Crisis Nears in Italo-Ethiopian Embroglio—Mussolini Defiant, Great Britain Ready—Committee of Lawyers Hits Labor Relations Act.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

Benito Mussolini

MATTERS in Geneva were rapidly approaching a crisis—a crisis for Italy and Ethiopia, for European peace and for the League of Nations itself.

The Italian cabinet, in which Mussolini holds eight portfolios, announced in Rome that Italy would accept no compromise and would not retreat from the course it has laid out in East Africa; that its military preparations were being intensified, and that its forces were adequate to respond to any menace whatever.

Still more important, in the light of developments, was the cabinet's announcement of strengthening its military forces in Libya, where General Balbo has been establishing a strong line of air ports.

Among the members of the committee are James M. Beck, nationally known constitutional authority and former solicitor general of the United States; Bainbridge Colby, secretary of state under President Wilson; John W. Davis, Democratic candidate for President in 1934; Joseph B. Ely, former Democratic governor of Massachusetts; Ralph M. Shaw of Chicago, former head of the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment; James A. Reed, former United States senator from Missouri, a Democrat, and George W. Wickersham, chairman of President Hoover's commission on law enforcement.

Frank E. Morrison, American Federation of Labor secretary, said: "This committee simply represents the views held by special privilege and big business, which have always opposed every piece of legislation introduced in congress and the states to bring a little more happiness into workers' homes."

A. E. MERCKER who used to be secretary of the Interstate Early Potato committee, has been made head of the potato section of the Agricultural Adjustment administration, and his troubles are just beginning.

WHILE all the nation was celebrating Constitution day, the citizens of Pennsylvania went to the polls and voted overwhelmingly against the calling of a Constitutional convention for the purpose of "modernizing" the state's basic law which was adopted 61 years ago.

Copies of the opinion were sent to all members of the full committee and dissenting opinions were invited, but none were offered.

Raoul E. Desvergne of New York, chairman of the general committee, denied that it was "packed with Republicans," but he did not explain why no labor lawyers and no attorneys with New Deal leanings were appointed to the committee represented only "big business," Desvergne replied:

"I would not know how to choose any committee of well known lawyers competent in the field of constitutional law throughout the United States without choosing some lawyers who had large business interests for clients, because if a lawyer's ability in a community is recognized, he generally has some important business interest to represent."

National Topics Interpreted By WILLIAM BRUCKART

Washington—When President Roosevelt entered the White House March 4, 1933, every dollar of federal money that was expended was accounted for and the vouchers reviewed by the general accounting offices.

It is not strange that the importance of the kind row to the reader of the "Break for Taxpayers" section is simply that it shows the use by the administration of the money that it has spent.

This spending of money in gigantic amounts always breeds suspicion. It causes people to inquire, whatever the form of government may be or whatever political party may be in control, whether there is waste or graft.

It seemed to have been worse this time and well it may have been because the amount of money made available to President Roosevelt and his subordinates was so much larger.

It is believed in Geneva that the penalty easiest to apply would be a general boycott of all trade with Italy. In that case the course followed by the United States would be all important.

WHILE all the nation was celebrating Constitution day, the citizens of Pennsylvania went to the polls and voted overwhelmingly against the calling of a Constitutional convention.

Mites, Hog Lice Cause Feed Loss

Oil Is Found Effective in Eliminating the Pest; Destroy Bedding.

By J. S. Coffey, Department of Animal Husbandry, Ohio State University, WNU Service.

When feed and hogs are both high priced, it is essential that the transfer of feed into pork be as economical as possible. The type of ration is, of course, important, but external parasites may cause feed wastage and losses. The hog louse and mange mite are the two most common forms of external parasites of hogs. Animals infested with either or both of these pests cannot make the best use of their feeds. The louse is a bloodsucker and the mite is a great irritant. Because the hog louse breathes through body pores, when these pores are plugged the parasite suffocates and dies.

Oil has been found most effective as a treatment for lice. The type of oil is not so important; paraffin oil, crude oil, animal sprays containing oil and crank case drainings are all in common use. Crank case oil is not recommended as it often contains gasoline which particularly irritates white and thin-skinned hogs.

