The modern way to ease a cold is this: Two Bayer Aspirin tablets the moment you feel a cold coming on. Repeat, if necessary, in two hours. If you also have a sore throat due to the cold, dissolve 3 Bayer tablets in 1/3 glass of water and gargle with this twice. The Bayer Aspirin you take internally will act to combat fever, aches, pains which usually accompany a cold. The gargle will provide almost instant relief from soreness and rawness of your throat. Don't Sleep When Gas Presses Heart

If you want to really GET RID OF GAS and terrible bloating, don't expect to do it by just doctoring your stomach with harsh, irritating alkalies and "gas tahlets." Most GAS is lodged in the stomach and upper intestine and is due to old poisonous matter in the constipated bowels that are loaded with ill-causing bacteria.

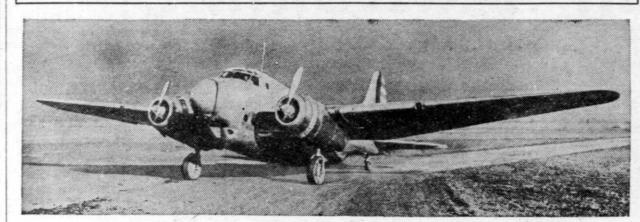

If your constipation is of long standing, enormous quantitles of dangerous bacteria accumulate. Then your digestion is upset. GAS often presses heart and lungs, making life miserable. You can't eat or sleep. Your head aches. Your back aches. Your complexion is sallow and pimply. Your breath is foul. You are a sick, grouchy, wretched, unhappy person. YOUR SYSTEM IS POISONED.

Thousands of sufferers have found in Adlerika the quick, scientific way to rid their systems of harmful bacteria. Adlerika rids you of gas and cleans foul poisons out of BOTH upper and lower bowels. Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika. Get rid of GAS. Adlerika does not gripe—is not hablt forming. At all Leading Druggists.

KNOW THYSELF by Dr. George D. Greer

WHY IS IT SO DIFFICULT FOR SOME PEOPLE TO MAKE UP THEIR MINDS?

DSYCHOLOGISTS have come to the conclusion that difficulty in making up one's mind is usually due to lack of self-confidence. This lack may not be known to the person himself, and may be entirely subconscious, but it functions to produce indecision whenever there are several choices and one thing must be selected from the rest. He wants some advice, or wants to show it to someone else before he makes up his mind. He has an inner feeling that he is not intelligent enough, experienced enough, or does not have enough good taste, or somecleverly tailored in this attractive thing else, to make the choice alone. HERE are, of course, some men and women who are seemingly incapable of manifesting warmth in their affections. In fact, such persons seem singularly devoid of ability to give or attract love. Luckily, they are few and far between, but you may be called upon to analyze hands in which this deficiency must be included in your delineation of character.

The Thumb of Little Affection

The thumb which indicates this is usually inclined toward lengtl rather than shortness. The first, or nail, joint is invariably stubbornly rigid under backward pressure. And the first and second joints are straight Spread on soda crackers, cover and of even lengths. Often the knuckle which separates them is unduly prominent and knotty. All of which is sure sign of the possessor's strength of will and coldly analytical

The third, or palm, joint is straight and often quite bony when (395 degrees Fahrenheit). Cook unviewed from the back. The outstand- til golden brown and drain on soft ing mark, however, which enables one to place this type of thumb unhesitatingly in the category of the "loveless," is the flatness of the underside or palm portion of the third joint. ODD JOBS ON FURNITURE

A S A general thing, furniture is none too well cared for. Even high quality furniture is likely to be bruised and scratched. With use, chairs lose their casters, springs break down, upholstery wears and becomes soiled. In damp weather, drawers of bureaus, dressers, cabinets and similar articles may stick.

The breakdown of springs can be repaired at home, and many home owners, both men and women, are adepts at it. The methods, however, are somewhat complicated - too much so to be covered in my limited space. Also, illustrations are necessary. For this reason I cannot do more than refer those who are of the sides of the drawer. interested to books that can usually be found in a public library. Casters are usually made with a stem that is inserted in a hole in the leg of a chair or other piece of furniture, and secured by screws. The wood that is left is usually thin, and in time the screws tear out. In such cases the broken wood can be replaced with wood putty. The hole of the caster stem should also be lined with it, so that the stem makes a snug fit. After a few hours for drying, the wood putty will be as hard as natural wood, and the screws can be driven in tight

Drawer pulls usually have screws passing through the wood, se ured by nuts on the back, or by screws that run through the drawer front all too often suffer the tragic reer pulls. Unless these screws and again is a use for wood putty to accident. replace the worn wood.

