Edith had listened eagerly, sympathetically; Phil was not at home. Ariel had listened, too, but with a difference.

"Ariel had an experience last night. She went out for a casual drive with the Camps after the movie," Edith had said, "and they broke a spring, and it was nearly midnight when she got in! Phil and I were terribly frightened." Gail's eyes and Ariel's had flashed together. But even when they were alone Ariel had not been communica-"You run your affairs and let me run mine!" she had said, not rudely, very simply.

"But it wasn't a broken spring,

"I say it was." Gail had been too anxious to get back to her own dreams and memo ries to worry, even about Ariel.

The day had had its marvelous mo ment. It had come at four o'clock, when she and Van, laughing over the purchase of dragons, bowls, candlesticks, and charms in the sandal-scented, opium-scented interior of a dark little Chinatown shop, had been reluctantly forced to a consideration of the flying time. "Yep, that's so, we can't stay in town-we ain't married yet!" Van had said, with his wild laugh. It wasn't much. But it was enough for her to remember happily now; it showed that he did think of it, that it was in his mind.

"We ain't married yet!" It would have been a little better if he had ear. not put it in the vernacular. Still . . .

She went to sleep dreaming of the newspapers of a few years hence. Her heart was very tender toward Van tonight. He had been a charming companion today, this big tweed-clad man with the well-filled wallet and the shining open car. Gail liked the memory of his smiling lean face grinning at there." her. She liked his clothes, his speech; she liked his references to places and things that belonged to a world of leisure and luxury that she did not know. Almost every week-end was spent at the ranch in Los Gatos now, and between the Mondays and Fridays Gail lived in but a dreamy half-consciousness of what went on at home. The women of Van's set had taken her up, and when the Chipps were back at home, as they frequently were in midweek, Mary Spence or Lucia would come to Clippersville to stay with Lenore, and they would all straggle into the library during the dull forenoons to report their shopping expeditions, or to try to coax Gail to come off with them to a country club lunch- | sober him. "She's a divorced woman,

Life, at this accelerated pace, fairly burned her up. The new pleasures enchanted her, but never satisfied, leaving her always straining for more; which indeed was the position of them all-Lenore, Mary, Van, Fred, to say nothing of their elders. They went everywhere, anywhere, they did anything and everything that might promise fun. Breakfast on the Maccleishes' yacht, for example; life on the Maccleishes' yacht had nothing to do with sailing or the water. The yacht might as well have been moored ten feet underground in a coal mine, for all its gay party ever saw of the sea. Yet there was something distinguished about being asked to spend a weekend on a real yacht!

The glory spread far ahead of it, and far behind it. Gail saw her name in the Clippersville Challenge more than once during this amazing summer, listed among the guests at affairs whose distinction a few months back was beyond her wildest dreams.

She had a feverish feeling some times of having lost Edith, lost Phil and Sam and Ariel, lost touch with her work at the library and her duties at home-one could not live two lives, after all, and Van's very exactions were a delight, an answer to her wild young ardent prayers of last spring. Nothing mattered but that she should please him, should keep close to him. She grew wittier, quicker, gayer as the weeks went by; their talk together was merely a quick cross-fire of repar-

One night in late August she and Van walked home from a movie in Clippersville. The night was insufferably hot, and the audience was glad enough to straggle out into the black darkness of the Calle, where the air was some degrees cooler.

"Whew! That was frightful," Gail breathed, turning her bared head up to the stars, shaking back her tawny

"This is a snorter!" Van commented. 'Los Gatos tomorrow, hey? And into

The moon had not yet risen, but there was an odd light in the world, at nine o'clock; whitewashed surfaces and the adobe walls of the oldest buildings wore an odd pale glimmer of white. The upper branches of the great trees over the Calle rustled wearily in a hot wind.

"Maybe we'll go over to the beach Sunday," Van said.

"I wish we were there now!" "Take you in a minute!" he offered eagerly. The girl laughed.

"A hundred miles," she said drily. "And we'd get so hot going over, and wouldn't gain much.'

"Ice cream at Dobbins'?" he sug-"Kind of mussy." But she turned

"Your brother Phil was!" "Yes. 'Way over in the corner, in one of the twosomes."

