CHAPTER XII—Continued

"There's one thing I can't do it without!" Dick admitted, folding the telegram to put it back into his breast pocket.

"Money?" Sam asked.

"Nope," Dick looked at Gail, and all the others laughed. "I won't do it without my wife," he said simply.

"You'd be married right off!" Dick said nothing. He looked at Gail.

"Gail would be married tomorrow, and get out like a fire horse!" Lily said, and they all laughed.

"To—for the land's sake! To where?"

"To London, Mrs. Pine. For two years."

"For the land's sake! Well, don't forget your friends in Clipperville, Gail. 'As it could!'"

"Next Thursday! Next Thursday! For heaven's sake! Why the rush?"

"Dick—Mr. Stebbins—has to sail for London on the fifteenth. And we have ten days or two weeks in New York."

"Well, you certainly have taken folks' breath away!"

"Not any more than mine, I assure you, Mrs. Brush."

"You'll be back in Clipperville some day."

"Oh, indeed I hope so!"

"When do you leave the library, Gail?"

"Tomorrow night."

"Well, I declare it won't seem like the same place without you!"

"They were all so kind. Old associates in tears, old friends carrying arms of brightly polished huckleberry and pungent chrysanthemum to the Lawrence house. Presents, presents, presents—every one in town had to have a finger in Gail's new equipment."

"In Muller's she looked at the incredibly smart ensemble; the tan silk blouse, the tobacco-brown coat with a great white fur collar."

"The tag seems to be gone, Mr. Muller. Not that I think it's—just my price."

"It is thirty dollars," said old Muller steadfastly. The saleswoman almost cried out. Even unsophisticated Gail looked bewildered.

CHILDREN UNDER SIX SHOULDN'T GO TO SCHOOL

M. T. Buckley, County Superintendent of Schools issues the following article to parents due to the fact that much difficulty is being experienced with children under age attending school:

The parents should consider three things before starting their children to school.

There are no desks fitted for children of five years. The little children's feet cannot rest naturally on the floor, the distance from the back of the seat and the desk is too great, compelling the child to lean forward in a position that tends to cramp the lungs and organs of the abdomen. Wise parents do not want to force their children into such an unhealthy situation. To secure a good health beginning for your child is more important than to learn a meager reading ability.

The course of study is not made for children under six years of age. They have not experience enough in life. They are unable to follow directions given by the teacher and for that reason a large number of them become problems of discipline to the teacher. This results in two things, first the under-age children interfere with the work of the other children of the school and second, they take up more than their share of the teacher's time without any profit to them. That is not just. I suggest that parents give a earnest consideration to the third phase of the situation. Most under-age children have not the background to do first grade work. Unable to keep up with the others the children become discouraged, they learn to hate the whole business of school life. Sometimes it takes years to overcome this attitude. A child of meager years needs freedom to move about and learn from his own activity and this is not possible in any school outside of those providing a kindergarten. It is the judgment of those who have the interest of the health and training of the children at heart that they should not enter school until they are six years old.

Parents ought to keep in mind that the home is the first school their children attend. You are their first teachers. In fact you are lifetime teachers of your children. Training them in your own home school is the home's greatest opportunity. Think seriously before this loving association is broken. Be very sure that the best interests of the child is the first consideration of the time when that break should be made.

M. T. BUCKLEY, Co. Supt.

HILL JOB IS DIFFICULT

Digging in hardpan, the A. B. Lynch Construction company is still at work, reducing the Dreikosen hill on Highway 67 in the Town of Ashford making rather slow progress.

Cutting down the hill, the largest grading project on the job, has been under way for several weeks. The hill had been cut down 16 feet when a rock formation slowed up the work.

Jaeger Brothers of West Bend will re-surface the road with gravel when the hill job is completed.

Workmen Find Grim Relic in House of Inquisition

Visitors to Cartagena, the 402-year-old "heroic city" of the Spanish Main, are seeing for the first time this season a gaping hole in an inner wall of the House of the Inquisition which tells a grim story. Like the weathered fortresses, the buff-domed Metropolitan cathedral and the Museum of Historical Objects, the Inquisition building has become a regular stop for tourists. A yellowish-white edifice, with fine arches scalloping the shadows in a cool patio, it was built in 1770, when the Tribunal of the Inquisition had already passed the peak of its power. The house came into the hands of an influential family whose descendants now own it and use part of the property as their business headquarters. Several months ago, to improve storeroom facilities, the firm decided to connect two ground-floor units by cutting a passageway through a 6-foot wall. Workmen attacked the partition. Crumbly plaster and brick flew in chips and flakes. The hole deepened. Suddenly one laborer cried out, dropped his pick and ran through the adjacent central courtyard to the front office. The others followed.