SOME WAYS TO MAKE FRITTERS

Only a Few of Many Methods Are Worth While.

By EDITH M. BARBER

HERE are almost as many ways of making fritters as there are foods to flavor them! All fritters, however, are made with a batter of flour, eggs and liquid. This batter is thin enough so that it may be dropped from a tablespoon into hot deep fat, or in the case of those corn fritters, which are known as "oysters," to be dropped on a griddle like a pancake.

Some fritter recipes call for milk and some for water. I really prefer the water as it seems to produce a more tender batter. Some recipes call for whole eggs, well beaten, of course; others call for a separation of the yolks and whites, and still others for egg whites alone. Salt is used in all the batters and sugar is added if fruit is to be added to the batter.

Whatever recipe you use for fritters which are to be cooked in deep fat, it is very important to have the fat hot-very hot-abour 395 degrees Fahrenheit, if raw oysters, clams, vegetables or fruits are combined with the batter. For a plain fritter which is to be served with sauce or sirup, a slightly cooler fat, a temperature of about 375 degrees Fahrenheit, may be used. It takes from three to five minutes, depending upon the size of your fritter, to produce a golden brown on the outside and to have the in side done enough.

With a fish fritter a tartar sauce may be served. With a fruit fritter a lemon or a wine sauce or maple sirup is usually served. The business woman housewife will find fritters useful, as a main supper dish or as dessert, because they are so quickly prepared and cooked.

Corn Oysters.

2 eggs. 3 cups grated corn. 34 cup flour. Pepper.

Beat eggs, add corn, flour and seasonings. Drop by spoonfuls on well-greased griddle and cook

SYNOPSIS Dr. Greeding, a wealthy and talented middle aged surgeon, is possessed of seemingly supernatural powers. He is able to anticipate what people say before they ut-ter a word; occasionally he can wish for something extraordinary to happen and have the wish fulfilled. Greeding meets Ira Jerrell, a wealthy business friend of his own age, who tells him he loves his daughter Nancy and would like to marry her. Dr. Greeding is pleased and tells Jerrell he has a clear field. Nancy, how-ever, is in love with Dan Carlisle, an as-sistant professor at the University who has little means.

She said after a moment, seriously: "Mother's all right. I can count on her. She knows you, your people-knows how fine you are. But father might be unreasonable." Her brow furrowed. "I've never felt that I-know father very well," she confessed. "He's given me everything, done everything for me; and I know he's proud of me. But I always have a feeling it's a sort of impersonal, possessive pride. Sometimes I'm-afraid of him!" "Nonsense," he urged. "He's a mighty able man, and a fine man. I don't blame him; but Nancy, from his point of view, you rate some one a lot better than me!"

She drew the coat more snugly around her shoulders. "He sha'n't interfere," she said, a faint desperation in her tones; and suddenly she clung to him. "Dan, Dan, I want you. I want you."

He held her close and tenderly; and when he spoke, his head was high. "All right, Nance," he said simply. "I don't know how we'll manage it, but what you want is what it's going to be. We'll work it out, somehow. I'll see your father.

He saw her eyes shadow with faint fear. "Not yet," she objected.

"Let's not tell anyone yet." He chuckled reassuringly. "Whatever you say," he assented. "Now run along and get that shower!

Good-by." When, an hour or so later, Doctor Greeding came home, he alighted from the car at the side door, and came into the house while Thomas took the car to the garage. But in the small side hall, he paused, attentive, and stood for a moment motionless, almost as though he were listening; but there was nothing to hear. Yet his posture suggested that he heard something, or sensed something.

And this was in fact the case. After an instant he saw the rackets and balls where Dan had laid them down; and he crossed and picked up a ball, and then a racket, and held them in his hands. He frowned faintly, and looked right and left. The question in his mind was answered now, and the answer was unwelcome. He put down the tennis gear and ascended the stairs. Nancy's room was opposite the head of the stairs; he hesitated, then knocked on her door. She called sleepily:

"Mother home, Nancy?" he "I don't think so. I don't know,

"All afternoon?" he protested, without opening the door. "On a fine day like this?" After a moment she replied. "No," she said. "I played tennis for a while."

"Who with?" he asked, carefully casual.