"Why didn't we yell at him?" Van asked simply. She had to have sympathy; she had to test him. With a sudden letting down of the bars she said, "Because his girl was with him."

"And don't you like her?" Van demanded, with his delighted air of discovering something amusing.

"I despise her!" Gail answered som-"Not really!" he exclaimed ecstat-lighted by the moon. "Phil's marrying would simply wreck our home," she said, reverting to the topic deliberately, desperately. "Oh, forget it! He won't marry her."

Van assured her easily. "I think," she began, a little thickly "I think what worries me is Ariel. She's proud, she's so sensitive-"

Gail said patiently, "She's only seventeen-she won't be eighteen until next Christmas.' "That wasn't no hindrance to the

"I'll come for you early tomorrow," Van presently said, "How's nine o'clock? That gets us to the ranch at noon, easy."

The girl felt cold, unresponsive, heavy.

They were standing close together at the old fence rail: he might easily have put his arm about her. But he never attempted that sort of thing; Gail wondered sometimes if it were some queer lack in her that prevented him, or some missing quality in him.

Going into the house she determined that she would not go down to Los Gatos at all tomorrow, and felt a great relief in the thought. If they wanted her they could make a special overture next week.

She wandered away to her own room, returned in pajamas, brushing her thick mop of tawny-gold hair. "Phil was at Dobbins' tonight," she said suddenly, "with Lily."

Edith opened her lips to speak, made no sound. They stared at each other. "He wasn't!" Edith whispered after awhile.

"He was." "At Dobbins!"

"Oh, Gail!" Edith wailed. "I know. It's awful."

Witness Trees

When Michigan's land surveys were made from 80 to 100 years ago, surveyors marked the exact location of section corners with square wood stakes. This location was "witnessed" by trees which were blazed and marked with their distance and bearing with reference to the corner recorded in the surveyor's notes. With the passage of years, the square stakes have disappeared, but in spite of lumbering and forest fires, many witness trees still can be found. In many cases, burned-out stump holes of the witness trees are all that remain. In remnants of virgin timber stands or in swamps where fires did not penetrate, the markings of witness trees have been perfectly preserved by the new growth of the trees which has closed over them.

CHICK SEXING IS NO FAD, MYSTERY

Plan May Be Costly to Most Farm Flock Owners.

By H. H. Alp, Poultry Specialist, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.—WNU

"Sexing" baby chicks, the latest innovation in modern poultry raising, is no longer a fad or a mystery, but it may be of limited value to the general run of farm flock owners. Interest in the question is at the peak when the baby chick season is at its height.

Buying sexed chickens so as to get only pullets and no cockerels may be justified in certain instances. On the other hand the flock owner should weigh the increased initial cost of the chicks, the heavier losses from mortality as a result of the higher cost of the chicks and the loss of income from the sale of cockerels.

How cockerels help reduce the cost of raising pullets is shown in the 1934 records from 37 Illinois poultry flocks whose owners kept records in co-operation with the college. Most of these flocks were Leghorn. For every pullet placed in the laying flock in the fall, there was an income of 40 cents from the sale of cockerels. Thus the cockerels on these farms reduce the cost of raising each pullet 40 cents.

Mortality loss is another factor which weighs heavily in deciding whether or not to buy sexed chicks. In many instances chick mortality runs as high as 20 per cent. In a cockere! pullet flock this is not extremely serious. However, a 20 per cent death loss in a flock composed entirely of pullets would be much more serious because pullets usually are valued higher than

There is no mystery or secret about chick sexing. It is merely the turning out of the vent of newly hatched chicks for the purpose of looking for a small prominence smaller than the head of an ordinary pin which is located at the edge of the vent. Any well-defined prominence is a fairly accurate sign of a male chick. This method or technique of making this examination varies somewhat, but it takes considerable practice to do the work accurately, quickly and without harm to the chicks.

Ground Cobs Are Popular

for Brooder House Litter Ground corn cobs have become quite popular as a litter in brooder houses for chicks the past few years, reports John Vandervort, poultry extension specialist of the Pennsylvania State

Grinding the cobs into pieces from one-quarter to one-half inch in size is recommended. This litter, just as all litters, should be stirred every other so that the droppings will work to the bottom. It is also important that this material be covered with papers or bags the first few days.