Officials investigated and found a human skeleton, in standing position, coming into view like a fixed specter in the chalky recesses of the wall. It was recalled that the records of the two centuries of the Inquisition in Cartagena (beginning in 1610) included mention of persons sentenced to be plastered alive into the building. Gerónimo Martínez, a member of the family that owns the records as well as the property, was convinced that the remains were of someone so condemned. The skeleton was removed carefully from the wall and the partly crushed bones were taken to the tunnel connecting the torture chamber with the cathedral. Prisoners had been led through the tunnel after final prayers for their souls. The present Archbishop, Pedro Adán Briceño, gave permission for the digging of a pitlike grave in the dim passageway. There was no burial ceremony. The Inquisition records, written in Spanish and including names of victims, have been assembled and bound in leather. Several cases of death by auto-da-fé in plaster are listed, but only this skeleton has come to light. After the discovery work on the prospective passageway stopped and the jagged-edge aperture remains as a reminder of one of the 957 torture sentences, which included provision for 60 burnings at the stake, recorded in Cartagena.

The spot in the wall where the skeleton was found is almost exactly above the torture chamber entrance to the tunnel. The entrance to the cathedral, covered with a gray board

GOLD IN BRITISH SOIL

The announcement has been recently made that gold mining is to be resumed in the British hills of Carmathenshire. An English scientist, Bernard Holland, has been granted a 63-year lease, thus reviving an industry established by the Romans. In fact, the industry is older than that, for in the British museum there is a more ancient corselet of Welsh gold, and a breast-plate of beaten gold was found in a Celtic "barrow" in North Wales.

ANOTHER GAME OF HIDE AND SEEK

Do you remember the game of hide and seek that Buster Bear and Danny the Deer played? You remember what a very dreadful game it was for Danny? But hard as it was for Danny, it didn't begin to be as hard as the game Lightfoot the Deer was playing with the hunter in the Green Forest.

In the case of Buster Bear and Danny the Deer, the hunter had simply to keep out of sight of Buster. As long as Buster didn't get his great paws on Danny the hunter was safe. Then, too, Danny is a very small person. He is so small that he can hide under two or three logs. Wherever he is he is pretty sure to find a hiding place of some sort. The small size gives him advantages in a game of hide and seek. It certainly does. But Lightfoot the Deer is big. He is one of the largest of the people who live in the Green Forest. Being so big, it is not easy to hide.

Moreover, a hunter with a terrible gun does not have to get close in order to kill. Lightfoot knew all this as he waited for the coming of the hunter of whom Sammy Jay had warned him. He had learned many lessons in the hunting season of the year before and he remembered every one of them. He knew that to forget even one of them might cost him his life. So, standing motionless behind a tangle of fallen trees, Lightfoot listened and watched.

Presently over the distance he heard Sammy Jay screaming, "Thief, thief!" A little sigh of relief came from behind Lightfoot. He knew that that was the sign that the hunter was coming. Lightfoot told him where the hunter was and he saw just where the hunter was. It was so easy for him to know what he was doing.

A Merry Little Breeze came stealing through the Green Forest. It came from behind Lightfoot and danced away from the hunter with the terrible gun. Instantly Lightfoot began to move softly away through the Green Forest. He took the greatest care to make no sound. He went in a half circle, stopping every few minutes to

OLD FASHIONED GOOD THINGS

Salt-Rising Bread.

There are any number of people who welcome a loaf of the old-fashioned salt-rising bread. It is not hard to make if the mixture can be kept warm enough. The following is a reliable recipe:

Salt-Rising Bread.

This is such an old-fashioned bread that one has difficulty these days to find a reliable recipe for it. Place in a two-quart bowl one and one-half cups of boiling water, cool to lukewarm. Add one and one-half cups of fresh sweet milk, also lukewarm; one teaspoonful of sugar and two tablespoonfuls of corn meal, with enough flour to make a thin batter. Stir the entire mixture well, set into a heater or warming oven or in water that will keep the mixture at 110 degrees. When the first bubble appears stir down; repeat leaving the dish uncovered. When the yeast is double its bulk mix with flour to knead. Warm the flour and keep all dishes used warm. Make into loaves, rise again and bake in a moderate oven until well browned. Keeping the bread warm during its whole process of rising is very important. The salt is added in the last mixing, as salt has a tendency to kill the growth of the wild yeast.

Cheese Ring.

Take one and one-half pounds of cottage cheese, one teaspoonful of salt, put through a ricer, then add one can of chopped pimiento, one green pepper and two tablespoonfuls of gelatin which has been dissolved in one-fourth of a cupful of cold water. Place in a ring mold and let stand several hours in the ice chest. Turn out on a lettuce bed and surround with alternating canned peaches and pears. In the center place a grapefruit rind filled with mayonnaise.

QUESTION BOX

by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am in love with a young lady and asked her to marry me. She said she would marry me if I promised to love her "forever." What shall I do?

Truly yours, B. HIVES.

Answer: Don't promise that. You may not live that long.

Dear Mr. Wynn: There's a man lives next door to me who has a peculiar habit. Every time he reads on a rich man dying he cries for hours. Can you tell me why he cries, as none of the rich men are related to him?

Sincerely, U. SEYMOUR THANME.