Again it was an instant before her answer came. "Judith Plank came over," she replied at last. At that word, the man's brows drew together, and a surge of unaccustomed anger swept him; but without comment, he went on toward his own room. He closed the door behind him and stood alone there, his head bent, his thoughts racing. For he knew that Nancy had lied; and that his daughter should lie to him, since it implied a criticism of himself, woke in the man a fretful rage.

It was a moment before he perceived in her mendacity the further implication that she was fond of Dan Carlisle: and Doctor Greeding's eyes flickered at the thought. as heat lightning on a sultry day

He saw that the door into Mrs. Greeding's dressing - room was open, and crossed to the door and spoke her name; but she was not draperies, that hideous, ridiculous malformed chunk of marble, shapeless, meaningless. All the anger aroused in him by the knowledge that Nancy had lied, and what her lie implied, concentrated suddenly upon this ugly marble. He crossed and picked it up in his hands, turning it over and over, hating it. He wished to break it into bits, smash it to dust. He abhorred this harmless chunk of marble with an unreasoning venom. It was the scapegoat upon which he poured out his wrath. And while he stood thus, holding the marble in his hand, a strange thing occurred: Suddenly the statuette was no longer in his grasp. Rather, it was snatched away from him as though by an invisible force. The thing left his hands, and for an instant, while time stood still, it seemed to waver in the air. Then it fell to the floor. The fall was no more than a few feet; yet the solid marble, even before that impact, appeared to burst apart in midair. It lay in a litter of shards and dusty fragments Doctor Greeding's eyes distended with an incredulous astonishment, with something like dismay. He stood for a long time looking down at this rubbish. Then he wiped his brow and went softly back into his

MAS JUST BEEN BUILT

It has never occurred before in automobile history that 25 million cars of one make, bearing one name, have been manufactured under one management. The 25,000,000th Ford car rolled off the Ford Rouge Plant production line on January 18, 1937.

25 million cars since 1903 . . . more than one-third of all the cars ever built . . . enough cars to transport the entire population of the United States.

The figures represent a remarkable contribution to the social welfare, the industrial stability and the general progress of our country.

People respect Ford efficiency. They know Ford uses fine materials, the best workmanship at good wages, the most exact precision measurements. They know these things are passed along to purchasers in the form of extra value. Naturally, they like to do business with such a company. That is the only reason it has been required to produce 25 million cars.

Naturally, too, they expect more of a Ford car, more this year than last year - more each year than the year before. They have every right to. The experience gained in building 25,000,000 cars enables Ford to produce today a really superb motor car at a really low price -with the Beauty, Comfort, Safety and Performance of much more expensive cars.

The 1937 Ford V-8 combines advanced design, all-steel construction, extra body room, and brilliant brakes with a choice of two V-type 8-cylinder engines - the most modern type of power-plant on land, sea, or in

The 85-horsepower engine provides top performance with unusually good economy for its high power.

The 60-horsepower engine gives good performance with the greatest gasoline mileage ever built into a Ford car-and wears the lowest Ford price tag in years.

People expect more of a Ford car because it's a Ford - and they get more, for the same reason. It is undeniably the quality car in the low-price field.

SANITARY HANDLING

Confidence IN MILK

Sanitation safe-guards health. Mothers know this, doctors preach it. Milk sales depend on it. Clean milk sells more milk. Eighty years ago, Gail Borden wrote out rules "for the production of clean milk," which became the basis of many of today's regulations. Borden, since its founding in 1857, has taken up and helped along every advance in sanitation—in order to protect the public health and to sell more milk products. Farmers have cooperated wholeheartedly.

As a result of improved sanitation, more dairy products are being sold every year. Today, America consumes more milk and milk products and produces more milk than any of er nation in the world. The dairy farmer is realizing on this public confidence in dairy products.

3. That two-thirds of the Supreme Court and three-fifths of other courts shall constitute a quorum.

4. That the chief justice of the Supreme Court shall transfer circuit and district judges to jurisdictions with congested dockets in order to speedup disposition of litigation.

5. That the Supreme Court shall be empowered to appoint a proctor to supervise the conduct of business in the lower courts.

The President also proposed a reform in the injunctive process which he declared would expedite Supreme Court rulings on the constitutionality of legislation and would further in- ture of five billion sure "equality" and "certainty" of federal justice. He said frequent in- lump sum annual junctions which set aside acts of appropriations under congress are "in clear violation of the regular budget for a list of apthe principle of equity that injunctions should be granted only in those rare cases of manifest illegality and irreparable damage against which the ordinary course of the law offers no protection.'