Some other litters commonly used are shavings, peat moss, cut straw, sugar cane, peanut shells, dried sawdust and hay chaff. The materials should be free from dust, must and molds and should be changed as often as necessary to keep the house clean and dry. Each poultryman should decide which is the best material for him to use, considering cost, sanitation and labor necessary in cleaning.

Off-Colored Poults

In the best of Bronze turkey flocks, a few light-colored, or slate colored poults occur each year. There has been much speculation among turkey breeders as to the cause of this variation. It can scarcely be due to atavism because White or Slate turkeys have not been used in the make-up of the Bronze breed, the Bronze having been derived from the wild turkey, and the White and Slate in turn established from sports of the Bronze, Many breeders believe that they are the result of an intensive breeding for color and it is alleged that where they are used as breeders their offspring usually are of better color than those from the better colored breeders .- Missour! PROTECT YOUR LIFE AND THE LIVES OF OTHERS!

THERE are three questions you should ask yourself about the tires you buy: 1-"Will the non-skid tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

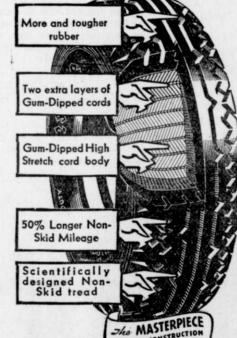

2-"Are they built to give me the greatest blowout protection?" 3-"Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

Answer No. 1-Harvey S. Firestone early realized the value of tire traction and safety and was the first to design an All Rubber Non-Skid Tire. Through the years Firestone has led the way in the design and development of tires with most effective non-skid treads. Firestone does not depend solely on traction and non-skid tests made by its own engineers - it employs a leading University to make impartial tests for non-skid efficiency of its tires, and their most recent report shows that Firestone High Speed Tires stop the car 15% quicker than the best of all popular makes of tires. Answer No. 2 - Blowout protection must be built into a tire. Friction and heat within the tire is the greatest cause of blowouts. Firestone protects its tires from friction and heat by a patented process which soaks every cord and insulates every strand with pure liquid rubber. This is an additional process known as Gum-Dipping, by which every 100 pounds of cotton cords absorb eight pounds of rubber. This extra process costs more and is not used in any other make of tire. Leading race drivers investigate the inbuilt qualities of the tires they use, because their very lives depend upon their tires, and they always select Firestone Tires for their daring speed runs. In fact, Firestone Tires have been on the winning cars in the gruelling Indianapolis 500-mile race for fifteen consecutive years, and they were on the 5000-pound car that Ab Jenkins drove 3,000 miles in 23½ hours on the hot salt beds at Lake Bonneville, Utah, at an average speed of 127.2 miles per hour, without tire trouble of any kind. These amazing performance records are proof of the greatest blowout

GERMANY AND PEACE By RAMSAY MacDONALD Prime Minister of Great Britain

ERMANY has acted in such J a way as to destroy the feeling of mutual confidence in Europe. It has broken up the road to peace and beset it with terrors. It claims a measure of armed power which puts most of the nations of Europe at its mercy.

Every reflecting, reasonable German must see the force of the point I am making. He must know in his heart that Berlin is not enough, that in fact it has upset very much more than it has pacified. Germany is arming, it alleges, to satisfy honor and self-respect, and makes the further allegation that the scale of its armaments is only enough to make itself secure.

Leaving the honor argument out of account for the moment, how can it profess to be blind to the effect which its colossal armaments must have on the sense of security of other nations? "You must trust me," it replies. "I assure you I have no designs upon

GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP By FREDERICK E. WILLIAMSON

President New York Central System. DOLITICS lives on jobs, as you all know. It is obvious that under a government which is based on the political party system, the railroads under government ownership would be administered primarily for the need of that system. Under government ownership the job of every one of the million railroad employees sooner or later would become a political prize, with merit and experience taking a back seat.

Moreover, it is reasonable to assume that the sources of the railroads' supply of materials would not long remain privately owned. And, since railroads buy, for example, 22 per cent of all the coal that is mined, 16 per cent of all the steel and 16 per cent of all the lumber manufactured, thus providing much of the backlog of these basic industries, how long do you suppose it would be before these, too, would come under the control of the federal bureaucracy?