Answer: That is very simple. You say when a rich man dies, though he is no relative of the rich man, your neighbor cries? He cries because he is not a relative.

Dear Mr. Wynn: Is it possible for the government to stop suicides?

Yours truly, I. TRIEDIT.

Answer: The only way for the government to stop people from committing suicide is for the government to pass a law making it a capital crime punishable by death.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am a man thirty-three years of age. I am a manager of the hair net department in a 5 and 10c store. I rode my bicycle way out in the country last Sunday. A wild cow chased me for two miles. I found out later the cow was mad because she lost her calf, but why did she chase me?

Yours truly, I. NEVERSHAVE.

Answer: The cow most likely took you for the calf.

Dear Mr. Wynn: How is it that in some apartment houses you will find when they live above the sixth floor married couples haven't any children?

Yours truly, MISS SHONARY.

Answer: That only happens in apartment houses without elevators. People living on the top floors don't have children, as there is no way to raise them.

Dear Mr. Wynn: A friend of mine told me he could not join our motor party last Sunday because his wooden leg pained him. How could that possibly be?

Truly yours, ART E. FISHEL.

Answer: His wife most likely hit him in the head with it.

Corn Roast High Above New York

A CORN roast from corn grown in the vegetable garden on the eleventh floor roof of the RCA building in New York was held in the Gardens of the Nations. The corn was roasted by 12 Girl Scouts over a hunter's fire built by them on a terrace of the gardens. The girls roasted the corn to fulfill one requirement for their cook's badge—the preparation of an outdoor meal. Miss Mary Margaret McBride, nationally known food authority, judged their cooking abilities.

HENRY SCORES A RINGER!

HEY, YOU! GET OUT OF THERE! I DIDN'T BUILD THAT BARN FOR A PLAYHOUSE!

GRAB A STICK AND GO AFTER 'EM! A REAL WALLOPING WOULD DO 'EM GOOD!

WHY, JIMMY... WHAT'S THE MATTER? WHAT ARE YOU CRYING ABOUT?

AW, GEE... DAD DROVE ALL THE KIDS HOME!

MARTHA!—DID YOU ASK THOSE PESKY KIDS OVER HERE?—WELL, I CHASED 'EM OFF! AND LET ME TELL YOU...

IF IT'S MORE GUFF ABOUT COFFEE, TELL HER TO GO BACK IN THE HOUSE!

AS DR. ROSS TOLD YOU, YOU'VE GOT COFFEE-NERVES! THAT'S WHY YOU'RE SO IRRITABLE! WHY WON'T YOU GIVE UP COFFEE AND TRY POSTUM?

NONSENSE!... BUT I'LL TRY ANYTHING TO GET RID OF MY HEADACHES AND INDIGESTION!

CURSES! WHAT LUCK! DRIVEN OUT OF HERE BY POSTUM!

BEFORE YOU TELL ME, HENRY, MAY I TELL YOU SOMETHING?

HELLO, BOYS! WHAT DO YOU SAY WE FIX UP A PLACE TO PLAY HORSESHOES IN HERE?

WHAT A DIFFERENT MAN HE'S BEEN... SINCE HE SWITCHED TO POSTUM!

GEE, MR. GRAN... THAT'LL BE SWELL!

"I knew coffee was bad for all us kids... but didn't know it could hurt a grown man like Daddy!"

"Oh, yes... many grown-ups, too, find that caffeine in coffee can upset their nerves, cause indigestion or keep them awake nights!"

If you suspect that coffee disagrees with you... try Postum for 30 days. Postum contains no caffeine. It's simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. It's easy to make... and costs less than half a cent a cup. It's delicious, too... and may prove a real help. A product of General Foods.

FREE! Let us send you your first week's supply of Postum free! Simply mail the coupon.

TAKE A TIP FROM THE GYPSIES

IN EUROPE, particularly in Central Europe, gypsies are a more familiar element of the population than they are in this country, where they are regarded as a curiosity.

In Slovakia, near Kosice, there is a permanent settlement of gypsies so well thought of that they were permitted by the state authorities to have their own district council and mayor. Since the district council has judicial authority, the gypsies become their own judges, with the power to punish offenders according to their own code of laws.

And recently the council tried a man who had beaten his wife. Do you conjure up visions of red tape, of laws designed to protect the accused, of a bedlam of witnesses and talk of evidence as to how he hit her and where he hit her and what constitutes a blow until indeed the victim began to doubt her own injuries.

Not with the gypsies. There was no Gordian knot. The man was brought before the council and immediately sentenced to crawl home on hands and knees, carrying his wife on his back, and to publicly beg for forgiveness. As a further punishment he was ordered to stand all night before his hut, bearing a pail of water on his head, stirring the water occasionally with his hand to prevent it from freezing!

Those gypsies have imagination, haven't they. In their way of making the punishment fit the crime? And the chances are that that particular man will not again commit that particular crime—which after all is the test of the efficacy of a punishment.

I could think of several popular crimes which might be more appropriately dealt with if we could take a tip from the gypsies!
