LOCAL BUSINESS- MAN DIES

John J. Schladweiler, a well-known local business man and member of the village board, died at his home at 10:30 a. m. Sunday morning, Aug. 6, after a long illness of about a week.

Mr. Schladweiler was born in Germany in 1864. He came to Kewaskum in 1888 and has since that time been a resident of this village. He was married to Miss Annie Eichenlaub, who survives. Three children survive: Mrs. Mary Lattner of Elm Street, Mrs. Margaret Turtenwald of 10th St., and Mrs. Josephine Brunner, also of Elm Street.

Mr. Schladweiler was a member of the village board for several years and was formerly a member of the Wisconsin Fire Insurance Co. He was also a member of the St. Francis church.

POPULAR COUPLE MARRIED SUNDAY

St. John's Lutheran church at New Fane was the scene of the marriage of one of Kewaskum's popular young men to one of New Fane's most popular young ladies in a beautiful summer service when Rev. C. J. Gutekunst officiated at the ceremony which united Miss Lucille Heberer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Heberer, and Otto Stenscheke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Traugott Stenscheke, man and wife, at 4:30 p. m. last Sunday, Aug. 2, at a candle-light service.

Miss Lucille Heberer, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, while Mrs. Roland Heberer, a sister-in-law of the bride, acted as bridesmaid. Both attendants wore mouseline de sole gowns in Redingote style, with buttons down the front, Peter Pan collars, and doubled ruffled sleeves. The dresses were worn over French taffeta slips of peach color. They also wore blue sandals and large horsehair hats of matching blue.

Marilyn Jane Heberer, the flower girl, wore a yellow georgette dress and a blue maline hair bow.
Attendants of the bridegroom were Leo Zacho, best man, and Roland Heberer, groomsmen, Walter Werner and Carl Melahn, Jr., served as ushers.
The bride's gown was of angel chiffon of the princess type with a Queen Ann standing collar and tiny buttons all the way down the back, ending into a long sweeping train, finished with a flare of ruffles around the hem and train. She wore a veil of orange blossoms Juliet cap style with a bluish veil over the face and a long sweeping veil behind the tiny cap. Her bouquet was of white roses and her attendants had bouquets of roses made up into colonial bouquets.

The church was very prettily decorated with palms, ferns and candelabra, and the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was held following the ceremony, was decorated with cut flowers. About 80 guests were entertained. Dinner was served at the Republican House in this village.

Mr. and Mrs. Stenscheke, both of whom attended the Kewaskum High school, will be at home after Sept. 1, at 426 North Street, West Bend, where the bride is employed at the Vogue Beauty Shoppe. Mr. Stenscheke is in the employ of the Kewaskum Aluminum company.

FOUNDRY BIDS FAREWELL

On Thursday of this week workmen began tearing down the old Remmel Manufacturing Co. foundry, located to the rear of the baseball grounds on First street, which has been idle for quite a few years but used to be a busy place where many famous Remmel concrete mixers, silo fillers, and other parts originated and were manufactured. The site will probably be transformed into residence lots.

HARD GAME NEXT SUNDAY

After three home games in a row the locals will again take the road Sunday when they travel to Kohler to play a game which will take a lot of good baseball to win. Kohler has beaten Kewaskum in both games; thus far but the boys are determined to reverse the score Sunday and hold first place as well as their winning streak. Go see this worthwhile game.

VERY LARGE CROWD SEES DONKEY GAME

A surprisingly large crowd of 500 people came out Wednesday evening to see Campbellsport engage Kewaskum in a floodlight game of donkey baseball on the local diamond, sponsored by the baseball club. Kewaskum won the game 6 to 3 in eight innings. A feature of the game was the whirlwind riding of Frank Bauer of the visitors—we wonder who had it the hardest, he or the donkey, or the men who lifted him astride. Pat Guenther also rode—but not for long. Elmer Ramthun was the star jacksacker for the locals, getting three long hits and scoring two runs. Other local players included "Hans" Schlosser, "Bud" Lay, "Sully" Claus, "Ham" Schmidt, "Butch" Smith, Fred Buss, Jr., "Smokie" Keller, "Butch" Casper, and Bill Schaefer. All present had a big time except, maybe, several of the players who bit the dust, but there were no injuries and all were well satisfied.

REGISTRATION OF WORKERS ELIGIBLE FOR BENEFITS

The District United States Employment Service will conduct a registration of workers in the Washington County Court House in West Bend on Tuesday afternoon, August 11, 1936 at 1:30 p. m.
This registration is primarily for the purpose of allowing workers who are eligible for benefits under the Unemployment Compensation Act to report their unemployment and renew applications for work. Workers who are not eligible will also be served. Hereafter, every Tuesday will be the regular registration day for this village and the surrounding territory.

ANNUAL HARVEST FESTIVAL

St. John's congregation of Johnsburg will hold their Annual Harvest Festival and Picnic on the parish grounds on Sunday, August 16th. Attractions, amusements all day and evening. A cordial invitation is extended by the Reverend Pastor, Father Beyer, and the members of the congregation.

POULTRY CARD PARTY

A card party will be held at Auburn Heights on Sunday, Aug. 9, starting at 2 p. m. Skat, schafskopf, five hundred and rummy will be played. Admission 25c. Poultry prizes, consisting of ducks and chickens will be given. Chicken will also be served. Notice is also given that a dance will be held Saturday night, Aug. 15th.

FLOWER SHOW CANCELLED

Owing to the continued dry weather and the scarcity of flowers, the local Woman's club has decided to cancel the flower show scheduled for Aug. 12.

BULLHEAD AND PERCH LUNCH

Fresh bullheads and special boneless perch will be served at Heiser's tavern Friday evening, Aug. 7. Also sea foods served at all times.

EMPLOYED IN PHILADELPHIA

Bruno Ramthun of New Fane, a graduate of the Kewaskum High school and the University of Wisconsin, left Friday for Philadelphia, Pa. where he is employed.

WAYNE WOMAN BADLY INJURED

Thought near death Monday night when she was taken to St. Agnes hospital, Fond du Lac, after being injured in an automobile accident, Mrs. John Foerster, 60, whose husband operates a tavern at Wayne Center, west of Kewaskum, was reported to be in a fairly good condition Tuesday.
Mrs. Foerster was riding in a small roadster with her son, Jerome, 17, when he turned out to pass a team and hayrack proceeding in the same direction three miles north of Wayne Center on the Campbellsport road.
The car failed to clear the rack, and a projecting board caught the right side of the car. Mrs. Foerster was thrown out. Pieces of board and glass from the windshield were imbedded in her head, neck and chest.
She sustained severe lacerations, one around the front of her neck and another on her face involving her right eye. A physician was summoned to the scene from Campbellsport and the county ambulance was called.
Mrs. Foerster and her son were on their way to Campbellsport on a shopping trip. The team was being driven by Henry Jung, a farmer residing near the scene of the accident.
Jerome Foerster sustained a bruise on one leg and Jung escaped injury.

SAFETY COUNCIL HOLDS MEETING HERE

The Washington County Safety Council held its regular monthly meeting here in the Temperance Hall Monday evening, Aug. 3, being attended by about thirty members and others interested in the work of the council. After the reading of the reports Traffic Officer Brugger of West Bend reported several bad culverts on county highways and after a discussion by the council it was decided to correct same to provide greater safety for motorists.
It was also brought up at the meeting for the establishing of additional warning signals at intersections in villages and cities with trunk highways, especially in the village of Kewaskum, the intersection of Main street and Fond du Lac avenue being a menace to the safety of the general public.
Other safety measures were brought up and discussed at the meeting and taken all in all the meeting was a very successful one.
The next meeting of the council will be held at Richfield on Sept. 14.