FUTURE NRA POLICY

By DONALD R. RICHBERG Director National Emergency Council. MANY of those who in recent months helped to raise the Blue Eagle now feel that we might have moved more rapidly toward a clearer understanding of our purpose had we chosen not an emblem of force but a symbol of peace and co-operation to dignify adherence to a code of fair competition.

Yet, how can we go forward without exerting force against those who will always obstruct progress for narrow, selfish aims, who will never play the game fair unless the rules are enforced against them? Somehow these dissenting groups, whether moved by prejudice or evil purpose, must be prevented from destroying the virtuous effort of a majority to make a success of self-government.

> CONTINUING NRA By JOSEPH ROBINSON U. S. Senator From Arkansas

THE contributions of the program for industrial recovery have been spread over the entire range of industry and commerce Even those witnesses before the senate committee on finance who opposed extension of the law admitted that, under the codes, their industries have changed from unprofitable to generally profitable.

Amendments to the act have been worked out and proposed in the light of experience. To abandon the NRA under present conditions would invite the return of the evils from which industry was suffering when the statute was passed.

THE REPUBLICAN JOB By ARTHUR CAPPER U. S. Senator From Kansas.

TTS job is to determine how I much individualism we can retain, how many parts of our national economy must be owned in common or controlled in common.

In other words, we have got to make a new definition of public utilities and draw a line between the public utility and the private business. That line should be drawn in the public interest, of course.

We must work to retain a democratic system of government under the Constitution that will make government, finance, industry and business serve the people. The welfare of the people is the end.

FUTURE LIBERTY By DR. FRANCIS CARTER WOOD Noted Pathologist.

"This handshaking business" the editor continues, "used to be thought a quaint survival from the days when right hands held daggers or could draw swords; to place it in the keeping of another was to clear yourself of any dangerous intention or ability. Business men have often laughed to think how little meaning the ritual need have today when fighting and ambushes take other forms. Fascists and Nazis have learned to make a gesture more nearly combining the remembrance of antiquity with the action prescribed in diagrams of Swedish drill.

"The efficient Japanese combine the quest for physical fitness and social geniality by constant bowings from the hips, bringing important abdominal muscles into play and getting better exercise in proportion as the obeisance is marked. The bow and the salute have this further advantage also, that they do not betray their makers as handshaking can. People who offer a hearty grip, with a 'Doctor Livingstone, I presume?' impression that two strong white men have at last managed to meet, do not at all like it if their palm is hastily and lightly stroked, or if they tion. are given a fleeting sense of a flabby and shapeless mass.

"There are secrets of handshaking, hidden rituals and squeezes of the brotherhoods for those who enjoy them; but from these subtle pressures and convolutions of the fingers much unhappy fumbling and discomfort arises, for many a man has been thought to have been giving some secret sign when in fact he was merely trying to extricate his unhappy hand. An occasional handshake on a big occasion between the parties to an engagement or marriage, or other major partnerships, and on other important events, is all very well, an old custom and not a bad one. But when it grows to ludicrous lengths in the interests of salesmanship and a politeness without ordinary good will behind it, it is time to cry halt and to fill in the membership forms which will enable one, as of right, to extend, for once only, the right hand of fellowship to the stalwart men of Ljubljana."

Fingernail Picture Fad

Started by Englishman Stanley A. Burchett of Kensington. England, growing tired of the brightly colored nails of the modern woman, conceived the idea of painting pictures on them instead, says the Burchett is a miniature painter and in 1923 the queen accepted a pic ture he had painted of the cenotaph for her doll's house.

The new finger-nail fashion was really the result of an accident. Burchett is in the habit of making quick sketches on his thumbnail. One day when painting a canvas of a garden he stopped work to amuse a child who "wanted a weeny one for herself."

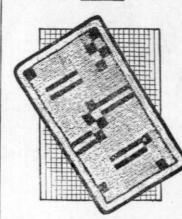

The painting was quickly done on finger nail and looked so attractive that the little girl's mother immediately commissioned the artist to paint her nails.

Now there is no limit to the variety of "picture" nails. One society woman went to a race meeting with a picture of her host's horse and jockey, complete even to the racing colors, painted on her nails.