He asked that congress forbid any injunction or decision by any federal court touching a constitutional question without "previous and ample notice" to the attorney general to give the government an opportunity 'to present evidence and be heard." His bill proposed that any lower court decision which involved a constitutional question be appealed directly to the Supreme Court, where | tions for highways, bridges, dams, it would take immediate precedence over all other business.

The latter group saw in the bill a direct attempt to get rid of some of the older justices of the Supreme Court who have proved continual stumbling blocks for pet New Deal

Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes, approaching 75, has voted sometimes to sustain, sometimes to invalidate New Deal laws. Justice Willis Van Deventer, 78, has invariably opposed New Deal laws; so have James Clark McReynolds, 75: George Sutherland, 75, and Pierce Butler, 71. Louis Dembitz Brandeis, 80, has voted to sustain New Deal acts, except tin the cast of the NRA. rejected by unanimous decision.

If the President is successful in putting over the proposed changes it will be the eighth time in the 148 years of the Supreme Court's history that the number of justices has been changed. The largest number ever to sit on the bench was 10 from 1863 to 1866, and the smallest number 5 from 1801 to 1802.

SECRETARY of the Interior Harold Ickes and the national resources committee of which he is chairman have produced a public works and national water program for the next six years, and it was submitted to congress by President Roosevelt with the recommendation that it should be adopted. It involves the expendidollars and calls for proved projects, and allocation of the funds to a permanent public works or development agency. As the chief part of the plan, Mr.

Roosevelt presented congress with a list of some $2,750,000,000 worth of water conservation projects, including a $116,000,000 flood-control program in the inundated Ohio and Mississippi river valleys.

In his transmission message the President warned congress against considering each project as a separate entity. The report, he said, "should, of course, be read in conwith the recommendaflood control, and so forth, already under construction, estimates for which have been submitted in the

"During the depression," he told congress, "we have substantially increased the facilities and developed the resources of our country for the common welfare through public works and work-relief programs.

"We have been compelled to undertake actual work somewhat hurriedly in the emergency.

"Now it is time to develop a longrange plan and policy for construction-to provide the best use of our resources and to prepare in advance against any other emergency."

The committee that drew up this program includes, besides Mr. Ickes, Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring, WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins, Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins, Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper, Frederic A. Delano, uncle of the President, and Charles E. Merriam, University of Chicago professor.

NATIONAL PRESS BLDG. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Lately, W. Forbes Morgan, treasurer of the Democratic national committee, has demonstrated beyond the shadow of a doubt what politics as a business actually means. He did so in the recent announcement that the Democratic national committee would seek to build up a "war chest" of $10,000,000 that the vast New Deal party ma-Ashland-The Ashland water util- | chinery can go on at top speed; that the momentum gained by the successful Presidential campaign of 1936 can be maintained and that the most twice as much as previously for party can continue to function as a cohesive unit through which millions > of voters may speak. It appears that Mr. Morgan will not succeed in getting anything like $10,000,000 together but it is very significant that he is thinking in terms so large as those mentioned in his announcement. It means simply that the present control of the New Deal party is determined to carry out to the nth degree the theory of its chairman, James A. Farley, only recently reappointed as postmaster general of the United

> Mr. Farley plays politics in exactly the same manner that he would engage in a business venture. He takes chances when the stakes are high, he knows his men, his workers, and moreover, he knows how to get the best results out of the material he has. His operations are not unlike the functions of a sales manager of a great concern—he sells what he has to the voters and if any salesman fails to function, Mr. Farley looks for replacements. We might illustrate the Farley methods further by reviewing some of the methods he employed in the last four years. For, when it comes to raising money, the Democratic national committee, under Chairman Farley, is both businesslike and versatile. It will be recalled how whenever the pretext arose, the Democratic national committee sponsored such things as dinners to which the faithful partisans were asked to buy tickets, usually high priced tickets, for an ordinary banquet. It will be recalled also how elaborate programs of the Democratic national convention were sold by the hundreds of thousands; how those programs were loaded to the gunwhales could not well refuse to buy advertising space; how victory dinners were given, and how finally the inaugural ceremony when Mr. Roosevelt took office was turned into a gigantic political rally that spread itself into every hotel in Washington that had space for great dinners and dances. These things are but a few which demonstrated the Farley versatility but they prove to my mind that if the Democratic national committee sets out to build up a real "war chest," it will accomplish exactly its objective. The committee set-up is the most pretentious yet attempted by any political organization. It has a large and exceedingly efficient staff of trained men and women and it runs like the well oiled machine that it is. It will cost money to keep that machine running at high speed, but Mr. Farley recognizes how elections are won. His philosophy is that the early bird catches the worm and so, although there is not another election for two years, the Democratic national committee is making ready for that election campaign right now. Unless the wise political students around Washington are badly mistaken. Mr. Farley will know pretty well when the congressional and senatorial candidates take to the stump early in 1938 just what | thing may emerge. Mr. Har the last two years of the Roosevelt administration will be like. It goes without saying that he will be prepared for them.