G. U. G. GERMANIA OUTING

The G. U. G. Germania society of Kewaskum will hold a fish fry at the summer home of Chas. Meisnecke at Round Lake on Sunday, August 16th. All members, their families and their guests are invited. Members are requested not to bring any lunch or refreshments as they will be served by the society.

The local baseball team scored 12 runs in the first inning against West Bend here Sunday to sew up the ball game and cop an easy 15 to 5 victory. This was Kewaskum's fourth straight win, three of them being in the second half of the split season, against no defeats, which puts the team on top of the league standings.

Patterson started on the hill for the Benders, but was way off from his usual steady game, and was removed in the first inning after walking two men and allowing three hits, two of them triples. Manager Palt then toed the rubber but was no better. He allowed one walk and four hits in a row, including a homer and double. Patterson came back in and this time retired the side after 12 runs crossed the rubber, following which he pitched fair ball for the remainder of the game.

Jagmin pitched very good ball for the winners, striking out 11 invading batters and allowing only seven hits. Shortstop Wozniak was the batting star of the game with three hits—a single, triple and home run. The outstanding feature was that his homer and triple both came in the same inning—the big first. Jagmin also cracked out three hits besides his stellar pitching. Lane led the losers' hitting by connecting for a triple and a single.

West Bend made Kewaskum take notice in the first inning by taking a two run lead on a single by Lane and successive triples by Patterson and Miller.

But how small these two runs looked after the first inning was entirely over and the locals had put on the biggest one-inning scoring spree of the season with twelve (12) markers. It all started with Conley, the first man at bat, when he hit a three bagger. Marx and Mathias both walked on Patterson's wild streak, filling the bases. Mucha singled scoring Conley, Wozniak tripled sending in all three. Palt took the mound and walked Kral. Henslak was safe on a fielder's choice and Harbeck bunted, scoring Wozniak and advancing Kral and Henslak. Jagmin was safe on a fielder's choice and Conley filed out, scoring Kral, Marx singled scoring Henslak, Mathias doubled scoring Jagmin and Marx, Mucha singled scoring Mathias, Wozniak got his second extra base hit of the inning, a home run, scoring Mucha and himself. Patterson relieved Palt and retired the side—12 runs, 7 hits, 2 errors and 3 walks.

Kewaskum scored three more in the fifth to bring it to 15 on singles by Jagmin, Marx and Wozniak and two errors.

The Benders made their total three in the sixth inning on a triple by Lane and a single by Lucz; four in the seventh on a homer by Sonnenberg, and five in the ninth on a homer by Gonring.

STOP OFF IN KEWASKUM

These lakes are easily reached. Take No. 55 north out of Milwaukee until you get to Kewaskum. Stop long enough in Kewaskum to see Joe Eberle's beagles and all the blue ribbons they've won, then take County Trunk G and just follow your nose. The road leads between lakes, through the heart of the tumbled terrain and if you can't find a lake that suits, ask anyone and he'll direct you to another. Surprisingly clear, often quite deep, the kettle moraine lakes are comparatively unfished for southern waters.

SAYS FISHING IS GOOD

If it's panfish with the kids on Sunday and maybe a gambler's chance for a big bass or northern pike, don't pass them up. Less than 50 miles from Milwaukee's teeming streets, all within a 10-mile square area, all with fish, one wonders why these waters are not developed more fully by resort people. Not such good boats. Fishermen's boats. Strong and seaworthy but not fancy.

PEOPLE TALKING OF DROUGHT

As everywhere now, the people talk of the drought—how the only crop they have that's any good is the first hay cutting, how the corn and potatoes are starving for water, how the cows in pasture find little left that is green and how even the sheep, deep grazers that they are, find nothing green and juicy in the grass roots. Crizzled John Tunn, near Campbellsport, eyed the sun crisped hills Tuesday afternoon and said it all in a phrase: "The corn done fine until July 1. Since then it's been growing backwards!"

JOURNAL WRITER LAUDS OUR KETTLE MORAINE LAKES

NOTE—The following interesting and complimentary article was written by Gordon MacQuarrie, well-known outdoor writer and authority of the Milwaukee Journal staff in his "Right Off the Reel" column of last Thursday's Journal, after he had made a fishing trip through the Kettle Moraine district and Kewaskum on Wednesday:

CALLS ON LOUIS BUTZKE

Heat waves shimmered over the tumbled hills of the kettle moraine district Wednesday to remind the country folk the drought was not yet broken. Up in the mow of Louis Butzke's barn near Campbellsport the whole family, including Mrs. Butzke, lolled, forking out shocks way up on top of the Timothy and alfalfa to store it against possible rain.
"Rain?" says Butzke. "Where did I ever hear that word before? We ought to leave this oats outside and thresh it in the shock but I guess us farmers just naturally protect it from force of habit."

FISHES AT LAKE FIFTEEN

Toward evening the sun's heat waned but the wind kept its cool strength and when we rowed out on Lake Fifteen the perch and roach (bluegills) were on the job in about 20 feet of water.
Ever willing to investigate a baited hook, these fish kept us busy until the rainless gray clouds, pink underneath from the setting sun, piled over us like home going sheep and we worked into the lily pads for a try at some large mouths. But we were forced to be content with panfish. The bass were not home. Northern pike followed our lures but shied off near the boat.

Lake Fifteen, with the half dozen other better known kettle moraine lakes, is a welcome evening haven for the folks of Washington, Fond du Lac and Sheboygan counties, who come to swim and fish and forget the heat that has turned the mound like hills of the moraine country into well browned muffins.

DESCRIBES KETTLE MORaine

One of the many regions of Wisconsin where geology students feast their eyes, the kettle moraine district is simply a place where the last retreating glacier, weary of its burden of sand and gravel, just dumped everything in disassorted piles.
Drumline—elongated piles of glacier borne debris—feather skelter over the landscape. The eye finds no place on the horizon where it is not tempted by a curving line. Hit or miss, the retreating glacier dropped its load, leaving here a perfectly round hillock and there a pair of tapering ridges, unmarred by angular lines except where erosion has cut through a steep sidehill and left a gaping gash.

Among these cozy hills are the "kettle holes" and when one is deep enough there is a lake. A good half dozen are fairly well known. All of them offer fishing, none boast of elaborate resorts and all are within an hour's spin of Milwaukee. There's Moon lake, site of a state game farm, closed to fishermen but open for inspection Mondays for those who like to see 1,500 young pheasants and young wild mallards. The others are Lake Seven and Poret, Long, Round, Crooked and Spring lakes, every one of them surrounded by typical southeastern Wisconsin woods of elm, basswood, oak, maple and, here and there, ragged picturesque shagbark hickories.

Unearth Ancient City in Nebraska

The University of Nebraska Archeological expedition which excavated an ancient city at Lynch, Neb., is convinced that their exploration places pre-Columbia American civilization back as much as forty centuries. The city is probably the largest pre-historic community which ever existed in North America. Workers here excavating its "profiles" are leaving narrow partitions to make the "profiles" better.