Growing a Seawall

The cultivation of rice grass on the low-lying lands of Essex and other similar mud flats in England may result in turning thousands of acres of waste land into profitable pasture. Spartina grass became known in Great Britain about 100 years ago through a few seeds dropping accidentally from some cargo ships at Southampton docks. They took root and formed a hybrid with tention of agricultural scientists who saw the possibility of "growing" their sea wall instead of spending thousands of pounds on sea defense to prevent the land being flooded. Experiments have proved that such a wall is not worn away by the tide.

Crocheted Rug Uses New Modern Design

This crocheted rug called "Conventional" rug is made in solid colors. The design and border are in black and the background in green and lavender. When finished it measures about 21x36 inches and approximately three pounds of rag strips are used in the making. The colors suggested are only one combination, many combinations can be worked out to match the colors in the room in which it is to be used. This rug will prove a practical as well as beautiful rug in any room in Full instructions for this rug and 25 others are included in rug book No. 25. Both braided and crocheted rugs are found in this book.

Send 15 cents to our Rug Department and this book will be sent to you postpaid.

ROUGE AND LIPSTICK HAND IN HAND WITH ARMIES AND NAVIES

THE "Gloomy Dean" of St. Paul's, the Very Rev. William Ralph Inge, has paid us a great compliment.

The Dean gave a radio address on the subject, "What I Would Do With the World." He has plans, you see for making the world over, the idea being of course an improvement on the present product.

And what do you suppose would be the chief object of his very exalted attention, if he were allowed to rule the world? Why, rouge, lipsticks, armies and navies!

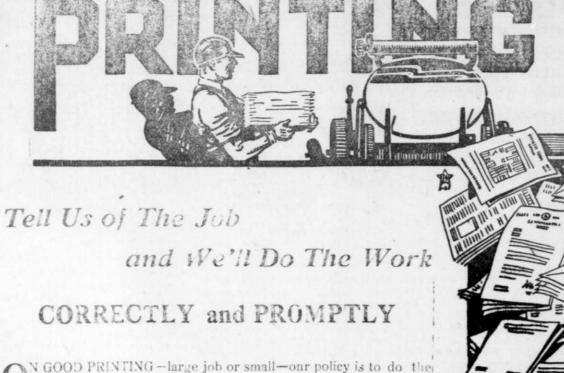

Those are the prime disturbing factors in the present state of things, if the available report of his address is accurate, which the dean would abolish in the effort to improve the world! for rouge and lipstick are aesthetically offensive. Now we are no shrinking violet.

Our best friends would not make that accusation against us. We claim to no greater sense of modesty than is reasonably expected of every person with a sense of proportion. But the idea of speaking of those little accessories of ours, rouge and lipstick, in the same breath with armies and navieswhy, it is almost too much for us.

And from the Dean of St. Paul's! Regarding the austere visage of this ticed it, but to notice so definitely what is merely a detail of our makeup, so to speak, and to elevate it to the position of importance that is assigned to armies and navies, well, to say that we are overwhelmed is condition of the soil. Forsooth, our little foibles are com-

FIRE DAMAGES LAUNDRY

WEST BEND-A fire caused by an overheated smoke stack broke out in a shed attached to the rear of the Modern Dry Cleaners and Laundry plant here, with an estimated damage of $150 resulting. The West Bend fire department responded and in 10 minutes had extinguished the blaze. Because of a great amount of work in the laundry the boiler was pushed beyond its capacity to provide enough hot water and steam, overheating the smokestack.

Supreme Court Kills NRA and Farm Mortgage Moratorium Act—New Dealers, Congress and Business Uncertain About Future Action.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

dations. In the first and most im-by congress of its authority to legislate to persons not connected with the government's legislative functions. By the ruling the exercise of congressional powers over commerce was definitely restricted to interstate commerce, or to such activities as have a provable direct connection with interstate commerce. The court held that no economic emergency could justify the breaking down of the limitations upon federal authority as prescribed by the Constitution or of those powers reserved to the state through the failure of the Constitution to place them Next in importance was the decision

read by Justice Brandeis, holding unconstitutional the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium act. This law provided for a five year moratorium in the case of collapse of efforts to scale down a farmer's debts to a figure that would enable him to pay off his mortgage. The court held that under the Fifth amendment to the Constitution private property could not be taken without just compensation. There has been no previous instance, the court | the "false advertising" provisions unsaid, where a mortgage was forced to relinquish property to a mortgagor free of lien unless the debt was paid in full.