In contrast to the circumstances I have just related, it must be disheartening to wit-G. O. P. ness the feeble, almost futile, efforts that are shown around Republican headquar- that new leaders will come from ters. Of course, old time politicians ranks of the Republicans and always say that a winning horse can be financed, never a loser. John D. M. Hamilton, the Republican national chairman, rode a losing horse. He came out of the race saddled with a gigantic deficit. Deficits for losing political parties are not as easily financed as United States Treasury deficits these days try. Ambassadors from Persia and so Mr. Hamilton is having his distant Turkey knelt before troubles in that direction as well Dragon Throne in Sian. Ch as finding any enthusiasm among Republican party workers.

But that does not excuse the Republican national committee nor influenced the rest of China Mr. Hamilton. After all, it is to be remembered that approximately 18,000,000 voters cast their ballots for the Republican presidential adopted and use Chinese nominee, Governor Landon of Kansas. That is not a small number, any way you examine it. It is a powerful segment of the American population but it is powerful only to the extent that its leadership develops enthusiasm for the fight and capacity to take it on the chin when victory goes the other way.

In a flood the big job is to get marooned victims to dry and safe spots, to bring the sick and injured to medical posts, to save property if it is properly identified and to perform other acts which will reduce the possibility of further loss. Real courage, strength, health and a knowledge of first aid are prerequisites for members of this sub-

Happiness, seemis because the sub-committee on ingly denied them forever, had been shelter has made periodic canvasses of the area for empty houses, public buildings such as churches and schools, and automobile camps, where disaster refugees can be kept temporarily from the elements. Temporary buildings are constructed if the load makes them necessary.

Hotel managers, wholesale grocers, managers of chain food stores, restaurant operators and army or navy men usually make up the sub-committee on food. They know in advance the types of food supplies each merchant deals in, how much of a stock he keeps on hand and how these supplies can be made available to the Red Cross quickly in time of disaster.

Communication Is Vital.

Tremendously important in time eligible for a widow's pension. of flood is the work of the sub-committee on transportation and communication. Headed by local leaders of the transportation and radio industries, this committee must keep the avenues open for the work of all the others. It must have a good working knowledge of all the facilities in the community before and after a disaster occurs. It must provide automobiles, trucks, boats, cars -anything that may be used to transport sufferers from the flood area, or to bring in food from the outside world.

Often the most difficult task faces the Red Cross after the emergency | no longer discouraged. has passed, and it is a function with which comparatively few are familiar. Think what has happened. They can't is the most important work of all, produce a living. They have no place to live. They probably have no money, or at least too little to do them

Now it is time for the sub-committee on rehabilitation to begin. Hundreds of volunteer workers set about listing the families needing Living Standards Maintained. Widows with children may have to be resettled in completely rebuilt homes and new furnishings given them. Farms whose usefulness has been destroyed through the deposits of silt must be restored that their owners may once more earn a living. Small shops must be rebuilt or restocked to enable their operators to make a living again.

A few instances, picked at random, of what this Red Cross aid has meant in the past will serve to il-

In a New England town a mill worker and his wife had finished paying for their little home. When the mill shut down in 1935, their small savings were carrying them along temporarily. The flood came. Police forced them to evacuate. They returned some time later to find their home washed away completely. The Red Cross traded their lot for another in a safer location. When flood sufferers are rescued | built them a new home and fur-restored. In Pennsylvania in 1918 a fruit farmer and his wife made a modest living, owned their home. The man's health failed, so his son and daughter-in-law moved in to run the farm, succeeding in making a bare living for the family. On the day of the "second" Johnstown flood the son went to the rescue of a neighboring family in distress. He was drowned. Their own farm was ruined. The case looked hopeless. Hopeless? Red Cross workers helped with the funeral, found new clothing, made the house livable again. They soon repaired it well and made it possible for the family to buy new furnishings. Plans were made to care for the remainder of the family until the young wife was

Need for Funds Urgent. Two years ago a young man with an arrested case of tuberculosis set up in a small farming project which provided a living for his family but did not tax his strength. In last year's flood his farm was left covered with silt; buildings, stock and poultry were carried away. His health was about to be threatened by worry and over-exertion; he had nothing on which to make a new start, anyway. His buildings were repaired and a cow and chickens purchased for him. His farm production is back to normal and he is

These are some of the permanent improvements that are directly attributable to the Red Cross. Of reviewing the various branches of emergency one has been left out. This is the sub-committee on fundraising and public information. This especially in the present disaster.