IF MY HEART

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

IF MY heart were a vagrant wind
It would follow you,
Follow up where the sun is kind,
Or amid the dew.
If my heart were a rose in bloom
In the border grass
It would give of its heart's perfume
But when you pass.
If my heart were a star tonight
It would only shine,
When it caught the reflected light
Of your eyes divine.
If my heart shall a song begin
It is you must say—
If my heart were a violin
How you could play!

JUMPING ELASTIC

The magician shows a rubber band around the first two fingers of his left hand. He uses his right hand to snap the elastic, proving that it is tightly in position. Bending his fingers inward, the magician lets everyone see the elastic about the first two fingers. Magically, the rubber band jumps to the last two fingers of the hand. This trick is very deceptive. The actual trickery begins when the magician snaps the elastic with his right hand. Holding the palm of his hand toward himself, he draws out the rubber band; then bending his fingers, inserts all of them into the loop thus formed. Turning his hand so only the back is seen, the magician shows the elastic apparently on the first two fingers only. A quick extension of the fingers; the rubber band jumps.

Clean Premises, Get Rid of Flies

Eliminate Breeding Places, First Step in Driving Away Pest.

By JOHN A. AREY, Extension Specialist, North Carolina State College, WNU Service.

One female fly allowed to live and breed may leave millions of descendants by fall. Don't give them a chance to breed.

Flies are not only carriers of filth and disease, but they are a constant source of annoyance to cattle and livestock. Cows will not give as much milk if continually harassed by flies.

The first step in getting rid of this nuisance is to eliminate breeding places. Manure from stables should be removed daily, if possible.

When practical, it is best to haul the manure direct to the fields where it can be spread over the land. Where this is impractical, at least try not to leave large piles of manure lying around for many days at a time.

Clean up the premises of the house and barnyard. Any filth left exposed will serve as a breeding place for flies.

With the best of care, however, it will be impossible to destroy all flies in the larval stage. Therefore, it is advisable to use traps, poisons and sprays in fighting this pest.

A good poison can be made by mixing three quarts of skim milk with one-fourth quart of formaldehyde and one-fourth quart of molasses. Place the mixture in shallow containers where the flies are, but where animals and poultry cannot get at it.

A good spray is very effective. Follow the directions given, and good results will be obtained.

Horses Riding in Truck Should Face the Right

When horses are loaded crosswise into an open motor truck they are safer if their heads are toward the outside of the road. Reports to the United States Department of Agriculture tell of horses seriously injured by passing traffic—often another truck—when they are loaded with heads toward the center of the road. The danger is greatest at night.

A common practice when hauling horses in open trucks is to load them half and half, that is, crosswise with every other head toward the center of the road. The length of the average horse from tail to breast is about the same as the width of the average live stock truck. Although horses are loaded conveniently and compactly in this fashion, with the head and neck extended over the side of the truck, it is safer to load them so that all face the outside of the road.

In any event, says the bureau of animal industry, horses in a motor truck should have good footing and be so secured that they are not upset by sudden stops and starts.

Teeth of Horse

The canine, or as they are commonly called the "bride teeth," of a horse come in and are in wear at five years of age. However, according to the Rural New Yorker, mares do not normally have such teeth; they occur commonly or normally only in the gelding and stallion. When mares have such teeth they are usually non-breeders; many call such sterile mares "wolf-teeth mares." The appearance of such teeth in the mare is a symptom rather than a cause of such sterility.

Weeds Here to Stay

Weeds, says a Northwestern university botanist, are here to stay. Prof. Oliver Duggins, after a study of 100 common American weed types, reached these conclusions: Deep roots enable weeds to survive cold winters; they can grow in a wide range of soils; they have long flowering periods and efficient methods of distributing seeds; they drive out neighboring plants, and they are indifferent to climatic conditions.

Fattening Beef Calves

Beef calves may be permitted to run with their dams through the summer and be fed liberally on grains by means of a "creep" and be ready for market at nine months of age, weighing from 500 to 700 pounds. January or February calves may be fat enough to market directly off the cows by fall. Calves born in early spring and when pasture conditions are not favorable, may require fall feeding in a dry lot for a couple of months before they are marketed.

Rotation in Pastures

Pasture experiments in Great Britain during the last few years indicate that better results can be secured from a rotation in pastures, and that while there are some lands which are continuously in grass, writes an agriculturist in the Montreal Herald, yet in many cases the laying down of land to permanent pasture is not regarded as good a system of farming as establishing a rotation of crops including grass.

Peculiarities of Cucumbers

Cucumbers can be grown on almost any kind of soil, although they like sandy loams best. They like a soil that is well drained but one that holds moisture. Owing to diseases, a number of which attack cucumbers such as mosaic and bacterial wilt, a long-time rotation should be practiced for best results, says the Missouri Farmer, and they will do best on land where vine crops have not been grown four years previous to planting.

DR. JAMES W. BARTON
Talks About

Warm Weather Vs. Reducing

AS SUMMER progresses, the warm weather gives a favorable opportunity to those who are seriously considering the reduction of their weight.

During warm weather much less food is eaten because about 80 per cent of the food we eat is used simply to keep the body warm and all its processes working nicely. Only about 20 per cent is to supply energy for work or exercise. We don't need to keep as warm during the warm weather.

Thus less food is necessary anyway and that gives a good start toward weight reduction.

Another favorable point is that the rich or concentrated foods which put on weight are not as popular or palatable — do not invite use to the same extent — as the foods that are not so rich or concentrated. Thus we find that foods that have more cellulose or roughage, foods that are more "straw-like" in character, are eaten in greater amounts during the warm than the cold weather.

Salads, Both Fruit and Vegetable, Form a Large Proportion of the Summer Diet

Salads, both fruit and vegetable, form a large proportion of the summer diet which not only helps to overcome constipation, but prevents increase in weight.

What are known as the high residue foods—containing more fibrous tissue which the body does not absorb—are the fruits and vegetables containing the straw-like cellulose which surround the actual food part of the fruit and vegetable.

The high residue fruits are: figs, dates, apricots, prunes, raisins, raspberries, currants, gooseberries, peaches, pears, plums, grapes, apples, strawberries, cantaloupe, oranges, lemons, grapefruit and rhubarb.

How to Pick Foods.

The high residue vegetables are: peas, beans, green peas, lima beans, corn, parsnip, turnip; raw vegetables—cabbage, tomatoes, carrots, onions, celery, cucumber, lettuce; cooked vegetables—aspargus, beets, carrots, cauliflower, cabbage, brussels sprouts, spinach, tomatoes, onions, string beans.

Foods with a low residue—rich or concentrated foods with little fibre or roughage—are: sugar, fats, meats, eggs, milk.

It can thus be seen that the foods that seem to be most "suitable" for warm or hot weather are the very foods that by their large bulk will satisfy the appetite and stomach and yet will not be as rich in fuel value as the foods that are more popular in cold weather.

Fortunately the warm weather makes the body perspire freely so that the large quantities of water and soft drinks that are consumed do not get a chance to add much if any weight to the overweight individual.

Avoid Fat Foods.

Fortunately another class of food that is not popular in the summer is the fat foods—fat meat, cream, butter, rich pastry. Of course oil is used to some extent in the dressing which is used with salads but some fat "protective" food should be eaten by everybody.

Sugar—so rich in food value and so active as a fat storer—is not needed so much in the warm weather, and may be set down with a little less regret or longing than during the cold weather.