In the third decision President Roosevelt's dismissal of the late William E. Humphrey from the federal trade commission was held illegal because the President did not remove Mr. Humphrey for the statutory grounds of inefficiency, neglect of duty or malfeasance in office, but, as the President stated, because their minds did not meet upon the policies or administration of the commission. The court held that trade commissioners' terms are fixed by law and that their removal must be for the grounds stated in the act.

The question of the constitutionality of the Wagner labor disputes bill, passed by the senate, was raised by the NRA decision. The opinion was to get a crack at him through the widely expressed that collective bar- polls. gaining now cannot be enforced in any business enterprise by federal statute.

In the senate demands were voiced to recommit to the committee on agriculture the amendments strengthening the AAA. Senator W. E. Borah said that the NRA decision clearly raises the question of the validity of much AAA procedure.

Business was as communication after USINESS was as confused as conthe killing of NRA. Heads of many large employing corporations intimated they would not make wage reductions or lengthen the work hours just because the way was open for such action, but always there was the qualifying statement, "It depends on what our competitors do." The big concerns would prefer to maintain the code hours and wages, but the smaller merchants and manufacturers, who were hardest hit by the code requirements, might depart from them enough to demoralize prices.

Among the dozens of national trade associations whose officers urged members to maintain wages and otherwise to continue the status quo are those of the automobile manufacturers, automobile dealers, chemical industry, retail dry goods dealers, cotton manufacturers, cement makers, oil industry, wholesale grocers, and grocery chain store distributors.

Harper Sibley, recently elected president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, called upon American industry and business men to preserve for the present wages and work hours established under the NRA.

Instead of cutting wages Standard Oil company of New Jersey and the Tide Water Oil company announced an increase of 5 per cent in salaries and wages, effective June 1.

The United Textile Workers, 350,000 in number, threaten to strike if any mills cut wages. And there is also s chance that 450,000 bituminous coal miners will go on strike because there is no wage agreement with the operators and a scale conference collapsed.

> A CTING with surprising suddenness, the senate passed the Copeland-Tugwell food, drug and cosmetic bill, which had been modified to meet the objections of Senators Clark, Bailey and Vandenberg. Dr. Copeland said he believed it would get through the house without difficulty. President Roosevelt favors the measure.

> The bill greatly increases the scope of the 1906 food and drug act, in the definitions of adulterated or misbranded articles, and provides penalties of a year in jail or a $1,000 fine for viola-

It was designed originally to permit the secretary of agriculture to order wholesale seizures, which would permit the destruction of a business, if he deemed the articles in question adulterated. As amended, however, only a single article may be seized pending a court hearing. Exceptions may be made if there is "imminent danger" to public health.

Originally, also, the bill provided severe penalties for publishers and radio broadcasting companies, as well as advertisers, for violations of regulations to be laid down by the Department of Agriculture. This was changed so that no publisher, radio broadcasting company, advertising agency, or other medium for the dissemination of advertising may be deemed to have violated less they refuse to furnish the name and address of the advertiser.

"For years, now, Mr. Farley has fancled himself as a candidate for governor of New York. He has repeated ly told his very close associates that he will 'run when the time is ripe.' ONLY nine states of the Central West will send delegates to the "Grass Roots" convention of the Republican party which opens June 10 in Springfield, Ill., but the meeting will nevertheless be rather national in scope, for it will be attended by unofficial delegates from other states and by national leaders of the party. It was believed that Harrison E. Spangler, national committeeman from Iowa, would be made temporary chairman and as such would deliver the keynote address. Others on the tentative program for speeches are Arthur M. Hyde, former governor of Missouri and secretary of agriculture in the Hoover cabinet, and Edward Hayes of Decatur, Ill., former national commander of the American Legion. The keynote address, according to reports, will take inventory of American affairs under the Roosevelt New Deal and indicate the trend of the party in opposition. Mr. Hyde is to talk on the Great Emancipator at the Lincoln tomb in Oak Ridge cemetery, and Hayes is expected to deal with the theories of the Republican party on constitutional government.