"Flood suffering has reached unprecedented proportions with relief needs mounting," Admiral Grayson explains. "The only limit must be the maximum generosity of the American people. "The Red Cross considers the flood in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys the greatest national emergency the nation and the Red Cross have faced since the World war. It exceeds that existing in the Mississippi valley floods of 1927, when the Red Cross gave help to

Give Hogs Range When Fattening

Animals Will Produce Meat of Better Quality When Not Crowded.

By H. W. Taylor, Extension Swine Special-ist, North Carolina State College. —WNU Service.

Contrary to popular belief, a small, filthy, crowded pen is no place to fatten hogs. Crowded and filthy, the hogs cannot be as healthy and sanitary as they should to produce good, firm, wholesome meat. Overfat hogs do not produce the best pork.

Hogs will gain well and keep clean if allowed a reasonable amount of range and given all the balanced ration they can eat, and some exercise is needed to keep them healthy. Since it is important that pork be produced as economically as is reasonably possible, it is a good practice to turn the hogs into a field where they can glean food that has been left from various crops. Fattening hogs should have, in addition to the field gleanings, all the corn they can eat and a protein supplement should be kept before them at all times.

Fish meal or tankage, or a mix-ture containing one-half cottonseed tankage is recommended as a good protein supplement. Along in the early winter, growers should begin to think about their spring farrows, and see that the necessary equipment is available. Now is a good time to build a farrowing house. A plan for such a house may be obtained from the Production of Milk The cost of producing milk varies from month to month; it is highest in winter months and lowest in summer months, according to Dr. L. C. Cunningham of the department of agricultural economics at Cornell

Based on yearly average costs, he says, January and February are the two months when costs are highest, and June and July months when they are lowest. During fall months, the cost builds up toward a winter high; during spring months it tends to taper toward the sum-

At the same time, the farm price of milk does not change correspondingly. More variation occurs in the cost of producing milk than in the price received at the farm. In general, he points out, the price of milk does not fall so far below the vearly average in the summer, nor rise so high in the winter months.

If the yearly average cost is taken as 100 per cent, the highest producing cost is represented by 128, and the lowest by 54, whereas the farm price of milk is represented by a high of 115 and a low of 84.

Dr. Cunningham's figures are based on a study of 437 dairy farms in four representative dairy sections of New York state.

Good Storage

One of the most important factors in good storage is maintaining the temperature in which each fruit and vegetable keeps best. Failure to provide this temperature shortens storage life. Proper amount of moisture in the air of storage rooms is also essential. Other causes of spoilage may have come from storage diseases such as rots and molds. Then there are varieties of fruits and vegetables which are naturally poor keepers. For winter storage, potatoes keep best in piles small enough so that not more than three feet can be measured from the center of the pile to the outside. Potatoes need air, and they should be free from loose dirt when placed in storage. Moist air helps in preventing potatoes from shrinking, especially if the air temperature is somewhat higher than that recommended. Frequent sprinkling of the walls in the storage room is beneficial.

Notes of the Farm

With the exception of two years in the past 25, the farm value of the United States potato crop was below average when the total yield was above average and the farm value was higher when the crop was below average in size. . . .

Soy bean meal mixed with powdered skim milk has been discovered by University of Minnesota scientists to be a good pollen substitute for bees.

The crop pest bindweed-or morning glory-defies drouth because its roots, that spread even as much as twenty-five to thirty feet, store up so much food for hard times.

According to estimates, mastitis and Bang's disease cause an average annual loss of $200 to every New York state dairyman.

Queen bees may be shipped by air mail. However, baby chicks are barred, since they can not stand the high altitudes.

Total slaughter of cattle and calves in the United States is expected to be smaller in 1937 than for either of the preceding two years.

Sweet clover, only a few years ago considered a noxious weed, now occupies a high place among legumes for pasture and soil improvement.

. . . Iowa State college researchers say a pig apparently puts on as much weight when fed "hard" corn as when it is fed "soft" corn.