Lean meat is valuable in reducing weight in the warm weather as it satisfies the appetite, builds worn tissue, but does not store fuel, and makes the body processes work faster, thus helping to burn up or prevent fat formation.

So get a start at weight reduction during the warm weather when everything is in your favor—less food needed, perspiration burning up or removing the fat, and very little exercise necessary to produce profuse perspiration.

I believe the above points should be sufficient to show the overweight individual that the warm weather is a good time in which to start weight reduction.

Speed of the Camel

A pack camel can travel, fully loaded, 25 miles a day. But the well-bred "trotting" camel, which is a beautiful white beast, slim and graceful, can cover 40 to 70 miles in that time.

Meaning of Abbreviation "Cir."

The abbreviation "cir." when placed before a date stands for the Latin word "circa," meaning "about." It is often used in connection with dates which cannot be fixed exactly.

Quilt of Applique Is Popular; Easy to Do

Pattern 1191

You can have good luck tokens 'round you year in, year out, if you make this Bluebird quilt, and such a simple one it is too, in easy applique, with each bird all in one patch. You may make the birds uniform in color, or vary them by using up colorful scraps. Thus using but three materials.

Pattern 1191 comes to you with complete, simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing, together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed size, and a diagram of block which serves as a guide for placing the patches and suggests contrasting materials.

The Parts Books Play in Our Lives

Books may play two different parts in the lives of men. They may build for us the walls of another and quite separate world in which we can take refuge from all that wounds and limits and frustrates us in this one. Or they may be the daily bread of our thought and action.

But whichever part they play whether they are to us the quiet garden in which the spirit dwells apart, or the fuel which feeds the active, militant mind and arms it for its encounter with hard facts, they become an integral part of the texture of our being.—Lady Violet Bonham Carter.

JERRY CAN FIND NO TRAPS

JERRY MUSKRAT was puzzled. He was very much puzzled. When he discovered that the stranger had pieces of carrot and apple at Jerry's favorite eating place, he had guessed at once that the stranger had been in each one of the places. So, for a whole day he had kept away from them. Then Jerry had been too much for the stranger. He just had to go over to see these delicious tid-bits were still there. The first place he visited was an old trap under water. On the

Good Things From Good Cooks

WHEN you cannot think of a different salad for your family try:

Cottage Cheese With Figs

Mold well seasoned cottage cheese into dome shapes and dispose on crisp lettuce. Cut plump figs into halves and arrange in an upright border around the cheese. Serve with french dressing.

Veal and Ham Pie

Cut one pound of veal steak into inch dice and place in the bottom of a casserole. Over it arrange one-half pound of cooked ham cut into strips. Then add four hard cooked eggs cut into halves lengthwise. Dissolve one bouillon cube in a cupful of boiling water, add one-half teaspoonful of salt, one-fourth teaspoonful of paprika, one tablespoonful of onion juice and one pint of tomato pulp. Pour this over the meat and cover with:

Vegetable Crust

Take one each of grated raw carrot and parsnips, one pint of mashed potatoes, one-half cupful of melted butter and salt and pepper to season. Spread, after blending well, over the pie, leaving it rough

Mahabharata Oldest Epic

The Mahabharata, a sacred book of the Hindus and one of the two great religious books of ancient India—the other being the Ramayana—is probably the oldest epic in the world. It is about eight times as long as the Iliad and the Odyssey together.—Gas Logic.

THROUGH A Woman's Eyes

By JEAN NEWTON

WIFE BEATING

SHOULD a wife beater be whipped at the whipping post? That is the question propounded by one of our readers who sends a news item of a man in Maryland who in addition to a jail sentence for beating his wife was ordered whipped at the post. Ten lashes was his punishment.

The question reminds me of one asked not long ago: "Should a woman convicted of brutal and cold-blooded murder of her husband be electrocuted?"

In the case in question the woman had been guilty of one of the cruelest and least understandable crimes which ever came to the attention of the public. Most people felt that she merited the most severe punishment consistent with enlightened ideas of punishment. And so we come to the whipping post, which is still a legal method of punishment in some states. In the light of methods of correction which are the result of greater thought than was formerly given to the treatment of criminals of greater knowledge of psychology and a greater feeling of responsibility and public conscience, this seems to many of us outdated.

A Nightmare

And yet, if the punishment is to fit the crime, if punishment is something which is to "help the offender to remember not to repeat his offense," it would certainly seem logical to treat wife beating with the whipping post, to give the offender "some of his own medicine"—administered, accordingly, by one of greater physical force than himself! Verily if there is any offense which can justify such a horrible and debasing instrument as the whipping post, it is the crime of a man beating his wife.

ALTON BERG MARRIES

DOROTHY WITTENBURG

At a very pretty wedding solemnized at St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church at Cascade at 7 p. m. July 25, Miss Dorothy Wittenburg, formerly of here, became the bride of Alton Berg of Cascade. Rev. J. F. Boerger read the service, Miss Loraine Sater played "The Bridal Chorus" from Lohengrin. Alvin Krahn of Kewaskum rendered the violin solo "I Love You Truly" and Mrs. Frank Boerger sang "At Dawning." Preceding the bridal party were the ushers, Warren and Wallace Tupper, cousins of the groom. They were followed by the Misses Lucile Steinke and Marie Krahn, Victor Krahn and Alvin Schmidt. The maid of honor, Miss Sylvia Schmidt, and the little flower girls, Betty Tupper and Phyllis Schmidt, came just before the bride who met the groom and best man, Karl Leissring, at the altar. The bride's dress was of white lace over satin fashioned in princess style. Her lace edged tulle veil was arranged in cap effect. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and feverfew. Miss Schmidt's gown was of blue taffeta, with which she carried an arm bouquet of yellow gladioli. The bridesmaids were dressed in pink mousseline de soie and had corsages of mixed flowers. After the ceremony a wedding dinner was served to thirty guests at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Berg, Cascade. The young couple left the same evening for a motor trip through the state.

MISS DOROTHY GRAFF

WEDS NORMAN ANHALT

Before a large gathering of friends and relatives at 9 a. m. Saturday at Our Lady of Angels church, Miss Dorothy Graff became the bride of Norman Anhalt of Plymouth. Rev. Joseph J. Michels said the nuptial high mass.

The bride was attired in white silk lace fashioned in princess style. Her lace edged finger-tip veil was arranged in a turban. She carried a white rosary and a bouquet of white roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Anna Marie Schockmel, wore a gown of blue lace with a rose sash and a pictured hat of blue. Her arm bouquet was of American beauty roses.

Miss Isabella Anhalt, sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, wore coral pink with matching accessories. Her arm bouquet was of roses.

The groom was attended by Martin Roltgen.

Mrs. John Foy presided at the organ and during the offertory Mrs. John Roltgen and Miss Anhalt sang "Ave Maria."

A breakfast and reception followed at the home of the groom's father, Peter Anhalt in Plymouth.

After a short wedding trip to the Dells of Wisconsin, Mr. and Mrs. Anhalt will take up their residence in Kohler where the groom is employed.

Guests from here who attended were: Rev. Jos. J. Michele, Mrs. Anne Roltgen, Misses Anne and Mary Roltgen, Miss Alice Calvey, Martin Roltgen, Jerome Roltgen, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roltgen and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Roltgen and daughter Rose Ann, Miss Isabella Scannell, Miss Florence Scannell, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Schockmel, Miss Verona Herbert, Miss Eileen Scannell, Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Gannon and family, Alton Gannon, Miss Hazel Ann Burke and George Baker.