The louse mite destroys the lice it does not eliminate the eggs. Therefore, it is necessary to destroy the bedding after giving hogs an oil treatment and treat a second time two weeks later to destroy newly hatched lice. Oiling hogs once every 30 days practically eliminates lice from the swine herd.

The mange mite appears first at the ears, eyes and at the root of the tail. To eliminate this pest, cleanliness, sanitation and sunlight are essential. The best known remedy is the lime sulphur dip—one pound of lime sulphur to 30 gallons of water if the attack is mild; in severe cases, one pound to 15 or 20 gallons. The lime sulphur used is that employed by fruit growers for spraying.

The solution is applied warm. The heated condition of the solution causes sulphur dioxide gas to form, killing the mites.

Part of Honey Expense Is the Cost of Gasoline Beekeepers and scientists have made many estimates as to how far bees fly in making a pound of honey, but until now no one has determined how many miles by truck and automobile the modern beekeeper must travel in doing his part in producing and marketing a pound of it.

In a survey by the United States Department of Agriculture and the University of California, it was found that 225 California beekeepers, whose honey crop in 1933 amounted to 6,130,181 pounds, traveled 1,493,628 miles.

Small Pig Crop for Year This year's pig crop will be the smallest in many years, says the bureau of agricultural economics. The reduced production is attributed to last summer's drought which shrunk feed grain production to the smallest volume in many years, and to the low price of hogs last year, and to the unfavorable hog-corn ratio. The spring crop of 1935 was 20 per cent smaller than the small spring crop of 1934—a decrease of about 7,400,000 head. Decreased production in the corn belt is estimated at 22 per cent.

Ample Food Supply There'll be plenty of food in the United States this year, according to a report from the bureau of agricultural economics. The bureau said this year's food supply would exceed average consumption during recent years. It will be somewhat less than the average supply of the last five years, but about 5 per cent more than domestic "disappearance" in 1934, and about 9 per cent more than in 1933.

Agricultural Jottings Plowing by oxen is being revived in many parts of England. Farmers have discovered that paint is an important factor in farm sanitation. About 600 Ohio farmers this year are comparing hybrid corn with their standard varieties. Men of farm families eat eggs and drink more milk than do the women, according to a Cornell bulletin.

Fresh, uncooked garbage is an excellent feed for swine. Some sausages for sale now have tags attached which tell that they are graded U. S. grade No. 1, meaning that the sausage is "first quality, all-meat sausage." The amount of milk used for human consumption as estimated by the United States bureau of agricultural economics was 100,713,000,000 pounds for 1934 as compared with 100,160,000,000 pounds in 1933.

Growing one crop of corn causes a loss of about 3 per cent in the organic content of the soil, agronomists find. An acre of good clover or alfalfa pasture should supply enough grazing for about 20 pigs and save about $30 in feed bills. A small grain crop never directly benefits the forage crop sown with it; except occasionally in checking erosion; it is always a robber crop, and it is used to derive an income from the land.

DIET IMPORTANT HEALTH PROBLEM

Menus Should Be Arranged With That End in View.

By EDITH M. BARBER

IT'S the fashion to "diet" nowadays, as you have probably discovered. Perfectly well people as well as those who are not up to par are discussing loudly the question of what to eat. Sanitariums which specialize in diets are well patronized. You can imagine my amazement when I went up to the Poconos recently to find a sanitarium where there was no unusual schedule for the meals. While there were, of course, a number of persons on special diets, the general menu was based on the same sound nutrition principles which I have been stressing in this column for years.

The menu, except for the fact that there were innumerable vegetables and fruits, differed little from the meals which you choose, or should choose, at home. The vegetables were carefully cooked, and there were always several served raw.

Meats were generally broiled or roasted, and desserts were simple—custards, ice creams, ices and a large choice of the fruits.

The same choice of diet throughout life has an important influence upon health when age creeps upon us. On the contrary, a program of careless eating, with failure to include plenty of vegetables, fruits and milk in our meals, brings consequences unpleasant and sometimes serious. Ill effects, however, can often be corrected by adopting a new program, perhaps after a regime of special diet.