DOLF HITLER has proposed that A Germany, Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium enter into a multilateral western European pact against aerial aggression. Madison-Seven projects, employing more than 100,000 persons and involving expenditures of $179,500,000 were revealed by Gov. La Follette in a radio speech discussing the Wisconsin employment program pending before the legistature. The projects announced by the governor include an allotment of $50,000,000 for repairing and remodeling of homes in city and rural districts: $25,000,000 to improve our highway system and employ more than 20,000 men: $75,000.000 for the various communities of the state to use on local projects to supply 40,000 jobs; $15,000. 000 for CCC camps to provide for 25,-000 persons; $7,000,000 to halt soil ero sion in 21 counties in the western part of the state and to provide 7,000 jobs $4,000,000 for conservation purposes to provide work for 3,000 persons; $3,500, 000 for liming of agricultural lands to provide employment for 6,000 men. National Press Building Washington - President Roosevelt | portance to announced a year ago that the Tennessee Valley authority and the ex-Probing periment of governthe TVA ment production of electric power on a huge scale was to serve as a yardstick on electric rates charged by private power companies. The millions then being poured into the Tennessee river valley for construction of dams and power plants, living quarters and farms, offices and laboratories were to produce ultimately as near perfection as could be conceived by the mind of man in an industrial unit. Lately, J. R. McCarl, comptroller general of the United States, has had his bookkeeping sleuths at work on the records of the Tennessee Valley authority, it being a government corporation. Mr. McCarl was not concerned about the yardstick for power rates nor was he interested in experiments designed to prove the value of government ownership in the power field. His job was to determine what had happened to all of the money that had been taken from the treasury and spent in the effort to transform the Tennessee valley into a modern Garden of Eden.

It happened that Mr. McCarl's report on the audit of TVA affairs was made public coincidentally with a movement by the TVA directors for new legislation-amendments to their basic law which would give them additional authority. This circumstance resulted in the TVA and its yardstick being examined by a congressional committee under the strong lens of a magnifying glass. I believe it is generally agreed that TVA suffered in prestige, and government ownership advocates came off second best because disclosures before the committee were of such a nature as to convince most sound thinking observers that there is a colored gentleman in the TVA woodpile.

For instance, Mr. McCarl showed in his report that the federal government had expended a total of $132,-792,000 in development of the power facilities, equipment and necessary appurtenances. This property was transferred by the federal government to the Tennessee Valley authority, a corporation, and is carried on the corporation books at $51,000,000. This is 38 per cent of the actual cost to the taxpayers of the property trans-

Disclosures of this fact brought many charges in the course of the committee hearing and led to the conclusion by several house members that no electric rate based upon 38 per cent of the cost of the production facilities could be considered honest, In other words, the thought was that a vardstick based on such a method of calculating investment necessarily would have to be made of rubber.

Mr McCarl told the committee also and "trick" methods of bookkeeping and Bookkeeping that he had found it necessary to disallow expenditures of something over two million dollars which he said were illegal. The comptroller general did not refer to these expenditures as having been fraudulently made but he told the committee it was his opinion that the law had to be stretched rather far by any spending agency to construe the payments as justifiable. Some of these expenditures were made, for example, for such things as airplanes to be used in transportation; for cows and pigs to stock a TVA farm and for the purchase of numerous other items which Mr Mc-Carl said could not by any stretch of duction. The comptroller general took sharp exception to the bookkeeping methods used by the TVA. It is upon these records that the electric rate is based. Likewise it is upon the basis of these records that the TVA must show whether it has earned a profit.

"Despite the apparently excessive depreciated value at which the Muscle Shoals property was taken up on the books, the authority is not using the valuation basis for depreciation but instead is basing depreciation on the earnings from the sale of power by charging 10 per cent of the gross revenue to operations as depreciation and accumulating the amount of such charges as a reserve for depreciation. "Such reserve appears to be entirely inadequate. The properties in question are depreciating in value and if the return from operations is to be properly determined, the reasonable value of all things concerned including depreciation of original investment must be taken into consideration. "Assuming a very conservative rate of valuation consumption for example, 2 per cent, the amount of depreciation, based upon the value at which the properties in question were capitalszed by the authority, would be approximately $1,000,000 per annum. "A larger revenue will proportionately increase the reserve for depreciation at the present 10 per cent method of amortization, but to accumulate a reserve on the 10 per cent plan equivalent to the amount that would be charged to depreciation on a valuation basis at 2 per cent, the gross revenues would have to be more than ten times the present amount or about $10,000,000 per annum.