The bride was honored at a number of pre-nuptial parties. Mrs. Anne Roltgen was hostess at her home. Mr. and Mrs. A. Helmann entertained at their home in Chilton, and the Social Dramatic club of Our Lady of Angels church, of which the bride was a member, was entertained Thursday evening at the home of Miss Isabella Scannell. The assisting hostesses were the Misses Florence Scannell, Genevieve Foy, Laura Scannell, and Mary McNamara, Bunco and Five Hundred furnished entertainment. Honors were awarded to Miss Betty Twohig, Miss Elenor Mitchell and Wayne Thompson. Lunch was served at small tables. The guest of honor was presented with a gift from the club.

"Modern Messages From Great Music" says: "Charles Wesley stood at an open window. As he watched, a bird approached, pursued by a hawk. The bird flew to Wesley and nestled in his bosom. The great hymn writer was himself passing through a severe trial. The experience with the bird suggested his writing, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul"

Authentic Giants

In the days of Emperor Claudius (41-54 A. D.), there was brought to Rome an Arabian giant, Gabara, who is said by Pliny to have measured nine feet nine inches in height. None of the giants of more recent record have had quite such a stature, although the English marvel, John Middleton, born in Lancashire in the reign of James I. was nine feet three inches tall. An Austrian, Joseph Winkelmaier, who was exhibited about Europe in the '80s, was eight feet nine inches tall, and there have been quite a few others who have approached this height.

Trees in Palestine

Some of the trees which grew in Palestine in Bible times included the oak, olive, cypress, tall, aloes, fig, bramble, cedar, sycamore, apple, frankincense, sycamore, palm, willow, pomegranate, hemlock juniper, chestnut, fir, pine, almond and almyg.

First Educated Blind Deaf Mute

The first blind deaf mute to be successfully educated was Laura Bridgman (1829-1889), whose parents placed her in Perkins institute, Boston. There she learned to read, write and to sew so well that eventually she became a teacher in the institute.

Announcing Our Big McCormick-Deering Farmall "Q-A" Machine Contest

TUESDAY, AUGUST 11

9:00 A. M.—2:00 P. M.—7:00 P. M.

Open to ALL BOYS (and GIRLS, too) 18 Years Old or Less

Come Demonstrate Your Speed and Skill—Compete for a FREE TRIP to the STATE FAIR

WE HOPE you'll drop in at the store and enter this contest right away. While you're here you can look over the "Q-A" machines and get in a little practice by attaching and detaching one of the machines on our floor. We'll furnish the Farmall 12 tractor and "Q-A" machine for your use in the practice trial and in the contest itself—you supply your own speed and skill.

To the boy or girl of this community who attaches and detaches a Farmall Quick-Attachable Cultivator in the shortest time we will award a FREE TRIP to the STATE FAIR at MILWAUKEE where you can compete with other community prize winners in the Grand Prize Contest to be held in the International Harvester exhibit.

You have every chance to make a good showing, for the McCormick-Deering Farmall 12 "Q-A" tools attach and detach so easily that only a few flips of the wrist are needed to do the trick. You don't need experience; we can tell you in a minute just what you have to do—and you can do the job almost that quick, too.

Come in and get all the "dope." And be sure to be on hand for the big contest, starting at 9 A.M. AUG. 11

AAA BRINGS $93,592 TO COUNTY

Washington county has received a total of $93,592.27 from the federal government in rental and benefit payments under the AAA program for the five month period ending May 31 of this year, according to a report reaching this office from A. Matt Werner, state director for the National Emergency Council of Wisconsin.

Strange Accident to Craft

A strange accident happened to a strange craft in the Bay of Biscay in 1878. Cleopatra's Needle, a 200-ton obelisk, was being towed—on a giant iron cradle supported by pontoons—from Egypt to England by the S. S. Olga. During a storm the cables snapped and the craft, despite its great size, was not found for more than two months.—Collier's Weekly.

Bald Eagle a Scavenger

While it is admitted that the bald eagle is one of our largest birds of prey, a large part of its food consists of offal. It is a scavenger combing the woods and watered shores constantly in search of dead fish and other live or dead creatures for food.

Elephants Careful

Elephants, when about to cross a stream or a marsh, carefully test the banks with their feet as in this country they do with bridges and railroad cars. Charles Darwin, in discussing their intelligence, makes special mention of this exploratory habit.

HAPPEN TO KNOW--

that the Bank of Kewaskum is inviting applications for loans to dependable borrowers. The Officers tell me that they have ample funds on hand and are anxious to put the money to work by making good loans, without red tape, to people right here in our home territory. They prefer loaning their money locally so that the community and local people will receive the benefits. With money going to work, business is bound to be better. I also happen to know that the interest this bank takes in its customers and the community is genuine and sincere. That's why I like to bank there!

Sons of Quebec Who "Fathered" American Cities

BY ELMO SCOTT WATSON

AMERICAN visitors to Quebec this summer are due to learn some facts about the history of their own country of which they probably have never before been aware.

At the entrance to these municipalities they will see signposts bearing plaques similar to this:

For the province of Quebec has erected such markers in more than a score of its cities and towns. It has done this to commemorate the deeds of some of its "sons who made good in foreign parts" and to draw the attention of Americans to the historical link between it and their country through these men.

Outstanding in this list is the name of Cavalier de La Salle, who has the distinction of being the "founder" of no less than three American cities—Niagara, N. Y.; Joliet, Ill., and Memphis, Tenn. Another city in Illinois bears his name, as does the county in which it is located, and there is a La Salle parish in Louisiana to commemorate the deeds of this intrepid explorer in the country where the last scenes in the drama of his life were enacted.

The City of Quebec, the first settlement in the province, founded by Samuel de Champlain (whose name is perpetuated in the beautiful lake in northern New York) was the home town of three other explorers in what is now the United States. They were Father Marquette, the priest; Louis Joliet, the fur trader, and an almost "forgotten man" of our early history whose explorations preceded those of the other two by 40 years. He was Jean Nicolet, discoverer of Lake Michigan, the first white explorer of the present state of Michigan, the first white man to set foot in what is now Wisconsin and by some historians believed to be the first white man to see the prairies of Illinois and the present site of Chicago.

Illinois has a city named for Joliet; both Wisconsin and Michigan have Marquette counties, and the latter has a city named for the Jesuit priest. But neither state has thus honored Jean Nicolet. The province of Quebec, however, has done better by him—with both a county and a town bearing his name.

Out in Utah is a city which bears the name of a man who was born in the City of Quebec. It is the City of Ogden which honors Peter Skene Ogden, son of a New York Loyalist, who fled to Canada during the Revolution and who became one of the leading magistrates of the province. His son joined the Hudson's Bay company at an early age and as one of its factors played an important part in the early history of the fur trade in the Great West.

One of his contemporaries in this period was another Quebec-born boy, Dr. John McLoughlin, who also entered the H. B. C. service, established Fort Vancouver on the Columbia, reigned there as the "Emperor of the West" and has come down in history as the "Father of Oregon." Riviere-du-Loup was his birthplace and there the commemorative plaque has been erected.