Glazed Carrots. 1 or 2 bunches carrots. 2 tablespoons butter. 2 tablespoons sugar. Dash nutmeg. Scrape and slice the carrots. Cook with as little water as possible and keep covered until tender.

Blueberry Pudding. 2 cups blueberries. 1/4 cup butter—1 cup sugar. 2 eggs. 1 1/2 cups flour. 3 teaspoons baking powder. 1 cup milk. 1/2 teaspoon vanilla. Look over the berries. Cream the and then fagotted or herringbone stitched together with black crocheted cotton. Or different colored crocheted cottons may be used, matching colors of textiles. If this way is followed be sure to have threads of cotton used in the stitching in contrast with colored textiles joined. This is a good way to use up odds and ends of crocheted cottons, provided they match colors in set. Outer edges are raveled as described.

When joining edges with hand stitching as suggested, the work is simplified and quickened. If edges of strips are basted to stiff wrapping paper cut to extend under each edge of the textile for at least one inch. The space left between edges of each two strips to be thus open-work stitched together equals the width of the row of stitches. It is important to have edges evenly spaced and approximately one-fourth inch or less apart.

In Line With Fashion. These rainbow luncheon sets are smart novelties to accord with the latest fad in beverage sets in which each tumbler or glass, whatever its shape, is different from the others, while all being of like design. Glass maddlers come in different colors or with white or clear glass bowls and colored hollow stems. Cocktail napkins come in the multi-color sets, and cups and saucers follow the like fashion. It will be seen that these rainbow luncheon sets are the last word in the ultra-modern style for table appointments.

Paint Conceals Mirrors A local store owner, tiring of the mirrors in his windows and show cases decided to have them removed. As the cost estimates ran high, he gave his painter the job of concealing them with paint. The result was excellent and the store looked as if it had undergone complete alteration. In this particular case a varnish color was applied. For the first coat, the painter applied a mixture of equal parts of turpentine and varnish color. There was less turpentine in the second coat.

Colorful Kitchen Yellow-red, two tones of green and white make an effective color combination for a modern kitchen. Walls of the breakfast nook, painted in pale green and trimmed with a jade green, are eye-pleasing against the white walled kitchen. Yellow-red cushions on the breakfast nook benches and red and white curtains are echoed in the Chinese red dishes on the shelves above the sink. Shelves of the two tones of green and jade green enamel on the floor complete the picture.

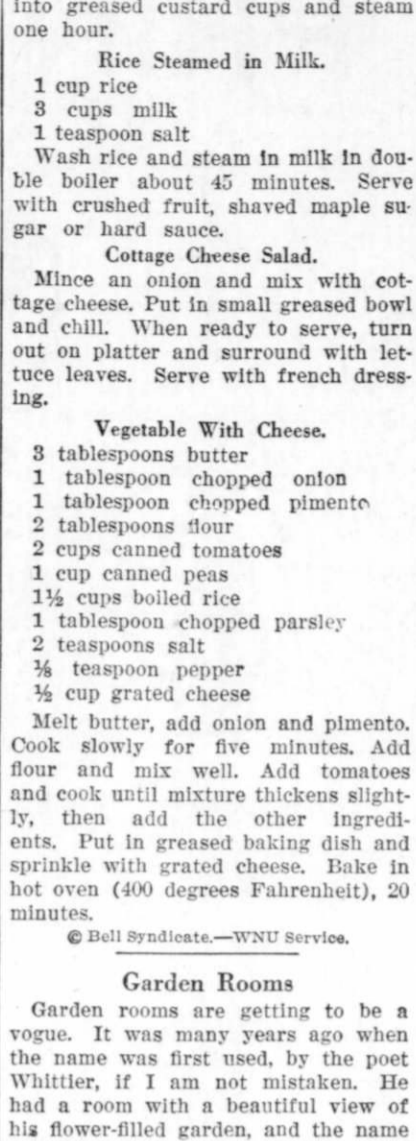

Flavor + Quality. WRIGLEY'S PEARMINT. THE PERFECT GUM.