"There is very little basis for assuming that revenues will ever reach such a figure."

Outstanding of all these national parks is the Grand canyon of the Colorado river. There is nothing like it anywhere else on this earth, at least. This fearful panorama of nature at its wildest, most awesome and at the same time most beautiful is a sight to remember for the rest of your life.

Some of the other national parks have sights to see that are nearly as grand, but in a different way. There s Sequoia, in California, with the oldest living things in the world, the giant trees, whole forests of them, which tower above as high as the skyscrapers of our metropolises. Yelowstone is the oldest of our national parks and one of the most popular, with its Old Faithful Geyser and its other natural wonders. The Yosemite with the greatest waterfall in the world draws its share of the summer thousands.

Other national parks, some of which may be included in your summer tour, Montana; Rocky mountain, in Colorado; Rainier, in Washington; Crater lake, in Oregon; Lassen volcano, in glorious Sierra Nevada range of California; Mesa Verde, in Colorado; Platt and Hot Springs, in Arkansas; Sully's in South Dakota. Our national parks contain good hotels, where fine meals are served and where prices are adjustable to almost any pocketbook. They get us out of doors in summer, when we need a relief from the year's work, and let us follow their delightful trails through gigantic laboratories of nature. They give us a true picture of what our forebears had to conquer when they first explored this land and built upon it the nation which we like to think is a good deal better in which to live than any other on earth. There is little that the European vacation can offer us that we cannot duplicate here in our own country. And the difference in expense, it is needless to say, is tremendous. Railroads, especially the western railroads, as well as other travel media, have prepared tour programs this year which most of us can afford, and have reduced regular rates for the summer months. It's easier than ever this year to "see America first."

The costume centered in the picture reflects a very ecstasy of beauty. This most alluring dinner ensemble is in gray (a very high-style color for evening) pure-silk taffeta. Its cunning jacket with quaint flowing-from-the-elbow sleeves is graced with a youthful collar faced with lilacs in delectable coloring. Vaporous, elusively sheer and floating, muchly-draped and shirred chiffon is the idol of the hour for evening wear. The "darling of a gown" with "red riding hood" cape to the right in the group is of exquisite white silk chiffon. The evening hood is one of the outstanding features of the formal mode. Young girls adore them. As artful as fancy can picture is the shirring on this gown which occurs at shoulder cuffs and on the skirt. The very latest gesture in silhouettes is interpreted via the elaborate draping at the sides of the slender fitted skirt. REGENCY TREATMENT FOR SPRING COATS

"Draped bows," "butterfly revers," 'front fullness in the bodice"-call it what you will-each phrase describes the treatment that persists through the Vionnet adaptations that are shown. The coat and wrap designers give this detail an impressive position in the second spring collections.

The "pouf" at front, which gives a pleasant Regency quality to the otherwise modern coat or frock, lends itself to a variety of interpretations-suitable for taffeta or flat fur for the coat and varied from ripping revers to double jabot in crisp formal wraps. Also important as a detail that promises to be heard from are the butterfly collars that are placed high across the shoulders rather than as jabot.

Knit Suit Styles Inspire

You to Do One Yourself You know how important the suit is to be. But had you thought of knitting one for yourself? You'd be inspired to make the effort after taking one look at a three-piece which includes a British looking short jacket, with skirt and sweater blouse. The jacket has all the airs of the high-powered English tailored suits of the season, with its high notched lapels, its semi-fitted lines and its casual one-button closing. Skirt and jacket are done in diagonal ribbing, with the same effectiveness of the smartest diagonal woolens.

Tweed knit coat designs are nothing short of superb.

Taffeta Takes Prominent Place in Fashion Parade

Crisp taffeta continues as a highlight of the spring fashion parade. Rustling bags, gloves, sleeves, revers, blouses and dresses are being taken for granted, but have you seen the dashing navy and white taffeta gloves?