Like the City of Quebec, Montreal, was also the birthplace or home town of a number of notable in the early history of the United States. It was the birthplace of two brothers destined for fame by their exploits in the Lower Mississippi valley. One of them was Pierre le Moyné, Sieur d'Iberville, born there in 1661, who became the founder of the French colony of Louisiana and later founder of the City of Mobile, Ala. The other was Jean Baptiste le Moyné, Sieur Bienville, born in 1680, who became the founder of the City of New Orleans and of Biloxi, Miss. As governor of the colony which his brother founded, Bienville established the "code noir" which remained in force until the purchase of Louisiana by the United States and much of it was incorporated in the law of the American state which bears the name of the French colony. Another native son of Montreal was Jacques Porlier, founder of the City of Green Bay, Wis.

Although Antoine de La Mothe Cadillac was born in France, Montreal claims him as one of her sons, but Detroit, Mich., calls him "father." For it was Cadillac who laid the foundations of that city in 1701. At one time also he was commander at Fort Michilimackinac (on the present Mackinac Island, Mich.) and later he became governor of Louisiana. Another of Cadillac's connections with American history lies in the fact that in 1691 he was made lord of Bougainville and Mount Desert, Maine, and nearly a century later the commonwealth of Massachusetts confirmed to his granddaughter, Mme. Gregoire, so much of Mount Desert Island as was not already granted to others.

Another French-born "son of Montreal" was Daniel Greysolon Du Lhut, leader of a famous band of "coureurs du bois," fur trader and explorer of the Upper Mississippi, whose name is perpetuated in the modern city of Duluth, Minn. Two other explorers whose birthplaces are marked by commemorative plaques are La Verendrye, first white man in Wyoming and discoverer of the Big Horn mountains, who was born at Trois-Rivieres (Three Rivers) and Nicolas Perrot, who lived at Beaucour.

At the entrance of the village of Contrecoeur in Quebec stands a signpost which tells the visitor that here was born Captain Contrecoeur, "who erected a fort where now stands the city of Pittsburgh, Pa." But that is not his only claim to fame. For it was this same captain, who, as commandant of Fort Duquesne, sent out the force of French and Indians, to try to delay the advance of General Braddock and who won that amazing victory over the superior force of British redcoats and Colonials one hot summer day in 1755.

Visit the little town of Beaumont and the marker will tell you that here lived Jean Baptist Bissot, Sieur de Vincennes. He was not only a relative of Joliet, the explorer, but he was also an explorer in his own right.

Moreover he was a trusted lieutenant of Cadillac and a renowned fighter of the Indian enemies of the French until he perished at the stake in a Chickasaw village in 1736. Before that time, however, he had built a trading post and earth fort on the present site of an Indian city which now bears his name.

To this little town of Vincennes in 1789 came a young man who was a native of St. Antoine on the Richelieu river in the province of Quebec and during the next few years his name became famous in the adjoining territory of Illinois. It was Pierre Menard. He was a friend of Francisco Vigo, the Italian trader who had been such an aid to George Rogers Clark in the conquest of Vincennes ten years earlier and he accompanied Vigo on a trip east to Carlisle, Pa., where they had an interview with George Washington in regard to a plan for defense of the western frontier.

A few years later Menard moved to Kaskaskia, Ill., the oldest town in the Mississippi valley, and from that time on he played an increasingly important part in the development of the territory. When Illinois became a state he was its first lieutenant-governor and he also was one of the founders in St. Louis of the famous Missouri Fur company.

Almost as famous as Pierre Menard was his nephew, Michel Menard, born at St. Denis on the Richelieu in 1805. He became a fur trader in the Old Northwest at the age of sixteen, worked for his uncle in Illinois and Missouri and became so attached to the Indian mode of life that he joined a band of Shawnees, who later made him their chief. He went to Texas in 1833, became a member of the convention that declared the independence of the Lone Star republic 100 years ago and was the founder of the present city of Galveston.

It seems a far cry from such bustling modern cities as Milwaukee and Superior, Wis.; Ogdensburg, N. Y.; Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.; Dubuque, Iowa; St. Paul, Minn., and Kankakee, Ill., to the quiet little villages and towns in Quebec, but the visitor to the latter will find in the plaques which are erected there the link between them.

At Mascouche is one which tells him that here lived Repentigny, founder of Sault Ste. Marie; at Oka is one which records the fact that it was the home of Francois Picquet, who founded Ogdensburg; at Berthier was born J. B. Faribault, founder of Kankakee, and St. Michel d'Yamaska was the birthplace of J. B. Lefebvre, who founded Superior.

Vital Guerin, a pious churchman who was born at St. Remi de Napierville, founded a mission, which he called St. Pauls, on the Upper Mississippi. Today the capital of Minnesota, its name shortened to St. Paul, occupies that site and a great deal more. In 1762 in the little town of St. Pierre-les-Beccquets a boy was born to whom was given the name of Julien Dubuque. At an early age he left his native land and made his way through savage tribes to Prairie du Chien in far-away Wisconsin where he settled, was adopted by the Fox Indians and married a girl of that tribe. He began working the lead mines on the west bank of the Great River and today both on a trip east to Carlisle, Pa., and a village named Julien, a short distance away, perpetuate his fame.

Another native of St. Michel was Noel Le Vasseur, who at the age of seventeen went West in company with 60 other adventurous youths, joined up with a certain Rocheblave (who was later the last governor of the territory of Illinois under British rule) and became a fur trader in the employ of John Jacob Astor. He roamed the new state of Illinois and became the founder of the present town of Bourbonnais, Ill. (Incidentally, this town was named for Francois Bourbonnais, and Beauharnois, the town of his birth, has a plaque commemorating that fact.) Le Vasseur became a great favorite of the Indians and his influence with them was so great that he was appointed United States agent to supervise the removal of some of the tribes from Illinois to Iowa. Resenting their forced departure from their homeland, the Indians threatened to stage an uprising and only the forceful character of Le Vasseur prevented a serious outbreak of hostilities. Because of this feat he has been called a "second William Penn."

In the town of L'Assumption stands a marker recording the fact that "here was born Salomon Juneau, founder and first mayor of Milwaukee." Juneau was the son of Francois and Therese La Tulipe, who left France at the outbreak of the French revolution and changed their name to Juneau in an effort to put their old life behind them as much as possible. At an early age Salomon Juneau became an employe of the American Fur company in Wisconsin and in 1818 settled on the present site of Milwaukee as agent for the A. F. C. Two years later he married and he and his wife became the first permanent white settlers in Milwaukee. He was the first postmaster of the new town, the first president when it became a village in 1837, and when it was made a city in 1846 he became its first mayor.

Among the other towns in Quebec where commemorative markers have been erected are the following: St. Pierre de Montagny, birthplace of Norbert Blanchet, first bishop of Oregon; St. Henri-de-Lauzon, birthplace of Louis Blanchette, founder of St. Charles, Mo.; Ste. Anne-des-Plaines, birthplace of Prudent Beaudry, a pioneer and a mayor of Los Angeles, Calif., and Louiseville, birthplace of Benjamin Gervais, founder of Gervais, Minn.

And last but not least is the little town of Maskinonge, where was born Francois Xavier Aubry, the man who won enduring fame as one of the greatest long distance riders in the history of the West. In 1845 Aubry rode from Santa Fe, N. M., to Independence, Mo., a distance of 800 miles, in eight days and ten hours, and two years later, to win a bet of $1,000, he cut down that time to six days! Aubry City, Ariz., and Aubry City, Colo., perpetuate the name of this great frontiersman.