The Luncheon Cloth All Six Colors Are United in Rainbow Sequence, of Red, Orange, Yellow, Green, Blue, Violet. Napkins Match Colors.

Accent on Youth Frock That Puts

PATTERN 9343

Always a good beginning this youthful tailored collar on the simple yoke makes a demure foil for the dainty softness of the bodice. The prettiness of the chic frock is furthered with a graceful flare sleeve—or it may puff, if you prefer. The results are so satisfying you'll find it real fun to run up this little dress in a dainty printed silk or cotton. A soft handkerchief linen would be stunning, too, and so easy to tub. Buttons and belt can pick up a color in the print and make a striking accent.

Pattern 9343 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42. Size 16 requires 3 1/2 yards 39-inch fabric. Complete, diagrammed sew chart included. SEND FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, THE STYLE NUMBER and SIZE.

Send your order to the Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighteenth Street, New York, N. Y.

Columbus, Cabot, Vespucci, Vigo, et al

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

HEY tell the story of Giovanni, a New York school boy, who was being taunted by a bullying classmate because he wasn't a "real American."

Now, Giovanni may not have been right in that last statement. But he was correct in calling Christopher Columbus the "first Italian immigrant to America."

Of course, there has been some dispute over whether or not Columbus really was an Italian. Several other countries have tried to claim him as their own.

As for the other "immigrants" who accompanied him on his historic first voyage we know that there were 120 of them—50 seamen and 30 others.

On his second voyage, he was accompanied by 1,500 men, including his brother, Diego, on his third voyage he took 200 men and on his fourth, 150.

If Christopher Columbus, the "discoverer of America," was destined never to set foot on the mainland of North America, at least a fellow-townsman of his would be credited with being the first white man to do it.

In that year King Henry VII gave him "full and free authority, leave, and power, to sail to all parties, Countries, and Seas, of the East, of the West and of the North, also licence to set up Our banners and ensignes in every village, towne, castle, yle, or main lande, of them newly founde."

But they do know that on June 24, 1497, Cabot reached the shores of North America somewhere between the modern city of Halifax and Hudson strait and landing there, planted the flag of England, a flag which was destined to wave over parts of that continent for the next 400 years.

The next year John Cabot sailed again for America with four ships—and into oblivion. What became of him no one ever learned.

It would have been appropriate if the southern continent discovered by Christopher Columbus had been named Columbia and the northern one Cabotia. In honor of the Italian who landed there in 1497. How, then, did the name of America become attached to both? The fact is it was named for another "Italian immigrant," a certain Amerigo or Americus Vespucci. Born in Florence, Italy, in 1451, Vespucci drifted to Spain and in 1492 he visited Espanola and the mainland of South America with the Spaniard, Ojeda, in a search for pearls.

It so happened that at St. Die in the Vosges mountains of France there was a little collegiate institution which was both a center of geographical learning and the owner of a new printing press, then something of a novelty in Europe.

Colombo, Cabot (or Cabota), Vespucci—they were the leading "Italian immigrants" in the first era of New World exploration.

When the younger Tontz reached the age of eighteen, he entered the military service of France as a cadet and continued thus for a year. Next he served for four years as a midshipman at Marseilles and Toulon, taking part in four campaigns on ships of war and three in galleys.

Tontz had replaced his missing right hand with a hand of iron or some other metal, which was usually covered with a glove.

After the death of La Salle in 1687, Tontz continued in command at Fort St. Louis, which La Salle had built on Starved Rock in Illinois, and there he carried on a profitable fur trade for several years.

Henri de Tontz was an important factor in securing the Mississippi valley for this infant nation, then it owes an even greater debt of gratitude to another "Italian immigrant" who helped keep that inland empire under the American flag.

As a youth Vigo enlisted in the Spanish army for service in the colonies as a mulatto. Sent first to Havana, Cuba, his first appearance on American soil was in New Orleans as a "fusilero" in the militia of the Spanish colony of Louisiana.

troops and made his way up the Mississippi to St. Louis, where he became the secret partner of Don Fernando de Leyba, Spanish governor of Upper Louisiana, in the fur trade.