SALOMON JUNEAU

The Spitz Dog, named for the Arctic islands of Spitzbergen, is a descendant of the part-wolf ancestors of chows and samoyeds. Like them it pulled sleds in the frozen north. The breed later became popular in Europe. Various shepherd breeds, and the schipperke and the pomeranian, were developed from it.

Canals Under German Cities Underground canals extend more than 400 miles under the streets of Munich, Germany.

HE DEFEATED HIMSELF HISTORIANS lay the blame for James G. Blaine's defeat to a number of men. But the fact is that Blaine defeated himself—with the aid of Roscoe Conkling.

It started when both men were young congressmen. One day in 1866 the New Yorker, who had been lordling it over the lower house, became engaged in a dispute with the Maine representative and declared haughtily: "If the member from Maine had the least idea how profoundly indifferent I am to his opinion upon the subject under debate, I think he would hardly take the trouble to express it."

Blaine rose and, facing Conkling, delivered this speech: "As to the gentleman's cruel sarcasm, I hope he will not be too severe. The contempt of that large-minded gentleman is so willing; his haughty disdain, his grandiloquent swell, his majestic, supercilious overbearing, his crushing to myself and all the members of the house that I know it was an act of the greatest temerity to venture upon a controversy with him. But, sir, I know who is responsible for this. It is not his fault. It is the fault of another. That gifted and satirical writer, Theodore Tilton of the New York Independent, spent some weeks in this city recently. His letters published in that paper embraced, with many serious statements, a little jocose satire, a part of which was the statement that the mantle of the late Winter Davis had fallen upon the member from New York. That gentleman took it seriously and it has given his strut additional pomposity. The resemblance is striking. Hyperion to a satyr; Thersites to Hercules; mud to marble; dunghill to diamond; a singed cat to a royal Bengal tiger; a whining puppy to a roaring lion."

That brief talk—it took only two minutes—ruined Blaine's political career forever. It completely squelched Conkling but it pierced his vanity to the roots. From that moment he hated Blaine and for the next 20 years devoted himself to thwarting the "Plumed Knight." Twice he kept the New Englander from getting the Republican nomination and once contributed to his defeat at the polls in November.

ROORBACK AS ELECTION time nears, watch out for "roorbacks"—those campaign lies which are circulated in the last few days of a campaign by partisans of one candidate to discredit and perhaps aid in defeating another candidate. We've had such canards in every political campaign since the days of John Adams but it wasn't until 1844 that they were given their distinctive name.

On August 1 of that year a letter was printed in the Ithaca (N. Y.) Journal which asserted that James K. Polk, the Democratic candidate, branded his slaves with his initials as though they were so many cattle. Other abolitionist journals promptly reprinted the letter to sway sentiment in the North against the Tennesseean and it was as promptly denounced by Polk's supporters.

The editor of the Journal was attacked viciously and he retaliated by starting libel suits against his detractors. He declared that the truth of the statement could not be doubted, since the authority for the statement was a book which had "received the approbation of every American critic." It was Roorback's "Tour Through Southern and Western States in the Year 1838" and Roorback was a foreign observer with no personal interests and no friends to flatter. More credit and perhaps aid in defeating another candidate. We've had such canards in every political campaign since the days of John Adams but it wasn't until 1844 that they were given their distinctive name.

On August 1 of that year a letter was printed in the Ithaca (N. Y.) Journal which asserted that James K. Polk, the Democratic candidate, branded his slaves with his initials as though they were so many cattle. Other abolitionist journals promptly reprinted the letter to sway sentiment in the North against the Tennesseean and it was as promptly denounced by Polk's supporters.

After this revelation, the whole "villainous forgery" was investigated, the editor of the Ithaca Journal was exonerated and the author of the letter exposed as a Democratic officeholder, belonging to a faction opposed to Polk. The excitement over this incident died down before the election but that time the fame of "Roorback" a man who had never existed, was firmly established and his name has come down in history as a synonym for a political forgery or a lie in a whispering campaign.

Captivating Daytime Frocks

Pattern No. 1916-B

This clever dress features a flattering yoke which dips to a point in front and is equipped with twin slashes a few inches below the neckline to accommodate a ribbon bow of any color you wish to use. Most women like several different ones to which they match their accessories. Radiating tucks at the yoke and waist contribute a smooth fit and flattering effect, while center seams in front and back terminate in two kick pleats for reserved fullness where it will do

All Around the House

Baking soda will keep the baby's bottles sweet. After using wash the bottles carefully in hot soapy water, sterilize by scalding, then shake in a little baking soda and fill with cold water. Let stand until bottles are used again.

If it can be avoided, never wash combs, as water often makes the teeth split. A small brush made purposely to clean combs can be bought. With this the comb should be well brushed and then cleaned with a cloth.

To clean ivory and bone knife handles, make a paste of lemon juice and whiting. Rub this well into the handles, and if very stained allow the paste to remain for a few hours. Rinse quickly and polish with a soft cloth.

To remove the onion odor from the hands after peeling and slicing when they rub the hands with vinegar or lemon juice before washing with soap and water. If the onions are sliced under water and the hands are already wet rub them with dry salt.

If in breaking eggs into a mixing bowl a bad one should accidentally be dropped in, a whole cake may be spoiled. It is, therefore, wise to always break one egg at a time into a cup before putting it into the mixing bowl.

When mending a rip in the glove, button hole the two edges with a fine needle and fine thread, never silk. Now catch these threads together in a button hole stitch and you will have a neat and lasting repair.

Practical Youth Is Specially Misunderstood

"We're having stew for dinner," said the scoutmaster to the deerslayer, "and I want you to go and fetch me a turnip from Farmer Brown's field."

"Do you want a fairly big one?" asked the deerslayer. "Oh, pick one about the size of your head," was the reply. The deerslayer started for Farmer Brown's field. About twenty minutes elapsed, then Brown's deerslayer rushed into camp, greatly agitated. "Come quick with me," he gasped. "One of your heads has gone mad, and he's pulling up my turnips and trying to kill them." —Tit-Bits Magazine.

Tree 12,000 Years Old

Where most countries have their claims for interest in historic and pre-historic ruins, Queensland, Australia, boasts of possessing the oldest living thing in the world. It is a macarozamia tree about 100 feet in height and estimated to be more than 12,000 years old.

In the Tamborine mountains there is a grove of macarozamia trees, the youngest of which, only three feet in height, is 3,000 years old. Accurate scientific data on the macarozamia trees of Australia has been collected and established by the University of Chicago.

Ancient Sanctions

Maccabeus, the early Jewish historian, records the following example of sanctions applied in the days of the Roman empire—"If there come first any war upon the Romans... the people of the Jews shall help them... Neither shall they give anything to them that make war upon them, or aid them with victuals, weapons, money, or ships."

FARM AND HOME NOTES

In spite of the drouth and hot weather, Wisconsin's hay crop is estimated at more than 5 million tons—about 9 per cent less than the crop of last year and 14 per cent above average.
This is the report of the state crop reporter in late July.

At each of the Farmers Field Days being held in the state this summer, growers are getting better acquainted with hybrid corn. At each of these events an exhibit is being displayed to show how hybrid corn is developed, how it yields and why the seed must be handled differently than ordinary corn.