When George Rogers Clark captured Kaskaskia from the British in 1773 Vigo, known now as "the Spanish merchant" was one of the wealthiest men in the whole Mississippi valley.

After the Revolution Vigo made his home in Vincennes and continued to provide money to sustain American credit in the newly won wilderness and to build up a series of trading posts and protected trade routes which would bind the Indians to the American cause.

William Henry Harrison, first governor of Indiana territory, became Vigo's friend and tried to help get the claims paid, both then and later when he became President.

Colombo, Cabot, Vespucci, Tontz, Vigo—so reads the roll of distinguished "Italian immigrants" to America. One other name should be added to the list—Phillip Mazzel, friend, neighbor and business associate of Thomas Jefferson.

The unsettled conditions of the country during the Revolution, however, caused Mazzel to give up his experiments. Then the state of Virginia employed him to go to Europe to solicit a loan from the Tuscan government, a loan which, incidentally, seems never to have been repaid by Virginia any more than it repaid Francesco Vigo for the money he had expended to aid her son, George Rogers Clark.

In 1792 Mazzel was made privy councillor to the king of Poland and in 1802 he received a pension from Czar Alexander of Russia, even though he was an ardent Republican.

Let Our Motto Be GOOD HEALTH BY DR. LLOYD ARNOLD Professor of Bacteriology and Preventive Medicine, University of Illinois, College of Medicine.

ASTHMA, HAY FEVER, HIVES AND SICK HEADACHE

Spontaneous hypersensitiveness in man are big words that, without proper explanation, mean very little, but, as a matter of fact, spontaneous hypersensitiveness includes asthma, hay fever, eczema, and such common diseases which, while they rarely carry us to the grave, certainly make us exceedingly uncomfortable.

It has been found that, when both parents have suffered from hay fever or asthma, 58 per cent of the children have these ailments.

Hay fever is usually associated with August, the month in which ragweed pollen is most numerous in the air. But the hypersensitive condition of the nose can be brought about by other substances than plant pollens, animal hair, dandruff, or such substances as perfumes and certain foods, such as strawberries, almonds, fish, etc.

Hay fever parents usually beget hay fever children, and asthmatic parents beget asthmatic children.

Hay fever is usually associated with August, the month in which ragweed pollen is most numerous in the air. But the hypersensitive condition of the nose can be brought about by other substances than plant pollens, animal hair, dandruff, or such substances as perfumes and certain foods, such as strawberries, almonds, fish, etc.

The cause of asthma can be the same as that of hay fever. Inhaling certain substances, ingesting certain substances as food or remove foci of bacterial growths, can cause an increased sensitiveness of the musculature of the tubes leading air to the lungs.

In studies which have been carried on at the Illinois Research hospital in connection with the University of Illinois, it seems that an individual belonging to the asthma, hay fever, eczema or hives group is put together in a different way from the rest of us.

The individuals who suffer from migraine headache, the sick headache that comes on with regular periodicity, really belong to the same general group as the hypersensitive persons do.

Our conclusion then is that persons suffering from asthma, hay fever, eczema, hives and migraine, have a very unstable involuntary nervous system.

The involuntary controlling machinery of their body functions is so regulated that it can be upset or thrown out of tune as a result of contact with irritating substances that to the rest of us produce no deviation from the normal. We know even less about the migraine group of sufferers than the hay fever group.

Why the moon should be partial to lovers one might easily explain on very prosaic grounds—perhaps not unlike the reasoning of the Irishman who called the sun a coward because he goes away as soon as it becomes dark, whereas the blessed moon stays with us most of the night!

BEFORE THE GOLD RUSH

I doubt that any area of early mining of civilized life and government more clearly than did the Kingdom of the old days. Prior to the year 1808, these towns got along without murder, thievery or graft, without jail, courthouse, post office, church or schools.

Nobody had looked on anything but the influx of "civilization" in a being barred from the inside of a door. I remember one instance of a door being barred from the inside in the written instructions outside on how to get in. Newcomers commented on this, but the old ones explained that it made sense.

Several sentences in English, Spanish and several words in Latin are spoken by a hardscrabble land owned by a man in Bradford, England.