To thousands of people, organized economic cooperation—its ideals, its technique and its democratic methods —have become a harbor for thought and action. The movement can be regarded as an important advance in the direction of a more integrated society.—John R. Barton

The first piece of furniture ever owned by the College of Agriculture at the University of Wisconsin, was a rather ordinary kitchen table which has a place of honor among the heirlooms of the institution.

This summer, the poultry industry of the United States will lose millions of dollars worth of eggs, because the eggs are held at high temperatures on the farm and in retail stores.

Every one of the majors in agricultural education at the state college of agriculture who graduated in June had a job before August 1, reports J.
A. James of the department.

New York state with 100 dairy herd improvement associations in operation July 1, set a new record for that state. More than 58,000 cows are owned by the 2,423 members.

Weekly newspapers of the Budget state are sponsoring a Wisconsin Press Association Menu Making Contest which will feature dairy dishes at the state fair.

At least five new noxious weeds (leafy spurge, field bindweed, horse nettle, hoary alyssum, and French weed) are gaining entrance into many fields.

Many Tribes of Igorrots

The Igorrote people are divided among nearly a score of tribes. Among those inhabiting the Mountain province in the Philippines are the Aytao, Bontoc, Bontoc, Ifragno, and Kalligo.
They are still primitive, wild people, believers in evil spirits as rulers of the universe, with pagan ceremonies and worship, practicing trial marriages as a general custom, living under antiquated modes, and measuring time by the moon and seasons. They are the descendants of the earliest Malayan Invaders, who drove the original black woolly headed pygmy inhabitants back up into the mountains.

Bridge Tablet Inscription

The inscription on the bronze tablet placed by the Colonial Dames on the Louisville-Jeffersonville municipal bridge is as follows: The discovery of the Ohio river—in 1609 A. D. Robert Cavelier, Sieur de la Salle, commissioned by the French officials of Louis XIV at Quebec, seeking a water route to China and Japan, guided by an Indian and accompanied by a party in canoes, descended this river, called by the Iroquois Indians the Ohio, meaning the beautiful river.

Internal Heat of the Earth

The internal heat of the earth is a source of energy that is not intermittent and can be tapped anywhere on the land. In many parts of the earth hot gases blow into the atmosphere in enormous volume. They exude particularly in volcanic regions of Italy, California and Alaska. The steaming craters are caused by underground rivers coming in contact with volcanic fires.

FISH ARE PLANTED

WEST BEND—The Washington County Fish and Game Protective association received 80 cans of perch and roach and 20 cans of black bass from the Wisconsin Conservation commission hatchery at Neopit recently. Members of the association immediately planted the young fish in the various streams throughout the county.

GRAIN YIELD IS GOOD

HARTFORD—According to County Agent Skalsky, Washington county's new agricultural agent, grain is much better in this county than usually is reported. Berley is yielding 40 to 45 bushels per acre and early oats as high as 60 bushels to the acre. Farmers, he declared, must grow legume crops in anticipation of dry years.
Corn is hanging in the balance, but will improve if rain comes.

70TH ANNIVERSARY OBSERVANCE

CEDARBURG—A parade and carnival will open a two day observance of the seventieth anniversary of the Cedarburg fire department here Aug.
8. An open air dance, concessions and music by the fire department band will be features of the celebration at the fair grounds following the parade, which will be staged both days.

RELIEF NUMBER DROPS

PLYMOUTH—The number of relief recipients in the city of Plymouth has been cut 50 per cent between May 1 and August 1. The relief load May 1 was 150, and dropped to 121 by June 1, down to 85 persons on July 1, and stood at 75 persons on August 1.

SEWAGE PLANT FOR VILLAGE

SLINGER—At a special meeting of the village board of Slinger, on Monday evening, July 27, the board voted to have tentative plans drawn for a sewage system and sewage treatment plant. It is expected that the village will apply to the federal government for a 45 per cent PWA grant for the project.

FINED FOR SEINING MINNOWS

WALDO—John Kanfal and Gilbert
Newbauer, who said they reside on E.
Wright street, Milwaukee, were each fined $50 and costs by Justice Lester Grube of Sheboygan last Thursday on charges of seining minnows in a trout stream. The complaint was made by Conservation Warden James Eitck, who said he arrested the men on the Onion river west of here.

FIRES ON HORICON MARSH

HORICON—Sporadic fires on Horicon marsh, several of which threatened the valuable hay crop, have led the Town of Burnett, Dodge county, to issue an official warning against the wilful starting of fires in that vicinity. Any person caught wilfully starting fires in the area will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

PASTOR IS TRANSFERRED

WEST BEND—Rev. J. A. Dre's, assistant pastor of Holy Angels congregation in West Bend for the past four years, has left this city for Port Washington where he will become assistant pastor at St. Mary's congregation.
He will be succeeded in West Bend by Rev. John Goebel of Fond du Lac who was ordained at Milwaukee with the Class of 1936.

SEARCH BEING MADE FOR BELGIUM BANK ROBBERS

Sheriff's officers and police in Ozaukee and Sheboygan counties are launching a wide search for three bandits who participated in the holdup of the Belgium branch of the Port Washington State bank Monday.

The noonday robbery, staged with the precision of veteran criminals, yielded the trio $1,000 according to Clarence Hill, chairman of the board.

The three drove up to the Belgium bank and two of them, dressed like farmers, entered while the third remained in the driver's seat of their automobile with the engine going.
Adolph Ansay, cashier, and Henry Pierching, farmer, were in the bank at the time.

RECOVER BODY OF MAN DROWNED AT RANDOM LAKE

The body of Roland Brunner, 21
Thiensville, who drowned in Random Lake Saturday afternoon, Aug. 1, was recovered early Sunday afternoon after nearly 24 hours of effort to locate it.
The body was found in a shallow part of the lake, but had become badly tangled in the weeds.

Brunner, in company with Gordon Roth, Grafton, had been attending a picnic of the Gilbert Shoe company, Thiensville, of which both are employees. They took a canoe out, and capsized it.

No one saw the accident, as all were watching a ball game. However, their screams attracted the attention of picnickers, and canoes and rowboats went to their rescue. Brunner had sunk already, but the rescuers were able to save Roth.

THOMAS McBRIDE IS CALLED TO BEYOND

Thomas McBride, 80, passed away at the Plymouth hospital at 9:45 p. m.
Friday, July 31, after an illness of several weeks' duration. Mr. McBride, a former Cascade hotel proprietor, had made his home with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hughes of the town of Lyndon for the past six years.

Mr. McBride was born in the town of Scott, May 14, 1856, the son of Philip and Mary McBride. On August 26, 1892 he was married to Hannah Lynch of Mitchell, who preceded him in death on April 24, 1926.

JAMES CONNORS CALLED WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

James Connors, 61, life-long resident of the town of Mitchell, passed away at his home at 2:30 o'clock last Wednesday afternoon, July 29th.

Mr. Connors was born August 3, 1874, in the town of Mitchell, the son of Michael and Mary Connors, and had lived on the same farm his entire life. His marriage to Miss Catherine Gahagan took place October 7, 1903, and she preceded him in death on July 21, 1934.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Geo.
McDermott of Fond du Lac and several nieces and nephews.

HARTFORD—This city acquired another industrial addition last week when Hebenstreit, Inc., specialists in de luxe upholstered living room furniture, swung into operation on the third floor of the north building of the Kissel plant. The factory will employ 35 people.
